VOLUME XXXVI

MUENSTER, COOKE COUNTY, TEXAS 76252 FEBRUARY 25, 1972

NUMBER 14

Pope Paul probably expressed the best and most practical sentiments about President Nixon's visit to Communist China when he asked Monday that people everywhere pray for favorable results from the mission. The world is in terrible turmoil, and it's high time for new developments on the international scene to ease tensions, reverse the trend toward global confrontation, and establish a better climate for peace.

As most of the world is very much aware, this is a risky undertaking. President Nixon now finds himself compelled to seek by diplomacy the conditions that he might have demanded if the Western World, especially our own country, had lived up to its responsibilities the past few decades. He has to hopefully ask for cooperation from a nation that has been our enemy for twenty years, and may react as an enemy. If the United States in the forties had kept the rightful regime in charge the present emergency would not have developed.

Well, the sad fact is that the problem has developed. We are forced to depend on people who demonstrated long ago that they cannot be trusted. We are also forced to negotiate some of our own principles in the hope of working out a plan whereby world peace can be preserved. And through our dealings we are haunted by the memory that Communist agreements in the past were not worth the paper they were written on. There's a possibility again that Reds will observe only the agreements which serve their purpose. We must not underestimate the possibility of exposing ourselves to treachery.

On the other hand there are signs that U.S. and Mainland China have mutual interests in getting along better. The goal of world domination, toward which China and Russia have been striving, now presents the problem of which of the two will be the dominant country if and when communism takes over. Despite their dedication to Marxism both regimes are made up of ambitious politicians with typical nationalist tendencies. That, at least, is how the situation is seen by some observers.

Meanwhile, we have a big problem of our own. USSR in the past several years has driven relentlessly for military superiority. They are ahead of us in a number of categories, behind in a few others, and probably ahead in overall strength. Considering the Soviet record of throwing its weight around and acquiring satellite countries, along with its professed global ambitions, one has reason to fear that the Kremlin crowd might be ready soon to launch its global conquest.

This growing threat, presumably, is of mutual concern to U.S. and the Chinese. Their common enemy could possibly be urging them on to an alliance.

Quotes from President Nixon during the weekend do not emphasize this mutual interest in guarding against the Russians. Rather he wants understanding and peace. He asks for the vision to develop relationships which will produce a lifetime of peace for today's children.

Just now his hope appears to be idealistic. A change of disposition such as he envisions does not seem likely in today's standards of world politics. Nevertheless his ideas make sense. Why should the world's people be at each others' throats? Why kill one another in battle? Why waste our personalities in hatred? Why endure the suffering and death? Why all the sacrifices to support huge military programs?

President Nixon is banking that this kind of logic will appeal to the Chinese. No doubt he has visions of these descendants from once cultured and peaceful ancestors seeing the merits in his proposal and joining hands to work for a better world.

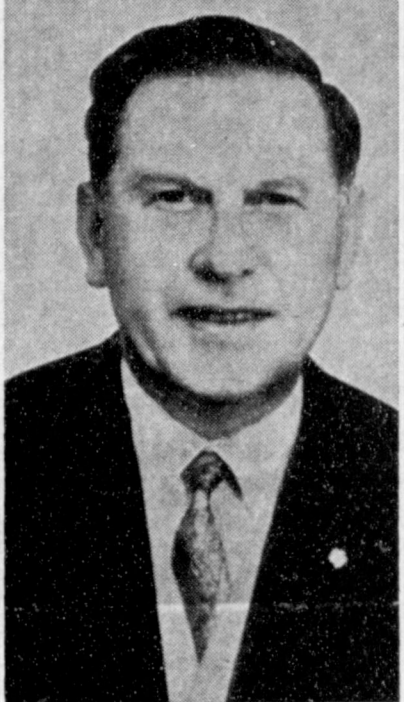

Assuming that the Chinese will apply their old time reasoning, it is just possible that they will be more sympathetic to America's position in the present world confusion. The facts are plain for anyone to see — that U.S. does not take territory by conquest, that it has been most generous in helping people all over the world (even former enemies), that its commercial interests in other countries have always

Nominees Named For Betty Crocker Homemaker Title

Senior girls ranking first in local high schools in the 1972 Betty Crocker Search for the American Homemaker of Tomorrow have been announced. Named on the basis of their scores in a written knowledge and attitude examination administered last Dec. 7 were: Debbie Sicking, Muenster High School and Doris Schmitt, Sacred Heart High School. Patsy Arendt, Lindsay High School, Peggy Schumacher, Gainesville High School.

