CC Sheriff's Department gets go-ahead on new car purchases

by Janet Felderhoff

After wrestling with the problem of what was budgeted versus what is needed, the Cooke County Commissioners Court decided to buy two new police cars for the Cooke County Sheriff's Department instead of the planned three. Bids had been requested for three full-size cars meeting specifications set by the county.

Endres Motor Company of Muenster submitted a bid, but warned that the closing date to order vehicles with those specifications was February 15. Brown Motor Company replied to the bid, but said their deadline to order such vehicles had already passed.

A bid of $15,985.00 for each 1995 Crown Victoria was submitted for a total of $47,055.00 less $1450.00 for the trade in of two 1987 vehicles, making the bid for $46,505.00 for three 1995 vehicles.

Precinct 4 Commissioner Virgil Hess remarked that the budgeted amount for new vehicles for the Sheriff's Department was $42,000.00 and that purchasing three cars at the bid amount would put them over the budget. He also reminded those present that it would cost an additional $1500.00 to $2,000.00 to equip the cars with lights, sirens, and decals.

To stay within the budget all voted in favor of buying two cars from Endres providing that the bid amount stood. Two cars were purchased for $31,970.00.

Persons attending Commissioners Court meetings will have the opportunity to offer suggestions, opinions or to ask questions before any motion is made on actions to be taken by Commissioners Court. The court voted to allow short controlled input by audience members, who must give their name and the precinct they live in, before a motion is made on any agenda item.

Rusty Duncan, speaking on behalf of the Brushy Mound Cemetery Association, asked that three acres in the Brushy Mound Cemetery title be transferred from the county judge back to the non-profit cemetery association. They are seeking a deed without a warranty and will pay the surveying cost if Commissioners Court favored the transfer. Approval was given subject to the approval of Cooke County Attorney August Boto.

Other action taken by the Commissioners Court in the Feb. 13 meeting included:

- *Appointed Judge Hesse to the Cooke County Preservation and Maintenance Committee along with Ona B. Reed, Betty Buttolph, Rosalee Bayer, and Margaret Hayes.

- *Resolved to encourage the formation of Cooke County Animal Control Committee. Agreeing to serve on that committee were Gordon Yeargan, DVM, Ed Hinkle, Reagan Vestle, Annette Longtin, and Tommie Kirksmith.

- *Reviewed and approved revisions to the Commissioners Court Agenda Request Form.

- *Waived usage fee for Texas Veteran's Land Board meeting on March 21.

- *Read and accepted the Cooke County Historical Committee's annual report.

- *Accepted the bid from Guaranty National Bank for the Cooke County Depository contract.

- *Hired Greg Blaise, an attorney with a Fort Worth firm, to represent Cooke County.

- *Approved minutes of last meeting.

- *Approved monthly bills.

- *Approved monthly reports.

A MUENSTER LANDMARK, known to the younger generation as "The Ranch," will soon be leveled for the expansion of Fischer's Meat Market. Original plans to restore the building were changed when it was discovered the building was unstable. Historically known as the Wolf Building, the structure was built in 1927. Janie Hartman Photo

Unfunded state mandates spell greater tax burden

by MISD Supt. Steve Cooper

We've heard a lot lately about unfunded mandates from government. This has been in reference to our national government where the House of Representatives has passed a bill that would give some relief in this area from the federal government. That mentality needs to be embraced on the state level. School districts are still being inundated by unfunded state mandates. Some that have been passed down recently (the last few years) that have been/will shortly be implemented are: a records management program whereby each school district must have a plan in place outlining what they will do with paperwork generated each year. Most paperwork generated in a normal school day cannot be destroyed and must be identified according to its type, which determines how long it will have to be preserved. Another new, unfunded mandate is what the state calls a pest management program. Districts can no longer randomly use pesticides, they must have trained and certified personnel to do this. It was brought to my attention that training and certification would cost about $300 for each person receiving the training. There would also be a yearly recertification that would be an expense to all the districts.

While these particular examples of unfunded mandates seem to be minor in expense - keep in mind that time also translates into money and all carry a time price tag, some much more so than others. In January of 1996, schools our size must begin random drug testing of bus drivers. I see this requirement expanding to other personnel areas in the future. This of course is another unfunded mandate and we have no idea the total ramifications of this requirement, but it has the potential to be very expensive in light of the legalities involved in protecting employees privacy rights, etc.

Bayer heads physical therapy unit at MMH

by Janet Felderhoff

In its ever increasing effort to meet the needs of people in the area, Muenster Memorial Hospital has opened a physical therapy unit. Rita Bayer is now working there five days a week. She is a licensed physical therapist.

Rita has worked at the Physical Therapy Center in Gainesville since her graduation from TWU in August of 1990 where she earned a Bachelor of Science degree. She is now set up to offer the service in Room 101. It will provide a needed local service to Muenster Hospital's inpatients, swing bed patients, Home Care clients and also cover area residents who are not in the hospital, but who need physical therapy.

Physical therapy is the treatment of patients to relieve pain, develop or restore function and maintain maximum performance following disease, injury or loss of a body part by using specific evaluation techniques and physical means such as exercise, manipulation, therapeutic massage, heat, water and electricity. Examples of patients who might benefit from physical therapy include those with orthopedic problems such as fractures and joint replacement; amputees, those weakened following disease; cardiopulmonary such as heart surgery; neurological such as stroke, closed head injuries, brain injuries; and ones with work related injuries such as back problems. Another type of healing therapy that Rita hopes to incorporate in the future is wound care.

A physical therapist is licensed to perform evaluation and set up individual treatments according to the patient's needs. They work under physician referrals.

Rita is excited about working in Muenster and invites the public to come by and see what is available or to ask questions. She can be contacted by calling 759-2271.

Perry seeks 2nd chance on beer license for bar

by Janet Felderhoff

Since there is no limit on the number of times that an individual can apply for a beer and wine license, Steven W. Perry has filed a second request that he be granted a license in Muenster. Perry plans to open Steve's Saloon in the building on Main Street that was formerly operated as Floyd's Bar. Rufus Henscheid is the owner of the building.

Judge Jim Robertson denied an application for a beer and wine license requested by Perry at a public hearing held on Feb. 9, 1995, in the Cooke County Court. Robertson ruled that he was denying the application of Perry and one sought by Carol Murphy for Carol's Place (also on Main Street) because, "I find that in regard to both applicants that they may conduct their business in such a manner as violates the public health, welfare, peace, morals, safety, and sense of decency of the people."

This decision was supported by letters from at least 13 concerned citizens and testimony from more than a half dozen more. Many of them described the many problems caused by patrons of two bars, The Ranch and Floyd's, previously operated on Main Street. The residents and business owners cited numerous acts of vandalism suffered by their businesses; trash scattered about their buildings and parking lots which included beer bottles, used condoms, underwear and human feces and urine; lives lost because of fights or excess consumption while in the establishment; and feelings of risk to those forced to work at night while the bars are open.

Cooke County Judge Paul Hesse will hold the public hearing for Steven Perry's application Thursday, March 2 at 2 p.m. in the county courtroom. Perry has hired an attorney to represent him at the March hearing.

