Tim Carpenter benefit raises $20,780

Sponsors of the Tim Carpenter Benefit Picnic are very pleased with the local support of the event that raised $20,780.81, a much higher figure than was expected. The picnic held Saturday and Sunday, July 14 and 15, was planned to benefit Carpenter, a Lindsay man who was paralyzed in an auto accident in April 1990.

Budweiser was the chief sponsor of the benefit and assistance came from the Lindsay Volunteer Fire Department, Lindsay Jaycees, and Muenster Jaycees.

Activities included a horseshoe tournament and a dance on Saturday; and a brisket dinner, volleyball tournament, tug-of-war, an auction, and a barbecue cook-off sponsored by the North Texas Area BBQ Cookers Association on Sunday.

Saturday's musical entertainment was provided by Adam Arendt and Danny Wolf of "The Entertainer." "Sweeter Than Honey" with Jenny and Kelley Wimmer headed the program Sunday.

The auction was the most successful fund raiser bringing in almost $13,000. It was great to see the participation, commented someone who attended the weekend event.

Tim Carpenter was able to attend the picnic. He has been a patient at the Dallas Rehabilitation Center since April 16 and is reportedly doing very well. He anticipates being home by September.

Commissioner Kirby heads forum on new education bill

by Elaine Schad
The state's new education bill will hold Texas public schools to higher standards of accountability, while allowing districts more flexibility and greater local control, the state's top education officials said during a public forum last Thursday at the Gainesville High School Auditorium. The forum was attended by educators and the public from across Cooke County.

William Kirby, Texas Commissioner of Education, said educators are still receiving information concerning the full impact Senate Bill 1 will have on school districts statewide. While a lot of media attention has been focused on the efforts the bill makes toward equalizing funding for public education, the legislation will make major changes in an effort to assure that every child in Texas will receive a quality education, Kirby told a group of about 150 people, mainly educators, during the forum hosted by Dist. 63 State Representative Ric Williamson (D-Weatherford).

Williamson represents Cooke, Wise and Parker counties in the Texas Legislature. "This bill focuses on the results of education and not on the process of delivery of education," said Kirby. "We'll be focusing on how well it works, not on how you got there."

Some 18 measures of a school's success will be evaluated, with heavy emphasis on standardized test scores, Kirby said. Such things as a district's dropout rate, attendance rate and other performance-based tools will be used to see how well a particular district is educating its children, he said.

Exemplary schools will be rewarded by being exempted from a variety of state regulations. Exemplary schools will not necessarily be those schools with high test scores, but will include those schools that attain high levels of improvement, Kirby said. Exemplary programs, such as successful at-risk or substance-abuse prevention programs, also will be rewarded, he said.

"Exemplary schools don't really get more money, but more freedom," Kirby said. There is, however, some $4.5 million in grant money set aside for schools aimed at rewarding creativity and innovation, he said.

Williamson said he was pleased to have at least two exemplary schools named in his district in past years, telling the audience, "and you know who you are."

There will be more emphasis at the campus level for the principal, parents and teachers to come up with a plan for quality education for their individual situation. Finally, the bill provides for a better system of reporting to the community on how well the schools are doing, Kirby said.

Average daily attendance will be monitored throughout the school year, instead of just two months. "There is more of a focus on keeping students in school," Kirby said.

The bill also gives the commissioner of education added power to place sanctions on school districts that have inadequate programs, Kirby said. "I have some concern about the commissioner having life and death power over school districts," Kirby said. "But I do believe there are enough checks and balances in place."

Muenster firemen to distribute maps

The local rural supporters of the Muenster Volunteer Fire Department will be given county maps with all of the county roads numbered, at the annual Barbecue fund raiser sponsored by local firemen on Saturday, August 4.

"We hope to have a fireman on hand to point out where the rural homeowner's road is so that they know their road number if they ever have to call the fire department," said Herbie Knabe, Muenster Fire Chief. The Muenster Fire Department is working in conjunction with the county to educate residents on their county road numbers.

It will be necessary to know road numbers when the statewide 911 emergency number system becomes effective in about a year and a half. The 500 maps were provided by the Cooke County Commissioner's Court.

The meal will include barbecue brisket, cole slaw, potato salad, and beans. Preparation of the meat is being done by Mike Sturm, and Ed and Ginny Schneider are cooking the other dishes. Tickets are $6.00 for adults and $3.00 for children.

During the past year the Muenster VFD spent $9,000 on fire schools and equipment. According to Knabe around $7,000 was spent to complete the gear worn by the firemen. "The complete set of gear worn by each fireman costs around $500," commented the fire chief.

Various firemen from the Muenster department attended four different fire schools during the past year. The fire department finances all of the schools except the Fire Training School at Texas A&M which the city helps fund because it helps determine the city's insurance keynote.

The Muenster Fire Dept. consists of 25 dedicated volunteers whose combined time of service is 305 Please See FIREMEN, Page 2

MICHAEL ABNEY

Michael Abney is Merit Scholarship '90 winner

Michael Abney has been notified by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation of his distinction as a National Merit Scholarship winner.

He will attend Texas A&M University, pursuing a degree in Computer Engineering. The fall term begins on August 28.

Abney, the son of Don and Joyce Abney, is a May 1990 graduate of Muenster High School. As a student, he was senior class president, a member of the National Honor Society; held trumpet first chair in the Hornet Band; won an award in All-District Band, classed fifth chair trumpet, and was a state qualifier in Debate. Also, he won an Award For Excellence from the Masons.

He is employed at Encore Video this summer until college classes begin. Michael Abney is the second student at Muenster High School to earn a National Merit Scholarship.

Curtis Klement was awarded the National Merit Scholarship in 1974.

