Great-Grandfather Rattler Reptiles Pitchfork Victim

S. G. Howard, Brown county farmer, whose reputation for truth and veracity heretofore has been unimpeachable, is authority for this one:

Telephoning this morning from the Stone ranch, Mr. Howard reported that he and J. H. Martin, ranch foreman, had just killed the great-grandfather of all the rattlesnakes, which probably was one of the pioneer reptile settlers of this part of the state.

The snake, according to Mr. Howard's testimony, measured fifty-eight inches in length, 9 1/2 inches in circumference, weighed five and three-fourths pounds, and was wearing nine rattles.

The condition of the rattles indicated that the several of the units had been torn off.

TUBERCULIN TEST WAR AT STANDSTILL

BURLINGTON, Iowa, Oct. 22.—(P)—The Jake Everstman farm at which between 400 and 1,000 men, women and children gathered yesterday in protest against the state compulsory tuberculosis testing law was peaceful and deserted today.

Officers and 1,400 national guardsmen on the scene, however, feared this was merely a lull before a storm and were girding themselves for an offensive against the testing of cattle unparalleled in the past seven months.

Everstman left in an automobile for an unannounced destination. Mrs. Everstman said he probably would return this afternoon.

Last night the farmer issued a statement declaring none of them was armed and none had been armed while at the farm.

Situation Threatening
BURLINGTON, Ia., Oct. 22.—(P)—Iowa's seven months of intermittent outbreaks against tuberculosis testing of cattle reached what officials called its most threatening situation today.

As 1,400 additional national guardsmen disembarked from special trains to augment the 400 already encamped in Des Moines county, protesters against testing numbered between 400 and 1,000, many of the men said to be armed, kept vigil on the farm of Jake Everstman, their leader.

Everstman, county president of the Farmers' Protective Association, told newspaper men over the telephone that his followers would remain at the farm until the veterinarians and military forces attempted to contain testing.

No demonstrations occurred at the Everstman place as the guard forces were posted about and only those known as objectors to the cattle testing law and to the presence of troops were admitted.

Dr. Peter Malcolm, chief of the testers, said a large force of veterinarians would arrive today but plans for carrying on the work are dependent on the movements of the militia. This was taken to indicate that large scale testing would not get under way before tomorrow.

Party At Home Probed
PHOENIX, Ariz., Oct. 22.—(P)—Officers delving into evidence of a party at the home of Winnie Ruth Judd the night of Oct. 16 assert jealousy over a man, or men, probably caused her to slay her former friends, Agnes Le Roi and Hedvig Samuelson.

The locale of the murders the following night had been definitely fixed as the apartment of the victims. Police said references in Miss Samuelson's diary which might be construed as indicating existence of a strange intimacy among the three women were not conclusive.

The diary is in possession of County Attorney Lloyd Andrews in Los Angeles. Corroboration of the theory that men were involved, detectives said, was obtained from a woman whose name was withheld.

The woman witness said she attended Mrs. Judd's party by invitation and that the hostess obtained information from the Le Roi-Samuelson apartment.

She and Mrs. Judd and one of the men drove from Mrs. Judd's house to the girl's apartment, she said, to get the other two men. Mrs. Judd refused to go in and asked the others not to tell Mrs. Le Roi and Miss Samuelson she was in the car.

The girls argued the men should remain there instead of joining the other party. Finally, the woman told police, it apparently was settled amicably, and she and the two men went out, one lingering for what she said apparently was an affectionate parting. The girls then followed them to the car at the curb, but Mrs. Judd refused to speak to them.

Woman Seen Near Seattle
SEATTLE, Oct. 22.—(P)—A woman whose description tallies in many respects with that of Mrs. Winnie Ruth Judd, was sought today by officers in Renton, 15 miles south of here.

The woman appeared in Renton about 7:00 o'clock last night and made inquiries as to the direction of Tacoma, said night Sheriff Allingham. "She was a total stranger in the neighborhood and many persons viewing newspaper photographs of the hunted woman positively identified the woman seen here as Mrs. Judd."

MRS. JUDD IS NOT FOUND BY POLICE TODAY

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 22.—(P)—The strenuous police hunt for Winnie Ruth Judd, wanted for the Phoenix trunk murders, continued throughout the west today, but the belief grew that she either was hiding here or had committed suicide.

Although there were reports that persons resembling the hunted woman had been given rides by motorists near San Diego and at central California points toward Sacramento, officers expressed the belief she might not have left the city.

The search was pressed while officers prepared for an inquest over the bodies of the victims, Miss Hedvig Samuelson and Mrs. Agnes Le Roi, which were shipped here in trunks claimed by Mrs. Judd.

On the theory that Mrs. Judd's body might be found in some out-of-the-way place, police looked over the beaches and hills around Los Angeles. Volunteers peered into deserted cabins and looked through the bushy undergrowth in canyons near the city.

Her husband, Dr. W. C. Judd, and her brother, B. J. McKinnell, both expressed belief she would not be found alive.

Many friends of Mrs. Judd were interrogated. Guards were placed at their homes in the hope the fugitive would seek aid from acquaintances.

Officers also endeavored to piece together a plausible motive for the slayings of Mrs. Le Roi and Hedvig Samuelson, both of whom had been roommates of Mrs. Judd and her close friends.

"All evidence shows it was a case of insanity—but there was something that caused the mind to perform such a ghastly crime," said Detective Inspector D. A. Davidson. "Indications were that jealousy furnished the background for the slayings—but jealousy of what is still undetermined."

Turkey Raisers Advised of Remedy For Sick Birds
County Agent C. P. Griffin states that a good many sick turkeys were found during a visit he made among farmers in some parts of the county Wednesday. Most of this sickness, Mr. Griffin says, is from occidial infection and is brought on by the turkeys standing around water holes, or leaky hydrants or troughs. The remedy, he states, is milk. Sick turkeys should be given a ration of equal parts of milk-powder and ground grain. This should be fed, the agent explains, until the bird has regained its appetite, and would not be suitable for a turkey in normal health.

With cooler weather coming on, Mr. Griffin says, and the changed conditions due to the recent rains, there is very little danger of new cases of occidiosis. Where farmers have had plenty of clabber milk to give their turkeys there has been very little danger of this sickness at any time, which leads the county agent to the observation that every farm on which turkeys are raised should have some good Jersey cows.

There has been some sickness among turkeys due to bluebugs, it is stated. To fight bluebugs, the raisers are advised to paint the roosts with a mixture of one-half carbolineum and one-half crude oil or crankcase oil. The roost should be taken apart and the parts painted with this mixture, with a swab or brush, and then put back together.

Arriving at Victoria, B. C., early today by steamer, they boarded a borrowed airplane and flew here in 46 minutes, arriving at 7:08 a. m., Pacific Standard Time.

After a brief stop they hopped eastward, planning to land at Boise, Ia., for fuel.

The Lindberghs returned to the United States because of the death of Mrs. Lindbergh's father, Senator Dwight W. Morrow of New Jersey.

ACCUSED OF TRUNK MURDERS

JUDGE H. S. KIRBY OF THE 77th DISTRICT COURT AT GROESBECK TODAY CITED JUDGE W. C. DAVIS OF BRYAN, OF THE 85TH DISTRICT COURT, FOR CONTEMPT FOR DISSOLVING INJUNCTIONS IN TRUCK OPERATORS OBTAINED FROM JUDGE KIRBY AGAINST ROBERTSON COUNTY OFFICIALS WHO HAD CHARGED THE OPERATORS WITH VIOLATION OF THE STATE TRUCK REGULATORY LAW.