Muenster ISD sets May 6 for election

Muenster Independent School District will hold an election for school trustees on May 6, 1995. Two positions will be open. Clifford Sicking and Peggy Lutkenhaus terms are expiring. The last day to sign up for a position on the ballot is March 22, 1995. Early voting will be done at the MISD Administration Building beginning April 17, 1995 and ending May 2, 1995.

EMERGENCY VEHICLES responded to an accident on East Hwy. 82 in Muenster on Wednesday evening shortly after 6 p.m., near Bayer's Kolonialwaren. The accident occurred as the eastbound 18-wheeler collided with a pickup driven by John Streng as he attempted to enter the highway. Streng suffered only minor cuts and bruises. Muenster Volunteer Fire Department trucks and rescue truck, Muenster Police Department, Cooke County EMS ambulance and rescue unit and Department of Public Safety trooper responded. A call to CareFlight was canceled when injuries proved to be less than at first feared. Dave Fette Photo

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:
To most people in Muenster, I am probably too young to understand all this. I do understand that Muenster is a very prejudiced town. When two people not from Muenster (outsiders) want to try to open a business, everyone goes crazy. Yes, there have been some problems, but we should let them at least have a chance. The past is the past, and the future could prove to be better.

I think it is extremely funny that everyone is willing to fight against these two bars, because Muenster is a "Christian community." Well, if this is true, then what about Germanfest? Every April the residents of Muenster constantly complain about the Germanfest weekend. The reason Germanfest goes on is because the "outsiders" come and make everyone money. Many people suffer damages during Germanfest. Trash, cars parked in yards, shrubs and plants being destroyed, and people urinating on everything in sight are some of the damages done. Why should Muenster residents be forced to clean their yards, if this just happens every year? Children witness more disorderly conduct at Germanfest than they ever could going to a local business.

The repairs that were already made at the bars were improving the looks. People are so worried about the young children and that we are a Christian community. There is absolutely no place for kids to go except the drag. If you don't want the kids to be exposed to bad things, then alcohol should not be sold in Muenster. It is a person's belief and the way he was brought up that influences his life - not bars, alcohol, slimy condoms, human waste or anything else.

I think the whole town should vote on this issue. We are a wet town. Kids that drink at other's houses or even at the bars are a lot safer than being on the streets or driving to the next local place. Most parents are not ready to admit that their children do drink. After all, it is how many are raised, and the beerfest in April is a very big influence on kids. Get us something to do in this town and maybe we won't have to go to the bars to have something to do.

We are always told not to judge a book by its cover. Well, give these two bars a chance to prove themselves different. Everyone tries to encourage the residents to buy and do things in Muenster, then what about having to drive to Lindsay or Gainesville to go to a bar? Now that both bars are not open, the local businesses find it necessary to complain. The bars have been in this area longer than some of the businesses. Everyone needs to just calm down and have a town vote on this issue. If you don't want to go to anymore young people's funerals, then get us something to do.

Sincerely,
Holly Mullins

City of Gainesville seeks pool personnel

The City of Gainesville is accepting applications for pool personnel in the Community Services Department. These positions are for temporary, part-time employment and require lifeguard certification, CPR and Basic First Aid Certification.

Classes to get certified will be set up later, according to Milburn Cravens of the Gainesville Community Services Office. For more information, contact Cravens at 817-665-8871 or go by 214 East Main in Gainesville.

To the Editor of The Muenster Enterprise,

On the issue of Steve Perry and Carol Murphy. All I can see here is the rich keeping the poor out. Being out-of-town people is a good thing - you should always welcome new people.

The truck that was stole from Fischer's was a drunk that could as well get his beer from Fischer's as at Floyd's. All the other things mentioned could have been done by anyone. This has got nothing to do with Christianity. Telling people they are not welcome is not being a Christian.

About 95 percent of the people in Muenster think these licenses should be issued - 13 probably for selfish reasons think not.

Let Paul Hesse put his decision out front. We don't need Jim Robinson (sic) doing his dirty work. The City Council should vote on this and not table it. I say people opposing this - you should make it right or go to confession and say Father I have sinned. What have you gained if you gain the whole world and lose your soul?

YOU OUGHT'A KNOW

ARE WE THIRSTY OR WHAT? It's amazing how much WATER it takes to wash dishes, take baths and showers, water lawns, cook and just drink a wonderful, clear, cold, glass of Muenster water.

The following is in gallons

Year	Peak day	Peak month	Yearly Total
1971	707,000	14,350,000	91,783,000
1981	664,000	16,411,000	104,920,000
1991	831,000	16,457,000	116,432,000
1994	724,000	15,307,000	111,179,000

Through the years the amounts have not always gone up. They have varied as you can see from 91 to 94 the water need decreased from the previous period. However the trend is clear. Muenster needs more water as the years go on, it's a fact of life. I just thought YOU OUGHT'A KNOW.

Schools or prisons: where's your money going?

from the Era ISD Newsletter

Texas has a growing population in both the public schools and prisons. The student population is growing about 75,000 each year in Texas while the prison population has grown to over 100,000 in 1994. Texas public schools spent an average of $4,403 per student (excluding interest payments) for 180 days of instruction. In 1994, it cost Texas $19,345 to feed, clothe, house and supervise an inmate for one year which is about twice the cost of going to school at the University of Texas. The highest prison tab in the nation, $58,361 per prisoner, is found at New York's River Island, an 18,000 bed community of 10 city jails that averages more than $160 per day per prisoner. Texas will spend $4 billion or 5.7% of the states' $70 billion budget on criminal justice operations in 1994. Texas public schools will spend approximately $19 billion for operations, debt service and capital improvements.

New laws are being enacted to increase time served by prisoners (the average prisoner served less than 50% of his sentence in 1992). With less turnover more prison beds will be needed. Different types of prisons will also be needed for the rising number of violent offenders, juveniles, women and those with special medical needs. The percentage of women in prisons is rising rapidly--with over half being substance abusers. Texas has tried to hold down the cost of prisons by (1) privatizing out some operations, food service, medical care, education and vocational training, (2) building in various regions of the state, and (3) through the construction of inexpensive dormitory-style prefabricated metal-panel building for low-to-medium security inmates. Schools have tried to lower cost by contracting out food service, janitorial, and transportation operations. Public schools and prisons constantly are dealing with court ordered, legislative and federal mandates that cost money. The price to get tough on criminals will be expensive. The price of educating students that will contribute to society, rather than becoming a burden to it, is far less than paying to house felons.

Public schools are basically still governed by locally elected board members. With your input and support, public schools will continue to meet the challenges of fiscal responsibility, changing technology, developing curriculum for a growing student population with new and diverse needs, and working to prepare our children for tomorrow's workplace and society. (Texas Architect, January, 95 and Bench Marks, July 94).

consideration existing mandates like: asbestos management programs, lead testing programs, and chemical identification policies, we can see quickly that these unfunded mandates always translate into more expense.

Unfunded mandates have a devastating effect on local districts. These mandates mean additional cost to the districts which eventually mean a greater tax burden.

Each unfunded mandate makes it easier and easier to see the intrusion of "Big Brother" into our daily operations.

