United Way: helping those who can't help themselves

by Tish Slagle
When I was a young girl, I saw a poster with this symbol of the day care center where I stayed. My teacher explained to me that it was the United Way logo and the United Way helped "people who can't take care of themselves." I was glad for an organization that helped what I assumed were probably the "old, elderly people" and I was glad to donate from time to time when I became an adult. It wasn't until 10 years ago that I learned the true scope of the United Way's accomplishments. I was in the room with my father when he died in 1985. He had undergone what the doctors told us was successful cancer surgery and I was helping him get back to go home. Daddy never raised his voice to me, so you can imagine how shocked I was when he literally shouted something I couldn't understand. I dropped his clothes on the floor and turned to look at him. He was convulsing nearly out of his bed, perspiring and blurring at a stream of unintelligible words. I slapped the button to call the nurse. Daddy suddenly stopped gibbering and fell back on the pillow. I moved close to his face and tried to get him to look at me, but he just stared at me. By the time the nurse arrived, he had stopped breathing. The Code Blue team raced into the room, but they could not revive him. Four months later, my seven-year-old son, Ryan suddenly dropped several pounds, just as my father had before he was diagnosed with cancer. Fearing the worst, I scheduled a doctor's appointment. I was almost relieved when the doctor diagnosed Ryan with Juvenile Diabetes, rather than cancer. We put him in the hospital to regulate his insulin treatments. Even though the doctor told me the average life expectancy of a person with juvenile onset diabetes is 35 years, I tried to feel hopeful with 28 years and medical science headed toward a cure. No matter how much I encouraged Ryan though, he just wasn't as hopeful as I tried to be. He cried every night. I can still hear his pitiful little voice repeating to me over and over, "Mama, I don't want to have diabetes; please ask God to fix it." I made up my mind then. I would somehow protect Ryan from the pain of this disease. I stayed awake day and night reading books and watching films to learn how to take perfect care of Ryan. I memorized the diet, bought the best, most painless syringes and blood-testing lancets. But in spite of all my efforts, I failed. Just two days after Ryan's release from the hospital, Ryan awakened the household with shrill screams and loud gibberish. By the time I reached his room, he was quiet. Terrified of what I'd see, I turned on the light. Ryan lay on his pillow, perspiring, convulsing and staring. All I could think was "My God, this is how my daddy died. Please God don't let my baby die too." But he was dying. The insulin that prolongs his life in balanced doses was now, for some reason, killing him. I knew from the diabetes training that he needed sugar. I ran to the kitchen and mixed corn syrup and orange juice. I poured the concoction in Ryan's mouth, all over him and the bed. I poured and prayed until he looked up at me, actually made eye contact and asked "Mom, why I'm all sticky?" I hugged him so tightly, then helped him with a bath, changed the sheets, and went back to bed. I lay awake thinking, "I could have let him die. Never could I let that happen again." I made my decision to stop sleeping through the night. I set my alarm at night for every hour at first, then I decided to set it for every half hour. Then

I was tormented that even a half hour could be too long and I could let him die. I watched the clock and checked on Ryan and watched the clock and checked on Ryan. I found that reading, or watching TV was simpler than watching the clock, so I simply discontinued trying to sleep at all. When I took Ryan to be checked after three months, the doctor told me Ryan's diabetes was in good control, but I was sicker than he was. He said if I didn't get some rest he would put me in the hospital. I politely told him that I would not go to the hospital because I had to take care of Ryan. When he told me there were others who could take care of him, I explained to him that even if I could afford someone to relieve me, I could never trust someone to bring him out of the frequent insulin reactions. He told me about Camp Sweeney, a camp just outside Gainesville where young diabetics spent three weeks in the summer. Not only did the trained counselors teach the children about their disease, but the children could also enjoy the normal activities of a summer camp. Since the camp was scheduled to open the next week, I called and spoke to a lady who was sweet and helpful, but told me it would cost $1200 for the three week session and that most insurance plans would cover it. I told the lady thank you for her time and started to hang up. She asked me where to send the application to sign Ryan up for the first session. I was so desperate and exhausted, I just began to cry. I told her I appreciated her time, but I had four children to support and did not have insurance coverage. She said, "Oh honey, we have never turned anyone away for lack of finances. Fill out the scholarship section of the application. I'm sure you'll qualify for the United Way to pay for Ryan's tuition." "The United Way? Don't they just help the elderly?" She said, "Oh no, honey, they help many people with many different needs." The United Way, through Camp Sweeney, gave Ryan the opportunity to learn about his disease and get to know other children sharing the same ordeal. It also gave me the time I needed to rest and take care of my three other children. The last ten years have not been easy, but Ryan is 17 now and coping well. The United Way, through Camp Sweeney, equipped him to care for himself and have a productive life. I can still see Ryan's little face when he was diagnosed. I still feel the anguish knowing he has a terminal disease. But I can also remember the generosity of the people who gave to the United Way and improved my child's chances for a normal life until a cure is found. Next time you see a United Way logo, maybe you'll see it as I do now, and contribute to this wonderful organization.