Each of the young women, as her school's Homemaker of Tomorrow, will receive a specially designed award charm from General Mills, sponsor of the annual educational program. Additionally, she is eligible for state and national honors.

The State Homemaker of Tomorrow, to be chosen from all school winners in the state in judging centering on their performance in the Dec. 7 test, will be awarded a $1,500 college scholarship. A complete set of Encyclopedia Britannica will also be awarded to her school by Encyclopedia Britannica, Inc. The second-ranking girl in the state will receive a $500 educational grant.

In April, the 51 Betty Crocker Homemakers of Tomorrow representing every state and the District of Columbia — each accompanied by a faculty adviser — will join for an expense-paid educational tour of Colonial Williamsburg, Va., and Washington, D.C. Climax of the tour will be announcement of the 1972 Betty Crocker All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow and three runners-up. To be chosen through personal observation and interviews, together with the earlier state-level judging results, they will be awarded scholarship increases to $5,000, $4,000, $3,000 and $2,000.

More than 650,000 senior girls in over 14,500 of the nation's high schools were enrolled in this year's 18th annual Search. Total enrollment since the program's inception in 1954-55 stands at over eight and one-quarter million young women, and, with this year's grants, scholarship awards will total nearly $2 million.

The final activity on the Sacred Heart Student Council's program for traffic safety month is set for Tuesday night, February 29, 7:30 o'clock with a special program on the local TV Channel 2.

On the panel are Cletus Bayer, Wayne Grewing, Doris Schmitt and Margie Felderhoff, winners of the "Live and Learn" series on traffic safety in 1971.

They will be joined by Joe Felderhoff, driver education instructor at Sacred Heart, Jerry Watson, safety education officer and a registered nurse.

Steve Moster, city superintendent, will be emcee for the program.

Council Votes to Extend 5th Street

An extension of Fifth Street from Hickory to Mesquite was approved Monday night in the regular meeting of the Muenster City Council. The new street, along with previously approved water and sewer extensions will serve newly developed building sites in the northeast part of town.

In other action the council voted to send Joe Moster, water and sewer superintendent, to a short course at A&M University, March 5-10.

Faulty Insulator Knocks out Power

The power failure in the wee hours of Wednesday morning was caused by a defective insulator, according to Ernest Jaska, TP&L manager.

The trouble occurred about 3:15 a.m. in the south part of town. Failure of the insulator caused a crossarm to burn off before the conductor shorted out and plunged the town into darkness.

Kenneth Selby had power restored to some customers in ten minutes. With the help of two other linemen from Gainesville he restored power to most other areas in 40 minutes. A few were in the dark for 2½ hours.

Linda Rohmer in Big D Feature on Working Students

Linda Rohmer daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Rohmer, who is a student at the University of Dallas was one of the young people pictured in an article in the Sunday magazine section of the Dallas Morning News. The story told of a wide variety of ways students in Dallas and other area colleges and universities earn money to help take care of the high cost of higher education.

Linda, an English major with a minor in Education is a Senior and an honor student with a straight A average, grade point 4 and will graduate in May. She does part time work for a cosmetics testing laboratory, during the football season she served cocktails in a club at Texas Stadium, she tutored a second grade boy in reading, and works in the university's financial aid office typing and filing. During the summer term last year she was in charge of that office and worked full time. And sometimes she plays basketball.

She will soon begin a new, once a week activity — helping the School Sisters of Notre Dame who have a special school for retarded children.

It should be noted that it is illegal to brand livestock without first properly recording the brand with the county clerk in the county in which the livestock are held.

