NUMBER 20

Well remembered by oldsters and advanced middle age folks are the chain letters of the thirties. Remember how the craze swept the country? How it glutted the mails as people got into the scheme with visions of floods of coins or dollar bills in return for the solitary one they sent out? It reached the point where the Post Office Department took a hand in stopping it.

The letter with a list of ten of twelve names had instructions to send a coin or bill or other specified item of value to the top name on the list, then copy the letter five times leaving off the top name and adding yours to the bottom of the list, and mail your letters to five other persons urging them to do likewise.

A bit of calculation gives an idea what that scheme was supposed to produce. If all proceeded according to instruction you were to receive millions in coins or bills for the one you sent.

There has never been a more obvious sucker game. Nevertheless people fell for it by the millions, every one of them motivated by visions of getting something for nothing. Many actually thought they would get rich. Some knew better but went along, expecting to get a return from the gullible ones. And plenty of sharpies circulated letters with their names at the top. These were the three groups of chain letter writers, and all of them had the same motive — get something for nothing.

For many years the chain letter has been dead. After a while the suckers learned they had been taken in. But the something for nothing scheme is still very much alive, especially in widespread acceptance of our government's socialistic program. People are still motivated by visions of getting something for nothing, or at least getting more out of a program than they have to put in. And, of course, as with the chain letters, the sharpies seem to have the best deal. For instance benefits intended for unemployed or neglected children have become a windfall for loafers refusing to work and for women making a career of bearing illegitimate children.

Naturally people of those categories are strongly in favor of socialistic programs. They're cashing in. But, unfortunately, there is also a fast growing segment of our population which indirectly endorses socialism even though it knows that it puts more into the system than it gets out. That segment is made up of people who think that the money paid in is already gone, so the best policy is to get back as much as we can. We apply for benefits because they are available. Not because we need them or even because that is a better way of getting things done, but rather because, at this stage, it becomes a matter of getting something or nothing out of what we already put in.

Even though aware that we're still on the losing end we're ready to accept the old advice to "join 'em if you can't lick 'em". That attitude is growing. And even though it's understandable it is unfortunate. By turning to expediency in spite of conviction we give the support that helps socialistic trends and we lessen our chance of ever returning to sensible standards. The end result is a tragic situation, which becomes all the more apparent as we make final settlement on our income tax. We feel convinced that our community's socialistic benefits are puny compared to what they cost us. We realize the truth in the statement that government give-away is like taking blood from one arm and injecting it into the other — and losing about half of it in the transfer.

This is the time when we are inclined to wonder whether that loss in the process of transfer isn't actually the big reason for socialism. The difference in amount taken from all the people and the amount distributed in benefits is enormous. That represents the cost of administration, hiring hundreds of thousands of political cronies at fat salaries to handle your money and mine, and in the process building a political dynasty of bureaucrats with tremendous voting power — as well as the power to push us around.

Instead of something for nothing we are getting a raw deal. Our country has lots of mistakes to correct in order to restore the standards that made it great.

Bowie Will Host 17th Conservation Banquet May 12

This year's awards banquet honoring conservation farmers of the Upper Elm-Red Soil Conservation District will be held in Bowie on May 12. It is the first time in the 17 year history of the awards program that Bowie was selected as the host city. It will be in the National Guard Armory starting at 7 o'clock.

The decision along with other plans for the event was made last Thursday night at First State Bank, Gainesville, in a meeting of representatives from banks, newspapers, and radio and TV stations of the Elm-Red District, sponsors of the program every year since it was originated.

Awards, as in recent years, will be carved wooden plaques from the Bavarian Wood Carving Studio of Muenster. Eight of them will be presented: one to the champ conservation farmer in each of the five zones, one to the best comeback farmer and one to each member of the best landlord tenant team.

The sponsors decided to add another winner for the 1967 program. It will be the "city farmer" doing the best conservation job. The award cannot be given this year because no winner has been selected in that category.

Program procedure likewise will be very much like before. Colored scenes from the prize winning farms will be projected on a screen as a narrator tells the conservation story.

