Greatest Crime Of 20th Century

The twentieth century has been characterized by more great wars, more terrible revolutions, and more senseless killing than any other century in recorded history, and it still has 28 years to go. The awful highlights are World War I, the Russian Bolshevik Revolution, World War II and the massacre of Jews and anti-Nazis of various kinds, the Chinese Communist Revolution with its consequent killings to outdo those of the Russians, the Korean War and the Vietnam War.

Yet the deeper we go into the twentieth century the more evident it becomes that one of the greatest crimes of all must be laid to us, the Americans, for failing to take advantage of the God-given strength we had in 1945. Then we might have imposed a Pax Americana, an American Peace, upon the world, obviating the vast cruelties of the Soviet, Chinese and other Communists; and unifying the world once and for all in freedom.

But we did not do that. Instead, we deliberately built up the Soviet Government and nation to impose a balance against ourselves, thereby giving the Russians the license to expand and make war without fear that the Americans would ever try to win. That was the greatest crime of the twentieth century, for it presented to the Americans more than 100,000 dead in two wars and nearly half a million casualties, in addition to the much greater losses suffered by Koreans, Chinese, and Vietnamese, North and South.

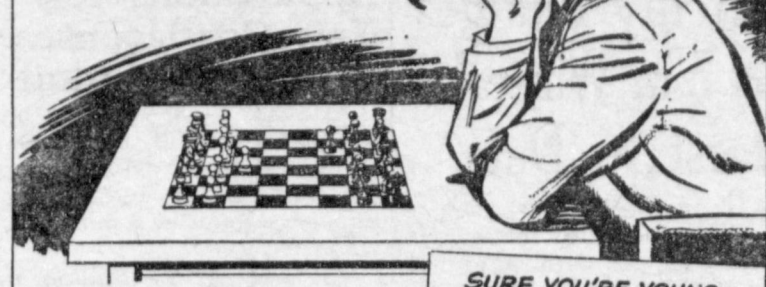

When will the American people wake up and call a halt forever to this kind of aimless sacrifice? When will we learn that appeasement is the road to war and defeat? When, indeed, will the American people learn what has been done to them by their leaders since the end of World War II? Let us resolve now to fight no more no-victory wars, and never to leave South Vietnam except in full control of its territory and able to defend it against aggressors.

Our Turn to Blink

While the United States is preoccupied with controlling inflation and making indices of prices and jobs behave as people think they should, a grim real world beyond America's borders is proceeding to prove that the laws of the jungle still prevail. Mr. Hugh Sidey, writing in Life magazine under the title "The arms race hasn't stopped", tells of the staggering build-up in Soviet military strength. He also tells how "... developments in Russian weaponry are now coming so fast and are so complex that it is difficult to know how to tell the press and the public about them." American officials, says Mr. Sidey, expect one day soon the equivalent of another Sputnik.

Another columnist, Mr. Stewart Alsop, who has repeatedly devoted his columns to the Russian military build-up, especially of nuclear missiles and submarines, foresees "... the serious possibility that the Soviets are building up for a new eyeball-to-eyeball nuclear confrontation, like the 1962 Cuban crisis, in which it would be our turn to blink. The likely locale of the confrontation is obvious — the Middle East." While Americans dream of a generation of peace they could well be preparing the way for another Pearl Harbor — or worse. At the very least, we are now living in a period when "grim surprises" of a military nature can be expected momentarily.

Equity Or Anarchy

Attempts during the past several years to force industrial type unionism on agriculture with the help of strikes and nationwide boycotts of farm products, such as table grapes, have posed an unprecedented threat to the ability of U. S. agriculture to maintain the high productivity levels that have spelled the difference between famine and plenty in the United States. More lately, maritime strikes have tied up major ports. Many read about these strikes without fully understanding the implications of agricultural disaster they hold.

Mr. William J. Kuhfuss, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, which represents nearly two million member farm families, not long ago declared, "... the Gulf ports strike has stalled our soybean export shipments right at harvest time. Soybeans are our largest export crop — more than $1.5 billion last year. What's even more important is that failure to deliver may cause foreign buyers to look elsewhere for future supplies." He pointed out that strikes such as this, as well as the unprecedented use of the food boycott by those trying to force union organization of farm workers in grapes, lettuce and other commodities, point to the need for reappraisal of labor legislation by Congress. He made emphatically clear that, "We are not opposed to union organization or the right to bargain collectively, but there should be some equity among the groups in our economy. We are opposed to monopoly whether it be in agriculture, industry, or labor."

