A carousel chart holder and increased working space provide the nursing staff more visual and direct contact with patients and visitors. The money for the project was donated to the Muenster Memorial Hospital in memory of Marie Walter. At right, Shorty Walter and Hospital Administrator Herman Carroll are standing by a plaque which reads: Dedicated to the memory of Marie Hartman Walter, Feb. 9, 1909 - July 15, 1988, by her family and friends. Shorty Walter and Mrs. Nancy Walter stated, "We thought of donating to several charities, then we decided to help our own local hospital. We asked Joan Walterscheid if there was any particular item the hospital needed. From a list already prepared by her, we chose a new, needed, nursing station. Nancy Walter said, "I hope other people will consider memorials for their loved ones and help the hospital." The hospital staff is very appreciative of the Walter family and friends.

Muenster Madness Bike Rally "gearing" up for Aug. 12

Preparations for the Second Annual Muenster Madness Bike Rally are in full swing. It is scheduled for Saturday, Aug. 12, at 8 a.m.

Most of the proceeds from this outstanding event will benefit the North-East Texas Chapter of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation. Funds from this organization are used for research to find a cure for Cystic Fibrosis, which is the number-one genetic killer of children and young adults in the US.

Entertainment will be provided throughout the day at the Muenster City Park. Some of the activities include a variety of family sports all day; live musical entertainment; and much more.

One dollar will provide a day of swimming at the Muenster Pool. It will be open all day.

The live entertainment will feature a band from Fort Worth, called "Joker's Lane," the official Cystic Fibrosis band for this event. Band members Zak Kelly, Rod Krajca, Dana Lane and James Stalling are no strangers to donating their time and talents for worthy causes. James, the drummer, is past Grand Knight for Knights of Columbus Council 2813 in Fort Worth. The public will get their money's worth in musical entertainment as Joker's Lane, playing Top 40 hits, will compete in a "battle of the bands" against Johnny Reed and the Time Machine, playing Classic Rock. Both bands will play alternating sets, letting the public determine which group and type music they prefer. Minimal donations to Cystic Fibrosis is expected at the dance on the slab on the west side of the park. At press time, negotiations for several other groups was underway.

Four local merchants, H & W Meat Co., Fischer's Market, Hofbauer's Food and Locker and Rohmer's Restaurant, will provide food booths in the City Park. The Muenster Jaycees will serve beer in souvenir cups.

Ten bicycles are to be given away during the day. Lucky winners will be divided among volunteer workers, bike rally participants and people attending the event.

At least 1500 cyclists are expected to participate in the Muenster Madness Rally and it is estimated that about 3000 people will attend.

To run this event efficiently, a total of 300 volunteers are needed. Many volunteers have signed up, but about 100 are still needed.

Eight more volunteers are needed for sag wagons (vehicles that assist cyclists, keep water stations supplied with ice, water and fruit and monitor the course); two additional rest stop captains and many rest stop volunteers are still to be found. To volunteer, call the Muenster Chamber of Commerce, 759-2227.

Don't forget Centennial celebration on Sept. 2

Mark Saturday, Sept. 2, on your calendars! That is the date scheduled for the City Centennial celebration. The City Park will be the hub of most of the planned activities.

Events in which you may wish to plan to participate are the Schutzenfest; a Horseshoe Tournament; and if all goes as planned, a Tennis Tournament. There will also be a variety of games for all ages.

There is an Antique Auto Show, Antique Toys Display, Antique Farm Equipment Display, a Centennial Memorabilia Booth, demonstrations of Tai Kwan Do and Water Polo and live music to entertain guests of all ages.

Billie Friday Fleitman and her Muenster Bluebird group are planning to have the Muenster Centennial quilt on display at the City Park.

A variety of food and drinks will be offered such as hamburgers, hot dogs, watermelons, popcorn, cotton candy and more.

More detailed information will be published in future editions of The Muenster Enterprise.

Bills will impact CCTAD

by Elaine Schad

Two bills passed in the recent state legislative session are expected to have a fairly major impact on the Cooke County Appraisal District budget now being considered by county taxing entities.

The $441,772 CCAD budget, approved by the CCAD board of directors at its July 11 meeting, will take effect Jan. 1 unless a majority of the county taxing entities send a formal notice of rejection to the CCAD office by the Aug. 10 deadline. So far, no entity has notified the CCAD of action either way on the budget, said CCAD Chief Appraiser Pat Pickett.