When the brand or brands are recorded, the location on the animal on which the brand is to be applied must be designated. If the brand is to be applied to more than one location on the animal, it must be so recorded and each additional location for the brand on the animal shall constitute a separate recording of that brand.

There is no limit to the number of brands and/or marks which may be recorded in a county by a person as long as requirements of this law governing the recording and rerecording of livestock brands are met. Minors may have marks or brands separate from that of the father or guardian which must be recorded or rerecorded as provided by the new law.

City Orders Report on Lake for Water Supply

A day of decision is approaching with regard to the proposed lake for Muenster's future water supply.

The city council at its meeting Monday night voted to retain Don Fleming, engineer, Pete Tart, bonding consultant, and Dan Almon, legal adviser, to prepare a comprehensive report on the project and present it to the council.

The report is expected to show the full cost of the lake and the federal government's share if flood prevention and recreation features are included. Also included are the cost of water treating facilities and water mains to the city, along with operation and maintenance costs.

In addition the report will show the city's expected requirements for the next 50 years and the method of retiring the obligation.

Mayor Arthur Felderhoff disclosed that the complete package of information will then be studied by the city council and, if considered feasible, it will be submitted to the city's voters. He added that there will be no charge for the study and report on the project unless it is approved in a city election. If it is rejected all of the present work will cost nothing.

The proposed lake is under consideration because of the constant drop in the water level of the city's wells. Indications are that surface water will be needed in a few years to supplement the present supply and may eventually become the only source of water.

The site considered for the reservoir is northwest of town on Brushy Elm Creek, the nearest point about a half mile west on the road south of the Bartush home.

Present plan is to combine this project with the Soil Conservation Service program of flood control and recreation. The first requirement is a permanent pool of about 170 acres to serve as the city's water supply. And the dam is to be built for additional capacity so that it will also serve as a flood control reservoir in heavy rains. At the spillway level the lake would have 235 surface acres.

Because of the SCS feature the federal government is expected to pay about 60 per cent of the lake, however it would not share in the cost of treating and pumping facilities and water mains.

Also suggested as a part of the project is creation of a water district which would issue the bonds for financing and also sell the water to the city, using its revenue to retire the debt.

Mayor Felderhoff said that the report on the project can be completed in a few months and, if considered feasible by the council, can be submitted to the city's vote in about six months. However, if approved, the lake would not likely be finished in less than three years.

Elm-Red District Sets Date for Land Juding Contest

The Upper Elm-Red Soil and Water Conservation District Board of Directors have made plans to hold their 16th Annual Land Judging Contest in Gainesville, Thursday, April 6, 1972. It will be held in Cooke County Junior College and will be open to all the FFA and 4-H members of the District.

Chairman J. H. Bayer stated, "We have been having a good contest but it could be much larger. I would like to see teams from all the FFA Chapters in our District plus the three county 4-H programs. Last year 67 boys participated in the contest from all over the three county District. There were many conflicting events which reduced our entries. We would like to have well over 100 contestants this year."

The contest will be run by experienced Soil Conservation Service technicians who are assisting the Upper Elm-Red District. It will follow the rules and regulations used in the state and national land judging contests.

Teams will start registering at 1:00 p.m. Thursday, April 6, and the contest will start at 2:00 p.m. The Conservation District will serve an evening meal to the contestants and their coaches and awards will be presented the winning teams and high scoring individuals in the contest.

All first year agriculture students will be in the junior level and the more advanced students will make up the senior division.

Bayer remarked, "Skills learned in this contest go with a boy or girl all through life. He has a better understanding of the land, how to classify and judge it and how to conserve and take care of the soil. Boys and girls receiving this training in land judging can appreciate our soil and its problems and be better prepared in future life to help improve and conserve it."

$262.86 for M.O.D.

Muenster's contribution to the March of Dimes this year was $262.86. Mrs. Hank Walterscheid, community chairman reported this week. The amount includes donations received last Sunday at church door collections and envelope donations by children of the two local schools.

Right to Work

Strangely, amidst the rising national sensitiveness to civil rights, little has been said about the most fundamental right of all — the right to work without paying compulsory tribute to a labor union. Compulsory unionism has been an issue that even the most ardent civil rights politicians have scrupulously avoided. Yet, all things change — even perhaps the almost unlimited power of labor unions.