Rylander announces first step toward trucking deregulation

The first step toward deregulation of intrastate trucking was approved late last year by members of the Texas Railroad Commission. Simplified vehicle registration and insurance registration rules contemplated by recent federal legislation preempting economic regulation of the trucking industry were adopted by the Commission.

Newly sworn-in Commissioner Carole Keeton Rylander, a strong advocate for abolishing the present antiquated system, aggressively urged her fellow Commissioners to act quickly to repeal all existing regulations regarding market entry and rates in order to implement complete deregulation as required by the federal law.

Commissioner Rylander called for further review and consideration of all existing Motor Transportation Regulations relating to "a price, route, or service," and called on the Commission to repeal all regulations, permits, certificates, rates and tariffs necessary to fully implement deregulation of intrastate trucking in Texas.

Additionally, Rylander instructed Railroad Commission staff to prepare recommendations under which the Commission can grant, under existing law, relief to household goods carriers concerning market entry and rates and tariffs. Under the federal law, states may still strictly regulate household goods carriers.

"An historic step has been taken by the Texas Railroad Commission. Texas consumers and Texas jobs have long suffered in this state because of unfair trucking regulation. It's time to eliminate our obsolete trucking regulations and remove restrictive barriers that have cost consumers more for everything from blue jeans to Blue Bell," said Rylander.

Guest Editorial by Texas residents

Dr. Suzanna Gratia, Martha Hayden and Micky Voorhees

On Oct. 16, 1991, in Killeen, Texas, an armed homicidal maniac methodically killed 22 people and then himself, facing no resistance from the scores of potential victims including Dr. Suzanna Gratia. Dr. Gratia was dining with her parents when the assailant began his shooting spree. She had left her pistol in the car because Texas law prohibits law-abiding citizens the right to carry firearms for personal protection. On numerous occasions during the massacre the killer had his back turned to her, even pausing to reload. Helpless, she could only watch as 22 people, including her parents, were killed.

For too long now, law-abiding Americans have been so caught up in just trying to keep their guns that the option of carrying these guns for personal protection seemed a distant dream. Until now. About a third of the states grant law-abiding citizens the right to carry firearms for personal protection after being granted a permit. Vermont, which has one of the lowest crime rates in the nation, requires no permit at all.

The critics of the right-to-carry argue that law-abiding citizens can't be trusted, they are neither intelligent enough to choose for themselves nor responsible enough to avoid shooting a stranger over a minor traffic dispute. But the facts speak for themselves: none of the horror stories have ever materialized in any state that has enacted a fair permit system.

Martha Hayden pulled up to the apartment complex in Dallas. What she didn't know was that she was being followed. As she locked her car and proceeded across the street, an assailant appeared out of nowhere and pulled a gun on her. The attacker robbed her and then pistol whipped her. He had other plans. She tossed her purse in the yard and as the assailant went to retrieve the purse she ran and hid in the bushes. A neighbor who heard her screams called the police. Ms. Hayden needed 300 stitches.

In the states that have trusted their citizens with the right to carry, the statistics are overwhelmingly in favor of the law-abiding. But that shouldn't come as any surprise. The American gun owner has long proven to be extremely responsible.

The state of Florida is a good example of how government and citizens can work together to protect civil rights and reduce crime. In 1987, Florida enacted its right to carry legislation. The critics predicted doomsday. Prematurely, Florida was dubbed the "gunshine" state. Now, however, the newspapers and the political detractors have been forced to eat their words. State Senator Ron Silver, who originally opposed the legislation, recently concluded, "I am pleasantly surprised to find out that it's working pretty well." Senator Silver shouldn't have been surprised. As John Russi, Director, Florida Division of Licensing pointed out in the same interview, "You need to keep in mind, that most people that obtain [permits] are for legitimate purpose[s] and they're not the people committing crimes. People that commit crimes are crooks and are not going to obtain a concealed weapons license." Between October of 1987 and November of 1994, 266,607 permits were granted. Of those, only 18 or 0.00675 % have been revoked because of a firearms infraction.

As crime rises and police department resources become stretched to their limit, the need for the right-to-carry has become critical for many Americans. Not only are police resources inadequate in many parts of the nation, police departments have no duty to provide protection to individuals. In the District of Columbia, three women were raped, beaten, robbed and held captive for fourteen hours -- fourteen hours after the initial phone call to 911 asking for police assistance. The women sued the District of Columbia, but the court ruled in Warren v District of Columbia: a fundamental principle of American law [is] that a government and its agents are under no general duty to provide public services, such as police protection, to any individual citizen.

MIKEY VOORHEES was on a family outing, a hunting trip to the Guadalupe Mountains, with her husband and son. One morning while the father and son had left camp to hunt, MIKEY thought it would be a good time to practice shooting with a new pistol her husband had bought her. She went into her tent and strapped on the .380 Llama before she finished some morning chores. A short time later a station wagon came up the trail and into camp. Out of the station wagon climbed eight men who were either drunk or on drugs. As the men approached her, they were shouting obscenities and telling her exactly what they planned on doing to her. MIKEY stepped from behind the camp stove with her hand on her firearm. The men froze instantly in their tracks and retreated so quickly to the car that the driver started to drive away before they had all gotten back into the car.

People who carry firearms for personal protection often find themselves reluctant heroes. On Dec. 17, 1991, in Anniston, Alabama, two armed robbers with recently stolen pistols herded 20 employees of a Shoney's restaurant into the walk-in refrigerator. What the armed intruders didn't count on was an armed citizen. Thomas Glen Terry was hiding under a table and when the opportunity presented itself he confronted the assailants, killing one and critically wounding the other. Terry had a permit to carry because the state of Alabama believes, as Thomas Jefferson once said, that "Laws that forbid the carrying of arms... disarm only those who are neither inclined nor determined to commit crimes..." Such laws make things worse for the assaulted and better for the assailants; they serve rather to encourage than to prevent homicides, for an unarmed man may be attacked with greater confidence than an armed man."

Invitation issued to MISD Open House

Consider yourself invited to the best event in town next week - that's Texas Public Schools Week in Muenster ISD Feb. 27 through March 3.

Once each year, schools throughout Texas designate one full week to "strutting their stuff." Special events such as science fairs, open houses, student art exhibits and poetry readings are planned and practiced and performed in your honor. All you have to do is show up for the celebration. Open House for MISD grades K-12 is Tuesday, Feb. 28, and Monday, Feb. 27 at 6 p.m. for Pre-K.

This year's Texas Public Schools Week theme is "Texas Public Schools: A Landscape for Learning," designed to recognize and celebrate the diverse opportunities - from science and math to the arts, sports and foreign languages - available to students of all ages. And each day, local students have something special planned for the citizens of Muenster.

Texas Public Schools Week is a great way to stay abreast of what's happening on your local campuses. It's easy. It's free. And, most importantly, it's for the kids. Accept that invitation today.