Pickett will attend a legislative seminar in Austin Aug. 3 and 4 to learn of the ways appraisal districts statewide will be affected by most recent legislation. The CCAD board is expected to amend the proposed budget at its Aug. 8 meeting to reflect state requirements, said Pickett.

Two laws in particular are expected to greatly impact the current proposed budget. A new law, taking effect Sept. 1, will require the CCAD to credit pro-rata against future quarterly payment any funds that were not spent or obligated to be spent in the current fiscal year. That means appraisal

When Muenster visited Münster

by Eric Gray

A hearty welcome on June 21 and a cheerful send-off on June 25 marked the beginning and end of 16 people's visit to Münster, Westfalen.

As soon as the 16 Muenster Texans stepped off the train at the Münster main train station, they were greeted by a large group of smiling Münster Germans, complete with the city flag of Muenster, Texas waving. Everyone was given a host family where they would stay for the next four days, each host family having a student as companion for the Texans. So that afternoon and evening, time was spent in each home, getting acquainted with one another. The adults had an opening dinner in a Gasthaus that evening, complete with small talk, plans for the coming few days, and the wonderful mood of Gemütlichkeit.

Those taking part in this Muenster/Münster visit, along with each host or hostess, were: Amy Bayer with Katrin Sölter, David Rohmer with Jana Gerber, Angela Endres with Uta Schulze-Wierling, Robin Greathouse with Astrid Heitkamper, Don Joe Park with Uta Fitze, Janel Flusche with Anja Tebbert, Jenny Yosten with Anke Schweda, Barry Biffle with Daniela Evels, Sharon Fuhrmann with Nicole Gerdes, Dawn Knabe with Kerstin Frese, Jason Endres with Ruth Pauli, Lisa Hamric with Annette Schröder, Debbie Endres and Mary Beth Bartush with Annemarie Gerber, Fay Hamric with the Offermans family, and Eric Gray with the Bessling family. The people of Münster graciously opened up their homes to the people of Muenster.

Back to the happenings of the visit, June 22nd dawned beautiful and drizzly. Nevertheless, much of the group paid a visit to the Münster Zoo, which is rather famous for its natural habitat settings for the animals. That evening, the entire group met at the Gievenbeck Youth Center for a fine time. Ping-pong, basketball, and volleyball and other games were enjoyed by all. After a rather nicely laid-out dinner, the room was cleared, and the disco took loose. Both nationalities had a wonderful evening.

The next morning, Friday, the 23rd of June, the group was officially received and greeted by city council member Else van der Poel. Greetings and gifts were exchanged by both parties. The lord mayor of Münster, Dr. Jörg Twenhöfen, (not present personally due to his not being in Münster that week) gave a personal letter and a book of Münster to Mayor Ted Henscheid and a letter to the citizens of Muenster, Texas. Ted Henscheid had sent a Muenster Centennial flag, a date book, a Muenster history book, and a letter of greeting to Dr. Twenhöfen via Dawn Knabe, presented by Eric Gray.

This reception took place in the world-famous Friedensaal (Room of Peace) of Münster. It was in this room that a ceasefire and peace treaty was signed by those European nations participating in the 30 Years War. Several nations of Europe even today adhere to the national boundaries set up by this treaty.

After the reception, a tour of the city of Münster was given, courtesy of the civil authorities. Included in the tour was a visit to the cathedral with its famous astronomical clock which still works, a baroque palace, and the church of St. Clement, which is a popular wedding church due to its beauty and splendor. The rest of the day was free.

Saturday, the 24th of June, began with the group meeting at St. Lambert's Church, a gothic structure complete with a tall bell tower. The first adventure of the day was to climb the steps of the bell tower to get a good overview of the city of Münster. The second adventure was going back down those steps. That afternoon, several families played chauffeur and the bi-national group was off to the surrounding countryside to visit a palace and a castle, both complete with moats (yes, even with water in the moats). The palace, Schloss Nordkirchen, was patterned after the palace of Versailles. The castle, Burg Vischering, was one of three castles which protected the town of Lüdinghausen.

After getting "lost" on the German autobahns and highways, the group finished the afternoon tour with a visit to a typical countryside coffee house. That evening, they attended Sunday-anticipated Mass at St. Lambert's Church (the one with the tower). They were very pleasantly surprised by the pastor just before the Mass began. He announced to the congregation of the presence of the group from Muenster, Texas, bid the group welcome, and extended his own personal well wishes on the Texans.