Judge Davis declared he did not recognize any authority Judge Kirby might have in law to cite him for contempt.

The contempt citation, however, also named T. L. Tyson, county attorney of Robertson county, and V. C. Cox, Robertson county sheriff. Both said they would appear in Groesbeck tomorrow to answer the summons to show cause why they should not be held in contempt by Judge Kirby.

Robertson county officials had filed proceedings against 18 truck operators, charging them with failure to obtain the proper permits from the State Railroad Commission.

Attorneys for the operators obtained injunctions Tuesday from Judge Kirby restraining Sheriff Box and all Robertson county peace officers from enforcing the truck law.

Sheriff Box in turn filed a petition yesterday with Judge Davis, asking that the injunctions be dissolved, and this was granted, giving rise to the counter action today by Judge Kirby.

CRISIS IS DUE IN ORIENTAL TROUBLE SOON

GENEVA, Oct. 22.—(P)—Japan's representative on the League of Nations council today refused to accept any definite time limit for withdrawal of her troops from Manchuria.

His announcement was in response to a resolution by Aristide Briand, the French foreign minister who is chairman of the council, proposing that Japan complete the Manchurian evacuation by November 16 at which time the council would meet again.

The resolution also recommended that China pledge the security of Japanese lives and property in Manchuria.

When Kenkichi Yoshizawa, the Japanese delegate, took the stand which he had been expected to take the council adjourned until tomorrow evening so the Japanese delegation could study the proposals and so Dr. Alfred Sze, the Chinese member, could ask instructions from his government.

The Briand resolution suggested China and Japan begin direct negotiations immediately so that evacuation of the occupied area could be carried out quickly and smoothly.

M. Briand, in presenting his proposals, described them as subject to debate and modification after they had been studied fully by the Japanese and Chinese representatives.

By The Associated Press.
Developments that might bring forth a basis for settlement of the Manchurian controversy between China and Japan, or at least result in a showdown between Japan and the League of Nations Council, appeared in the making today.

Although Japan ostensibly was awaiting a response to her five-point program, which China had received coldly, and China reportedly had advanced a different set of demands which Tokyo viewed with equal frigidity, the League Council was called into a conference which presaged a definite step in its negotiations.

The council was believed considering the drafting of a resolution proposing adjournment of its consideration of the Manchurian problem until November 12th and conveying a desire that Japanese evacuation of occupied Chinese territory be completed by the time the Council reconvenes.

Japan was represented as having given private assurances to that effect although it was considered possible that Tokyo eventually might decline to approve the proposal and it was held probable that the Chinese representative at Geneva could not accept without referring the matter to Nanking.

Bandeen said Hyde had agreed to extend collections of in necessary cases, "but later changed his attitude. Trial Of Sheriff Woody Townsend Is Near Close Today

AUSTIN, Oct. 22.—(P)—Trial of Sheriff Woody Townsend of Bastrop county, indicted for allegedly making and collecting claims for excessive fees of office, neared an end in district court today.

Deputy Sheriff Gus Wallace of Bastrop told the jury he had served El. H. Wilson of Smithville to appear as a witness in court at Bastrop, his statement rebutting Wilson's testimony that he had not been served.

A charge for $3.40 mileage fees for serving Wilson had been challenged by the state in the indictment, the allegation being that the sheriff did not travel a claimed 34 miles or any part thereof to serve Wilson as a witness.

The state also brought out testimony based on the sheriff's fee account as introduced in evidence. That a mileage charge of $3.40 had been made and collected for serving Wilson 16 separate times.

The defense presented three other witnesses to corroborate Wallace. Wallace said he served Wilson in Smithville and the other witnesses said they saw the two together there.

The trial was interrupted today by illness of Judge W. F. Robertson. District Judge J. D. Moore convened Judge Robertson's court this morning and recessed it until tomorrow.

White House Lights Out. WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—(P)—The cold beams of moonlight were all that lighted the White House for one minute last night as President Hoover and his household observed a brief period of electric lightlessness in honor of Thomas A. Edison.

Setting an example to the nation, the president ordered the darkening of all lights in the executive mansion and grounds at 10 p. m. for one minute.

Mr. Hoover had asked that individuals throughout the country follow the lead of the White House in this final tribute to the man who made electrical illumination a reality.

That the country's power houses could not feasibly be shut down for even one minute was said by Mr. Hoover to be "in itself a monument to Mr. Edison's genius."

As the clock struck ten in Milan, Ohio, immortal as the birthplace of Edison, the community was without electric light or power. Darkness and immobility were preserved until the clock finished its count of ten.

From the far corners of the earth to the state department have come expressions of sympathetic condolences for the loss of America's electrical genius. France, Italy, Venezuela, Nicaragua, Brazil, Chile, Cuba, Egypt, Norway, Bolivia, and others sent word to the American government of the grief of their peoples.

TUBERCULIN TEST WAR AT STANDSTILL

BURLINGTON, Iowa, Oct. 22.—(P)—The Jake Everstman farm at which between 400 and 1,000 men, women and children gathered yesterday in protest against the state compulsory tuberculin testing law was peaceful and deserted today.

Officers and 1,400 national guardsmen on the scene, however, feared this was merely a lull before a storm and were girding themselves for an offensive against the testing of cattle unparalelled in three previous battles in the past seven months.

Everstman left in an automobile for an unannounced destination. Mrs. Everstman said he probably would return this afternoon.

Last night the farmer issued a statement declaring none of them was armed and none had been armed while at the farm.

Situation Threatening

BURLINGTON, Ia., Oct. 22.—(P)—Iowa's seven months of intermittent outbreaks against tuberculin testing of cattle reached what officials called its most threatening situation today.

As 1,400 additional national guardsmen disembarked from special trains to augment the 400 already encamped in Des Moines county, protesters against testing numbering between 400 and 1,000 many of the men said to be armed, kept vigil on the farm of Jake Everstman, their leader.

Everstman, county president of the Farmers' Protective Association, told newspaper men over the telephone that his followers would remain at the farm until the veterinarians and military forces attempted to continue testing.

No demonstrations occurred at the Everstman place as the guard forces were increased but farmer guards were posted about and only those known as objectors to the cattle testing law and to the presence of troops were admitted.

Dr. Peter Malcolm, chief of the testers, said a large force of veterinarians would arrive today but plans for carrying on the work are dependent on the movements of the militia. This was taken to indicate that large scale testing would not get under way before tomorrow.

Turkey Raisers Advised of Remedy For Sick Birds

County Agent O. P. Griffin states that a good many sick turkeys were found during a visit he made among farmers in some parts of the county Wednesday. Most of this sickness, Mr. Griffin says, is from coxidia infection and is brought on by the turkeys standing around water holes, or leaky hydrants or troughs. The remedy, he states, is milk. Sick turkeys should be given a ration of equal parts of milk-powder and ground grain. This should be fed, the agent explains, until the bird has regained its appetite, and would not be suitable for a turkey in normal health.

With cooler weather coming on, Mr. Griffin says, and the changed conditions due to the recent rains, there is very little danger of new cases of coxidia. Where farmers have had plenty of clabber milk to give their turkeys there has been very little danger of this sickness at any time, which leads the county agent to the observation that every farm on which turkeys are raised should have some good jersey cows.