A few years ago, when the authority of states to pass right-to-work legislation was threatened, the late Senator Dirksen declared that no person should be forced to belong to or pay money to any private organization in order to earn a living. Mr. David Lawrence, a syndicated columnist reports that, "In 1970, Congress enacted a right-to-work law for postal employees . . . these is increasing sentiment among members of Congress that a similar federal law should cover every form of business and that no worker should be compelled to join a union or lose his job." It is virtual certainty that the right-to-work issue — the most fundamental civil right of all — will be raised with increasing urgency in the months and years ahead.

THE INFORMED CONSUMER

By Crawford C. Martin
 Attorney General of Texas

You have just purchased a brand new appliance. Along with your purchase you received a "fully written guarantee". You are assured by the salesman that in the unlikely event of a break down, you have nothing to worry about. Your guarantee will make good on anything that goes wrong.

Alas, your appliance fails to function properly. Armed with your guarantee you set out to obtain satisfaction. You go to the store that sold you the appliance and talk to the friendly salesman who was so helpful when you were buying the item. It is then that you discover, upon close examination of the guarantee; that the store did not guarantee the appliance, the manufacturer did.

The salesman and store manager refer you to the manufacturer's service center which nearly always is located in some distant city. You contact the manufacturer and he writes you a nice letter informing you that his company will be happy to inspect your appliance if you will send it back to them for examination at your own cost.

The service center then writes you back and tells you that the defective part was not guaranteed. Upon close scrutiny of your guarantee you find that the defective part actually is excluded from the terms of the guarantee. Occasionally the manufacturer even suggests that you may have abused the appliance thereby exempting his company from any future liability.

Perhaps you find that the part would have been covered by the guarantee if you had mailed in the card you received at the time of purchase. Your failure to do so has invalidated the guarantee and you find that the company has no obligation at all.

Another problem may arise when the store itself guarantees your new appliance for one year, both parts and labor. Now what could be wrong with this? Nothing so long as the seller stays in business and stands behind his guarantee. But if the seller goes out of business who will service your appliance under the guarantee?

Unfortunately, the average consumer in many cases has little legal recourse aside from pestering and persisting when he purchases a product that does not work. It is an old axiom but it is still true, "A guarantee is only as good as

What To Do in Case of Accident

Being involved in a traffic accident can be a frightening experience. But, if one follows these rules, a life may be saved and legal problems may be avoided.

1. STOP — Turn off the ignition. This might decrease the risk of fire. Do not smoke — gas may have spilled.
2. PROTECT — Guard the scene from further damage. Warn other drivers.
3. ASSIST — Help the injured. Be sure that you render only what first aid you are qualified to give. Don't allow the injured to be moved unless it is absolutely necessary because of fire, passing autos or similar hazards. In case of serious injury, call a doctor and an ambulance.
4. OBTAIN — Get all the information necessary to complete accident reports and claim forms.
5. CALL — Notify a law enforcement officer. In many states it is unlawful to leave the scene of an accident without permission. Co-operate with the authorities.
6. REPORT — Notify your insurance representative as soon as possible. If there are injuries or serious property damage, telephone or wire immediately.
7. AVOID — Do not accept responsibility or discuss the accident with anyone except a law enforcement officer, properly identified claim representative or your agent.

If You Drink Don't Drive

What are you doing about helping with the alcoholic problem in our world, today? In a recent survey, 50% of all driving accidents were caused by alcoholic drinking. We must start now in checking our own drinking habits.

Alcoholic intake has been proven to slow down your reaction time. The lapse of only a second can cost several lives. Every driver reacts differently to alcoholic content in their blood. When they are operating in traffic, even the most skillful defensive driver may not be able to avoid an accident.

Law enforcement has buckled down on the alcoholic drivers. It is our job to help do our part in the fight against the mixture of driving and alcohol. Alcoholic abuse has already cost too many lives of innocent Americans.

