VOLUME IX

MUENSTER, TEXAS, COOKE COUNTY, FRIDAY, APRIL 27, 1945

NUMBER 23

There is one sour note in the cheering news about hundreds of Nazi fighter planes being destroyed on the ground. It seems a shame to wreck them when they could be so very useful in our dealings with the Nips.

From reports that are filtering back, there is nothing wrong with the planes. They are the same versatile, hard hitting machines that gave our air force such a tussle. All they need is a little fuel. After which they would probably be more than an even match for those that are flying. Too bad a few thousand of them can't be taken intact and put to our use.

The same applies to lots of other Nazi war tools. Scads and scads of it must have been taken, if we can judge by the millions of prisoners captured and the vast area occupied. And more will be taken. All that stuff could relieve the supply problem in our other war and permit many a factory here to return to peace time production—and, incidentally, save the American public a few billion dollars. Not that the last consideration is especially important. We are already so far in the red that a few billion more will scarcely impress us.

Of course the fight isn't over yet, not at this writing anyway. So we can still hope that the final take in Nazi war equipment will be sufficient to throw more weight to the tremendous advantage our other sources will provide.

Two of those sources, we can reasonably expect, will be the leftovers of lend-lease equipment we furnished our allies, with perhaps a generous portion of their own leftovers. Materials that England and Russia can spare after Hitler is out of the way, along with what we ourselves can transfer—all of this added to what we already have in the Pacific staggers the imagination. Considering that volume, a person would think our factories need not turn out another piece of equipment, except the ammunition it will require.

What am I saying? Here I have been rambling along on the assumption that we could really do wonders with so many war tools at our disposal and completely lost sight of the fact that it will still be a United Nations war. The fact that we have been dealing with her headache is no sign that she is strictly our foe.

Perhaps it is not too far fetched to hope that other nations, who actually have more at stake over there, will move in with their equipment and help rush the thing to a speedy conclusion. Russia, England and China all have had experience to take up with the Nip. If the efforts made by each of them will be proportional to old grievances, our country will have less to do than any of them.

To expect such a break, though, would be just too optimistic. In fact, we already have a fairly good idea of how things will go. Detailed accounts have explained how some of our fighting units will be moved directly from the European theatre to the Orient, some will have a furlough home and then get back in the fight, and other units will be made up of men still in the states. We've announced elaborate plans for a gigantic campaign to crush the enemy but we have not heard a whisper about the fighting other countries will do. Maybe the big confab at San Francisco will produce a little cooperation along that line.

For a country that originally had no part in this war, United States has already given a fair account of herself. She furnished the tools that enabled the Reds to turn the tide of battle, she furnished the Tommies that their own factories were not able to produce, she delivered guns and supplies to the stricken Chinese, she fed and clothed and gave medical care to all the liberated countries—all that in addition to fighting her own two front war.

We haven't the slightest doubt that America could polish off the Japs without help from the other allies, but never let it be said that she owes it to them to do so.

The ever recurring stories of German atrocities are having their inevitable result. People over here, learning about the starvation torture and humiliation so many of our men have to endure are developing a vindictive attitude, which, just now, is expressing itself in resentment over the "dampening" of prisoners of war in this country.

Perhaps we do have a few cases of pampering. That is, cases in which the prisoners are permitted more privilege and comfort than prescribed by the Geneva convention. Such conditions can result form laxity or even from scrupulous efforts to be fair. Commanders who are careful not to violate a regulation are likely to lean to the other extreme in giving.

OUR BOYS WITH THE COLORS

Cpl. Andrew Yosten Wins Bronze Star; Serves With 90th

Cpl. Andrew Yosten, a member of the 90th Infantry Division, was recently commended for meritorious service and awarded the Bronze Star, relatives learned this week.

An extract from the citation reads: "The unselfish loyalty, leadership and skill displayed by this enlisted man reflect the highest credit upon himself and the armed forces of the United States."

Cpl. Yosten, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Yosten, has been in the army since Feb. 3, 1942. He trained at Camp Barkeley where the 90th was activated and landed with that division in Normandy on June 7, 1944, and has been fighting almost constantly ever since. He serves with the 10-DAY LEAVE.