There has been some sickness among turkeys due to bluebugs, it is stated. To fight bluebugs, the raisers are advised to paint the roosts with a mixture of one-half carbolicum and one-half crude oil or crankcase oil. The roost should be taken apart and the parts painted with this mixture, with a swab or brush, and then put back together.

Lindberghs Flying From Seattle Today On Last Stage Trip

SEATTLE, Oct. 22.—(P)—Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh began the last stage of their homeward trip from the Orient today and expected to reach New York by air tomorrow night.

Arriving at Victoria, B. C., early today by steamer, they boarded a borrowed airplane and flew here in 46 minutes, arriving at 7:08 a. m. Pacific Standard Time.

After a brief stop they hopped eastward, planning to land at Boise, Ia., for fuel.

Customs and immigration officers were on hand here to hasten the formalities incident to re-entering the United States.

The Lindberghs returned to the United States because of the death of Mrs. Lindbergh's father, Senator Dwight W. Morrow of New Jersey.

TEXARKANA MAN OUT ON BOND IN KILLING CASE

TEXARKANA, Ark., Oct. 22.—(P)—Mett Larey, 27, was at liberty today under $5,000 bond in connection with the fatal shooting of Claude Pilgreen, 35. He was bonded over to the Miller county grand jury at a preliminary hearing yesterday.

Mrs. Angie Coursey, lone witness to the shooting, told officers Larey started to shoot after Pilgreen had threatened him.

MRS. JUDD IS NOT FOUND BY POLICE TODAY

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 22.—(P)—The strenuous police hunt for Winnie Ruth Judd, wanted for the Phoenix trunk murders, continued throughout the west today, but the belief grew that she either was hiding here or had committed suicide.

Although there were reports that persons resembling the hunted woman had been given rides by motorists near San Diego and at central California points toward Sacramento, officers expressed the belief she might not have left the city.

The search was pressed while officers prepared for an inquest over the bodies of the victims, Miss Hedvig Samuelson and Mrs. Agnes Le Roi, which were shipped here in trunks claimed by Mrs. Judd.

On the theory that Mrs. Judd's body might be found in some out-of-the-way place, police looked over the beaches and hills around Los Angeles. Volunteers peered into deserted cabins and looked through the bushy undergrowth in canyons near the city.

Her husband, Dr. W. C. Judd, and her brother, B. J. McKinnell, both expressed belief she would not be found alive.

Many friends of Mrs. Judd were interrogated. Guards were placed at their homes in the hope the fugitive would seek aid from acquaintances.

Officers also endeavored to piece together a plausible motive for the slayings of Mrs. Le Roi and Hedvig Samuelson, both of whom had been roommates of Mrs. Judd and her close friends.

"All evidence shows it was a case of insanity—but there was something that caused the mind to perform such a ghastly crime," said Detective Inspector D. A. Davidson. "Indications were that jealousy furnished the background for the slayings—but jealousy of what is still undetermined."

Party At Home Probed

PHOENIX, Ariz., Oct. 22.—(P)—Officers delving into evidence of a party at the home of Winnie Ruth Judd the night of Oct. 16 assert jealousy over a man, or men, probably caused her to slay her former friends, Agnes Le Roi and Hedvig Samuelson.

The locale of the murders the following night has been definitely fixed as the apartment of the victims. Police said references in Miss Samuelson's diary which might be construed as indicating existence of a strange intimacy among the three women were not conclusive. The diary is in possession of County Attorney Lloyd Andrews in Los Angeles.

Corroboration of the theory that Mrs. Judd's party by invitation and that the losses obtained by the three men who were under protest, from the Le Roi-Samuelson apartment.

She and Mrs. Judd and one of the men drove from Mrs. Judd's house to the girl's apartment, she said, to get the other two men. Mrs. Judd refused to go in and asked the others not to tell Mrs. Le Roi and Miss Samuelson she was in the car.

The girls argued the men should remain there instead of joining the other party. Finally, the woman told police, it apparently was settled amicably, and she and the two others went out, one lingering for what she said apparently was an affectionate parting. The girls then followed them to the car at the curb, but Mrs. Judd refused to speak to them.

Woman Seen Near Seattle

SEATTLE, Oct. 22.—(P)—A woman whose description tallies in many respects with that of Mrs. Winnie Ruth Judd, was sought today by officers in Renton, 15 miles south of here.

"The woman appeared in Renton about 7:00 o'clock last night and made inquiries as to the direction of Tacoma," said night Sheriff Alingham. "She was a total stranger in the neighborhood and many persons viewing newspaper photographs of the hunted woman positively identified the woman seen here as Mrs. Judd."

May Be in New Mexico

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Oct. 22.—(P)—A possibility that Mrs. Winnie Ruth Judd sought in the trunk murders at Phoenix, Arizona, might be in this locality was expressed today by Deputy Sheriff S. P. Zamora of Grants, New Mexico, 100 miles west of here. He is searching for a strange woman who appeared in Grants last night.

The woman knocked on the locked screen door at the residence of a Mrs. Bowlin at 11:30 last night and asked to be let in. Mrs. Bowlin said the woman exclaimed "let me in, let me in, they're after me," Mrs. Bowlin objected that she would not let her in, and said the woman grew more insistent, repeating her pleadings.

Mrs. Bowlin called the deputy sheriff but the woman left hurriedly before he arrived. The deputy searched the town and highways in all directions afterward and continued the search today.

ACCUSED OF TRUNK MURDERS

Mrs. Winifred Ruth Judd, above, wife of a Los Angeles physician, is reported to have confessed to her brother that she murdered Mrs. Agnes Ann Le Roi, an X-ray technician, and Miss Hedvig Samuelson, a school teacher, with whom she had been living in Phoenix, Ariz. The victims' dismembered bodies were found in two trunks Mrs. Judd had shipped from Phoenix to Los Angeles, and the alleged murders is being hunted throughout the Southwest.

JUDGES FIGHT OVER RULINGS ON TRUCK LAW

BRYAN, Tex., Oct. 22.—(P)—Judge H. S. Kirby of the 77th district court at Groesbeck today cited court W. C. Davis of Bryan, of the 85th district court, for contempt for dissolving injunctions 18 truck operators had obtained from Judge Kirby against Robertson county officials who had charged the operators with violation of the state truck regulatory law.

Judge Davis declared he did not recognize any authority Judge Kirby might have in law to cite him for contempt.

The contempt citation, however, also named T. L. Tyson, county attorney of Robertson county, and V. C. Box, Robertson county sheriff. Both said they would appear in Groesbeck tomorrow to answer the summons to show cause why they should not be held in contempt by Judge Kirby.

Robertson county officials had filed proceedings against 18 truck operators, charging them with failure to obtain the proper permits from the State Railroad Commission.

Attorneys for the operators obtained injunctions Tuesday from Judge Kirby restraining Sheriff Box and all Robertson county peace officers from enforcing the truck law.

Sheriff Box in turn filed a petition yesterday with Judge Davis, asking that the injunctions be dissolved, and this was granted, giving rise to the counter action today by Judge Kirby.

LOCAL COTTON MARKET GETS BENEFIT REDUCED RAIL FREIGHT RATES

Brownwood farmers are getting a little better price for their cotton due to the recent reduction in railway freight rates. Railroads in this section have been granted the right to reduce freight rates and the West Texas Chamber of Commerce is working on plans to put the same reduced rates into effect in all parts of West Texas, according to a story in the San Angelo Standard.

The reductions which became effective last Saturday apply to points on the old Orient line from the Oklahoma line to San Angelo. Only a few towns west of the Orient have been included.