As a Texas A&M University student, he will be attending the state's oldest public institution of higher education. A land grant and sea grant university of about 36,000 students, the university seeks to develop the highest degree of American citizenship and skilled leadership in all phases of Agriculture, Architecture, Business, Engineering, Liberal Arts, Medicine and Veterinary Medicine. Baccalaureate training is offered in more than 85 fields, and graduate degrees in more than 200 areas.

In 1990, the National Merit Scholarship Program has awarded scholarships to more than 6,100 distinguished high school seniors to enhance the educational opportunities of exceptionally able young people. Winners were chosen by officials of the sponsor - institution from Merit Program Finalists who will attend that college.

More than one million students in over 19,000 U.S. high schools entered the 1988 Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (PSAT/NMSQT). In 1989, about half of one percent of graduating seniors were designated Semifinalists - about 15,000 able students were given an opportunity to advance to this year's competition.

Every Semifinalist had to become a Finalist to be considered for a Merit Scholarship. Requirements included meeting extremely high academic standards, being endorsed and recommended by a school official, confirming earlier test performance on a second test, and providing information about activities, interests and educational goals. All Merit Scholars were chosen on the basis of abilities, accomplishments and potential for success in rigorous college studies.

CCAD holds workshop on budget

by Elaine Schad

The Cooke County Appraisal District board of directors last week wrestled with proposed raises for CCAD employees during a workshop, but has not yet reached a firm decision as to which direction those raises will take.

This week's workshop was the second on the proposed 1991 budget, set to take effect on Jan. 1, 1991. The board has until Aug. 15 to send the budget to county taxing entities for consideration. The entities have until Sept. 15 to take action on the budget. The budget will automatically take effect unless a majority of the entities adopt a resolution of disapproval and notify the CCAD in writing, officials said. A public hearing on the budget will probably be held in early August, officials said.

The proposed $693,000 budget does not include an estimated $25,000 in legal fees the district will incur. The budget includes $140,019 for collections which the CCAD will assume Oct. 1 from the county. Also included is $533,280 for the appraisal section, a 20.6 percent increase over the present year's budget. An additional $20,000 has been added to collect taxes on tangible personal property, such as airplanes, for those entities that have chosen to tax that area.

The board this week focused their attention and spent most of their time during the almost three-hour workshop and meeting on two major areas of the proposed budget, salaries and the proposed updating of the CCAD mapping system.

Chief Appraiser Pat Pickett has proposed a 6.5 percent increase in the budget in the salary area.

After surveying other appraisal districts, Ms. Pickett said the CCAD is at about 80 percent salary levels for all positions. "My ultimate objective is to bring the staff to a more current salary market level," she said in a letter to the board. "This will enable me to maintain a trained and confident staff to serve our county."

The board asked Ms. Pickett to present revised figures to the board that would increase the budget in the salary area by a total of 5 percent, rather than 6.5 percent as proposed. Board member Roger Martin said he would like to see a salary scale developed for each CCAD position and then built-in merit raises based on longevity and job performance. Board members indicated they may approve a set amount of increase for 1991, and then leave it to Ms. Pickett to distribute the funds as she sees fit to equalize the salary positions.

Several board members questioned Ms. Pickett's proposal to raise her own salary to a total of $41,600 from her current salary of $35,600. She is requesting a $2,400 raise plus $3,600 to take over the collection duties.

Former Chief Appraiser Bill Sherman received $32,000 to perform both appraisal and collection duties until he resigned in November 1988. Ms. Pickett was hired in November 1988 at a salary of $33,000, which did not include collection duties. She received a $2,600 raise last year.

Ms. Pickett defended her own salary increase proposal, saying Please See CCAD, Page 3

Muenster will not protest city's taxes

by Elaine Schad

The City of Muenster will not formally protest the city's 1990 tax roll provided by the Cooke County Appraisal District, officials said this week.

City officials had charged that the City of Muenster tax roll contained at least $1 million in errors on property owned by people who the city claimed did not live within the Muenster city limits. City officials further charged that this is the second year in a row that the errors have occurred. CCAD officials defended the tax roll, but said the city had until July 20 to file a formal protest by categories of property if officials felt there were errors.

There were two main reasons why the city decided against filing a formal protest with the CCAD, said City Secretary Celine Dittfurth. City officials felt they achieved more by providing information and assistance to individuals who did go down to the appraisal district office to get their personal statements corrected. Officials also feared there may be a delay in the city receiving needed revenue by delaying the setting of the city tax rate.

Mrs. Dittfurth said she did bring the tax roll to the appraisal district office and asked for a new tax roll with deletions, mainly of automobiles, which she said did not belong on the city's rolls. When the city received its preliminary certified tax roll this week, however, the new tax roll indicates the city's values rose another $1 million, from $46 million to $47 million.

City officials continue to be concerned about the tax roll because the city is bound by state to use the certified tax roll when it makes effective tax rate calculations, said Mrs. Dittfurth. The city does not have the option of refiguring the roll if officials feel there are errors on either side, said Mrs. Dittfurth. The city tried to do that very thing last year, but was told by the state that it was not allowed. The city was then required to republish all its notices at a double expense, she said.

Mrs. Dittfurth said she feels the only way people can have an impact on the property tax situation is to write to their state representatives, asking for a repeal of the 1983 bill that set up appraisal districts statewide.

Correction

by Elaine Schad

According to Cooke County Auditor Gloria Parrish, Tax Assessor-Collector Joyce Zwinggi received a total of $1,200, or $100 a month in additional salary, for supervision of tax collections for fiscal 1989 and $2,400, or $200 per month, for 1990 when the collection duties were taken over by the county from the Cooke County Appraisal District beginning Oct. 1, 1988. A proposal presented in 1988 by a joint committee of the CCAD and Cooke County that Mrs. Zwinggi be paid $6,000 for those duties was not accepted by county commissioners as was stated in a July 13 article. The Enterprise regrets the error.

