PARISH PICNIC ON LABOR DAY HUGE SUCCESS

Receipts of Benefit Affair Added to Fund for New Church

The most successful Labor Day picnic in the history of the Muenster parish rewarded members of the Mothers' Society for their weeks of patient preparation and resulted in a sizeable deposit in the parish fund for a new church. Along with the "nest egg" realized in the Easter Monday benefit picnic the new fund now reaches a gratifying figure.

In spite of rains Monday, or perhaps because of them - because farmers were not able to work in their fields - hundreds of people swarmed into the parish hall to join in the festivities and chat with their numerous friends. Especially at night when the parish social supplemented the bazaar did the attendance grow thick. With a possible few exceptions it was the best attended social activity seen in the parish hall.

Attendants who served food and drinks were probably the ones to find the day most exciting. A constant rush flooded in to keep them going at top speed from the opening at 1 p. m. to the closing at 11:30. The tango stand likewise was the center of intense activity.

Scores of visitors helped swell the attendance and added no little to the general success of the bazaar.

The workers to whom all credit is due are the old reliables of the Mothers' Society assisted by more old reliables from the other three parish

Permit Granted, Poles Arrive for Baseball Lights

Three poles to be used in erect ing lights in the baseball park were hauled into Muenster last Thursday afternoon by Andrew Flusche. A formal permit to put up the lights was issued the following day by Mayor M. J. Endres.

According to Herman Swirczynski, manager of the Muenster team pants in the movement to provide illumination, two of the poles will be placed at the north side of the field and another on the west. The water tower will support the second group of lights on the west. Two more clusters of lights will be supported by frames on the top of the grandstand.

Mr. Swirczynski made no estimate concerning the time that the work of erecting will be completed but stated that Paul Nieball, Rudy Hellman, Leo Henscheid and V. J. Luke are now looking for the best purchase in wires, globes, reflectors, and other necessary equipment.

BOY SCOUT PICNIC IS FAREWELL PARTY FOR EDWARD ENDRES

Prior to his departure for Subiaco College, Edward Endres was the honoree at a farewell party given by his Boy Scout companions last Sunday at Forest Park, Fort Worth.

Leaving about 8:30 in the pickup truck, which had been furnished by Mr. Fisher, the boys arrived at their destination about 11 o'clock and spent the remainder of the day swimming and visiting the park's several concessions and the zoo.

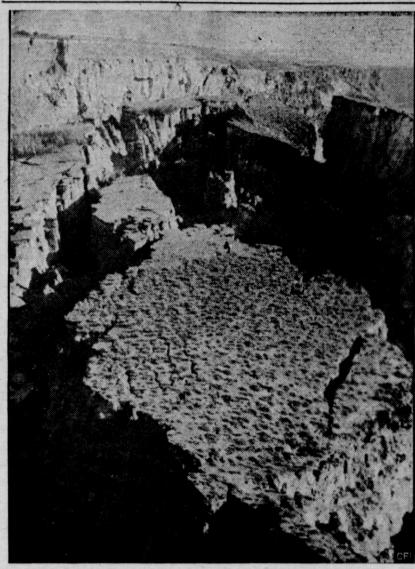

At lunchtime the boys were pleasantly surprised to find that their basket included a cake with the words "Farewell Edward" in icing across the top. The cake had been prepared by Mrs. Nick Miller. About two dozen sandwiches constituted the rest of their picnic spread.

Automobile Crash Near Whitesboro Results in Joe Felderhoff's Death

As Hundreds Attend His Funeral

Muenster was shocked last Thursday night by the report that Joe Felderhoff, 39, owner and manager and one of the most active partici- of the Muenster Milling Co., was killed in an automobile accident about two miles east of Whitesboro on Highway 5.

> From a number of conflicting accounts of the accident the one accepted as most plausible is that Mr. Felderhoff collided with a truck while making an unsuccessful attempt to pass another car. Traveling west in his pickup truck he had just come over the top of a hill and started to pass another machine when the large truck, which apparently had been invisible in the sun's in the line of traffic. The truck driver, Ben T. Townzen of Pilot Point, swerved to the side but could not get his trailer in the clear.

Mr. Felderhoff was crushed and died shortly after being removed from his machine. His body was prepared for burial by George Carroll & Son Funeral Home and taken in charge by Nick Miller on Friday.

A final tribute to Mr. Felderhoff was the cessation of all business in Muenster during his funeral Saturday morning at 8 o'clock.