The saving in freight rates at Brownwood are seen in the following figures: Old rate, $4.25 per bale; new rate, $2.75 per bale; saving, $1.50.

Savings in other towns are: Balinger, old rate, $4.49, new rate, $3.28, saving, $1.21; Brady, old rate, $4.28, new rate, $2.75, saving, $1.53; Abilene, old rate, $4.49, new rate, $3, saving, $1.49; San Angelo, old rate, $4.65; new rate, $3.00, saving $1.65.

WAY FUND BE USED GIVE JOBS

Gov. 22—(P)—Governor today vetoed the bill passed by the second session of the Texas legislature to allocate one cent of the gasoline tax for construction of highways.

The bill, which would have increased the gasoline levy from one cent to one and one-half cents, was vetoed by the governor. The bill was passed by a vote of 18 to 12 in the Senate and 100 to 40 in the House.

The bill provided that the proceeds of the tax should be used for the construction of highways and for the purchase of equipment for the highway department.

Great-Grandfather Rattler Reptiles Pitchfork Victim

S. G. Howard, Brown county farmer, whose reputation for truth and veracity heretofore has been unimpeachable, is authority for this one:

Telephoning this morning from the Stone ranch, Mr. Howard reported that he and J. H. Martin, ranch foreman, had just killed the great-grandfather of all the rattlesnakes, which probably was one of the pioneer reptile settlers of this part of the state. The snake, according to Mr. Howard's testimony, measured fifty-eight inches in length, 9 1/2 inches in circumference, weighed five and three-fourths pounds, and was wearing nine rattles. The condition of the rattles indicated that the several of the units had been torn off.

The snake was found in some feedstuff Mr. Howard and Mr. Martin were handling. One of them impaled him with a pitchfork and the other killed him with a stick.

NEWLY FILLED GRAVE MARKS RESTING PLACE OF HE WHO WAS EDISON

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Oct. 22.—(P)—At Rosedale cemetery a newly filled grave marked today the resting place of he who was Edison.

He was buried late yesterday as dusk closed in on the mourners—the aged widow who kissed the casket as it was about to be lowered into the grave, then placed on it a white rosebud; the wife of the president of the United States; close relatives and friends of the inventor; and a few of his longtime laboratory associates.

Four hundred of his friends crowded the drawing room. Mr. Edison always called it "the parlor" of Glenmont, the Edison home, for the simple funeral services in mid-afternoon. The Rev. Dr. Stephen J. Herben read the service and spoke the prayer; and there was the music of Bach and Beethoven.

Mrs. Edison, Mrs. Hoover, Henry Ford and Harvey S. Firestone were in the family group in a room upstairs listening to the services which were carried to them by specially installed amplifying apparatus.

The streets leading from the home to the cemetery were crowded with people. State and city police cleared the way.

Two elderly mourners at the grave were William H. Meadowcroft, Edison's secretary and companion for fifty years, and Frederick Ott, a brother of Joseph Ott, one of the lifelong associates of the inventor. Both had been to the funeral of Joseph Ott, but an hour earlier. Ott had died of shock on learning of Mr. Edison's death Sunday morning.

TURKEY RAISERS ADVISED OF REMEDY FOR SICK BIRDS

County Agent O. P. Griffin states that a good many sick turkeys were found during a visit he made among farmers in some parts of the county Wednesday. Most of this sickness, Mr. Griffin says, is from a bacterial infection and is brought on by the turkeys standing around water holes or leaky hydrants or troughs. The remedy, he states, is milk. Sick turkeys should be given a ration of equal parts of milk-powder and ground grain. This should be fed, the agent explains, only until the bird has regained its appetite, and would not be suitable for a turkey in normal health.

With cooler weather coming on, Mr. Griffin says, and the changed conditions due to the recent rains, there is very little danger of new cases of coccidiosis. Where farmers have had plenty of clabber milk to give their turkeys there has been very little danger of this sickness at any time, which leads the county agent to the observation that every farm on which turkeys are raised should have some good jersey cows.

There has been some sickness among turkeys due to bluebugs, it is stated. To fight bluebugs, the raisers are advised to paint the roosts with a mixture of one-half carbolineum and one-half crude oil or crankcase oil. The roost should be taken apart, and the parts painted with this mixture, with a swab or brush, and then put back together.

CRISIS IS DUE IN ORIENTAL TROUBLE SOON

GENEVA, Oct. 22.—(P)—Japan's representative on the League of Nations council today refused to accept any definite time limit for withdrawal of her troops from Manchuria.

His announcement was in response to a resolution by Aristide Briand, the French foreign minister who is chairman of the council, proposing that Japan complete the Manchurian evacuation by November 16 at which time the council would meet again.

The resolution also recommended that China pledge the security of Japanese lives and property in Manchuria.

When Kenkichi Yoshizawa, the Japanese delegate, took the stand which he had been expected to take the council adjourned until tomorrow evening so that the Japanese representative could study the proposals and so Dr. Alfred Sze, the Chinese member, could ask instructions from his government.

M. Briand, in presenting his proposals, described them as subject to debate and modification after they had been studied fully by the Japanese and Chinese representatives.

By The Associated Press.

Developments that might bring forth a basis for settlement of the Manchurian controversy between China and Japan, or at least result in a showdown between Japan and the League of Nations Council or China and the League Council, appeared in the making today.

Although Japan ostensibly was awaiting a response to her five-point program, which China had received coldly, and China reportedly had advanced a different set of demands which Tokyo viewed with equal frigidity, the League Council was called into a conference which presaged a definite step in its negotiations.

The council was believed considering the drafting of a resolution proposing adjournment of its consideration until November 12th and conveying a desire that Japanese evacuation of occupied Chinese territory be completed by the time the Council reconvenes.

Japan was represented as having given private assurances to that effect although it was considered possible that Tokyo eventually might decline to approve the proposal and it was held probable that the Chinese representative at Geneva could not accept without referring the matter to Nanking.

May Be in New Mexico

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Oct. 22.—(P)—A possibility that Mrs. Winnie Ruth Judd, sought in the two trunk murders at Phoenix, Arizona, might be in this locality was expressed today by Deputy Sheriff P. Zamora of Grants, New Mexico, 100 miles west of here. He is searching for a strange woman who appeared in Grants last night.

The woman knocked on the locked screen door at the residence of Mrs. Bowlin at 11:30 last night and the woman exclaimed "let me in, let me in, they're after me." Mrs. Bowlin objected that she would not let her in, and said the woman grew more insistent, repeating her pleadings.

Mrs. Bowlin called the deputy sheriff but the woman left hurriedly before he arrived. The deputy searched the town and highways in all directions afterward and continued the search today.

After a brief stop they hopped eastward, planning to land at Boise, Idaho, for fuel.

RED CROSS WORKERS MEET IN ABILENE TO MAP WINTER PLANS

ABILENE, Texas, Oct. 22.—(P)—Red Cross workers of West Texas gathered here today to map plans for its winter program and to complete organization preparatory to the annual roll call membership drive.

Henry M. Baker, field representative, discussed practical methods of family relief work, and a review of Red Cross accomplishments in 1930 was given by Miss Mary Parr. Baker was to address the meeting this afternoon on "forward Texas."

D. A. Bandeen, manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, said the workers the relief program this winter would be taxed "because of the attitude of Secretary of Agriculture Hyde in refusing to deal leniently with crop production brokers."