Area kids attend Salvation Army's camp

by Karl Swanburg
resident, Gainesville Unit Salvation Army
The Salvation Army's Camp Oblitzelle, 500 acres, is located near Midlothian, Texas. Did you know that ten Cooke County kids (ages 10-12) went to camp on July 10, 1996 for a full week? We have to thank Rev. Marvin Lancaster, Southside Baptist Church, for finding the children and arranging transportation to and from the camp. Rev. Lancaster has been helping on this program for many years. A "thank you" note goes to Nancy Catlin, Ella Baldrée, Lois Black and Geneva Wallen (nurse) for assisting Rev. Lancaster. During the week, the kids are exposed to boating, swimming, fishing, hiking, games, crafts, sports, horseback riding and campfires. They have time for "one on one," hear the gospel and talk to adults. The success of the camp is shown by the fact that everyone wants to return for another session. The camp programs touch their lives. The Salvation Army also provides Christmas kits for nursing homes, vouchers for medicine and transportation, canteens for crises and referrals for shelters for residents of Cooke County.

Muenster Water District sets '96 ad valorem tax rate

by Stephen Broyles
During a special meeting on September 3, 1996, the Muenster Water District Board of Directors voted in a 1996 ad valorem tax rate of $0.149055 per $100. This property tax rate was based on the debt service required to pay the principal and interest on outstanding bonds. It is the lowest tax rate that board members could approve.

An estimated 1996 ad valorem tax rate of $0.20 per $100 for the Muenster Water District was printed on the tax statements mailed in May 1996. Thus, the amount approved is less than that anticipated in May. The May 1996 tax statement estimated a tax amount of $118.00 on a property value of $59,000. However, the approved property tax rate of $0.149055 per $100 is only $87.94.

Good News!

And people were bringing children to Him that He might touch them, but the disciples rebuked them. When Jesus saw this, He became indignant and said to them, "Let the children come to Me; do not prevent them, for the Kingdom of God belongs to such as these. Amen, I say to you, whoever does not accept the Kingdom of God like a child will not enter it."

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,
You'd think, watching the recent Democratic convention, with disproportionate representation by labor unions, that this voting block had everything to do with this year's Labor Day celebration.

But the truth is that little more than 10% of today's workforce is unionized, half of which are government employees.

This tiny band of the workforce, however, led by the AFL-CIO and radical left NEA, has to-date illegally extracted from members' dues $35 million earmarked to defeat any and all conservative Congressmen and women, and especially to defeat Bob Dole and Jack Kemp in the presidential race.

Totally ignored by Secretary Reich's Labor Dept. and Janet Reno's Justice Dept. is the 1988 Supreme Court Beck decision which prohibits these unions from coercing their members in paying dues for political purposes to which the members are opposed. Under President Bush the unions were forced to post large notices making workers aware of this fact.

But one of Clinton's first acts of office in 1993 was to have these posters taken down, and to ignore the constitutional rights of workers who do not wish to have their dues used to promote such causes as unlimited abortion, condom and birth control distribution, defeat of school choice, decriminalization of drugs, and for campaigning for only liberal, left wing candidates for political office.

John Sweeney, the radical leftist leading this erstwhile brigade, recently remarked of the devastation that France is currently experiencing, "I was in Europe last week, traveling with President Clinton, and I couldn't help but be impressed with what is going on in France...In France, the (union) workers shut down the country—even though only 8 percent of the work force is organized!"

There you have their true intentions: disruption, chaos, and the liberal utopia that closely resembles the current state of our nation's capital. We have only two months to reverse this leftist blitzkrieg with good, old fashioned American patriotism! Let's do it!

Sincerely Yours,

CAPITOL COMMENT

U.S. SENATOR

KAY BAILEY HUTCHISON

Texas Ranchers Under Siege

Texas who live along the U.S. border with Mexico have good reason to feel that the federal government is not doing its job in enforcing the law and countering drug activity. They want to know why their tax dollars are not providing protection for law abiding Texans, and all law abiding Americans.

They want to know why, if the government can spend billions of dollars and dispatch American troops around the world to guarantee peace and stability, it can't maintain the integrity of its own border.

It seems to me our first duty ought to be to protect American citizens from the threat of violence from hostile foreign elements—which this very day are operating with impunity on American soil.

As a result, American ranchers in South Texas around Eagle Pass are being terrorized in broad daylight by heavily armed gangs of Mexican drug traffickers. In desperation, some ranchers have begun selling out to the highest bidders—who happen to be fronting for those same drug traffickers. The drug traffickers are winning this war and buying up the spoils. Now they will have unimpeded access to the interior of our country, all the better to continue their insufferable degradation of our society.

Between October 1, 1995 and April 1, 1996, the border Patrol at Eagle Pass seized 41,382 pounds of marijuana, compared with 33,291 pounds in the entire preceding year—and 15,763 pounds the year before that. Last year, in El Paso, Laredo and McAllen alone, a billion dollars worth of drugs were seized.

One of my many concerns is that the resources Congress already has devoted to fighting drug trafficking and other border law enforcement challenges are not being put to their intended use.