The Mass of Requiem for the repose of his soul was read by his brother, the Very Rev. Henry Felderhoff of Abilene. Assisting as deacon was the Rev. Vincent Orth, O. S. B., and as subdeacon was the Rev. Jerome Pohle, O.S.B. Rev. Francis Zimmerer was master of ceremonies. Four other clergymen in the sanctuary during the Mass were the Rt. Rev. Msgr. > Father Francis Zimmerer officiated at the burial and Nick Miller had charge of arrangements. Pallbearers were Bernard, Joe, and Leo Sicking and Frank, Lawrence, and Vincent Felderhoff, all of them nephews of the deceased.

On Friday night members of the Knights of Columbus gathered about the casket in the Felderhoff home to offer their prayers for the repose of his soul. Led by the Rev. ## Muenster Bows to Leo Softballers in First Series Game

The first game of the softball series with Leo last Sunday afternoon was a heart-breaker for the Muenster lads. Starting off with three innings of airtight defensive work their morale seemed to snap with a homerun followed by three more runs in the fourth inning. From that time on their visitors' heavy barrage of hits along with extra bases on errors resulted in 12 more runs for a total of 16.

Likewise in their offense Muenster seemed to crack under the pressure of the fourth inning. Seven runners had died on base in the three first innings but not a single tally crossed the plate. From that time until the eighth Leo set them back as regular as clockwork and cut the eighth inning attempted rally to three runs.

In errors the two teams were divided, each making a total of seven. But in hitting Leo took all the honors with 18 compared with Muenster's 6. Six of the Muenster men reached base on walks, whereas Walter Becker permitted no passes.

Captures Convict With Assistance Of Ewald Berend

Receives Severe Bruises in Furious Struggle with Lifer

Ben Otto, the calm, easy-ging fellow who moved out of the Muenster community less than a year ago, proved Saturday night that he was tougher than Malloy (Red) Kuykendall, Oklahoma jail breaker and desperado.

Spurning a .38 revolver Ben leaped into the back seat of his car and grappled with the convict until Ewald Berend responded to his cries for help and assisted in subduing the criminal.

As related by Mr. Otto the adventure began when Kuykendall roused him from bed shortly after-9 o'clock Saturday night. First the fugitive told of an automobile wreck on the highway and Mr. Otto inquired why he had been disturbed when passing cars could take injured persons to the hospital. Next the man requested a bandage for his injured arm and when admitted to the house immediately drew a gun and comamnded his captive to drive him away in his automobile. While Mr. Otto was being driven about the house his daughter, Louise, rushed to the Joe sicking home a short distance away and phoned a report to officers.

After intentional delays, the convict and Mr. Otto left in his 1927 model automobile driving west on Highway 5. Near the Albert Klement home Kuykendall ordered his captive to turn in at a gate and cut out his lights, and Mr. Otto missed a deliberate attempt to wreck his machine. All of this costs the bank a great deal, but costs its depositors-nothing. #### (CONCLUSION)

TO THIS DAY the gap that Denison jumped has never been measured.

The reckless rider had been spotted when he was less than halfway across. McCrossen, riding behind the cattle, had galloped forward when Rebstock ahead was intercepted and 'questioned by Scott. The half-breed's gun signals had been taken by Rebstock as an attack, and he had fired back. Before either side really knew what it was all about, they were exchanging shots. But the instant McCrossen saw the horse dash along the rotten bridge, his sixth sense of danger guessed the rider for an enemy, and without a moment's hesitation he trained a rifle on him and fired.

By a chance that rarely favors desperate measures, Denison sprawled from the final leap across the bridge gap into a fringe of sand and willows that overgrew the eastern bridge approach.

Threading the undergrowth on his trembling horse, Denison got away from the bridge as fast as he could: somebody was still throwing rifle slugs toward it; but once away from the danger point, he lost no time in making himself heard. "Will you head 'em back for the Meadows and talk to me?"

"No!" "No!"

The two refusals were fast. But while the second was being uttered Rebstock cried, "Crowd him, Dave!" and fired at Denison.

The next instant three horsemen were plunging at one another on rearing horses and throwing their McCrossen thickly. "Promise?" shots at one another in a very uncertain light.

None of the three was new at the deadly game; each used his own pet tactics. McCrossen took his partner's advice. The three had talked before daylight. He rode in on his 20 yards apart. #### GRATITUDE

This week we have the privilege of telling about a totally different kind of birthday party. It started with a Mass of Thanksgiving.

