1,574 Ration Books Issued First 3 Days

One thousand five hundred and seventy-four ration books were issued in Muenster on the first three days of the week it was disclosed Wednesday evening. Ration board supervisor, Virgil Lee Welch, stated that some few were still unregistered and for these the registration would continue Thursday. It had been hoped that all could be accommodated the first three days, but early closing on Wednesday to permit the teachers and others to be present at the public high school graduation in the evening accounted for the failure to register the remainder of the persons.

A survey Wednesday night by Miss Mary Wiedeman, ration board clerk, indicated that 1,637 persons signed application blanks and that 1,574 books were issued.

Persons who failed to register by Thursday evening, must wait two weeks and then go before the county rationing board.

The amount of sugar that can be purchased by each person in possession of a ration book is one pound each two weeks until June 27. After that date the amount may be changed, or it may be continued the same.

Stamp No. 1 entitles the holder to a pound of sugar between May 5 and 16; No. 2, to a pound between May 17 and 30; No. 3, to a pound between May 31 and June 13; and No. 4, one pound between June 14 and 27.

33 Children in Solemn Reception of Eucharist On Ascension Thursday

On Ascension Thursday, May 14, Solemn Communion services for a group of 33 children will take place at Sacred Heart church during the 9 o'clock high mass.

Instructions on correct table setting and service were given and discussed at the regular meeting of the local girls' 4-H club Monday morning, Mrs. Tony Gremminger and Mrs. John Huschke, sponsors, met with the girls in the parochial school auditorium.

Cooke County Farmers Vote Wheat Quota

Cooke county farmers voted 110 to 42 in favor of wheat marketing quotas in 1942 at four voting places Saturday.

While the nation's vote was approximately 3 to 1 in favor of the quotas, Cooke county's majority for the issue was not so heavy.

The vote in precincts are as follows: Gainesville, 38 for to 19 against; Valley View, 25 to 3; Era, 16 to 6; Muenster, 31 to 14.

SPECIAL PROGRAM SUNDAY TO HONOR MUENSTER MOTHERS

A special program honoring mothers of the community will take place next Sunday evening when members of the Young Ladies' Sodality will entertain in the parish hall.

PARISH CHILDREN TO HAVE "MAY DAY" CEREMONY SATURDAY

A procession and the crowning of the May Queen will take place Saturday evening at 8 o'clock at Sacred Heart church. The ceremony is to be held in connection with the international celebration of "Mary's Day."

FUNERAL HELD SUNDAY FOR F. D. T. TEAGUE, 52, FATHER OF LOCAL MAN

F. D. Teague, 52, father of E. O. Teague of this city, died at Nocona on Friday, May 1st, following a three months' illness. Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon from the Nocona Church of Christ with the pastor, Rev. Marshall Patton, officiating.

BATTERY SWAPS ORDERED

Auto storage batteries have joined tin tubes in the wartime "shop and swap" list. Under WPB orders, no purchaser may receive a new battery unless he turns in a used battery at the time of the transaction.

Ben Boyd Is Speaker At Graduation

Public High School Graduates Three Students At Wednesday Program

Judge Ben W. Boyd of Denton was the principal speaker here Wednesday night when graduates of the Muenster High School held commencement exercises at the parish hall.

Vote Rejects Muenster and Hays Merger

The attempt to consolidate the Muenster-Hays school districts was unsuccessful.

Official returns of the referendum disclose that last Thursday's election on the merger carried at Muenster but was defeated at Hays.

MUENSTER SENDS DELEGATION TO WINDTHORST RITES

Rev. Father Frowin and Rev. Father Richard, pastors, headed a large delegation of more than a hundred Muenster citizens in attendance at the Golden Jubilee celebrations at Windthorst on Tuesday.

Most Rev. Joseph P. Lynch, Bishop of Dallas and Most Rev. Augustine Dangelmayr, Auxiliary Bishop of Dallas, and some thirty priests from North Texas and Arkansas, including Rt. Rev. Paul M. Nahlen, Abbot of New Subiaco Abbey, Subiaco, Ark., were in attendance.

"A fellow in Glendale, Calif., celebrated his 101st birthday 81 years after being rejected for ill health when he tried to enlist in the Civil war. The docs who turned him down would be surprised at this news if they had lived to hear it."