Olie Carriker of the Bowie radio station has been selected to do the narrating and J. C. Porter of Wichita Falls was named master of ceremonies.

After the planning meeting the sponsors were guests of First State Bank for a charcoal steak supper at Mo Jo Lodge, Leeper Lake.

Team Qualifies For State Contest In Land Judging

Four boys of the Muenster FFA Chapter took fifth place last Saturday in the Area 5 land judging contest at Commerce, and also qualified to compete in the state land judging contest to be held on April 22 at Stephenville.

Members of the team were Glenn Klement, Leon Walterscheid, Ken Swirczynski and Ken Yosten.

Their instructor, Edgar Dyer, said that more than twenty teams participated in the contest, including several who were in the Upper Elm-Red contest a few weeks ago. The Elm-Red district teams were well represented in the leaders of the FFA area contest, he said.

Also at Commerce last Saturday were Chris Cain, Terry Wimmer and Wayne Klement as entries in the Area 5 livestock judging contest. They failed to score among the top five and also failed to qualify for state competition.

48 Teams Enter Volley Tourney Here April 18-24

The biggest volleyball tournament ever in Muenster and probably the biggest in North Texas is shaping up for the week of April 18 to 24. Forty eight teams are entered.

It is booked for seven crowded sessions with the finals to be played on Sunday afternoon, the 24th. The reason is that ending it Saturday night would require some teams to play three games and extend the session well past midnight.

Tournaments of this area are usually played in five sessions — Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. This one is using those days plus Wednesday and Sunday. And each session prior to the finals is due to go to 11 o'clock or later — some being definitely expected to go later as hot teams battle into overtime. The first session begins at 4:30 Monday and other sessions start at 5:30. Schedules will be mailed next week to the participating teams.

The tournament is sponsored by Sacred Heart Alumni and will be played in Sacred Heart High gymnasium. Snacks and drinks will be available. At the end eight trophies will be awarded, to the winner and runner up in both champ and (Continued on page 5)

Jaycees to Honor Leading Citizen

Presentation of a plaque recognizing someone as Muenster's outstanding citizen of the year will be one of the features of the Fourth Annual Jaycee Installation Banquet Thursday night of next week.

Members decided on the presentation at their meeting last week and also invited non members of the community to participate in the selection. Anyone who wishes can name a nominee for the honor. Nominations should be sent in on a post card as soon as possible so that they can be considered before the banquet, which is only a week away.

The banquet will be held in MHS cafeteria. Tickets at $2 each can be purchased at White Auto Store, Tom & Jerry's or any member.

972 Get X-Rays in Local Search for TB

Nine hundred seventy two persons reported Wednesday to the Dallas County TB Association's mobil X-Ray unit for chest X-Rays in this community's search for active TB cases.

People filed through the unit in almost a steady stream during slightly more than nine hours that it was in operation. Actually the unit was here about 10 hours, from 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. but some time was spent in setting up and taking down.

Technicians in charge were Harry Wells and Frank Wavrusa of the Dallas Area TB Association. They made their X-Rays on small films which will be projected large for study by the staff of the Dallas TB Association.

The entire program here was set up on an emergency basis after an alarming 75 positive readings showed up in a recent tuberculin skin test among school children. That is almost ten percent of the local student body. Since then X-Rays were taken at Muenster Hospital of all positive reactors and all adult personnel of the two schools in an effort to find the active case or cases spreading the germ. And the Cooke County TB Association arranged to get the mobil unit here so that other adults could get X-Rays.

The mobil unit was preferred over the local hospital facilities for two reasons. It is set up to take pictures faster and its small film costs less. At the hospital a special rate of $5 was set for TB X-Rays. The Dallas mobil unit came here for $1 a film. In addition, the large Dallas staff can complete film readings much sooner than would be possible here.

Because it guaranteed $1 per X-Ray, the county TB association asked for donations of $1 each except in case of hardship. If any failed to drop in a dollar the shortage will be made up by the county association.

