VOLUME VII

MUENSTER, TEXAS, COOKE COUNTY, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 1944

NUMBER 52

War or no war, this camp can take time out for an election. Prior to the big day loud and ferocious arguments went far into the night. Afterward all was calm. Only a few election pay-offs and the inevitable razzing, which was taken as good naturedly as it was dished out.

One of the bets here would have rated some swell publicity had it been stated by Hollywood celebrities. A Roosevelt man got a mile ride in a GI ricksha adorned with signs and tin cans and pushed by two Dewey supporters. The only bad feature is that the winner got the worst of the bargain. Hanging on through all the jolts, he was more fagged than the men who pushed.

What we especially like to note about the election is, first of all, that democracy can function even in a crisis. Here's hoping totalitarian minds all over the world have taken note. Secondly that we are a nation of good winners and losers. From candidates and supporters alike came thousands of statements the next day offering congratulations and pledging their support to the winners.

In that spirit lies the true greatness of America. While candidates are seeking office they do it with a fervor, and supporters are equally fervent. The result is that enthusiasm frequently overcomes judgement and tact. Regrettable things are said and done. Fortunately the public makes allowances because the fault is equally prevalent on both sides.

Then comes election day. Far into the night people sit around their radios, waiting for the returns. Finally most of them go to bed happy. They are the majority whose candidate won. The others are the disappointed minority.

Next day everything appears to be back to normal. The only exceptions are a small percentage of gloaters and die hards. The nation is united again. The course is laid out and minority joins majority in a determination to make the most of it.

And now, to the task ahead, the first and most important phase of which is to win this war in the shortest possible time. In that endeavor we are lucky in one respect. The winning party's principal reason for its election, was its superior ability to cope with that problem. It has the backing of public confidence. It is in a favored position to receive the greatest possible cooperation.

Too many of us make the mistake of thinking we are so remote-connected with the war that we do not count. We think it's the concern of soldiers over there and war plant workers over here while overlooking in many things we could do to help. Such as an extra bond now and then, an extra dollar to the war chest, a little extra effort in conserving vital materials. The individual's small contribution, insignificant as it seems becomes tremendous when multiplied by millions.

Ever since the war started we have heard bitter criticism about heartless workers striking when their products are so critically needed. We have heard industrialists denounced for profiteering on the nation's peril. Most of us have added our own voices to the storm of complaint. But very few have stopped to consider how much we ourselves hindered the war effort.

Every soldier who sold bricks on the job, every man who speeds or makes an unnecessary trip in his car, every farmer who skimps on his care of crops or livestock, every housewife who buys a black market steak, every kid who ruins a pair of shoes is prolonging the war a little more. There isn't a person in the country who hasn't failed in one or several respects.

Many of us still have not changed our perspective with regard to the little things. We used to consider any small waste as a strictly personal affair. Aside from expense to the person considered nobody was affected because there was enough to go around anyway. That was during times of plenty. Now commodities are scarce. There has to be a corresponding privation for every waste, and too often the privation is vital. A few years ago we had a right to be extravagant. Today we have a responsibility to conserve.

The principle of a balance between right and responsibility is at the core of practically every major problem confronting the nation today. Labor owes an honest day's work for its right to fair wages and working conditions. Industry owes value to its customer and fairness to its employee for its right to a profit. A citizen owes loyalty and support to his government for his right to service and protection. And so on through every field of human endeavor. To restore the proper

Garden Club Has Annual Election Of Officers Friday

New Committee Formed For Park Beautification; Other Plans Discussed

The annual election of officers was featured at the monthly meeting of the Civic League and Garden Club Friday afternoon. All members of the executive committee were re-elected for another year as follows:

Miss Olivia Stock, president; Mrs. M.J. Endres, vice-president; Mrs. Tony Gremminger, secretary; Mrs. Lou Wolf, treasurer, and Rosa Driever, reporter.

Three new chairmen were elected for standing committees, two were re-elected to their positions and one new committee was formed.

The new committee, the park committee, is headed by Mrs. T. S. Myrick as chairman. The city park is to be one of the major projects of the organization. Its beautification and the development of a recreational program holds a special interest for the League and Garden Club women.

