NUMBER 40

Recent assurance by the Administration that the situation in South Viet Nam is going our way seems to be upset by this week's reports that General Khanh, who received U. S. blessing as the country's president, has yielded to the pressure of student demonstrators and given up his office.

Considering the fact that the demonstrations have been communist led, the report suggests a possibility that Khanh and the other people on our side are not doing very well. If they had the situation under control they certainly would not give in to the demands of the red-led mobs. That's obvious. So it's equally obvious that our political situation in the country's capital is about as poor as our military situation in the jungle.

Don't be surprised if we're told very soon that American forces have pulled out and our extended million-dollar-a-day effort to check the advance of communism in Southeast Asia has ended in another dismal failure. United States looks smaller than ever in the eyes of the world. Red China looks bigger than ever. This is the situation as Democrats at their national convention boast about our growth of prestige.

That should not be surprising. What else could be expected of a no-win policy? MacArthur told us years ago that it's absurd to just try to hold the line. No enemy was ever defeated that way. It makes us wonder, with justified bitterness, why we remained there sacrificing American lives if we had no intention of winning.

It makes us wonder even more why, in the first place, we ever abandoned the idea of winning, especially when a confident and eager ally awaited only our permission to get in and put an end to the big mess.

Nationalist China has been ready since 1950, always eager to invade the mainland and overthrow the red dynasty. Together with them we could have wiped communism off the Asian map as a finale to the Korean war. And ever since then they have claimed they could set off a liberation movement that would overwhelm the red leaders.

History has shown how it could be done. At one stage of the Spanish civil war communists had taken the entire country. Franco invaded with an insignificant small force that grew and grew as the country's natives joined in the cause. His army continued growing while the red army shrank. He became the only man so far who ousted the commies after they had taken full control.

Reports from China tell us the same possibility has existed there for years. Nationalist troops need only a foothold. From there on they can march to victory as Franco did, as millions of oppressed Chinese join in their campaign of liberation.

Why haven't the Nationalists been given that chance? Why have we, instead of helping and encouraging their noble endeavor, actually prevented them from doing civilization's most needed job?

Next question: What's our future plan regarding Asia? Will we pull out and abandon the last opportunity to turn the tide toward freedom and civilization?

It isn't as though we have no business over there. On the contrary, we have a sacred duty to those people. We got them into their mess when we double crossed Chiang's forces during the communist uprising. We deliberately lost the Korean war. And we deliberately followed a futile containment policy ever since. We have betrayed Asia, sold it into slavery. Conscience tells us that we have a duty to help undo the harm we have done. Furthermore, common sense tells us that if we don't start doing something soon we, too, will become eventual victims of our folly. The farther we permit the reds to go the harder they will be to stop.

It's time our government stopped handing us the bunk about keeping out of war. We are at war, both hot and cold. The important and frightening fact about it is that we are not trying to win.

Chemical tests in present use are sensitive enough to detect one part in a billion of certain drugs.

Hornets Continue Rugged Practice Into Second Week

The Hornets of Muenster High under guidance of Coach James Polk are still putting in two tough sessions a day hoping that extra practice will compensate to some extent for their shortage of players. With only 20 on the squad they will have an obvious shortage of reserve strength.

Nevertheless Coach Polk is optimistic about his boys. He has lost four from last year's team, two by graduation and two on doctors' orders, but the remaining seven are huskier and more experienced. Team strength should be better than last year.

The first show of the team's ability is set for Friday night at 8 when the Hornets go to Whitesboro for a scrimmage session. After that they will have two more weeks of practice before opening the season with Lindsay's Knights. Two more non-conference games will follow that, then the Hornets settle down to seven games of District 9-B competition. Six of this year's games will be played at home. Homecoming game is with Era on October 24.

The schedule: Sept. 12, Lindsay, here. Sept. 18, Valley View Warriors, here. Sept. 26, Ardmore B, here. Oct. 9, Valley View Eagles, here. Oct. 16, Sanger, there. Oct. 24, Era, here. Oct. 30, Saint Jo, there. Nov. 6, Alvord, there. Nov. 13, Callisburg, here. Nov. 20, Chico, here.

Beginning with 15 employees and a small inventory of equipment, the factory has grown steadily until it now has 75 employees with modern equipment, including automatic conveyors moving the materials and products. The payroll for the month just passed was the biggest ever, $20,342.29 to 75 employees, about half of which are from the Muenster community.

