The interest in automation indicated by German Dairymen in their recent tour of this country points up a contrast which should give some of the nation's leaders food for serious thought. While visiting here one of the group said they are especially interested in mechanical means of doing work because of the serious shortage of man power over there. He did not mention any desire to adopt automation as a means of cutting production costs.

That's where their problem differs from ours. Over here automation is a matter of cost cutting. The aim is to create machines that will do the work of human hands thereby eliminating some of industry's high cost of production. It is a sort of necessary evil enabling American firms to meet competition, particularly with foreign manufacturers. The net result is that automation causes much of our unemployment whereas it compensates for much of the foreign shortages of labor.

This isn't intended to imply that America is hurt by automation. Over all its advantages far outweigh the disadvantages. While displacing some jobs automation creates other jobs. Good workers still have plenty of opportunity, as indicated by long Help Wanted lists in the classified sections of big papers. In fact, millions of men are needed just to make the machines which are taking some other workers' jobs. Everything considered, we probably have as many jobs with automation as we would without it, and the gross national output undeniably is much higher.

Judging hastily one might say that automation has put millions of American workers on unemployment rolls. But further thought suggests a possibility that constantly increasing wage levels was the cause behind the cause of the problem. Workers simply priced themselves out of the market. Even now, with the greater efficiency resulting from automation, production costs are still high. American workers are still pricing themselves out of the market. That fact becomes apparent when we think how many products are imported, underselling American products despite the cost of overseas shipment and despite efficiency of our own manufacturing methods. We'd have much less unemployment if our workers would be satisfied with a wage level that permits our manufacturers to compete with foreigners — at least on the items that the American public buys.

This idea may seem like the rankest heresy to some people. But is it, really? Suppose wages now were the same as ten years ago, or twenty years ago. Suppose also that prices were at the former levels. A worker would get fewer dollars, but those dollars would go farther. His standard of living would be no lower than it is now.

Don't be misled by the claim that most of us live better today. The reason for that is not that we have more money, but rather that efficiency of production makes more products available to all of us.

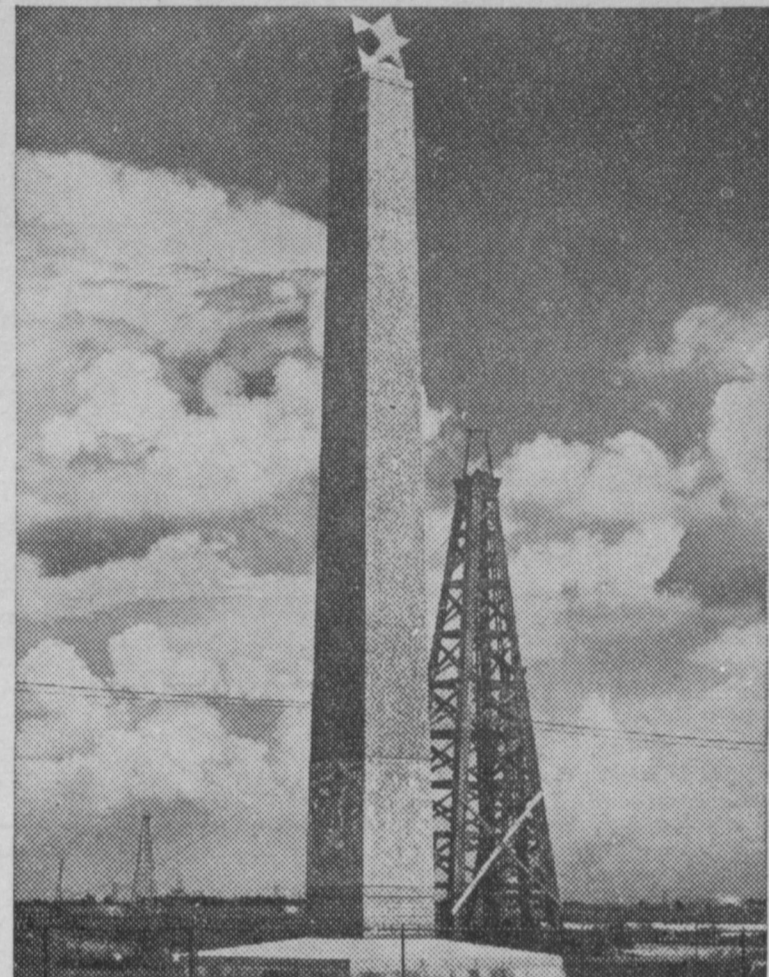

Actually, there are sound reasons for believing that all of us would be living better if wages and prices had not been permitted to spiral upward. For one thing we'd have more business and more jobs if we were better able to compete with foreigners. Furthermore we'd have more buying power if our savings had been permitted to retain their former value.

For many years the American working man has been the victim of a cruel hoax. He's been given one raise after another, and every raise has been absorbed by a corresponding increase in his cost of living. Meanwhile his savings have shrunk in value. His bank account, his insurance policy, his savings bonds are all worth less in purchasing power than before his raises. He lost in that respect while his ratio of income and outgo remained at the same level as before. Can anyone say that workers have actually gained by pay raises?

And how about people on a fixed income? They took the financial beating but got none of the benefits of rising wages. They have had something taken from them. In plain words, they have been robbed.

This isn't to say that no worker should have a raise. Everyone is entitled to the promotion merited by increased

2 Tigers Named On State Team of Catholic League

Two more Sacred Heart Tigers have been given spots on the football dream teams of parochial B schools of Texas. Last week's listing of the Texas Catholic Interscholastic League all state team had Larry Hess on the first defensive team and Steve Kralicke on the second offensive team. Twenty eight TCIL teams of the state were considered in making the selections.

A short time before Quarterback Leon Endres was chosen a back on the Texas Catholic All-District team.

And an All-Area team selected by the Gainesville Register has Larry Hess as a defensive back and Dale Hofbauer as an offensive center. Steve Kralicke and Robert Klement received honorable mentions.

Performance which earned the boys their honors are shown in these records kept during the season by Pat Herms.