Ag Science students prepare for Open House

by Cody Klement
FFA Reporter

The Muenster ISD Agricultural Science students have been preparing for the open house project show, which will be held on February 28. Students have been busy with classroom and shop work in preparation for open house. The junior high students have built book stands, and the high school students built the following: Bar-B-Q pits, picnic tables, butane cookers, car ramps, landscape plans, and post drivers. In conjunction with the open house the FFA members have built several items to be used in a silent auction to be held during open house. Members will have on display for the auction a Bar-B-Q pit smoker on a trailer, a backyard Bar-B-Q pit smoker and a fajita cooker, gas grill and griddle combination.

On behalf of the FFA we would like to extend an invitation to everyone to open house and encourage them to support the FFA and Agricultural Science Department through the silent auction.

Pay as you throw

A handful of Texas cities have discovered that charging households by how much they throw away -- rather than a flat garbage fee -- can put a major dent in what goes to the landfill.

"This system treats our garbage just like your gas or electric bill and is an effective way to reduce solid waste going to landfills," said Mark Everts, community recycling specialist at the Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission. "If you put out less garbage, you pay less. This 'pay-as-you-throw' system has helped communities around the country reduce their residential waste by 20 to 60 percent."

As disposal costs go up and as siting new landfills becomes more difficult, Texas cities are looking for new ways to cut down on what must be taken to the landfill.

At least five Texas cities -- College Station, Weimar, Hallettsville, Plano and Austin -- either have or are phasing in pay-as-you-throw programs. Four of the five cities have committed to reduce solid waste by 50 percent by the year 2000 as members of the TNRCC's CLEAN CITIES 2000 program.

Cities around the country have found that by charging more for increasing quantities of waste, residences and businesses are encouraged to cut back on their garbage -- both by participating in recycling programs and by cutting waste at its source.

Hallettsville, which has already cut its solid waste by roughly one-third, uses one of several common variable rate structures. Residents purchase specially marked garbage bags that are priced to reflect disposal costs. The bag fee is their garbage fee -- there's no monthly bill.

Other cities use different-sized containers, charging a higher monthly fee for larger containers. Another method is to weigh each residence's garbage as it goes onto the truck.

"If I put out 10 bags of trash every week and you put out only one -- and we both pay the same price for the service -- there's no financial incentive to reduce waste by recycling," Everts said. "At the same time, you can't expect the pay-as-you-throw program to work just through a pricing structure. You have to provide alternatives such as home and centralized composting, and curbside or drop-off recycling programs."

Hallettsville, for instance, provides a free chipping service for yard waste and will soon begin other programs including community composting.

Technical assistance is available from TNRCC to help cities implement waste reduction programs, including pay-as-you-throw. For more information, call 512-239-6318.

Caller ID services are coming soon to Muenster Telephone customers

Dallas area telephone customers won't be ahead of Muenster Telephone's customers for very long, according to Alvin Fuhrman, President and Manager of Muenster Telephone Corporation.

Muenster Telephone Corporation has filed an application with the Public Utility Commission of Texas for approval to offer its customers Calling Number ID (identification) and other Advanced Calling Services. Approval is expected in the second quarter of 1995," Fuhrman stated.

In addition to the Caller ID service which is being made available in the Dallas Area, Muenster Telephone will provide its customers other special state of the art services to enable its customers to make their telephone service more productive, more flexible and provide greater control over their incoming and outgoing telephone calls.

"Upon approval by the Public Utility Commission of Texas, Muenster Telephone can provide Calling Number ID service which lets the subscriber receiving a call know who is calling even before answering the telephone. Calling Number ID service is an optional service which allows you to see the date, time and telephone number of most direct dialed local calls and some long distance calls before you answer the telephone. When you get a call, Calling Number ID shows the telephone number of the caller on a special display unit, which is required for Calling Number ID. The display unit may be obtained by the customer from various retail sources including Muenster Telephone. The Calling Number Display Unit stores the calling number as well as the date and the time of the call. Muenster Telephone will have available in the third or fourth quarter of this year, Calling Name ID Service which will also show the calling party's name on the same special display unit," said Fuhrman.

"Muenster Telephone will also provide a 'family' of other convenient services for our customers," continued Fuhrman, which are:

CALL RETURN allows the customer to dial an access code and have a call automatically returned to the last party who called or attempted to call the customer. An announcement will tell the customer the telephone number of the last party who called.

REPEAT DIALING allows the customer to dial an access code to initiate a call to the last directory number he/she called or attempted to call.

SELECTIVE CALL BLOCKING enables the customer to create a list of up to six directory numbers from which the customer does not wish to receive calls. Calls from directory numbers on the customer's list are intercepted and sent to a Telephone company recorded announcement. Other calls are completed normally.

SPECIAL CALL ACCEPTANCE allows the customer to screen incoming calls by creating a list of up to six telephone directory numbers from which the customer is willing to accept calls. Calls from telephone numbers not contained on the customer's list are sent to a telephone company announcement.

PREFERRED CALL FORWARDING allows the customer to create a list of up to six telephone numbers that are to be called forwarded when the customer is called. When the service is activated by dialing a code, and a call arrives from a telephone number that is on the list, the call is forwarded.

PRIORITY RINGING enables the customer to program his/her telephone line to ring with a special ringing pattern whenever called from a select list of telephone numbers.

CUSTOMER ORIGINATED-CALL TRACE allows the customer to request a trace of an obscene, threatening or harassing call if the calling party ID was not displayed. This feature will cause the calling telephone number to be registered at the telephone office, even though the calling party has calling party ID blocking on his line.

CALLING PARTY ID BLOCKING enables a customer to block having his name or number from being displayed when making a call. This feature can be placed on a per line basis and released on a per call basis. Or, if a customer does not block his ID from being displayed on a per line basis when making calls, ID can be blocked on a per call basis.

"Muenster Telephone has completed the installation of a new Common Channel Signaling System 7 (CCSS7) network among all of its exchanges enabling Muenster Telephone to offer the new features using the latest technology. Initially, only calls from within the Muenster Telephone system will register the calling party and convenience services. When the new CCSS7 network is extended to other companies, such as Southwestern Bell, GTE and long distance companies, all calls will register the calling party from those companies as well. We are looking forward to PUC approval of our application. Meanwhile, we will be providing our customers with more detailed information on these services," concluded Fuhrman.

Insurance plans squeeze profits... Saint Jo loses 103 year old pharmacy business

GRETCHEN HOENIG of College Station, Texas and Nathan Day of South Pasadena, California have chosen July 29, 1995 for their wedding day. They will be married in St. Peter's Church of Lindsay, with Msgr. Hubert Neu, uncle of the bride, officiating. The bride-elect is the daughter of Raymond and Cecilia Hoenic of Rt. 4, Gainesville and the future-groom is the son of Forster and Helen Day of Wichita Falls. Gretchen is a 1991 graduate of Lindsay High School and will graduate from Texas A&M University in May 1995 with a Bachelor of Business Administration degree in Marketing. Mr. Day is a 1987 graduate of S.H. Rider High School and received his Bachelor of Science degree in Aerospace Engineering in 1992 and his Master of Science degree in Aerospace Engineering in 1994, both from Texas A&M University. He is employed by Jet Propulsion Laboratories, a division of NASA. The couple will reside in South Pasadena, California. Attendants in their wedding will be maid of honor Christie Hruskoc; bridesmaids Collette Knabe, Sharon Day and Julie Johnson. Best man will be John Day; and groomsmen Sam Fleitman, David Miller and Bob Lennard.

by Janet Felderhoff
For more than a century Saint Jo has had its own pharmacy. A 103 year part of that tradition concluded Friday, Feb. 10 when Tolbert Moore, filled the last prescription for his Saint Jo customers and locked the doors completing the final day of business for the Saint Jo Pharmacy.

