Concerned citizens address new bar, restaurant

by Dave Fette

The Muenster City Council greeted the largest attendance in quite a while at City Hall Monday night. Most came to join the anticipated discussion about a new restaurant, Carol's Place, with plans to open in the old Gehrig Hardware building and a new bar, Steve's Saloon, intended to continue in the location of Floyd's Bar. Several Main Street business owners remember problems they had from patrons of The Ranch and Floyd's. They oppose the new businesses serving alcohol and asked the council to deny permits to Carol Murphy and Steve Perry.

Peggy Grewing told of her previous problems. "I've cleaned up the vilest kinds of trash, including slimy condoms and human manure from right in front of our doorways at The Crafty Olde German after busy nights at the bars," she said. "I've watched people urinate in the street and in my flower bed. I have suffered extensive vandalism. We are uncomfortable and many times scared when the drunks are around. Muenster has a history of Christianity and a clean, moral environment, but that's being overshadowed by the new reputation we're getting. Part of our good economy is due to the freedom we have here to enjoy a beer, but we are against excessive drinking. I have met both Steve and Carol and they seem like nice people, but how will they control their patrons?"

Al Horn defended businesses serving alcoholic beverages. "It's legal. Muenster's wet and you can't stop it!"

Carol Murphy defended her plans for Carol's Place and passed around copies of her proposed menu which limited drinks served to not more than three in one hour. "I don't think anyone will come into my place and drink for more than four hours and, if there's a mess, it's our mess because I will cater to Muenster people. If there's a mess, it will be due to the Muenster people," Murphy said.

Debbie Hess contested that idea. "We have enough places to drink and most of the problem comes from out-of-town people."

Steve Perry said he would hire two bouncers at his saloon and minors would not be allowed inside without their parents. "I'm not catering to the young people or so-called trash," he said. "I want to attract you and your kind of people."

John Fisher spoke about the theft and vandalism he had lived with for years. "It's not safe for kids, it's not proper for kids who run errands and go to gymnastic classes right down these sidewalks."

Roger Taylor questioned Perry's request to the council for extended late night serving hours. Perry replied that he had decided not to ask for the extended hours.

Urban Endres spoke next about the stringent licensing requirements for liquor businesses. "It's tough to get a license and you must stay respectable to keep it. This is a legal business and a large industry in Muenster. There are 150 people employed here by the alcoholic beverage business and I think their business permits should be granted," Endres said.

Ronnie Felderhoff said he had probably suffered more vandalism from drunks from The Ranch than anyone in past years. He added that minors should never have been allowed in the bar. "I can't believe the people of this town are such wimps that they're going to allow this kind of abuse to go on," he said.

Angelo Nasche asked that this section of downtown be kept free from bars because of the close proximity and nature of the businesses.

David Fette commented that the existing businesses had an obligation to work with the newcomers and allow them a chance to run a respectable operation. Likewise, the new places have an obligation not to rob their neighbors of the investment over many years in business and family and community life. "The city too has an obligation to safeguard those investments and enforce the laws. Obviously, with all these complaints, it hasn't been done in the past," Fette said.

Chuck Bartush, City Attorney, explained that the city has no possible action they can take now. The council then voted to table the matter indefinitely.

Other items of action included:
- The council accepted Jimmy Jack Biffle's bid of $48,713.00 to drill and install water well number seven.

- The council followed Park Board recommendations to accept the bid by Structures, Inc. of Muenster to construct a new roof for the swimming pool building for $14,985.00.

- Requests by Fischer's Market and 82 Liquor to apply decorative wood trim to their buildings were tabled to study possible effects on fire insurance key rates in the city.

- Property owned by, and adjacent to, Knabe Tire and Radiator in block 37 and Fischer's

Dr. Edd Advincula arrives in Muenster to join MMH staff

The long awaited arrival of Edd G. Advincula, M.D., who will be setting up his practice in Muenster, came on Monday, Feb. 6. He has joined the medical staff of Muenster Memorial Hospital. Dr. Advincula's office will temporarily be located in the south wing of the hospital. He will begin seeing patients on or before February 13.

Shirley Endres, LVN, and Anne Perkins, office manager will be assisting Dr. Advincula. The office number is 759-2226.

Dr. Advincula, originally from Manila, Philippines, is Board Certified in Canada as a specialist in general internal medicine. He received his M.D. degree from the University of Santo Thomas in Manila. After graduation, Dr. Advincula completed an internship at Perth Amboy General Hospital in New Jersey. Edd and Linda are very excited about leaving the snow in Canada and are looking forward to a much warmer life in Muenster.

Muenster Hospital readies for construction of obstetrics unit

Progress continues on the new obstetrics unit at Muenster Memorial Hospital, reports Administrator Jack R. Endres. Since all hospitals in the state are strictly regulated by the Texas Department of Health, much of the work required in remodeling the hospital and resuming the provision of obstetrics services has necessarily involved a large amount of paperwork and governmental red tape.

Initial architect's drawings are currently being reviewed by the hospital staff and administration and will soon be submitted to the Texas Department of Health for approval. Remodeling is expected to begin within the next two months and will involve creation of two all new birthing rooms and relocation of the mammography unit. All local subcontractors are encouraged to visit with Jack Endres to be placed on a bid list for the projects that will be available. The hospital will need skilled carpenters, cement workers, plumbers, cabinet makers, painters and many others to complete the remodeling.

The hospital's budget for remodeling the obstetrics unit and acquiring the necessary equipment is set at $300,000. Donations totaling approximately $220,000 have been received by the hospital for its OB/Nursery Department Fund.

Purchase orders have been issued for more than $40,000.00 of equipment thus far and much more will be needed. Those who have not yet contributed to this effort to improve and expand the health care services available for Muenster and neighboring communities, might wish to consider making a donation now. "No donation is too small, as every dollar pushes us closer to our goal to provide the finest health care services in North Texas," said Endres. "We are on the rebound and with your help and patronage, nothing can hold us back."

NCTC Foundation Board sets million-dollar goal

The North Central Texas College Foundation's board of directors, convening recently for its first regular monthly meeting of 1995, got the new year off to an ambitious start by accepting a challenge to build its fund balance to $1,000,000.

Board members voted unanimously to accept the million-dollar challenge issued by President Ed Wright who reported that total funds already exceed $540,000 - almost totally in support of endowed scholarships.

