Exhibits draw crowds to Home & Lawn Show

Spring seems to motivate people to "fix up" their homes and lawns and the Cooke County Home and Lawn Show held last week end was a great place to see what area merchants have to offer. The sixth annual event was sponsored by KXGM-FM.

It is estimated that 3,000 people attended the show. Charley Henderson and Donna Allen of KXGM both agreed that this year's event was bigger and better than last year. "A lot of people won nice door prizes," noted Donna Allen. "We were sometimes giving away as many as six (door prizes) an hour."

Many of the children attending visited with the Easter Bunny who made a special appearance. Don Hunter Photography was on hand to take pictures of the children and Easter Bunny. Mr. Hunter is donating all of his proceeds to Camp Sweeney.

Winters responds to endorsement

"I have not sought the endorsement of any group during this campaign," Sam Winters, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Justice of the Peace, said Saturday upon learning that a large group of local peace officers were placing an ad in the Register to distance themselves from the endorsement the Gainesville Police Association gave his opponent.

Winters said he felt the position of a Justice of the Peace should not be compromised by acknowledging an endorsement of a group that will be filing cases to be heard before the court.

"A Justice of the Peace should be able to be totally impartial when it comes to rendering justice," Winters said. "Personally, I find it hard to believe that someone who is married to a peace officer and then embraces the endorsement of the association can, in good faith, make any pretense of impartiality."

Several officers have come to me expressing their concern about the endorsement and I have told them that I understood the circumstances under which the vote was taken, Winters said.

"I do not wish to see anything happen that might cause dissension among the personnel at the Police or Sheriff departments. In the past, I have had the opportunity of working closely with the local law enforcement agencies and have a tremendous respect for their responsibilities to the citizens of Cooke County. As Justice of the Peace, I would cooperate fully with these agencies to provide the citizens with an efficient and effective public office," Winters said.

I have presented my qualifications in both experience and education and asked the voters to compare me with my opponents, Winters said, pointing out that he polled almost twice as many votes in the primary as his closest rival.

College acquires new name, new vision

by Elaine Schad

A new name and a new vision for the future is what officials hope for as Cooke County College will officially change its name to North Central Texas College effective June 1.

Cooke County College trustees this week unanimously approved a resolution changing the name of the 70-year-old community college. The official name of the college district will be North Central Texas Community College District. For operational purposes, the college will be known as North Central Texas College. The name change is pending approval of the Texas College and University System Coordinating Board, which is expected in about a week.

The vote to change the name of the college came following five months of study by the college and a citizens advisory committee, said

Rodger Boyce, public information spokesman for the college. About 15 people came Monday night to voice concerns about changing the name, most citing sentimental reasons for retaining the name Cooke County College. The college also received post cards signed by about 130 people opposing the name change.

"We understand the sentiments, but we feel like it's in the best interest of the college in the long run," Boyce said. "We really are a regional institution now, and with the competition of the market place, we felt like this was an important strategy to get our piece of the pie."

Recent legislation aimed at promoting quality and relevant workforce training in Texas is creating an environment of intense competition among public community colleges, proprietary

Commissioners appoint committee to study county ambulance service

by Elaine Schad

A citizens advisory board will be appointed to study whether Cooke County should retain its county-run ambulance service or contract with a private company.

Cooke County Commissioners this week approved appointing a committee that would include Precinct 3 Commissioner Jerry Lewis, Precinct 4 Commissioner Virgil Hess, two members representing each of the county's two hospital districts, and three other members appointed at large representing different precincts in the county. Commissioners requested that the Gainesville Area League of Women Voters submit recommendations on the three members that would represent the various precincts. Commissioner Hess recommended that a member not be selected by the league from precinct 4 since that precinct will already be represented by the Muenster Hospital District representative and himself.

"We know we have a very excellent service in Cooke County, but also a rather expensive one," Cooke County Judge Ray Russell said. "I think we need to evaluate it, but move it as much as possible from the political arena."

The county has received a proposal from a private ambulance service which Russell said, on its face, would seem to be a substantial savings to the county. The downside to the proposal, Russell said, would be that the contract has been proposed for one year, meaning the service would have to be rebid after a year. Russell would not disclose details of the proposal, citing the state's competitive bidding regulations.

The ambulance issue has been a hot item of discussion for years, mainly because it is one of the most expensive line items in the county budget. Proposals have been made over the years to turn the ambulance service over to a private company, but Cooke County remains as one of the few counties in the state of Texas to retain a county-run ambulance service. The county had budgeted $164,000 to place an additional ambulance and personnel in service by April as well as renovate the ambulance station at a cost of $25,000. Those items were deleted from the fiscal 1994 budget following a successful tax rollback election held in February.

Commissioners last month decided that the ambulance service will not accept out-of-county transfer requests from local hospitals, regardless of whether they are emergency requests. Cooke County representatives joined officials from Denton, Fannin, Grayson and Wise counties in December met with the East Texas Medical Service to gather information about private ambulance services.