A count of donations late Wednesday by Mrs. Paul Harvey, secretary of the county TB association showed a total of $919.56, which Mrs. Harvey said was "a very good percentage and a credit to the community."

Every person who had a chest X-Ray can expect a report in about ten days. The report may show that no trouble is apparent, or it may show any kind of abnormal chest condition with a recommendation to consult one's doctor. Though intended primarily for checking TB, the X-Ray has special value in that it provides a low cost opportunity for a general check-up of the chest.

The mobil unit was parked in front of the K of C hall and the building's rest rooms and seating facilities were available to all.

Assisting the technicians throughout the nine hour stretch were Mrs. Paul Harvey and Mrs. Rankin Hardy of the Cooke County TB Association and Mrs. Martin Kralick. Others taking turns with the clerical work were Mmes. Tony Luke, Rufus Henscheid, Paul Endres, Rody Klement, Ted Henscheid, Steve Moster, John Wimmer, Donald Endres, Arthur Felderhoff and Ed Schneider.

All Continue on Hospital Board

Members on the Muenster Hospital's board of directors remains unchanged since last Saturday's election. All of the five incumbents were unopposed on the ballot and all were kept on the job by almost unanimous vote. Out of a total of 147 ballots the voting was as follows: Albert Dangelmayer 145, Ray Voth 145, Rufus Henscheid 145, Alphonse Felderhoff 143, Norbert Felderhoff 140.

Other members of the hospital board, whose terms continue for another year, are Al Trubenbach, Tim Stormer, J.H. Bayer and Robert Bayer.

INFLATION IS A DISEASE
 Associated Press Business News writer, Jack Lefler, reports: "Inflation is the big worry of economists and government officials. There is talk of a possible tax increase and price and wage controls to combat it. Simplified, inflation is too many dollars chasing too few goods."

Inflation, too, is a "guns plus butter" policy on the part of the government, which attempts to fight an ever-expanding war in Viet Nam and at the same time advance welfare programs of unprecedented cost and extent at home. The tragedy is that the weight of inflation falls mainly on those who are least able to bear it — those on fixed retirement incomes, on public relief, in the low-wage brackets and so on. The irony is that these are the very people the government's welfare programs are supposed to help. But that help will be illusory indeed — a snare and a delusion — if inflation continues

A MODEST COST

Ask the next man you meet what he thinks about the cost of medical care and, you're apt to get this answer: "It's too high".

That, of course, is only human nature speaking. No one likes to go to the doctor or the hospital, and no one likes to pay the bills.

But, all this being true, it is a fact that the costs of medical care are nowhere as great a financial burden as many believe. They have risen over the years just as have the costs connected with practically everything else. We get more and better medical care now than ever before. And no one can accurately measure the financial value of a longer and happier and more useful life.

In any event, some figures recently released by the Department of Commerce should come as a revelation to those who protest medical costs. In a late year, it seems, Americans spent more on cigarettes and other tobacco products — $7.8 billion — than on hospital care — $7.6 billion. And they spent more on such personal care items as cosmetics, haircuts, and toiletries than on doctors' bills. Expenditures for the personal care items totaled $7 billion — those for the physician's services $6.8 billion.

It's all a matter of relative values. Judged by that test, the cost of medical care, in all its ramifications, is modest indeed.

GOOD MEMORIES AND BAD

When he was a kid, Sammy Hartzell liked to stretch out and day-dream under a tree not far from his home in Westover, Pa. It was a pleasant spot and from it Sammy could see much of the countryside. He loved the place and never got tired of going there.

A few days ago Sammy's father walked up the hill. He carried a shovel, and when he got to Sammy's favorite tree he started to dig. He was making a grave because Sammy was coming home to rest forever.

Word had come from Washington that the boy had been killed while guarding the Da Nang air base in Vietnam. But the news wasn't entirely unexpected. Shortly before Christmas his sister had received a letter from Sammy and in it he had expressed a premonition of death. The letter told his sister: "Last night and most of today I've been thinking of things I've got to be thankful for. Seems like the Lord and I understand each other, and that is such a feeling of comfort."