Those of us who are still old fashioned enough to appreciate that there is a Supreme Being who gives and sustains life can readily agree that a religious service of thanksgiving is a reasonable courtesy to which God is entitled.

Back in the times when Christianity flourished it was a foregone conclusion that any celebration began with formal thanksgiving to God. In those days people took their religion more seriously. It was regarded as a binding link between themselves and their Creator, a thing as vitally a part of themselves as their very existence.

But times have changed. During the past few centuries our civilization has been so deeply absorbed in its material progress that the thought of God slipped farther and farther into the background. Nowadays an alarming percentage of our population is reluctant to give to the Supreme Being even the short time required for Sunday religious services. To consider God as a personal friend, a giver of blessings and protections finds little favor with the masses.

By keeping our eyes fixed on worldly affairs we have become blind to spiritual realities. We forget that this little world which seems all important to us was created and is controlled by someone far more worthy of our attention.

Most of us do have the courtesy to thank our fellowmen for favors. As regards thanksgiving to God we are usually too busy with our other afafirs to give it a thought. We are guilty of a neglect that becomes all the more discourteous because the One neglected is our greatest Benefactor.

ON HIGHWAY 5

Dallas News: We are told they also serve who only stand and wait. That is it -they serve-they do not master or rule. And while patience and humility are certainly lovable characteristics, when life itself is in the balance, humanity needs courage and initiative.

History is replete with instances of how fighting hearts converted odds against them into victory. Those who avert their faces from threatening death do not often elude it. Those who face it to fight it with bare knuckles and iron will often indeed win through.

Ben Otto won through. The odds were against the Cooke County farmer of Highway 5 when the desperado who had lured him on an errand of mercy turned kidnaper. Ben Otto knew that his life was in the balance when he turned and fought but he took the chance. Humanity is safer and Otto is alive today because Providence aided in that struggle.

To the fine fighting spirit of Ben Otto -hail and salute!

THE TOWNSEND DREAM

Again some people are working themselves into a white heat over the Townsend plan. In Gainesville some of the people who indulged in air castle construction a couple of years ago are again permitting their imaginations to soar into the realms of unreality.

It seems very much like a revival of a scheme to get something for nothing. That it is a hopeless task has been shown by hundreds of attempts to build perpetual motion machines. Brilliant theories are set forth as working plans that will carry on of their own momentum and bring prosperity to the nation

Unfortunately, the momentum to carry on such a scheme would have to be supplied by the working people, the ones who are not coasting. The entire system is based on the fantastic ideas of a few who tion of the entire world at 2,100,000,000 (billions). see visions of a heaven on earth. Still it ber of supporters and on that basis only no larger than the area of metropolitan Dallas, allow is deserving of a searching analysis.

estly propose to give each person over 60 leaving the surface of the water serenly void of evidence of the tragedy that lay beneath. Yet man must years of age a salary of $200 per month eternally slay man for space! by a transaction tax of 2 per cent on 900 billion dollars annual business.

realize that the 2 per cent transaction tax that the population of the globe will be stationary in the not-distant future. Again, the productiveness of is repeated many times before commodities the soil is being increased enormously and at the same reach the final consumer, and the entire time synthetic products are coming to the aid of land tax then falls on him. An automobile, for book, A. O. Willcox, one of America's leading agrobiinstance, that now sells for $800 would be ologists, predicted that the time will come when a subject to several assessments before it sufficient food for a population as great as that on leaves the factory—several transactions Manhattan. are involved in the materials used and several more in the manufacturer's equipment. Truly, "what fools we mortals be!" Transportation and the actual sale constitute more transactions. Furthermore, the price added after each transaction must include not only the 2 per cent but the increased cost of transactions in regular business routines. That $800 car would cost about $1200, which means that one-third of the consumers' money would go to Townsendites.

Taking one-third from $1000, the average worker's income, we leave something less than $700 for his family to live on. But at the same time an old couple has $4800 on which to live.

No matter how we look at it the same problem stands out. Townsendism attempts to extract 18 billion dollars from the 50 billion dollar payroll of about 50 million workers—for the money can come from no source other than the income of people who create wealth. The 18 billion dollars will be for seven and one-half million persons, the 32 billion (50 minus 18) will be for the remaining population of about 120 million.

LABOR

With all the labor problems now threatening the economic structure of our nation we wonder what was uppermost in our leaders' minds last Monday. In recent times industrial centers have come to regard the word labor as synonymous with confusion and turmoil. The observance of Labor Day must have had a slight taint of mockery.