If you are planning to drive, put these three steps into action: (1) plan ahead; (2) put a limit on your drinking; and (3) watch out for the other guy. The general overall rule to follow while driving is: "If you drink — don't drive, and if you drive — don't drink!"

the person making it." Before you buy a guaranteed item, know the following terms of the guarantee:

1. What parts of the product are guaranteed;
2. Who is making the guarantee;
3. The guarantee is for what;
4. What will be required if warranty work is needed, that is, can you have it done in your local town or must it be sent off;
5. What steps must be taken to validate the guarantee, an example would be returning a card to the manufacturer;
6. What is your recourse in the event the item is defective, that is will it be repaired or will it be replaced with a new item;
7. For how long is the guarantee; or
8. For whose lifetime the product or the owner's; and
9. Does the guarantee exclude certain uses of the product which will invalidate the guarantee.

Remember, if you don't understand the terminology of your guarantee, ask questions before you make your purchase. Have a clear understanding at that time. After the purchase it may well be too late.

Morality plus Science Needed

Newsweek's feature story on America's Venereal Disease epidemic (Jan. 24) suggests almost every possible way of stopping the spread of venereal disease, except morality and faith in God.

The Newsweek story does not indict the promiscuity responsible for syphilis and gonorrhea. Newsweek merely reports that these infectious diseases are outranked in incidence only by the common cold. VD is now first among the so-called reportable diseases. The number of cases each year exceeds those of strep throat, scarlet fever, measles, mumps, hepatitis and tuberculosis combined. This year there will be more than 2 million new U.S. cases of gonorrhea. The national case rate is ten times higher than that of France, well over twice that of Britain.

What makes the horrendous VD epidemic hard to comprehend for Newsweek is that these diseases "can be cured with penicillin and other antibiotics." The Newsweek writers are virtually stunned with disbelief that science could possibly let them down; that science could be stymied by the new freedoms of the sexual revolution.

Newsweek studiously avoids interpreting this epidemic in terms of a moral breakdown, of a failure to live according to the Ten Commandments. Nature has its laws and sanctions, Fire will burn you. Ice will freeze you. Promiscuity will infect you. The article admits that syphilis when untreated can lead to insanity and death. However, it would seem to be against the magazine's taboos to reprehend the behavior that causes syphilis. The moral teaching of the Jewish and Christian faiths, when observed, is the solution to this epidemic. Observance of these teachings is still far more effective than science for putting an end to VD, because it prevents its cause. Faith is the ounce of prevention worth more than that pound of scientific cure. The VD epidemic will continue until this is realized.

The council set December 14 as the date for the annual Share-the-Fun contest which presented thirteen acts before an audience of about 230. Council members assisted this program by serving as emcee, collecting at the door, and passing out Christmas treats.

SH Children in Special Liturgy Of Holy Childhood

Grade school children of Sacred Heart participated in a special Liturgy for a Holy Childhood celebration on Thursday, February 10. In Sacred Heart Parish, support for the Holy Childhood Association has grown steadily since the first members were enrolled on January 20, 1895. This year marks the strongest gains to date, as 95 unfortunate children in the mission countries were "adopted", or sponsored, 76 by individuals and 19 by grade school classes. Last year there were 72 adoptions and the year before 61 mission children were ransomed. Missionaries in every part of the world thus receive much needed help in caring for abandoned pagan infants. A donor contributes $5.00 and becomes the proxy sponsor of the child in baptism and is permitted to choose the Christian name to be given at that time.

The program for the special Liturgy began with Mass in honor of St. Scholastica and an entrance hymn: "The King of Glory". Three altar boys, Gary Rohmer, Kevin Hess and Bert Hesse led the entrance procession. Included were Curtis Henseid carrying the Holy Childhood Banner followed by all members of the first grade class; Bobby Hartman carrying a statue of the Child Jesus, and Floyd Trubenbach and Brian Cunningham carrying flowers and Father Placidus who celebrated the Mass and two altar boys, Dale Wolf and Neil Rohmer. Immediately before the beginning of Mass, the first graders were enrolled in the Holy Childhood Association.