Fullback Larry Hess, as linebacker made 103 tackles during the season, 17 in one game. On offense he carried 144 times for 613 yards and scored 34 points.

Halfback Steve Kralicke carried the ball 139 times for 1045 yards and scored 58 points. In one of the games he carried 15 times for 201 yards and 32 points in the first half.

Quarterback Leon Endres completed 25 out of 49 passes for 309 yards, carried 30 times for 116 yards, scored 30 points, made 45 tackles.

Halfback Robert Klement made 384 yards on 94 carries, scored 30 points made 45 tackles.

Dale Hofbauer as linebacker made 56 tackles. Ted Endres made 42, Rudy Koesler 38 and Willie Wimmer 32 tackles.

Parochial Teams Sweep Twin Bill With Lindsay

A double win by decisive scores made a big event for Sacred Heart's basketball teams as they hosted Lindsay Tuesday night. Tigerettes won 41-29 and Tigers won 51-24.

In the opener Sacred Heart girls took a 26-11 lead in the first half and coasted the next half as Lindsay gained slightly but still ended 13 points behind.

Next one the Tigers took a 32-18 half time lead, blanked their guests in the third quarter for a 43-18 count and gained again in the last period for the 51-24 score.

Leading scorers were Larry Hess 18, Willie Wimmer 14 and Steve Kralicke 12 for the Tigers; Andy Arendt 10, and Joe Besser 8 for the Knights.

Visitors Welcome To See Yule Decor At Colonial Manor

Christmas decorations and lights are up at Colonial Manor and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Medders graciously invite everyone who would like to see the display to drive by any night.

There are thousands of colored lights — decorating each tree and shrub — along the curved driveway at the front and the side driveway. More lights are burning this year than last year. Also new is an enclosure for the Enchanted Forest with its many animated figures. This is on the north side of the main entrance. The stable with the life-size holy family is to the south. Choir boys, angels, and Dickens' carolers are in the yard. And a life size Santa waves from the front porch. Another animated Santa goes through a routine on the south porch.

First Reduction Of Telephone Tax Starts Next Month

Telephone customers are finally getting relief from the "temporary" 10 per cent tax imposed on telephone bills during World War 2. Effective on the next bills to be received that tax rate is reduced to 3 per cent.

The cut, authorized by the last session of Congress, calls for the 7 per cent reduction now and additional reductions of 1 per cent a year until the tax is entirely eliminated in 1969.

Actually the reduction is in effect now on long distance calls. Alvin Fuhrman, manager and co-owner of Muenster Telephone Corp. explained that the tax applies on the billing regardless of when the service is received. Since toll calls made in December are billed in January they get the benefit of the cut. Regular phone service is different, however. That charge is billed in advance, hence the saving applies to next month's service. Calls from pay phones remain subject to the tax during this month. That's because billing, and payment, is immediate in the pay phones.

All customers except churches, schools, hospitals and local state and federal governments will find the reductions on their next bills. The others have not been subject to the tax.

Savings to customers on the Muenster system will be about $12,000 next year, and more in the next three years, Fuhrman said. That was his estimate from the amount of tax the phone company has been collecting for the government.

William J. Miller Is New Owner of Livestock Auction

William J. Miller is the new owner of Muenster Livestock Auction Commission Company. He bought it from Dick Cain during the weekend and is busy on paper work now to comply with state and federal requirements so that the first sale under the new operation can be held on Monday, January 3.

R. P. Cain, formerly assistant to Dick Cain, will continue at the barn as the general manager. The name of the firm will continue as it was and the weekly auction will be held on Mondays.

The livestock auction business in Muenster was started in 1946 by "Babe" Felker and Frank Solomon at the east city limits on Highway 82. After about a year Dick Cain bought Felker's interest and a few months later he also bought Solomon's interest. Since then he has been sole owner of the business.

A fire in July 1957 put the auction barn temporarily out of business. Sales were resumed about six months later after construction of a modern new building and stock pens at the present location a mile west of town.

R. P. Cain has been assistant manager of the livestock auction for most of its career. He started when Dick bought Solomon's interest and remained until the fire in 1957. He moved to Fort Worth then and returned to the sale barn in July 1964.

Paul Fishers Win Christmas Call to Son in Germany

Two surprises this week are making Mrs. Paul Fisher's holidays the happiest she's experienced since two of her sons entered military service.

William Fisher, recently promoted to Sp. 4 in Germany, arrived home Tuesday to spend the holidays. He's headed for Viet Nam after being in Germany since last May.

Early Wednesday morning Mrs. Fisher learned that she had received a five-minute telephone call to Pfc. Donald Fisher in Germany — courtesy of Communications Workers of America Local 6210 in Gainesville. Donald's name was drawn from a box of 29 cards by Gainesville Mayor Russell Guffey.

The CWA workers, employed by Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, earlier invited Cooke County mothers with sons overseas in the armed services to submit the names of the boys for the phone call drawing.

There's no specific time set for the call so the Fishers are waiting until the family is together as all want to get in on the conversation.

While William was in Germany he saw Donald only once. About 150 miles separated them and it just didn't work out. William tells about spending a weekend with Pvt. Kenneth Klein, also stationed in Germany. They got together in Heidelberg.

THE QUESTION: PARENTAL OR GOVERNMENTAL CONTROL

The Amish are a religious sect. They are a frugal and industrious people. Crime or juvenile delinquency among them is virtually nonexistent. Their primary wishes in life are to mind their own business, to be left alone in peace and to raise THEIR children as THEY think they should be raised. Are those such terrible aspirations? We think not. And we think that all right - thinking people will agree.

The Amish not agreeing with what is taught, or not taught, in so-called public schools, have traditionally elected to provide their own schools and their own teachers at THEIR own expense. One would think that a rationally acting, protective government, with the true public interest at heart, would applaud such efforts since the Amish, by providing their own educational facilities have removed the cost of such facilities from the backs of other taxpayers. But government, as we have observed on more than one occasion, does not act rationally. Its acts are dictated by the thrust and appetite for power, raw and undiluted. It seeks conformity... with no exceptions.