Without attempting to place any blame for our industrial mess we do express regret over the fact that it exists.

But we of this community are fortunate to leave the subject at that point. For us it is not necessary, except as we are affected indirectly, to worry about the problems of industrial centers. We can turn our attention to our individual labors as our ancestors of centuries past were privileged to do.

Labor Day should recall to our minds some of the early ideas on the sanctity of labor. It should remind us that our happiness is dependent on our work. Rather than looking upon labor as the necessary drudgery by means of which we earn the wherewith to enjoy leisure hours, we must, if we are to enjoy life and be of service to humanity, derive a real pleasure from the work itself.

The artist who spends patient weeks and months on his masterpiece derives pleasure from the fact that he has created a new object of beauty. The doctor who spends his time on charity cases is pleased because his service has helped humanity. The knowledge of worthwhile achievement is a far greater source of joy than the fleeting entertainments purchased with the earnings of drudgery.

This fact makes it all important for every young person to determine the work he likes. While it is true that he must earn his bread by the sweat of his brow he must also consider that his chief goal through life is happiness, which is measured in spiritual, not in monetary values.

It does seem ridiculous to think that a person should slave through a job for even a good wage and then have so little time to do the things he enjoys. By choosing the right work he can devote his life to both pleasure and service.

It is significant that some of the greatest men in history died penniless. Their success was measured by their work, not by their bank balance.

AN OUNCE OF PREVENTION

THE EASTIEST and surest way to enjoy the dis-1 tinction of living to a ripe old age is to properly care for that God-given mechanism-your body. There are no spare parts for sale at bargain counters. When one of your vital organs fails prematurely, through neglect or hard use you're finished. With the blessings of modern medical science that now exists, there s little excuse for this happening.

Recently a life insurance company in its advertising, stressed the importance of taking the tuberculin test. This little test adequately proves the soundness of the old adage that "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." You should make it your business to investigate the tuberculin test and protect yourself and your children with it.- Exchange.

A VACATION AT HOME

COR THOSE who have been unable to take a vacation during the summer, the Baltimore Sun suggests that it is not yet too late to have all the thrills of a summer resort right at home. Here is how it may be done:

Move into the smallest bedroom in your house; if possible one immediately over the kitchen.

If your bed is soft and downy, put a couple of bricks in it. Dig a hole in the garden, get into it and cover yourself up to the neck. When you get tired of this diversion, wash yourself off with the garden hose

Don't have any clothes washed for two weeks. Sit on a rough board in the hot sun and hold a baited fishing line in your hand. If you wish to take a quiet nap in the afternoon put a radio next to your bed and turn it on full blast

In the evening, remove the screens from the bedroom windows so that the mosquitoes can get in to you. Get up to the roof and expose yourself to the sun until you are nicely burned. Then take whatever exercises will make you stiff and sore

When you have wearied of all this and wish to return to a normal life, send yourself a bill for $20 to $25 a week and don't forget to give a nice fat tip to the cook.

Pray as though it all depended on God alone; then work as though it all depended on you alone; the result will be a home in the homeland of the soul.

Religion cultivates the inward look, the outward look, and the upward look.-The Lord's Way.

RATE CUTTING AXE!

VIE'VE still got our Rate-Cutting Axe. And we'll use it again! We don't "peg" our rates. We cut them when, and as we can ... voluntarily! We've demonstrated that over a period of time...through good years and bad years.

You understand, of course, when you stop to think about it, that we, as your public servant, must keep our service ready for you all the time, night and day, regardless of conditions! We, on the other hand, understand that you want to buy your electric service just as cheaply as you can. Between us, then, there should be mutual confidence and understanding.

When it becomes possible for us to cut rates and still maintain the type of service required of us and desired by you...we'll do so! We'll do it without fuss or bother. Voluntarily. When you get right down to brass tacks...that's what you want.

Today, we're delivering a far better electric service to you than any isolated light plant is capable of giving. Because of our voluntary rate cuts in the past this service is costing you less, in proportion, than any other item in your cost of living.

Remember this: We don't "peg" electric service rates!

THE GRAIN DRILL THAT'S REGULAR AS CLOCKWORK

Tick-Tock! Tick-Tock! Tick-Tock! Up or down hill-or on the level—an Oliver Superior Drill sows grain accurately and dependably. The Superior Variable Speed Disc Drive positively regulates the sowing speed.