In other business, commissioners: --Declared the week of April 16-23 as County Government Week in Cooke County to coincide with a statewide recognition. County Extension Agent Evelyn Yeatts is working with a committee to organize some activities for that week. Commissioner Kenneth Alexander said the county is attempting to make available to all the schools in Cooke County a videotape which will explain the role of county government and the duties of county elected officials.

--Awarded a bid to Glenn Carlton of Valley View to purchase a surplus Danhauser MD6 Post Driver from Precinct 4. Carlton's $869 bid was the highest bid of two received. G&B Enterprises of Muenster submitted a bid of $285. The county received no bids for the sale of an International Transtar Truck. Hess said the county will rebid that item at a later date.

--Approved bonds totaling $172 for employees in the offices of Sheriff Joe Nichols and District Attorney Janelle Haverkamp.

Hallelujah! He is risen...

But Mary stayed outside the tomb weeping. And as she wept, she bent over into the tomb and saw two angels in white sitting there, one at the head and one at the feet where the body of Jesus had been. And they said to her, "Woman, why are you weeping?" She said to them, "They have taken my Lord, and I don't know where they laid Him." When she had said this, she turned around and saw Jesus there, but did not know it was Jesus. Jesus said to her, "Woman, why are you weeping? Whom are you looking for?" She thought it was the gardener and said to him, "Sir, if you carried him away, tell me where you laid him, and I will take him." Jesus said to her, "Mary!" She turned and said to him in Hebrew, "Rabbouni," which means Teacher. Jesus said to her, "Stop holding on to me, for I have not yet ascended to the Father. But go to my brothers and tell them, 'I am going to my Father and your Father, to my God and your God.'"

Letters to the Editor

My very dear friends,

Before long the Easter bells will ring out the joyful news that Christ has risen, and the Easter Alleluia will be sung throughout the world.

So, in the first place, I wish each person who reads my letters and enjoys them as I have been told over and over, a very Happy Easter, a beautiful spring and summer.

It has become a custom that in midsummer I write to you again, but I think that it is foolish to think that far into the future. The present moment is all that counts.

For a change, we had really some winter weather this year, which I of course enjoyed very much. That's all right to say when you are living in a warm room, but it is an entirely different story when you have to be outdoors.

The roads were extremely slippery and caused many accidents. Poor people living in homes without any heat froze to death. What a sad thought! Poor people walking outdoors without warm clothes fared no better.

Hopefully, "spring has sprung" for good. Outside my room window I saw a forsythia bush blooming before the snow and ice came. It bloomed throughout the ordeal and is now more beautiful than ever. I suppose that a lot of spring flowers that had bloomed before winter returned did not fare as well.

I am as happy as can be, and never a dull moment abides with me. My correspondence is unending, and my age advances a step daily, just like everybody else's.

Believe it or not, I am working hard to reach my 90th birthday. Wouldn't that be something!

Well, my very dear friends, I must say goodbye. I want to mail this letter tonight.

Lots and lots of Love, Prayers and Thanks for everything to everybody, especially the Muenster Enterprise which enables me to reach all my very dear friends far and near.

Tax Talk

by Duane Knabe, CPA

Duane Knabe will discuss a different topic each week. Any questions should be directed to him at 759-4010.

This week's topic is contract labor. "Contract labor" is the most widely used misnomer in business today. The issue is whether a worker is an employee or an independent contractor.

In simple terms, an employee is someone an employer exercises control and for whom there is extensive wage reporting and tax responsibility. An independent contractor is self-employed, bears responsibility for his own taxes and expenses, and is not subject to an employer's direction or control. The distinction depends on several factors and is by no means limited to the fact that a party designates itself one or the other.

Most significantly, according to Haverkamp, Hudson must immediately relinquish his license to teach and all his teaching credentials to the Texas Education

Memories of 1941-44... 50 Years Ago in WWII

Muenster residents, not unlike other Americans in 1941-44 experienced the same fears, loneliness and crushing losses, overshadowed by the blessings of pride and patriotism.

Pride, patriotism and prayer came as healing graces to support and guide families and their young men.

In respectful memory, and in observance of the 50th anniversary 1944-1994, we are requesting stories and memories from relatives to be printed as special features in The Muenster Enterprise. Several relatives have called to say their stories are not quite complete but will be forthcoming. We appeal for more responses in succeeding weeks, from parents, or brothers, or sisters, or friends, to honor the young men who served. Response from readers, young and old, has been gratifying.

Era Athletic Director pleads guilty and is sentenced

by Elaine Schad

Former Era Athletic Director and Assistant Principal Duncan Hudson pleaded guilty this week to eight counts of indecency with a child and was sentenced to 10 years probation and a $5,000 fine in a plea bargain arrangement that will involve a host of restrictions, including Hudson relinquishing his Texas Teacher's Certification.