Lt. Jane Hoehn arrived Friday from Chickasha, Okla., to spend a ten-day leave with her father, A. T. Hoehn. She is an army nurse on duty at Borden General Hospital.

TWO BATTLE STARS
Pfc. Herman Stoffels has written home advising that he is OK and still busy, having recently received two battle stars in his ETO ribbon for participation in two major campaigns. He serves with a medical unit.

SENDS DECORATION HOME
Pfc. Leo Lawson is now out of the hospital and at a Rehabilitation Center in England he has written his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Lawson. He had both feet badly frozen while serving in Germany early in February. His Purple Heart award was sent home and has been received by his parents.

VISITORS HERE
Capt. and Mrs. Charles Taylor and little son of Independence, Kansas, came in during the week-end to visit her father, Jos. Fisher and family. The captain left Sunday for Louisiana and his family remained here until he is settled at his new station after which they will join him.

WRITES FROM FRANCE
Sgt. Frank Felderhoff, writing from the Lorraine Sector, France, tells his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Felderhoff, in brief: "Being in France is much nicer than either Sardinia or Italy. But no place is like the U. S. A. Most everyone here talks German, and I was amazed at how much of the language I have forgotten. It's nice to see women wear stockings again. And not at all unusual to see a cow and a horse hitched up together. Give my regards to all."

HOME FROM OVERSEAS
T-Sgt. Jake G. Giffle, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Biffle of Myra, returned recently from overseas and is now stationed at Moore Field, Mission, Texas, in the Central Flying Training command, assigned to the engineering section. Sgt. Biffle served 28 months in the European and China-Burma-India theatres with the engineers. He wears the ETO and CBI ribbons with 5 stars.

Some day we'd like to have a bed that's twelve feet long and ten feet wide. And don't tell us that's a lot of bunk.

IN FRANCE

Cpl. Richard Trachta serves with an infantry division in France since going overseas in February of this year. He has seen action on two fighting fronts having previously been on duty in the Aleutian Islands. He entered the army in Feb. 1942, took basic training at Camp Wolters and by the following June was in Alaska. After two years he returned, spent a short training period at Camp Swift, Texas, took a special course in California, and was assigned to the European theatre. He is the son of Henry Trachta, who has two other sons on duty in the ETO. Sgt. David Trachta, infantry, with Gen. Patton's Third Army, and Captain C. J. Fette, aerial photographer with the Ninth Air Force's 6th Reconnaissance Group.

Muenster Group Gives Program Tuesday At Kiwanis Club Meet

A group of youthful musicians from this city presented a program last Tuesday at the Kiwanis Club luncheon at Gainesville. Principal speaker at the affair was Capt. H. P. Hawk, at home on leave from two years in the European theatre of operations, where he has seen much front line action.

Joe Walter was program chairman and introduced Rev. Thomas Buerigler, Muenster pastor, who presented the young musicians in a delightful program.

Father Thomas spoke briefly saying he had been a Kiwanian for almost ten years in Paris, Ark., before coming to Muenster and that he felt "at home" with Kiwanians. He made some interesting remarks before presenting the children.

Dolores Gremminger, Henry Weinzapfel and Jeanette Meurer played piano solos and Betty Lue Buckley gave a violin solo accompanied on the piano by Berenice Henschel. The numbers were all well received.

Little Miss Henschel then charmed club members with her remarkable rendition of two difficult piano numbers.

All the youngsters are pupils of Sister M. Leonard, who is in charge of Sacred Heart School of Music here.

At the conclusion of the program benediction was said by Father Thomas.

FULL HOUSE CHEERS SCHOOL PLAY SUNDAY

A large crowd cheered the three-act comedy, "Faith, Hope and Charity" presented by pupils of Sacred Heart High school Sunday evening in the parish hall. All characterizations were ably enacted and the clever and witty dialogue caused much laughter from the audience.

The cast consisted of Laura Lee Wilde, Mary Seyler and Henry Yosten in the title roles, and Margie Ann Endres, Rufus Henschel, Lillian Wimmer, La Rue Felderhoff, Thomas Otto, Herbert Yosten, Robert Bayer, Joseph Weinzapfel, Jewel Marie Hoffman, Norbert Magee.