Bandeen said Hyde had agreed to extend collections in necessary cases, but later changed his attitude. "You may rest assured that the government intends to collect these notes if it takes the last bale of cotton a farmer has," Bandeen said. "Such an attitude violates the intent of congress, which was to rehabilitate the drought sufferers, and will leave many farmers protesting with which to make another crop."

LOCAL COTTON MARKET GETS BENEFIT REDUCED RAIL FREIGHT RATES

Brownwood farmers are getting a little better price for their cotton due to the recent reduction in railway freight rates. Railroads in this section have been granted the right to reduce freight rates and the West Texas Chamber of Commerce is working on plans to put the same reduced rates into effect in all parts of West Texas, according to a story in the San Angelo Standard.

The reductions which became effective last Saturday apply to points on the old Orient from the Oklahoma line to San Angelo. Only a few towns west of the Orient have been included.

The saving in freight rates at Brownwood are seen in the following figures: Old rate, $4.25 per bale; new rate, $2.75 per bale; saving, $1.50.

Savings in other towns are: Balinger, old rate, $4.49, new rate, $3, saving, $1.49; Brady, old rate, $4.28, new rate, $2.75, saving, $1.53; Abilene, old rate, $4.49; new rate, $3, saving, $1.49; San Angelo, old rate, $4.65; new rate, $3.00, saving $1.65.

WHITE HOUSE LIGHTS OUT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—(P)—The cold beams of moonlight were all that lighted the White House for one minute last night as President Hoover and his household observed a brief period of electric lightless homage to Thomas A. Edison.

Setting an example to the nation, the president ordered the darkening of all lights in the executive mansion and grounds at 10 p. m. for one minute.

Mr. Hoover had asked that individuals throughout the country follow the lead of the White House in this final tribute to the man who made electric illumination a reality. That the country's power houses could not feasibly be shut down for even one minute was said by Mr. Hoover to be "in itself a monument to Mr. Edison's genius."

As the clock struck ten in Milan, Ohio, immortal as the birthplace of Edison, the community was without electric light or power. Darkness and immobility were preserved until the clock finished its count of ten.

From the far corners of the earth to the state department have come expressions of sympathetic condolences for the loss of America's electrical genius. France, Italy, Venezuela, Nicaragua, Brazil, Chile, China, Egypt, Norway, Bolivia, and others sent word to the American government of the grief of their peoples.

Deputy Sheriff Gus Wallace of Bastrop told the jury he had served H. H. Wilson of Smithville as appear as a witness in court at Bastrop, his statement rebutting Wilson's testimony that he had not been served.

C. C. TO NAME COMMITTEE ON TAX SURVEY

Secretary Hilton Burks and President M. Jones were authorized by the Chamber of Commerce directors in regular meeting today to confer with Chester Harrison, Chairman of district 10 of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, in appointing a local Public Expenditures and Tax committee.

Mr. Burks explained that one of the activities of the W. T. C. Henry Ford Claims Depression is Best For Entire Country
NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Henry Ford thinks the economic slump "has done less harm to the people of our country than a continuance of our previous false prosperity would have done."

In an interview in today's issue of the American Automobile, Mr. Ford says "the depression is a wholesome thing, in general."

"The condition will be broken when people cease to believe that something can be obtained for nothing and when people get back their self-dependence; that is, when they cease to lean on the initiative of a few either to provide work or charity."

CHARLES DORWIN TULLOS

The funeral of Charles Dorwin Tullios was held at the home of his grandfather Tullios near Goldthwaite in the afternoon of October 16, 1931. C. T. Akey, pastor of Belle Plain Avenue Baptist church, assisted by Revs. Ivens and Renfro, conducted the funeral services. The body was interred in the Goldthwaite cemetery. The following boys all members of the Belle Plain Avenue Baptist church, acted as pall bearers: Winfield Smith, Marvin Rogers, Paul Smith, James Hill, Edgar E. Pate, and C. L. Scott. The large audience and the beautiful floral offerings attested the high and tender regard in which the deceased was held. The funeral sermon was appropriate and helpful. The deceased was born December 16, 1915, and lacked only two months of being sixteen years of age, and was unusually large for his age. He had made his home in Brownwood with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. James McGarrity since he was four years of age. He was also the adopted son of Mr. and Mrs. McGarrity. He received his schooling in the public schools of Brownwood. He was also a member of the Belle Plain Avenue Baptist church, and was popular and well liked by the young people of that community. At the time of his death he was on a visit with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Tullios near Goldthwaite. He had gone with two other boys in the community the Tullios home on a load of feed stuff, and on the return a few miles this side of Mullin he accidentally fell from the moving truck which ran over him and instantly killed him. Thus suddenly and unexpectedly a vigorous life was snuffed out, and the soul ushered into eternity. The tragic ending of this young life is indeed sad, and yet, if we will only permit, God can and will make it an inestimable benediction to those who survive.

Sherman Man Killed

DALLAS, Tex., Oct. 19.—(AP)—George D. Cunningham, 50, circulation manager for The Dallas News at Sherman, was killed and seven other persons were injured last night when the automobiles in which they were riding collided. The injured: Mrs. George D. Cunningham, Jack House, Louis Epps and Vernon Wallace, all of Sherman; J. A. Pickens, Jack Thurman and Tommy Langford, all of Dallas. Mrs. Cunningham received a fracture of the right arm and other injuries. The others received cuts and bruises. He said the Judds were living in a duplex in Phoenix until a short time ago, when Judd came to Los Angeles on a vacation and presumably was estranged. The two slain women also were residing in the duplex. About seven o'clock yesterday morning, his sister arrived here and telephoned him while he was at his classes. She asked him to meet her and told him she had a "couple of trunks at the railroad station." Planned Dispose of Trunks "She said she wanted me to drive down and get the trunks and take them to the ocean and dump them in deep water." He met Mrs. Judd and they drove to the station. He had become suspicious, he said, and when he noticed insects swarming about the trunks he became frightened. "I knew something was wrong," he said, "the agent questioned us and my sister said she didn't have the keys and would return later to unlock the trunks for inspection. It was about noon then." They drove to the downtown district and Mrs. Judd became nervous in the car. "She asked me if I had any money. I gave her $5 and some small change and she left. Then I went to the home of Caroline Judd, sister of my brother-in-law, and the police came." Authorities said an investigation of a cabin in Beverly Glen, situated in a remote and isolated section disclosed an unusual stock of supplies and they expressed a theory that a pistol had been used to hide Mrs. Judd in the cabin. It also was disclosed by police that among the stacks of letters and magazines in the trunks, which partly covered the bodies, was found a surgeon's scalpel.

David H. Clark Is Acquitted by Jury On Murder Charge

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 19.—(AP)—David H. Clark, former deputy district attorney who killed two men as the result of what authorities said was a bit of underworld intrigue, was acquitted of one murder charge here yesterday and prosecuting officials indicated another such charge would be dropped. A jury acquitted Clark of slaying Herbert F. Spencer, political magazine editor. Although Clark still faces a charge of murdering Charles H. Crawford, reputedly wealthy politician, District Attorney Byron Pitts said "this probably will be the end of it." "The verdict speaks for itself," he said. Clark testified he shot both Spencer and Crawford last May 29 in self defense. At first trial he resulted in a jury disagreement, 11 to 1 for acquittal. The former prosecutor said the fatal shooting grew out of his refusal by Crawford, described during the trial as "a dethroned political boss seeking to regain his power," to "Frame" Chief of Police Roy E. Steckel.