"This means we're already more than halfway there," Wright said. "I believe very strongly in this Foundation, I believe very strongly that this college needs and deserves our support, and I believe that reaching our million-dollar goal is definitely something we can accomplish."

Wright pointed out that during the current spring semester, Foundation scholarships are helping defray a total of almost $12,000 in college expenses for 49 individual students.

"By helping these students get an education," Wright said, "this Foundation is exerting a tremendously positive impact on their lives. Many of them would not be able to attend college at all without the extra help their scholarships provide, and in so many cases the benefits of the scholarship extend to the recipients' families as well.

"Another benefit we often overlook is that the education and training they receive at NCTC make these students more productive citizens who enrich our local and regional workforce, boost economic development and, in the end, help improve the quality of life for all citizens of our community."

Wright gave board members a detailed report summarizing fund balances in the 24 fully endowed scholarships on the Foundation's books as of year end 1994, as well as some 15 others which are funded by donations made on a semester-by-semester basis. To be considered fully endowed, with scholarships awarded only from interest proceeds, an individual fund must have a corpus of at least $10,000.

The Foundation board president himself is responsible for two of the endowed scholarships, one named in honor of his wife, Ona, who recently retired as chairperson of the Communication & Fine Arts Department after a teaching career which spanned 27 years. He reported to the board his intention in the coming year to raise the corpus of both funds to $12,500.

Wright expressed hope that many additional scholarship endowments would be forthcoming, particularly in support of scholarships for students coming to NCTC from outside Cooke County. Examples of such need at NCTC include music, drama and other fine arts programs where scholarships are needed to attract talented students to the main campus from Denton, Montague and other surrounding counties.

"As important as scholarships are," Wright told board members, "I also urge you to remember the Foundation's mission to provide other kinds of financial support to the college too. We want prospective donors to understand that their gifts are welcomed for whatever purpose they may wish, and this may not necessarily be a scholarship."

He explained that some donors, for example, may wish to give money to help the college purchase badly needed equipment—ranging from computers to microscopes to musical instruments—or perhaps to upgrade facilities. One college's foundation, he noted, even funded a major campus landscaping and beautification project which provided a bell tower, benches, promenades and similar amenities.

"One of the major individual donors to NCTC in recent years, in fact, with gifts totaling close to $50,000, specified that the money be used to purchase books and materials for the library," Wright

Cooke County Masonic Lodges endow NCTC Foundation Scholarship

Within days of setting a million-dollar goal, the North Central Texas College Foundation is already $10,000 closer to reaching that goal, thanks to the collective membership of five area Masonic Lodges who gave that amount this week to establish the Foundation's newest endowed scholarship fund.

The $10,000 check was formally presented to Foundation President Ed Wright by Wm. J. (Bill) Williams, Lodge 210, Gainesville; Danny Knight, Lodge 796, Era; DeWayne Binford, Lodge 344, Fishcreek; and Bob Lester, Lodge 600, Valley View. Also on hand for the presentation, from Valley View, was District Deputy Grand Master B.J. Muller of District 85 of the Grand Lodge of Texas.

To be titled the Cooke County Masonic Lodge Scholarship, this fund will provide an award of $250 per semester to assist a Cooke County student who meets eligibility requirements. These include full-time enrollment status of at least 12 credit hours and a maintenance of a minimum grade point average of 3.0. Applicants will be considered on the basis of scholastic achievement.

Speaking for the group, Bill Williams noted that it normally takes a year for a newly endowed fund to generate enough interest proceeds to begin paying scholarships, and he said it is their intention to raise sufficient additional funds to go ahead and give an award this coming fall 1995 semester.

"It's definitely not our intention to establish this scholarship and then back away from it," said Williams, a retired educator. "We plan to continue to build the fund over the years, hopefully to the point where it can support more than just one scholarship each semester, possibly several."

Williams reported that this scholarship endowment at NCTC has been a continuing cooperative project of the county Masonic Lodges for quite some time, with contributions to the fund coming from lodge treasuries as well as from individual member donors.

"We recognize that this college means so much to our county in so many ways, not the least of which is that it is helping turn out educated, productive citizens who enrich our workforce and contribute to economic development," said Era Lodge Master Knight. "We just could not imagine a better, more appropriate way to invest this money than in a scholarship that can literally help change a student's whole life for the better."

NCTC President Ronnie Glasscock, also on hand for the presentation, noted that this gift from the county's Masonic Lodges "is also a perfect and much appreciated 'kick-off' to the NCTC Foundation's newly established fund-raising goal of $1,000,000."

"We are so grateful to each and every member of all these lodges who helped make this possible," he added. "Here at NCTC, we do view these scholarships as real investments in the future. For years to come, they will truly make a positive difference, not only in the lives of individual recipients but in our community as a whole."

MASONIC SCHOLARSHIP - Ed Wright, left, president of the North Central Texas College Foundation, accepts a $10,000 check to endow the Foundation's newest scholarship fund from Wm. J. (Bill) Williams, master of Gainesville Masonic Lodge, representing the five Cooke County lodges jointly sponsoring the gift. Other lodge masters on hand for the presentation were, 1 to r, Bob Lester, Lodge 600, Valley View; Danny Knight, Lodge 796, Era; DeWayne Binford, Lodge 344, Fishcreek; and B.J. Muller, Valley View, Deputy Director of District 85, Grand Lodge of Texas. At right is NCTC President Ronnie Glasscock. Not able to attend was C.L. Williams, Lodge 878, Myra. The Cooke County Masonic Scholarship Fund will provide an award of $250 per semester to a qualified county resident attending NCTC and will be given for academic achievement. The $10,000 gift kicks off the Foundation's newly-announced fundraising goal of $1,000,000.

MISD will join Texas Public Schools Week celebration

Texas Public Schools Week, February 27 - March 3, is more than an opportunity for local residents to visit their public schools. It is their duty.

Education is the key to the future; it is the link to a successful and productive life. And education is everyone's business. That's why it is important for the parents, families and citizens of Muenster to take time to visit the Muenster schools and to ensure that the community's children are receiving a high quality education.

No other country in the world has emphasized education and lifelong learning with greater results than the United States. Education is big business across our nation, throughout Texas and certainly in Muenster, where the public school system is the number 4 employer.

Any time is a good time to visit your local schools, but you've been issued a special invitation over the next five days during Texas Public Schools Week.