7th War Loan Drive To Be Conducted On "Do It In A Day" Plan

Plans For Horse Show Here May 20 Near Completion

Neighboring Towns Are Invited To Send Cowgirl Representative

Plans for a gala horse show in Muenster on May 20 are nearing completion, according to R. L. McNeley, general chairman, and attractive awards for first, second, third and fourth place winners have already arrived. In addition to the ribbons there will be cash prizes.

In announcing classes and awards, McNeley stated that there will be at least seven divisions. These will include: Yearlings, Paint horses, Reining class, Pleasure class, Gaited class, Palomino class, and the grand champ of the show.

There will be trick performances, stunts and music, and a loud speaker system will give a complete and detailed account of events for the spectators enjoyment.

Another feature this year will be a contest to determine the best dressed, prettiest cowgirl and neighboring communities and towns are asked to send a delegate representing their district. The winner will receive a prize.

In order to make the show a success it is necessary that all persons desiring to make entries in the show register with Mr. McNeley not later than May 5, listing the name of the person making an entry, the horse's name and class in which it will show. This is important, the chairman states, so that programs can be drawn up accordingly.

The affair will be held in the Muenster ball park, beginning at 2 o'clock and everybody is invited to attend.

County Series E Quota Is $85,000

All Citizens Will Go To Regular Voting Box On May 15 To Invest

The mighty 7th War Loan drive will be conducted in Cooke county on Tuesday, May 15th. It will be handled on the "Do It In A Day" plan.

This plan has been proven successful in other counties, and with the help of Cooke county citizens (all of them) it will be successful here, county leaders point out. On May 15th every citizen is to go to his voting box and there place his application for the amount of bonds he can purchase. The procedure is simple, and will save the time of hundreds of workers making house to house calls.

All persons of the Muenster community will go to the Public school, local headquarters. Here a group of volunteer workers will register their purchases. Persons who have bought U. S. Series E bonds since April 9th will have received a receipt from either the Bank or Postoffice, where the investment was made, to present to the board on that day, to be given credit for such purchases.

J. M. Weinzapfel, Muenster mayor, is general chairman of the drive for this community.

F. J. Hess is chairman of workers for Bond Day and has selected a group to assist him. Others are needed and anyone wishing to devote a few hours to this patriotic activity is asked to leave his name to either Mr. Hess or Mr. Weinzapfel.

To prepare the workers for the sale of war bonds, a training school will be held in the State Theatre at Gainesville on Tuesday, May 10, at 10 a. m., and as many workers as can will be expected to attend. Mr. Weinzapfel stated that due to transportation difficulty, not all volunteer assistants will be in a position to attend this session, and he plans to hold a training class here for local workers after he and Mr. Hess, and possibly some others, have attended the Gainesville school.

Selectees, to help with duties on Bond Day, as chosen thus far, include the following: F. J. Hess, chairman, and G. H. Hellman, Hubert Felderhoff, Buddy Bernauer, E. P. Buckley, J. W. Fletcher, Henry Trachta, John Felderhoff, Bernard Voth, Joe Otto, John B. Klement, L. M. Wolf, Mesdames Joe Luke, R. L. McNeley, John Meurer, Ben Hellman, Joe Wilde, J. D. Cook, Ben Seyler, Jake Horn and Andrew Schoech, and Misses Anna Hellman, Eleanore Trubench and Olivia Stock.

Since all citizens are expected to go to the "polls" and make their purchases of bonds on May 15, all schools and stores of the county are expected to close on this "election day," and the war bond committee expects to reach Cooke County's quota of $850,000 worth of E series bonds on that day.

Throughout the county the bond sale will be held at the usual voting place in each community. Muenster's two boxes, the North and South, will be combined, and all activity will be at the Public school.

LOCAL MAN'S OUTFIT IN ITALY FOUGHT OFF OVER 1000 PLANES

Master Sergeant Jimmy Lehnertz is a member of the 105th Anti-aircraft Battalion, whose flak in the skies over the Mediterranean theatre since the invasion of North Africa has driven off 1000 German planes, shot down 75, probably destroyed an additional 46 and damaged many others.

Lehnertz, who serves the battalion as transportation sergeant, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Lehnertz.

The Headquarters Fifth Army Public Relations office this week released the following article concerning activity of the 105th.