In Iowa, officials have decided that the Amish schools do not measure up to the standards as prescribed by officialdom and thus, that the Amish children must attend the so-called public schools. The Amish contend that they cannot afford to hire certified teachers, the bone of the government's contention, and that they do not want their children in public schools for fear they will be subjected to worldly influences.

We think the Amish are on solid moral grounds. And certainly, the fact that they are required to pay school taxes despite the fact that their children have not been attending the public schools, lends weight to their claim that they cannot afford the added expense of hiring more expensive teachers. And the further fact that the Supreme Court has outlawed religion in public schools, mitigates in favor of the Amish (a very religious people) reluctance to submit their children to such environment.

Thus, and this is the crux of the whole immoral mess applying, not only to the Amish, but to all of us, the authorities have set themselves up in the monstrously egotistical posture of knowing what is better for children than the parents who conceived them and are responsible for their well-being.

The question is not whether or not the Amish should be permitted to retain their own schools. The question is who is to have the responsibility for, and control of, the upbringing of OUR children... the parents or the State?

That is the question this nation, if it is to retain any semblance of freedom, has got to face up to and decide. Children raised under compulsion, in slavery, cannot be expected to develop into adult free men.

FALSE WITNESS

One of the disturbing signs of these times is the readiness of some supposedly intelligent and responsible persons to accept and publicize, without question, an accused lawbreaker's claim that he was abused by the police. Take the case in Jackson, Mississippi, last June, when several hundred persons were arrested while picketing the State Legislature, for parading without permit and refusing to disperse when so ordered. Agents of the US Justice Department, "civil rights" attorneys and representatives of national news media were on hand during arrest and confinement of the demonstrators. None of them reported any undue force used by the police. But then a 3-man committee from the National Council of Churches talked with demonstrator-prisoners for only two hours (by their own statements), and thereafter presented to a group of US Congressmen their "official" report charging the Jackson police with "Hitlerite" tactics, including gassing and beating of prisoners, kicking pregnant women in the stomachs, forcing women to undress in front of policemen, denial of food and medical treatment, and other such atrocities.

Headlines of several prominent newspapers blared this "news", TV commentators on nationwide networks "sorrowfully" reported it, several members of Congress from other regions deplored the "police state" situation in the South which it seemed to represent — all without checking or waiting for proper authorities to check the validity of those charges against the Jackson police. Meanwhile, the Mayor of Jackson and Mississippi State officials were demanding a Federal investigation to clear up the matter. That investigation was completed many weeks ago, and not one single charge against the Jackson police has been filed by the Justice Department. But we haven't seen any banner headlines announcing their exoneration of the NCC group's accusations. We've heard no apologies or corrections from any of the commentators or Congressmen who propagated those false stories across the nation. Nor have we seen any sign that those "clergymen" who made up the NCC committee have done anything to atone for bearing false witness against the policemen of that Southern city.

There is a warning note in all this for every community in the land. While the Southern states and communities have been the main targets so far, false charges of police brutality are now being made in other areas, too. The FBI has investigated 1787 such allegations this year. Only 13 were found to warrant indictments. It is understandable that an accused lawbreaker might in turn accuse the police of mistreating him. But when clergymen, newsmen and public officials promote charges of police brutality without first making sure of the facts, there is reason for the rest of us to question either their intelligence or their motives.

STOCKPILES FOR CONTROLS?

President Johnson has demonstrated who's boss over the aluminum and copper industries.

When officials of aluminum companies announced plans to increase prices, after they had been bulldozed into signing new union contracts, the big man in Washington announced he would start unloading the federal government's reserve stockpile of the metal. When copper followed suit, he made the same threat.

The two industries thus had no chance to test whether the market would stand for a price increase, but were forced to back down in the face of the dumping threat by the Pedernales politician. The business representatives thus have first hand demonstrations of the famed arm-twisting by Mr. Johnson which brought congressmen around in the recent session.

Mr. Johnson's performance should have showed the businessmen that all of them face the same threat. There have been quite a few people who have jumped on the side of the man from Texas on the ground that he really was in favor of free enterprise.

But, when the chips were down, the White House pressured industry to grant wage increases higher than the "guidelines" which had been laid down; then the pressure was applied to keep industry from increasing prices in order to make up for the higher wages paid.

Actually, the threat to sell the reserve stockpiles raises a couple of questions:

1. If the government needs the reserve stockpile, why should it be selling it?

2. If the government does not need the stockpile, why does it have it?

And a third question comes up: Is the stockpile on hand only to keep the manufacturers in line so they can be controlled?

It certainly demonstrates that the government should not be in the stockpiling business, either in so-called strategic metals, or food and fiber. A case might be made for having a stock of items which might be required as part of the national defense. But it should not be so great that the government can use it as a means of regulating prices. That is the use that appears to be made of the reserves.

DISQUALIFY THE POOR

One of the big issues these days is whether or not "poor" people should have a part in setting policy in the "war on poverty", or if they should be given jobs at the neighborhood level" carrying out orders of Washington bureaucrats or local politicians. This, we agree is a tough problem. Somehow, it just doesn't seem right to set some poverty-stricken fellow down as a member of the planning board alongside a bureaucrat who is drawing $18,000 to $30,000 a year — unless you pay him something. Yet, if you pay him even a fraction of the salary of his bureaucrat fellow board members, suddenly he "ain't poor no more" and, theoretically, is disqualified.

If the poor fellow sits with the board at little or no pay, and doesn't get to say anything, or if the others pay his comments no mind, then sooner or later it will dawn on him and the impoverished citizens he supposedly represents that he's there just for show. On the other hand, if he makes suggestions which are adopted by the highpriced officials, then the question will eventually arise to why he shouldn't be in charge.

Similar problems are certain if a few improvised individuals are given anti-poverty jobs at the neighborhood level. From the moment they receive their first paycheck, those fellows will no longer be in the poverty class and other down-and-outers not lucky enough to get on the anti-poverty payroll will be aware of the fact. Anyone who thinks this will inspire im-

The other side contends that if the poor set policy, the program will be taken over by dissident political factions, and opportunists who claims to speak for the poor. How Old Is a Young Redwood Tree?