Take time this week to check up on your investment.

Closed for 3 days... Tax Assessor's office updates computer system

Joyce Zwinggi has announced that the Tax Assessor-Collector's office will be closed for three days (Feb. 13, 14, 15) while the office is put online with a new computer system. The system will be linked with the Texas Department of Transportation (TDT), aiding in renewing automobile registrations and registering titles.

"We are very excited about this new computer system being added to our office," stated Zwinggi. "This system has been in the planning stages for the last nine years. It has taken this long because the State wanted to have the very best computer system available."

During the three-day period, the office staff will receive training from TDT's Austin office. The instructors will remain at the Cooke County office until they are satisfied the computer system is performing correctly and that the staff feels competent in the operation.

Cooke County will join 45 other Texas counties online, with all of the Wichita County Region, of which Cooke County is a part, coming online next week.

The Tax Assessor-Collector's office, located in the Cooke County Courthouse, will be open on Thursday, Feb. 16, at 8 a.m., ready for business. The Austin instructors will be on hand to offer assistance if necessary.

Tax Assessor Zwinggi added that if any county resident has questions concerning car titles or registrations, they may still call the office at 817-668-5425 during the three-day office closure. "I would like to remind everyone that registration renewals may be mailed to the office, along with proof of liability insurance and payment," commented Zwinggi.

Williamson appointed to key committees

House Speaker Pete Laney announced recently that he has appointed State Representative Ric Williamson to serve on the House Committee on Juvenile Justice and Family Issues as well as the House Committee on Public Education.

"I could not be more pleased or more excited," said Williamson. "I have spent the past two years carefully listening to the citizens of Cooke County. They have told me they are most concerned of juvenile crime and public schools. Some time ago I expressed to Speaker Laney my interest in both of these areas. He gave me exactly what I asked for and I am very grateful."

"I believe Representative Williamson's skills and expertise will be very useful in these committee positions," Speaker

Laney said. "I know Representative Williamson will be working long hours to represent constituents' views in the legislative process. He will be a very valuable member of these committees."

Williamson added, "Not only can I work on the areas most important to those I represent, I am now in a position to help Governor Bush reach two of his four goals for the year. Rewriting the juvenile justice code and replacing the public education code were two of his strongest campaign issues. I enjoy a close relationship with the Governor and I will be able to help him on these two committees."

Williamson moved from the Democratic to the Republican Party in December 1993. George W. Bush is widely credited with persuading Williamson to make the move. Bush toured the legislative district with Williamson when Williamson made the formal announcement of his party re-affiliation.

Killing the Corporate Cash Cow

By Edwin Feulner

Those hypocritical conservatives. They're quick to call for ending welfare to lower-income Americans but won't dare touch all those government goodies that flow to big business.

At least that's what the Clinton administration's Labor Secretary, Robert Reich, must think. After the fall elections pounded liberalism into the intensive care ward, Reich decided to go on the offensive. He called on conservatives to go after "corporate welfare" with the same vigor they show for dismantling the traditional welfare state, even going so far as to issue a direct challenge to my own organization to name specific taxpayer-funded business handouts that should die.

Reich, of course, thinks he's hit on a winning political strategy here, that conservatives would rather eat dirt than target programs aimed to help their corporate buddies. Then, oh happy day, the American people will see conservatives for the hypocrites they are and return to power the liberals, who already are growing queasy from trying to find real jobs in the private sector.

I've got news for Secretary Reich: He's underestimated his opponent. Conservatives, and especially The Heritage Foundation, already have locked the cross-hairs on a host of so-called "corporate welfare" programs ripe for extinction. Consider:

- * The government's Market Promotion Program, which spends $90 million annually to subsidize the foreign advertising costs of large U.S. businesses such as McDonalds Corp., Pillsbury Co. and Ernest and Julio Gallo Winery Inc. What? These companies can't pay for their own advertising abroad?

- * The U.S. Travel and Tourism Administration, which pours more than $16 million taxpayer dollars each year into promoting tourism in the United States — even though U.S. airlines, hotels and resorts already spend billions each year on the same task;

- * A $1 million grant to Alaska to restore the salmon habitat in the Kenai River, which supports sport and commercial fisheries valued at $100 million annually. If the river is that profitable to local fishermen and the state of Alaska, they — not U.S. taxpayers — should pay for this project;

- * The Fish Farming Experimental Laboratory in Stuttgart, Ark., a $600,000 project that benefits the $200 million-per-year catfish industry; and

- * Research funds of $107,000 to explore turning Kenaf, a woody plant, into paper products on the grounds that it has great commercial applications. If it does, commercial companies should pay for the research.

Whose idea was it to fund all these programs? Certainly not mine; I pay enough in taxes already.

What liberals like Reich don't understand is that conservatives, as a matter of principle, simply don't like the federal government taking money from taxpayers and "redistributing" it — whether to failed welfare programs, big business, or anybody else.

We simply think more dollars should stay where they belong — in the pockets of taxpayers.

Note: Edwin Feulner is president of The Heritage Foundation, a Washington-based public policy research institute.

Rep. Hall cosponsors line item veto bill

The House of Representatives, on a bipartisan vote of 294-134, passed a line item veto bill Monday night, Feb. 6 that Rep. Hall said will help eliminate "pork barrel spending" of taxpayers' hard-earned money.

"The American people are tired of wasteful and unnecessary spending," said Hall, who cosponsored the legislation. "We simply cannot afford to spend money on projects that benefit only a few. The line item veto bill will help end this practice and save taxpayers billions of dollars in future years."

The Line Item Veto Act will give the President authority to veto individual appropriations items and individual targeted tax benefits. The President's proposed cuts would automatically become effective unless disapproved by both the House and Senate. If this happened, a Presidential veto would likely follow, which would require a two-thirds vote by both the House and the Senate to overturn.

"This is a tough remedy for tough times," Hall said. "The line item veto will give the President a check and balance on the budget process and ultimately will encourage Congress to submit fiscally responsible budgets."

"For too many years members of Congress have tacked on special projects to major appropriations bills, and Congress has been forced to approve these in order to pass the larger, necessary legislation. The line item bill will help eliminate these projects and discourage members from continuing this practice."

Hall added, "This Congress is trying to change the way government has conducted its business. The House has passed a Balanced Budget Amendment, an Unfunded Mandate Reform Act, and now the Line Item Veto Act. We're trying to ensure that Americans are getting the most for their tax dollars."