WITH THE 5TH ARMY, March 1—Their 717th day of combat duty in the Mediterranean Theatre was chalked up by gunners of the 5th Army's 105th Anti-Aircraft Battalion recently as they celebrated their 30th month overseas.

Now "dug-in" in deep slush and mud out along a high Apennine slope in northern Italy, where they are guarding the skies over two front-line infantry units, these veteran ack-ack men can look back on one of the outstanding service records among anti-aircraft units of this war. They have supported 11 different divisions through five major campaigns, including three amphibious assaults. They have fought off over 1,000 Junkers and Messerschmitts, shooting down 75, almost certainly destroying 46 others and hitting and damaging several hundred more. They have received 55 special awards, including 37 Silver Stars for gallantry in action and 139 men in the battalion wear the Purple Heart for wounds, nearly all of them as a result of bombing and strafing attacks on their positions.

Their first 700 days at the guns may or may not prove to be the hardest, but they're pretty sure they'll never learn so much so fast again.

Landing in Algeria with the invasion forces in November, 1942, the battalion was immediately strung out in detachment at vital points, a strategic pattern followed throughout the African campaign.

First assignments included the beaches at Arzew, port installations at Oran, and neighboring airfields, all important enemy targets. In a few weeks the entire unit moved to the Tunisian front.

On December 6 they bagged their first plane, a Junkers 87—and that's where history of the 105th really began. By the middle of January it looked as though practice had made perfect. In the Tunisian campaign 105th gunners set up an unusual record for other ack-ack outfits to shoot at. They knocked out over 12 per cent of enemy aircraft with an average of only 111 rounds of ammo per plane.

Through the weeks that followed the battalion moved forward in support of infantry troops and was on duty at Bizerte at the end of the Tunisian campaign. Later the unit trekked 900 miles back to Oran, where it acquired new, self-propelled, anti-aircraft guns and began preparations for the invasion of Sicily.

For that operation, sections of the battalion were set up on decks of assault LSTs carrying elements of the 1st Infantry Division. Coming in at Gela on D-Day, they quickly set up defenses over the beaches and from early morning threw flak at raiding planes in almost hourly attacks. On D-3 the Jerries bombed a platoon of the 105th just coming onto the beaches and caused 27 casualties.

When the 5th Army invaded Italy, the 105th participated in the landings at Paestum and in the first stages of the campaign supported four infantry divisions, the 46th, 36th, 3rd and 34th. With the 34th the battalion began the long, bitter, drive up the Apennines.

The 105th continued with the 34th across the Voltorno and up Italy to the Venafro and Cassino sectors, where the battalion suffered 21 casualties in one attack by the Luftwaffe. After a brief rest, the battalion returned to the front again for the 5th Army's spring offensive, supporting the newly arrived 85th Infantry Division during the remainder of the campaign through Rome. Since that time it has worked with the 38th, 91st and 34th Divisions in the long push across the Arno River and through the Gothic defenses into northern Italy.

Activated as an anti-aircraft unit at Camp Hulen, Texas, in January 1941, the 105th trained at Camp Young, Calif., before sailing for Scotland and England, in August, 1942. There it received intensive amphibious training which it was to use three times in the next year. It is commanded by Lt. Col. John Barkley of New Orleans, La.

Before hanging freshly laundered curtains, slip a flat table knife through the rod hem and, as home economists have found, there's less danger of tearing them.

TRY THIS

Should pies persist in boiling over in spite of careful sealing, Mrs. Julia Kiene, director of the Westinghouse Home Economics, suggests giving this a try: Bake them at 450 degrees for 25 minutes, then reduce heat to 350 degrees for balance of baking time.

MOOS OF THE MOMENT

BY UNCLE BOB

of the Kraft Dairy Farm Service

I met a friend recently coming out of a post office with a big grin on his face. "Just sent another batch of ammunition to that boy of mine, and made the last payment on the new milking unit I'll need in a few years," he explained. He had just bought another War Bond.

Figures show how actively farmers are backing up our fighting men by buying bonds. And dairy farmers are smart people. They know that every time they invest $3.00 in a War Bond, they get back $4.00 when they cash in the bond at its maturity.