That last evening, for the students, was spent with friends and host families. The adults all gathered at Monike Pape's apartment for a closing informal dinner. At this dinner, Monike presented to Eric Gray a gift from the Marienschule to Sacred Heart School, a Kiepenheri. Also, ideas of an exchange between the two

Dear Editor,

Enclosed herewith is my check covering the Muenster Centennial History Book. I had planned to order it sooner, but somehow I never found the time to order it until some of my friends recommended it so highly.

I still enjoy the many articles in The Enterprise although I have been gone from "the old hometown" since 1931 when I moved to Amarillo. Many of my friends have passed away, but I vividly remember names of families.

I enjoy the many articles concerning Muenster and when the paper arrives, I immediately sit down and read it regardless of how involved I am in other matters.

I extend my best wishes to all my friends.

Sincerely,
Angela Furbach
Amarillo, Texas

Dear Editor:

THANKS, BUT NO THANKS!!! Your coverage of the dairy industry, one of Muenster's largest, was so inadequate, it should have been omitted. I can remember the day when an entire section was set aside for articles, interviews, pictures, etc. I was asked this year to keep a diary for one week, and at the same time, was informed that several other dairymen would be interviewed. When the paper came out, there was my article and pictures, and that's it! Oh, there also was a section on technology and dairy products, and a hilarious budget, but no more "down-to-earth" pictures of people working, opinions of dairymen, the plant in Muenster, the haulers, and the whole scope of the industry.

When the July 14, 1989 edition of The Muenster Enterprise hit the press, many people snickered at the only local dairy article in the paper - but not the many dairymen I've talked to since then. They agreed with the long hours involved because harvest to a dairyman is like the middle of April is to a bookkeeper, as any other business with a deadline, but every one of them disagreed with the budget! People should know that it takes a tremendous overhead to maintain a productive dairy, but it doesn't help when they don't get the whole picture!

Many dairymen in this area are young men trying to fill their ancestors' shoes. They all may not milk 150 cows, they may not be able to afford outside help, and they may not be the sole owner, but they do put in long hours and put up with a lot of stress!

If any business is paid for, it should make good money, as is shown in the budget in the July 14 edition, but many dairymen in their area are building their way up or are just starting out. They have bank notes, machinery payments, land or rent payments, cattle payments (either initial or replacement), and none of this is mentioned in the budget. It makes a big difference when you're working your way up. The area dairymen "took it on the chin" when this article came out. If you can't give the local dairy industry more than you did this year - THANKS, BUT NO THANKS!!!

Wayne Klement

EDITOR'S REPLY: You may feel that you "took it on the chin," but you aren't being fair to The Enterprise. The local dairy industry has benefited from many years of special dairy editions. When finally we do not have a large promotion issue, you holler UNFAIR!

There were plans for an interesting dairy edition which fell flat because of lack of cooperation and overwhelming obstacles. More than one writer tried unsuccessfully to contact dairymen for interviews. Mostly, the numerous calls at various times of the day found no one home.

Some graciously explained that they would be glad to contribute next year, but were burdened with too much pressing field work, etc., because of the unusual weather this year. We could understand their position. It's difficult to find dairymen willing to participate that haven't been featured recently.

Also advertisers, who are necessary to finance a large special edition, are watching their budgets closely and didn't seem interested enough to warrant extreme measures on our part. The last time you were contacted, we thought it was understood by all that perhaps this year there would not be a complete special edition, but only a feature article.

Perhaps your "milk soured" over the budget. The accountant who supplied it meant no harm, but was simply asked to supply (with permission) a budget of an area dairy and to raise or lower the budget and total picture any percentage to protect the dairy's privacy.

If you think that the dairyman has been injured by it, then please feel free to submit a realistic likeness of a struggling dairyman's budget. It would be published on the Farm page. Our original intention was to compare different types of dairies.

DOZERS removed the old building east of Frybrant last week to clear the way for a parking lot. The building was an original part of the old Public School. The old Wylie Lewis Trucking building is being remodeled for a cutting room, with other plans of expansion in the future, which will make more jobs available.

Burning the flag is wrong!

by Lloyd Bentsen
United States Senator

The United States flag represents freedom, justice and hope for people all over the world.

That's why I - along with millions of other Americans - was shocked and disappointed by the recent Supreme Court decision on desecration of the flag.