"Our main reason for closing is third party insurance claims," said Mr. Moore. "Insurance reimbursement rates are so low for managed care plans that it squeezed us so tight that there isn't enough margin to cover expenses." By managed care plans he was referring to are insurance plans such as HMO's (Health Management Organization), and PPO's (Participating Provider Organization).

"It's not a decision that I wanted to make," remarked Moore on the closing of the pharmacy. "This (insurance plans) is something that pharmacies have been watching as a trend for several years. Really the only way to combat the low reimbursement is just not to accept the contract with the companies. If you do that you just don't get any of their business. The only other way to battle that is with volume and in a small community volume is hard to come up with."

Moore estimates that he fills about 60 prescriptions a day. "As far as the ones that are on insurance plans, I'd say that close to half of our customers are on some kind of insurance plan. A year ago it might have been 10 to 15 percent. It's grown a lot in the last few months."

All of the Saint Jo Pharmacy's records will be transferred to Gibbs Drug Store in Nocona after Feb. 10. That business is owned by Moore's brother-in-law, Gibbs Drug will be making deliveries to Saint Jo at least twice a day and will service the Saint Jo Nursing Home.

Moore plans to help in the transition between Saint Jo and Nocona and then perhaps do some relief work in pharmacies in Denton. He has been making the round trip five days a week from Denton where he lives with his wife, Lisa, and their two children Amy, 11, and Kyle, 9. Lisa is a CPA in Dallas.

The town is saddened by the loss of a business which has been such an important part of the community. "People are real understanding, but everybody is sad about the drug store closing," Moore commented. "It's going to be a real change for Saint Jo not to have a drug store anymore. At one time I know there were two drug stores here."

Tolbert Moore first worked for an independent pharmacy in Wichita Falls for five years after he got out of pharmacy school in 1980. After moving to Denton he went to work for a chain. He preferred the independent so much more that when his brother-in-law, John Gibbs, and his partner, Rusty Fenoglio, decided to sell the Saint Jo Pharmacy Moore purchased the business. Gibbs and Fenoglio owned the business for 9 months. They purchased it from Cassie Lee in 1989. According to information printed in the Saint Jo Tribune, Gene and Cassie bought the business in May, 1965. It was opened in 1892 as Pedigo Drug at another location by S.C. Pedigo. In 1907 Pedigo moved the business to its present location. He operated it until 1947 when his son Sam Pedigo took over. The Lees purchased the drug store from Sam Pedigo.

"It's really sad for the people of Saint Jo," Tolbert said. "That's what made the decision so hard, telling them that they weren't going to have a drug store anymore."

"We really do hate that it is closing," said Alma Maddox. "It's going to be a real problem since we use this quite frequently. The one (Gibbs Drug) in Nocona is real nice, but it's just not like it is when it's right here in town."

"I just hate that Tolbert is leaving," said Sharon Coleman. "We all like Tolbert," added Larry Maddox.

"It's really sad that someone couldn't make a living and pay the bills on an essential thing," said Mrs. Maddox. "It isn't like the people didn't come here. It is just really a shame. Especially since we just got the Bowie Clinic opened up with a physician's assistant. You could come right here and fill the prescription and now that won't be the case."

The Saint Jo Pharmacy has been the gathering place for people on the square for many years. A well worn table sets the stage for daily visits shared over cups of coffee. The regulars each have their own cup hanging above a sink where the beverage is prepared. Coffee is a quarter a cup. Sodas and crackers are also available.

TOLBERT MOORE, R.Ph., owner of 103-year-old Saint Jo Pharmacy, kept shelves stocked with prescription medications until the business' final day of operation, Friday, Feb. 10.

THIS WELL-KNOWN TABLE in the Saint Jo Pharmacy has served as a gathering place for people of the town square for decades. Taking a final opportunity to reminisce are, l to r, Sharon Coleman, Larry Coleman, Dick Maddox and George Pedigo.

Over the years visitors have left their marks on the wooden table, cattle brands and other whittled designs. "This table could probably tell some tales," reminisced Harry Maddox. "It has been here a long time."

A soda fountain once filled the area now occupied by the table. It was taken out when it became too expensive to repair.

Even though the building is over 100 years old, the business is run with the benefit of modern equipment. Antique shelves hold modern medications and medical supplies. Trendy cards and popular brands of candies are on display. Two computers link the business with the rest of the world. Moore has always used computers in the Saint Jo business. Since 1990 computers became a necessary piece of equipment for pharmacists wanting to file Medicaid.

With the closing of the Saint Jo Pharmacy, a town is left without an essential service in a convenient location, Tolbert Moore, R. Ph. and his two part-time employees are looking for other jobs, and a historic building is left vacant. Tolbert would prefer to sell the building and keep it intact if possible.

4-H members join in Share-the-Fun activities

by Tammie Lively
County Extension Agent-F.C.S.

What does a 6-minute performance plus 4 minutes for stage set up and take-down have in common with three javelinas, Elvis, cowboys, rainbow people, music, and many others. 4-H Share-The-Fun is what!

There was definitely lots of fun shared as 80 4-H'ers and over 200 parents, grandparents, and friends participated and viewed this year's 4-H Share-The-Fun contest in the Gainesville Middle School auditorium on Saturday, February 11.

Groups of 4-H'ers have worked together for weeks planning, practicing, and polishing their performances for Saturday's competition. # MISD celebrates National FHA Week

by Hollie Jo Fuhrmann
The Muenster High School FHA/HERO Chapter collaborated with the rest of the nationwide organization in celebrating National FHA Week, February 12-18. FHA/HERO Week is celebrated as part of Vocational Education Week. This year is the organization's 50th Anniversary, therefore the members spent the week preparing and putting on numerous activities to promote school, home and community.

Monday was Child Care Day and Casual Day. Students dressed in warm-ups in order to be comfortable while taking care of children who were brought to the homemaking room. This activity allows members to prepare for their future parenthood. The members also elected the FHA Sweetheart. Jason Huchton is this year's FHA Sweetheart.

The annual Cooking Contest was held on Tuesday. Winners were: Laura Vogel, appetizers; Ashley Hartman, Main dish; Joyce Hacker, cookies; DaLana Endres, breads; Lucas Hartman, desserts; Carrie Hess, cakes; Makie Otsuka, Most Creative Award; Rebecca Nicholson, Grand Prize. Students wore red and white in honor of Valentine's Day and their school.

On Wednesday the halls were full of hats. Members came to school wearing hats of every style and color celebrating Hat Day. Also members prepared "Goodie" bags for the teachers. The teachers received treats such as rubber bands, paper clips, and pens.