Many dairymen buy bonds with the idea that these bonds will pay for a new milkhouse; a fine heifer; a better herd sire or something of the sort. I could fill my whole column with examples of what dairymen are planning to do with their bonds.

The Seventh War Loan starts in a few weeks so I just wanted to drop a reminder that when you buy a bond, you buy another slice of freedom, slap the Japs, and make sure that when more equipment becomes available you'll have bonds at hand to make your purchases.

KEEP ON BUYING 'EM AND BUY 'EM FOR KEEPS.

If a fellow stopped right in the middle of his work every day and climbed to the top of his windmill, his neighbors would think he had slipped a cog in his thinking machinery.

The University of Minnesota started out to find ways to save labor on a dairy farm. One place was found where a piece of equipment used at each milking stood on an old concrete base six inches high.

Workers stepped up on the block 85 times daily. In doing so they used the same amount of energy it would take for a man to climb 42 feet. The block was removed, and a lot of energy saved.

You may uncover a number of ways of saving time and energy, simply by laying things out more conveniently. Putting equipment where it will be handier, making a sloping incline out of a step-up and, of course, the use of the correct milking routine, are among things which will save labor.

A Minnesota farmer cut his milking time from 55 minutes to 30 minutes, saving 50 minutes each day or 300 hours per year—more than 12 whole days. Another farmer was carrying feed in a 6-peck basket, making four trips at each milking.

He built a feed cart, mounted on old bicycle wheels, and now a 12-year old boy handles the feed for each milking, in one trip. I think if you study each step in your daily work you may find ways to save minutes in time and plenty of energy.

Out in the Western Pacific the Japs are finding out just how much trouble an airplane carrier can be. Another type of carrier can get into a dairy herd and create trouble of its own kind, too.

At an Eight Point milk meeting I attended in Idaho recently, it was pointed out that cows can have what is called a "mild chronic" case of mastitis which is hard to detect but which makes it possible for the disease to be passed to other cows.

A cow with such a case is called a "carrier." The infection the animal passes on may become serious in other cows. So Idaho suggests a test by a veterinarian to locate such carriers, in addition to your regular mastitis control work such as correct milking routine, sanitation measures and the other things I've talked about recently.

It is best to test the milk from each quarter of the udder separately in making this check. One test may be infected but not all of them. This will help in treating the disease.

Idaho recommends testing every heifer or cow brought into the herd and stresses guarding against injuring teats as such injury in many cases is a direct cause of mastitis.

Other guests included Mrs. John Schmitz and Miss Elfreda Benzer of this city, Mrs. Al Beizer, Dallas, Misses Frances and Evelyn Spaeth and Misses Alma and Alice Sandmann, all employed in Dallas. Each guest was presented with a

Memorial Rites Held Friday For T-5 M. Kupper

Memorial services with High Mass of Requiem were held at Saint Peter's church at Lindsay Friday morning, April 13, for Technician Fifth Grade Michael J. Kupper, 37, who died in Germany on Feb. 14.

Rev. Conrad Herda, pastor, officiated at the Mass and delivered an inspiring and consoling address. Full military honors were conducted, following the ritual of the Church, by a detachment of soldiers from Camp Howze.

Selected to serve as catafalque bearers were four veterans of the present war: Troy Kupper, a cousin of the deceased, now stationed at Waco; Albert Laux, at Lindsay on furlough; Valentine Fuhrmann, stationed at Camp Howze, and Ted Voth, on furlough at Muenster. These soldiers formed a guard of honor during the church services. Accompanying the unit from Camp Howze and present in the sanctuary was Captain Clark, chaplain from that army post. Captain Clark also brought a message just before the military rites.

The flag draped catafalque was removed from the church to the grounds in front of the building for the military services and after the flag was presented to the deceased's father, Joe Kupper, the bugler sounded taps. In spite of the inclement weather, a large number of relatives and friends filled the church to pay final tribute to a young man who was loved and esteemed by all who knew him. Surviving T-5 Kupper are his father, four brothers, Sgt. Raymond Kupper and Cpl. Andrew Kupper in the European theatre of operations, John and Robert Kupper, Lindsay, and two sisters, Mrs. Adolph Fuhrmann, Bode, Iowa, and Miss Anna Kupper, Lindsay.