The decision sprang from a 1984 incident in Dallas, when a protester burned the American flag and was joined by others in chanting, "America, the red, white and blue, we spit on you."

As offensive as these words are to me and to other Americans, they are protected by the First Amendment as free speech. Nobody interfered with those protesters' right to speak freely, and no one prevented them from speaking.

But in Texas, desecrating the American flag is a crime. And the protester responsible was duly arrested. He was not punished for his words. He was punished for his actions.

When the case came before the Supreme Court, however, the justices felt that arresting this protester for burning the flag violated his First Amendment right of speech.

This is the same Court that has often noted that constitutional guarantees are constrained when they come into conflict with other guarantees. The right to bear arms is not the right to shoot someone. The right to assemble does not mean uninvited guests can congregate in your living room. And the right to free speech does not mean you can slander your neighbor or yell "fire" in a crowded theater.

Why can't the same principle be applied in this case? The protesters were not hindered in speaking. They were arrested for burning the flag.

As Justice John Paul Stevens - writing the dissent to the Supreme Court decision - said, "the case has nothing to do with disagreeable ideas ... it involves disagreeable conduct." I agree. In fact, it is plausible that these protesters burned our flag to attract attention that their words could not do alone. And while the Constitution assures free speech, it does not guarantee an audience.

The day after the Supreme Court made this ruling, I was joined by several of my colleagues in the Senate in sponsoring a constitutional amendment to protect our flag from desecration. Several days later, the president also endorsed a constitutional amendment to overturn the Supreme Court's flag-burning decision.

Intentionally desecrating the American flag is an abomination. Our beliefs and history are embodied in those stars and stripes. Blood has been shed in its defense.

Hopes and dreams have flourished under its protection.

Even those who disagree with what our flag stands for enjoy its protection. I strongly support the First Amendment which guarantees the right to speak out.

But the Supreme Court majority was wrong in extending freedom of speech to burning the flag. I'll be working to turn that around.

Comments have been made by people from other local industries to the effect that they wonder why they don't have special coverage like the dairy industry - in fact, some of our publications furnish a book for that reason. There are many "special" issues listed, i.e. National Agricultural Week in March; National Family Week in May; Police Week in May; Free Enterprise Week in August (where would we be without that?); we could go on and on. The group is in the process of putting in an all-sand volleyball court at the park, with plans to put a new entrance sign on the west end of the park.

schools and cities were discussed.

The visit came to an end at 3:00 Sunday morning as the Texans boarded their train bound for Frankfurt Airport. It was a cheerful goodbye, complete with overtones of auf Wiedersehen, which basically means, until we meet again.

The entire exchange and visit was made possible through the efforts and cooperation of many people. The official channels of coordination were between two schools: the Marienschule of Münster and Sacred Heart High School of Muenster. Coordinators were Monike Pape of the Marienschule, Eric Gray of Sacred Heart, and Joachim Korth, one of the parents of the Marienschule.

On behalf of all who took part in the visit, many thanks are extended to all who helped make it possible.

districts will no longer be allowed to keep back reserve funds, officials said. The CCAD had a reserve balance of $50,000 as of the Dec. 31, 1988 audit. As much as half of that has been spent on additional 1988 appraisal district expenses not included in the budget, according to CCAD President Jim Zachary.

Another bill that is expected to increase the cost to the CCAD is a requirement that all property owners be sent appraisal notices annually, regardless of whether their appraisals have changed. The CCAD sent out 8,000 notices this spring of appraisals that had changed by $1,000 or more, required by law before the most recent legislation. The new law is expected to increase appraisal mailings to as many as 70,000, which is the approximate number of accounts in Cooke County, said Pickett.

Another law that will affect Cooke County states that a board member may not serve more than two consecutive terms. That takes effect Sept. 1.

In an unrelated matter, Pickett said the Appraisal Review Board has completed hearing protests of property appraisals, and a certified tax roll will be sent out to taxing entities within the week. About 100 people signed up for protests, but only about 75 were heard as some cancelled.

A major downward tax roll adjustment of at least 40 percent was made on National Supply Co. to reflect the lessened economic influence of those buildings since the company has gone out of business, said Pickett. There were also fairly major downward adjustments made on Muenster Milling Co. and Cooke County Electric Co. Those appraisals were conducted by the firm of Pritchard and Abbott.

MR. and MRS. JAMES D. PELZEL
... nee Karen Mershon ...