It is becoming increasingly evident that when the right to strike threatens the continuity of a nation's food supply and the movement of food in international commerce, we are but one step removed from making the choice between enactment of equitable labor laws, — or anarchy.

Pitfalls Of Foreign Aid

Barbara Ward is an English writer who is always urging that wealthier nations, particularly the United States, should give away more money to poorer countries. She never mentions our national debt, but always points to our defense costs as ready money for her welfare proposals. It is hard to argue about defense money: it is like arguing about life insurance or fire insurance. As long as you are living and as long as your home does not catch fire, it seems a waste of money.

Like so many people concerned about helping underdeveloped areas, Barbara Ward constantly emphasizes government handouts, criticizing anything private industry does as "exploitation." A Fabian Socialist most of her life, she seems oblivious of the fact that the wealth of the world is produced, not by governments but by the private sector. Communist countries are an exception, but the non-military production in those areas is rather small.

When American firms do build factories in foreign countries, writers like Miss Ward insist that U. S. corporations are keeping underdeveloped nations "in a colonial status." They spread the impression that firms like Standard Oil and W. R. Grace are exploiting South America. If a foreign government expropriates private property, these writers never mention that the door is being closed to foreign investment by others.

Doles and handouts by the U. S. government may help some of the people in other countries temporarily. But what helps those people most in the long run is foreign investment by American and other companies in the form of factories and industrial projects. You can never convince a man who works for an American firm in a foreign country that he is being exploited. They like working for U. S. firms. They are happy to have employment, usually under conditions well above average in that country.

A Resolution For America

It used to be popular to make New Year's resolutions. We'd make them in good faith, keep them awhile, and then let them fall by the wayside.

Suppose, for a moment, that all of us decided to make the same resolution for 1972 — a resolution based on a philosophy recently expressed by President Nixon when he said: "Hard work is what built America, and it is time in this country that we demonstrate a new appreciation of work and what it means."

If every American pledged his job, to give it all he's got, to turn out better products, to provide better service — think what it would mean to our economic well-being and general prosperity. Once again we would have pride in our jobs. We would have confidence in the things we buy, in the services we use.

And if the "let's get back to work" philosophy really took hold, the thousands and thousands of able-bodied Americans now on welfare would accept any job that comes along and stop refusing jobs they consider menial.

President Nixon had an answer for those people. He said: "I guess every job my father had was a menial job, but any job that puts food on the table and buys shelter and clothing and education for a man's family is not a menial job. Let's recognize that in America, once and for all. Let us recognize that the only thing demeaning in America is for one man to refuse to work and to let another man who does work pay taxes to keep him on welfare. Any work is preferable to welfare."

So, our resolve for 1972: Let's get back to work!

How To Make A Papier-Mâché Bowl

What Is Papier-Mâché?

Papier-mâché is a French term that means "chewed paper." It was applied to a process used in Paris in the 18th century. Old posters were ripped from walls, converted into pulp, and mixed with size — a gummy preparation made by combining glue or paste with resin and drying oil.

When the papier-mâché hardened, it was lacquered and decorated. Papier-mâché was used to make boxes, trays, decorative pieces, and statuettes. Today artists and craftsmen make store-window displays of papier-mâché. It is fast to work with, light in weight, and easy to handle.

Papier-mâché is a medium that offers great opportunities for developing creative talents. Your efforts may surprise and delight you.

Preparing the materials

Other types of paper may be used but newspaper is best because it tears easily and absorbs water and paste quickly. Its torn edges blend into each other and give an over-all smooth surface.

Tear several sheets into inch-wide strips. Lay the strips flat in a dishpan and cover with water. In another pan mix enough cold water with ½ cup of flour to form a heavy, creamy texture. Slowly add boiling water. As the paste thickens add more water to return it to a creamlike state.

You can also use wallpaper paste (an excellent adhesive), which comes as a powder. Put two cups of cold water into a bowl. Slowly stir in enough powder to form a smooth paste. Library paste is also good but more costly.

(For a free booklet, "The Magic Carpet," illustrated in color from The New Book of Knowledge, send name and address to Martha Glauber Shapp, Box 47, Putnam Valley, New York 10579.)

(1) Rub paste over the first layer of paper and add more wet strips. Build five or six such layers.

(2) Trim the outside edges to match the edge of the bowl. Place on a radiator or sunny windowsill for 2 days.