The deceased was born in Lindsay on April 13, 1908, and attended the Lindsay school. He farmed with his father until 1940 then spent two years in Dallas working in a war plant. He was called to join the army in January, 1942, and began his basic training at Camp Wolters. From there training with a tank division took him to Fort Knox, Ky., Camp Folk, La., Camp Rice, Calif., and Camp Pickett, Pa. He sailed for overseas while stationed in England before entering the field of action. T-5 Kupper died after being taken a prisoner of war. He had been reported missing since early in January. His death was announced by the German government and confirmed by the International Red Cross.

CARD OF THANKS

We gratefully acknowledge every kindness and the many expressions of sympathy extended us in our recent sorrow. A special word of thanks to Pastor Father Conrad and the unit from Camp Howze and to all those who presented spiritual bouquets.

Myra Storm---

At the northwest corner of the Katy depot, it turned over a boxcar east of the station and destroyed two large metal storage tanks belonging to the Morrison grain elevator. Portions of beams, wires, metal and furniture were carried for hundreds of yards and scattered over the country-side.

Lightning, preceding the storm, paralyzed light and power lines and Myra was in darkness at the time the cyclone hit. Mrs. Jennie Wheelis, who resided at the Gatewood home, had just stepped to the front porch to "see what the weather was doing" when the twister struck and demolished the house. She escaped without injury. Mrs. Gatewood, concerning to retire for the night, had gone to the kitchen for a drink of water. She was caught in the full fury of the wind and swept to her death. Her body was found by rescuers across the street near the Methodist church of which she had been a member for 50 years.

Linen and clothing blown from the demolished homes were scattered at varying distances over the townsite, but the greater part of them have been recovered. Most of them were not seriously damaged, except for rain and mud. On the other hand, furniture was smashed to a pulp and china and glassware were shattered to fine splinters.

While surrounded by cyclones, Muenster escaped the fury of the elements. There was no damage to the community except at the Joe Voth farm, northeast of the city where the roof was partially torn loose from the residence and Pickett, Pa. He sailed for overseas

SAINT JO VISITED

A twister visited Saint Jo between 8:30 and 9 p. m. the same night destroying Meador Bros large sheetiron hay barn at the northwest edge of the city limits and doing considerable damage to the place occupied by the C. F. Brewer family. Other damage was reported to property. This twister formed west of Saint Jo and a total of about 25 buildings were damaged.

PILOT POINT SUFFERS

A mother and her two children are in a Denton hospital as a result of a tornado, that dipped at Pilot Point, Thursday afternoon at 3:50. The injured are Mrs. Joe David and children, Virginia and Raymond, 5 and 3 years of age. The wind completely demolished the Davis dwelling, double garage, tractor house, and other outdoor farm buildings. The little boy was most seriously injured.

Much damage was also reported at the Dexter community at about 11 p. m. Thursday. Dwellings were unroofed, porches blown away and outbuildings demolished.

In all sectors the cyclonic wind was followed by a cloudburst of rain.

Washington Notes

By Congressman Ed Gossett

Washington, D. C. April 13.—As this letter is written Washington is still stunned by the untimely death of President Roosevelt. Little else is being discussed in the halls of Congress and around the nation's capital. For several months the President's health has been a subject of speculation in Washington, and many predicted he would not survive his fourth term in office. However, no one was prepared for a report of his sudden death, and a pall of sorrow has settled like a dark cloud over Washington.

A few days ago a famous doctor told me he became alarmed about the President's health on hearing his Bremerton Navy Yard talk. The doctor said that in medical science there are certain words which, if not enunciated correctly, indicate a lack of muscular coordination, and mental fatigue. He heard the President miff one or two of these key words. Several Congressmen, including myself, were greatly worried as we listened to the President's last speech in the House, when he reported on the historic Yalta conference. It was obvious he was not his old self, and spoke with great effort.

The first great convolve I attended in the House of Representatives was the celebration of the 150th anniversary of the convening of the first Congress. On that occasion in the hall of the House of Representatives there gathered the entire Congress, Representatives and Senators, all members of the Supreme Court, all members of the President's Cabinet, all ranking diplomats, the commanding officers of the Army and the Navy, and the President. Some one remarked to me that a well placed bomb would certainly wipe out the entire federal government. My reply was that in our great democracy such a catastrophe would be taken in stride and after a few months it would have little effect upon the lives and destinies of the American people.