Other children who participated, giving Scripture readings were Sandy Schneider, Terry Knabe and Mark Klement. First graders, Wade Walterscheid, Ricky Hennigan, Sandy Wimmer, Susie Fleitman, Laurie Endres, Tony Otto, Darrell Herr and Rene Stelzer offered the prayers of the faithful. Children in the Offertory procession were Joe Hoedebeck, 6th grader, carrying the Christ Candle, first graders Sherri Boydston and Ginger Fleitman and sixth graders Glenn Walterscheid and Dona Sue Swirczynski carrying the Sacred Vessels, and second graders Fred Hoedebeck and Leslie Reiter, third graders Monte Endres and Brenda Henseid and fourth graders Dale Schilling and Colynda Henseid carrying tapers. The hymn "Faith of Our Fathers" and recessional concluded the observance.

Middle-age is when you find books that were banned when you were a boy now are in the children's library.

Tips on Sewing Feature HD Meet

Muenster Home Demonstration Club members had a sewing lesson at their February meeting with Mrs. Joe Hoening showing installation of various kinds of zippers and demonstrating the new Kelly skirt.

Mrs. Earl Robison, president, presided and distributed Tallow Tree seed sent by Mrs. Bert Martin of Valley View. Roll call was answered by each member giving her favorite sewing hint or time saving ideas.

Members voted a five dollar donation to the Heart Fund and Mrs. J. H. Wimmer volunteered to visit shut-ins this month. Mrs. Marla Thompson, assistant home demonstration agent attended the meeting and asked members to help 4H girls with sewing preparatory to the Dress Revue. Several members volunteered as helpers. They also reported 31 trees planted at their homes in observance of Arbor Day.

Mrs. Ray Klement was hostess in her home which featured Valentine decor. She pinned a Valentine on each member as she arrived and served Valentinely refreshments of cherry cream chiffon pie and coffee after adjournment to 16 members and two guests, Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Arthur Felderhoff. Mrs. Albert Dangelmayr will be hostess for the March meeting.

The Parent-Teacher Association of Muenster Public School will meet Monday, February 23 at 7:30 p.m. A meeting of Band Parents will follow.

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Hartman and children Jeanna, Pam, and Doug of Denton visited here Sunday with the Victor Hartmans and Mrs. Dick Cain.

Religious and Social Events Observe Golden Wedding of H. S. Fuhrmanns

In the same church where they were married fifty years ago Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Fuhrmann of Lindsay observed the golden anniversary of that day with Mass in St. Peter's Church last Saturday, February 19. A reception and dinner for 175 guests followed the 6:00 p.m. service. When Henry S. Fuhrmann and Catherine Schmitz were married on February 21, 1922 their attendants were Mrs. Ed Corcoran the former Cecilia Beznar, now of Los Angeles California and Henry N. Fuhrmann of Lindsay and both again served as attendants for the anniversary celebration. For her golden wedding Mrs. Fuhrmann wore a turquoise dress with matching head piece and black accessories. Her corsage was of yellow roses. She carried a keepsake rosary, a gift from Brother Louis which he made in Africa when he was doing missionary work there five years ago. The chain and cross are made of silver and the beads are small, red, very hard seeds he picked off branches of a native bush in Africa. Mrs. Corcoran wore a powder blue dress with black accessories and also a yellow rose corsage.

The anniversary Mass was read by Father Joseph Fuhrmann, O.S.B. brother of Mr. Fuhrmann with Father Bede Mitchell as co-celebrant. Grandsons Danny Nortman and Jeff Hess were acolytes and David Nortman was commentator for the Mass. Other grandsons Jimmy Fuhrmann and Ronnie Hess ushered. Granddaughters Jo Ann and Lu Ella Fuhrmann and Deana Nortman presented flowers to the honor couple who placed these flowers before the statue of the Infant of Prague in memory of their son Louis Joseph. Offertory petitions were read by Sister Catherine Henry and she and Brother Louis presented the Offertory gifts at the altar.

Mrs. Cecilia Schmitz was organist for the choir who sang hymns during Mass. The church was decorated with gold and blue flowers and greenery and gold baskets of gold and blue flowers were on the altar.