Con's reason for quoting this is obvious. Could there be any army hospital patient who would not derive from it a sly feeling of satisfaction? Or any other patient, for that matter? It's always refreshing to see a reminder that a person does not necessarily have to quit the game because the cards are stacked against him for a few hands.

In a stricter sense, however, the quotation does not apply to yours truly. He's not being rejected by the medicos. But there are plenty of others, some being sent out with a CDD (Certificate of Disability Discharge) and some who did not pass the induction exam, who, nevertheless will carry on through long useful lives.

In one of their recent bull sessions the fellows of this ward were going strong on the physical disability subject. A newspaper article, saying that draft boards are complaining about the numerous CDD's, brought up the conversation.

At the same time the army can complain too. It isn't so well pleased at receiving hundreds of men it does not want. Again, it's the old game of passing the buck. Draft board and induction examiners send the boys through whenever there's a doubt. If the army doesn't want 'em, it can send 'em home.

What these men can't understand is why the CDD's are dished out so generously. Several of those airing opinions were themselves due to leave soon, but felt that they should not go. They knew they could still perform some useful service in the army.

Especially obvious cases mentioned are those of weak heart, high blood pressure or a crippled foot. While unsuitable for the strain of field duty, men so afflicted could be as useful as the most perfect physical specimen for less strenuous work. And this army has plenty of those light jobs to occupy such men.

By the same reasoning there are thousands of men rejected by pre-induction exams who could be doing a good job in uniform. There are thousands more of the older men who tried to enlist but were turned down. And it is this rookie's considered prediction that the army will find places for those men before the shooting is over. Let's hope it will make that decision soon and spare more of the men with dependents.

To the many aspects of ill fortune that are haunting the Allies, Cooke county can now add the phenomenon of a misplaced monsoon. A double tragedy — that the devastating torrents should have fallen there when they would have been so handy in Burma. (The remark has a two weeks' growth of whiskers, I'll admit — or have there been more floods? — but I'm due some allowance for tardiness at this distance, I hope. Besides this is as prompt as many of our official news reports).

Yes, the anxiously awaited monsoon would have been most welcome in the Far East two weeks ago. As it is, we now have more bad news. No one can doubt that the Japs are becoming a very serious menace.

Does all the gloomy news impress America as it should? That is a question that deserves consideration. Every day a person can see columns and columns pointing out the handwriting on the Axis' walls but so pitifully little mention of what might happen to us. Last week, for instance, commentators waxed eloquent over the significance of Hitler's speech and his meeting with the Duce. Also over

DELAY IN HOUSE PAINTING, COSTLY

The longer you wait—the more it will cost

Paint your house this season. But don't stop just with painting. Get up on the roof and examine it carefully. If you are using wooden shingles, you will save money in the long run by painting or staining them now. Renail if needed. Examine the chimneys. They probably need repointing. If your chimneys don't fit the house in size and shape, paint them out of notice using the color on the body of the house. Look for roof leaks around the chimneys and dormers. You don't want the roof leaks to spoil your new decorating inside.

Apply a new coat of screen enamel to the screens to prevent rusting. A quality screen enamel will not clog the mesh. A fence enhances the beauty of a home and will last for years if you protect it with paint. Examine the porches and outside stairs for sagging. If the paint film on the treads has started to show wear in the heavy traffic areas, apply a good tough enamel that will withstand the tons of pounding by scuffing feet and the constant attacks of weather.

Make the front entrance inviting. It will stand most any color treatment that you prefer.

FREE ESTIMATES Don't put off painting another season. If you lack the ready cash, use your credit. It's good here. Money spent for painting and decorating is a wise investment in the safety of all investments—a home. Paint your home outside and inside on our budget plan or on low interest, monthly installments, for the cost of both labor and materials.

