Muenster spared from tornadoes' devastation

by Janet Felderhoff

Relief from drought came Monday and Tuesday for this area, but not without a high price for many. Mother Nature showed her sinister streak Tuesday afternoon in Cooke County.

Around 3 p.m. Tuesday the western sky revealed ominous clouds approaching and weather reports indicated that Cooke County was under tornado watch. Before 3:30 p.m. the sky opened, dumping rain and hail. Local reports on the size of hail stones ranged from pea to golf ball size in town, to as large as baseballs south of Muenster.

At 3:30 p.m. the Cooke County Sheriff's Department notified Muenster that tornadoes had been spotted south of Muenster. City officials blew the siren — at one minute intervals (the fire siren sounds constantly). The siren was used to alert people to the possible danger of a tornado until 4:15 p.m.

According to Muenster Fire Chief Herbie Knabe the siren is manned in such situations as long as there is immediate danger. There have been no reports of any local damage from tornadoes.

Reports from Saint Jo indicate that one rancher lost at least 17 head of cattle. Eight of these were found in a pond where they had been dropped. J. R. Thompson Rock Crusher received damage to equipment and had a mobile home office blown over. Trees were uprooted and there was extensive damage to electric lines.

"It was a big one. If the tornado hadn't stayed on the hill it would have destroyed Saint Jo. People were video taping it from two miles away in town," Rebecca Smith, publisher of the Saint Jo Tribune, commented on the tornado outside of Saint Jo. Those observing it noted that the tornado seemed to remain in one spot rather than traveling. Some thought it appeared to be digging into the ground. Some said it stripped grass from the ground in its path.

Lindsay was also threatened by a tornado. It passed south of town damaging David Huchton's barn along Cooke County Road 306 and Mike Kendall's barn and hay and Kenny Krebs' pick-up along County Road 352. Lindsay school children were kept in the safety of designated areas until the danger had passed. Charlie Meurer, Lindsay coach, reported watching from the field house as the tornado passed south of Lindsay.

Gainesville was not so fortunate. Homes on Floral Drive were destroyed or damaged to varying degrees. Lucy Oehler resides on Aster Street just off Floral Drive. When Mrs. Oehler heard the warning siren she turned on the television. There was nothing on TV so she headed for the bathroom to take cover. It hit just as she got to the bathroom. Lucy took shelter in the tub, covering up with three pillows and a blanket. "If it wasn't for the warning signal ... that saved my life," she commented.

The twister ripped off the roof and ceiling of Mrs. Oehler's home. Although daylight was showing through the ceiling, knick-knacks remained untouched on shelves.

On Wednesday Lucy Oehler was being assisted with packing and storing her belongings. The good Samaritans were students at Cooke County College of Denton. They were classmates of Lucy's neighbor Kelly Heilman. Heilman was waiting for insurance adjusters to arrive so she could start cleaning up her home. Her classmates had come to help, but couldn't do anything at the Heilman home until the insurance people gave the O.K.

Sunset Village Mobile Home Park saw 15 of its 67 homes destroyed. All of the other homes received some type of damage. The residents who were at home when

Walterscheid challenges Voth for City Council position

by Dave Fette

The Muenster City Council election, set for next Saturday, May 7, will fill three positions. Arthur Hennigan is the only candidate for the seat he currently holds, Place 4. Henry Weinzapfel is the only candidate for Place 2, currently held by Rick Stewart, who chose not to run for re-election.

The spotlight, however, is on the only contest, that between incumbent Fran Voth and challenger Bert Walterscheid. Voth has consistently sided with Mayor Bill Miller and against the majority of the city council in recent controversies. They mostly concerned applications for federal grant money.

Voth is running for her second term on the council. She said she ran in the beginning because she was concerned about taxes and she thought the council was bogged down. "I'd like to hang on now and see it through on projects like the library, the water system and sewer system. The city does not have a plan of action, no business plan, no advance planning," she said. "I've separated areas of bookkeeping but Celine (City Secretary Celine Dittfurth) still does too much." Voth and Miller have both complained about the opposition to their plans.

"Art Hennigan fights every idea we put before him," she said, "but I'm willing to try and get the help of the rest of the council."

Voth has 22 years of business experience and has studied accounting in college. She denies accusations that she and the mayor are handling city business outside City Hall. "I handle a lot of the mayor's leg work and paper work for him because he's too busy. He told me he would consider quitting if I'm not re-elected," she said. "We have three council members conferring together to have everything cut and dried before the meetings, no debate, no honest vote and they're trying to elect a relative to do even more."

Mayor Bill Miller made these comments, "I want to thank all the people who signed up for a new seat or are running for re-election on the council. I am looking forward to having an improved relationship with the future council."

"The only position with opposition is Place 1 now being held by Fran Voth. I am asking you to keep Fran Voth on the council. She is fair and honest in her voting and does not form a 'clique' with other council members."

"It makes me ineffective as mayor to have to fight a 'clique' at every meeting."

Council member Mike Trubenbach and Bert Walterscheid are cousins, but both say they don't always see eye-to-eye. Trubenbach is actively campaigning for Walterscheid. "I'm tired of spending my time and energy working and then not see the majority council decision honored. Since I've been on, all we've done is buy a loader and a truck and we hear about that at every meeting," he stated. "We're bogged down and in a dangerous position with no progress on a new water well. Please, turn out and vote for progress."

Bert Walterscheid is an independent carpenter and trustee member of the Volunteer Fire Department. He is a certified emergency care attendant and member of the Muenster Jaycees, where he has held several officer positions and been honored as Key Man.

Walterscheid says he is running because he is tired of all the fighting. "I hope I can be more peaceful and cooperative. I will be dedicated to working together and working for the progress of the city. I think the mayor has been trying to exercise too much power. I will do my own thinking, stand on my own

1994 'Fest great

PICTURE-PERFECT WEATHER drew large crowds to Muenster for the 19th annual Germanfest celebration last weekend. Margie Starke, Muenster Chamber of Commerce secretary and 'Fest organizer, noted that Saturday boasted the highest attendance in Germanfest history. An estimated 39,000 people came to Muenster to take part in the three-day celebration of Muenster's German heritage. Approximately 1,800 riders took advantage of the three courses offered in the Metric Century Bicycle Rally on Saturday. There were around 1,900 runners signed up for Sunday's German Fun Run.

Co-op deals with storm damage

by Eric Williams

Twisters caused a major outage and numerous minor ones for Cooke County Cooperative Tuesday. Debris from demolished structures were blown into the Gainesville Substation, knocking out power for more than four hours. The substation, situated on Walnut Bend Road, serves the area generally east of Interstate 35 and north of Highway 82.