At the reception in the Cafeterium guests were registered by granddaughters Barbie Hess and Carol and Peggy Fuhrmann. The registration table held the couple's wedding picture taken fifty years ago and their golden wedding picture. Placed be-

The cake was a gift from their niece, Mrs. Al Horn who baked and served it. Barbie Hess and Carol Fuhrmann helped with the cake service. Gold tapers and low baskets of gold flowers further adorned the table while guest tables held white flowers with gold and greenery and gold candles.

In a mid afternoon ceremony Saturday, February 19 in Sts. Peter and Paul Catholic Church in Tulsa, Oklahoma Miss Judy Hellman was married to Lieutenant Richard J. Dein, U.S. Coast Guard. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Hellman of Tulsa, formerly of Muenster and Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Dein, Sr. of Bay Shore, New York.

A trim of white braid accented the bodice, high neck and cuffs and edged the hemline and modified train. She wore a white, wide brimmed straw hat with a circle of daisy and grosgrain trim with long streamers of grosgrain ribbon stitched with white daisies.

Tips from The Hatchery
 Want a beautiful yard, come summer? Now is the time to insure it. Yes, Ortho fertilizer guarantees it or money back. Don't be vexed by crab grass or weeds in your St. Augustine lawn. Apply Ortho fertilizer now before those pests germinate. Sure it's expensive. So is $1.60 an hour for labor to get rid of the crab grass later. Yes! Ortho guarantees you a beautiful lawn.
 If you didn't properly prepare your shrubs for winter they probably look ragged now. An application of "Sulfa Soil" will promote them to the rank of beautiful, come spring. Better do it or call us today.

Tom Holmes
Says He's a "Man Who Can Say No"

"There are two Tom's in the race for the office of State Senator from the 22nd District. The first Tom has been more or less occupying the office for twelve years. As 'the other Tom in the race' — Tom Holmes — it is my intention to win this office and devote its considerable power to the good of all the people in the district, rather than a privileged few.

"I won't go so far as to say that my opponent has abused the office of State Senator, which he has adorned with great charm and excellent manners, as befits a man of established wealth. But I don't hesitate to point out that he has shown no sympathy at all for the little man — the farmer, the laborer, the blue and white collar worker — but instead has demonstrated great talent and enthusiasm for devising ingenious tax bills of odious character. "It is almost trite now to say that Austin, the Capitol of the great State of Texas, comes close to being a disaster area. Having spent the past eight years there myself, I have been a witness, but not a participant, to the events that have precipitated virtually every crisis a state government can have and still remain on its shaky feet.

"There are a number of reasons for these crises, but I think I can adequately sum them up in a sentence: that is, that some men, finding themselves in a position of power, develop egos larger than their conscience. And as creeping megalomania sets in, their sense of responsibility seeps away.

"Much has been made, and will continue to be made, of the various scandals and under-the-table dealings in Austin. It would be naive to pretend that these things don't exist. But I would like to emphasize that for every public official implicated in these charges, there are dozens of us who continued to work hard and honestly for our people; and that such machinations were on a level above and apart from the work-a-day legislative process. There are many good men and women in Austin who serve their people and state honestly and conscientiously; and it is grossly unfair to condemn every member of the congregation when you discover that a few of them have been stealing from the collection plate. Corrupt deeds come only from corrupt minds.

"During my eight years in the House of Representatives, I made very little news and even less noise. I went about my work quietly, concerned only with my responsibility to my district. But I learned a lot of things in the process. I became enlightened as to the real workings of the Legislature, without becoming either disillusioned or cynical. I learned that a lot of bills were introduced for the honest purpose of furthering the interests of the people. And I also learned that a lot of bills were tainted with the odor of "Special Interest," with a pay-off for anyone who would say 'Yes' to their passage.

"Early in my career in the House, I learned the hardest lesson of all. And that is how to say 'No.' I said 'No' to special-interest bills; I said 'No' to unfair tax bills, I said 'No' to every foolish expenditure of the people's hard earned money. As you can imagine, I am not very popular with the Lobbyists or other private groups seeking special advantage or privilege. "As your State Senator, I will continue to say 'No' to any measure that doesn't promote the general good of my district and state. On the other hand, I won't hesitate to say 'Yes' when a bill has been honestly and fairly prepared, has been given proper public exposure, and has the approval of the people I represent.