No one ever had greater responsibilities than did President Roosevelt. He was unquestionably the most important single individual in our country and in the world. However, we can and will carry on. His passing at this time will certainly assure for him a prominent and undying spot in history. The vast majority of the people of America, of all political parties and creeds, are determined to carry on in the winning of the war and in the writing of a permanent peace, in keeping with the President's dreams and ideals.

The passing of President Roosevelt may well catapult a notable Texan into a place of world leadership. As Chairman of the important Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate, Tom Connally of Texas now has an opportunity which has perhaps been given to few men in world history. The many significant international conferences now being held, and the Senate's power over treaties of peace, make him probably the most important single official in the country at this particular time. I know he has the prayers of us all that his untiring efforts will eventually be crowned by complete success.

Among prominent Texans visibly affected by the President's death is his good friend, Speaker Sam Rayburn of Bonham, Texas. Many politically wise folks in Washington are saying that but for political opposition in Texas, Mr. Rayburn would now be President of the United States.

Now and for weeks to come we will hear a great deal of President Harry Truman. His background and personality will be probed for indications of his character and leadership. He is the son of a Confederate soldier. He was an officer of World War I, a man who has grown up in the log cabin tradition of American democracy and politics. Inconspicuous, hard working vice presidents have usually given this country sound and constructive administrations. It is generally felt that Mr. Truman will make a good President. Some profane man once said, "Providence looks after drunks, sailors, and the United States of America." Personally, I have always believed in the lines, "There's a Divinity that shapes our ends, rough-hew them how we will." In the present crisis and in the days immediately ahead surely a Divine Providence will guide our destinies.

of Sacred Heart High

"Faith, Hope, and Flarity," a hilarious comedy in three acts was presented by the students of Sacred Heart High School last Sunday evening in the Parish Hall. According to all present, the comedy was pronounced a notable success, and judging from the continuous roars of laughter from beginning to end everyone went away satisfied.

OUR THANKS
The students and faculty of Sacred Heart High School wish to thank every one who cooperated in making the evening of the performance of the comedy "Faith, Hope, and Flarity" a success. We wish to express our thanks to the business men and friends of Muenster, Gainesville, and St. Jo, who through the advertisements made it possible to print the Herald. We thank the Youth Band for furnishing the music for the evening. We thank all those who by their presence gave encouragement to the cast in their responsiveness throughout the evening.

Congratulations cast of "Faith, Hope, and Flarity" for your excellent performance Sunday night. Your cooperation throughout the practices and particularly on the night of the performance made it a pleasure to work with you.

HONOR ROLL:

The following students made the honor roll during the last six weeks period: Helen Ruth Otto, Margie Ann Endres, Theresa Mae Pels, Jewel Marie Hoffman, La Rue Felderhoff, Margaret Zipper, Anna Grace Wimmer, Rosalee Muller, Joseph Weinzapfel, Arthur Bayer, Terese Walter and Philomene Felderhoff.

SENIORS ON PARADE:

This week we again present you with a short characterization of two of the seniors.

The senior who has definite plans for the future is none other than William Joseph Miller, better known to every one as "Billy Joe." He is well liked by everyone and his good manners have made him popular with his fellow classmates. Uncle Sam has been waiting for Billy Joe since last fall, but we hope that he can complete his year's work before the final summons comes to serve his country.

A athlete from the top of his black curly hair and his broad shoulders, to the bottom of his athletic feet is Henry Yosten. In class, he is noted for his ability to argue on "Communism" to say nothing of the other subjects. We will remember Henry for his ability to disguise himself on the stage and his ability to play leading roles in the school plays.

WORTHY NOTICE:

Terese Walter and Mary Nell Hennigan's proficiency in prompting during the play.

Coralee Fuhrman, Philomene Felderhoff, Rose Marie Becker and Terese Walter's originality in making posters.

Florence Haverkamp, Mary Nell Hennigan, Mary Seyler, Terese Walter, and Marian Gremminger's ability to put over the publicity committee.

Robert Bayer's ability to break glassware. And How?