Clothing made here has been gaining in popularity especially last year when its Judy Junior dress was selected as the official dress for Miss Teen Age America contestants. The Raden Company of Dallas, which sells the plant's products, now has twelve salesmen on the road, as compared with six in 1959, and all of their merchandise is produced at Muenster.

To assist in that growth the Industrial Foundation this year made another loan to the Raden Company for additional equipment and operating capital.

Tigers Are Eager For Scrimmage With Valley View

Sacred Heart's Tigers are two weeks of practice are eager for their scrimmage session with the Valley View Eagles this weekend to learn what phase of their play will need extra attention before they take on Whitesboro a week later.

He is confident also that the team will be stronger than in recent years. It's bigger than usual and can be expected to show more push, though probably less speed. Likewise, reserve strength is encouraging. One more player came out this week making the squad total 26.

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

Rain has finally come to our part of the upper Elm-Red Soil Conservation District. It has been an extremely dry year and has greatly reduced the production of our pasture grasses as well as the hay and orange crops. The main concern now of all cooperators who are livestock owners, especially the dairyman, is what to do to get some fast production and to extend that production into the early winter months.

Those who were fortunate enough to have their land plowed before the rains came have a big advantage. Some will plant a small grain crop of wheat, oats or rye and should fertilize with approximately 15-40-0. Some will plant sweet clover, alone or mixed with grain and others will plant alfalfa, vetch and peas. These legumes should be fertilized with at least 40 pounds of phosphate. Cooperators whose land is not plowed will be able to utilize a volunteer crop for the next two months with excellent grazing. Volunteer crops should then be plowed under to help eliminate green bugs. Most cooperators will use one or more of the above methods in an effort to save their hay supply.

There is, however, another method. It is generally overlooked by most cooperators, but personnel of the Soil Conservation Service feel it is even better than the above ways. At times like this SCS Personnel say: "Look to your grass." From your grass, especially Bermudas, the land owner can have fast production and can extend this production into the early winter months. It only takes 30 pounds of Nitrogen, less than four dollars, per acre and 2 to 3 weeks of rest. By mid-September your livestock can be grazing a high quality grass. It seems that many cooperators would be ahead money wise and production wise by investing in some fertilizer for their grass and/or small grain.

For further information call or come by your local SCS office.

CDA Plans Event On Local Court's 50th Anniversary

During their meeting Friday August 14 Catholic Daughters of America made plans to observe the golden anniversary of the local court next December. Charter members are Mrs. L. A. Bernauer, Miss Anna Hellman, Mrs. Jake Horn Sr., Mrs. M. J. Endres and Miss Teresa Luke. Twenty five year members are Mrs. John Fisher, Mrs. Clarence Hellman, Mrs. R. N. Fette and Mrs. John Wieler. At the present time there are 124 members. A reception of new candidates is planned for the 50 year observance.

Grand Regent Mrs. Al Schmitt appointed Mrs. Betty Landsfeld and Mrs. Leo Lawson as co-chairmen of the annual Christmas Bazaar and told about some of the handmade articles that have been completed and about some of the work Mrs. Frank Yosten has done.

The local court is very pleased with its sale of Christmas cards so far and has more to sell. The cards show a color picture of the High Altar and other Christmas decorations in Sacred Heart Church, made during the past Christmas season.

Mrs. J. M. Weinzapfel announced that she continues to take mission goods to the State Hospital at Wichita Falls. She asked for reading material and said too that there is a need for cotton dresses for women patients. Also very welcome are materials and supplies for hand work for both men and women patients. If anyone has such things to give, she said she will be happy to take them to the Hospital. At next month's meeting a speaker from Wichita Falls will be here. Mrs. Charles Fisher will head a committee to call all members to urge full attendance at the meeting.

The Grand Regent mentioned that Fr. Joseph Weinzapfel will preach the sermon at Masses Sunday to tell of mission work in Latin America.

She also told of the gift of six dozen glasses from Mrs. Martin Trubenbach.

Cards of thanks were read from Fr. Harry Fisher, Fr. Bruno, Mrs. J. M. Weinzapfel and Mrs. Steve Moster.

Members expressed their sympathy to Mrs. Kenneth Dobbs whose father passed away recently.

During the business session committee reports were brief and routine. Mrs. Gene Schmitz and Mrs. Charlie Fisher served refreshments following the meeting. Mrs. Martin Becker will assist Mrs. Schmitz at the September meeting.