Women Can Help the War Effort By Saving Cosmetic Containers

American women can help the war effort by saving the increasingly precious metal containers in which they buy their lipsticks, their toilettries and other beauty aids. Adequate supplies of lipsticks, cleansing creams, powders, and other beauty items probably will be available, the WEP Toilettries and Cosmetics Branch said, but women must make certain that there is no waste of containers, many of which will no longer be manufactured because of metal and plastic shortages. The Branch urged women not to throw away a lipstick container

Plant Sorghum For Feed
To Replace Grain Crops
Lost to the Green Bugs

COLLEGE STATION, May 4.— Its getting late to plant corn, but there's plenty of time to seed milo, higeria, kafir and other grain sorghums to replace much of the oats and barley crops lost to the green bugs, says E. R. Eudaly, Extension Service dairyman.

A cow giving an average of two gallons of milk daily for ten months, Eudaly explains, will need 1,200 pounds of grain sorghum heads yearly when no oats or barley is used in the ration. "Every farmer who milks cows should plant enough grain sorghums to supply each animal with that amount of heads. In most cases it will require an acre of any of the grain sorghums to make 1200 pounds of heads. The stalks can be cut and placed in a trench silo for use in place of pasture."

Whenever moisture conditions permit, farmers producing milk should plant one acre of sudan grass for each cow in order to insure pasture if at all possible. Good green pasture is the best and cheapest feed possible for dairy cows, Eudaly says.

Plant sudan in rows. This method requires less seed and will furnish more grazing than if broadcast. Farmers having a surplus of sudan pasture should cut the grass for hay, or if preferred, for silage. For hay, the sudan should be cut just before it heads in order to obtain the best quality. For silage, it should be allowed to head and form seed. If this is done no molasses will be needed in making silage. In any event, molasses might be hard to get.

We know a man who always looks down in the mouth—but he isn't sad; he's just a dentist.

A swanky chap applied at the recruiting office to enlist. "I suppose you want a commission," said the officer. "No thanks," was the reply. "I'm such a poor shot that I'd rather work on a straight salary."

Coach was explaining a few plays to the earnest substitute. He said, "Suppose the ball is on the four-yard line, last down, one minute to play, and we were three points behind? 'I'd move down the bench further where I could see better, was Kenneth's reply."

An inebriated man was trying to unlock the door of his house without success when a passing policeman asked if he could handle the key for him.

"Nope," the drunken man said, "I can hold the key. You hold the house."

As usual many a person will be wearing a rose for Mother next Sunday, the day set aside as one of special honor to that group of persons who are entitled to greater credit for all that is worthwhile in our present civilization.

Mother — she's the mainstay of the nation, the inspiration to children growing up, and to sons already grown to serve their country in distant places. Mother merits tenderness, thoughtfulness and love every day of the year, but this special day is ours to tell her in some special, small, tangible way that she is ever in our hearts.

Countless words of praise have been written about Mother through the years. Once in his career every poet eulogizes her. Biographers tell of mothers' influence on famous sons and daughters. Yet isn't it strange how, when each one of us comes to trying to express what he feels in his heart for his own mother, words seem inadequate?

This year that's truer than ever, because this is the kind of a year that reemphasizes how much a mother means, how far reaching her devotion is, how she can give courage to go on to even strong men who grow weak.

Mother sustains us, keeps back the tears when they would make our own tears flow, makes ends meet so that we have, though she cannot have. Mother is our heroine, so on this day we cheer and shout "hat's off" to that gallant lady!

In the home, to the family, she's always shown her readiness to, and capacity for facing emergencies. Now she shoulders added responsibilities in the national emergency. She's pitched right in, she's doing her part. She's walking to and from the store, usually humming as she goes, because she's helping save oil and rubber needs for our fighting machines. She's carrying more packages than she used to, for the same reason, she's working miracles in the business of running a home, planning menus, clothing the family better for less. She's finding new ways to make things last longer. Her spirit of share and share alike makes anyone who is so selfish as to hoard seem very foolish.

She loves to laugh and to see her family happy about her.

Make her happier next Sunday, and at the same time resolve to try to keep her happy through the year. Resolve to do nothing that would hurt her feelings. And last, but not least, offer a prayer that God will bless her, keep her in good health and bestow upon her a more complete happiness than mere creatures can offer.