Grandson of Joe Hoenig marries

The wedding of James D. Pelzel, grandson of Joe Hoenig of Muenster, to Karen S. Mershon was held in St. Augustine's Catholic Church in Oak Harbor, Washington.

Father Barry Ashwell performed the double ring rites on Saturday, June 24, at 1 p.m.

The bride is the former Karen S. Mershon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Mershon of Trout Creek, Montana.

The groom is a graduate of St. John High School in Ennis and is a Chief Petty Officer in the US Navy, stationed at Whidbey Island Naval Air Station in Oak Harbor, Washington.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She was wearing a floor-length formal wedding gown of white taffeta, with illusion yoke, high lace collar, slim lace sleeves and puffs at the shoulders. The full skirt was enhanced with an aisle-wide, cathedral-length train, embroidered with Alencon lace, pearls and sequins. She carried a cascading bouquet of white roses.

ATTENDANTS

The bride's sister, Barbara Lichneckert of Everett, Washington, was her matron of honor, wearing a tea-length pale yellow lace gown, and a white garden hat trimmed with yellow satin ribbon. She carried a nosegay of yellow roses.

The groom's sister, Carolyn Forehand of Palmer, Texas; the bride's sister-in-law, Rebecca Mershon of Norfolk, Virginia; and the bride's cousin, Molly Mueller of Denver, were bridesmaids. Erin Forehand, groom's niece, was flower girl. All wore pale pink lace gowns, and carried nosegays of pink and yellow rosebuds.

The best man was James Tyler of Oak Harbor, Washington. The groom's brother, Michael Pelzel of Ennis; the bride's brother, Michael Mershon of Norfolk, Va.; and A.J. Nekuda, were groomsmen.

Traditional organ music was presented by Doug Merriman. Vocalists were Sue Mallams and Mark Burly.

A pair of pyramid candelabra and baskets of white roses enhanced the altar space. White ribbons marked family pews.

RECEPTION

The chief Petty Officers Mess at Whidbey Island Naval Air Station was the setting for the reception, dinner and dance.

The three-tiered white wedding cake was served by Pam Nekuda; and the groom's fruit cake was served by Mrs. Edna Hermes of Lindsay, aunt of the groom.

The evening before the wedding, a rehearsal dinner was held in St. Augustine's Parish Hall. The informal buffet was prepared and served by the groom's family. In June, a miscellaneous shower honored the bride-elect, hosted by her sister, Barbara.

The couple is residing in Oak Harbor, Washington.

Special guests attending the wedding were the bride's grandmother, Charlotte Mershon of Helena, Montana; and the groom's grandfather, Joe Hoenig of Muenster. Other Texans attending were from Ennis, Palmer, Denton, Pilot Point, Lindsay and Gainesville.

John Orth descendants gather in Gainesville

Descendants of John and Catherine Langenfeld Orth attended an enjoyable reunion on Sunday, June 9. John and Catherine Orth had six children. They are all deceased. The Orth sons were Fr. Vincent Orth, OSB, and Henry Orth. The daughters were Mrs. Matt (Rosa) Fuhrmann, Mrs. Willie (Maggie) Fuhrmann, Mrs. Joe (Mary) Fuhrmann and Mrs. John (Anna) Brekel.

The reunion began with a Mass in the morning at St. Peter's Church in Lindsay. Con-celebrants were Rev. Bernard Brekel, OMI, and Rev. Nicholas Fuhrmann, OSB, and Rev. Bruno Fuhrmann, OSB.

Linus Fuhrmann narrated as two members of each descendant's family carried a red or white rose, in memory of the living and deceased members to the altar. Young children carried rosaries and presented them at the altar to be blessed and returned to them after Mass.

Fr. Nicholas gave an introduction to Orth histories and one member of each family read a family history.

After Mass, the Cross Bearer led everyone in procession to the grotto as the Litany of the Blessed Virgin was prayed. The Lourdes song, "Immaculate Mary," was sung by all. Next, the procession passed the Fuhrmann-Dieter chapel and moved on to the cemetery where the John Orth and other family members' graves were blessed and visited.

After this, all went to St. Mary's parish hall in Gainesville, where the Hermes Sisters served the noon meal.

Following the dinner, Rev. Bernard Brekel, OMI, who has been a missionary in the Philippine Islands for nearly 32 years, was introduced by Fr. Nicholas Fuhrmann, OSB. He spoke to the gathering about his experiences as a missionary.