The amount of grain is then correctly measured by the Superior Double-Run Force Feed. There can be no missing, bunching or skipping. Single disc, double disc, or hoe opener equipment prepares the seed trench properly. Your grain has the best possible chance to germinate. You can get bigger yields at a smaller cost.

There's truth in the old Biblical saying "As Ye Sow So Shall Ye Reap." With the clockwork precision of an Oliver you are sure that your grain won't be wasted—and that it will be sown so as to reap the largest possible yield. Oliver Superior Drills have many unusual improvements. Ask us

THOSE who are inclined to become discouraged because others do not respond to their progressive ideas can find some consolation in the words of Jacob Riis, "when nothing seems to help I go and look at a stonecutter hammering away at his rock perhaps 100 times without as much as a crack showing in it. Yet at the 101st blow it will split in two, and I know it was not that blow that did it, but all that had gone before." This is similar to the case of the patient teacher who repeats her message a dozen times without apparent result but drives the point home on her next attempt. Progressive people of Muenster can do likewise. A continual repetition of the gospel of progress will eventually result in the right kind of response

Some of our friends who enjoy their German speeches while heisting other shot shortly afterward went a stein might be glad to know this wild. After a strenuous scuffle Mr.

We are indebted to "Time" magazine for this bit of irony: "Blown out of the New London school when natural gas under it exploded and killed hundreds of children, was a section of blackboard on which someone had scrawled, 'Oil and natural gas are East Texas' greatest mineral blessings. Without them this school would not be here, and none of us would be learning our lessons'."

Read this out loud and fast. If you can do it you have unusually good control over your speech. "Should such a shapely sash such shabby stitches show?"

Some really wise stunts are so very simple after all! Take this one, for instance, about a judge who was asked to settle a dispute between two brothers over the division of inherited property. He suggested that one brother divide the land and the other take first choice.

Red Kuykendall is very likely to be confined on Alcatraz Island. No the escaped convict's description had doubt Ben Otto gets some pleasure out of the report that his recent deserted a wrecked automobile arch-enemy is being so effectively removed from circulation. Ben admits, however, that he fully intended to achieve the same result by a more effective means. If Kuykendall is thankful for his life he should be grateful to Ewald Berend.

The city has issued a permit for the erection of floodlights on the baseball field. Right on the heels of that permit was Muenster's heartbreaking loss to the Leo club. romping in with 16 runs the visitors made the home boys feel rather bad. take the series. Before long they will be under the floodlights and, we are confident, also in the lime-light.

It does seem rather odd that the batallion of officers who came out to relieve Ben Otto of his prisoner last Saturday night should have given all their attention to the convict. In view of the fact that Ben risked his life and took a lot of punishment in relieving them of a dangerous job, some of the officers at least might have thanked him and complimented him on his courage, or offered to take him to a doctor. It all goes to show that we human beings are apt to forget about consideration when faced with excitement.

from Ewald Berend. As he rushed into the Berend yard the desperado ordered him to reverse back to the road and at that instant Otto attacked.

Apparently caught off guard Kuykendall could not shoot before Otto diverted his aim. His shot, however caused a scalp wound and an-Otto managed to get his adversary on the floor of his car, both of them struggling furiously for the gun. In the conflict he was severely bruised as the convict kicked his chest furiously in an attempt to get control of the weapon.

During the struggle Otto called each time Kuykendall threatened to ley, of Gainesville shoot him. Finally Ewald ventured out in spite of the threat and found that Ben had the advantage, but both hung tenaciously to the gun.

Ben said, "Get a club and beat him on the head," but Ewald could not find a club and began using his fist. Realizing the odds were against him the desparado agreed Otto, he said, was determined to kill him. On receiving the weapon Otto in keeping Kuykendall under control. As Ben began looking for something to tie his captive the first cars of officers arrived.

"I never saw so many guns in my life," Ben said, "they were bristling from the whole crowd and I was afraid one of them would go off. But they put them up when we told them the fellow didn't have a gun."

Kuykendall was taken in custody by the score of officers who had News reports Tuesday stated that after receiving a report the precedspent the day patrolling Gainesville that day. State police of Oklahoma and Texas and specially deputized officers were on the lookout and other officers attempted to follow the fugitive's trail with bloodhounds The criminal had made good his es cape past the officers and probably would have reached the wooded section near the Red River had he not encountered the fighting spirit of his farmer captive.