Representative Williamson speaks at education forum in Gainesville

by Elaine Schad

School districts that raise their effective tax rates to $1.18 cents per $100 valuation of property for the 1990-1991 school year may stand to receive a state funding bonus sometime over the next five years, Dist. 63 State Representative Ric Williamson, (D - Weatherford) said last Thursday at a public forum on the state's new education bill.

In order to receive full state funding for the 1990-1991 school year, school districts statewide must have an effective tax rate of at least 91.08 cents, Williamson said. By 1995, all school districts must have a rate of at least $1.18 in order to receive full funding of $4,500 per student, he said.

"There's not enough new money going into the system to lower property taxes," Williamson said. "There are enhancements in Senate Bill 1 so that some districts will be asked to raise taxes to retain the same level of funding."

Williamson said the legislature has set aside "a pot of gold so to speak," so that some districts will get more money in the future if they go ahead and levy a $1.18 rate for 1990-1991. Districts which do not levy the rate, however, will not be penalized in future years, he said. The money was set aside as a way of rewarding those districts that have already had high tax rates for many years, Williamson said.

School officials in districts where tax rates are presently well below $1.18 should realize, however, that the state's rollback provisions remain in place, Williamson said. Citizens are allowed to petition for a rollback election if the effective tax rate exceeds 8 percent. The effective tax rate is the levy needed to bring in the same amount of revenue as the preceding year.

If Senate Bill 1 is fully funded, with the legislature promising to infuse some $2 billion in new revenues over the next five years, then the property tax burden for local districts may be reduced slightly by 1995, but certainly should not rise, Williamson said.

During the forum, Williamson was asked why some school districts are able to do a very good job of educating children for $3,100 per child while others do an inadequate job with $4,500. Williamson said he felt the answer came in the strength of the families and church influence in the communities where less money is being spent. He said research shows that the cost of education is higher in areas where the society is transient and where there is little or no church influence.

"I can assure you that the church will be strong in those communities that are spending less and that the families will be together," said Williamson. "When the families are in tact and the people go to church, the school does a better job," he said.

While Commissioner William Kirby said he feels public education is quite a ways off from the voucher system, a system where parents would have a choice to send their children to any school district they chose without paying tuition, Williamson said he felt Texas was closer than ever to developing some sort of voucher system. "I think we're very close to choice in Texas," Williamson said. "I think public education as we know it is changing and will change even more over the next five or six years."

Two friends went for a boatripe. The boat upset. The river was swift and deep. The man to whom the boat belonged had taken two life jackets along. He said "I put one on, but my friend laid his down beside him. When we were thrown into the river, my life jacket soon brought me to the top, but my friend never came up again." Christ's death, like the life jacket, will not save you unless, by faith in Him, you put it on, that is, apply to it its intended purpose which is to rescue you from eternal loss.

Views on Senate Bill #1

by Kyle H. McCain,

State Representative Candidate

Incumbent State Representative, Ric Williamson, brought William Kirby, Texas' Commissioner of Education to Gainesville last week to provide information on Senate Bill 1, the newest education legislation. Williamson began his presentation by stating that the Edgewood vs. Kirby ruling was about "tax policy." That statement is incorrect because the judge's decision emphasizes the "inefficiency" of the system as well as equitable distribution of state funds. However, the battle was between rich and poor districts, urban versus rural.

Mr. Kirby, the defendant in the lawsuit, began his presentation by correctly pointing out that the local tax increases and consequent roll back elections have been caused by the current State Legislature passing mandates without providing state funding to cover the increased cost. He also was correct in describing the old system of school funding as a bad system. He described the solution provided in SB1 as leveling up instead of down, which is another way of telling many of the rural schools that their taxes are going up so that state funding for school districts such as Houston won't go down. Taxpayers in rural districts such as those in House District 63 should also be very aware that SB1 provides that the poor districts will reach equitable funding over the next four years, which means that the schools in these poor districts will remain underfunded and disadvantaged for four more years. Nobody really wanted to see the courts take over yet another function of the government, but the court master would have done what the Legislature didn't have the courage to do - redistribute the money from the wealthy urban districts who have been getting more than a fair share of state funds. For example, Houston with an effective tax rate of 80 cents, would have lost almost $70,000,000 under the court master's plan, but was given almost $12,000,000 under SB1. On the other hand Gainesville ISD would have gained $1.6 million under the court master, but received only $660,000 for SB1. I would not have voted to raise taxes in my districts to provide additional funding for Houston. Also, because the efficiency of the funding system was not addressed, the increase in the basic allotment per student provided in SB1 requires the money to be spent according to the weighted system of HB72 which takes away much of the local school board's discretion on what is necessary in their district.

Another unfair situation that the legislature did not correct this year with SB1 is price differential (PDI). The PDI claims that it costs more to do business in a metropolitan area like Houston than it does in Cooke County, when that is not necessarily the case. The PDI gives large districts extra state money for each student, which is not available to non-urban districts. Dropping the PDI would not have been unfair to large districts, but would have helped quit treating rural taxpayers like second-class citizens. "Obviously a compromise bill had to be passed because the legislature was 'under the gun', but the size of the gun (the court master's) should have dictated a compromise that came closer to meeting the needs of the poorer or rural school districts."

Senate Bill 1 also sets a base local tax rate to receive full state funding in the future. For example, even though Muenster ISD spends approximately $3100 on each student, which is below the state average, their students score very high on statewide tests. They will be required to double their tax rate to continue receiving full state funding, and there is little or no protection against roll back elections when trying to meet these state requirements. The strength and efficiency of the Muenster school system is being penalized. The court master would have required additional taxes in Muenster, but not to increase funding in Houston.