Later, members of each family spoke for their respective families, introducing everyone. Others told happy family stories. Games were played outside by the children and inside some enjoyed card games.

The oldest granddaughter present was Catherine Brekel from Boulder, Colorado; the oldest grandson was Raymond Fuhrmann of Lindsay.

Other religious attending the reunion were grandsons, Bro. Henry Fuhrmann, OSB, and Bro. Michael Fuhrmann, OSB; a great-grandson, Bro. Vincent Klein, OSB, of Subiaco; and Sr. Catherine Henry Fuhrmann. Fr. Stephen and Fr. Sebastian were also present.

Moss Lake largemouths making steady progress

GAINESVILLE - Moss Lake is an 1,125-acre impoundment in Cooke County, just north of Gainesville and almost within view of the Red River.

This location probably has cost the lake some recognition by Texas fishermen, but its largemouth bass population may overcome the reservoir's anonymity, according to Texas Parks and Wildlife Department fishery biologists.

Biologist John Moczygemba of Denison said past surveys indicated good numbers of bass, but very few over 14 inches in length. That situation has changed during the past two years, judging from a survey conducted in April. Fishery crews collected a much higher percentage of the larger size classes of bass than in the past.

"We examined the fish over eight inches long, and found that 57 percent of them were 12 inches long or longer," Moczygemba said. "This compares to only 34 percent during an identical survey in 1987."

The largest bass collected in 1987 was 15 inches long. "This spring, the largest was 24 inches long and weighed 9.1 pounds," said Moczygemba. In all, 11 percent of bass collected were three pounds or larger, he added.

During May, a local lake resident landed and released a bass weighing 10 pounds, one ounce.

Moczygemba said Florida-strain largemouth bass were stocked in the lake in 1981 and 1982, and may now be making their genetic presence known.

To find Moss Lake, go north from Gainesville on US Highway 82 and turn north on FM 1201.

BRIAN STROTHER

Strother eager to join MHS tradition

by Kim Hess

Picked from a field of approximately 40 applicants, Brian Strother has joined the coaching staff at Muenster High School as an assistant football coach and head basketball coach.

The Oklahoma native attended Northeastern Oklahoma A&M where he played both football and basketball. He then transferred and graduated from Peru State College in Nebraska where he played baseball and basketball.

The 28-year-old has coached three years. As the assistant boys' basketball coach on the varsity level at Clinton, Missouri, Strother helped the team advance to the 5A State Semifinals and end the season with an impressive 20-7 record. He coached the freshman boys' team to a winning 18-3 record. At Foyil, Oklahoma, he coached two years as the boys' head basketball coach and assistant girls' coach. Strother calls his years at Foyil "rebuilding years" where he worked with a young team.

Strother says he is excited about becoming a member of a school system that excels academically as well as athletically.

Strother calls Muenster a "winning tradition school."

"Schools like Muenster are a rarity in Oklahoma," he said. "The playoffs are on the schedule. It's not just a dream, but a reality here."

As the head basketball coach, Strother will coach both varsity boys and girls. Tim Ratliff will assist him with the junior high team. Strother wants to focus on pushing the ball up the floor, pressing and playing good defense.

"I want the kids to play with a balance of confidence and chemistry on the court. They'll have that as long as I'm coach at MHS," he said.

But right now, Strother is putting his attention on the upcoming football season and the practices that will be starting in only a few weeks.

In addition to coaching football and basketball, Strother will coach spring sports subject to assignment, and teach social science.

Strother has been married for two years and met his wife, Cyndi, while coaching at Foyil. She taught first grade there for six years after graduating from Tabor College in Hillsboro, Kansas. She has a daughter, Amber Jean, who will be in the third grade at Muenster Public School.

"I know the kids have really good work ethics here. They are talented and willing to work in order to be successful. These values pertain to our family, and what we like as a family, I like as a coach," he said.

Strother and his family hope to be moving to Muenster soon.

Fashions a hit at Sam Bass Day

by Joann Sicking

Fashions from as long ago as 1870 and as current as 1980 were modeled at the Sam Bass Day Fashion Show.

The show's dresses were all worn by Rosston women and modeled by Rosston residents or their relatives.

The oldest dress, belonging to Ruth Smith's grandmother, dated back as far as 1872. A bonnet, belonging to the Odessa Berry's great-grandmother, was also modeled, and is over 100 years old.

Several of the clothes worn by Daphne Nunley and Syretta Russell and their children on the Texas Sesquicentennial Wagon Train were also included in the show.