Economic Highlights

The historian of the future will write in full detail the long and involved story of this government's effort to keep the Vichy government from affecting complete collaboration with Hitler. At the present time, it is sufficient to say that we did all we could, and that we failed through no fault of our own. There were many good reasons why these efforts should have been made, even when it appeared almost certain that there was no hope of success. First, the American people have always regarded France as a traditional ally. She has been on our side ever since the Revolution, and has aided us in controversies with powers which are among our Allies in the present war. Second, few nations have done as much for us as France. She has been on our side ever since the Revolution, and has aided us in controversies with powers which are among our Allies in the present war. Second, few nations have done as much as France to advance the cause of parliamentary government — the French Revolution paved the way for many revolts against tyranny. Third, France is still the possessor of a shakable naval force — a fact which is of the utmost practical importance at this time.

But that is all water over the dam now. France is, to all intents and purposes, a Hitler ally. Before this war is over, we may formally regard her as an enemy. It is extremely likely that in the near future we will extend full diplomatic recognition to De Gaulle's Free French Government. The fact that Ambassador Leahy has been recalled from Vichy, and an American consular official has been sent to the Free French capital in Africa, shows definitely the way the wind blows.

The American people should hold no optimism as to the purposes which "Black Peter" Laval has in mind. Long before the war he was known as the least scrupulous of politicians in a country where corruption was the rule, not the exception, in governmental circles. Laval has made up his mind that his own future is 100 per cent dependent upon a Hitler victory. He has said publicly that if the United Nations triumph, he will be escorted without ceremony to the gallows. He will do everything he can to help the Axis — and few believe that he will worry overmuch if the Germans continue to slaughter helpless French hostages. The Frenchmen the Germans assassinate are those who would most actively fight Laval, if they were free, and so it is likely that he is glad to see them put out of the way.

Just what has Hitler gained by forcing into office a French government which has abandoned almost all pretense of independence, and which is an avowed and enthusiastic supporter of the "New Order" in Europe?

In answering this, the French fleet comes first to mind. If the Germans can obtain control of that fleet, the naval balance of the world will be dangerously changed. Some believe that Admiral Darlan may hesitate to give Hitler everything he wants — anti-British as he is, he also knows that his own

French industrial areas, however, may substantially lessen France's usefulness to her conqueror.

There is one very important fact to be listed on the debit side, so far as Hitler and Laval are concerned. According to practically all authorities, close to ninety per cent of Frenchmen hate Germany and Vichy with equal passion. The underground anti-Axis movement in France is strong and well-directed, and it grows stronger. Sabotage increases and becomes steadily more effective. Thousands upon thousands are members of suicide organizations which will take any risk in order to strike a blow at the Germans and the Laval group of collaborationists. That, in the long pull, will serve the cause of the United Nations well. And it will also serve the great cause of eventual freedom for the oppressed masses of the French people. Today, we must not think of France entirely in terms of her puppet government. We must think of France in terms of the men and women who are doing what they can to fight the Axis under the most dangerous, the most difficult and the most discouraging conditions.

Reports indicate that in recent air raids on outlying Australian positions, Japan has lost close to 40 per cent of the aircraft employed. That shows two things. First, American supplies in real volume have reached "down under" and have been put to work. Second, MacArthur has done a superb job in organizing his defenses in a very short time. Tremendous strides are being taken in readying Australia as the take-off point in a gigantic Pacific counter-offensive.

COTTON FARMERS URGED TO PLANT FULL ALLOTMENTS

COLLEGE STATION.—An extra half million bales of cotton will be grown by Texas farmers this year if they answer the call to plant all of their cotton allotments.

War with the Axis powers emphasizes the need for additional oils and cotton with staple lengths of one inch or better for manufacture of balloon and parachute cloth, pontoons for seaplanes, and other items which require a strong, light fabric. B. F. Vance, chairman, Texas USDA War Board, said, "This doesn't mean allotments are being increased or that farmers are being asked to exceed their allotments," Vance said in explaining that AAA regulations remain intact and that marketing quotas and allotments still stand.

Difference in the 1942 allotment of 9,864,569 acres and last year's 9,083,585 planted acres at the 1935-40 average yield of 161 pounds will obtain the increase asked for by Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard, the War Board chairman said. National production of from 12,100,000 to 13,500,000 bales is expected if the national allotment of 27,400,000 acres is planted, he added.

The percentage of the acreage allotment planted to cotton in Texas has declined sharply since 1938, Vance said. 1941 planted acres averaged 82 per cent of the state allotment while farmers last year underplanted the national allotment by some four million acres.