Sheet metal blowing into conductor and high voltage transformers caused a flash that was visible for several miles. A twister also crumpled transmission and distribution poles in the substation area. Damage was so severe that a Brazos Electric Cooperative mobile substation had to be brought to the site from Granbury. Brazos is the wholesale power supplier for Cooke County Electric Cooperative.

Crews from both cooperatives worked until 11:07 p.m. to get the power back on for the circuits that feed power to Callisburg, Oak Ridge, Dexter and Walnut Bend. Another breaker tripped in the early morning hours, but the outage was not believed to be directly related to the weather.

Besides the substation damage, cooperative crews had to repair broken poles and broken conductors southwest of Saint Jo, south of Lindsay, northeast of Gainesville and on Old Denton Road.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:
Two important reminders for Cub Scout and Boy Scout parents. First, for boys wishing to join Cub Scouting, May is Sign-Up Month. Parents should bring their son to the May 2 meeting at 7 p.m. at the VFW Hall on South Main. There are levels from first grade through fifth grade and boys enter with rank at their own age level.
Secondly, and this applies to both Cub Scout and Boy Scout parents, if any parent wishes to take part in, or accompany, Cub or Boy Scouts on any activity, that parent will need to be certified by the National Boy Scouts in Family Protection. This is a new rule change which is to better protect the boys and parents.
Muenster is fortunate to be sponsoring a local seminar on May 3 at the VFW Hall on South Main in Muenster at 7 p.m. There will be only one seminar in Muenster and all other parents will be required to travel to Fort Worth for the seminar in the future.

Both parents, or legal parent or guardians, are very strongly encouraged to attend if they wish for their boy to continue in Scouting. There is no fee, no test, no homework required. You may wish to bring a notepad. Cub and Boy Scouts DO NOT attend this seminar.

Sincerely,

Exemptions reduce tax bills

Homeowners can reduce their property tax bills in 1994 by taking advantage of exemptions. Application forms are available at the Cooke County Appraisal District office.

Chief Appraiser Ross Fry informs homeowners that Texas law allows them to file a one-time application for home exemptions. These exemptions reduce the appraised value of the home.

Property owners who have never received exemptions on their homes in which they were living on Jan. 1, 1994, and those who became 65 or disabled during 1993, must apply this year to receive exemptions for 1994. Homeowners must file signed, completed applications at the Appraisal Office by Saturday, April 30.

Property Tax Exemptions Available for Disabled Veterans

"Veterans with a service-connected disability can reduce their property taxes in 1994 by filing out a simple exemption form at the Cooke County Appraisal District office," Chief Appraiser Ross Fry said.

"Any eligible person who has not received this exemption must apply by April 30," Fry said. "But, if you received the exemption in 1993, you do not have to reapply in 1994."

An applicant can claim the exemption on only one piece of property, such as a home or any other property the applicant owned on Jan. 1. The applicant must be a Texas resident to qualify.

Obtain an application form and more information about specific qualifications from Cooke County Appraisal District office at 200 West California Street, or call 817-665-7651.

MISD Board elections: candidate profiles

by Elaine Schad

The Muenster School Board election will feature two contested races, with four incumbents and two newcomers seeking election to three-year terms on the board.

Voting in the May 7 school board election will be held in the foyer of Muenster High School between 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. Early voting will continue through May 3 at the Muenster school administration office between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Two contested races will be on the ballot. In Place 2, Peggy Lutkenhaus will face Jeff Gerstberger for a one-year unexpired term. Lutkenhaus was appointed in August to replace Dennis Hess who resigned his seat. In Place 5, incumbent Harold Bindel will be facing Neil Huchton. Two other races are uncontested, with incumbent Tom Hartman seeking re-election to a second term on the board in Place 6. Incumbent Leon Klement, who presently serves as school board president, is running unopposed for his Place 7 position. Klement is seeking re-election to a second term, but he has served a total of 12 years on the board, serving two terms earlier before leaving the board for a time.

All candidates running for the Muenster school board believe the Muenster school district has a strong reputation for both academic and athletic excellence. All candidates agree that their goal is to see that the school stays on the right track as one of the best public schools in the state as education progresses through this decade. All candidates also agree that finances will be the school district's greatest challenge in coming years, as the board will continue to work with school officials in providing the best programs for the children of the Muenster school district while trying to stretch dollars being provided by overburdened taxpayers.

The Place 2 race features two relative newcomers, both of whom say they would be excited to get a chance to offer their ideas as members of the board of trustees.

PEGGY LUTKENHAUS: Lutkenhaus, 35, has three children attending Muenster schools. "For me, I'm real concerned about everybody getting an education," she said. "Some of these kids have it so hard, I just want them to be pushed in the right direction."

Lutkenhaus is excited about the district's proposed new block scheduling, which is expected to provide more class options to students. She wants to make sure that all students, regardless of their ability levels or their area of interest, will be able to get the best education possible with the funds available. "I want the kids who can handle it to be in the advanced classes, but I also want to make sure that we teach everyone," she said.

Lutkenhaus sees finances as a continuing major problem because, "the state really doesn't have a plan." She said it will be a challenge for the district to deal with continued state-mandated pay raises, the 22:1 student-teacher ratio, and other state mandates while trying to make tax dollars stretch farther. She would like people to vote for her, "because I'm a concerned parent, a taxpayer and a property owner."

JEFF GERSTBERGER: Gerstberger, 40, said he wants to get more involved in the educational process, and would like to see the Muenster school district excel above the other schools in the state and be a leader in all areas, including both academics and athletics. "I don't see any need for any big changes right now," Gerstberger said. He moved to Muenster because of its reputation for academic excellence. "I want to be there and get involved," he said.

Gerstberger has been a Muenster resident since 1986 and is a salesman for Catt-L-Lac Liquid Feed. He moved to Muenster from Leoti, Kansas. Gerstberger has a degree in Agriculture Economics from Kansas State University. He has four daughters attending school in the Muenster ISD.

"I think Muenster is one of the best school systems around," Gerstberger said. "The Muenster ISD has a strong moral base, and I want to make sure it stays that way," he said.

A major challenge for the school district will continue to be money, according to Gerstberger. "I'm a conservative, and I think I can help out in that part," he said.

Incumbent Harold Bindel is facing Neil Huchton for the Place 5 position.

HAROLD BINDEL: Bindel, 55 and a dairyman, is seeking a fifth term on the Muenster School Board and was a former vice president of the board. He sees the board as moving the district forward over the years, with most recent accomplishments including the new gymnasium, adding science rooms and new elementary classrooms. He said he continues to be interested in serving on the board, and has grandchildren who attend the Muenster ISD.