Thursday was Teacher Appreciation Day. FHA wanted to thank the teachers for their hard work throughout the year. Snack trays of sausage and cheese and fruit and dip were set out in the Teachers' Lounge for the teachers during break. It was also Reverse Day. It seemed as though the students had forgotten how to dress themselves. Students came to school with their clothes on backwards and inside out. Also some girls dressed like boys. For lunch the members prepared an Officer-Senior Luncheon. Officers received a votive candle in appreciation of their work from Joni Sturn, FHA advisor.

On Friday, members were asked to dress-up in their Sunday best while the teachers relaxed and wore their favorite pair of jeans to school. FHA members were invited to the homemaking room to make ice cream sundaes, reveal their secret pals, and close the week's activities.

This year's theme is "FHA/HERO---50 Years Leading the Way." It emphasizes that since 1945 when Future Homemakers of America was founded, FHA/HERO members have risen to action to make a difference in their families, careers, and communities. During FHA/HERO Week, and throughout the 50th anniversary celebration, members plan and carry out activities to address teen and societal concerns and show how home economic skills help them solve problems.

February Health News Tips Increased calcium intake needed

From mother's admonition to, "Drink your milk!" to the recommendations of a recent National Institute of Health (NIH) consensus conference on optimal calcium intake, everyone seems to agree: calcium is an essential nutrient, and most people need more of it to stay healthy. Recent data presented to the NIH consensus conference on optimal calcium intake revealed the following: A daily calcium intake of 1,200 to 1,500 milligrams a day -- the equivalent of four to five 8-ounce glasses of milk or approximately four to five ounces of cheese -- helps adolescents and young adults attain their peak bone mass, and a daily intake of 1,500 mg daily can protect post-menopausal women and men over age 65 from the bone loss of osteoporosis.

Most girls and young women consume less than 900 mg of calcium a day, and older men and women rarely consume more than 600 mg per day.

Stacie was born on Jan. 26, 1995 to Randy and Linda Wimmer of Muenster. Her grandparents are Margie and Eddie Krahl, Charles Wimmer, all of Muenster, and the late Isabel Wimmer. Her baptismal sponsors were an aunt, Janet Jordan, and an uncle, David Krahl.

Attending the church ceremony were her sister Angela and brother Daniel; Charles Wimmer, Margie and Eddie Krahl; aunts and uncles, David and Judy Krahl, Janet and Sam Jordan, Steve Hughes and Ricky Wimmer. Also cousins Jonathan, Adam, Aaron, Lauren and Jessica Krahl; Jennifer Hughes; Melissa, Christy and Christopher Jordan; Amanda and Mandy Wimmer; and friends, Paula, Melinda, Carrie and Christen Fleitman and Melanie Hellman and Father Joe Weinzapfel.

From My Side of the Fence
by Ed Cler

My last tale about a kid taking a chariot ride, reminded me of other rides we frequently took when my brothers and I, and some of the Vogel boys got together on a Sunday afternoon.

The Vogels had an old buggy running gear that was minus the shafts and seat, but several kids could still fit into it for a ride.

These rides weren't altogether free, for we could only ride after we had pushed the rig to the crest of a hill, and then one of the bigger boys would guide it by means of wires tied to each end of the front axle, and to sticks used for handles.

How thrilling the ride was depended entirely on the height and length of the hill, so we were always trying to find a higher one.

The hill that the T. Vogel farmstead is built on, slopes sharply to the east and ends at a small creek that is bordered by trees and brush.

One day, after most of the gang had tired of the fun, I prevailed on them to let me, one of the smaller of the group, guide it for one run, solo. After all was set, they let it roll, and as it careened down the slope I soon found I didn't have the strength to keep it on track, and I suddenly realized I was going to crash into a large tree looming directly ahead, and as I rose and jumped, it hit, head on.

Fortunately for me, I missed the tree and landed atop some shrubbery that I must say, was conveniently located. I came away with only a few scratches and a strong resolve not to repeat this folly.

Well, there was little reason to make that decision since it would be impossible to use the buggy chassis with a "U" shaped front axle.

Then, as we all realized a good thing had come to an end, I was not the most popular member of the group.

Our Readers at Work

ANGIE LUTKENHAUS, owner and operator of Angie's Beauty Shop, has been a hairdresser for nearly 50 years. Her first beautician job was with Geneva Gremminger. She worked in several different shops, not just in Muenster, but also in Hereford and Saint Jo. In 1955, she opened her own business, beginning in the "Honeymoon House" on John Fisher's property, then rented a little house from Toots Trachta before buying her present location in 1957-58. The converted garage was very convenient for Angie when she was raising her young family. At one time, "Angie's" was the only beauty shop in Muenster. Today, the business caters mostly to the older generation for regular shampoos and sets. The younger crowd goes to the others shops in town that use blow dryers and curling irons, unlike Angie's. Angie appreciates all her customers through the years who have helped her keep things going.

J.E.L.L.Y. retreats to "being accepted"

by Eric Gray

On Sunday, February 12, from 1:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m., 28 students and 7 adults (not to mention one extra little blessed lady) met in the Sacred Heart Community Center to have a retreat. The topic was...yes! You guessed it! Being accepted, being yourself.

The afternoon started with a crazy game of not-so-musical chairs (as a matter of fact, no music!) Bodies great and small were all running for a chair so as not to be the one left in the middle, for the "middleman" had the honor of telling everyone else 2 things that they liked about themselves.

This was followed by the students taking a look at how they felt whenever something happened to them, such as falling down in the hallway between classes at school. Would they be "embarrassed to tears" or "not at all self-conscious," or somewhere in between? Then, they looked at what they did in order to be accepted by others and discussed it all in small groups. During these small groups, they also took a look at what Jesus had done which had made him popular, and even what he had done that made him unpopular. These findings on Jesus were then shared with the whole group.

Then it was break time! Food and drink for the famished! And at the conclusion of a bit of a sugar fix, they all got into the groove of "Walkin' in the Kingdom" with song, dance, and a super surf!

Jeanne Flusche was next, to offer a fantastic reflection on her own experience of being accepted as she was growing up, and the self-conscious struggles that went along with it. Most everybody there could definitely relate to the truth she spoke on the reality of our common humanity. The students had the opportunity then to discuss these ideas in small groups and to reflect on how they saw themselves and how God saw them (using 1 Peter 2:9, Romans 5:6-8, and Galatians 5:22-23).

It was Eric Gray's turn next. He spoke on being yourself and on his own experience of finding himself. Just as so many great theologians and the whole Church and Jesus himself had said, Eric found to be true. To know yourself and to be yourself, you have to know God, as best you can each day, love God, as the Golden Rule says "with all your mind, heart, and strength," and then serve God as best as possible. In doing so, a person finds himself, their true self.

It was prayer time then. Each member of each small group filled out their own "Letter From God." Each member was affirmed by everyone else in their small group. Also each member was lifted up in prayer by everyone else in the small group. It was a very powerful time, a time to start living out what had just been covered through the day, both in prayer and in action.

After a Valentine's Day card hand-out and a closing prayer and some final announcements of future happenings, the retreat was done, a memorable experience for all who attended. Praise the Lord.