Henry Yosten, Laura Lee Wilde, and Mary Seyler's ability to "uglify" themselves.

AROUND THE CAMPUS:

The seniors are busy practicing their class song. It does make one feel as if the end were very near. The Juniors and Seniors are busy planning and working toward their annual luncheon, the date of which is set for May 10.

LINDSAY SCHOOL TATLER

By the Juniors UNDER CLASSMEN ENTERTAIN SENIORS

Spring has sprung, and every budding blossom, every buzzing bee, and every chirping bird bring joy and happiness to the campus grounds of Lindsay School. The force of the beautiful sunny day, last Thursday, was strong enough to lure the high-school students out for a typical play time. After the games all enjoyed a wiener roast and cold drinks. This merry mix-up was sponsored by the freshmen and the sophoms to honor the Seniors.

SENIORS OF 1945

Dorothy Dieter, sweet, intelligent, noble—yes a typical "Miss Mild Manners." Dorothy is the youngest of the present graduating class, ranks second highest in the group, finds time to learn all the popular songs (she is our song bird) enjoys sports of all sorts, and is the vice-president of the S. C. A. Club. After graduation Dorothy plans on going to a Business College and then on getting an office job. The employer who will secure her services will be fortunate.

Next comes another senior to be characterized by a superlative—our shortest, Millie—Mildred Dieter. Watch her dancing greenish eyes sparkle! We wonder how Mildred Dieter manages to be so very serious and so very attentive during classes when she is so extremely mischievous outside of classes. This little lassie is known for her "daring." She will try anything. Mildred is a pleasant companion, for she firmly believes in the "give and take" attitude. We think it's safe to say that this our graduate deserves and will attain her ambition which is happiness.

ROSALE SCHMITZ AND W. GRANT COX MARRY IN DALLAS MONDAY

A pretty wedding ceremony in Dallas Monday morning at 9 o'clock at Sacred Heart Cathedral united Miss Rosalie Schmitz of that city, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Schmitz, Lindsay, and Marine Corporal W. Grant Cox of Fort Worth, son of Mrs. Margaret Cox of Gainesville. Rev. John Gulzynki officiated at the nuptial mass and performed the double ring ceremony. Music was provided by the church choir.

The bride wore a gown of white marquisette fashioned on princess lines with a sweetheart neckline, long sleeves pointed at the wrist and a full skirt that fell into a long train. Her finger-tip veil of illusion was attached to a Mary Stewart cap outlined with seed pearls. Her flowers were a corsage of white carnations and she carried a white prayerbook.

Attending as maid of honor was the bride's sister, Miss Marcella Schmitz of Dallas, who wore a frock of pink net over taffeta. With it she wore a sequin hat with shoulder veil and a corsage of purple lilies.

Eugene Schmitz of Lindsay, cousin of the bride and close friend of the bridegroom, was best man. Following the church services the bridal party had breakfast at the apartment of the bride which she and her sister, Marcella, shared during the time they have lived in Dallas. The table, centered with a wedding cake, carried out the all-white theme and was adorned with roses.

Immediate members of the family and friends of the couple attended the wedding rites and in the afternoon the group came to Lindsay where at 6 o'clock a reception and dinner for some 150 guests honored the couple in the Lindsay hall. Later a dance was held for all.

The bride is a native of Lindsay where she attended school. For the past two years she made her home in Dallas while employed at Southern Aircraft at Garland. She will continue with her work.

Cpl. Cox has been in the Marines for three years and has spent more than two years overseas in the Southwest Pacific. Since returning to the states, several months ago, he is stationed in Fort Worth. They will make their home in Dallas.

ing their charges the benefit of a doubt.

However, this doesn't seem to be the kind of pampering the public is clamoring over. By comparison with German and Jap treatment our most rigid observance of the Geneva regulations would appear too lax. America is simply getting tired of playing by the rules when her opponents persist in fouling.

A congressional committee is due to correct whatever actual pampering has been going on, but it is not likely to recommend any departure from the Geneva regulation. We expect that because we know it will remember Americans as proud of their record for playing fair as of the ability to win the game.

Just now a bit of retaliation might give us some satisfaction. But after it's all over we'll be glad to recall that our spirit of fairness was equal to the provocation.