Graduation dresses, formals and prom dresses from the '40s and '50s were modeled by area youth. Wedding gowns, bridesmaids dresses and wedding party attire from years past were also used.

For the curtain call, 10 models flaunted dresses worn in 1972 by area women to the Rosston Centennial celebration.

The following is a list of the models: Joann Sicking, Cindy Culp, Cindy Boto, Rita Wolfe, Becky Richardson, Chari Richardson, Deann Black, Kristen Johnson, Jessamy Sicking, Jordan Kohler, Kimberly McKown, Lorraine Matthews, Claudia Wilson, Jane Kohler, Jennifer Ford, Delania Robertson, Bobbie Hanford, Brenda Johnson, Kimberly Richardson, Joyce Richardson, Carolyn Bayer Lawrence, and Daphne Nunley.

A special thank-you to all the models for their cooperation and patience and also to all those who graciously loaned their very precious garments.

The style show was a conglomeration of efforts by so many and was enjoyed by all who attended. All door money collected was given to the Volunteer Fire Department.

A very special thank-you to Chris Hughes, Bud and Pat Ford, Hamric's, and Bouquets and Gifts for the use of their equipment and paraphernalia. Without such generous cooperation, the fashion show would not have been the success it was.

Grain sorghum tour in Cooke County Aug. 1

by Craig Rosenbaum, County Extension Agent

A grain sorghum tour is scheduled for Cooke County Tuesday, Aug. 1, to evaluate crop demonstrations.

Demonstrations were conducted this year at three locations for insecticide control of chinch bugs with granular insecticides and variety evaluations.

The tour will be at:
8:30 a.m. - Chinch Bug Control - Jerry Hudspeth's Farm, at Valley View. Meet at W.B. Hudspeth Inc. at Valley View, then go to plots.

10:30 a.m. - Grain Sorghum Varieties - Fuhrmann Bros., FM 1198, 1 mile north of Myra.

1:00 p.m. - Grain Sorghum Varieties - J.H. Bayer and Sons - Hays Area Entomologist, Allen Knutson, and Craig Rosenbaum will be on hand at the tour stops.

Wheat Update Meetings

1989 was a bad year for small grain production in pretty much all of Texas. The rains, freezes, insects, etc., all took their toll.

Extension Service Agronomist Jim Blalock and Craig Rosenbaum, County Extension Agent, will be on hand to discuss forage production and grain variety production results from Cooke County and the rest of the North Texas area. Management practices concerning insect populations and control along with weed and grass control, will also be covered. Times and locations are Thursday, Aug. 3, at:

7:30 a.m. - W.B. Hudspeth Inc. - Era

9:30 a.m. - Cooke County Electric Co-Op - Muenster

11:00 a.m. - Cooke County Fairgrounds - Gainesville

Producers planting wheat or other small grains are invited to attend one of the meeting times and locations.

Texas Air Control Board adopts rules on burning

The Texas Air Control Board has adopted new rules, effective July 18, that will revise the state's plan for controlling inhalable particulate matter, including outdoor burning. The rules, while permitting several common practices by farmers and ranchers, do not relieve landowners from the consequences, damages or injuries resulting from burning. Also, certain requirements spell out specific procedures for outdoor burning.

"Outdoor burning may be authorized by written permission from the executive director of the Texas Air Control Board if there is no practical alternative and if the burning will not cause or contribute to a violation of any federal primary or secondary ambient air standard," TACB said.

Outdoor burning will be authorized for campfires, dead animal burning to control the spread of disease, rural area on-site burning of trees, brush, grass, and other dry plant growth for right-of-way maintenance, land-clearing operations, and for certain forest, crop, and range management purposes.

Also, salt marsh grass management burning may take place only in Aransas, Brazoria, Calhoun, Chambers, Galveston, Harris, Jackson, Jefferson, Kleberg, Matagorda, Nueces, Orange, Refugio, and San Patricio counties and only under certain conditions.

In many cases, such as salt marsh burning, information must be provided to TACB at least 15 days in advance for the agency's review.

For additional information, contact TACB at 512/451-5711, extension 354.

Hay reserves depleted... Producers scurrying to get crop harvested

Hay sheds and storage areas across Texas are practically empty, according to reports from producers, county agents and specialists with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Texas produced almost 8 million tons of hay in 1987," said Dr. Sim A. Reeves, Jr., Extension Service Agronomist at Overton. "Production last year, according to Texas Department of Agriculture figures, was 5.35 million tons, down 32 percent."