Entitled to a Veto

THE PROPOSAL for diversion of one cent of the state gasoline tax from the current funds of the Highway Commission to a special fund to be used in the retirement of county road bond indebtedness, as embodied in the Brooks bill passed by the last session of the Legislature, richly deserves the Governor's veto which Mr. Sterling promised several days ago.

One can not escape the conclusion that the passage of the Brooks bill was inspired more by a desire to place the Governor in an uncomfortable position than to make an improvement in the financing of the highway work of the state. It was Mr. Sterling's own proposal, many months ago, that counties be repaid the large amounts they have spent for highway building, and his political enemies in the Legislature apparently sought to embarrass the Governor by compelling him either to approve a measure that would seriously handicap the Highway Department in its work or to veto a bill embodying a part of the proposition which was largely responsible for his election. Mr. Sterling's courage as well as his good sense is reflected in his decision to accept the latter course.

Diversion of seven million dollars from the current highway funds would greatly retard the construction program of the Highway Department, not only cutting down the volume of state-financed work but reducing the volume of federal funds being invested in this state's highway system. The money thus diverted would go principally to the larger and wealthier and more populous counties, in an inequitable distribution which would be unfair to other counties. And the whole procedure would result inevitably in an increase in the gasoline tax to five cents or more, in spite of the fact that this commodity is now being taxed for forty per cent of its retail sale value and for actually 200 per cent of its value at the refinery.

We have not favored the state bond issue plan for financing highway construction, with its accompanying proposal for refunding to counties the sums they have invested through bond issues in the construction of state roads. But, if such a plan is to be attempted it should be a comprehensive one, and should not be inaugurated piecemeal by a diversion of a part of the gasoline tax for the purpose of repaying a part of the county investments. The question is essentially economic and not political, and should be considered as such by the Legislature if it is again brought up for consideration by that law-making body. Under present conditions, it seems to us, the less the existing order of things is disturbed in the financing of highway construction, the better for the state and its people. After the period of depression has been concluded it may be advisable to take up the problem of highway financing and to seek a better method of handling it. Certainly the Brooks bill offers no improvement, and proposes no benefit either to the great mass of people who pay the gasoline tax or to the property owners who are paying taxes for the retirement of county and district road bonds.

Praise for the Cop

PRESIDENT HOOVER summarized the whole law enforcement situation the other day in a brief address by radio to the International Association of Chiefs of Police. Urging popular respect for and confidence in police officers, the President said: "If the police had the vigilant, universal backing of public opinion in their communities, if they had the implacable support of the prosecuting authorities and the courts, if our criminal laws in their endeavor to protect the innocent did not furnish loopholes through which clever, irresponsible lawyers daily find devices of escape for the guilty, I am convinced that our police would stamp out the excessive crime and remove the worldwide disrepute which has disgraced some of our great cities."

If there must be a popular hero, Mr. Hoover declares, he should be the policeman and not the criminal, but public opinion must be changed before this can be brought about. Just now we have the unusual spectacle of a federal court conducting the trial of the world's most notorious crime leader in Chicago, for the comparatively trivial offense of lying about his income. The progress of the trial is such that Texas newspapers carry headlines reading "What the Well-Dressed Gangster Should Wear" over the daily reports of the case.

The police officers in any town or city are as good as the community deserves or wants. They are as faithful and as efficient in the performance of their duties as public opinion demands that they be. Better prosecutors and more dependable courts, better laws and more ethical lawyers will be available when the public decides to have them in support of better policemen. Any town or city that is known as a crime center should be ashamed of its reputation. It is not an indictment of the criminals hiding there, but of the state of public opinion existing there.

The Railroads Lose

GENERAL rate increases of approximately fifteen per cent, as sought by the railroads of the country, have been denied by the Interstate Commerce Commission, after a series of hearings extending over the past several weeks. The roads, however, are to be permitted to increase the freight rates on certain commodities during limited periods, as a means of increasing their revenues and temporarily relieving their financial distress.

It was unfortunate for the railroads and for the country that their plea for increased rates was necessitated at a time of extreme depression; and the very fact of such necessity reflects the advisability of revising the whole structure of railroads control and operation. The problems of transportation were comparatively simple when the government assumed the control of the railroads through the Interstate Commerce Commission. In the last ten years it has become highly complicated, and there is no flexibility in the plan of control so that investments in transportation properties may be safeguarded, costs of transportation stabilized, and the interests of the public protected against the ill attendant upon fluctuating economic conditions.

Every transportation facility and service should be co-ordinated in such manner as to give the best service to the public. Distinctions between rail transportation and water and highway transportation should be erased, and the government itself should withdraw whatever subsidies it now is maintaining in behalf of any form of transportation. Railroad rates should be adjusted so that when business is good the roads may accumulate a reserve to tide them over periods of depression without having to resort to emergency increases such as were sought in the recent petitions before the Interstate Commerce Commission. If the government, through its control of the railroads and its authority to assume control of all other transportation facilities, can not do this, then it should relinquish control of the railroads and permit them to fight their own battles as units in the highly competitive transportation industry.

Thrill-Dip Deaths

A GIRL student of Texas Technological College was fatally hurt the other day near Lubbock and three other students were injured when their light car overturned while going over a "thrill-dip" driveway. The girl's death brought the total for Lubbock and vicinity to eleven for the one day. One can get all the thrills required by driving along any street or highway, and without accepting the special hazards of a "thrill-dip" drive. An overwhelming majority of the deaths directly caused by automobiles result from unnecessary speeding, acceptance of unnecessary risks, or thrill-seeking.

TEXAS AND TEXANS

By WILL H. MAYES
Austin, Texas
"All Texans for all Texas"

Texas Urban Population
Several Texas cities have reached real city proportions. Houston's metropolitan area is given in the 1930 census as having 339,216 population; that of Dallas, 309,658; San Antonio, 279,371; Fort Worth, 174,575; El Paso, 118,461. In "metropolitan areas" in addition to the central city, is included all adjacent and contiguous territory having a density of not less than 150 inhabitants per square mile. The relative rank of the leading Texas cities in "metropolitan" and "central" areas is the same. It is interesting to know that the retail trade of the foremost Texas cities is in almost exact relative proportion to population, which shows that the different sections of Texas are about equally prosperous.

New Texas Railroad
Unless the Interstate Commerce Commission blocks the plans, a railroad will soon be built from Del-

Rio to Sonora to connect with the northern terminus of the Winter Garden Belt Railway. Right of way is being secured, engineers are in the field, traffic data is being secured and other preliminary steps are under way. The State charter has been obtained and officers of the road say they are "ready to go." The line is to run almost due north from Del Rio, a distance of 85 miles.

Awaits Commission Permit
Another railroad, the Gulf and West Texas, from San Antonio to San Angelo, is awaiting a decision from the Interstate Commerce Commission as to whether it will be allowed to build a new line from the Kerrville line to Fredericksburg, paralleling the Fredericksburg Junction from Fredericksburg to Junction into Fredericksburg, because of inability to agree with the owners of the Fredericksburg road as to the price to be paid for the existing track. The Southern Pacific has 150 cars of track building material in the San Antonio yards awaiting permission for work to be started.

Large Building Program
Around $4,500,000 in new buildings will be started at the University of Texas in the next few months, with funds obtained from money borrowed through liens on oil royalties. It will be the largest building program the University has ever undertaken at one time, and the regents say that in view of employment conditions they will exact of contractors that they employ Texas people exclusively in erection of the buildings.