Really Gets The Job Done

Newspaper advertising also gets the job done. It is the cheapest and best advertising medium for merchants to get their products before the public.

It also helps the consumers to find out about things they want to buy.

All of which is another way of saying, advertising saves a lot of time for everybody.

That's why advertising pays — on both sides of the counter.

MOSAICS of Sacred Heart High

Edited This Week By Alma Marie Luke Johann Seyler Imelda Feiderhoff Della Rose Endres

Graduation: The long awaited hour for the senior class of 1942 came on Friday night, May the first, at nine o'clock. By a quarter of the hour the hall was packed to capacity. Others coming later found the hall so crowded that they had to stand in the vestibule, or on the steps, or as many of them did, return home, because the parish hall could hold no more. The crowd was as large and possibly exceeded in size that which witnessed the program at the Golden Jubilee celebration of Muenster some years ago. Why such a record breaking crowd? Because our former Assistant Pastor, Reverend Father Francis Zimmerman, O. S. B., was here for this happy occasion. Due to uncontrollable circumstances he was unable to give, as he termed it, the main address, but every one of Muenster considered himself privileged to have Father Francis present, and to "hear him speak again" as so many of them said. It is significant that Father Francis is first publicly to congratulate the parents and relatives as well as Sacred Heart Parish of Muenster upon the signal honor bestowed upon them with the elevation of Bishop-Elect Dangelmayr as Auxiliary Bishop of Dallas.

We thank Father Francis from the bottom of our hearts for his interesting talk, his words of appreciation for Muenster, his loyalty to the people of Muenster and to our school, because we know it was most difficult for him to come here while he was in the midst of preparations for the Golden Jubilee celebrations for Windhorst on May the fifth. Thank you again, Father Francis, and we hope that the hours spent with us were not a drawback to your celebration. We wish you the greatest success and a perfect day in every way for your grand celebration, for we know it will be grand. Thank you, too, for the invitation to attend and be assured that as many as possible will accept your generous invitation. After his address, Father Francis introduced Father Peter Malloy to whom it was a pleasure to listen, for he maintained that Father Francis had left nothing unsaid. However, his discourse of Roman Catholic education was marvelous as all who heard him will agree. We are grateful to Father Francis for having chosen such an excellent speaker. Father Malloy is chaplain at Bethania Hospital, Wichita Falls, and a personal friend of Father Francis. After Father Frowin had given out the diplomas he awarded medals to Marie Feiderhoff and to Rose Marie Endres for outstanding ability in typewriting. Rose Marie received first award of $1.50 in the essay contest sponsored by the Catholic Daughters of America. Second prize of 50 cents went to Celia Walterscheid, and Evelyn Wiseman, Mary Ann Reiter, and Juanita Weinzapfel received honorable mention.

As it had begun with pomp by the attendance at Holy Mass and reception of Holy Communion in a body with the seniors in caps and gowns and the other students in school uniform, so the day ended with a recessional played by the Youth Band under the direction of Father Richard. It was the biggest and grandest of graduation exercises ever held by Sacred Heart High, and we are grateful to Father Frowin, to the faculty and to the Seniors for preparing such an excellent program, and especially for inviting Father Francis whose presence induced such a record breaking crowd to make its appearance at our exercises. And here is just a wee hint to future graduating classes. If you want a large crowd at your graduation, procure Father Francis as Commencement Speaker for not being burdened with a Golden Jubilee celebration in the future, he will have more time to give to such matters. We again extend our sincerest thanks to Father Francis, to our parents, teachers, friends, and to all who came to help us make this the finest and best graduation exercises of Sacred Heart High.

Annals: We hope that the annuals of 1942 or "Cordis" will soon be off the press. We have chosen "Cordis" as the name of our annual because our church, our school, our parish are dedicated to the Sacred Heart of Jesus, and because "Cordis" means "Of the heart". Since our annual comes out of the heart of our school, since it reflects all that our school gives us, we have named our annual "Cordis", and we hope that all who have ordered a copy will be pleased with our efforts in making this publication worth while.