Area racers bring home several state championships

Submitted by Sherry Hacker

The 1994 TCCRA (Texas Cross Country Racing Association) Season was a success for several area men. TCCRA is a club that was formed in the early 70's. The club now has over 1000 members and carries a 16 race schedule. TCCRA is split up into 30 different classes for the racers to ride. Each race is 50 miles long and is laid out through trees, bushes, creeks, hills, fields, and everything in between.

For the 1994 Season 3 State Championships were brought home to this area. The 3 classes were 125 Intermediate won by Philip Reiter of Muenster, 4-Stroke Expert won by Eric Hess of Lindsay, and Over 38 Expert won by Frank Shacklee of Whitesboro. These 3 gentlemen worked very hard and attended and competed in all 16 races throughout the State of Texas.

Other trophies brought home by area residents were a 5th place

Open Amateur by Leroy John Schmidkofer of Lindsay, 3rd place 125 Expert by Joey Houghton of Callisburg, and a 2nd place Open Expert also by Eric Hess of Lindsay.

Some good friends from Oklahoma also had a successful season on the Texas circuit. Bobby Southard of Elk City, OK brought home a 2nd place Over 30 Expert Trophy. Father and son, Rick and Eric Hillhouse from Edmond, OK also raced. Rick Hillhouse, the father, won a 4th place trophy for Over 38 Expert. Eric Hillhouse brought home a first place state championship trophy for Mini Expert.

All of these racers worked very hard for what they achieved. Their families and friends would like to wish them luck and a safe ride in the 1995 Season starting Feb. 26 in Gholson, TX. No crashes this year guys!!!

Knights face Slidell

The Lindsay Knights, District 34-A runner-up, will meet with the Slidell Greyhounds this Friday for the Bi-District championship. Slidell, District 33-A champions, are currently ranked #2 in Texas high school Class AA basketball. The Greyhounds proved their power Tuesday night when they defeated the state's #1 Class AA boys' team, Wolfe City, by 15 points.

The Knights also practiced Tuesday night, taking on District 35-A champions from Bland. Bland hit the winning basket with 5 seconds on the clock for a 46-45 win. Lindsay got a final play set up, but the ball wouldn't go in. "Overall, it was a good game to play before the playoffs," commented Coach Jodie Stringer.

Robert Sharp and Kyle

Sandmann were high scorers for the Knights with 11 and 10 points, respectively. George Lutkenhaus and Zack Bowman each added 7 while Chris Brown hit 4 and Tanner Neidhardt and Garrett Hellinger 3 each.

Texas mammals and dinosaurs books available

Outdoor lovers can learn more about mammals and dinosaurs now that two books from the University of Texas Press have hit the market. "The Mammals of Texas," written by Dr. William B. Davis and Dr. David J. Schmidy, brings together more than 70 years of experience in the study of Texas mammals. Completely revised and updated from Davis's first version, which was published in 1947, "The Mammals of Texas" has gone through four reprints and revisions the past 47 years.

The book contains information on 181 species of Texas mammals and includes photographs, a comprehensive set of distribution maps and identification keys to the orders and species of mammals found in Texas. The book was reprinted using proceeds from the Nongame and Endangered Species Conservation Fund. Profits from sale of the book will go back into the fund.

The book is available in stores, through the University of Texas Press at 1-800-252-3206 or by calling the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department's catalog at 1-800-786-8644. The book costs $17.95 plus tax, shipping and handling.

"Learn About Texas Dinosaurs," written by TPWD's Georg Zappler and illustrated by Elena T. Ivy, introduces children 6-12 to all 17 types of dinosaurs that once roamed Texas. Line drawings invite children to color the dinosaurs and learn about their habitats while easy-to-read text provides important facts about each one. The book also includes a removable 17-inch by 22-inch coloring poster. Distributed by Texas Parks and Wildlife Press, the 44-page book costs $7.95. To purchase the paperback book, call the University of Texas Press at 1-800-252-3206 or through the TPWD catalog at 1-800-786-8644.

Rabies increase in wild animals

The increase of rabies cases in wild animals has drawn inquiries from the public to Texas Parks and Wildlife Department field offices across the state, particularly in West and Central Texas. Many callers are concerned about the possibility of white-tailed deer contracting the virus.

The confirmed rabies cases in this area primarily have been found in gray foxes, said Lee Miller, TPWD biologist in San Angelo. "There have been very few documented cases of rabies in deer and there has never been a case where a human contracted rabies from a deer."

"Although all mammals can become infected with rabies, it would be extremely uncommon for a deer to contract the virus," he said. "Even under laboratory conditions it is difficult to purposely infect deer with rabies."

To become infected, a deer would have to be bitten by another animal carrying the disease since the virus is transmitted through saliva, Miller said. Deer generally are very aware of their surroundings, making it unlikely they would not react quickly enough to avoid a bite from an infected animal.

Handling and processing a harvested deer is not a health risk, but "any wild animal that acts disoriented or does not show the usual fear of humans should always be avoided," he said.

Rabies occurs most frequently in skunks, bats, raccoons and foxes. Bobcats are susceptible to the virus, but historically have not been a frequent wildlife host of the disease. Opossums and rodents are not highly susceptible to the disease.

The most effective control measure for rabies is to vaccinate all pet dogs and cats every year, Miller said. Suburban residents should not encourage wild mammals to live close in proximity by feeding or making household waste available to them.

For more information on rabies or to report a problem, contact Dr. Keith Clark, Zoonosis Control Division, Texas Department of Health, 1100 W. 49th St., Austin, Texas 78756 or call (512) 458-7255.

USDA downsizes 1989-1993 cattle herd reports

Unexpectedly, on Jan. 20, 1995, USDA released downward revisions for the US cattle herd for the years 1989 to 1993, cutting its previous estimates 1.4 to 2.5 percent, says Knight-Ridder News. USDA said there were 1.4 million less head of cattle as of Jan. 1, 1993, than previously reported. Cattle and calves were pegged at 99.2 million head, down 1.4 percent from the previous figure. USDA also put total cattle at the start of 1992 at 97.6 million head, down 2 percent from the previous report, while the number at the start of 1991 was put at 96.4 million, down 2.5 percent. USDA sliced the previous estimate for the start of 1990 by 2.4 percent to 95.8 million and for the start of 1989 by 1.4 percent to 96.7 million.

County Agent's Report by Craig Rosenbaum

SOYBEAN PLANTING DRAWS NEAR

Over the past several years, producers in Cooke County have been planting some early season variety soybeans. Early season soybean production has some advantages for us in North Texas. These include early planting to synchronize bloom and fruiting while we have a probability of rains in the spring and early summer. Another advantage is the reduced insect problem from foliage feeding insects that generally occurs in later season beans. Early plantings can take advantage of more ideal harvest weather and the early production usually results in a fairly good price period.

With advantages, there are always disadvantages and these include the narrow planting window that we have with the early season beans, the possibility of green beans and leaves at harvest, and the possibility of shatter loss during the high temperatures at harvest time. Producers should also be aware that if you plan to keep seed for replanting, the early beans have very poor germination and planting quality when harvested in the heat of summer.