Providing For Winter
In Prio county, with a population of less than 10,000, approximately 150,000 cans and containers of vegetables and fruits are stored on pantry shelves ready for use. These stored treasures will go a long way to supplement the season's supply of staple foods. It is significant that where an active home demonstration agent is employed in a county there is always a large supply of farm products put up in a way to be in readiness for use when needed.

E. B. Neiswanger, chairman of the agricultural department of the San Antonio Chamber of Commerce, recently sent out a letter urging counties in that section of the State to retain their home and farm agents. He pointed out that these are the country's most valuable helpers in the readjustment of living conditions, the times, in that they demonstrate practically how to make and preserve home produced foods to best advantage. Most of the counties answered that, however much economy might be needed in county management, these agents had proven their worth and would be retained.

Small towns and communities that hardly need chambers of commerce should follow the plan under consideration by Harper, Gillespie county, for organization of a community club in which regular meetings will be to discuss and solve all community problems that arise. Such meetings should bring about better understanding of local affairs and mutual co-operation in doing the hundreds of things that better local conditions. Such clubs should include both men and women and should result in more neighborly understanding among the people.

Require Charity Permits
Too often are people imposed on by charity seekers. Many of these take advantage of existing conditions to seek alms when they should be at work for their living. Solicitors for organizations go from town to town asking support in the name of charities, some of which are not entitled to help. Some local organizations, rendering a service more or less worthwhile, cost more than the service rendered is worth. There is often unnecessary duplication. The Brady Chamber of Commerce has a committee that will require permits from all charity solicitors in the town and make things interesting for those trying to solicit without a permit.

Send Hoodlums Home
Some 200 boys, said to have been University students, recently attempted to force their way into an Austin movie show by crashing the doors. Employees of the theater resisted, and in the fight hands were bruised, one student lost a tooth, and doors were damaged. It costs taxpayers much hard-earned money to have a student attend the University. When one deliberately joins a mob, engage in a riot, and attempts to force some one to give him something for nothing—the price of a show ticket or anything else—he becomes a member of a hijacking organization and should be sent home. State supported schools are not the place for such hoodlums.

Shipping to Northward
Already carloads of Texas vegetables and fruits from the Rio Grande districts are being rushed to the north, and despite the fact that prices may be lower than in some previous seasons, returns for the crop, for labor and for transportation will start much money in circulation in that territory. The acreage in most crops is about the same as last season.

Prosperity Pointers
Wilson county is shipping about 100 cars of peanuts this season. The Southern Pacific Railroad will soon start construction of a $3,500,000 passenger station at Houston. Temple is extending its white way thirty-seven blocks or about two miles. Bids for an $85,000 postoffice building at Georgetown have been opened at Washington. Big Spring will start construction of a $200,000 city hall and fire station about December 1. A $150,000 bottling plant has been opened at Beaumont. The American Desk Company at Temple is working night shifts—24 hours a day, 7 days a week—to catch up with orders.

A $3,000,000 oil refinery is to be

CITY SALARIES ARE CUT OVER $5000 A YEAR

Salaries of city employees from the Mayor down to the day laborers, with the exception of three, were reduced 10 per cent by the council in session Tuesday night. The exceptions are the salaries of City Judge James McCartney and City Health Officer Dr. D. R. Scott, who each draw a salary of $30, and the salary of Ray Ingram, laborer in the sanitary department, which was raised from $20 to $40 per month. The reduction is to go into effect November 1.

The cut Tuesday night made the second 10 per cent reduction, or a total 20 per cent reduction, in city salaries within the past six months. The first reduction was made June 1. At that time the cut was about $22 a month or an estimated total of $7,512 per year.

Saves $421.85 Monthly
The latest reduction means a saving of $421.85 per month in the city pay roll, reducing the monthly pay roll from $4,538.50, which included the mayor's and city councilmen's salaries to $4,116.65. The yearly saving will be a little more than $5,000.

The reduction in salaries was suggested by City Manager H. V. Hennen and was accepted by the council upon motion of Alderman T. Carlson, second by Alderman Weedon. "Owing to the present financial situation and in keeping with the reduction in the cost of living I think salaries of the city should be reduced so the city can keep as many men possible at work even though they must work for less pay," Hennen said. The council also adopted the suggestion that a standard of 25 cents per hour be set for labor.

In addition to the reduction in salaries five employees have been cut off in the last few days or will be cut off the pay roll, November 1st, making a reduction of $396 per month or a total of $4,752 per year. The 10 per cent reduction and the reduction in number of employees make a total saving in the pay roll of almost $10,000 a year, Hennen pointed out.

"We have been making every effort to reduce the expenses of the city by reducing number of employees and salaries and still carry on the work with the same efficiency and service to the people," Mr. Hennen declared.

Round Mountain Road
The council instructed the street committee, Aldermen Carlson and Hood, to assist Ira Hall in locating a road on city land at round mountain. The council gave Mr. Hall permission to build a road on the property to be used by him to get to his rock crusher and by the city at any time.

The ordinance granting the Natural Gas and Fuel Company the right to reduce gas rates from 50 cents to 35 cents per thousand cubic feet was passed on second reading.

Individual Charity Contributions
Council declined to pay a charity bill of $15.40 presented by Desk Sergeant A. Sallee, but the mayor and individual councilmen contributed almost the entire amount. The bill was incurred, Sallee explained, in taking care of a boy who had typhoid fever. The county had already paid a part of the bill and the $15.40 was the balance due.

Alderman Kay Roberts, committee on the airport, contract between the city and Charles Shropshire made a report. Shropshire is to be manager of the temporary airport here on the McCartney field, which the city, the Chamber of Commerce and the civic clubs are renting. Roberts said representative of the chamber and clubs approved the contract with the exception that it be clearly stated in the contract that pilots will not be charged for landing here.

Inspection Report
Dr. W. B. Sanders, local milk inspector, made a report on milk grading and dairy inspections, bringing to the council the suggestion of Dr. M. Pierson, state milk supervisor, that milk grading be postponed until November 1. The council accepted the suggestion.

An ordinance repealing a former ordinance allowing gas companies to charge any price for gas below the maximum passed on second reading.

The street committee was instructed to investigate and report back to council on the question of selling a part of an alley which is now closed because of the high dump of highway 7. The alley is located off Belle Plain avenue toward Baker street.

HENRY HAMILTON OFF LOCAL POLICE FORCE FOR INDEFINITE TIME

Henry Hamilton, street patrolman on the city police force since June, has resigned his position for an indefinite period because of ill health. Mr. Hamilton said today he does not know how long he will be off the force but will not try to resume his duties again until he is in a better physical condition. Mr. Hamilton is receiving treatment from local doctors and has made one trip to Dallas for treatment.

He was injured several weeks ago in an affray while making an arrest and was in a hospital for several weeks. After partially recovering Mr. Hamilton resumed his duties but says now he believes he went back to work too soon.

PROPER CARE TURKEYS URGED; OUTLOOK FOR MARKET ENCOURAGING

The turkey market is apt to be good throughout the season says Mrs. Ida Salyer, manager of the Southwestern Poultry Association, in a letter addressed to the association members. The small supply would indicate that the late market might be even better, she adds.

Thanksgiving turkeys have two defects, the members of the association are told: They are not well enough dressed and have pin feathers. Before bringing them to market examine them especially for pin feathers and see that they have plump well fleshed bodies.

Another matter that always causes heavy losses is feed in the crop. This can be avoided by putting the turkeys up the night before they are to be delivered next day.