"We're going to have to watch what we spend," Bindel said of the money situation in the district. "It's going to be a hard road because we're considered a rich school district." Bindel hopes people will vote for him because of his experience on the board.

NEIL HUCHTON: Huchton, 37, is owner of Neil's Phillip 66, and thinks one of his strong points as a board member would be that he would be available to people since he is self-employed and is readily accessible at his station. He has two children attending Muenster schools.

"I think I'm young, and I've got some fresh ideas," he said as his reason for running for the school board. "I'm in the community, and they can come by and talk if they want," he said.

Huchton thinks it's a good idea to offer a varied curriculum that would allow both college-bound students to get what they need as well as those who are more oriented toward technical fields. "Somebody's got to push the shovel, and it's good to teach those who are more technical who don't want to go in the direction of college," he said.

Huchton also listed money as the biggest challenge facing the Muenster schools in coming years. "Being in business for myself, I think I know how to stretch a dollar," he said.

Two incumbents are running unopposed for the Place 6 and Place 7 positions.

TOM HARTMAN: Hartman, 49, is a rancher and has two sons attending the Muenster ISD. He is seeking a second term on the board.

"I think we have an excellent school compared to the state standards, but the state makes it rougher every year," he said. "Academically, we've excelled every year, and we're trying to incorporate technology to enable students to go out and function in society," Hartman said. He thinks the district is committed to giving students additional offerings so that they can have more real-life experiences.

As for goals as a board member, Hartman would like the board to work on continued improvement to the curriculum, especially for those students who are not college-bound. "Everything is becoming so specialized, we need to give the skills needed to the kids who are heading to college, but we also need to provide skills to those who are not college-bound, so they can then go out and get a job," he said.

Finances were also at the top of Hartman's list as the major challenge for the Muenster ISD. "We're going to have to let the legislature know that there's got to be another way of funding (besides property taxes)," Hartman said. He thinks a sales tax fund would be a more equitable way to fund education. "If they (the state) keep doing what they're doing, we're going to have to continue to fill in the gaps," he said.

"Civic Outlook"

by Mayor Bill Miller

History has proven over and over that liberty and a free market economy are essential for the success of a government. In short, "We the people..." have experienced the most orderly way of life.

By contrast, a planned economy and centralized government has failed everywhere, all around the globe. It failed in Russia, failed in China, failed in Cuba, failed in Mexico, failed in Poland and in every country it was tried.

What makes the difference? Freedom. Freedom to be an entrepreneur. Out of the 20 million companies in America, one and a half million entrepreneurs have created about 90 percent of all the new jobs during the past 20 years.

This success in America was the result of the courageous men who fought for our freedom, giving us the liberty to start up and operate small and family businesses. As individual experience and achievement created an atmosphere of progress and growth in our small businesses, the country prospered along with it.

However, a surprising twist to our past experience of liberty and progress is Bill and Hillary Clinton. We should take fault with the new planned health care plan. This plan is written under the same plan destined to failure as experienced by country after country.

It is scary to think that our leaders would be foolish enough to adopt a plan fashioned after a plan already proven unsuccessful, the health business is estimated to be one-seventh of American business. The size of the federal government is estimated to double in size. Plump taxation will be needed to support the plump government bureaucracy created.

In the process of eliminating the competition, quality of service and progress will be secondary to how many doctors and nurses will be assigned to how many patients.

How long will we have to stand in line to get a check-up or treatment when we are ill? And will there be a shortage of medicine to take care of us after we stand in line for many, many hours?

Wouldn't it be simpler for government to eliminate the high cost of malpractice insurance which is the cause of outrageous costs in health care?

TASB special committee recommends revenue, taxation changes

Submitted by MISD Superintendent Steve Cooper

With the state expected to face another multibillion funding shortfall, $2.4 billion more needed to fund SB 7, and mounting pressure on local property taxes, TASB's Special Committee on School Revenue and Funding has recommended that lawmakers broaden the state's sales tax base or raise the rate as a short-term strategy for generating additional state funding for Texas public schools.

The committee, which began meeting in November 1993, recommended the sales tax changes to address the state's acute, short-term funding needs. According to committee research, legislators will face an estimated $2 - $6 billion budget shortfall when they meet again next year. With most local school districts expected to reach their maximum authorized local taxing capacity in less than four years and more than $2 billion needed to fund SB 7 next biennium, the committee agreed that changes in the state's sales tax may have to occur to generate additional needed revenue.

The committee's recommendations include broadening the sales tax base to include residential gas and electricity, industrial gas and electricity, water (with exemptions for a basic level of personal consumption), and agricultural gas and electricity. According to estimates prepared by committee consultants, the suggested sales tax expansion would raise $2.4 billion in the 1996-97 biennium, enough to meet the increased spending requirements of SB 7.

As an alternative, the committee has suggested that lawmakers raise the current sales tax rate. Each one-quarter percent increase in the sales tax rate on the current sales tax base would raise roughly $800 million in new revenue in the next biennium. In recommending a sales tax base expansion or rate increase, the committee also discussed the need to first scrutinize the state budget and reduce state spending wherever possible.

In addition to short-term revenue measures, the committee recommended a long-term revenue strategy involving the restructuring of the state's tax system. Such restructuring, the committee stated, should involve reducing local school property taxes and exploring new sources of revenue, including a state personal income tax.

In the area of school finance, the committee proposed that legislators reduce the reliance on local property taxes, ensure adequate funding, and prevent additional unfunded state mandates. The committee also recommended that lawmakers provide a comprehensive program of equalized funding for public school facilities, maintain program weights for special student populations and adjustments for small schools and cost differences, limit the amount of local property tax dollars recaptured by the state, and provide a high level of access to funding by establishing a numerical equity standard in the state constitution. Committee members also urged legislators to maintain the current constitutional standards of judicial review in school funding cases.

TASB's Grassroots Legislative Advisory Council was expected to vote in late April on whether to include the committee's findings in the Association's proposed Legislative Program for 1994-96.

feet and work with the council."

He says a high priority for him would be getting a water well drilled this summer. "I don't know exactly how to pay for it, but step by step I think we can handle it," he said.

Concerning possible violations of the Open Meetings Rules, Walterscheid doesn't think there is anything wrong with sharing information as long as there is no intent to deceive and no decisions are made. "We should be able to work together and trust each other," he said.

"Until I take the first steps, I don't know all the answers but I'm doing this on my own. Some have asked me if I'm going to run, but it's my idea," Walterscheid said.