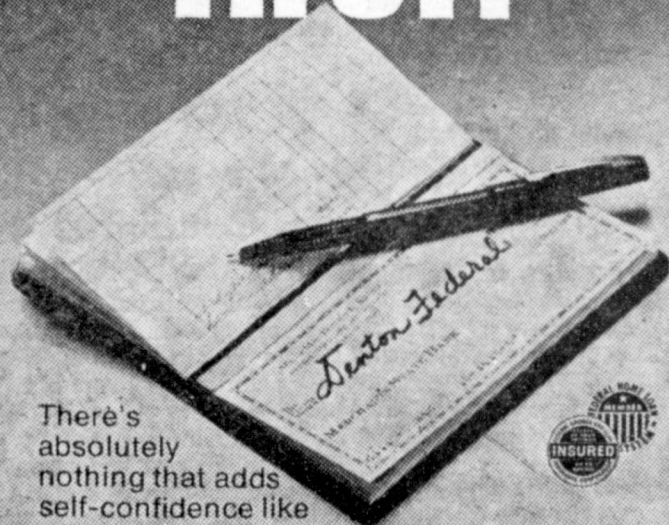

(3) After it has dried, the papier-mâché bowl will slip easily out of its mold.

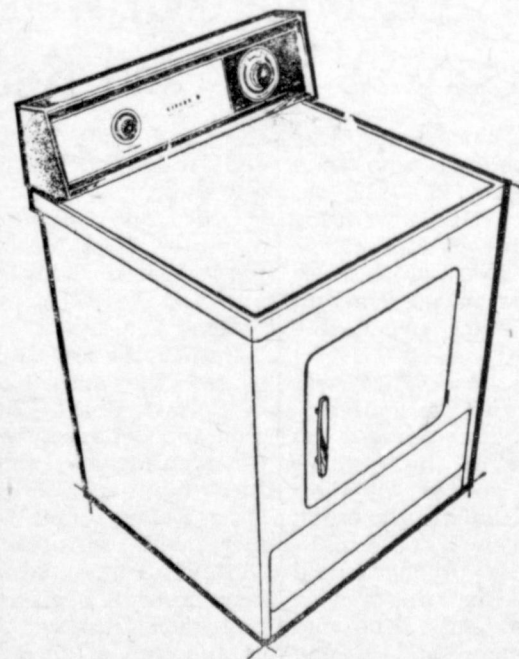

(4) The beauty of the papier-mâché bowl will depend on how imaginatively you decorate it with paints.

See how easy it is to install Seed-Tape around a house corner? It's equally simple to plant the tape in any pattern you desire.

Versatile is the word for Ferry-Morse Seed Company's Seed-Tape. As millions of home gardeners discovered last year, the first year of introduction, Seed-Tape not only makes planting easier in rows but it also simplifies more intricate planting.

All sorts of curves and spirals are possible using Seed-Tape. Even the beautiful, patterned "broderies," so much admired by travelers to Europe, can be duplicated with ease.

Not only that, but the varieties of flowers and vegetables available in Seed-Tape form has been augmented by 7, bringing the total to 25 flowers and vegetables. Any gardener can find his favorites among all these.

There are Royal Carpet alysum, Sparky and Valencia marigolds, Dwarf Cherry Rose and Jewel nasturtiums, and all of the following flowers in mixed colors: Arcadia pansies, Happy Talk petunias, double-flowered portulacas, verbenas, Cactus Flowered, State Fair and Thumbelina zinnias.

Vegetables enclosed in Seed-Tape include Detroit Dark Red beets, Danvers Half Long carrots, Crispy and Tabletop cucumbers (both hybrids), Black Seeded Simpson and Prizehead lettuce, Green Bunching Globe onions, Curled parsley, swiss chard, Early Scarlet Globe and Icicle radishes, Giant Beefsteak tomatoes.

All it takes to plant Seed-Tape vegetables is a furrow in prepared soil. No stakes; no string; no careful spacing of each individual seed. Seed-Tape itself is the marker and you can tell at a glance if the row is straight. Seed spacing is done for you, each kind set in the Seed-Tape according to its requirements.

For flower beds or borders, mark on the prepared soil the pattern in which you'd like the flowers to bloom. Lay the Seed-Tape to follow it. It's that easy.

Millions of gardeners can't be wrong. That's the number of home gardeners who used Seed-Tape last year. The price is only 79 cents for 12 feet. You'll find Seed-Tape in special red and yellow striped displays in your local garden, variety and hardware stores as well as supermarkets. Look for it.