"The biggest business in Texas is the government itself. It is so big that it almost defies comprehension. But when a problem becomes too big and complex to understand, the intelligent thing to do is to go back to fundamentals. Financial practices employed in our state government wouldn't be tolerated for a minute by the management of Sears Roebuck, or General Motors, or even the corner drug store. How does a successful business, or farm, or ranch, operate? It operates on the capital it has available. It doesn't expand until it knows where the money is coming from. It doesn't acquire a payroll it can't meet. It sets up a sinking fund for emergencies. "When a private enterprise finds itself in trouble, it begins to economize in every way it can to bring its outgo back in line with its income. That government can and should do this is obvious. Many people thought Lyndon Johnson was joking when he went around turning out lights in the White House. But he was in fact, making a serious statement, and making it in the most eloquent way possible.

"It is political hypocrisy to indulge in promise-making, and — as a lot of people tell you — I have never done this. I won't, like a lot of candidates, promise you the moon during the campaign and deliver a small rock after the election. It is far more sensible and honest to talk of attainable things which we jointly can work toward.

"I don't have the kind of money which my opponent is prepared to spend to hold on to this office. There are 17 counties in the 22nd District, and nearly 400,000 people. Since I can't begin to match him financially, I will have to outwork him. While he is piloting his private airplane from one airport to another, I am going to drive the country roads, visit the town squares and walk the streets. And if it is humanly possible to meet and talk with every voter in this district, I'm going to do so.

"My wife reminded me the other day that during my last campaign — in which I defeated two Democratic opponents and one Republican — I wore out three pairs of shoes. I don't have much money to wage this campaign with, but my credit is good at the shoe store, and if my feet hold out, I'll be seeing you personally between now and May 6th."

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Hoedebeck visited over the weekend with their son Paul, a hospital patient in Memphis, Tennessee. Accompanying them were their daughter-in-law Mrs. Paul Hoedebeck and their daughters Teresa and Peggy and Chris Cagle of Dallas. They found Paul much improved and were happy to be allowed to take him to visit with them for several hours. An unusual cold, sharp wind made the weather very uncomfortable in contrast with the equally unusual warm temperatures here over the weekend.

Gas Drying

Electric Drying

Either we're four times cheaper, or they're four times more expensive.

Gas drying is not only easier on your pocketbook, it also makes life a whole lot easier.

For one thing, gas drying practically eliminates the need for ironing. The new gas dryers are so gentle that clothes come out almost wrinkle-free. Clothes are tumbled dry, then cooled, and gently fluffed. Automatically, Pleats stay pleated. Creases stay creased.

All this for a cost of about a penny a load. (Or $2.00 a ton.)

Take a look at the new gas dryers at your gas appliance dealer. Then do something nice for yourself.

And your pocketbook.

He also analyzed the amendments to the U. S. Constitution as they apply to Judges and bills before Congress. He discussed many aspects of government of which we must be aware to insure a democratic society.

Cletus Bayer led the business meeting and told of the state convention of JETS, Junior Engineering Technical Society, at A&M University in March. At that time tests will be offered in math, chemistry, biology and physics.

raised the standards of those people. Likewise to reasonable people our Vietnam position can also have an appeal. We honored a commitment while trying to check the spread of a system which was pledged to our destruction. A reasonable enemy should be able to see the logic in that.

Next on schedule for Nixon is a similar peace mission to Moscow. After this session he would like to convince the Soviets that a better life is ahead for all the world if the big powers will just banish their ideas of warring on each other.

The big question is whether he can get the Chinese and Soviets to see the light. If World War 3 comes there will be no winners. Those who are not wiped out will be reduced to privation and misery. How much better it would be to avoid the conflict! Avoid the burden and anxiety of preparing for it! And direct the productive energy of every nation toward better living instead of preparing for destruction.

You're not too old to learn — unless you are a teenager.