Don't feel badly if you think that California's coast redwoods are the oldest, largest, scarcest or slowest-growing trees, for though you're wrong, you have plenty of company.

Common misconceptions about Sequoia sempervirens get the axe in a new booklet, "Questions and Answers About the Redwoods", issued by the redwood timber products industry. Copies are available without charge from California Redwood Association, 617 Montgomery St., San Francisco 94111.

The 20-page illustrated publication is based on questions directed to the industry by students, lumber dealers, teachers and conservationists from across the nation. Most of the queries show a general lack of knowledge about the tree and its future.

The redwood found growing from the southwestern tip of Oregon 450 miles down the coast to San Luis Obispo County is a youngster compared with other California species, the publication claims. At 2,200 years, the oldest known specimen of coast redwood is outranked by bristlecone pine at 4,600 years, the 3,200-year-old Sierra redwood and western juniper, aged 3,000.

While the tallest living thing is a 367-foot coast redwood growing on a tree farm near Orick, Humboldt County, the nation's largest trees in bulk are of the Sequoia gigantea species, found on the western slopes of California's Sierra Nevada. More than 98 per cent of the Sierra trees are preserved in government parks and forests.

Is redwood a slow-growing tree? Far from it, answers the booklet. Coast redwood, the commercial species, is the nation's fastest growing conifer, and the Sierra redwood is not far behind. Some regrowth trees are now more than 200 feet tall with 6-foot diameters.

Food and Fashions Featured at PTA Benefit Program

Muenster Public School PTA had a successful benefit buffet and style show as a pre-Christmas event Wednesday night. It was themed "Holiday Fantasy."

A hundred people went through the food line and sat at gaily decorated tables to eat and watch the fashion parade. Dinner music was provided by an electric guitar duo, Douglas Martin and Glenn Owen, and drums by Glenn Fleitman. Miss Charlotte Wolf presented a group of her School of Dance students, Sandra and Susan Sloan, Mary and Sara Medders, Donna Endres, Elaine Otto, Cheryl Otto, Lisa Mollenkopf, Marlene Herr, and Donna Pedigo, in ballet, tap and modern jazz routines.

Fashions came from The Charm Shop and Hamric's. Mrs. Ray Evans and Mrs. Ervin Hamric gave the narration.

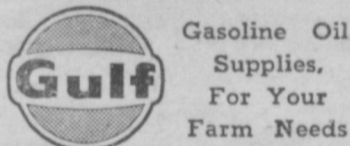

The event was held in Muenster High School gym and models walked out on a platform from the stage. They showed everything from night wear and lounge wear through sports wear and formals and tuxedos.

The Charm Shop had nine models that changed costumes three times and Hamric's had 13 models including little Jeff and Rusty Hammer showing small boy fashions.

Other models for Hamric's were Louis Hellman, Tommy Trachta, Wayne Klement, Sam Endres, Milton Fette, Virgil Swirczynski, Glenn Fleitman, Dale Klement, David Fisher, Joe Hartman and Robert Russell.

Modeling for The Charm Shop were Mrs. Kenneth Selby, Mrs. James Hammer, Mrs. Earle Otto and Misses Paula Herr, Susie Yosten, Faye Embry, Paulette Walterscheid, Donna Tuggle and Jill Swirczynski.

National Program Tells Function of Federal Land Bank

As a service to farmers, the Federal Land Bank Association of Sherman will join in a national program of public information keyed to the 50th Anniversary of the Federal Land Bank System. The Sherman Association, along with some 700 other associations and the Twelve Federal Land Banks, will carry out the program to make all Americans aware of the importance of agriculture.

Mr. W. P. Waldrop, the local Association Manager, stated that large segments of the country's population, such as city dwellers, factory workers and the like are not aware of the vital part which agricultural people take in adding to the basic strength of the nation.

With agriculture moving into a "challenging new era of development for rural America and of production for world-wide battle against hunger," it becomes increasingly necessary that the true, complete story of agricultural progress and potential be told, he said.

Mr. Waldrop noted that numerous meetings, commemorative activities and special anniversary events will get under way in the coming months, leading up to the nation-wide 50th Anniversary in 1967. The twelve Federal Land Banks were established in 1917 under the Farm Loan Act.

The 50th Anniversary comes as a timely opportunity, Mr. Waldrop commented, to translate the accomplishments of agriculture into terms of interest for all people everywhere. He said the Federal Land Bank Association of Sherman welcomes the chance to take part in this effort.

The bill-paying habit is expensive.

CDA Group Takes Christmas Cheer To Local Shut-ins

Members of Muenster Court Catholic Daughters of America at their December meeting Friday night kept business at a minimum and afterward packed baskets and boxes of goodies to bring Christmas cheer to shut-ins instead of having a party for themselves.

They fixed 14 packages of treats with fruits, nuts, candy, homemade cookies and jelly they brought from home and delivered them the next day. Ten shut-ins were gifted, a basket went to Golden Years Rest Home and to Muenster Memorial Hospital and the pastors and nuns were remembered.

Mrs. Al Schmitt, grand regent, presided for the business session and Mrs. Steve Mosler gave the library report. The court answered an appeal from a missionary in India with a cash gift and had a card of thanks from a missionary in Africa for a Christmas donation sent last month.

Christmas Ideas Shown at Meeting Of Garden Club

Muenster Civic League and Garden Club's December meeting Monday night featured a Christmas party with a display of Christmas items and an exchange of Christmas ideas.

Mrs. J. M. Weinzapfel and Mrs. Henry Weinzapfel were co-hostesses in the former's home which was adorned in a Christmas theme.

Business, conducted by Mrs. J. D. Hanna, president, was brief with reports from standing committees. Mrs. T. S. Myrick reported a successful benefit bake sale December 11. Mrs. Tony Gremminger reported on Christmas card sales which is a benefit for hospital landscaping, one of the organization's projects.

After the business session, members showed and explained the hand-made Christmas decorations and arrangements they brought from home and displayed in the meeting rooms.