Hudson was indicted May 14 by a Cooke County grand jury. The incidents allegedly involved girls of junior high age and occurred between Jan. 5, 1989, and March 25, 1993. The second-degree felony carried a range of punishment of from 2 to 20 years and a $10,000 fine. The 10 years probation was the highest number of years probation allowable by law for the offense, Cooke County District Attorney Janelle Haverkamp said.

Hudson was sentenced in the 235th District Court of Judge Jerry Woodcock. The four families of the victims were allowed to have one representative address the court following sentencing in order to let the defendant and the court know how the incidents have affected their families, Haverkamp said.

In addition to the 10 years probation and $5,000 fine, Hudson must participate in 400 hours of community service as part of the plea bargain agreement. In addition to the customary rules of probation, Hudson is not to communicate with the victims or their families or go within 300 yards of the Era School during the probation period. Hudson must register as a sex offender with local law enforcement in any community in which he resides. He must obtain a psychological evaluation and comply with followup treatment. Hudson must also participate in a sex offender counseling program.

Hudson must immediately relinquish his license to teach and all his teaching credentials to the Texas Education Agency. Hudson may not pursue or maintain employment or participate or volunteer in any capacity in which supervisory contact with a child under the age of 18 years of age is permitted. "It is my hope and the hope of the victimized families that this last provision will protect other children that the defendant might otherwise have come in contact with in the future had it not been for this item in his probation," Haverkamp said.

Haverkamp said the district attorney's office has been ready and willing to proceed with jury trials in each case against Hudson, but in cases when the victims are children, it is particularly important to take into consideration the feelings and wishes of the victims and their families.

"The families of the victims in these cases unanimously requested that this plea bargain agreement be negotiated between the district attorney's office and the defendant, Duncan Hudson, and his attorney," Haverkamp said. "After careful deliberation among themselves, the families of the victims came to the conclusion that it would be in the best interest of their children to spare them the ordeal of eight separate jury trials if an acceptable plea-bargain agreement could be negotiated," she said.

Haverkamp said a great deal of consideration went into the plea bargain agreement. A factor that led to the agreement was the fact that, had Hudson gone to trial and received the full 20-year maximum sentence, current information provided to the district attorney's office from the Institutional

Division of the Texas Department of Criminal Justice is that a person currently sentenced to 20 years would be eligible for parole in 25 months.

"The families of the victims weighed the certainty of close supervision by the court for 10 years and the requirement that he not teach or have any unsupervised contact with other children against the uncertainty and trauma of a jury trial and the possibility that, even if convicted and sentenced to the maximum punishment of 20 years, he could possibly serve as little as two years and one month," Haverkamp said.

Hudson was suspended with pay in April 1993 pending an investigation and his contract was terminated in May. Era school officials said. Hudson appealed the termination of his $43,000 a year contract with the district, but Era school officials voted in June to uphold his termination. Hudson then requested a hearing before Texas Education Commissioner Skip Meno, but later withdrew the request.

Hudson was named the first assistant principal in the school's history March 1. He was named athletic director in May 1990 after working for two years as the district's head basketball coach and assistant football coach, mainly working with junior high and high school students. Hudson began his teaching career in Nocona in Montague County, where he was coach from 1978 to 1983. He was principal and head basketball coach at Huckabay before coming to Era in 1988.

"Civic Outlook"

by Mayor Bill Miller

dependent on oil and gas will be part of our future.

The greatest opportunity in store for Texas is trade with our neighbors to the South. The industries of the future will be computers, machine tools, robotics, telecommunications and technology. Small to medium size manufacturing firms to export raw products and food should do well. Our industrial board is constantly alert to opportunities to attract business to our town.

Recycling will take on a larger role. By the year 2000, we should see strict rules for recycling. Our city council has not created a committee to conduct a study on recycling as yet, but we will need to in the near future.

Middle-management is being cut from businesses now and will have to be cut from the Government offices in the future. Government will have to become accountable for their expenses as well. We are reaching a point where we cannot afford any higher cost of living. And that means "No New Taxes".

Going back to the future of Muenster. The era of change is upon us and we can still get ahead if we accept the challenge.

Whether we set goals or not, much of our change happens by default. The latest turning point in our lives can be pinpointed: March 31, 1986. That day, the price of crude oil fell below $10 per barrel, marking a first for recent times, signaling another passage from one era to another. This was eight years ago. At that time, a lot of business and jobs in our county fell by the wayside.

Where does it leave us today? From that point on, we became more creative to attract businesses and provide jobs. The oil and gas industry had an impact on our past lives, but a new business plan less

Safety motivates many to use Lifeline service

by Janet Felderhoff

Being alone and in a fragile condition can sometimes be quite frightening, even dangerous. Many who could otherwise retain their independence lose it because they or their family worry about what might happen when the fragile person is alone.