There were a few small steps taken toward deregulation, but you need to remember that Mr. Kirby is the man in charge of the bureaucracy, the Texas Education Agency. This agency was recently recommended for additional employees and a 6 percent pay increase. There is much more to be done to return control to the local districts. Maybe the beginnings of deregulation included in SB1 will be allowed, although I believe that the funding plan will be declared inadequate by the court even if they have to leave it in place for this next school year.

San Antonio Missions:

Being reestablished as showcase of culture

by U.S. Senator Lloyd Bentsen

In 1992, we will mark the 500th anniversary of Christopher Columbus's voyage to the New World. The celebration will help people better understand the strong influence Hispanic culture has on America and especially Texas, where Spanish roots go back a long way.

In 1731, the thriving Spanish Mission San Juan, located along the San Antonio River, was able to produce enough food to feed all who lived there. There was enough food left over to supply other missions in the area and trade with settlers as far east as Louisiana and as far south as Coahuila, Mexico.

Today, San Juan, as well as Missions San Jose, Concepcion and Espada, make up the San Antonio Missions National Historical Park. Officials at the park want to re-establish the fields of San Juan, and operate the farms just as the Indians did more than 200 years ago. The fields would show Texan and other visitors historic farming techniques and lifestyles. Legislation I am pushing in the Senate would help make these demonstrations farms a reality.

I have long supported development and expansion of National Parks in Texas and, having grown up in the Rio Grande Valley, I also have great appreciation for Texas' Hispanic heritage. The Missions of San Antonio serve as living links to our state's history and Hispanic culture. These communities formed the foundation for what is today one of America's 10 largest cities, and I wanted to be sure these landmark structures were preserved for future generations. In 1978, I pushed the proposal through Congress that was then signed into law establishing the San Antonio Missions National Historical Park.

Last month, I introduced legislation to expand and improve the park. The Bentsen proposal, identical to a bill introduced in the House of Representatives by Congressman Albert Bustamante, would add 335.5 acres to the park, expanding it to 832 acres. Among historic sites that would be added by the expansion is Rancho de las Cabras, where livestock were raised for Mission Espada.

It has been estimated that as many as 1.5 million people enjoy the beauty of these missions each year. Yet, since it was established, not a single dollar of federal money has been spent for improvements. The annual operating budget is less than half what was projected when the park opened, even though expected visitation levels have been reached.

In addition to operating expenses, funding is needed for a new visitor center. The National Park Service was forced to abandon its old center because it had deteriorated and become infested by raccoons, rats and mice.

Last year, we were able to get funds appropriated for the center. Recently, I urged Senate Appropriations Committee Chairman Robert Byrd to provide $8 million for construction of the new center. It is my hope that we will be able to get this money quickly so that the center can be ready in time for celebration of the Christopher Columbus Quincentennial in 1992.

My proposal would help provide additional federal support that, combined with state and local efforts, will make the San Antonio Missions National Historical Park the showcase of our state and nation's Hispanic culture that it should be.

Klement, Rohmer pledge vows July 21

MRS. GREGORY JOHN ROHMER
...nee' Melody Gay Klement ...

Wedding vows were pledged by Melody Gay Klement and Gregory John Rohmer in a Nuptial Mass celebrated by Father Victor Gillespie OSB on Saturday, July 21, at 5 p.m. in Sacred Heart Church, with a double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Robert G. and Gloria Klement. The groom is the son of Emil and Agnes Rohmer. All are of Muenster.

Presented at the altar by her father, the bride was wearing a nostalgic wedding gown of white taffeta designed with a fitted bodice, covered with lace flower appliques embroidered with pearls and iridescent sequins. The sweetheart neckline was edged with Venetian lace. Matching lace edged her short puffed sleeves, which were accented with small double bows and strands of hanging pearls. Lending elegance to the softly gathered skirt were three-tiered overskirts, divided in front and back. Each tier was edged in matching Venetian lace. The back waist was enhanced with a double bow. An aisle-wide cathedral train was adorned with lace appliques. Venetian lace edging completely surrounded the skirt and train. Her illusion veil was accented by a gathered pouf.

The bride carried a cascading bouquet designed by the groom's sister, Lora Hennigan, of white stephanotis, exotic honeysuckle, marshberry sprays, camelias, and pink baby's breath accented with pearl sprays and greenery.

ATTENDANTS

Leslie Klement, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Shelley Klement, also a sister, and Dana Wimmer and Michele Huddleston, both friends of the bride, were bridesmaids. All are of Muenster.

They wore tea-length pink and aqua chintz dresses featuring scoop neckline, basque waist and short puff sleeves. Each carried a cascading bouquet of dark pink hibiscus, aqua starflowers, light pink dahlias, rose phlox and pink water lilies. All flowers for the wedding party, altar and church decorations were made by Lora Hennigan.

Chris Rohmer of Houston was his brother's best man. Scott Klement, bride's brother, Ben Luke and Sam Hess, both friends of the groom and all of Muenster, were groomsmen.

Ushers were Troy Sicking and Tom Hennigan of Muenster, groom's brothers-in-law, Don Richardson of Sherman and Gary Yosten of Hereford, both friends of the groom.

Mass servers were Justin Klement, bride's brother, and Jason Sicking and Darren Hennigan, both nephews of the groom.

Taking part in the special wedding liturgy were Kathleen Rohmer, groom's sister-in-law, who gave the Readings, and baptismal sponsors of Melody and Greg, Frank and Lou Zimmerer and John Hermes and Louise Walterscheid, who presented Offertory gifts at the altar.