Sammy wrote more, in the same vein. Then he told how he wanted to be buried under his beloved tree and added: "... Let all our memories be good ones."

The memories of the Hartzells and all those who knew this boy will assuredly be good ones, but as we read about Sammy we wonder about some other young men.

We thought of those over-educated simpletons with scraggly beards and placards who call for a peace which would throw away everything gained by the sacrifices of the Sammy Hartzells.

And the exhibitionists who display their inadequacy in childish draft-card burnings and shrill outbursts testifying to their great idealism, their sublime ethics and their love of all mankind.

And that other kind of American youth, imbued with the idea that the world owes them a living and there's no point in passing up nice things of life even if there is a war.

Let the fall guys, the Sammy Hartzells, go and get themselves killed.

And finally we thought of that yellow Muslim, Cassius Clay, the heavyweight champion of the big-mouth division, and his crowd.

We wonder how these miserable characters will end up in the years to come. We wonder about their memories, and if they'll be the sort that anyone can live with. Somehow we doubt it.

CALLING THE PLAYS

A person who seriously studies sports develops in time an uncanny ability to call the plays.

It is too bad that more Americans don't study international affairs the way serious sports fans apply themselves to baseball, football, and so on. If they did they would be able to see certain plays shaping up on the global scene, understand the strategy behind the moves, and predict with some certainty who is likely to do what.

Right now, for example, we are witnessing something which is mystifying to most Americans when there should be nothing at all unusual about it in view of the forces and the personalities involved.

We refer to the current drive to help China — Red China, that is — in various ways. We are being urged to invite this outlaw nation into the United Nations, as though this would change Communist China's character and its aims. We are told we should trade with these Communists, even though such trade would strengthen Red China's war potential. We are told that we have to write off Nationalist China — in other words to knife one of the few loyal anti-Communist allies left to us.

There isn't an American who hasn't already been subjected to this current brainwashing which is being mouthed by people who are presumably responsible. And what we're getting now is only the beginning. We predict that in the months to come there will be a deluge of propaganda of this vicious nature, all based on the asinine premise that if we're especially nice to Red China, she may just possibly be nice to us. This is the same fuzzy thinking that would recommend putting murderers and rapists in nice homes instead of jails, where pleasant home surroundings and complaisant people might just possibly convert them.

Moreover, if you look at the record of those who are promoting Red China's interests, it isn't so mysterious after all. You'll usually find that it's nothing new for them to advocate causes that, somehow, end up by being just what the Communists happen to want, and need.

This is not to say that these people are Communists or are being paid off by the Communists for their efforts. It might seem so, but the real trouble is there's a screw loose somewhere. They're like the football player who persists in running the wrong way with the ball.

Maybe the time has come to bench such performers.

Grass Roots of Nation Supports Dirksen's JR 103

County Supervisors and Commissioners all across the Nation are joining in support of the Reapportionment Amendment now pending in the Congress because they are awakening to the dangers threatening county government if Senate Joint Resolution 103, the Dirksen Reapportionment Amendment, does not win Congressional approval.

This declaration was made today by Paul J. Anderson of Riverside, California, President of the County Supervisors Association of California and a member of the Committee for Government of the People which is conducting a nationwide educational effort on behalf of the reapportionment measure. Anderson said 9 other county officials from states throughout the country joined recently in a nationwide appeal to county officials to support the pending Amendment, and today he reported that hundreds of commissioners and supervisors from throughout the Nation have joined the Committee in response.

Anderson declared, "These is no question in the minds of most county officials throughout the country that unless Senate Joint Resolution 103 is approved and the 'right of the people to decide' is preserved, many drastic changes are in store for local governments. Without the Dirksen Amendment urban boss control of state legislatures can be extended in to other units of government, regardless of the will of the majority of voters in the governmental areas so involved. Leaders agree that unless county officials make their views known to their Senators within the next few weeks, county governments will inevitably be faced with months and years of uncertainty and frustration."