SOLID COMFORT!

As it has for many weeks throughout Texas . . . the temperature was probably soaring up near or over the 100-degree mark outside. Maybe this fellow had to work outside. But, he's now enjoying restful sleep . . . solid comfort . . . thanks to his electric air conditioning.

When the weather is extremely hot, air conditioners must work extra-hard to remove heat and provide cool comfort. TP&L must operate more generating plants and increase the size of lines, transformers and other facilities to keep pace with the increasing demand for electricity.

All of this costs money. But, for all of the solid comfort it buys, it's still the biggest bargain in town.

OPERATING COST OF AIR CONDITIONING*

| | MAY | JUNE | JULY | AUG. | SEPT. |
|-----------------|--------|--------|---------|---------|--------|
| Average per ton | $1.60 | $7.90 | $12.60 | $13.20 | $4.90 |

The registration process will be conducted in the College gym, with both day and evening sessions.

Freshman Testing and Orientation will be conducted Wednesday, September 9, beginning at 8:30 a.m. All beginning freshmen should plan to attend this one session.

Students who plan to attend CCJC this fall should complete a pre-enrollment card, before registration, if at all possible. These cards have been mailed to all high school graduates in the college services area. This will enable college personnel to pre-punch a card packet for prospective students. This card may be secured and completed at the College during the pre-enrollment interview.

Elm-Red District
Sets September 26
For Grass Judging

A contest which started back in 1950 in the Upper Elm-Red Soil Conservation District is continuing year after year with renewed interest over the district. This is the grass judging contest which attracted 80 boys last year from the Future Farmers Agriculture Departments in the Upper Elm-Red Soil Conservation District and three county agricultural extension agents. This year's contest will mark the 15th anniversary of this district sponsored activity.

This year's contest will be held in Gainesville, Saturday, September 26th, beginning at 8 a.m. in the Cooke County Junior College Gymnasium. The Board of Supervisors of the Upper Elm-Red SCD will host the group for a noon luncheon and present awards to the winning teams and highest ranking individuals in the contest.

Each team will be composed of four boys with the highest three making up the team score. There will be a junior division for first year agriculture students and a senior division for older boys. This contest is quite different from any other contest you might enter.

There is a pay-off for knowledge of plants in this endeavor. Each contestant will be asked to give the common name of 50 plants selected from the several hundred which grow in this soil conservation district. He will also be asked to further identify the plant by giving additional facts such as (1) annual or perennial; (2) cool season grower or warm season; (3) native to America or introduced to this country; (4) good, fair, or poor for wildlife; (5) good, fair, or poor grazing value, and whether the plant is poison to livestock.

This type of training enables each boy who tries out for a grass judging team to become more familiar with the plants which grow in our district and to appreciate their relative merits in a livestock program. This becomes an interesting and fascinating game of trying to name correctly every plant you see and to know about each plant.

Tips From
Your Hatchery

It's fertilizing time for those "drought sick" lawns. Folks that used our Organic based lawn fertilizer last year and this spring are repeat customers, for they have learned they have nicer lawns and lower water bills.

If you have crab grass or weeds in your lawn, STAGREEN, with Simazine, will do the job. Four pounds per 100 sq. ft. is the recommended amount.

Bothered with dogs or rabbits in your flower bed? New SKAT STICKS will do the job and they are long lasting, too. Don't let aphids ruin your black eyed peas or turnip greens. We have the SAFE insecticide to send them by-bye. Clive.

Looking to Your Future...

Supplying you with dependable, low-cost electric power today is only a part of TP&L's obligation to its customers. Another essential part of this obligation is its planning and building ahead for your electrical needs tomorrow.

Two big generating units are now under construction, and will be ready to serve you in 1965 and 1966. When completed they will add 3/4 million kilowatts to the Company's capability.

Even as these plants are going up, other plans are on the drawing boards extending to 1980.

It is only through such planning and building ahead that TP&L and other investor-owned electric utility companies are able to keep pace with the growing demands for electricity in homes, businesses and industries.

For example, the average TP&L residential customer used more than four times as much electricity in 1963 than he used in 1948.

In 1964, TP&L expects to spend more than $52 million on new construction. During the 1964-1970 period, construction expenditures by all investor-owned electric companies of the nation are expected to exceed $34 billion.

Past records and projected plans of TP&L and the nation's other investor-owned electric companies are your assurance of an adequate and economical supply of electricity in the future.