Lifeline Systems, Inc. could be the answer that will allow the person to remain living in their own home alone without constant worry. With Lifeline there is always help just the press of a button away. "You've Got a Friend" is the Lifeline logo since if someone has a friend close enough they can just pop a button and have somebody there.

"Most of our people are single, elderly people, but we have handicapped people, we have young people that are handicapped, we have men, women and couples," noted Martha Tudor.

Lifeline serves about 85 people in Cooke County including several in Muenster. Mrs. Anna Henscheid was the first Muenster person to use Lifeline. She is now 92 years old. Mrs. Henscheid used the Lifeline service for the last four or five years. She lived alone and was in good health except that she couldn't see. Within the last few months Mrs. Henscheid became a resident in a rest home.

Rufus Henscheid said that his mother liked the Lifeline service real well. "It's a fine thing," he said. "You just push a button and they call someone for you."

How does Lifeline work? The subscriber wears a small waterproof "button" on a chain around the neck. Anytime that person feels they are in need of help, all he or she has to do is push the button. This will automatically activate their phone to dial the Lifeline number which is manned 24 hours a day in the emergency room Gainesville Memorial Hospital.

There are two types of Lifeline units — voice activated and non-voice activated. In voice activated units the person can speak to GMH staff, after activating their button, without taking the phone off the hook. In non-voice units, a number appears on the Lifeline screen alerting staff that someone is in need of assistance. The information home. It can even activate a call from outside the home should the person fall or need other help when outdoors near their home. "Usually it works within a city lot," explained Ms. Tudor. "Usually it will work the distance to their mailbox or out to a flower bed, but sometimes there is something unusual like a tin building that it won't go through."

Lifeline has its office in the Gainesville Memorial Hospital, but Ms. Tudor stressed that you don't have to use the Gainesville Hospital or a Gainesville physician if you have Lifeline.

There are companies selling services similar to that offered by Lifeline. Ms. Tudor cautions people not to check in with Lifeline a responder checked on her and she received help much sooner than if she hadn't had the Lifeline option.

This lady received help within hours instead of days. Some people wait until after something happens and they lay for sometimes days without help. Then they subscribe to Lifeline because they don't want it to happen again.

There are now 10 units that are used for people with a real need for the service who cannot afford to pay for it. Church or other charitable groups sometimes sponsor someone who is unable to make the monthly payments.

To find out more about Lifeline, Inc. and its services contact Martha Tudor at Gainesville Memorial, (817)665-1751.

MARTHA TUDOR, Lifeline Program Coordinator, demonstrates the use of a Lifeline button to a new subscriber. She visits with interested persons and installs the Lifeline units in homes of people who wish to remain independent without worry. Janie Hartman Photo listed with the person's number includes all of their medical information, the person's name, address, and the names of three responders.

If the person doesn't answer the telephone when Lifeline's staff tries to check on the reason the button was activated, then a responder is contacted to check on them. Usually three responders are listed. They should be people you trust with a key to your home and who can check on you in three to five minutes. Responders are usually relatives, friends or neighbors.

Martha Tudor became involved with Lifeline when her mother had surgery and the family got a unit for her. "When she got to feeling better I said, 'Mother, do you want to have this taken out?'" and she said, "No. This has been the best security I've had in a long time. That way I know if anything happens I'm going to press that button and somebody is going to talk to me."

Lifeline asks that people not use their button unless it is an emergency. It could be because the person feels there is a prowler, needs the fire department, or has a medical emergency. A doctor or nurse will stay on the line with the caller until they feel secure or until help can be sent.

The security of Lifeline reaches further than the inside of a person's that they don't have to purchase expensive equipment. One company is selling their equipment for $2,000. "You don't need to own this equipment," she said. "If you go into a nursing home or move in with a child or just use the equipment short term you don't need to own the equipment."

Lifeline Systems, Inc. charges a fee of $25 to install the system in a Gainesville home and $40 for Muenster. After that a fee of $25 for non-voice activated and $35 for voice activated units per month is charged to lease the equipment. There are several options available with the units at no additional charge.

One of these options is an inactivity timer. With this option the client can choose to call and check in with Lifeline at a certain time each day. If the call is not received, Lifeline tries to call the person to check on them. If nobody answers then a responder is called to check on them.

This option saved one area lady who didn't wear the Lifeline button when she took a bath. A pulled or strained muscle caused her to be unable to get out of the tub and with the button out of reach she couldn't call for help. She drained the bath water and pulled towels around herself to keep warm. When she

Youth receive opportunity to be part of Youth 2000

Sacred Heart J.A.M. and J.E.L.L.Y. members will have the opportunity to take part in a Youth 2000 Retreat. The event, sponsored by St. Rita Catholic Church, will be April 15, 16 and 17 at Nolan High School in Fort Worth. It will be led by the Franciscan Friars of the Renewal from Bronx, New York. All junior high, high school, college age and young adults are welcomed at the retreat.