Organ solos for professional and recessional were played by Ruth Felderhoff. Vocalists Christi Klement, Linda Flusche, Dianne Grewing, Susan Metzler and Doug Yosten, with guitar accompaniment by Dianne Grewing, presented, "The Rose," "A Time For Us," "One Hand, One Heart," "The Greatest Gift" and "Hail Mary."

All-white floral arrangements and lighted candles decorated the main altar. The Unity candle rested on the front altar. Tall brass floor candelabras held lighted votive candles in the shape of hearts.

RECEPTION

A dinner and reception followed in the Sacred Heart Community Center. Jennifer Sicking, groom's niece, and Juline Bartel, a friend, presided at the guest book.

The wedding cake and groom's cake were made by Betty Rose Walterscheid. She cut the bride's cake and Dina Sicking, groom's sister, cut the groom's cake. Cake servers were Jennifer Sicking, Andrea Klement, Jane Klement and Julie Beheler.

Guest tables were decorated with pink and aqua silk flower arrangements, and lighted votive candles.

A miniature bride and groom arrangement decorated the cheese table. Mrs. Arnold Knabe coordinated the decorations.

The rehearsal dinner was held July 20 at Rohmer's Restaurant, attended by members of the wedding party and immediate families.

The couple will reside in Muenster upon return from a wedding trip to Florida and the Bahamas.

The bride is a 1988 graduate of Muenster High School and a 1990 graduate of Cooke County College. She is currently attending the University of North Texas in Denton. The groom is a 1981 graduate of Sacred Heart High School and is employed by General Dynamics of Fort Worth.

The Fettes now call Muenster their home and hope to live here forever. They reside at 717 N. Main.

The name "Tim Fette" may sound familiar to some who have been around Muenster since 1943, or maybe a little before. If it doesn't, maybe "PIP FETTE'S BOY" does. Tim was the second son to be born to Mr. and Mrs. Herman C. "Pip" Fette in February of 1943.

Tim left Muenster soon after his graduation from Muenster Public High School in the Spring of 1961 to pursue a stint with the U.S. Navy. He received an honorable discharge in 1967, but his travels were far from over. He then traveled around the world as a mechanic. His travels ended in Texarkana where he met his pre-

June 30 ceremony unites couple in Dallas

MR. and MRS. RANDOLPH WOLF
...nee' Carol Prestwood...

The wedding of Carol Prestwood of Dallas and Randolph Wolf of Dallas was held in Park Cities Fellowship Bible Church on June 30 at 2 p.m. The officiating minister was Rev. Bill Counts.

The bride is the daughter of Patsy and M.L. Leffel, Jr. of Dallas and the groom is the son of Adam and Alma Wolf of Muenster; and the grandson of Mrs. Mary Wolf of Gainesville and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kubis of Lindsay.

Sam Davenport, vocalist, provided contemporary Christian wedding music with his own piano accompaniment. Lighted candles and greenery emphasized church decorations.

For her wedding, the bride chose a white lace gown of her own design, with a fitted bodice, very short sleeves, round neckline and skirt of tea-length. It was made by a friend. A brief veil of illusion was held by a braided band of matching lace fabric. She carried a bridal bouquet of white roses.

Honor attendants were Barbara Aills of Dallas, bride's sister, as matron of honor; Brooke Prestwood of Dallas, bride's daughter, and Debby Slaughter of San Antonio, a friend of the bride, as bridesmaids. They were attired in pastel pink, blue, yellow and green dresses of the same design as the bridal gown. They carried roses.

Paige Prestwood of Dallas, bride's daughter, was the flower girl.

Adam Wolf, father of the groom, was his best man.

Groomsmen were Phillip Prestwood of Dallas, bride's son, and Steve Chambers of Dallas, best friend of the groom.

Ushers were John Wolf of Wimberly, groom's uncle; Tim Wolf of Lewisville, groom's brother; Phil Wolf of Denton, groom's brother; and Bart Desender of Fort Worth, a friend of the groom.

A reception followed at the Belo Mansion in downtown Dallas. Two hundred guests attended and were served a light buffet and champagne; and were entertained with music by a jazz trio.

The Italian Creme bride's cake was baked and decorated in basket-weave design by Turtle Creek Cakery and the German chocolate groom's cake by Nieman Marcus.

A rehearsal luncheon was held at Casa Rosa Restaurant in Dallas on June 23, hosted by the groom's parents. Attending were families of the bride and groom and close friends.

The couple is residing in Dallas since their return from a wedding trip to Hawaii and San Francisco. The groom is a graduate of the University of North Texas and holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Physical Education. He is employed as Fitness Manager at Las Colinas Sports Club.

Ricky Walterscheid to join 1990-91 NET team

RICKY WALTERSCHEID

Ricky, son of James and Theresa Walterscheid and a 1989 graduate of Muenster High School, has been selected as a NET team member for 1990-91. He will leave Aug. 23 for St. Paul, Minn., where he will begin training.

The NET team training highlights the essentials of Catholic faith, character formation, retreat method and team ministry. Ricky will come home for two weeks beginning on Dec. 16 for Christmas, and will then continue with the NET team until July 1991.

Good family role models and a faith-supported community helped Ricky to choose the NET team ministry at this time in his life, he said. The NET team has come to Muenster several times in the past two years, giving him insight into what the ministry was all about. Ricky has also been a member of the local JAM and FLAME youth ministry organizations.

"Just seeing them and going to their retreats got me interested," said Ricky, who has attended Cooke County College the past year while helping at this father's business. The last two years, he has attended the NET youth retreat in San Antonio. "And that got me more interested," he said.