The House worked to pass the bill on Monday, Feb. 7 to honor former President Ronald Reagan on his 84th birthday which was Monday. Reagan tried unsuccessfully to pass the line item veto during his eight years in the White House.

Haywood joins fight for lawsuit reform...

Texas Senate begins hearings on legislation

State Senator Tom Haywood will co-author a number of bills that could lead to sweeping changes in the Texas civil justice system. Haywood made curbing lawsuit abuse a central theme in his campaign for the Senate.

"Texans demand that we fight lawsuit abuse," remarked Haywood. "It is time to put a stop to frivolous and excessive litigation. Lawsuit abuse costs us jobs, increases the price on everyday products we all buy and leads to clogged courts. This legislation, of which I am a co-author, will promote job creation, economic growth and unplug our courts so those who are truly injured will have their cases heard in a timely manner."

The lawsuit reform, or "tort reform", legislation Haywood has signed to co-author includes measures aimed at stopping the filing of frivolous lawsuits and preventing "venue shopping", limiting punitive damages, reforming the Deceptive Trade Practices Act, and changing the joint and several liability law. The tort reform legislation has been referred to the Senate Economic Development Committee, of which Haywood is a member. The committee began holding hearings on a number of bills this week.

"Restoring public trust in our civil justice system is one of my top priorities this session," Haywood continued. "We must discourage lawsuit abuse and the filing of frivolous litigation. These bills I have chosen to co-author will help restore balance and fairness to our courts."

PLEASE!!

Every copy of The Muenster Enterprise mailed by us with an incorrect address resulting when subscribers fail to notify us of a move or change has two consequences. First of all, the subscriber receives no paper. Secondly, the Post Office requires us to pay for every returned paper, at 50¢ each. Sometimes the papers are allowed to accumulate before we are notified. When that occurs many times each week, the amount becomes significant. Sometimes it amounts to a portion of the year's subscription price and could possibly cause us to subtract a number of months from the renewal date, just to recover part of the expense. For this reason, we are again appealing to subscribers to notify us immediately when changes of address are coming up.

reported. "Individual donors can also help the Foundation greatly through either restricted or unrestricted memorial gifts, perhaps given in lieu of flowers. No gift is too small."

A guest speaker at the meeting was Linda Richardson, vice president and trust officer at Gainesville's First State Bank, who addressed current estate planning and charitable giving issues. She also told Foundation directors that public awareness will be an important key to achieving their fund-raising goals.

"Do everything you can to spread the word about your Foundation," she said. "Because your Foundation is relatively new, it may not come to a person's mind as readily as their church or a well-known charity when they consider a bequest or gift. My experience has been that people considering a bequest or gift react very favorably to suggestions that they consider including NCTC."

She also suggested that the Foundation work to establish a strong line of communication with local and area attorneys and accountants to keep them and their clients informed about opportunities for giving to the NCTC Foundation.

In accepting the million-dollar challenge, board members agreed that achieving this goal would require their total commitment and a concerted effort. Wright reminded them of their responsibilities to actively seek out and cultivate donors, to set an example by being donors themselves and to function as a "working" board.

The meeting included a report from CPA Albert Brown of Denison on a recently conducted audit of the Foundation's books. Brown gave an "unqualified" audit report and said the financial records of the Foundation were in excellent condition.

In other business, Foundation directors heard a report from NCTC President Ronnie Glasscock who reported on spring semester enrollment, the status of proposed legislation that would statutorily designate community college service areas, and a major initiative now being under taken at the college relative to institutional effectiveness.

"This initiative has major ramifications in such areas as accreditation, program approval by the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board and so on," Dr. Glasscock reported. "What's most important to me, however, is that it gives us a framework for promoting continuous improvement."

"Throughout every instructional department and administrative office of the college, we will be taking an in-depth look at what we do, how we do it and how we can do it better. It will involve virtually every employee of the college at all campuses, and we are taking it very seriously."

Dr. Glasscock also reported on the progress of a search for a new director of institutional advancement who will coordinate college-wide grant writing efforts and serve as the Foundation's executive director. He said about 35 applications had been received, that a number of candidates for the position showed "exceptional promise" and that the search committee would soon be asking the top three or four to come in for an interview.

Persons wishing to learn more about the NCTC Foundation may contact Wright at 817/665 3121, or they may call the NCTC Office of Institutional Advancement at 817/668-4213.

Angeline Fleitmann dies Feb. 1 at age 95

Mass of Christian Burial was held for Angeline Mary (Bengfort) Fleitmann, 95, in Sacred Heart Church on Saturday, Feb. 4, 1995 at 10 a.m. Officiating were Father David Bellinghausen OSB, Father Frowin Schoech OSB and Father Joe Weinzapfel.

Altar servers were P.J. Fleitmann, a grandson; Matthew Fleitmann, a great-nephew; Christopher York, a cousin; and Jeremy Yosten, a family friend.

In the special funeral liturgy the Reading from the Old Testament and the Responsorial Psalm were given by Cynthia Tempel, a granddaughter; the Second Reading and Offertory Petitions were read by Becky Fleitman, a granddaughter.

Offertory gifts were carried to the altar by Justin Fleitman, a grandson and Tonya Davis, a granddaughter.

Eucharistic Ministers were Carol and Ben Fleitman (nephew); Evelyn and Jerry Sicking, long-time friends; and Rosemary Dankesreiter, a long-time friend.

Music Ministers were Laura Fuhrmann, Martha Sicking, Karen Davis and Denise Dangelmayr, and a grandson of Mrs. Fleitmann, James Neusch. Sacred songs included "I Am The Resurrection," "Amazing Grace," "On Eagles Wings," "Song of the Angels," and "How Great Thou Art."

Angeline Mary (Bengfort) Fleitmann was born on Oct. 14, 1913 in Lindsay to Bernard Bengfort and Clara Herr Bengfort. She married Joseph William Fleitmann on Nov. 20, 1934 in St. Peter's Church of Lindsay. They celebrated their golden wedding in 1984. On their farm on East Hwy. 82, they operated a dairy, raised crops, and a huge garden that were area showpieces. They retired in 1986; for the past several years they made their home in Muenster on North Oak Street. Her husband preceded her in death on April 6, 1991. # February is School Board Recognition Month, an opportunity to say "thanks!"

by Steve Cooper, MISD Superintendent
February has been designated as School Board Recognition Month by the Texas Association of School Boards. Good school boards provide valuable service to communities. MISD is fortunate to have good school board members. They give sacrificially of their time and effort to insure the proper and continuing functioning of this district. New board members must take 20 hours of training during a year and experienced members must take 6 hours.