During the World Youth Day held in Spain in 1989 the Holy Father called on young people to become, "shining heralds of the reevangelization and generous architects of the civilization of love..." In answer to this call Youth 2000 was initiated. This is an international group.

The goals of Youth 2000 are to promote a true devotion to Jesus in the Holy Eucharist through a worldwide network of youth gathered in prayer around the Blessed Sacrament; to promote a true devotion to Mary, the Virgin Mother of God, especially through the rosary; and to promote fidelity to the teachings to the Catholic Church.

Youth 2000 U.S.A. was launched in June 1992 in Dallas. Since then this international spiritual initiative has spread throughout the country. Prayer festivals have been held in a number of states and in several Texas cities.

Youth 2000 organizes retreats with adoration of the Blessed Sacrament as the central part of the retreat. This focus on the Blessed Sacrament demonstrates to young people that Christ must be the center of their lives. Through the Sacraments, Adoration, prayer, talk, meditation and music, the youth are drawn into a closer relationship with God.

J.A.M. and J.E.L.L.Y. members wanting more information on the retreat can contact Pam Fette, 759-2894, or Emily Klement, 759-4554.

by Ed Cler

Writing about the early day road maintainers brings back memories of some of the men that operated them, and of a little dog the Cler's were keeping for my aunt.

The men often parked their machines in our yard, both for convenience and the availability of the very good water from our well.

They would regularly take on a supply of water for drinking each morning, when they were working in the vicinity and often would drive in to eat their lunch near the well, and then refill their jugs for the afternoon.

The little mutt, Fritz by name, would get very upset by what he considered their intrusion on his private domain.

One day, two of these men, driving a '25 year model Ford coupe, came in the yard to eat their lunch and take on a fresh supply of drinking water.

As the men sat in the car eating, Fritz kept up a continuous clamor, barking and sometimes almost shrieking at them. After a few minutes, one of the guys took Fritz by surprise, jumping out of the car and running directly at him.

Well, the startled dog turned and ran for all he was worth but, after going a hundred feet or so, I could see he really didn't think he should be running. After all, he was the one who did the chasing and then he turned and the situation was suddenly reversed. The man switched direction and, with Fritz closing in, he gave it his all, taking the last few steps to the safety of his car in a long jump. The only problem was he didn't lower his head quite enough and it struck the top of the car a glancing blow that almost stunned him.

The poor man fell back to the ground and there he sat, one foot still on the running board and Fritz licking his hands and face, seemingly very concerned about his erstwhile enemy.

I must say the man's partner and myself were overcome with laughter at this turn of events and, as we watched the man, who was not feeling too well, take a bite of his sandwich and then tear off a portion and give it to the dog, petting him a bit, the situation only worsened.

My mom said she had called to me to come in for lunch two or three times as I half-knelt, half-sat in the lawn, unable to get up because of the laughter, but I must say I didn't hear.

The Legend of the Dogwood Made Visible

At the time of the Crucifixion, the dogwood, then the size of the oak and other forest trees, was chosen as the timber of the Cross, because it was so firm and strong. And from the Cross it was said, "Never again shall the dogwood tree grow big enough to be used for such a cruel purpose. Henceforth, it shall be slender, bent and twisted; its blossoms shall have two long and two short petals and be in the form of a cross. In the center of each petal's outer edge, there shall be nail prints, brown with rust and stained red. And a crown of thorns will be in the flower's center. All who see it will remember."

WARFARE PRAYER

From Sam and Billie (817) 665-1746

Heavenly Father, I bow in worship and praise before You. I cover myself with the blood of the Lord Jesus Christ as my protection. I surrender myself completely and unreservedly in every area of my life to You. I take a stand against all the workings of Satan that would hinder me in my prayer life. I address myself only to the True and Living God and refuse any involvement of Satan in my prayer.

Satan, I command you, in the Name of the Lord Jesus Christ, to leave my presence with all of your demons. I bring the blood of the Lord Jesus Christ between us.

Heavenly Father, I worship You and give You praise. I recognize that You are worthy to receive all glory and honor and praise. I renew my allegiance to You and pray that the blessed Holy Spirit would enable me in this time of prayer. I am thankful, Heavenly Father, that You have loved me from past eternity and that You sent the Lord Jesus Christ into the world to die as my substitute. I am thankful that the Lord Jesus Christ came as my representative and that through Him You have completely forgiven me. You have adopted me into Your family; You have assumed all responsibility for me. You have given me eternal life. You have given me the perfect righteousness of the Lord Jesus Christ so I am now justified. I am thankful that in Him You have made me complete, and that You have offered Yourself to me to be my daily help and strength.