Court Says Texas
School Financing Unconstitutional

A three-judge federal court in San Antonio stunned Texas public officials with a Christmas Eve decision that the state's system of financing public schools is unconstitutional.

The ruling, which Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes called one of the most far-reaching in recent history, triggered a round of new studies and re-directed attention to prior studies of alternative finance formulas.

To make education "a function of the local property tax base" violates constitutional guarantees of equal protection under the laws, the three judges held. Parents and children of Edgewood Independent School District (Bexar County) filed the suit on July 30, 1968.

Allowing each district to set property taxes to raise a portion of instructional costs discriminates against poor districts with low property values and frequently high minority group populations, the court contended.

Judges gave state legislators two years to work out a new system. If lawmakers fail, they warned, the court "will take such further steps as may be necessary to implement both the purpose and the spirit of this order."

Some observers feared the ruling would undermine local control of school districts. Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin asked the court to clarify whether the decision meant districts could not continue to pay off their bonds from property taxes.

Gov. Preston Smith said it would be premature to speculate on ultimate effect of the ruling on taxes and educational programs. Some predicted state corporate and personal income taxes will be necessary to pick up a new state cost load estimated to range at least as high as $500 million a biennium.

Smith called for a team effort by state officials and agencies, local school authorities and the courts to reach a satisfactory solution. The Senate Committee on Occupational Education immediately took up the problem. Texas Research League already is studying the foundation school program, and plans to offer some choices by the end of next year.

Governor said he is considering naming an education task force which will cooperate with other study groups. State Education Commissioner Dr. J. W. Edgar viewed the present crisis "as another opportunity for the people to design a better public educational opportunity for the children and youth of Texas." He expressed confidence such a plan can be developed which will preserve local school control.

State Board of Education will review the decision at a January 8 meeting.

Engine oil is the lifeblood of your car. You might call an oil change a lubrication transfusion. Without a transfusion now and then, the engine isn't going to live. And in between transfusions, the oil needs to be kept clean. That means the oil filter. Tests have shown that an engine without an oil filter wears out 85% sooner. Today, all engines have filters and with frequent changes of oil and filter together an engine's life can be extended 25% longer than if filters are changed only every other oil change.

Question: When to change or not to change. Until recently many motorists usually went in for an oil change twice a year, but a new oil filter was installed only once a year.

Fram Corporation, for one, is now challenging that attitude. For years, car enthusiasts have changed filters at every oil change. There is mounting evidence that every driver should do the same.

The average crankcase holds five quarts of oil. One quart is held in the filter, so even though you change the oil, the result without a new filter is only 80% effective.

Actually, if an oil change were concerned only with dirt contamination, there would be no need to change oil, just the filter which traps all the harmful dirt and abrasive contaminants in the oil. But today, a great deal of engine contamination comes from chemical pollution. Acids, water, varnishes and sludges — all can flow through the filter and the engine, poisoning as they go. Stop-and-go neighborhood driving causes most of this. The engine never reaches operating temperatures and its consistent coldness causes chemical pollution.

Fram engineers urge you to make your oil change a complete change, possibly every 3,000 miles. If your car is new, follow the factory warranty recommendations. The new high compression engines generate extra heat and quickly break down the chemicals in the oil designed to fight sludge, acid and corrosion. Whatever oil change interval used, always include a new oil filter. Infrequent oil changes or an incomplete change without a new oil filter can eventually produce sticky oil rings, noisy valve lifters, burned valves, overheated engines, rapid wear, poor mileage . . . and that great spur to preventive maintenance the ultimate ring and valve job or even worse bearings and perhaps a whole new engine.

How to tell what your approximate blood alcohol level is after drinking

If you have been eating, use the righthand chart. If you drink on an empty stomach, use the chart on the left.

Draw a straight line from your weight through the number of ounces of liquor you have consumed. Continue this straight line to the righthand column. Where the line touches the righthand column, you will see the approximate level of your blood alcohol.

At .05% the driving capability of many persons is adversely affected. This may be particularly true of young persons, inexperienced drinkers, people taking medication, and those in ill health. In Texas, at .10% you are presumed to be intoxicated.

THE INFORMED CONSUMER

By Crawford C. Martin
Attorney General of Texas

What is a pyramid or multilevel marketing plan? Basically, under this sales scheme, a company sells a contract to individuals which permits them to market a "fabulous" new product or service. These individuals in turn induce others to invest. Prospects are encouraged to believe they will receive enormous amounts of money in profits from the product or service that they sell, in rebates paid for each person they recruit, and in "over-rides" on all sales. The marketing plan offers far greater rewards for recruiting other participants than from selling the product or service.