Henry Weinzapfel brings to the council his experience as a former president of the Muenster Jaycees, president of the Chamber of Commerce and many years as executive vice-president of Muenster State Bank. He responded to several citizens' request to take a more active role in community service. Weinzapfel said, "I think the council has had trouble establishing goals and achieving goals. I feel I can offer direction and may be a mediator in conflict. The personality conflicts we've seen are hampering essential projects for the good of the city."

The future alderman spoke of his desire to develop plans for future years which address expansion of the city limits and water and sewer systems without excessive taxation.

He said meeting discussion should be limited to essentials, then called to vote or directed to the proper commissioner. "We need a plan of action and subsequent action, not continuous tabling of problems," he said.

Arthur Hennigan is unopposed in seeking his third term on the council. He is not happy that nothing is being accomplished by city government and hopes to get away from the bickering which has plagued the meetings.

Hennigan has led the fight against the mayor's efforts to obtain federal grant money to help finance water system improvements, thus earning Miller's criticisms for being against progress. Hennigan has adamantly insisted that all city business be handled through City Hall after he found that some correspondence and phone calls concerning the grant had gone to Miller's business office in Gainesville.

Hennigan concluded, "At first, we didn't all vote the same but we came to a consensus and went on ahead; I want to get back to it."

Registered Muenster city voters may cast their ballots for these candidates at the Muenster High School lobby from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m., Saturday, May 7.

Assistance rolls into Gainesville

Even as shocked residents emerged from the places they had taken refuge in, emergency crews were gearing up to do what they are trained in - assisting those in need. Area police and fire departments sent the personnel that could be spared to assist in Gainesville. After all was clear in Muenster, two Muenster police officers and units and seven volunteer firemen responded to the call for assistance.

Cooke County Chapter of the American Red Cross is in dire need of monetary donations, according to Susan Case of Gainesville P.D. "The local Red Cross is strapped financially," she reported. "There have been five house fires in the last two weeks and now the tornado." Donations are needed, too, for sheltering the people who have lost their homes or have no place to stay while repairs are made. Some are being housed at Hillcrest Church of Christ, 1712 O'Neal in Gainesville. Donations will be used to buy food and provide other physical needs.

Monetary donations can be sent to Cooke County Chapter American Red Cross, P.O. Box 1613, Gainesville, TX 76240. "All will be used for this disaster," noted Glenda McKee, Chapter Manager for Cooke County Red Cross.

Presently the local chapter is giving varying degrees of assistance to 212 families. "Those who have lost everything will be getting the most help," she said. McKee could not indicate what other items were specifically needed at this time. Donations had poured in today and had to be inventoried before she would have a clear picture of what they had and what was needed. An update on this list will be given in the next issue of the Muenster Enterprise.

Muenster's Social Concerns Committee responded by delivering a pick-up load of canned goods along with some sheets and towels. The goods were donated by Muenster Kiwanis Organization last Thursday after they collected them as part of a reduced price for carnivals rides at the Muenster Germanfest.

Patsy Bayer, chairman of the Social Concerns Committee, and her daughter, Kim Hess, delivered the goods to the Boys Club in Gainesville. They will be distributed to the different shelters set up around Gainesville. Mrs. Bayer said there were requests for towels. She was told donations of food, clothing, linens and towels could be left at the Boys Club.

Editor's note: Further reports on area damages from Tuesday's weather will be in the May 6 issue of the Muenster Enterprise. Anyone with a story or other information to share is encouraged to call the Enterprise, 759-4311 before 5 p.m. Tuesday.

the tornado struck were fortunate enough to take shelter in the park's large storm cellar. This storm cellar is credited with saving lives and preventing injuries.

Two former Muenster residents, Carol Ann Sicking Wilson and Karen Barnhill, now living in Sunset Village were among those whose homes were damaged or destroyed. Deanna Siegler, band director for Muenster and Saint Jo I.S.D.s is also a resident in Sunset Village. She could not be reached for comment.

Carol Ann and her husband, Rod "Catfish" Wilson lost their mobile home when another trailer home was blown into the wall of their home damaging it beyond repair. All possessions inside the home were fine. The couple's car was also badly damaged when another home fell on it. According to Carol Ann's mother, Mrs. Louis Sicking, the couple was at home but drove toward Denton when they heard that their home was in the storm's path. They feel this saved their pick-up from being demolished like the car.

Karen Barnhill wasn't home when the twister hit. Her trailer home had the roof blown off the kitchen and living room areas. Windows were knocked out and the interior sustained water damage. Most of Karen's possessions were salvaged.

A number of businesses along Hwy. 82 and North Interstate 35 at Gainesville suffered damages. These included Denny's Restaurant, Archie's Cycles, Wellman Veterinary Clinic, Pettit-Ward Machinery, Factory Outlet Shops, Gainesville Livestock Market Inc., Gainesville VFW Post 1922, and Refinery Road Veterinary Clinic.

Mark Rigby was at work at Valente GTE in Gainesville when the tornado plowed destructively through parts of Gainesville. "We were watching out the window and could see the tornado blowing debris from Sunset Village," Mark commented. "The sky was very orange, and as we watched, we could see another funnel forming over I-35. The clouds which contained the funnel were very white and the funnel really stood out. It only took three or four seconds from the time the tail dropped out of the clouds until it touched ground. I think that's the one that hit the VFW."

Mark and some other men started urging everyone to take shelter because the tornado was right outside. They went into a large restroom which serves as their storm shelter. Debris and hail could be heard hitting the building. When they came out, Mark said almost every car on the lot was damaged. No damage was done to the building.

Employees were then sent home to check on their families and homes and the second and third shifts were canceled. Because the phones were out at Valente, Darren Voth offered the use of his mobile phone so employees could check on loved ones.

In reporting details of what he witnessed while at work at Valente, Wesley Sicking told his mother, Mrs. Louis Sicking, that he would never forget what he saw even if he lived to be a hundred. After the worst of the afternoon storm passed Sicking went to Sunset Village to check on his sister, Carol Ann Wilson.

Susan Case, Communications Supervisor with the Gainesville Police Department, revealed in a telephone interview Wednesday afternoon that the Lexington Square Apartments is now thought to have received the worst damage. "There is more structural damage than was first realized. They might have to be completely shut down," she said.

Muenster residents were shaken by the close call on Tuesday. Memories of the destruction in Lancaster and DeSoto on Monday night were still very fresh in everyone's minds. All felt fortunate to have been spared from the storm's worst wrath. It was a very realistic practice in what to do and what not to do in a tornado threat. For others it was a unique experience. One five year old seeing large hail for the first time turned to her mother and said, "Mommy, it's raining ice cubes!"