Heavenly Father, open my eyes that I might see how great You are and how complete Your provision is for this day. I am thankful that the victory the Lord Jesus Christ won for me on the Cross and in His resurrection has been given to me and that I am seated with the Lord Jesus Christ in the heavens. I take my place with Him in the heavens and recognize by faith that all wicked spirits and Satan himself are under my feet. I declare, therefore, that Satan and his wicked spirits are subject to me in the Name of the Lord Jesus Christ.

I am thankful for the Armor You have provided. I put on the Girdle of Truth, the Breastplate of Righteousness, the Sandals of Peace and the Helmet of Salvation. I lift up the Shield of Faith against all the fiery darts of the enemy, and I take in my hand the Sword of the Spirit, the Word of God. I choose to use Your Word against all the forces of evil in my life. I put on this Armor and live and pray in complete dependence upon You, blessed Holy Spirit.

I am grateful, Heavenly Father, that the Lord Jesus Christ spoiled all principalities and powers and made a show of them openly and triumphed over them in Himself. I claim all that victory for my life today. I reject all the insinuations, and accusations, and the temptations of Satan. I affirm that the Word of God is true and I choose to live today in the light of God's Word. I choose, Heavenly Father, to live in obedience to You and in fellowship with Yourself. Open my eyes and show me the areas of my life that do not please You. Work in me to cleanse me from all ground that would give Satan a foothold against me. I do in every way stand into all that it means to be Your adopted child and I welcome all the ministry of the Holy Spirit.

By faith and in dependence upon You I put off the fleshly works of the old man and stand into all the victory of the crucifixion where the Lord Jesus Christ provided cleansing from the old nature. I put on the new man and stand into all the victory of the resurrection and the provision He has made for me to live above sin.

Therefore, today I put off all forms of selfishness and put on the new nature with its love. I put off all forms of fear and put on the new nature with its courage. I put off all forms of weakness and put on the new nature with its strength. I put off all forms of lust and put on the new nature with its righteousness, purity, and honesty. I am trusting You to show me how to make this practical in my daily life.

Muenster Garden Club wins many awards

Members of Muenster Garden Club are elated over the number of awards they received at the District II Spring Convention in Denton on March 23, hosted by Denton Council of Garden Clubs.

Daryl Ferber, Marie Endres and Dorothy Hesse were among the 202 garden club enthusiasts attending at the Radisson Hotel. A longtime member of the Muenster club, Sue Endres, who now lives in Denton, was co-chairman of the event.

One of the highlights for Muenster was the state speech winner, Kari Endres, presenting her speech entered in the Youth Speech Contest. She was accompanied to the meeting by her father, Clinton Endres. The appreciative district participants gave Kari a special gift and also two airline tickets to the state convention at South Padre Island on April 14-21.

Also cited for their entries in the speech contest were Brandon Bayer, second place, and Joey Martin and Jutta Leskinen, tied for third place.

The awards-presenter commented on the number of posters entered by Muenster students as being very superior. Winners were: Andrea Bauer, Jeremy Yosten, Elizabeth Fette, Amy Trevino, Cindy Hartman, Christina Weinzapfel, Laura Klement, Deann Felderhoff, Betty Trevino, Russell B. Fette, Amanda Wimmer, Jeffrey Yosten, Adam Taylor, Karen Gehrig, Laura Taylor, Kate Sepanski, Lisa Endres, Lillian Nasche.

Muenster Garden Club won three awards for their president's report, contributions to the college fund and participation and support of the Youth Speech Contest.

Guest speaker at the district convention was Dr. William Welch, horticulturist. His informative talk and slides were on "Perennials on Parade."

RSVP supports all volunteers

The Retired and Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) serves the community through action, well organized but having no meetings and no dues, with members aged 55 and older who volunteer in their community.

RSVP urges all who so generously give their time anyway to enroll with RSVP and allow their countless hours to be credited to the volunteer program by reporting their hours. This strengthens RSVP and enhances its image before legislators in the state and in Washington. It lets them know that seniors do not just retire, sit back and put their feet up, but do continue to give of themselves for the good of the community.

RSVP offers free supplemental insurance while you are volunteering. All volunteers are invited to a Recognition Banquet in April, but are not required to attend.

More than 100,548 volunteer hours were given last year in Cooke, Grayson and Fannin counties. Multiplied by minimum wage, this translates in savings of more than $425,000 to taxpayers. These were jobs that either would be filled by salaried employees, or worse, these would be services that go unfulfilled.

If you serve through Kiwanis, Lions, Rotary, Optimist, Volunteer Fire Departments, Senior Citizens Activity Centers, Libraries, or any other type of volunteering, if you are over 55, you are invited to sign up with RSVP. You do not have to give more hours of time than you are already giving - and there are no dues.

Call RSVP, 903-786-6042, for an enrollment form and a booklet on RSVP. Remember, "God is not concerned with our ability, nor our inability, simply our availability. Let's be available."