Other new chairmen are Mrs. J.M. Weintraub, program and yearbook; Mrs. Frank Kaiser, sanitation; Mrs. J.P. Fish, flower show and pilgrimage. Returned to office for another year are Mrs. Joe Luke, highway chairman and Mrs. Jim Cook, chairman of the Red Cross committee.

In addition to the park project members discussed the beautification of the city square, or ball park, as a forthcoming undertaking, and voted to send a cash donation to "The Living Memorial" to be erected at McCloskey Hospital in Temple, in which Texas Garden Clubs are participating.

Mrs. Cook announced that local ladies had recently completed 200 soldier's kits as a Red Cross sewing assignment and asked members to cooperate in baking cookies for soldiers confined to Camp Howze Station hospital for Thanksgiving. She also stated that convalescent soldiers are asking for boxes to send Christmas gifts and other articles to their homes. Any type or size of box is welcomed, she added.

The Sanitation committee announced that it hopes to arrange for a tin can clean-up in the near future, as soon as a truck is available, and the highway committee announced that the west marker has been cleaned around and that flowering shrubs will be planted soon.

Members discussed plans for a benefit social to be held for the purpose of raising funds for their city beautification projects, and talked about going to Denton on November 28 to attend a one-day conference, "Recreation in the Community," to be held at TSCW. Before adjourning members drew names for an exchange of Christmas gifts. The next meeting will be in the form of a Christmas party at the home of Mrs. T. S. Myrick.

Mrs. C.W. Ratliff and son, Michael of Lubbock arrived Friday for visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Fette and family. When they returned home Tuesday they were accompanied by her mother and her sister, Mrs. Ben Sevier, who visited in Lubbock until Thursday.

John Lehnertz, 69, Dies Of Heart Attack Monday Morning

—During the past summer, Johnny Furbach of Amarillo, formerly of this city, became interested in radio and decided to acquire as much knowledge as possible on the subject by means of books he bought. At the end of the summer he built a radio with which he is shown. The radio is composed of one tube, one variable and three fixed condensers, a register and an antenna coil. Johnny uses headphones on his radio and hears both local stations and foreign broadcasts. He is the 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Furbach and is also a talented violinist. He attended Sacred Heart school here until his parents moved to Amarillo, where he is now a pupil of St. Mary's academy.

John Lehnertz, 69, a resident of Muenster for 44 years, died early Monday morning in a Dallas hospital from a heart attack.

Funeral services were held here Thursday morning at 9:30 at Sacred Heart church with Pastor Rev. Thomas Buegler officiating at the requiem high mass and at burial in the local cemetery. He also delivered the sermon for the occasion.

Victor, Remsen, Iowa, and Mrs. H.N. Fisch, Fort Worth. Mr. Lehnertz was born in Remsen, Iowa, on September 9, 1875, and came to this community when the family moved here on Jan. 1, 1900. He assisted his father, the late Michael Lehnertz in farming, and at the same time engaged in buying grain and cotton here in partnership with the late Frank Seyler. In 1915 the Lehnertz moved to town and Mr. Lehnertz, Sr. died two years later. In 1918 John Lehnertz and Frank Seyler went into the garage and automobile business. They erected the brick building on Main Street, now Hennigan Motor Co., and when Mr. Seyler retired in 1924, H.P. Hennigan joined Mr. Lehnertz in the business. In 1930 Mr. Lehnertz retired from active work.

His death came as a severe shock to his family and his many friends. He had gone to Dallas two weeks previously for treatment and was prepared to return home on Tuesday of this week. His condition had not been considered serious.

The body arrived here Wednesday morning and lay in state at the home of Mrs. M.J. Endres until the funeral services. Rosary was recited on Wednesday evening at 9 o'clock.

Mr. Lehnertz was of a friendly, jolly disposition and was held in high esteem by all who knew him. Since his aged mother became bed fast he spent a great deal of time at her side and was very solicitous in his care for her.