Residents did get the rain that had been needed for some time. Mary Moser, Muenster's official record keeper for local moisture, recorded 3.13 inches during the 24 hour period from 8 a.m. Tuesday to 8 a.m. Wednesday. Another .30 inches had been recorded on Monday. Added to the .32 inches on April 3 and .21 inches on April 12, April's official total in Muenster is now 3.96 inches.

How did we do?...

Muenster officials assess local emergency actions

by Janet Felderhoff

For the first time in several years Muenster didn't participate in the state-wide tornado drill held annually during Severe Weather Awareness Week. Also for the first time in many years, Muenster's tornado warning sirens sounded not for a practice drill, but because tornadoes and funnel clouds had been spotted and logically Muenster was in their path.

Things weren't perfect. Some people panicked and did exactly what they weren't supposed to do. Both Fire Chief Herbie Knabe and Muenster Police Chief Helen Tompkins praised local teachers for the way they reacted. "I was proud of the teachers for holding the kids at school," Chief Tompkins explained. "This was more than a drill, it was the actual thing. It was more for their own sake. There are too many 'latchkey kid' situations."

When the Muenster Police Department realized that school was being dismissed at the same time that the tornado warning was put into effect, they tried to call back any school buses that had gone out. Children from the second grade classes at Sacred Heart and Muenster Public School were in Sacred Heart Church practicing for First Communion. Their teachers took them to the church basement for safety. After praying the rosary with Sister Genevieve, they enjoyed a soda pop party compliments of Janie Hartman.

In Muenster the fire siren also serves as the tornado warning system. Instead of blowing constantly as for a fire, the tornado signals blows at one minute intervals. The local siren must be sounded manually.

Muenster Police Chief Helen Tompkins noted that several people had commented that there was no message on Channel 2. She said that when the electricity went off their messages could not be transmitted and aired on the local cable channel.

Most people contacted from all sides of town were able to hear the warning siren.

A meeting was held at 4 p.m. on Wednesday at City Hall for officials from the Muenster Fire Department, Muenster Police Department, Muenster Telephone Company (Channel 2), and Milton Knauf, Muenster's Emergency Coordinator. The purpose was to discuss how everyone did and if there should be changes made to the systems in place.

TORNADOES, hail and heavy rains tore through northwest Gainesville Tuesday afternoon, leaving a trail of destruction. Above, the Lone Star Food Exxon sign on the Interstate 35 service road was blown over. Above right, Greg Thurman of Floral Drive sits in front of his home of only three months. Thurman and his wife Jenny hid in the bathroom as the storm picked up the roof, then dropped it almost back in place. At right, college student volunteers help Lucy Oehler of Aster Street box up belongings Wednesday afternoon before forecast rain adds more damage. Below, what was the garage of Roger McKinney's home, also on Aster Street off Floral Drive. The tornado pushed in the wall, causing the bricks to collapse and also shifted the roof. McKinney also used the bathroom for a shelter.

Vows exchanged in Coppel on April 16

The wedding of Gayle Denise Gressett and Scott D. BaumBach, both of Coppel, was held in St. Anne Catholic Church of Coppel on April 16, 1994 at 7:30 p.m., with Ed Scarborough officiating for the Catholic ceremony and double-ring vows, with lighting of the Unity candle.

The bride is the daughter of Thomas and Carol Gressett of Muenster. She is a 1984 graduate of R.L. Turner High School of Carrollton and is employed as appointment secretary by Dallas Diagnostic Association.

The groom is the son of Delton and Billie BaumBach of Mineral Wells. He is currently attending the University of Dallas and is employed as construction service planner by Texas Utilities Electric Company.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, before an altar decorated with pink azaleas and gladioli sprays and lighted candles. For her wedding, she chose a formal tea-length gown of ivory satin with overlay of lace on the bodice. Her double-shoulder-length veil was held by a band of roses. She carried a bridal bouquet of ivory silk roses. For sentiment and tradition, she had a 1966 penny in her shoe.

ATTENDANTS

LaRonda Sue BaumBach of Richardson, sister of the groom, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Ann Fabiah of Coppel and Kathy Moucha of Dallas, friends of the bride. They wore Daphne Rose satin gowns.

Glenn Fabian of Coppel, a friend of the groom, was his best man. Groomsmen were Doug Hutyrka of Irving and James Machovsky of Lufkin, friends of the groom. Ushers were Coy Eddleman of Denton and Jason Machovsky.

Candlelighters were Carol Gressett, bride's mother, and Billie BaumBach, groom's mother.

Liturgical Readings were given by Valencia Machovsky of Lufkin.

Wedding music was presented by Mac Cervantes, pianist, who also sang "Here I Am, Lord" and "On Eagles' Wings." "Hosea" was played for the seating of the parents. The processional was "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" and the recessional was "With Trumpets and Horns."

RECEPTION

A reception, dinner and dance were held at the Concourse Country Club in Grapevine for 125 guests.

Stephanie Wimmer, bride's cousin, presided at the guest book.

The three-tiered ivory wedding cake, decorated with pink roses, and the chocolate groom's cake, decorated with a humorous golf scene, were served by Jenny Corcoran and Kelley Wimmer, bride's cousins.

Tables were decorated with pink and ivory ribbon, and candle centerpieces in wreaths of ivory silk roses and greenery. Pink and ivory balloons floated above the dance floor.

Special guests were grandparents of the bride, Lawrence and Irene Wimmer of Muenster and Florence Gressett of Granbury.

The rehearsal dinner was hosted by Glenn and Ann Fabian at their home in Coppel.

The couple resides in Coppel since return from a wedding trip to San Antonio.

Hippotherapy mini-course offered by CCC April 30

The Division of Continuing Education at Cooke County College will be offering a Hippotherapy one-day workshop, April 30, from 1 to 3:30 p.m.

"The course should be of interest to professionals who are involved in the treatment of patients who are physically challenged - occupational therapists, physical therapists and speech therapists," said Kay Moody, continuing education coordinator. "This is the first time that this mini-course is being offered."

Terrri Barnes, physical therapist and director of Barnes Therapy Associates, Inc. in Justin, will be demonstrating the various methods used in treating a patient with the hippotherapy technique. Barnes is an international lecturer on hippotherapy and studied the medical application of the horse in Germany. Barnes Therapy is one of the only treatment centers in the North Texas area.

"Hippo is the Greek word for horse," said Barnes. "Hippotherapy means treatment with a horse." Barnes explained years ago, horses were recommended as a means of treatment to treat various ailments.

"When a person walks, they use the same movements that they would use when riding a horse," explained Barnes. "Someone who has never walked would use the same muscles when riding a horse." The horse's gait is similar to a person's walk.