Boy Scout leaders recognized at dinner

The Boy Scouts of America, Frontier Trails District Leader Recognition Dinner was held in Denton on Saturday, March 26, in the Church of Latter Day Saints on North Malone Street. Several Scouters from Cooke County attended along with Scouters from Wise and Denton counties.

Every unit in the district was recognized and presented with ribbons for their unit flags. Volunteers were recognized and honored for their involvement within their units and in district activities.

A special presentation, conducted by Melanie Collins, honored Rodney McClung, Rodney was presented with his Woodbadge beads, neckerchief and toggle for completing an extensive Scout leaders training course.

Cooke County received its share of the limelight as five leaders from this area were recipients of the Golden Lariat award. The Golden Lariat was created last year by Frontier Trails District to honor those leaders who have gone above and beyond the requirements of their position to bring a quality Scouting program to the boys. The honored Scouters this year were from Pack 664 Kim Felderhoff, Connie Grewing and Michaela Shero; LaQuita Moore of Pack 653 in Gainesville; and Richard Farrier, Unit Commissioner and Cooke County Roundtable staff member.

The highlight of the District Leader Recognition Dinner is the presentation of the District Award

Three new meet records were set, two by Bishop Dunne. The girls' 200m improved to 25.85 by Brown and Williams set a new boys' triple jump with a 43'11" leap. Suppressing dust should stay

Dr. Calvin Parnell, an experiment station researcher and professor in the Texas A&M University agricultural engineering department, testified before Congress that using water mist to suppress dust at grain elevators can reduce the possibility of grain dust explosions and is the most economical alternative for some 7,000 small country elevators.

Parnell, is a former member of the Texas Air Control Board, is a specialist in the area of grain elevator explosions and dust suppression. He also sent comments on the process to the Federal Grain Inspection Service.

The use of water for dust suppression, a process initially studied by USDA researchers in the early 1980s, has drawn opposition and resulted in investigations of grain facilities and distributors by both government and media. Opponents of the method say it can be used to soak grains, increasing grain weight and decreasing quality.

Parnell said he would recommend that federal authorities formulate a rule limiting the total application rate to no more than 0.5 percent water by weight, or less than one cup per 100 pounds of grain.

"This small amount of drinking-quality water should not impact the grain marketing system," he said. By comparison, he said, an increase of 10 percent relative humidity could increase grain moisture content by 1.2 percent.

He said there are only three methods of reducing the concentration of grain dust entrained in air at grain transfer points to less than the minimum explosive concentration — pneumatic dust control, adding mineral oil and using water. "Dust suppression with water is least costly," he said.

He estimated that an elevator would spend less than 20 cents per thousand bushels for dust suppression with water. That compares to $2 per thousand bushels for oil and even more than that for pneumatic dust control, which requires varying levels of maintenance and energy depending on the elevator, he said.

"Using water would allow for significant savings for the 7,000 country elevators facing compliance with OSHA and EPA regulations," Parnell said.

COOKE COUNTY PRESIDENT Robert Klement and his wife, Gloria, of Muenster recently visited the Texas Farm Bureau state office in Waco, where TFB Executive Director Vernie R. Glasson explained state-of-the-art video production equipment. The Texas Farm Bureau produces periodic TV news stories for Texas stations as well as training and information videos for various TFB divisions.

Livestock producers should limit risks

The major risk facing livestock producers this year is the unlikely possibility of another weather-related, short-grain crop, leading to another sharp increase in feed costs, according to economists speaking at the American Farm Bureau's Cattle-Hog Cycle Forum in St. Louis this month.

Ed Uvacek, president of Western Research and professor emeritus at Texas A&M University, said there are signs in the Jan. 1 cattle and calf inventory that cattlemen are finally convinced that the high calf prices of the past several years merit herd expansion.

Uvacek said expansion of the beef cow herd is occurring but not at a very rapid pace. Cow and calf numbers were only up about 1 percent from January a year ago, but the significant figures are the 4 percent more cows in the inventory and the 3 percent increase in heifer calves kept for breeding, compared to a year earlier, he said.

The reason for all that caution is due, in part, to past experiences and partly because of the difficulty feed lot operators are having making a profit.

The calf crop now getting ready to be placed on feed is no larger than a year ago, so cow-calf operators should still see profits in 1994. The expansion phase, which began in 1989, even if very slowly, has yielded only about 1 percent per year increase in cattle and calf numbers. The peak of this cycle should come sometime in the 1995-97 period, Uvacek said.

Since feedlot placements were considerably lower in the last quarter of 1993—about 6 percent less than a year earlier—supplies of cattle coming to market this spring and early summer will be well below a year ago and possibly even under that of 1992, he said.

Uvacek sees Choice fed steers selling in the low-to-mid $70 per hundredweight range in the first quarter of this year, rising to between $78 and $81 in the second quarter and leveling off in the mid-$70s in the last half of 1994.