Also included in their commitment of time, are the long hours put in at the regular monthly board meetings. This monthly meeting is often just the "tip of the iceberg" as they spend much time daily, weekly, and monthly being the ambassadors of MISD in the community they serve. They attend many if not most of the schools athletic and academic functions, they field innumerable questions and answer those questions to the best of their ability. More often than not they are second guessed on very difficult decisions, many times by those who are not aware of all the facts that went into that decision. In today's constantly changing school environment their job is particularly difficult.

MISD's board does all this and much more day in and day out, year in and year out, for no compensation. The closest board members come to being compensated in any way, form or fashion is when they are admitted to school functions without charge. This of course is common courtesy that in some small way says "thanks for all your concern and dedication to our kids and community."

Having been in the school business for 25 years and having been in situations and seen many more where the school board was not performing in the best interests of those they served - I can say unequivocally that MISD's board is doing an outstanding job of providing for the students in this district, and what they are providing is a very good school. Decisions that they make always have the students' best interest at heart. They certainly don't seek recognition or notoriety but this is the one time of year we can express our appreciation in a legitimate and meaningful way.

If you get a chance, as a parent, community member, or appreciative Muensterite, go out of your way one day this month and thank them for what they do on your behalf.

MISD's board members are: Leon Klement, President; Cliff Sicking, Vice President; Annette Anderle, Secretary; Tom Hartman, Tom Flusche, Harold Bindel, and Peggy Lutkenhaus.

February 27 through March 3... Public Schools Week celebrated in Texas

Students and staff in the Muenster school district will join more than three million children throughout the state in celebrating Texas Public Schools Week, February 27 through March 3, 1995. This year's theme, "Texas Public Schools: A Landscape for Learning," celebrates the array of academic and extracurricular opportunities available to students attending the state's public schools.

"The community is encouraged to visit the Muenster schools throughout the school year," Steve Cooper said. "Texas Public Schools Week is an especially exciting time for visitors because so many events, from open house to special luncheons, are planned just for them."

"Each year, we plan Texas Public Schools Week as a celebration in which everyone in the community may take part," Mr. Cooper added. "This Week provides our district an opportunity to showcase the high quality education our students are receiving each day in our local schools. We invite the community to witness the Landscape for Learning available to all students in Muenster schools."

Texas Public Schools Week established more than 40 years ago by the Masonic Lodges of Texas to recognize the state's outstanding public education system. Schools across Texas celebrate Texas Public Schools Week by hosting a full slate of special activities and events designed to attract parents, families and the community onto school campuses for the week-long festivities.

For more information about Texas Public Schools Week, please contact your local school district at 759-2281.

Health care education funded for rural students

The Community Scholarship Program is providing two rural Texas students with the financial means to complete their health care professional education. In addition, 15 rural students have been chosen as Outstanding Rural Scholars by the Outstanding Rural Scholar Recognition Program.

Both programs are operated by the Center for Rural Health Initiatives, the same office of rural health. The programs allow sponsors to actively participate in securing health care professionals for their communities. The Center funds the students' education in partnership with local sponsors who will benefit from the services of the students after they finish their education. The deadline for the next round of selection for both the Community Scholarship Program and the Outstanding Rural Scholarship Program is Friday, May 12, 1995.

Over the past three years, 53 scholars and 33 rural communities have benefited from the Outstanding Rural Scholarship Recognition Program. Fifteen students from a statewide pool of applicants were chosen in 1994 as Outstanding Rural Scholars. They represent the cream of the crop of students studying to become rural health professionals.

Mary K. Endres, sponsored by the Muenster Memorial Hospital is among the Outstanding Rural Scholars selected in 1994. She is studying nursing.

Texas longstem bluebonnets arrive just in time for Valentine's Day!

Researchers have tossed a bouquet of bluebonnets into the lap of Texas' budding floriculture industry. But unlike the bluebonnets known to most Texans, these are long-stem, multicolored flowers that could blossom into a new commercial crop within two years.

Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry showcased the bluebonnets last week at a Dallas florist shop that is test marketing the flowers. He said the longstem beauties - which come in blue, pink and white - have arrived on the market just in time for Valentine's Day. "This year the ultimate Texas Valentine will be an arrangement of bluebonnets," he said.

Bluebonnets currently available were raised at research center greenhouses in Dallas and El Paso. Other small-size growers across the state have planted experimental outdoor plots, which will be harvested in April.

The cultivated bluebonnet's vase life is 7 to 10 days and the bluebonnets will retail for $2 to $3 a stem.

by Ed Cler
Last Saturday, 28th of Jan., thanks to Aileen and our kids and grandkids, we celebrated my 80th birthday. It was a most enjoyable get-together, and I must say I enjoyed it immensely, especially all the hugs and kisses, cards and good wishes that came my way, and they were many.

Some of my lovely granddaughters baked a big chocolate cake for the occasion, and when it was brought in and the singing of the "Happy Birthday" song was done, I noticed the cake was topped with a steer hitched to a two wheeled cart, and the words, "Ben Hur Rides Again". I simply broke into laughter as I remembered and had to relate the incident involving me and my brother Ray, so many years ago.

We were just young boys at the time and were petting a yearling calf we had hand raised. The steer had been running with the other cattle and was no longer as tame and gentle as he once was.

Ray and I had seen the silent movie, "Ben Hur" a short time before, and we wondered what kind of a chariot race we could have, if we hitched the steer to a two-wheeled utility cart I had built two or three years before, using a pair of 30" steel wheels, and a pair of shafts with a small platform. The cart turned out to be very useful and handy, much more so than a wheel barrow.

Well, to make a long story short, we got the steer hitched, after a fashion, using rope and pieces of harness.

Ray got aboard holding the ropes we had hoped he could control the animal with, and he advised me to "turn him loose", and get out of the way.

At first the beast just stood, then began to walk slowly, and as the steel wheels began to rattle as they rolled over gravel and small rocks, he began to run.