Over the next year, Ricky will be a part of a NET ministry which evolved from retreats held at the St. Paul Catholic Youth Center the past 19 years in the Archdiocese of St. Paul-Minneapolis, Minnesota. Since 1981, NET has established itself in 33 states, five Canadian provinces, 47 dioceses and Brisbane, Australia, with more than 80,000 young people attending the teams' evangelistic events annually.

All of Ricky's expenses will be paid except for $2,400 that he will need to raise between now and Aug. 23 to pay for his insurance and miscellaneous expenses while on the road. He's working to raise those funds now. Ricky said he plans to stay in close touch with the Muenster community through frequent letters describing his travels and experiences.

All retreats given by NET teams include the use of music, games, small group discussions, teachings, drama, personal faith-sharing and liturgy. Retreats include a wide range of topics from experiencing God's love, self-image, preparing for Confirmation and obstacles to God's love. Throughout this year, Ricky will be working as a team member closely with the parish priests and communities in spreading the Good News and helping young people to make Jesus part of their lives.

Ricky Walterscheid hopes he can do his small part in bringing Christ to youth this year as a member of the National Evangelization Team (NET).

Couple exchange vows in Killeen July 21

Mary Grace Hartman and David Castor were united in marriage at 2 p.m. Saturday at St. Joseph's Catholic Church in Killeen. The Rev. Everett Trebtoke, associate pastor at the church, was officiant for the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard A. Hartman of Killeen and the granddaughter of Mrs. Victor Hartman of Muenster and the late Victor Hartman. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eluterio Castor of Killeen.

Barbara Gulig, organist, Billy Stefek, guitarist, and Jim Barga, flutist, provided wedding music. Recy Terry, Shaun Terry, Della Ross and Carol Daude were soloists.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a formal gown of white satin, fashioned with short, Schiffl-trimmed Elizabethan sleeves and a cathedral-length train. Pearl beading, iridescent sequins and cut-out Schiffl lace trimmed the lattice-patterned sheer insert on the Sabrina neckline and the fitted bodice. The bodice extended into a deep, pointed Basque waistline medallion. Medallions and inserts in lattice and scroll patterns decorated the full skirt, which was edged with a Schiffl-embroidered hem. Her crescent headdress, borrowed from her sister-in-law, featured tiny white satin roses and seed pearls and held a ruffled illusion veil. She carried a bouquet of white roses, stephanotis, and pink baby's breath complemented with tea roses and lily of the valley. Pink and white satin ribbons accented the arrangement. She wore crystal earrings that belong to her mother and a diamond necklace, which was a gift from the groom.

Madonna Ramos of Belton, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Maid of honor was Margaret Hartman of Austin, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Sue Hoffman of Plano, Amelia Hartman, sister-in-law of the bride, and Patricia Castor, sister of the groom. Olivia and Jessica Ramos, nieces of the bride, were flower girls.

Leo Bernal of Killeen served as best man. Groomsmen were Mike Hartman of Houston, brother of the bride, Tommy Anderson of Killeen, Ralph Castor and Edward Castor, both of Killeen and brothers of the groom. Joey Ramos, nephew of the bride, and David C. Guiboa, nephew of the groom, were ringbearers. Joe Ramos, brother-in-law of the bride, and Russell Doubrava were candlelighters.

A reception and dance were held at the Grand Ballroom of the Fort Hood Officer's Club later that evening.

After a wedding trip to Hawaii and Las Vegas, the couple will live in Georgetown. The bride is a special education teacher. The groom is employed at Electronic Data Systems in Killeen.

Among relatives attending were: Grandmother Margaret Hartman; Alvin and Joanie Hartman; Bobby and Sharlene Hartman; Shannon and Daima; Chris Pagel; Kenny and Rhonda Hartman; Holly, Courtney and Nolan, all of Muenster.

'Open new hearts to the arts' at BSP Theatre

Butterfield Stage hopes to "Open new hearts to the arts" as they begin their 1990-91 season membership drive. According to BSP Manager Lisa Carson, the upcoming season offers a great selection in theatrical entertainment and new possibilities for artistic growth and development.

The 90-91 season will welcome new resident director, Thom Talbott, to the theatre staff. As director of past BSP offerings, "The Man Who Came to Dinner," "The Odd Couple," "Noises Off" and "Come Blow Your Horn," Talbott has shared his comic touch and directorial abilities with many BSP audiences. With a B.A. and M.A. in Theater, as well as being the recipient of various theatrical awards and scholarships, Butterfield Stage is pleased to have Talbott join the playhouse staff. His addition is viewed as a means to further enhance future productions and educate future local directors and theatre volunteers.

Also slated within the 90-91 season is another first for the theatre. The Players will be entering the American Association of Community Theatres' Festival. This endeavor gives the BSP an opportunity to present its work and its community to other theatres in the state and beyond. BSP's production of "Graceland" will enter the first phase of the festival at the Garland Civic Theatre in March 1991.

Beyond the new plans mentioned, most importantly, the Players will be offering a wonderful season of plays and musicals. The theatre season opens Sept. 6 with "Another Op'nin", "Another Show," a musical evening inspired by the music and wit of Cole Porter; "The Foreigner," a hilarious comedy, is slated in November; in January, the contemporary southern comedy, "Steel Magnolias," takes to the boards; the festival entry, "Graceland," has performances in February; and in April, the ever-popular "Mame" provides the musical finale to an exciting season.

Membership to the theatre offers its patrons almost 50 percent off box office prices, advance reservations, unrestricted use of admissions (except for the musicals), upcoming news concerning theatre activities, and the satisfaction of supporting the local theatre and its growth and programs, which include scholarship and educational opportunities. BSP memberships are available now. For more information, please call 665-8152 or write P.O. Box 251, Gainesville, TX 76240. The BSP hopes to see their "seasonational" shared by all.