The campaign in behalf of Senate Joint Resolution 103 is

3 SH 4-H Girls In District Show

Three 4-H girls from Sacred Heart clubs traveled to Big Town Shopping Center in Mesquite Saturday to participate in the District 4 Food Show.

In senior competition Mary Ellen Endres won a blue ribbon and was runner-up for state in the bread and cereal group. She prepared a bread roll with sausage and cheese filling.

In the same category, junior division, Yvonne Gehrig won a blue ribbon on her pumpkin bread. In the junior vegetable-fruit group Donna Marie Rohmer was a red ribbon winner on her fruit cobbler.

Among those accompanying them on the trip were their mothers Mmes. Paul Endres, George Gehrig and Arnold Rohmer.

There were eight entries from Cooke County. They prepared their food, set a table for serving and made out a day's menu using the food. They were questioned on their nutrition knowledge and understanding of food preparation.

Junior and senior entries from the 19-county district were entered in four categories. Judges selected four seniors to represent District 4 at the annual State Roundup during the first week of June at Texas A&M University.

Writer Features Judy Hellman in Aviation Story

Judy Hellman of San Diego, Calif., Muenster native and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Hellman now of Tulsa, Okla., was the subject of a feature story in Cross Country News March 10. Columnist Sam Hunter devoted his column to Miss Hellman. A clipping was sent to the grandparents, Mrs. G. H. Hellman and Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Weinzapfel.

Says the columnist in part: Miss Hellman is helping propel private flying into the boom that was expected but never really developed until after World War II.

Judy had her first flight at four months. Now at 23, she has her dream job — flying. She has a degree from Oklahoma State U, is a government certified flying instructor with more than 1,500 hours in her log book.

She also handles demonstration flights for potential students or aircraft buyers at San Diego. "It takes brains and judgment," says Judy, "to know when and where to fly, to know your capabilities and stay within them. Follow the rule, along with a few equally sensible, and you can fly until you're doddering with old age."

Local News BRIEFS

Flying in from Tulsa, Okla., to visit relatives Friday were Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Hellman and daughter Christie. They were guests of Mrs. G. H. Hellman and the J. M. Weinzapfels. They came especially to see the Bill Birdens and their three little boys before they left for Virginia on a new Navy assignment. The Birdens were enroute from Charleston, S.C., to Virginia Beach ... got off Saturday after a visit with the Weinzapfels. They all had lunch together with Mr. and Mrs. Weinzapfel as hosts. Mrs. G. H. Hellman entertained with a coffee honoring her son, daughter-in-law and granddaughter after their arrival from Tulsa.

Surprise visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Selby Monday afternoon were her aunt and uncle the Jess Cooks of San Angelo. Mrs. Selby hadn't seen her aunt in 25 years. She's the former Blanche Wilson ... left here in 1907. She asked about a number of people she remembered especially Mrs. C. J. Fette, who as Miss Ernie Huchton was her teacher at Coppers School.

Mrs. Pete Koelzer had a birthday surprise Sunday afternoon when her daughter Mrs. John Jones and little daughter Debbie drove over from Madill, Okla., bringing a decorated cake. Other family members dropped in to help eat it. The Victor Koelzers and children Kenny and Ginger of Bowie came over Saturday with gifts and greetings.

Stopping in for pop calls with old friends here Monday afternoon were Hugh H. Coliums and Claude Jones of Gainesville.

Mrs. Herman Swirczynski joined her daughter, Miss Mary Lou Swirczynski of Irving, stewardess for Central Airlines, on a flying trip and a four-day holiday in San Francisco, Calif., recently. They visited friends and went sight-seeing, taking in almost everything of interest in the fascinating city. Mary Lou has been a stewardess a year now and the flights were courtesy of the airlines. Mrs. Swirczynski returned alone. Mary Lou had more vacation time and went on to Washington to visit friends.

Mrs. Clarence Albers and sons Jerry and Doyle drove over from Lewisville Friday to see her dad Fred Herr and to gather family history. Doyle had the making of a family tree as a class assignment.