The hostesses served a dessert course and coffee from a table centered with a fluffy white Christmas tree. Twenty-two members and one guest, Mrs. Ona Lewis of Olympia, Washington, sister of Mrs. Hanna, were present.

Salvation Army to Be Here Dec. 20, 23

The Salvation Army needs school clothing, usable or repairable book satchels, and other school items, announces Major Byron A. Freeman, commanding officer of the Men's Rehabilitation Center. The Salvation Army truck will be in Muenster on December 20 and 23 to pick up clothing and other household items. A call to 759-4311 will bring the Salvation Army truck to any home or business in the Muenster area.

The Men's Rehabilitation Center operates the truck service and a repair shop which handles household discards given to the Salvation Army. Over 1000 men find a new lease on life through the Rehabilitation Center each year. Giving to the Salvation Army not only makes needed items of clothing useful again, but it fully supports the Salvation Army's Rehabilitation efforts in this area.

ELECTRICITY FROM A THIMBLEFUL OF WATER?

Sometime in the future, the heavy hydrogen in a thimbleful of "heavy water"—obtained from three gallons of ordinary water—may yield enough energy to supply all the electric power required by the average home for more than two years.

Research to bring this about is being supported by Texas Power & Light Company.

Serious Injuries Can Be Avoided by Lifting Properly

You give a lift to lots of things every day — brief cases, suit-cases, boxes, shopping bags, books.

Before that too-heavy bundle lifts you off your feet and puts you flat on your back, be sure that you can handle it.

A new leaflet from the American Medical Association lists some basic rules that apply to lifting all objects —

Stand close to the object, feet flat on the floor, about 12 inches apart.

Keeping the spine straight, bend the knees and grasp the object.

Lift by straightening your legs. Do not pull upward with your arms and back.

Face the direction in which you plan to carry the object. Its weight will pull you in the right direction.

To get off the ground with a brief case or a suitcase that is chock-full and heavy —

Stand beside the suitcase, move the upper body slightly forward and bend the knees.

Straighten the knees and lift the suitcase gradually.

Shift the weight slightly to the side opposite your suitcase. Keep weight centered over your feet — don't bend at the waist. Raising your free arm will help to keep your spine erect.

As you walk, keep the case close to you and maintain body alignment. Don't slide your hips to the side.

Two suitcases are better than one, because equally balanced burdens put less strain on your spine.

Lifting a box from the closet shelf can tip you off your tiptoes. To maintain your balance, place one foot forward.

Reach for the box with your weight on the forward foot; as the box comes forward, gradually shift the weight to the back foot. Keeping your back straight and in line with your hips prevents a backward fall or a sprain from arching.

Lifting requires 32 times the energy of pushing. Relax and push if possible. Keep your spine straight and your hips low. Push the object from its center weight.

A well known general on a trip to Spain had his aide cable ahead for "the top floor, finest accommodations, best view, etc., etc., etc."

Arriving at the hotel, the general was greeted enthusiastically by the management and was shown to his luxurious quarters. There, to his surprise, sat three stunning señoritas.

"For heaven's sake," he gasped, "Who are these young ladies?"

"These," replied the manager, "are the three etceteras!"

Hubby: "Let me help you dry the dishes, sweetheart."

Wife: "Don't try any of your phony togetherness on me. Go mow the lawn, trim the hedge, clean the garage, and get that stinking cigar out of my kitchen."

Sister Mary Lin Koesler telephoned from Denison Sunday to let her mother, Mrs. Alphons Koesler, know that she is nursing again at Madonna Hospital after being on duty in a Floresville hospital for some time.

Sisters Romana, Mary John and Helen were in Fort Worth Sunday. Sister Romana was speaker on a vocation panel.

Mrs. John Schilling and Mrs. F. J. Wilder have changed their city address. They've rented the Fisher house and moved down the street from 808 to 713 N. Main.

has the distinction of being a winner in a nation wide drawing. He won a transistor radio in the registration held with the introduction of the 1966 Fords. He's Muenster's first in all the Ford drawings, perhaps the city's first in all nation wide drawings.

Former Muenster residents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Beckham of McCamey, called Tuesday night to have a telephone visit with Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Bernauer. They caught up on recent happenings and people they still remember. The Beckhams moved from Muenster about 30 years ago and he has been back only once but they still correspond with a number of Muenster friends to keep in touch.

Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Derichsweller and children Debbie, Ronny and Judy spent the weekend dividing time with their families, the Bill Derichswellers here, and the D. L. Bowns in Saint Jo and Debbie celebrated her ninth birthday twice—at the home of the grandparents in both towns. Joining them for visiting here were the Richard Zimmerers and sons Timmy and David of Grapevine who were ending a two week vacation with her parents, and his parents the Raymond Zimmerers. They all got acquainted with the newest member of the family, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Hess.

Visitors Wednesday afternoon and having supper with Mr. and Mrs. Joe Linn were Mr. and Mrs. Lex Linn of Denton and Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Parker of Dallas. They also stopped at the home of Russ Linn. Wednesday morning visitors with the Joe Lins were Mrs. J. A. Sanders and Mrs. W. D. Cooke of Fort Worth.

Arriving Monday to spend the holidays with Mr. and Mrs. Joe Linn will be her cousin, Miss Elizabeth Lawrence of Austin.

Visiting at Muenster Hospital with J. M. Weinzapfel Sunday afternoon were his son, Msgr. Thomas Weinzapfel and Arthur Thomas, both of Dallas. Mr. Thomas, associated with St. Paul's Hospital, was seeing Muenster Hospital for the first time and said he was impressed by what he saw. The two had lunch at the Weinzapfel home with Mrs. Weinzapfel and before returning to Dallas visited at the Henry Weinzapfels' new home which is under construction. Father Joe Weinzapfel came from Dallas Wednesday to visit his parents.

Muenster High School students are reminded that Monday, Dec. 20, is picture taking day again—remarks, absences and activities for the annual will be made in the morning.

The Paul Fishers had as Sunday visitors their daughters Helen and Rita and little granddaughter Terry and their friend Nita Taylor, all of Grand Prairie. It was Miss Taylor's first visit to Muenster.