Care of Gas Stoves Aids Victory Effort

Pointing to government appeal for "good care of the things we have" to strengthen our country's war conservation program, Albert Berry, home economics director for Lone Star Gas System, suggests ways to bring added life to cooking appliances and offset the order which "froze" such equipment.

"With rationing of household appliances set up for the duration," Miss Berry said, "the correct use and care of your gas equipment in the kitchen is a patriotic measure. Such care is now vital if your equipment is to last through an expected long duration and produce the cooking service it was built to bring. Efficient cooking equipment will make your fuel and food dollars stretch."

Miss Berry said that 18,618,000 homemakers who cook with gas have learned that the gas range is one of the most durable and simple of cooking appliances.

"A gas range is still more economical and efficient when it is correctly adjusted, kept clean and properly used. After use each day it is advisable to wipe off the enamel of the range top with a soft dry cloth while the range is still warm, but not hot. If further cleaning is necessary, wait until range is cool. Use only a mild soap. Wash, rinse, and dry as you would your best china. Avoid placing wet dishes, bottles, or glasses on top of the range. Acids from beverages and foods, (vinegar, tomato juices, milk, etc.) may remove the glaze from the enamel, leaving a permanent dull spot. If anything is spilled, immediately wipe off with a dry cloth or a paper towel."

Miss Berry said range top burners should be wiped with a damp cloth after every meal; broiler pan should be removed immediately after use and when cool washed as any other cooking utensils of same material; the oven sides, bottom, door and racks of oven should be washed occasionally with soap and warm water and wiped dry; use of low temperature in roasting meat reduces spattering of grease and therefore minimizes oven cleaning; burners of modern gas ranges require little cleaning, but if the flame openings become clogged, insert a pipe cleaner to remove obstructions. Food stains on burners may be removed with fine steel wool, household ammonia or soda.

FARMERS URGED TO SAVE GRAIN SEED FOR FALL PLANTING

COLLEGE STATION. — Texas small grain farmers hard-hit by drought and greenbugs should plan to salvage all seed possible for fall planting, according to USDA War Board. Total destruction of grains is prevalent in some parts of the infested area of central and north Texas, but some grain will be harvested, B. F. Vance, chairman of the Board, said.

"This year's oat crop will be the smallest we've had in Texas in years and extra precaution should be followed for preserving good clean seed for fall plantings according to Extension Service methods," he said.

The Board also pointed out that many farmers suffering total destruction of oats, barley and wheat are planning for additional acres of grain and forage sorghums in an attempt to off-set feed shortages.

In areas where greenbugs did not destroy crops entirely, recent rains came too late to protect crops from drought damage but did afford sufficient moisture for planting feed and row crops.

"Oat farmers probably will be using wise procedure if they buy feed to tide them over until crops are harvested instead of dipping into scarce seed supplies this year," Vance said.

Stalin's promise of a victory in '42. While it is true that between the lines implications in Schickelgruber's speech hinted at both domestic and military worries, we must not lose sight of the fact that his war machine is still formidable. Then again, there's the possibility that the gloom was dished out for propaganda effect. The Axis could profit by our over-confidence.

No matter how we consider this war, there is only one reasonable attitude — to assume that it will take every ounce of our best effort to win. Every individual should resolve to work and sacrifice and save as he never did before, to acquire at the earliest possible moment the overwhelming force needed to crush the foe. Victory isn't assured by a long shot. The Axis can possibly secure some vital points that would give too great an advantage for us to overcome. We must work feverishly to prevent any such calamity.

The case is simple. If we make the supreme effort we will certainly win. But should it develop that so much effort was not needed, we will be ready to deliver the knockout blow at a much earlier date. It is possible that the extra effort will not be essential to our very survival. But at least it can save thousands of lives and months, perhaps years of needless suffering.

President Roosevelt pointed out the proper spirit in his masterful pep rally of last week. We can take our cue from those dauntless heroes in the war zone who kept driving forward in spite of overwhelming odds to the completion of their mission.

Industrial and agricultural America, the citizen army backing up the men behind the guns, can do likewise. Its one thought should be to provide with the least possible delay whatever the wariors need. It should eagerly do this in spite of every inconvenience or personal sacrifice, in spite of hell or high water. Our fighters are conceded to be the world's best. Let's see to it that our civilian population earns a similar reputation.