Guests at the R. P. Cain home for a weekend visit were her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Grady Richey of Irving. Joining them for a Sunday get-together were Mrs. Cain's and Mrs. Richey's parents, the W. B. Martins of Dallas, the Bill Hardisons and daughter Judy and the Bill Hardisons Jr. and baby all of Montague and Mrs. James Ray Martin and children Tommy and Penny of Saint Jo.

Medders Host 43 Airmen for Supper

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Medders were hosts Sunday at Colonial Acres Farm for a tour of the ranch and a pool-side supper for 43 airmen from Sheppard Air Force Base.

The group of young men, foreign exchange students, hail from 14 foreign countries.

The trip was sponsored by W. S. Tarkington, foreign training officer. He and Capt. McCollum of Wichita Falls accompanied the group.

This is the second time Mr. and Mrs. Medders have entertained exchange students from Sheppard AFB. Last October they had a similar party for 81 airmen.

David Yosten and Susan Bean Plan June 4 Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Bean of El Reno, Okla., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Susan Bean, to David Yosten, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard J. Yosten of Muenster.

The wedding is planned for June 4. It will be solemnized in Sacred Heart Church in Muenster at 4 p.m. The Rev. Alcuin Kubis, pastor, is to officiate.

Miss Bean was graduated from Sacred Heart High School in El Reno and attended the University of Dallas.

Mr. Yosten is a graduate of Muenster High School and Cooke County Junior College. He attended Arlington State College one year and is now studying at Southwestern State College in Weatherford, Okla., where he is majoring in pharmacy and is listed on the dean's honor roll.

Hornet Trackmen Improve Record At Kamay Meet

Muenster High School's Hornets came home from the Kamay meet last Saturday with a first place, a third place and a fifth place. According to Coach James Polk's guess that amounts to 24 or 26 points, but he can't say definitely since he has received no official report on the scores.

There were 24 teams in the meet, mostly the same schools that competed two weeks before at Saint Jo, including Saint Jo, Lockett and Era, leaders of the other meet.

Dale Klement repeated as winner of the mile run and Jimmy Robison was fifth in the 100 yard dash with a time of 10.6. Dale Klement ran a preliminary of 10.4 in the race but failed to qualify for the final because he was not one of the top four in his heat.

The team took its third in the sprint relay, with Dale Klement, Jimmy Robison, Bob Russell and Louis Hellman composing the quartet.

This meet was the last of the practice events for the Hornets. Next is the district Interscholastic League meet at Saint Jo.

20 SHH Students Go to Dallas for Speech Tournament

Twenty students from Sacred Heart High School participated in the Freshman Speech Tournament held in Dallas April 1 and 2 in Bishop Lynch High School.

They competed with some 130 students from nine parochial schools of the Dallas-Fort Worth Diocese.

Sacred Heart entered six events and reached the semi-finals in two with Margaret Kralicke's dramatic interpretation of "Alice in Wonderland," and Mary Alice Koesler's humorous interpretation of "Please Don't Eat the Daisies."

Others in Dramatic Interpretation were Jan Wilde, Diane Hess, Stanley Endres, Kathy Miller and Mary Jane Swirczynski. Ann Stewart was in Humorous Interpretation.

Joan Fetsch entered Original Oratory. Three teams were in Duet Acting: Diane Hess and Kaye Klement; Beverly Koelzer and Doris Schilling; Tim Endres and Don Schneider.

Doris Trubenbach and Cynthia Bindel participated in Poetry Reading and three teams entered Debate: Mary Jane Swirczynski and Kenneth Schmitz; Cynthia Bindel and Lynn Reiter; Jan Grewing and Joyce Schmitt.

Sister Roberta coached the students and attended with them. Also accompanying them were Mrs. Tony Koesler and Mrs. Martin Kralicke.

Guest Speaker and Films Program for Home-School Meet

A program featuring a guest speaker and two films entertained members of Sacred Heart Home-School Society at their monthly meeting.