Sims said most producers fed their total hay supply, including any reserve, last fall and winter. "In a normal year, hay grown in Texas has a value of more than $300 million. Adverse weather, such as the 1988 drought, can quickly cause large monetary losses."

Charles Beckendorf, a dairyman at Tomball, said "People in our part of the country are planning to carry over about 500 rolls each year, but like all our neighbors, we have no reserve left." That's the story in many sections of the state as hay producers await enough rain to boost the first cutting or enough dry weather to harvest a good first cutting.

More forage sorghums are being planted in North Texas. "Our sorghum-sudan plantings are up as much as 30 percent," said Gary Bomar, Grayson County Extension Agent.

Extension Service Agronomist Dr. Noble Kearney at Uvalde said, "Not only is more sorghum-sudan being planted, but producers are taking better care of existing coastal meadows." But much of the area continues very dry and rains will be needed to produce hay crops.

Brent Ramage of Hooks, in Northeast Texas, said, "Hay production costs are up and profits are down. Our meadows, about 400 acres, look better than ever. But, fertilizer costs are up as much as $40 per ton. Weather has played havoc with hay yields the last five years and producers can only pay so much for hay."

Jack Parks of Stephenville also said his fertilizer is costing more and much small grain acreage there was winter killed, thus very little small grain hay is being produced.

"We use about 35,000 bales of hay per year and right now, the prospect for bermudagrass hay looks the best I've ever seen," Parks said. "If more rainfall comes and more hay is produced, quality will definitely influence price."

David Finley, Wichita County Extension Agent, said that some producers may sell cows if the price of hay gets too high. "They can only pay so much for hay and still be in an economical situation," he said. "We look good for the first cutting, but expect prices to be on the high side."

Dr. John McNeill, Extension Service Beef Cattle Specialist at Amarillo, said, "Round bales of hay weighing 1,800 pounds normally sell for about $35 in the Panhandle. Last winter, the price went to $50 in some areas. Most of our hay is grown locally for stocker operations. A lot of dryland sorghum-sudan is being planted."

Jack Mewbourn of Van Zandt County normally produces about 2,000 acres of hay. "People in our area are trying to secure their hay supply early," he said. "Some local producers are buying early instead of depending on their own meadows. If alfalfa prices stay high, then coastal hay prices will stay up. Right now, alfalfa costs about $125 per ton delivered to our farm."

Dr. Dale Lovelace, Extension Service Forage Specialist at Dallas, said, "The price of hay will be good until all the barns are full. After that, the price may drop if over-production is anticipated."

Reeves said, "Overall, producers are optimistic about a good hay year. However, weather is the primary factor which will determine whether we have a repeat of 1988 or build our reserves back to normal."

State Climatologist handles weather data

Anyone interested in Texas weather data needs to make only one phone call or personal visit - to the Office of the State Climatologist at Texas A&M University.

Dr. John Griffiths serves in that position - and he has a wealth of Texas weather information to share with anyone who wants to listen or to pore over pages and pages of weather data.

It's all there - for all Texas counties as well as specific locations in those counties.

Weather data is useful in so many ways, particularly as it relates to agriculture in Cooke County. It provides a historical perspective of what has happened and therefore gives some insight and predictability of what may happen in the future.

Farmers and ranchers rely heavily on weather information to plan certain operations. The same holds true for builders and developers and those in public service sectors, such as utilities and health care. And, of course, the general public as well as numerous organizations and agencies are interested in weather data.

The Office of the State Climatologist has been linked to Texas A&M University since 1973 when federal budget cuts in the National Weather Service closed the office. The office is part of A&M's Department of Meteorology, which boasts one of the largest meteorology faculties in the U.S.

Essentially, the office has three main functions:
- Acts as a repository of available climatological data for Texas stations plus station histories, together with many special publications concerning Texas climate.

- Prepares special publications on the Texas climate, including "Climatology of Texas," single sheet items covering various weather events; "Agroclimatic Atlas of Texas" and "Engineering Climatic Atlas of Texas," book-type series; and a special series on "100 Years of Texas Weather, 1880-1979," and "Climates of the 254 Texas Counties."

- Answers questions from the public, industry, organizations and state agencies.

The Office of the State Climatologist is located in Room 1017 of the Oceanography and Meteorology Building at Texas A&M. The telephone number is 409-845-5044.