With these considerations, producers can begin plans for planting. Most early beans are of an indeterminate maturity variety. This means that these soybeans should begin blooming and setting pods when moisture and weather conditions permit. For North Texas and our area, most planting is done in the latter part of March. The soil temperature needs to be from 60 to 80 degrees F. Look at a planting date of around March 25. Planting of the early varieties should be completed by around April 10. If you cannot get them planted in this short time frame or by checking the soil temperature, then consider waiting and planting the later group beans. Row spacing is also important on these early bean varieties. The narrow row will offer producers an opportunity to get a canopy developing in about four to five weeks which should eliminate some of your weed and grass competition problems. Most of our drills are in the 7-inch range so plugging up every other hole and planting on 14-inch centers will help achieve this canopy.

There are probably more herbicides that have been developed for soybean production than for any other crop. Herbicides are available for both pre-plant and post-emerge to control grass and weeds. Check with the County Extension Office or your local seed and chemical dealer for recommended herbicides.

Inoculation is very important for soybeans for them to fix their own needed nitrogen. A slurry is still the best method for uniform inoculation.

Hay is always an alternative when growing soybeans. Soybean hay is an excellent quality legume and should always be a consideration when planting soybeans. If we have extremely hot, dry summers and beans begin to shed leaves before the possibility of maturity, then hay production should be considered. If you are planting beans just for hay, then consider planting a late group 6 or early group 7 bean about the first of May for maximum height. Local seed dealers have a list of recommended varieties for our area and the North Texas Results follow.

Update from County USDA

Crop Insurance - Catastrophic Risk Protection (CRP)

If you intend to participate in the wheat, feed grain, or cotton or peanut programs, or Farmers Home loan programs, you will be required to have crop insurance on the following crops: wheat, oats, corn, grain sorghum, and soybeans for grain; cotton for lint, and peanuts.

The deadline to sign up for wheat, oats, cotton, soybeans, and peanuts is February 28. To be able to prove a better crop insurance yield, you need to start keeping good accurate production records on all crops for each farm for all years. Records should show: producer name, farm number or name, crop year, date of delivery, commodity, class - hard or soft in the case of wheat, net weight or bushels, and disposition. On farm stored commodities, if at all possible, keep grain separate by farm; share farms, cash lease farms; scale or weight tickets by farm are helpful. Measurement service will probably be required on all farm stored commodities.

Agricultural Conservation Program

Funds for this program have been drastically reduced. In the past several years, we have been able to help nearly everybody with their conservation needs. However, due to the reduced funds, the County Committee will be extremely limited.

Things the County Committee have to consider before approving applications are: Land eligibility -- must be agricultural land used to produce crops or livestock commercially. Land must have a conservation or environmental problem. Just because your land is listed with the appraisal district as agricultural does not mean it will qualify for this program.

Person eligibility -- a person who is an owner, landlord, tenant or sharecropper must produce agricultural commodities commercially. A commercial agriculture operation consists of producing, buying selling, trading, and maintaining agricultural commodities or eligible livestock. The operation should also be viewed with regard to profit and be a substantial part of your income and losses of the business.

The wisest use of ACP funds is treating the overall conservation and environmental problems in the county.

If you feel you meet these requirements, you should file an application by March 3 to be considered for the first approval period.

Dairy Refund Program

Applications for the Dairy Refund Program will be taken through March 15, 1995. This program allows producers, who have not increased milk production during the 1994 calendar year compared to 1993 calendar year, to request a refund of the assessment withheld.

EPA approves herbicide on bermudagrass pastures

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has approved a specific exemption request by the Texas Department of Agriculture which allows ranchers and farmers to use norflurazon to control grassy weeds on bermudagrass meadows and pastures.

A maximum of 20,000 acres of bermudagrass may be treated with norflurazon, which is found in Zorial Rapid 80. The specific exemption became effective Thursday, Feb. 2 and expires July 1.

The treatment is approved for 72 Texas counties, including Collin, Cooke, Denton, Fannin, and Grayson.

TDA advises farmers when using norflurazon to follow all applicable directions, precautions and restrictions outlined on the label of an EPA-registered product. Zorial Rapid 80 must not be applied in any area where a shallow water table of 50 feet or less exists. In any area where a shallow water table of 50 feet or less exists.

Without the use of norflurazon, the state's bermudagrass crop could face a loss of $2.28 million, according to TDA estimates.

Fireguards - the first defense against wildfires

With the abundance of dry grass, ranchers should seriously consider installing permanent fireguards on their rangeland.

A fireguard is one of the simplest and cheapest means of fire protection you can provide for your rangeland.

"Access is important in fighting grass fires in our district," said Rooter Brite, Vice-Chairman of the Upper Elm-Red Soil and Water Conservation District and member of the Bowie Rural Volunteer Fire Department. "Fires which burn many acres do so because firefighters cannot get through the pastures to the front of the fire. Fireguards and firelanes can provide ready access for firefighters to get around the fire."

Speed is also important. Plowing firelanes through the pasture during a fire is slow and dangerous. Firelanes can help. The sooner firefighters can safely get in front of a wildfire, the better the chances of preventing a small fire from becoming a raging monster.

One of the most common firefighting techniques is the use of a controlled backfire to create a wide and, hopefully, impassible fuelbreak or firebreak downwind of the grass fire. However, before firefighters can set a back fire, they need a downwind firelane to back up their backfire. When fireguards are already present, firefighters can get quickly to the business of backfiring and containment, rather than having to take time to establish fireguards.

If fireguards are planted with suitable grasses, legumes, or other plants, the landowner can realize added benefits of livestock grazing or wildlife food.

Brite emphasized that fireguards must be properly constructed to prevent soil erosion. Fireguards, which are improperly installed, can erode severely, rendering them useless for roadway.

The cost of establishing and maintaining a permanent system of fireguards is well worth the expense. Besides the "fire insurance," they provide, fireguard establishment and maintenance cost may be deductible rangeland management expenses.

For more information, call your local Natural Resources Conservation Service.

Fort Worth Livestock Show results

The Southwestern Exposition and Livestock Show took place January 20 through February 5 in Fort Worth.

Cooke County had four 4-Hers participating in the Dairy Judging contest. The Senior team, composed of Kimberly Kupper, Casey Kupper, both from the Valley View club, Michael Becker, and Heath Bayer, both from the Muenster club, placed 6th Overall and Placed 3rd Overall in Guernsey and Brown Swiss against other 4-H and FFA members throughout Texas.

The District 4 4-H Dairy Judging contest was held the same day and this Senior team placed 1st. In High Point Individual, Kimberly placed 2nd, Casey placed 3rd, and Michael placed 5th.

Ag in the News

Texas cattle feeders reported 2.38 million head of cattle and calves on feed Jan. 1, down 13 percent from last year. During the fourth quarter of 1994, 1.49 million head were placed, 3 percent below the same period last year. Placements totaled 320,000, down 26 percent from November. Marketings increased 7 percent from a year ago to 1.33 million. - Texas Agricultural Statistics Service

Environmental groups want to eliminate $33 billion in federal subsidies they say are harmful to the environment. Among the programs targeted is the US Department of Agriculture's market promotion program which promotes for export ag products the groups contend "use intense energy and chemical inputs and environmentally harmful practices." - Wall Street Journal