Gene Brown, president of the board of directors of the speech and hearing center of Cooke County, gave an informative address on work being done by the center. Brown said the center started with six children a year ago, now has 30. The work is financed through sale of Easter seals.

Sister Henrietta spoke on the ungraded primary at Sacred Heart and showed charts covering the past five years since the ungraded primary was started. Her charts showed benefits to the children.

Miss Sara Fleitman followed with a film, "Parents Role in Reading," and answered questions from the floor. Father Benedict showed a film on communism.

It was announced that a remedial reading class will be organized during the summer and that a group is preparing next year's year books and program for the society.

Herbert Miller, president, presided and Father Benedict opened with prayer. After adjournment hostesses served refreshments to 84 parents.

Wholesale neglect beats the wrong kind of attention.

Dianne Sicking Is Sacred Heart's Spelling Champ

Dianne Sicking, eighth grade daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Sicking, was the champion in the annual spelling bee at Sacred Heart School.

Other blue ribbon winners are Glenda Gieb, fifth grade; Doris Schmitt and Jerry Eckart, sixth; Susan Stoffels and Darlene Walterscheid (runner-up) seventh grade.

Red ribbons: June Stoffels, fifth grade; Cheryl Otto, Pamela Walterscheid, sixth; Janel Stoffels, Peggy Sicking, seventh; Theresa Becker, eighth.

Steve Sicking, 11 Birthday Honoree

Steve Sicking, 11 years old Saturday, celebrated Sunday with a party at his home. His mother, Mrs. Wilfred Sicking, was hostess. Eleven boy classmates were guests for the afternoon. They had gifts for the honoree.

They enjoyed playing outdoor games and hiking over the hills until Mrs. Sicking rounded them up for hot dogs and chips, birthday cake, ice cream and cold drinks.

Steve's sisters, Gayle and Rose Ann, helped serve.

Highway Dept. Welcomes Letters On Bluebonnets

Now is the time for the Texas Highway Department to come to the aid of all gardeners who long for their own private patch of bluebonnets — next year.

Every year about this time the Department, which plants the azure blossoms along the state's highways, is bombarded with letters from people who want to know how to plant and care for Texas' famed state flower.

The letters no doubt are prompted by the oceans of blue which begin to blossom about this time on countrysides all over the state.

As a matter of fact, bluebonnets are already blooming along South Texas highways and should be appearing in the rest of the state soon.

Of course, it is too late to plant bluebonnets for enjoyment during the current season, but the Highway Department answers each "green thumb" letter to help the writers include bluebonnets in their gardening plans.

First, gardeners, and sightseers, too, should remember that the bluebonnet blooming date is influenced by the weather. After a severe winter, they bloom late. A mild one means early blooms.

Generally, the first flowers open about the middle of March in the southern part of the state. But the first flowers may not show up before May 1 in the more northern sections. The length of the blooming season is about one month.

Those who want to gather seed should keep in mind that the seed mature about six weeks after the last flowers fade. Seeds should be harvested before their pods explode and scatter the seeds.

Bluebonnet seed can be planted immediately after harvest or can be stored. Seeds should be planted before November 1, however, so they can germinate and grow through the winter months. It is during this period that a heavy root system and a healthy plant develops to produce an abundance of spring flowers.

The bluebonnet seed can be obtained from seed distributors if orders are placed before the crop is ready for harvest. Although the Highway Department harvests seed from time to time, it does not save any for the ensuing season. The department mows the plants when the seeds are mature and immediately distributes them thinly over the area to be seeded.

Innoculation of bluebonnet seed prior to planting is extremely important. It is important because bluebonnets require the presence of certain bacteria for their root system to form to the nodules on the roots and carry on the nitrogen fixation process.

The bacteria, called inoculants, can be purchased at commercial seed stores.

As for soil, bluebonnets grow best in well drained, sweet, (contains lime) soil of moderate fertility.

Accidents are the fourth largest killer in this country, the American Medical Association reports. Only cancer, heart disease, and stroke kill more. Also, accidents comprise the largest single cause of death among children, teenagers and young adults. Up to age 24, accidents consistently cause more deaths than cancer. About 10 million persons are accidentally disabled each year, and this represents by far the largest single use of hospital facilities.