"Activities of daily living can come easier to a client involved in hippotherapy," said Barnes. Some of the benefits of hippotherapy are improvement in mobility, posture and balance. Some other benefits include improvement in communication skills, language processing, sensory improvements and a longer attention span.

"The role of the therapist includes evaluating the client, designing and implementing the riding program and hands-on treatment in each session," said Barnes. "The reason hippotherapy works so well is because in riding a horse the continuous fluid movements are translated to the pelvis in the trunk of the rider."

"It takes an experienced person to know how to handle a horse and this is where the CCC equine program can help," said Moody.

"CCC has an excellent equine program and the facilities are perfect to make this a successful endeavor," said Linda Mast, dean of continuing education. "We hope that interested persons will see the potential of this program."

Hippotherapy is for patients of all ages ranging as young as three and as old as 80. Barnes will be demonstrating a hippotherapy session on a three-year-old boy. "Dane" could not walk before he started working with me," said Barnes. "Now he is getting around with a walker and making wonderful progress."

For more information, call Continuing Education at 817-668-4272. Interested persons can go by the CCC Registrar's office to register.

Deadline nears for Catholic high school scholarships

The deadline for applying for the new Catholic High School Leadership Scholarship Program offered by Catholic Life Insurance is approaching fast. Qualified Catholic high school students have until May 1, 1994 to apply for a scholarship to a Catholic high school. Interested students are urged to apply as soon as possible.

Students recognized for ACT achievement

Sacred Heart School recently received notification of the excellent results on the ACT Assessment Test taken by four 7th grade students, Deann Felderhoff, Janet Fetsch, Russell Fette and Patrick Miller.

The Duke University Identification Program conducts an annual Talent Search of eligible 7th grade students in a 16-state region. To be eligible, a 7th grade student must have scored 97 percentile or above on a National Norm Standardized Test battery; applicable tested components are mathematics, verbal or total composite results. These identified students are the most able students in the 16-state area. At Sacred Heart School, six students qualified for the Talent Search Program. This is an outstanding 28.5% of the 7th grade class. To advance in the program, all identified 7th graders are invited to take the SAT or ACT. These tests are designed for college-bound junior and senior students.

The test is far too difficult for the average 7th grade student.

Four students from Sacred Heart School elected to take the February 1994 administration of the ACT Assessment. Results of these tests are extraordinarily excellent. The composite score range is 20.6 composite for the national average and 19.9 composite for the state average for college-bound seniors. The Sacred Heart 7th grade students had a composite score range of 20-22, a 21.0 average.

As a result of these high scores, each student will receive a personal invitation to attend the State Recognition Ceremony in June 1994.

Congratulations on this profound indicator of academic excellence to these students and their parents: Deann, daughter of Janet and Ross Felderhoff; Janet, daughter of Susan and Garry Fetsch; Russell, son of Pam and David Fette; and Patrick, son of Betty and Robert Miller.

Congratulations to all of these young women for their efforts at the Regional Meet.

CANDISE ABNEY

From My Side of the Fence

As a boy going to school from grade 1 through 5, I remember wearing knee breeches and, in cold weather, stockings and garters, too.

The reason I can recollect wearing knee pants in the fifth grade is the fact that the teacher would sometimes use a switch on my bare calves, in an effort to, in her words, "wake me up."

I can also recall the first "long pant suit" I wore. It was a Solemn Communion gift that I was very proud of and, after wearing it, I was dead set against knee pants, so Mom put me in blue denims which boys were catching on fast as the things boys wore to school.

When they became worn or torn to the point that Mom would patch them, they became our work pants, to be worn at home and were replaced by new ones.

Finally, after Mom's best efforts with her needle and/or sewing machine could no longer keep our denims in a wearable condition, they were relegated to the rag bag or to any other need they could fill.

Later, when I was a bit older and Mom knew I was going to town for some reason, and was wearing frayed or torn jeans, she would ask me to change into better pants.

She said she didn't mind my advertising her handiwork by wearing patches, but she didn't want anyone to think she was too lazy to keep the holes closed.

If Mom were here today, she would no longer patch the badly-frayed and open holes in the knees and seats of our jeans, but would buy new one and sell the worn ones. They seem to be very popular these days with the younger set and can be had for only a few dollars more.

Early childhood screening May 6

On May 6, from 8:30 to 12:00, an early childhood screening will be held at B.T. Washington School to identify children who may have handicapping conditions or might have low potential for success in school.

A child who needs to be screened is one who does not appear to act, see, hear, speak, understand or learn as others of his age.

Children who are handicapped are eligible to attend school from age 3, from birth if visually or hearing impaired. If you have a child who is suspected of having a handicapping condition and is three (3) years old, please call the Special Education office at 665-0773 for an appointment. If your child is younger than three but you are concerned, call Project Kind at 665-1464. The tests include vision and hearing and motor ability procedures, as well as some learning tasks.

Before screening, each child must have a permission slip, signed by a parent, giving consent for screening. Forms are available at the Special Education office located at 1420 Rice Avenue or Booker T. Washington School located at 701 Muller. Babysitter may bring the child to be screened, but the form signed by the parent is a necessity.

If your child is enrolled at Head Start, there is no need to attend this screening.

Certification required for all Scout parents, May 3 meeting for parents

Parents are encouraged to take part in Scouting activities with their Cub Scout, Boy Scout and Explorer sons; however, new rules require parents that wish to accompany the troop to be certified in Youth Protection. There will be one seminar only on Tuesday evening, May 3, at 7 p.m. at the VFW Hall on South Main. The seminar is open to all area parents free of charge. Bring only a notebook if you wish to keep notes (no children, please!). Both parents should attend.

The new rules require a minimum of one or two accompanying parents be certified before the Den or Troop can have any organized Scout activity. This is for the protection of both parents and children.

Muenster will host a 2-hour seminar which will give parents the required certification. This certification will last the parents from first-level Cub Scouts, all the way through the Eagle and Explorer levels. Without this certification, Den and Troop activities will have to be canceled if a certified member cannot be present, including Den meetings. All parents are very strongly recommended to attend this seminar at any cost if they wish for their son to continue in Scouting.

Sacred Heart competes in State Golf Tourney

Sacred Heart's boys' golf team competed in the TAPPS State Tournament at Cottonwood Creek in Waco April 25 and 26. Jason Hess finished as a 2nd-place medalist with a score of 168. Blake Langford of Fairhill Academy took top honors at 162.

"Langford has played against Tiger Woods and Ted Oh, so you can see the competition we were up against," commented Coach Jon LeBrasseur. "Jason hung with Blake till #16 where Blake eagled and Jason pored."