If a friend, neighbor, or relative invites you to attend a meeting to learn about a program to earn money, he may be attempting to recruit you into a multilevel marketing plan. If this does happen, you should consider the following factors. First, the product or service is often nothing more than a vehicle used to recruit people and in some cases consists of a personal improvement course or a series of lectures to attend. Second, great emphasis is placed upon the enormous earnings which await participants. Third, the salesmen are extremely persuasive and an immediate decision to join the program must be made. It is now or never, and you can join at one of three or four levels depending upon how much money you can gather together and how much "ambition" you can muster. Finally, little or no mention is made regarding market saturation as the ever-increasing number of participants attempt to recoup their investment by recruiting from the ever-decreasing number of potential investors in a given geographic area.

In summary, it is very difficult to recruit enough individuals into a multilevel program to recover your original investment. While the promoters talk of money and success with a virtually endless chain of new recruits flocking to the program, participants will oftentimes find the product difficult to sell and recruiting even more difficult. Since the entire marketing program is based upon the exploitation of others, market saturation is the end result of any multilevel or pyramid program.

Surprises Honor Mrs. H. Henscheid

Surprises greeted Mrs. Henry Henscheid on New Year Day in observance of her January 4 birthday when 27 family members gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Henscheid to honor his mother. Mr. and Mrs. Ted Henscheid were co-hosts.

A handsome cake baked by Mrs. Rufus Henscheid was the centerpiece on the pretty table for a five p.m. dinner after which Mrs. Henscheid opened and displayed a shower of gifts.

Joining Mr. and Mrs. Henscheid and the hosts were the honoree's other children and spouses, the Gerald Metzlers of Lindsay, the John Kelleys of Fort Worth, the Albert Schumachers of Rhineland. Also eight of Mrs. Henscheid's brothers and sisters and their spouses; Messrs. and Mmes. Joe J. Neu and Lawrence Zimmerman of Lindsay, Al and Conrad Flusche of Decatur, Andy Flusche of Dallas, J. P. Flusche, Paul Fetsch and Gus Lutkenhaus of Muenster, and the Andy Flusche's son Father Leon Flusche of Fort Worth.

The Kelley children and the Schumacher children had parties of their own with cousins while their parents were at the birthday celebration.

Federal Land Bank Announces Drop In Interest Rate

W. P. Waldrop, Manager of the Federal Land Bank Association of Sherman, announced today that The Federal Land Bank of Houston will reduce the interest billing rate on variable rate loans to 7%.

"The reduction will be effective January 1, 1972 on all variable rate loans and affects more than 177 million dollars in loan volume to more than 5,000 Texas farmers and ranchers", Waldrop stated.

The variable rate loan plan which was introduced by the Houston Bank in July, 1969, lets the interest rate "float" over the variations in the money market. This is the third time in the past year that the billing rate has been reduced. "Continued improvement in the money market has made this reduction possible and is in line with the Bank's policy of providing farmers and ranchers of Texas credit at the lowest possible cost consistent with sound business practices", Waldrop stated.

Reprove thy friend privately, commend him publicly.

Hughes Asks for Election as Judge Of 235th District

To The Voters of Cooke County:

The Legislature created the new 235th Judicial District effective September 1, 1971. This district encompasses Wise and Jack Counties and is co-existent with the 16th Judicial District in Cooke County.

I was appointed as first judge of the new court, leaving the bench of the 43rd Judicial District to accept such appointment. I am now running for the first elective term of such court and solicit your vote and support.

Some of you may remember me as a young lawyer, right out of Baylor Law School, who hung out a "shingle" on the east side of the square in Gainesville in 1948. My wife Martha and I lived in Gainesville during 1948 and 1949, and were members of the First Methodist Church. It was also my privilege to be a member of the Optimist Club when the Boys Club was built in 1949.

We moved to my home town, Decatur, late in 1949, where I was elected County Attorney for two terms, and practiced law. In 1956 I was elected Judge of the 43rd Judicial District Court of Wise, Jack and Parker Counties, where I served nearly fifteen years until appointed to the new 235th Judicial District.

We presently reside in Decatur with our two sons, Carter, age 17, and Dan, age 11, where we are members of the First United Methodist Church. I am on the Executive Board of the Longhorn Council, Boy Scouts of America, and am privileged to hold the Silver Beaver Award in such council. My other interests include: Scottish Rite Membership Chairman for Wise County, President-Elect, Wise County Shrine Club; Past Director, Baylor Ex-Students Association; Lay Speaker in the United Methodist Church; Member of Local and State Bar Associations; Past Chairman, American Citizenship Committee of the State Bar of Texas.