That's when Ray turned to me and yelled, "Ben Hur Rides Again"! And that is when everything began to go wrong. Ray found he had absolutely no control, and the steer, instead of following the road to the gate in the fence about 100 yds. east, chose to go directly toward the fence. Ray, quickly deciding discretion was the better part of valor, jumped off his chariot, and as he was tumbling over the grass, I stopped laughing long enough to hear the screeching of wire, as both the steer and cart somehow got through the fence, unhurt.

This strange setup continued down hill, the animal now in utter panic, and as we watched, the steer made a mighty leap to cross a good sized ditch. The cart flew up, the shafts pointing down, and landed just ahead of the steer who stumbled and ran directly over it. Needless to say, the shafts were broken as was the platform. So much for the cart.

There was little left to do but catch the steer, recover all the paraphernalia we used for harness, and pick up the pieces.

Fortunately for all, the calf was unhurt. Ray and I laid the pieces of the cart along a lot fence and, later when Dad asked what had happened to it, we told him the steer had run over it.

Not a lie - just a bit short of the truth.

The groom is the son of Neil and Gaelyn Fisher and grandson of the late Joe W. and Gertrude Fisher of Muenster and the late Arthur and Anna Marie Geistweidt of the Doss-Hilda area.

For her wedding the bride wore a gown following a 1700s theme designed and created by her aunt, Betty Izt of American-made off-white cotton brocade, with a scooped neckline adorned with handmade silk roses, dropped waistline, long sleeves, full skirt and a bustle of handmade silk roses and ribbon streamers.

Her floor length veil of tulle was attached with handmade silk roses. She carried burgundy roses, white stephanotis and greenery.

Suzi Hopf was her sister's maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Monica McGrann, Alyson Wheeler-Crow and Leslie Immel. They wore forest green shantung dresses and each carried a single burgundy rose.

Katrina Izt, LaShae Izt and Katie Loper were flower girls, wearing dark green cotton print dresses adorned with tiny roses and ribbons.

David Stamm was the best man. Groomsmen were Garrett Staats, Matthew Fisher, brother of the groom and Chris Hopf, brother of the bride. Dale Klein and Cody Bateman were ushers. Mary Ann Murchison, organist played "Bridal Chorus" for the processional and "Wedding March" for the recessional. Jim Korman sang "Precious Memories" and "Allgluia."

A reception, dinner and dance followed at the Old Munich Inn, hosted by the groom's parents. Decorations included wreaths of silk roses, pearls and ribbons surrounding glass lanterns, roses in green glass vases, a mistletoe tree and votive candles in glass containers.

The three-tier white bride's cake was adorned with silk flowers. The four-tier chocolate groom's cake, with apricot filling was decorated with a fisherman scene at a pond.

The rehearsal dinner was hosted by the bride's grandparents, Dean and Ola Mae Hopf.

Relatives attending the wedding from Muenster included the James Walterscheid family, the John Pagel family, the John Fishers and the Clyde Fishers.

Hooker retires due to health ... Willow Creek Gardens observes 20th anniversary

With the coming gardening season, Willow Creek Gardens will mark its 20th year yielding vegetables and fruit to area gardeners who have worked the fertile bottom land. Walter Grewing, who has been managing the garden cooperative during recent years has retired and his duties will be passed on to other members.

In 1975 the late J. M. Weinzapfel opened the Willow Creek Gardens to community use. The Gardens located on Maple Street between Highway 82 and Second Street in Muenster contain more than 20 plots 50 by 50 feet and others somewhat larger. Each plot is clearly delineated by railroad ties or other forms of boundary markers and each has individual water outlets for the hook-up of water sprinklers.

The idea was conceived by Mr. Weinzapfel some two or three years prior to 1975. His thought was the area, being vital bottom land, would be an ideal place for local individuals who do not have sufficient space at their homes to enjoy gardening. He spent many hours laboring to clear the area of growth and debris, developing the location and size of the various plots, establishing road networks for plot access and installation of the irrigation system which draws water from the local lake.

During that period the late Julia Weinzapfel often remarked that she felt she and her husband should just move to the gardens. It was a true labor of love on his part and they both experienced much joy from its utilization.

Over the past 20 years the gardens have been generated as a cooperative or club. Each participating member is assessed dues to provide funds for the payment of road and water system upkeep, electricity and other requirements. The current fee is $50 per year for a 50 by 50 foot plot. The larger plots are slightly more. The gardens will continue to operate under such an arrangement.

Until his incapacitation some years ago Mr. Weinzapfel personally managed plot assignments, financial matters, and garden maintenance. When he could no longer perform those functions he passed control to his daughter, Juanita Bright, who then appointed Walter "Hooker" Grewing to run the actual operation.

Bright is lavish in her praise of Grewing for the job he and his wife, Carol, have done over the years. The gardens have served as a showcase of the community.

"Growing almost made the project a full-time, without pay, job insuring and personally doing a great share of the work essential in maintaining the gardens in such state as to reflect credit on the community," said Mrs. Bright. Special recognition for a job well done are extended to Hooker and Carol as he relinquished his duties for health reasons.

More than 55 individuals or families have experienced the joy of gardening in Willow Creek Gardens during the past 20 years. Bright hopes to continue that tradition. Other appointments and arrangements have been made. Instead of loading one individual with all the responsibilities, Bright said that they are being spread among the participating members.

Edgar Dyer will handle all financial and plot assignments. Tom Vogel will be responsible for maintaining the water system and supervising road upkeep. Others are expected to participate in the upkeep of the peripheral areas and unused plots.

Since the spring gardening season is near, individuals desiring to participate this year should contact Mr. Dyer as soon as possible for plot assignments. Members from last year have the option of keeping the same plot or selecting another from those available. The latter is on a first come first serve basis. First-time members or those returning after a one or more seasons absence will receive like consideration. Payment of dues is to be made at the time of plot request and assignment.

Willow Creek Gardens offers an opportunity to the gardener not often found in most communities. It provides the environment for mutual exchanges in gardening methods and practices along with good fellowship and neighborly cooperation.

Cubs honored with banquet Feb. 5

The 85th anniversary of Boy Scouting in America and the 65th anniversary of Cub Scouting in America occurred in February and were observed in Muenster on Sunday, Feb. 5, by Cub Scout Pack #664 and Boy Scout Troop #664.

A special liturgy was included in the 10:30 a.m. Mass in Sacred Heart Church. Celebrant was Father David Bellinghausen, OSB, assisted by Father Joe Weinzapfel.

All Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and adult leaders were included in the entrance procession which was led by the flag bearers, Boy Scouts Jeff Hartman and Russell Fette; and Cub Scouts Michael Voth, Adam Bayer and Eric Endres, with the Cub Scout Manual.

Mass servers were Jonathan Bayer, Stephen Bartush and Jacob Endres.

Presenting the First Liturgical Reading, the Responsorial Psalm and the Second Liturgical Reading were Daniel Bartush, Jack Biffle and Eric Fisher, respectively.

The total Boy Scout Troop participated in the Offertory petition. David Walterscheid, Derek Felderhoff and Daniel Rohmer presented Offertory gifts at the altar.

Eucharistic Ministers were parents of Scouts, Leonard and Patti Bayer and Sam and Karen Endres.

The annual Blue and Gold Banquet at noon in the VFW Hall was the following event of the Cub Scout observance, themed "Great Events of Scouting."

4-H'ers Share the Fun

The Annual 4-H Share the Fun Contest will be held on Sat. Feb. 11, at 7:00 p.m., at the Gainesville Middle School Auditorium.

Share the Fun is just one of the many projects that is offered to the youth of Cooke County through the 4-H Youth Organization. "4-H is a Family Affair." If it were not for the families of Cooke County coming together to watch their children participate in this 4-H project, Share the Fun would not be as successful as it has been in the past.

Some of you may be wondering what exactly is Share the Fun? This project involves Junior and Senior teams that can have up to nine members each. They have several categories to choose from—Comedian/Poet, Vocal/Musical, Dance, Drama, and Celebrating 4-H. A maximum of ten minutes is allowed for each act; six minutes of performance time and four minutes of preparation time. Each skit is judged and placed. The first place Junior and Senior teams in each category advance to the District 4-H level of competition. The Senior team in each category that wins at District will participate in the State 4-H contest in June at College Station.

It is true that this project is a 4-H event and the participants are strictly 4-H youth, but Share the Fun provides a way to bring families all together. We hope that by experiencing the enjoyment of watching your child or grandchild perform will be encouragement enough to unite families of young and old. The 4-H organization prides itself on making Share the Fun a true "Family Affair." So, families of Cooke County help us, the Extension Agents, to Share the Fun by planning to attend this year's contest.

"Africa in the Americas" is being presented by the Cooke County Heritage Society to promote an ongoing dialogue about the background of the New World, common aspects of the heritage of American countries, north and south, and what we may look forward to in the coming century.

Centuries ago, Africa and the Americas were one land. Then a cataclysmic event moved them an ocean apart. And this is essentially how they stayed, until the 16th century.

To explore this area of New World history, the Cooke County Heritage Society is sponsoring a traveling exhibit, "Africa in the Americas," which will be on display at the Morton Museum of Cooke County through Feb. 15.

The exhibit is free and open to the public. For more information, please call the Morton Museum of Cooke County at 817-668-8900.

Tigerettes in playoffs, face Pantego Saturday

The Sacred Heart Tigerettes are heading for the TAPPS Class 1A Bi-District playoffs, but first they must play one more game. Sacred Heart and Pantego Christian are presently tied for first place in district. A 3rd match-up will be played Saturday, Feb. 11, at 3 p.m. at Billy Ryan High School in Denton. The winner of this game will be named district champions and get the #1 seed in the playoffs.

If the Tigerettes win, they will play the bi-district game locally. If they lose, they have to travel to Amarillo on Tuesday.

"The girls are really becoming focused as we prepare for our title run," commented Coach Jon LeBrasseur. "We need to go out and take care of business Saturday so we can earn home court for Tuesday - as you can see the importance of Saturday's game."

Coach Jon continued, "This team impresses me with each practice! We are growing up as a good team." LeBrasseur credits seniors Tiffany Fisher, Sarina Fuhrmann and Jennifer Fuhrmann for creating good chemistry among this team.

To get to the game Saturday afternoon, take 135 to Hwy. 380. Travel east on 380 to Loop 288 South. Travel 288 South to McKinney Street, turn left on McKinney Street and travel 1 mile. The school is on the left. When on campus, travel left on the one-way and then back right. Park and follow the signs.

Golf Gab

by Dot Endres

With the mild winter days, playing golf continues strong at Turtle Hill Golf Course. The putting greens are in excellent condition and, with spring just around the corner, the fairways will soon be green again.

Muenster Golf Association held their monthly tournament in January and February. Winners for January: 1st, Tom Flusche, Dick Murphy, Don and Dot Endres; 2nd, Brian Hess, Phil Sanders, Randy Tankersley and Leo Hess; 3rd, Jim Endres, Kim Walterscheid, Earl Fisher and Earl Hess.

February winners: 1st, Joe Hennigan, Bob Hermes, Earl Fisher and Ray Wimmer; 2nd, Kenny

Hartman, Dale Swirczynski, Randy Tankersley and Melvin Hess.

As in any game, there are rules and/or regulations. This holds true when playing the game of golf. When learning to play the game, it is just as important to learn the rules as well as learning how to hold or swing the club.

That's par from Turtle Hill!

TDH officials impose rabies quarantine

The Texas Department of Health (TDH) issued a rabies quarantine in Texas on Jan. 13 to combat a spread of the lethal disease in wild animals and pets in certain areas of the state.

TDH officials declared an Area Rabies Quarantine for all of Texas. This action prohibits the movement of the following animals within or from Texas: dogs and cats that have not been vaccinated against rabies within the past 12 months, coyotes, foxes, raccoons, skunks, bats and all hybrids (including, but not limited to, dog-coyote and dog-wolf crosses).

Dogs and cats being transported by air, automobile or any other means should be accompanied by a rabies vaccination certification issued within the last 12 months. Violation of the quarantine is a Class C misdemeanor.

TDH officials said these quarantine rules supersede any permits to own, breed or sell wild or exotic animals issued by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, US Department of Agriculture or other authorizing agency.

For more information, contact the TDH's zoonosis control division at (512)458-7255.

Equine courses begin February 18 at NCTC

The Division of Continuing Education at North Central Texas College (NCTC) will be offering a series of True Horsemanship Seminars, the first one beginning Saturday, February 18.