Take precautions to help prevent falls in elderly

Falls are a leading cause of death among people 65 and older. Those at greatest risk of falling may not be the most feeble, says the Texas Medical Association, but those who have not yet recognized or adapted to the changes associated with aging.

Physical changes include loss of coordination, weakness in the muscles that control the knees and ankles, and impaired vision and hearing. Diseases or conditions such as arthritis, stroke, Parkinson's disease, Alzheimer's disease, and diabetes (leading to reduced sensation in the legs) also can increase the chances of falling.

Medications may create many problems. For example, blood pressure prescriptions can cause light-headedness, and diuretics can result in weakness. Tranquilizers, antihistamines, and barbiturates can slow mental and physical processes. Alcohol, the most common self-administered sedative, also can play a role in falls.

Most falls occur during ordinary daytime activity. Contrary to popular belief, living rooms and bedrooms - not the bathroom - are where most falls occur. Going down stairs can be especially hazardous.

The elderly and their families can take steps to reduce the risks of falls. Get regular physical exams to check vision, hearing, balance, strength, and mental status. Have the physician review all prescriptions, including automatic refills, to take into account the older person's changing physiology.

At home, clean out the medicine cabinet to get rid of any outdated prescriptions. With current prescriptions, follow dosage and administration instructions exactly. In some cases, elderly people may need help working out a system for remembering where to locate their medicine, when to take it, and how much to take.

The high cost of medications hits the elderly hard and sometimes results in their choosing not to get prescriptions filled, omitting doses when they feel okay, or sharing prescriptions with a spouse or friend. Financial help may be necessary.

Other precautions include a thorough evaluation of the elderly person's home. Check for proper lighting, repair stairs or walkways, install grab bars and non-stick surfaces in bathtubs, and remove loose rugs, for example.

encourage the elderly to wear shoes that fit properly and get regular physical exercise, such as walking.

The Texas Medical Association is a professional organization of more than 29,000 physician and medical student members. It is based in Austin and has 117 component county medical societies around the state. The Association represents more than 80 percent of the state's physicians, and its goal is to improve the health of Texans through the professional and personal development of its members.

Does your sponsorship give local school support?

With football season just around the corner, local businesses are getting hit from all sides to help finance schedules, programs and other school supported activities.

The past week, an out-of-town salesman rolled into town to sell adds on a placard with football schedules for Sacred Heart, Muenster, Dallas Cowboys, Southwest Conference and Big 8 Schools. Eight local businesses gave their OK to help sponsor the sheet at a fairly high price.

When one business owner discovered that no proceeds went the local schools, they canceled their ad.

When the salesman was contacted Monday afternoon by the Muenster Enterprise, he admitted no money was given to the schools in Muenster. "Some sell and keep the profit," he said, "or they can give it to their local booster club or any organization." He said the printer makes money and he gets a certain commission, approximately $200.

He also stated that the advertisers "get a lot of distribution from these...it's pretty good advertising." He said that 1,000 schedules are printed with each advertiser and each school receiving 100 copies each.

Several of the local merchants who advertise with this group were asked their thoughts about their purchase. When asked if they thought Muenster's schools profited from their support, one stated: "I was under the impression that it (the money) went the (local) schools," while another "figured at least part of it would go to the schools." Other merchants said No - "not really." "I didn't think it did, it would have been one of their selling points," and "I knew no money went to the schools last year, but I didn't go this year." "This is my third year...the first year I understood the school made the profit...I just get it every year."

When asked if they thought they were getting good money for the dollars, the answers included, "No, not really, the only reason was to help the school out," "I think the schedules are nice...they gave me 100 last year, just 10 were picked up." Another business owner also said they had a stack left from last year. One advertiser said "It was cheap for me, I was going to quit, but he gave a better deal."

When asked if they would help sponsor the placard next year - "Don't know - last year I never saw a schedule up, but they told me the school passes them out," "Not if it (the proceeds) don't go to the schools," all answers were negative.

Gertie Wimmer is presently selling sponsor spots on the Muenster Hornet Football program. She commented that earlier this week she was turned down by a Muenster merchant who had just agreed to purchase an ad on the placard. "Muenster businesses shouldn't support out-of-town sales gimmicks," said Mrs. Wimmer, "they should give only when approached locally." Gertie also stated that the merchants are the ones that are putting out the money and should know where their money goes.

Don't be afraid to ask the seller how much profit goes to the school.

Purple martins roosting under bridge

Motorists are asked to slow down to 15 mph when crossing the U.S. Highway 190 bridge over the Trinity River at Lake Livingston between 6:30 a.m. and 8:30-9 p.m.

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department biologist Brent Ortego said the annual roosting of purple martins at the bridge runs from early June to late August. When the birds arrive at sunset and leave at sunrise, they fly low over the highway in a swarm and frequently are hit by passing vehicles. Extra care when traveling in this area may help to avoid additional problems. The Department of Highways and Public Transportation will soon be erecting signs to warn motorists, Ortego said.

On July 6, Ortego observed 20,000 martins going to roost under the bridge. About 20 birds were killed by passing motorists during the 15 minutes it took them to settle down for the night.

"This may be one of the largest martin roosts in the state," he said.

The purple martin is a very popular and common occupant of bird houses in yards. Their song, constant activity and insect-eating habits make them welcomed visitors to many Texans. After nesting and raising their young from April to June, purple martins concentrate at large roosts through August prior to migrating to South America for the winter.

Anglers should brush up on regulations lingo

Slot limits, aggregate limits and possession limits are just a few of the terms Texas fishermen need to be familiar with before heading to the lake.