Your consideration of my candidacy will be appreciated.

Put Health Care At Top of Year's Good Resolutions

It's that time of the year again when people all over the country sit down to write their New Year's resolutions. Or if we don't do that, we at least think about ways to improve the quality of our lives and attempt to accomplish certain goals. Texas health officials urge you to place "good health resolutions" at the top of your list this year.

Here's some resolutions for you and your family, courtesy of the Texas State Department of Health:

Promise to give your body at least as good care as you give your car. Periodic examinations are the best way yet devised to detect bodily disorders while they can still be treated successfully.

Dental troubles won't kill you, but sometimes they can make you wish you were dead. So check in once yearly with your dentist, too.

If you are putting on weight, resolve to start passing up the candied yams, boiled potatoes and the cream-filled tidbits which almost invariably spell extra pounds and perhaps an early grave. Too much weight contributes to high blood pressure, and may be associated with hardening of the arteries and various forms of heart disease.

A good, physician-prescribed exercise regimen will keep your body in shape, tone up your heart muscles and put the spring back into your step.

The statistics linking smoking to cancer and heart disease continue to pile up, and it is tougher and tougher to rationalize the habit. If you still smoke, now's the time to quit. Resolve also to impress the health hazards of smoking on the minds of teenagers in your home.

When driving, consider that every other car is being driven by a madman, and when walking trust motorists only as far as you can see them.

Check the immunization records of your entire family — not just the children — as a safeguard against diseases and their complications.

Getting plenty of sleep is another resolution which will be of benefit. Nutrition goes hand in hand with proper rest.

Promise to obey local and state laws pertaining to health protection. It is a public protective device and you are the public.

Last but vitally important, give an occasional thought to such awesome problems as water conservation, pollution abatement, juvenile delinquency, and drug abuse. Lend your support as a responsible citizen to community efforts to solve them.

Jim Hatcher Asks For Election As District Attorney

To the Citizens of Cooke County, Texas:
I, Jim J. Hatcher, take this means to announce my candidacy for the office of District Attorney of the 235th Judicial District comprising Cooke, Wise and Jack Counties.

I am 35 years of age, married and the father of two children and reside in Gainesville, Texas, where I was born.

I attended the Gainesville Public Schools, am a graduate of North Texas State University and Baylor University Law School. Since my graduation from Law School and admission to the Bar over ten years ago, I have practiced law in Gainesville, Texas. During my practice of law I have served as a criminal prosecutor while serving four years as assistant County Attorney in Cooke County and therefore, I am well aware of the attendant duties of a prosecutor. I served as such assistant prosecutor with L. V. Henry, with whom I am now associated as partners in the practice of law, both civil and criminal, in Gainesville, Texas.

I feel that I am young enough to vigorously carry out the duties of the office, yet being experienced and old enough to bring a mature judgment and seasoned prosecutor to this office.

I firmly pledge that if elected to this office I will dedicate myself to making this District a safe place for all its citizens, their person and property. I will cooperate with and support all law enforcement agencies in the fight against crime and for the protection of the people.

Your vote and support is solicited and will be appreciated.

Jim J. Hatcher

and 55-48.
Jim Endres led the scoring with 23. Randy Wolf made 12, Mark Lippe 10, Tom Otto 4, Ronnie Felderhoff and James Eckart each 3.

At Forestburg MHS girls were in trouble as Doris Felderhoff was ailing through part of the game and sidelined through the rest. The final count was 48-29. In spite of illness Felderhoff bagged 19 points. Joyce Swirczynski added 8 and Janet Swirczynski 2.

The boys contest gave the fans their money's worth, a sizzler all the way with Muenster pulling ahead in the final seconds for a 49-48 win. With 6 seconds to go MHS was a point behind and a Forestburg guard fouled Tom Otto in his effort at a field goal. The Hornet freshman made both of the all important free throws.

The score was tied 8-8 ending the first period and Muenster led 21-18 and 38-34 ending the next two. The host team moved ahead near the end, just before Otto's winning free throws. MHS scorers were Jim Endres 15, Mark Lippe and Tom Otto, each 9, Randy Wolf and Ronnie Felderhoff, each 8.

That game marked the end of pre-conference activity for the Muenster High teams. They will meet Pilot Point here Friday night in the 12-A opener and will go to Sanger Tuesday.