Eddie Rodriguez will be presenting all three seminars. "Rodriguez has a solid background including 25 years of experience training with a wide variety of techniques for horses entering all disciplines," said Kay Moody, continuing education co-ordinator. "His specialty is the initial training of the young horse, but his top professional is extremely proficient in turning a 'problem' horse into a horse that is willing to cooperate with the owner."

"Starting the Young Horse" will introduce participants to an approach for young horses that emphasizes a gentle refining of the horse's innate tendency to please the trainer. The seminar will meet Saturday, Feb. 18 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Students will be taught how the mind of the horse works along with step by step instructions to help the trainer key on positive steps leading to rapid response during the training sessions.

"Students from 'Training the Young Horse' would be beneficial in taking the second series, 'Advancing the Young Horse,'" Rodriguez said. "Students will concentrate on round pen education, spook-proofing the horse, proper use of reins, cues, leads, and the making of a higher performance horse." The class will be held Saturday, March 25 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

"The Problem Horse" will be a "hands-on" training course. Students may bring their own horse or audit the class. Rodriguez will evaluate and help students correct their horses' problem areas, as well as discuss general problem areas -- shy horse, problem loader, barn sour horse, hard-to-catch horse and hard-to-shoe horse. The course will meet Saturday, April 22 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Equine Artificial Insemination will discuss how to set up a program for the small breeder. The course will cover what is needed and how to start a breeding program. Students will have a live demonstration on how semen is collected from a stallion and how to inseminate a mare. That course will meet Saturday, April 15 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

"Equine Sports Massage Therapy Clinic" is for owners who mainly ride on weekends or for special occasions," said Moody. "This course will help students acquire basic massage skills necessary to keep their horses relaxed and in good condition." Students will need to bring a box of crayons to class. Equine Sports Massage Therapy will meet Saturday, April 29 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

"Continuing Education hopes to continue to bring the variety of equine courses requested from the community," said Moody. "If there is a course that you would like offered, please call us at (817) 668-4272.

County Agent's Report

by Craig Rosenbaum

ENTRIES DUE FOR 4-H LIVESTOCK SHOW

The 4-H Livestock Show is scheduled for Sat., Feb. 25, at the Cooke County Fairgrounds. 4-H members who plan to enter this year's livestock show need to have their entries in the County Extension Office by 5 p.m. on Fri., Feb. 17. This entry includes an entry form, a project record form, and an entry fee of $5 per animal. Rules, entry forms and project record forms are available through the County Extension Office.

COMMODITY PRICING WORKSHOP

Agriculture producers growing various feed grains and wheat have an opportunity to use various pricing methods in order to lock in commodity prices. A workshop will be held at 7 p.m., Thurs., Feb. 23, at the Cooke County Farm Bureau Building located on Highway 82 in Gainesville. At this workshop, Ken Stokes, Extension Economist, will cover the various pricing alternatives including forward contracts, futures, and commodity options. Also, there will be a discussion on a Marketing Plan to set targets. Ronnie Felderhoff of Muenster Milling will review past and present pricing opportunities at the workshop. Due to limited seating, we ask that you call the Extension Office 668-5412 to reserve a space at the workshop.

WARM SEASON PERENNIAL PASTURE GRASSES

Over the past several weeks we have discussed Bermudagrass and establishment of warm season pasture grasses. Cooke County producers have several seeded type warm season perennial grasses that provide good grazing opportunities for cattle. These include Kleingrass and the various Bluestems. One of the most important considerations to make when considering a seeded grass is seed size and texture when planting. Kleingrass has a very small slick seed and can be difficult to accurately plant with conventional drills or broadcasting. When planting at 2 lbs. of PLS (pure live seed) per acre, the calibration becomes very important. One method that producers use is a broadcast method. Another method would be to use a small seed attachment on a grain drill or to use one of the Brillion type drop seeders. Kleingrass is very palatable to beef cattle but has been known to cause some toxicity problems in horses and sheep. Some of the advantages of this bunch grass is its palatability, drought tolerance, excellent hay quality, and moderate fertilizer requirement. Kleingrass 75 was released in 1968 and producers in Cooke County have grown this bunch grass for many years.

Another grass receiving wide acceptance throughout the county is the various Bluestems including a group called "Old World Bluestems." One of the most widely planted of the Old World Bluestem varieties in the county is Plains. This is a variety that was released by the Oklahoma Agricultural Experiment Station in 1972. This variety is a composite of 30 similar grasses from six different old world countries. The Old World Bluestems have one disadvantage—the seed are fluffy. This necessitates the use of some broadcast planter or an EZ Flow type drop spreader. Some drill companies currently make a fluffy seed attachment for planting this type of seed. Planting rates run about 2 lbs. of PLS per acre for pasture and hay purposes.

Grazing management on both of these types of bunch grasses is critical. Rotational grazing seems to help in stand maintenance.

Seedbed preparation is extremely important and your best stands usually result from seedbeds prepared well in advance of planting. A firm seedbed for these small or fluffy seed is very important. One test that we ran on the Dangelmayr Brothers Farm south of Muenster showed an increase in stand of Old World Bluestem from prepacking the seedbed with a Brillion seeder, planting, and then an additional Brillion pack following planting. Poor seedbed preparation will usually result in poor stands of any type of grass. These grasses should be established after soil temperatures begin to warm. Most seeded grasses are planted following our last killing frost date. This would put our seeding date sometime around April in our area.

ICA urges Texas beef for prison inmates

Texas prison inmates should eat beef produced in the Lone Star State rather than a soy-based meat substitute imported from Canada, the head of the Independent Cattlemen's Association of Texas (ICA) said last week.

Jim Selman, ICA president from Gonzales, urged the Texas Department of Criminal Justice to take another look at plans to serve inmates at more than 60 prisons a soy-based product known as VitaPro.

Beef production is a major Texas industry, with more than half of the state's total agricultural cash receipts coming from the sale of cattle. According to the Texas Department of Agriculture, Texas had 14.3 million head of cattle in January 1993 - more than the entire human population of Florida.

"Instead of sending our tax money out of the state to buy a Canadian product, we should be supporting an industry that provides Texans with jobs," Selman said.

"Beef production is the economic mainstay for many of our rural communities. It's an industry that we must and should support," Selman added. "So, let our prisoners eat beef - that's what I say."

The prison system last month announced plans to market and distribute VitaPro, produced in Montreal by VitaPro Foods Inc. At state prison units, it will be used as a meat substitute.