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials said some of the basic terminology found in the agency's fishing regulations guide continues to be misinterpreted or misunderstood by some anglers.

The following are just a few of the phrases that may be troublesome to some anglers:

Aggregate Limit: Aggregate means a combination, so when the regulation says "five largemouth, smallmouth and spotted bass in the aggregate," it means the angler can retain five bass in any combination of the three species. This could be all five of one species, or a combination such as three largemouth, one smallmouth and one spotted.

Slot Limit: This is a relatively new concept in fishery management, designed to protect valuable middle-sized black bass while allowing harvest of bass in the smaller and larger size classes. The

Illegal striper catches costs anglers $48,900

AUSTIN - Judges in two local Texas counties assessed fines totaling $48,900 against 64 fishermen caught committing violations below Lake Texoma.

After receiving several Operation Game Thief calls about anglers keeping undersized and excessive amounts of striped bass in the Texoma tailwaters, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials began a surveillance operation. The operation totaled about four days between June 30 and July 7, said Bill Daniel, Law Enforcement Regional Director from Mt. Pleasant, Oklahoma officials conducted an investigation from the Oklahoma side.

Daniel said officers contacted 64 anglers committing violations and confiscated 988 stripers. The largest weighed 26 pounds, but officers confiscated several fish weighing less than two pounds. Officers filed 433 cases in Justice of the Peace courts in Collin and Grayson counties. One fish constituted one case. The total amount of fish confiscated doesn't include fish that were legal and didn't go over an angler's bag limit, he said.

"Work is still continuing at various times. It will continue until we feel like it's deterred (illegal fishing) in some way," Daniel said.

Judge Jim Murrell of Collin County and Judges Bob Umphress and Frank Jolls of Grayson County assessed fines totaling $48,900. Through July 13, $23,895 had been collected.

Only about the first 300 yards of the tailwater behind Texoma is in Texas waters, Daniel said. There is an 18-inch minimum length limit and five fish daily bag limit.

FISHING REPORT

MOSS LAKE: Water clear, 78 degrees, normal level; black bass are slow; crappie are good to 15 fish per string on minnows in the brush in 15 feet of water; white bass are good in number but most are small on Bayou Boogies, spoons; catfish are good to 10 fish per string to 6 pounds on TEXOMA: Water clear, 83 degrees, 18 inches high; black bass are good to 5 1/2 pounds on pig and jig; striper are good to 18 pounds on live bait and slabs; crappie are fair to 6 fish per string on minnows; white bass are good to 3 pounds on topwaters; catfish are excellent to 20 pounds on shrimp and nightcrawlers.

Bowhunters prepare for next season hunt

Summer time, and the livin' is easy. It's a time to laze around the backyard, sip a cool drink and spend a day relaxing and fishing. Actions like this may hold true for some sportsmen but it doesn't wash for bowhunters. The summer months are when sick-and-string hunters begin getting prepared for fall bow hunts.

There are many things to do to prepare for bow hunts which will start within several short weeks. Archers have their bow in get ready, sights to adjust, new arrows to buy, fine tuning of their equipment, and many hours of practice are needed to be confident of making a bow kill on any big game animal.

Now is the time to do it. Hunters who wait until a week before a hunt are doing themselves and the big game they hunt a terrible disservice.

Countless hours will be spent making sure my broadheads are razor sharp. Each arrow will be tested to be sure it is absolutely straight, and that the broadheads line up the same way on the arrow rest once an arrow is nocked for a shot.

My bow sight will be checked and zeroed in for a personal anchor point. If you are like many older hunters who have deteriorating eye sight, and cannot focus on a sight pin any longer, it may be wise to check into the use of a Tasco Pro Point sight. This sight has an internal lighted red dot that is rheostat controlled, and it can be mounted to a bow for pinpoint accuracy at ranges to 50 yards.

Bow quivers must be checked to prevent any last-minute rattles or noises when drawing down on a nice buck. Quality camo paint jobs can be performed on the bow to prevent any light glare, and a tool kit for instant bow adjustments can be pulled together.

A good bow is like an extension of the hunter. A bowhunter must be totally familiar with the bow, the arrow and the sights. Once shooting a bow becomes second nature, and accuracy is guaranteed, only then is a person really ready to hit the woods in search of game.

True bowhunters plan on taking only one shot at big game. They learn the habits of the game they seek, and when they make their draw and release, the result is a perfect hit.

14-21 slot is in effect on only seven Texas reservoirs. Under the slot limit, anglers are allowed to retain only bass shorter than 14 inches or longer than 21 inches. Thus, fish between the 14- and 21-inch size are said to be in the protected "slot." Slot limit lakes have a daily bag limit of three bass.

Minimum and Maximum Lengths: Some fish species, such as spotted seatrout, have only a minimum length limit. Anglers can retain 10 spotted seatrout per day, and all those retained must be at least 15 inches long. For other species such as the black drum, there is both a minimum and maximum length limit. Anglers are allowed to retain three black drum per day, and all those retained must measure longer than 14 inches but less than 30 inches. This type of limit is designed to protect smaller, immature fish and also the larger individuals that are valuable spawners.

Possession Limit: The regulations say "possession limit" means the maximum number of a species that may be possessed at one time.

Length Measurement: A fish must be measured lying on its side on a flat surface with its jaw closed and the tail fin squeezed together or turned in a way to obtain the maximum overall length.

Another matter to be aware of when checking the department's fishing regulations is a chart showing statewide bag and size limits for all game fish. Be sure to check the list of exceptions because some reservoirs have special limits that are different from the statewide limits.

Officials remind anglers that fishing licenses expire Aug. 31 each year. The 1990-91 licenses and regulations guides will be available from department offices across the state during August.