Gene Riggs and Miss Candy Fette were among guests at the banquet honoring Congressman Graham Purcell in Wichita Falls. It was given in the Woman's Forum, sponsored by the Texas Association of Wheat Growers.

Money is a wonderful thing. You can take a dollar and buy 35 or 40 cents worth of anything you want.

After the accident he was dragged out of the smashed car and rushed to the doc's office in the small town nearby.

"Afraid I'm the wrong fellow to help you," the doc said. "I'm a veterinarian."
"Go to work on me anyway," groaned the victim, "I was a jackass to go sixty on those tires!"

New Industry Created in U.S. by Christmas Cards

A new industry was born when the first regularly published American Christmas cards were introduced in 1875 by Louis Prang, the grandfather of all American greeting cards.

Thirty-two years earlier, John Calcott Horsley, R. A., painter and illustrator designed the first known Christmas cards for his friend Sir Henry Cole, the inaugurator and first director of the Victoria and Albert Museum in London, England.

While no authenticated "first" American Christmas card has been discovered, some historians believe that R. H. Pease, a lithographer of Albany, New York may have pioneered the first American Yuletide greeting which he lithographed about 1854. The card included a "commercial" by extending a "Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year" from "Peace's Great Variety Store—in The Temple of Fancy."

Prang, a skilled printer from Germany, arrived in Boston in 1850 and opened a small lithographing shop where he specialized in delicately-tinted flower prints.

By 1870, he was well established in Roxbury, Mass., where his reproductions of oil paintings were so finely executed that he enjoyed a sizeable business in England in competition with leading publishers there.

A woman employee in his London office suggested that he print "Merry Christmas" on some of his floral prints. By 1874, he had developed a good British Christmas card trade, and hence felt encouraged to offer his cards to the American public in 1875.

During a civil trial, an adverse witness preceded each answer with "I think..." The distraught lawyer demanded for the third time that the witness tell the court and jury "what you know, and not what you think." The witness quietly replied, "I'm not a lawyer; I can't talk without thinking."

Some people find fault as if it were a buried treasure.

Leaflet Presents 6-Point Program For Growing Old

No fountain of youth can stop time. Time marches on, and so does your age.

A new leaflet from the American Medical Association outlines a six-step program — starting now — that can help you grow old gracefully.

Plan for action — You're never too old to exercise. Exercise can be as vigorous as a game of badminton, as relaxing as gardening, or as unorganized as an evening walk. But it must be regular. You'll benefit from improved muscle tone, better circulation and respiration, good digestion and

CITATION BY PUBLICATION THE STATE OF TEXAS

TO: Roy Hancock, Defendant.
 Greeting: YOU ARE HEREBY COMMANDED to appear before the Honorable 16th District Court of Cooke County at the Courthouse thereof, in Gainesville, Texas, by filing a written answer at or before 10 o'clock A.M. of the first Monday next after the expiration of forty-two days from the date of the issuance of this citation, same being the 27th day of January A.D., 1966, to Plaintiff's Petition filed in said court, on the 17th day of September A.D. 1965, in this cause, numbered 29,050 on the docket of said court and styled Lovie Christine Hancock, Plaintiff, vs. Roy Hancock, Defendant.

A brief statement of the nature of this suit is as follows, to wit: Suit for Divorce as is more fully shown by Plaintiff's Petition on file in this suit.

If this citation is not served within ninety days after the date of its issuance, it shall be returned unserved.

The officer executing this writ shall promptly serve the same according to requirements of law, and the mandates hereof, and make due return as the law directs. Issued and given under my hand and the seal of said court at Gainesville, Texas this 13th day of December A.D. 1965.

relief from mental and physical tensions.

Think about food — As your body ages, it needs less food (fewer calories) than when you were younger. Other nutritional needs remain about the same. For necessary daily nutrients, continue to select foods from the four basic food groups: meat and meat substitutes; milk and milk products; fruits and vegetables; and, breads and cereals.

Watch your waistline — Staying slim is good for more than vanity. Statistics show a 13 per cent increase in death rate for individuals 10 per cent overweight, a 25 per cent increase for those 20 percent overweight. Excess weight also increases chances of heart disease.

Rest up for days ahead — Don't be a sleep cheat. Adequate rest benefits adults as much as young children.

Check up on health — Illnesses don't just happen. Many of them can be prevented or controlled by early medical care and good health maintenance. Periodic visits to your physician and dentist as they recommend will keep tabs on your health as you mature. Persons over 50 may need a check-up more often.

Don't just stand there — Don't wait until retirement to join the church club, develop a hobby, or participate in civic affairs. Now is the time to begin activities that will add more life to your years.

Hard work is nothing more than an accumulation of easy things you didn't do when you should have.

Muenster Memorial Hospital has a Christmas look. The decor was added Sunday afternoon when Mrs. Martin Kralicke, chairman of the Hospital Auxiliary decorating committee, and assistants beautified the building for the holiday season. Large twin red candles are at the main entrance and decorated trees are in the front waiting room and at the south end of the main hall. Helping with the decorating were Mrs. Walter Grewing, Steve Kralicke and Debbie, Janie and Carol Felderhoff. Outdoor lighting is being put up by Tommy Hesse, of the hospital mechanical maintenance staff.

A Facial For Mt. Rushmore

A crew of daring specialists from the National Park Service will climb 6,050-foot Mt. Rushmore in South Dakota's Black Hills this spring to give the granite countenances of Presidents Washington, Jefferson, "Teddy" Roosevelt and Lincoln their annual "facials." Strangely, the basic ingredients in these treatments is linseed oil, the same material used by Egyptians 5,000 years ago to preserve their mummies and today the ingredient in house paint that protects against sun and weather, according to research experts of the National Flaxseed Processors Association. Preservation of the giant carved faces—each 60 feet long—is a large undertaking. The reparation experts patch cracks resulting from weathering with Sculptor Gutzon Borglum's original compound, a mixture of linseed oil, white lead and granite dust, so future generations can admire this memorial to our great presidents.