Other Tigers competing and their scores were: Douglas Novak 210; Kelly Bayer 212; Neil Berres 219; Scott Frost 228.

The team total of 795 was good enough for 3rd place. Trinity Christian of Lubbock took the state championship with a 770. Heritage Christian of Woodlands was second at 774.

Coach Jon said of the windy conditions with gusts above 40 mph, the boys did a great job. "This is the first year we have cracked the 800 mark. Everyone had a good day. I am very pleased with our effort," said Coach Jon.

"Novak had his best showing for

JASON HESS, state golf medalist

a freshman with Bayer improving and we will miss Kelly next year, continued the Tiger coach. "Berres had a great second day, while Frost did great the first day."

Cassie Darwin to compete in China

Cassie Darwin of Pilot Point High School, daughter of Hilda and Danny Darwin, has been chosen to compete against the Chinese International Team in Beijing, China this June 7-17.

The team of approximately 15 players will leave Dallas/Fort Worth Airport on June 7 for a series of games against a comparable team selected by the Chinese.

The tour is sponsored by The International Sports Exchange, an organization based in Oregon, which has sponsored teams in track, cross country and basketball to compete internationally since 1975.

"Over 10,000 athletes have participated in the tours, which not only allows the students to compete athletically, but also gives them a wonderful cultural exchange opportunity worldwide," said Head Coach Lee Powell.

Powell, varsity girls coach at Pilot Point Selz High School, is a graduate of Texas A&M and has coached high school athletics for 21 years throughout Texas and has taken teams to the state playoffs in 11 different sports.

New class schedule offers more flexibility

by Steve Cooper, MISD Superintendent.

MISD is in the process of restructuring the schedule of classes for 1994-95. For years, our students have had to make difficult choices in selection of classes. Not because of the difficulty of the class, but because of the limitations and conflicts of a seven-period day. This was particularly magnified in our district because, unlike many Class A schools, we offer a Band program and an Industrial Arts curriculum. With the adoption of the recommended curriculum for '94-95, which increases credit requirements to graduate from 21 or 22 to 24 and with the possibility of requiring an additional 2 credits locally, it becomes very apparent that an adjustment in schedule needed to be made. The new class schedule will give us more flexibility than we've had in the past. It will not eliminate all the difficult choices but it will certainly minimize them.

Our district is committed to preparing each youngster to function well in the real world. Providing them with the tools and skills necessary for their success is a constant goal. We hope to establish, through our new schedule, a systematic approach to technological skill that will culminate with a thorough exposure to computers. We believe this to be absolutely essential. This approach will involve exposure to computers in grades K-5 via our Elementary Computer Lab and eventually our district plans to have several computers in each individual classroom. Sixth graders will begin a Basic Keyboarding class, seventh graders will be taught a Computer Literacy class, while eighth graders will get an intermediate dose of Word Processing.

We hope to have our junior high students ready, with the proper background, for the various high school computer classes we offer. High school students will have opportunity in grades nine through twelve to take classes like Microcomputer Applications, Computer Science I and II, Computer-Aided Drafting and Business Computer Applications. The plan also involves more use in individual classrooms. It is our desire to teach the classes, then give the youngsters opportunity to use their skills in everyday school work. All of this, of course, is something we are working to accomplish.

MISD initiated its technology plan in '91-92 with the first year of operation being '92-93. We are now in the second year of our plan and we are very fortunate to be where we are today. We have two complete computer labs, one for high school/junior high and one for elementary. The elementary lab has 22 IBM compatibles and the high school/junior high lab has 20 IBM compatibles. Our library has 3 IBM compatibles and 2 Apple 2GS. We are in the process of completely computerizing our library so our students will have access to the same type of system most college/universities now use.

The administration has 3 IBM compatibles (one in each campus office and one in the superintendent's office - we simply could not do the paperwork required by our bureaucracy without them) and 1 Apple 2GS. Each teacher workstation has an IBM compatible and we have a total of 18 IBM compatibles and 4 Apple 2GS in the teacher classrooms schoolwide. Our technology plan calls for at least one computer in each classroom by 1996-97. We anticipate meeting that goal long before then. The technology plan also calls for the district to access a network. We now have the capability in each administrative office to access TNET (Texas Network). This is an Austin-based network that allows us to tap into a vast arena of information, even to the point of being able to communicate via computer with foreign countries. We intend to extend this capability to our library and at least one of the computer labs. This is an absolutely fascinating tool for students to be exposed to.

One of our most satisfying accomplishments is the development, through Tech Prep, of our Computer-Aided Drafting classroom. We have 3 IBM 486 computer units operating a very sophisticated software. The classroom has all the latest manual and automated drafting tools to teach real world drafting skills. Youngsters have drawn plans, this year, for school renovations and maintenance jobs that have been on par with the professionals. Rudy Koesler teaches the CAD program. One of the unique aspects of the Tech Prep course is that it carries college credit when completed on our campus; also, this class is open to any student from any of the surrounding school districts. We've even scheduled this class first period next year in an attempt to accommodate any interested students.

MISD has on hand approximately 70 IBM or compatible computers, 16 Apple 2GS computers the necessary printers to complement this number and a very impressive array of software programs to meet the needs of our curriculum. This has been a sizable investment for our district. Two years ago, our board, realizing the importance of technology in the world of work, particularly computer skills, made a commitment to the youngsters, teachers, parents and community to insure our students were given the best opportunity possible to get the skills needed to compete successfully in real life.

Youngsters today, that don't have a thorough exposure to computer technology, are being robbed of the skills needed to compete for the best jobs. MISD wants to leave no stone unturned in our quest to fully prepare our youngsters for the world of tomorrow.

Early outbreak of army worms found in wheat

Spring brought armyworms to wheat growers this year as well as the usual spring flowers, according to James Swart, Extension IPM Entomologist, in Hunt County. He urged growers to scout their fields now to determine if armyworms are present in wheat or other small grain crops.

Swart discovered an early outbreak of armyworms this week in Northeast Texas wheat fields and believes they are widespread east of I-35 and north of I-20, putting wheat and other small grain crops at risk.

An early outbreak of armyworms would have greater potential for crop injury because wheat is still in the early stages of grain fill and therefore, more susceptible to crop loss, said Allen Knutson, agricultural entomologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Swart and Knutson agree farmers should inspect their crops immediately. To scout for armyworms in wheat, gather a small group of plants between both hands and sharply beat the plants together to knock off any armyworms. Then pull back the stems and leaves and carefully search the soil for fallen larvae. Watch closely as they remain still for almost a minute before they move. Also, look under soil clods for larvae.