The association has the lowest overhead expense it has ever had, the manager states. In view of the approaching turkey market, County Agent O. P. Griffin has issued a letter to all turkey raisers of this county as follows:

"If you will feed a balanced ration containing animal protein and minerals the pin feathers will disappear much sooner. At the present price of feeds you should get a pound of gain for 6 cents worth of feed. You seldom ever have such an opportunity to make profit on the farm. So why not market some of your cheap feed through your turkeys and at the same time make a better market for them.

"Meat and bone meal is cheap. Use 15 pounds of it to each 100 pounds of ground grain. Then feed them all the whole grain they will eat at night. A mixture of several grains is better if you have them unless you have plenty of milk. It will pay you to exchange some of your grain for meat and bone meal rather than feed grain alone. Or you can get the meat and bone meal from your association and the extra grain in the turkeys will pay for it.

"Blue bugs are consuming many turkey dollars now. One blue bug is too many. Get a half gallon of carbolineum and mix it with half a gallon of crude oil or crankcase oil and with an old paint brush or swab paint your roost poles good. Do not get much of this on your hands.

"The poultry business is already recovering from the depression. Take care of your poultry for it is your best prospect now."

Coleman Sheriff Is Seeking Relatives Of Youth In Jail

COLEMAN, Texas, Oct. 21.—Sheriff Frank Mills of this city is trying to locate relatives of a young man he placed in the Coleman county jail last Friday. The prisoner was taken into custody last Friday after he had tried to enter a home near Shiled, southern part of Coleman county. He is suffering a complete memory lapse and can give officers no information that will lead to his identity. He has short curly hair, light brown eyes, weighs about 140 pounds and is about 5 feet, 6 inches high. He answers no questions asked, cannot say where he came from nor give any other detail that might be of assistance in discovering his identity. Beard on his face indicates he had been in his present condition when taken up by officers.

EIGHT TRAIN RIDERS ROUNDED UP, ONE HELD ON CHARGE OF ROBBERY

A roundup of eight train riders Sunday morning by Policeman F. J. Walker resulted in the arrest of one of the men on a charge of robbery of a box car committed several days ago in Bell county. The men were not taken in custody on account of the robbery for which the man was arrested, but on charge of box car robbery in Coleman county. Walker got the men off the Santa Fe train from Coleman and borrowed a truck to haul them to the police station. Charlie Sommers, about 19, freckled face and red haired, was arrested from description, in connection with the robbery in Bell county. He was delivered to Special Detective Johnson of the Santa Fe Railroad this morning and will be turned over to Bell county officers. The other men were questioned in connection with an attempted robbery of a box car near Coleman. The seal on the car door had been broken but no merchandise was taken, it was revealed after a check-up by the yard clerk and conductor. The men denied any knowledge of the broken seal and were released at 3:00 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Lamb Confident of Early Reopening of Citizens National

Mr. Ernest Lamb, chairman of the Citizens National Bank, said today that he was confident of an early reopening of the bank, but simply as examiners to determine its condition. He had confidence in it when we came, and as much confidence in it now. As a matter of fact, the examiner added, "we have more confidence in it now than when we began this examination."

The public, Mr. Lamb said, should be patient and should retain its confidence in the bank pending the completion of the plans for reorganization and reopening. "A great many rumors have come to us that are calculated to disturb the public mind and to hinder the reorganization of this bank. It is not necessary to enumerate these rumors and deny them in detail, but the thinking public should be able to identify them as groundless because they are so unreasonable. For instance, it is reported that the bank must reopen within ten days from the time of closing, or go into liquidation. There is no time limit restricting us in our work. After the examination is completed and our report is made to the Comptroller, he will insist that the bank be reorganized and reopened as quickly as is reasonably possible. This is the only time limit on the matter."

The optimistic attitude of the examiner was reflected by officers and directors of the bank, who declined to be interviewed pending the completion of the examination, but who are known to have been working continuously upon plans for arranging the reorganization of the bank as soon as Mr. Lamb and Mr. Marshall, associate examiner, complete their work.

HEER SANTA ANNA WOMAN CELEBRATES 90TH BIRTHDAY

W. E. BAXTER.

Chambers celebrated the anniversary of her birth on October 14th, at her home south of Santa Anna, Texas, where she has resided for the past twenty years, with a number of her family. The dinner was prepared by her daughter, Miss Emma, who makes her home here.

Elizabeth Watts was born in county, Alabama, in daughter of Rufus M. Watts, a prominent plantation owner. When a child of seven years she moved to Texas and in the spring of 1850 she was married to Mr. Chambers in 1860 and moved to Weatherford in 1862, making the trip in a stagecoach. They lived for two years in a frontier country, where they were forced to wear handkerchiefs and their dresses many times over the Indians who were settling at Santa Anna.

Chambers at church. When she returned to the States she took her stay in Weatherford, attending the attendance on a small log house that always there in the corners of building in order to protect against an attack by Indians.

In 1862, one of the war between the states she moved with her husband where they were collected and settled at Santa Anna.

Years were made by them in Waco, the memory of which is cherished very dear until this day. While she became a member of the Baptist Church and was Dr. R. C. Burlison, Baylor University. She was a kind and faithful member of the church and her daughter, Mrs. Egger, obtained the data and facts which she used in writing the book, in which it is stated that he was captured by General Ampudia which is almost one hundred years old, having been published in 1841. The Bible is printed in plain, large type as white as the day it was printed. Another Bible in the home is one more than a hundred years old, which was brought to Texas by Grandfather William Chambers, and which was published in 1830.

Precautions Against Indians

During the time spent in Parker county all families had trap doors in the floor of their residences through which they could go and hide themselves from Indians during a raid, according to Mrs. Chambers.

Many interesting antiques are to be found in this home including a Seth Thomas clock which is more than a hundred years old and which was owned by Mrs. Chambers' father many years before her birth.

A silver water tankard swung on handles given to her as a Christmas present by her children in 1882. Furniture made of genuine walnut and the dressers and tables with marble tops, including a sideboard which has been in constant use for more than 70 years, and a Weber grand piano of more than 60 years service. Perhaps the most interesting of all these is a bedspread made by Mr. Chambers' mother more than one hundred years ago, and which is used only on the birthday of Mrs. Chambers and on Mother's Day of each year.

When Mrs. Chambers and her husband came to Santa Anna, they immediately became leaders in their community, and he entered the mercantile business which he followed for a number of years, finally quitting the business and moving to a large farm which he had purchased two miles south of town, where Mrs. Chambers now resides and where he died in 1906.

The late Mrs. Fannie Chambers-Gooch-Iglerhart, noted author, who died in Austin, on October 10th, was a sister of Mr. Chambers. Her works included "The Boy Captive of the Mer Expedition" and "Face to Face with the Mexicans." The boy captured at the Mer was Juan C. C. Hill and it was from him that Mrs. Iglerhart obtained the data and facts which she used in writing the book, in which it is stated that he was captured by General Ampudia

Channel Section of Dam Is Now 12 Feet Above Highest Mark of Flood

Since the rises on Pecan Bayou last week, the James Spencer and Son Construction Company at Brownwood dam has concentrated on pouring dirt into the channel section of the dam and the whole section today is 12 feet higher than the high point of the flood, according to D. W. Ross, engineer. To do any great damage another rise would have to be a great deal higher than the floods of last week.

The dirt has been put into both sides of the dam and all efforts during the week have been directed toward this work instead of the filling of the core trench. The dam is now safe as far as ordinary rises are concerned.