Texas Grows

Texas is 13,151 miles bigger than anyone thought. New acreage was discovered after the first detailed study of Texas' area in 20 years was completed by Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler. Report shows the state contains 177,052,700 acres or 278,000 square miles.

However, Alaska's 571,065-square-mile-area still makes Texans live in the second largest state in the Union.

That rustic chapel in the upper left hand corner is a real old-timer. Built by the Russians in 1812 as part of the Fort Ross complex in Northern California, it was one of the first redwood structures in the area, constructed of split boards from the trees that form its setting. Although damaged slightly by the earthquake of 1906, the chapel was restored — using the original redwood boards — in 1928, and is a feature of the State Historical Park today.

The Muscovites were among the first white settlers to use redwood in their building, but, obviously, a material that can withstand the rugged coastal climate with its damp, fog-drenched days for more than 150 years is a material to consider for a modern-day home in the same area. For that matter, in any part of the country where extremes of weather or decay-producing elements must be considered in addition to aesthetic qualities, redwood is ideal.

Award-winning architect Charles Warren Callister put durable, beautiful redwood to use in board-on-board siding combined with cedar shakes in the distinctive residence that has been dubbed "Little Fort Ross" by the neighbors. (The second-growth redwoods that flourished after the Russians had cut the original forest are now of sufficient size to be used again as lumber.)

The wide variety of redwood siding patterns and finishes is described in a colorful new idea booklet published by the California Redwood Association. Redwood Siding, incorporating a fingertip guide to siding selection, can be obtained by sending 10¢ to Dept. ARS, 617 Montgomery Street, San Francisco.

The word "hoosegow" sounds like an American invention for a jail, but it comes originally from the Latin "iudicare," meaning "to judge."

Tiger Team Has 2-2 Record After First Four Games

Walter Wolf's Sacred Heart High baseball team broke even with two wins and two losses in the four games it has played to date.

In their opener on March 30 the Tigers were clobbered 16-2 by Collinsville. Next, on April 1 they were nudged 5-3 by Byers. And in Monday's double header with Greenhill of Dallas they sacked up the pair of wins by counts of 8-1 and 7-6.

The season opener was a rough one on Tiger pitchers. Wolf used five hurlers in a futile effort to stop the 16 hit barrage which gave the visitors an easy 16-2 decision.

In the next one Larry Hess held Byers hitters until the fifth. In two innings then a good grouping of hits and errors gave Byers its 5-3 win. A special feature of the game was three double plays for the Tigers. Steve Hess made two by catching flies in right field and throwing to first to get a runner off base. Leon Endres made the other by stepping on second and throwing to first. Tiger hitters were Kralicke two singles, Leon Endres and Steve Hess each one.

First game of the double header with Greenhill was a no hitter for Larry Hess, with 13 strike outs in the five innings. Score was 8-1, Greenhill getting the lone run in the fourth on two errors and a fielder's choice. The Tigers got six hits, two by Tim Endres and one each by Steve Kralicke, Steve Hess, Ted Endres and Joe Bayer.

Next game Greenhill hammered Dale Hofbauer's pitching for all of its six runs in the first two innings then Leon Endres held it hitless until the end. Trailing 6-0 the Tigers started their comeback in the third when Sammy Endres brought in 2 with a single and Ted Endres scored one with a double. Next inning Kralicke and Hofbauer got hits following two walks and an error for 3 more runs. And in the last of the fifth Larry Hess brought Schneider in with a triple.

The Tigers got seven hits: 2 singles by Dale Hofbauer, a triple by Larry Hess, a double by Ted Endres, and singles by Sammy Endres, Steve Kralicke and Steve Hess.

Gregory Hundt has completed planting four acres of Bermuda grass on his farm and John Hess has finished planting four acres of Coastal Bermuda on his farm. Wally Luttmer is planting 16 acres of Coastal Bermuda on his farm.