Over 200 Visitors Attend Yule Party At Cain Rest Home

The merriment of Christmas and the spiritual significance of the holy day were combined in a holiday party and open house Sunday at Muenster's Golden Years Rest Home. Some 200 visitors joined rest home residents for the after-noon from 2 to 5 o'clock.

They all gathered to sing Christmas carols and hymns for which Mrs. John Culpepper played the piano. She also sang a solo to her own accompaniment. Speakers were the Rev. John Culpepper, pastor of Muenster's First Baptist Church, the Rev. Alcuin Kubis, pastor of Sacred Heart Church, and the Rev. C. M. Thomas, retired Baptist minister of Gainesville. The Rev. Benedict Buergler, assistant at Sacred Heart, was among guests.

Santa Claus himself came to the party, distributed candy, and mingled with the guests.

Jack Hogan and his string band played and everybody joined again in singing carols around the piano when Mrs. Jack Hogan, Mrs. Edna Orrell of Nocona, and Mrs. Ada Mitchell played. Mrs. Mitchell, one of the nursing home residents, is 88 and still plays the piano beautifully.

Coffee, punch and cookies were served from a refreshment table in holiday decor to guests from Muenster, Gainesville, Lindsay, Myra, Saint Jo and Nocona.

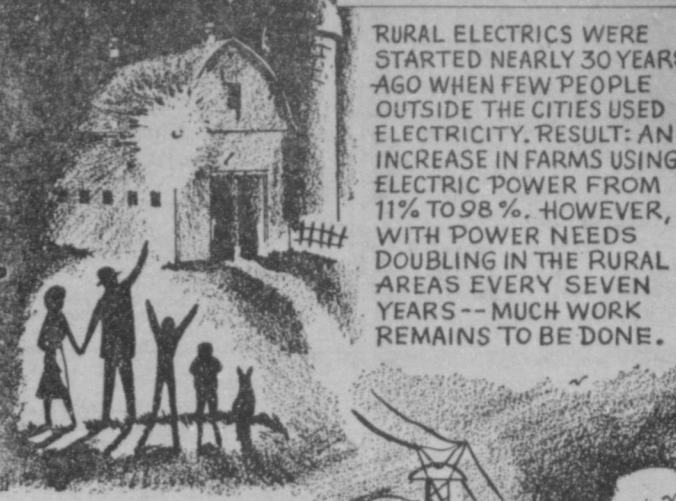

The home was adorned in the Christmas theme and a huge decorated and illuminated cedar tree held a vantage spot in the living room. A nativity scene was beneath the tree and a large stuffed Christmas stocking hung at the front door.

General Economic Outlook is Good For Coming Year

COLLEGE STATION, Dec. 16. —Taking all factors into consideration, the year ahead should be one of vigorous and generally well balanced economic growth. That's the word from John G. McHaney, Extension economist at Texas A&M University.

The economist has just returned from the National Outlook Conference held in Washington, D.C. with facts and figures to back up his forecast.

There will be increases in total employment and consumer incomes, he says. The gross national product is expected to continue upward at a rate in line with the increase of the past year. Increased private investment in new plants and equipment; larger government purchases of goods and services; and further expansion of consumer expenditures are expected to make their contributions to the advance.

McHaney sees no great changes in residential construction nor in the net exports of goods and services.

Estimates now indicate that industry will spend $55 billion for plant equipment in 1966. This is $4 billion higher than estimated capital spending in 1965 and more than $10 billion over 1964.

The economist says government demands for goods and services are expected to provide some increase in the year ahead. Total government purchases have been rising around $1.5 billion per quarter since the end of 1962. Most of this has come from increased spending by local and state governments. Federal spending has been relatively stable during this period but has increased in recent months as a result of larger defensive outlays.

The upward advance of local and state government purchases is expected to continue in 1966 as is federal spending for defense requirements, says McHaney.

In addition, new federal programs affecting housing, education, recreation, health and regional development programs will contribute to greater economic activity in 1966.

Further advance in employment and output will be accompanied by a raise in consumer disposable income. It all adds up, McHaney concludes, to another year of vigorous and generally well balanced economic growth for Texas and the nation.

Times have changed. Today a man pays a quarter to park his car so he won't be fined two dollars while spending a dime for a nickle cup of coffee.

According to some authorities, man can live without air for seven minutes, without water for seven days, without food for seven weeks, and without brains for 70 years.

An attractive young girl, visiting in Connecticut, went driving one night with one of the local Romeos. As they pulled onto a lonely section of the local beach, the car suddenly stopped. The boy gave a resigned shrug. "Out of gas," he muttered.

Nonchalantly, the girl opened her purse and pulled out a flask.

"Hey, you're all right!" explained the lady killer, "scotch or bourbon?"

"Gasoline," she said sweetly.

"Ye saved me from drowning, laddie," said Macpherson, "and I wad gladly gie ye a quarter, but I've only a 50c piece."

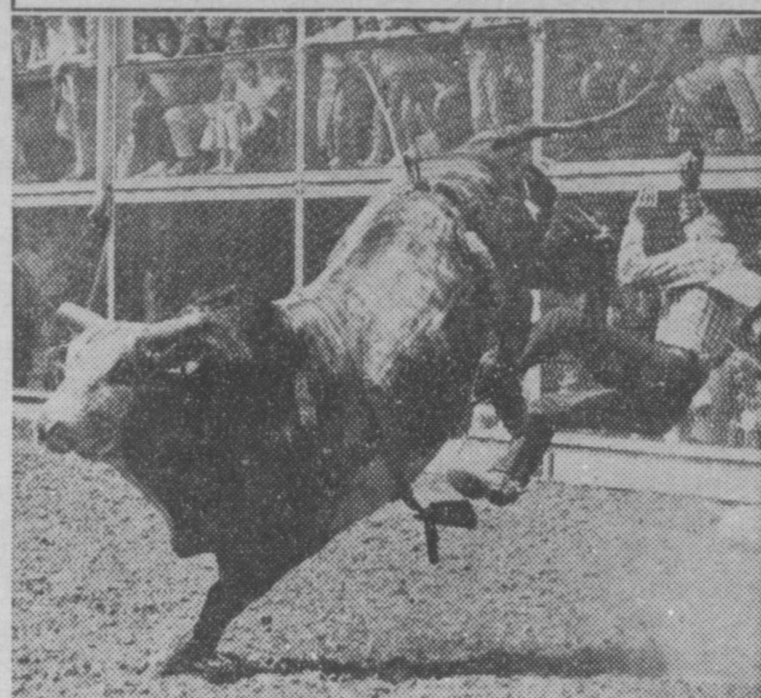

"Never mind about that," replied his rescuer. "Jump in again."