Mrs. Steve Fette this week purchased Ezell's Cafe from John Ezell, and took over management of the business Tuesday. The new name of the place is Clara's Cafe. Former manager, Joe Ezell is returned to Sanger to reside.

Operating a cafe is no new experience for Mrs. Fette. For four years she was owner and manager of Clara's Cafe here on Main Street. She sold out in 1939 when she and her husband moved to Illinois.

In announcing purchase of the business, Mrs. Fette invites the public to visit Clara's Cafe. She will serve all home cooked meals and specializes in T-bone steak dinners. She is retaining the same personnel. Open hours are from 6 a.m. to midnight.

Stolen Car Recovered At Camp Howze Sunday

John Wieler's car, stolen two weeks ago, was recovered Sunday evening at Camp Howze. A local garage owner, visiting the camp on business, discovered the missing vehicle and notified the owner, who went immediately to bring it home.

It was never determined whether it was taken by a soldier or a civilian worker at camp, and upon investigating no one at the camp could give information, nor could the keys to the car be found. Enroute home it was discovered that the motor had been burned out from driving without water.

FREAK HAIL STORM VISITS COMMUNITY BRIEFLY MONDAY

This sector was visited Monday night by a brief hail storm which came at about 8 o'clock without warning. Hail stones varied in size, but most of them were large and jagged, shaped like stars, and some just chunks of ice resembled cubes from a refrigerator. Around town several measurements were made of the larger stones and they averaged from 6 to 8 inches in circumference.

Luckily the hail lasted for less than five minutes and no serious damage was reported, tho it is said to have inflicted minor damage to composition roofs. There was no rain fall, either before or after, and no thunder or lightning.

Sacred Heart High School Congress

You didn't know that a S.H. H. Congress existed. Did you? Well the American Government Class can tell you there was one. The Juniors and Seniors comprising the class really acted the part of Congress. Since their lessons dealt with Congress in Action and in order that the class might understand it better they divided the class into two Houses, the House of Representatives and the Senate with the teacher as presiding president. They proposed bills, some of them very favorable, discussed and debated them and passed them from House to House, which either signed the bill or overruled it. The class learned the whole procedure and followed the parliamentary rules to the adjournment.

Now say that Sacred Heart H. didn't have a real Congress.

We wish to thank Mrs. Gus Hellman for her renewal subscription to the Catholic Digest for our library.

The school has also just received the first study and discussion guide for the Catholic Digest prepared by Hugo E. Hellman, Ph. D. of Marquette University. Professor Hellman has outlined a discussion guide for collateral projects for use in religion, history, speech, English and dramatics.

The American Government class has begun the study of the project of the Polish Question as outlined for the history classes.

4-H Club Meeting Held

On Monday afternoon November 6, the 4-H Club boys met for the first time for the current school year with Mr. Brient, the County 4-H Club leader.

At this meeting, the organization of the club took place and the following officers were elected: Thomas Gremminger, president; Anthony Joseph Felderhoff, vice-president; Gerald Bayer, secretary; Kenneth Wiesman, reporter.

S.H.H.S. vs Saint Jo

Sacred Heart High School volleyball team played its first game with Saint Jo on Wednesday November 8. It was one of great excitement and suspense.

Although Saint Jo beat two games out of three we didn't go away discouraged but with a look of determination. This determination is seen in the practice of the first and second teams.

Students of Sacred Heart High enjoyed a holiday on Wednesday due to the fact that the teachers went to Dallas to attend the Diocesan Teachers Institute.

School Daze

MUESTER PUBLIC SCHOOL.

Joan Roberg and Ida Belle Travis

The high school girls have organized a new club. They say it's a study club, but they won't tell us what they're going to study. If we find out anymore about it, we'll let you know.

At their last meeting they elected officers: Katherine Reeves, president; Ida Belle Travis, vice-president; Mary Jo Williams secretary-treasurer; Joan Roberg reporter.

The following committees were appointed. Constitution, Chairman, Joan Roberg; Program, chairman Ida Belle Travis; Social Chairman, Patsy Ezell.