Uvacek expects a consistent $10 spread between feeder calf and fed steer prices with the average feeder costing between $85 and $88 per cwt. in the first quarter, topping at between $88-$92 in the April-June quarter and back into the mid-$80s for the last half.

WHEAT DISEASE TOUR

A Wheat Disease Tour will be held Wed., Apr. 6, to evaluate area wheat fields for disease pressure.

The tour will begin at 8 a.m. at the State Breeding Trial located on the Selby Farm. The Selby Farm is located southeast of the Era Community and south of the Greg Selby home.

At 10 a.m. the tour will be at the Wheat Variety Trials located on Highway 82 at FM 2739. This is farmed by J.H. Bayer & Sons.

At 11 a.m. the tour will be at the Aloys Fuhrmann Farm located on FM 1199 north of Lindsay.

And at 1:30 p.m. we will be at the Schumacher Brothers Wheat Variety Plots located on Highway 51 at Gainesville by the Elm Fork Bridge. Russell Sutton, Assistant Research Scientist with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station; Jim Blalock, Extension Agronomist; Kirby Cozart, Ciba Sales Representative; and John Cagle, Miles Research Development Specialist; will all be on hand to answer questions concerning various diseases of wheat and make recommendations as to need or lack of need for chemical control. We will offer 1.5 Continuing Education Units to those producers attending the tour for recertification purposes. If you have any questions as to locations or times, give me a call at the County Extension Office.

ANNUAL RYEGRASS TRIALS

Jim Blalock, Extension Agronomist, recently completed some Roundup Trials on Cropland. Field trials using Roundup to control annual ryegrass showed surfactants improve effectiveness where corn or grain sorghum will be planted.

It's clear that less Roundup is needed when surfactants are used in this application. This could reduce costs for annual ryegrass control and achieve better control at the same time.

Comparison trials showed Induce was a better surfactant than ammonium sulfate and could replace it. Roundup at 1.5 pints with 0.5 percent Induce provided 95 percent control in 21 days and 99 percent control in 33 days.

Ammonium sulfate, added at 2 percent V/V, provided 80 percent control at 21 days while tank mix of Induce/sulfate provided 98 percent control at 21 days after treatment. At 33 days, all surfactants achieved commercial ryegrass control when 1.5 pints of Roundup was used.

The result demonstrations were conducted in Denton County on .01 acres with three replications evaluated rates and surfactants for using Roundup to control annual ryegrass. The tests with Roundup were applied at one-half, one, one and one-half, and two pints per acre at 12 gallons total mix per acre using a backpack. This demonstration also indicated that 2,4-D, or an equivalent, should be added if henbit or clovers are present.

WHEAT DISEASE RATINGS

Recently, we again made disease evaluations on wheat plots in the county. Diseases continue to cause economic losses to county small grains by reducing yields from grain loss, shriveled grain, loss of test weight, and plant death. The major diseases causing county producers problems are rusts, powdery mildew, septoria leaf blotch, early yellow dwarf virus, and loose smut.

There are three species of rusts known commonly as leaf rust, stem rust and stripe rust. Leaf and stem rusts occur most frequently. Most destruction of wheat plants occurs when the disease occurs before flowering. Rusts decrease the crops foliage value if it occurs in the winter. And as many producers can confirm, it can cause a great deal of grain loss and plant destruction in the spring. New races of rust are constantly attacking resistance in wheat varieties making it necessary to change varieties. Rusts have been overwintering in Texas and infecting some wheat varieties early in the fall and winter. Mild winters also allow for the spread of rust spores to additional fields.

Powdery mildew usually infects the lower leaves in heavy canopy wheat crops. This disease reduces the amount of leaf area used for food manufacturing for the plant. Dense foliage and moist air combine to make this disease more of a problem. The fungus appears as a grayish white mold of plant parts.

Septoria leaf blotch appears as irregular blotches scattered over leaf parts. Leaf blotch can kill tillers if appearing early. Producers need to look at the degree of infection, leaf location, and height on the plant to evaluate severity to a field. Crop rotation and deep plowing can help to eliminate the severity of this disease in a field.

Barley yellow dwarf virus is a disease transmitted by insects, primarily greenbugs. Infected crops appear stunted, can have yellow or purple tipped leaves, and can produce a 5 to 20 percent yield loss to a field. Early fall plantings are the most susceptible and it appears there is much relationship to variety selection.

Loose smut is easily recognized by the black smutty head that will produce no grain. This disease in wheat is seed-borne on the inside of the kernel from infected fields. This disease can be economically controlled by using seed treated with fungicides.

Disease pressures can be controlled by cultural practices (deep plowing, crop rotation, planting dates, etc.) and by the use of commercial seed fungicide treatments and foliar fungicides. Producers need to take note of their wheat varieties and stay current on varieties by evaluating disease pressure and yield results. The following chart is a March rating of two of the county wheat variety demonstration plots.