Bernis Johnson of Cleburne, Texas, breaks off a riding engagement with Bull No. 11 in the type of rough, tough action that will be seen during the exciting Dallas All-Star Rodeo, to be presented Dec. 26-Jan. 1 in the State Fair Livestock Coliseum. There will be seven two-hour performances, at 3 p.m. Dec. 26 and 8 p.m. thereafter through Jan. 1.

Lots of Space Is Needed for A Car to Stop

How much space is needed for a car to stop? A lot more than you might think, according to the Texas Safety Association.

A dime — or even a dollar is not quite enough, even under the best conditions.

Stopping distance is the sum of reaction and braking distances, and these depend on several variables.

Reaction distance is how far you go while you make a decision and get your foot to the brake. It varies with speed.

Reaction time for most drivers is about three-quarters of a second. In that time a vehicle moving at 20 miles an hour travels 22 feet; at 50 miles an hour it goes 55 feet. At a given speed, the distance is the same regardless of the type of vehicle, condition of roadway or state of weather.

Braking distance is how far you go once the brakes are applied. This varies with speed and type of vehicle, as well as with condition of road, brakes and so on.

The National Safety Council reports that for a passenger car on level, dry pavement, braking distance at 20 miles an hour averages 25 feet, while at 50 miles an hour it is 188 feet. This means that the car's total stopping distance at 20 miles an hour is 47 feet, and at 50, it is 243 feet.

The stopping distances are greater for trucks and vary with their size. At 20 miles an hour a light two-axle truck needs about 52 feet, while a heavy three-axle truck or combination needs 72 feet.

These stopping distances are averages. Precise stopping distances cannot be determined because of such obvious variables as roadway and brake conditions, and less obvious ones, such as the weight and physical strength of the driver applying pressure to the brake pedal.

More important than the braking distance is preception time. This can be zero, as when a driver is watching the tail lights of the car ahead when the brake lights go on. It can be several seconds if the driver is watching something to one side and does not see at once a situation in the roadway which requires him to stop.

Knowing that reaction distance at 30 miles an hour is 33 feet does not mean that that is a safe distance to keep from the car in front, the Association warns.

Don't depend on reaction time to get you out of trouble. You can't see every emergency as soon as it arises. Drive in such a way that you don't need your reaction time and braking distance to avoid an accident.

Then, when you do need them, they'll still be there.

The driver backed his dump truck too far over a fill, and the weight of the load lifted the front end off the ground several feet.

"What are you going to do now?" asked another driver. The driver contemplated his situation, then replied: I think I'll grease it. I'll never have a better chance."

NOTES FROM THE LIBRARY

Muenster Public Library has among new books, two of special interest, "Wild Flowers of America" and "The Pope's Journey to the United States".

The flower volume is a donation by Muenster Civic League and Garden Club in memory of Mrs. M. J. Endres, a charter member of the organization.

"Wild Flowers of America" is edited with an introduction and detailed description by H. W. Rickett. It shows 400 flowers in full color pages, based on paintings by Mark Vaux Walcott, as published by the Smithsonian Institute, Washington, D.C., and additional paintings by Dorothy Falcon Platt. The book also contains a glossary on botanical terms, an identification chart, and flower descriptions.

"The Pope's Journey to the United States" is the historic record written and edited by the New York Times.

Pope Paul's unprecedented peace pilgrimage to the United States has transfixed the imagination of all peoples, everywhere. This book is the permanent record of that unique and inspiring day of history.

Library staffers have "decked the building with boughs and holly" for Christmas and invite everyone to stop in during the holiday season... to check out books, to read a while, or just to visit.

Library hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. every Thursday. "Come and read with us" is the library slogan and all who will come are welcome.

Farm Income Low? Check on Optional Reporting Method

Farmers whose net income drops to less than $1200 in 1965 should give consideration to using the "optional method" for reporting their farm self-employment income, Gus Jones, Social Security District Manager in Sherman, said today.

Generally, the higher the earnings a person reports, the higher his social security monthly payments will be, Jones continued. Using this optional method, available only to farmers, may even mean maintaining your eligibility for all types of social security payments.

If your gross farm income is between $600 and $1800 for 1965, you may report two-thirds of that gross as your self-employment income. If gross income exceeds $1800, you may report $1200 under this provision, so long as your actual net income is less than $1200, you can only report your actual net.

The 1965 amendments to the social security law have changed this somewhat. For taxable years beginning after December 31, 1965, the maximum income that may be used with this optional method has been raised from $1800 to $2400. Maximum reportable net earnings from self-employment under the optional method then can be as much as $1600.

Further details, with examples covering situations likely to be encountered, are included in the Farmers Tax Guide, obtainable from the Internal Revenue Service.

Nat Houston, Field Representative from the Sherman office, is in Gainesville each Tuesday and Thursday from 9:30 until noon, in the Federal Building, to assist persons in the Gainesville area with social security matters.

Two men, fishing on a Sunday morning, were feeling pretty guilty. One said to the other:

"I suppose we should have gone to church."

To which the second angler replied lazily: "Heck, I couldn't have gone to church, anyway. My wife is sick in bed."

For the consolation final Sanger's six footers ran up an easy 48-19 half time lead then turned the job over to their youngsters. Final count, 63-37. Jimmy Robison hit 15, Dale Klement 7, Chris Cain 7.

Other local teams in the tournament were Sacred Heart boys and MHS girls. The Tigers went down 27-19 before Era in the first encounter and were clobbered 58-26 by Pilot Point in the next game.