Mrs. Thompson's room was the first to reach the 100 per cent goal in the Junior Red Cross drive. The high school has also reached its quota in the drive which ended Nov. 15.

The school finally cooled off after the election. Such strong arguments between the Dewey and Roosevelt supporters have finally ceased.

We had a lot of fun out of Harold Reeves saying that Roosevelt had been in Washington about 27 years, because he was in one of those Cabinets for a while.

Katherine mis-read her Ancient History lesson and was very worked up over Solon for mistreating the poor. The class finally gave up trying to pronounce "Pistetratus" and just called it Pie-Crust.

The English 4 class has just finished "MacBeth" and the English 2 has finished "Silas Marner".

We are tired of hearing "Life's but a walking shadow" and are glad to have Eppie safely married. The algebra classes are working on stated problems — enough said.

The seventh grade spelling class has started on its second speller — Are they that smart or could it be that they are just dumb?

Ida Belle was worrying about being stood up Saturday night.

but she ended up with two Lindsay boys instead of one, and it looks like she has them again for Thursday.

Why is it that Joan wants to go to Saint Jo to play volleyball — could it be some Saint Jo boy?

The girls have been winning over the boys in volleyball. Are the girls getting better or has the fact that Maurice lost his gum discouraged the boys? Anyway Junior and J.D. talk a good game.

A NEW LAUREL FOR TEXAS' WAR RECORD

Texas-Made Tires

With well deserved pride, Texas greets leading representatives of the nation's Press, come to participate in "Texas-In-The-War" week and eager to tell all America of the tremendous contributions Texans and Texas industry have made to the war effort.

And, Texas can take particular pride that November 13th marks the dedication of the first tire ever to be built in Texas . . . at the huge new plant of The General Tire & Rubber Company at Waco.

Truly, Texas has gone all the way to meet America's immediate need for greatly increased production of military tires.

A year and a half ago, at Baytown, we began operation of the first synthetic rubber plant in Texas . . . established there to make full use of the priceless minerals found in such lavish abundance under the soil of Texas.

Since then, with the aid of willing Texas hands, we have produced synthetic rubber in quantities beyond all estimates.

Now comes the final step. For today Texas has its own tire plant . . . from which Texas-made tires will speed to the fighting fronts . . . and where Texas will build the finished product from raw materials drawn from every corner of its own great Commonwealth.

We of General Tire are happy to reaffirm our faith in the productive capacity of Texas and to become an even closer partner in its industrial progress.

When Texas enters its tremendous peacetime future . . . this General Tire plant will be ready with Texas-made passenger car tires, truck tires and aircraft tires for all of the South and Southwest . . . thus assuring Texas that it will be the hub of supply for this area's expected expansion of transportation on rubber.

100% war production at Waco will hasten that day.

Your Home

The other evening at an informal buffet supper I saw "in action" the very special convenience of a nest-of-tables. In this home there were a pair of these very decorative pieces on either side of the fireplace.

As time for refreshments arrived, I noticed there were still no signs of a table being set, although there were eight to be served, and there was plenty of evidence of activity in the kitchen.

The husband appeared with a big tray. This he set on the low cocktail table. And in a twinkling he moved out the two smaller tables from each of the "nests," placing these conveniently by the chairs the guests were occupying. Then the hostess came from the kitchen with a steaming percolator of coffee and a huge platter of sandwiches. When these were passed, each guest shared with another the use of one of the small tables from the nest.

It all took place quickly, easily, and graciously. I realized more strongly than ever why in the recent survey of Imperial Furniture Company of Grand Rapids, nest-of-tables were third in popularity among all types of tables. Since that evening I have been talking with some of my friends who have nest-of-tables in their homes, to learn other uses to which they are being put.

One woman, who has two high school age children, finds that the use of nests solves the problem of a small desk for doing home work. And she herself uses one for writing letters. Another uses one of the nests for sewing. And, of course, for bridge parties nests really shine. You can put a small table on diagonal corners for ash trays, drinks, and even more pads, keeping the card table clear for playing.