Knutson advised farmers to repeat this process in at least five locations in a field. Insecticide treatment should be considered if an average of four to five small larvae per square foot are present and if feeding damage is seen on the leaves. Insecticides are most effective when applied while larvae are still small and before they've consumed all the leaves. Larvae feed for three to four weeks before they're fully grown.

Leaf loss and damage can occur rapidly as armyworms eat 80 percent of their total consumption during the last week of their development. They also can move en masse from wheat fields into corn and sorghum fields and consume these crops as well. Knutson warned that bermudagrass hay fields also should be scouted carefully for armyworm infestations.

In wheat, armyworms consume leaves and large infestations may then move to feed on the developing grain in the head. protection of the flag leaf is important because of its significant contribution to grain fill. Loss of leaves during grain fill can result in reduced bushel weight at harvest.

Armyworm eggs are white and deposited on leaves in masses of 25 to 100 at night. Upon hatching, they feed on leaves in the lower canopy and often remain undetected. Larger larvae move to upper leaves as they approach maturity. They range in color from pale green to brown or black and are often striped with white to yellowish lines from head to tail.

Approximately 250,000 acres of wheat are under cultivation in Northeast Texas. Farmers should contact their county Extension agent for specific recommendations on insecticide materials and rates.

GAINESVILLE LIVESTOCK MARKET, INC. on Refinery Road in Gainesville was also hit hard by Tuesday's tornado conditions. Approximately 800 head of cattle were on the location in preparation for a special Spring Replacement Female Sale. The auction went on as scheduled Wednesday afternoon.

Wheat Tour

This year's wheat crop looks very promising. Stands, lack of disease pressure, good fertility rates, and weed control have all contributed to the possibility of a good harvest in 1994. A Wheat Tour for Cooke County is scheduled Thursday, May 12, beginning at 8 a.m.

This year we will be looking at the various hard and soft wheat varieties, foliar fungicide applications for disease control, seed treatment fungicide applications, and herbicides for control of ryegrass and broadleaf weeds in wheat.

The tour times and schedule follow:

- 8 a.m. - State Breeding Trial and Small Grain Nursery - Selby Farm County Road 332 southeast of Era
- 9:30 a.m. - Wheat Variety and Fungicide Plots - J.H. Bayer & Sons Farm, Highway 82 east of Muenster

- 10:30 a.m. - Wheat Variety, Foliar Fungicide, and Seed Treatment Plots - Aloys Fahrman & Son Farm, FM 1199 north of Lindsay

- 12 noon - Ryegrass and Broadleaf Herbicide Plots - Henry Popp Farm at McCoy's on Highway 82, Gainesville

- 12 noon - Hamburger and Trimmings Lunch
- 2 p.m. - Wheat Variety and Foliar Fungicide Demonstration - Schumacher Brothers, Highway 51 at Trinity River, Gainesville

Representatives of various seed companies, chemical dealers, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, and Texas Agricultural Extension Service will be on hand to present various results of demonstration work. Producers attending the tour will receive 1.5 hours CEU's toward their pesticide license recertification.

We look forward to producers attending any or all of the various stops and noon lunch.

If you have questions concerning any of the locations, give me a call at the County Extension Office.

Barley Yellow Dwarf Virus Present in Wheat

A heavy incidence of Barley Yellow Dwarf Virus (BYDV) has been found in wheat fields across Central Texas. Transmitted only by aphids, the disease is more widespread than in previous years with incidences as high as 50 percent. Development of symptoms caused by the virus depends on the time of infection and wheat variety. Leaf discoloration in shades of yellow, red or purple from tip to base and from margin to midrib is typical. Seedling infections cause stunting and plants usually have brilliant yellowing of older leaves. Yellow or red flag leaves on otherwise normal plants indicate post-seedling infections.

While aphid populations did not appear heavy last fall or this spring, more virus is being observed than most years. Because of the unusually high incidence of BYDV and lack of a high aphid population, researchers with Texas A&M investigated samples of infected wheat to determine if a different strain of the virus is present. However, a similar distribution of virus strains was observed.

Unfortunately, there's nothing you can do once a field is infected. No pesticides are available to control viruses. Since the BYDV virus is spread only by aphids, preventing aphids from entering the field is the primary control measure. Granular insecticides applied at planting will reduce the incidence of Barley Yellow Dwarf, especially at the seedling stage.

Few other diseases have been observed in wheat fields. A very light outbreak of Rust and some Septoria Leaf Spot have been noted in some fields. The dry and brown tips of leaves observed in some fields is simply because of the dry conditions. These leaves have been desiccated from the dry winds and lack of rain.

CCC offers ideas on starting ratite business

Cooke County College's Division of Continuing Education will be offering an 'Introduction to Starting a Ratite Business (Emu and Ostrich Farming)' again for interested persons who missed out last time.

The course will be held on the Gainesville campus and is being co-sponsored by the CCC Agriculture Department. The course will be from 9 a.m. to noon on Saturday, April 30, in the CCC Library Lyceum.

"The demand for ratite products is growing at a faster rate than the supply," said Charles Reed, ratite specialist and rancher. "Ratite (emu and ostrich) ranching is becoming popular with both large and small land owners. It is the only agricultural business which can be considered profitable on a small acreage and in a variety of climates.

"Ratites, or flightless birds, include the ostrich, emu and rhea," said Reed. The ostrich is the world's largest bird. It is the only bird with two toes and can produce for more than 35 years. They lay between 20 and 100 eggs per year."

Reed explained that the traditional ostrich product in South Africa is the feathers of the bird and that American ostrich breeders are different because U.S. breeders are interested in satisfying the demand for ratite's "beef-like" tasty red meat.

"Research on the ratite business is in the beginning stages," said Reed. "This mini-course will give the student a chance to ask questions and get first-hand advice on starting a ratite business. We will discuss where the business is today and where it will be in the future."

Interested persons can go by the CCC Registrar's Office in the main building to register or call the Small Business Development Center at 817-668-4220 for more information.

Tax Talk

by Duane Knabe, CPA

This week's topic is the taxability of social security benefits. This was changed by the '93 tax law. However, the old law still applies, it was only added to after 1993.

The amount of these benefits that must be included in income is the lesser of one-half the benefits received for the year or one-half of the taxpayers combined income over a specified base amount. Combined income is modified adjusted gross income (MAGI) plus one half of the benefits. MAGI includes tax-exempt interest.

The base amount is (a) $32,000 if married filing jointly, (b) 0 if married filing separately, and (c) $25,000 for any other filing status.

For tax years after 1993, in addition to the present law, 85% of the taxpayer's combined income over a second base amount is taxable. The second base amount is (a) 44,000, (b) 0 and (c) 34,000.