New Freedom Kitchen Wins Name Contest Of American Gas Industry

"The New Freedom Gas Kitchen", is the name selected for the postwar co-ordinated kitchen to be promoted by the gas industry to make American housewife's cooking responsibilities easier and more economical. The name was the winning entry among 5,134 turned in by gas industry employees throughout the United States and Canada in a contest conducted by the American Gas Association. The winner was Everett A. Taylor of the Providence (Rhode Island) Gas Company, who was awarded $500 in War Bonds. "The New Freedom Gas Kitchen" will be used extensively in the advertising of the gas industry.

R. M. Scofield of Dallas, chief meter and regulator inspector for Lone Star Gas Company, received a $100 War Bond as one of the nine regional winners. His entry was "The Matchless Service Gas Kitchen." Gas company executives generally have indicated their intent to show and advertise the most modern gas kitchens available and new freedom will be the keynote.

The gas industry is developing a package kitchen which will contain a gas range, gas refrigerator, sink, and cabinets and will be so ventilated that it will be cool in the summer and warm in winter, and also will remove cooking odors. The contest was held to get a name for this modern kitchen, which will be ready after the war.

Already providing the cooking fuel for 19,500,000 families in the United States, the gas industry believes that cooperation with manufacturers will make it possible to simplify production of

DECLARE WAR ON RATS
We are making a county wide campaign on getting rid of rats. If you are interested in getting rid of rats contact the Bank, Fishers Market or F.M.A. Store where you will be able to place your order for as many units of poison bait that you need. The poison in this bait is red squill and this poison will not harm cats, dogs or other farm animals. This bait will cost 25c per unit. You must place your order during the week of November 20 to 25th. No orders will be taken after Saturday November 25th. One unit will poison an average house or barn. Your bait will be delivered to the place where you placed your order, on Wednesday November 29th. It will be absolutely necessary to get this bait on this date. Directions on how to place this bait will be on the bag. If you fail to poison your rats you may have some from the adjoining farms where they have completed a good job of poisoning.

AAA COMMITTEEMEN WILL BE NAMED IN ANNUAL ELECTIONS
Farmer Committeemen who will have important roles in war and post-war farm problems will be named at annual AAA elections in Cooke County between December 11th and Dec. 16th. Locations and dates of the election meetings will be announced as soon as they are arranged. Farmers will choose committeemen for each community, and delegates from these meetings will later name three county committeemen and alternates. Conservation practices for 1945, production goals, and general agricultural outlook will be among the subjects discussed at the meetings.

Your Home

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.—I receive letters every day from women who are bewildered to know just how to be sure of selecting "good quality" when choosing upholstered furniture — so much depends on "what's inside" that cannot be seen. As a guide to my readers I would suggest four simple rules.

One. Look long and carefully for the style and design that really fit in with the other things in your room, giving attention to size and scale best suited for members of your family who will most frequently use the chair or sofa you are buying.

Two. Choose the fabric just as thoughtfully as you would for a suit or coat, considering color, pattern, and material, considering, too, problems of wear and keeping clean. And look carefully to those details of tailoring and visible workmanship. They are "tip offs" of inside quality.

Three. Just as in anything else, don't expect something for nothing. Beware of "bargain prices." Rely on a store with a reputation for selling nice things.

Four. Above all else, look for the label or trade mark of reliable maker. Among all furniture, upholstered pieces are among the most difficult for even an expert to tell good quality from poor. So much depends on the inside, unseen construction. And yet it is almost entirely on "what's inside" that your comfort, your wearability, satisfaction, and value depend. It is best to place your confidence in an expert, just as you must do when buying a diamond. Such experts are makers who back their reputation by trade marking their product.

Committeemen represent both their neighbor farmers and the executive branch of the Federal government in the work and responsibilities of the Agricultural Adjustment Agency. Their recommendations, based on personal knowledge and experience, help shape agricultural programs to fit the needs of their own localities and to meet the problems of farmers and consumers throughout the nation.

"The election meetings will give local farmers a chance to consider the problems and the demands of the coming year," says J.T. Biffle, Jr., county AAA chairman. "A program is being arranged for a full discussion of what's ahead. Every farmer should attend the meeting in his community to take part in that discussion and to vote in this election."

Any of your calves showing up with circles under their eyes or turning in poor report cards? Chances are, if so, they are not getting enough Vitamin A, B complex or D.

All joking aside, calves do need vitamins, to keep them healthy, to build their bones properly and to help fight off certain diseases.

Vitamins are contained in the feed your calves get, but they may not be present in sufficient quantity. It's a very good idea and not too costly, to give them vitamins in capsules.

A circular called "Calves Need Vitamins" issued by the University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wis., recommends a double O size capsule of Vitamin A oil every other day, starting at birth and continuing until the calf is eating good quality hay.

B complex is recommended every other day for two or three weeks. These vitamins help clear up scours.

If your calves are getting plenty of sunshine, they may not need Vitamin D, but to prevent rickets add 1/4 to 1/2 pound of irradiated yeast to each 2,000 pounds of grain mixture.

The Wisconsin bulletin tells what vitamins do and why they should be added to your calves' diet. I suggest you write the extension service at Madison for a copy.

Another important point is that milk will not freeze as long as it is in a cooling tank.

Protect Cows in Winter
About this time of year, a fellow starts to think about digging out the old red flannels, but you can't get them big enough to dress your cows in. Cows put on winter coats which do a pretty good job of protecting the animals against cold, but you need to do your part, too.

If your cows stay out in cold wind and rain, a lot of the feed you give them will be used to keep them warm, instead of producing milk. A cheap shed will do a great deal to prevent this waste of feed. Extra milk produced and manure saved will pay for the shed in a very little time.

If you house your cows in a barn, the extension services advise that it should be well ventilated, but free from drafts. The barn temperature should not go below freezing.

Farmers' Bulletin No. 1470 has some sound advice on protecting cows in winter. I suggest you ask your county agent for a copy.

Winter Cooling of Milk Is Essential

Old Man Winter puts a stop to worrying about controlling most insects, but there seems to be a mistaken idea in some places that cold weather also stops the necessity for cooling milk rapidly.

Bacteria multiply as rapidly in winter as in summer, if the milk temperature is not brought down to 50 degrees or lower. Cold air circulating around a can of milk does not do the job. Even if it is sub-zero outside and down to 40 inside the milkhouse, you still should cool milk with circulating cold water, just as in summer.

Idaho University says cold water is 21 times as efficient as cold air in cooling milk. In an experiment performed there, milk temperature stayed above 80 degrees when the cans were in 40-degree air three hours. When the cans were placed in 40-degree circulating water, the milk temperature dropped below 50 in slightly more than an hour.

The only sure way to check development of bacteria, summer or winter, is to cool your milk rapidly. Otherwise, some of it may show a test below usable standards, when it reaches the receiving plant.

Protein Needed in Feed Ration

The size of a book won't tell you how much good you'll get out of it. Likewise, the quantity of feed you give your cows is not the only measure of the nourishment they are getting. The protein content is of first importance.

As far as quantity is concerned, standard recommendations are for one pound of grain for each 2 1/2 to 3 pounds of milk produced, plus two pounds of hay for every 100 pounds of live weight of the cow.

It's pretty difficult for an ordinary guy like me to figure out just by looking how much protein is in a feed ration, but there's an easy way to get the dope on it. All you need is a copy of the feeding booklet issued by the extension service in your state. It contains tables showing different protein contents of different rations and will tell you how to plan your rations properly.

Among these booklets are Circular 405, Extension Service, University of Missouri, Columbia, Mo., and Bulletin B-69, Extension Service, Texas A & M College, College Station, Texas.

"The Seventh Cross" coming to the Relax Theatre on November 20 and 21, is a moving story that intends to show that kindness and some spark of human friendliness burned in the hearts of some German's prior to the war and during the early Nazi purges and tells of the efforts of seven men to escape a concentration camp. Spencer Tracy, the seventh mind-tortured escapee, is eventually healed through the knowledge that there are men left in Germany willing to risk all to help Tracy is wonderful in his part and Signe Hasso is excellent.