Current policy emphasizes treatment programs for addiction, after the fact, rather than interdiction and law enforcement. As a result, drug use is up sharply.

The administration is asking that Congress earmark more resources for the border, and I agree that they are needed. But we first need to put the resources already available to better use. We need to get back to law-enforcement basics.

Eight years ago there were 250 Drug Enforcement Administration agents in El Paso. Today there are 32. Over the past two years, Congress has increased funding for DEA programs significantly beyond what the administration requested. Yet, as of a month ago, the DEA still had 161 fewer agents in the field than are authorized; the FBI and DEA still have not hired the agents and support staff provided in 1995.

A House appropriations bill completed July 24 calls for devoting more than $7.1 billion for drug enforcement initiatives to jumpstart the "war on drugs." This includes a $167 million increase for the DEA, with $56 million specifically to counter drug trafficking on the Southwest border.

The federal government has a clear duty to bolster its law enforcement efforts to combat drug smuggling and other criminal activities along the entire length of the U.S.-Mexico border.

If this amount of chemical weaponry were coming into our country, we would consider it an act of war. Drugs that attack our young people are chemical weapons and we must declare war.

From My Side of the Fence

by Ed Cler

When there is nothing else to talk about, there is always the weather.

The year '96 has been, to say the least, different. Too dry, too hot, a real problem to the farmers, especially dairymen.

Due to the lack of moisture and the heat, grass has been short, stock ponds have gone dry, and the Sudan grass dairymen have come to depend on for summer grazing on their overstocked farms has, in many cases, failed to produce the much needed feed.

Some farms have had enough moisture to grow a short hay crop, which, in many instances, is being used immediately to feed cattle that usually would have ample supply of graze.

Rains have been spotty—some areas receiving downpours, while only short distances away very little fell.

During August the rains seem to have become more general with some of the dryer areas reporting amounts, that with the cooler days, will be truly beneficial.

At the same time most folks are enjoying the wet weather some have a crop of hay in the windrow, but are unable to bale it, while some have had deteriorating in the field waiting to be cut.

While driving to Graham Aug. 27, we drove in the rain part of the time and found the country fresh and green all the way, and upon arriving home on the 28th, found we had received another 1 inch of moisture, giving us an approximate total of 7 inches yet our pond, which still has lots of good water, had not risen any appreciable amount.

While most folks are happy with the wet weather, on person said, with a smile, "4 days and 40 nights!"

How soon we forget how the entire community joined in prayer for the life-giving water.

One farmer in southwest Texas asked his wife to bring their youngest child out into the rain. "Why the little one she asked."

"Well," the man replied, "the rest of them have seen rain. He hasn't!"

First Aid Myths

Lots of people have their own notions about the best ways to treat different ailments. Here are some facts behind some of the most common first aid misconceptions, taken from a recent Family Circle magazine.

Myth: Treat insect bites with ammonia.

Fact: Insect bites should be treated with some ice and an antihistamine.

Myth: Uncooked steak is the best compress for a black eye.

Fact: Steak won't help. For the first 24 hours, treat a black eye with ice.

Myth: To sterilize a needle, hold it in a flame until the tip turns black.

Fact: Just douse in rubbing alcohol.

Myth: Butter on a burn soothes it.

Fact: It is best to put nothing on a burn. On a small burn, cold water or ice can be applied, but only for a short time. Ice puts the body at risk for hypothermia, a drop in body temperature due to overexposure to cool temperatures. If the burn is bad, visit a doctor.

Myth: Drinking alcohol is good way to prevent and treat hypothermia.

Fact: Drinking alcohol which could make you feel warm but it will actually result in more rapid heat loss.

Myth: To stop bleeding, tie tourniquet around the damaged limb.

Fact: Tourniquets can do more harm than good. To stop bleeding, apply pressure.

Myth: To preserve a severed finger of other body part until it can be reattached, keep directly on ice.

Fact: To prevent cell damage wrap the part in a moist cloth place in plastic bag, then place the bag on ice.

Myth: To cool a child with high fever, apply rubbing alcohol or cold water.

Fact: An overheated child should be cooled with lukewarm water only. Cold water and rubbing alcohol will induce shivering and may increase the bad temperature

Keeping an eye on Texas

Water supply: Half-full or half-empty?

As the population of the state increases—it has doubled since the 1950s—demands on water resources will rise and could exceed supply by 2030 in some regions of Texas without planning for conservation, waste prevention and drought management. Irrigation accounts for about two-thirds of the annual water use in the state, with the High Plains region drawing 4 million acre-feet a year from the Ogallala aquifer.

Statewide consumption, in millions of acre-feet

Red Cross offers aid to Cooke County

The Cooke County Chapter of American Red Cross is a United Way Agency. The American Red Cross office is located in the basement of the courthouse. The American Red Cross has been mandated by Congress to do disaster assistance and disaster training. It is the organization that helps military personnel and families deliver emergency messages. American Red Cross also provides CPR and standard first aid training, swimming lessons and lifeguard training. Last fiscal year, the Cooke County Chapter of the American Red Cross Volunteers responded to 34 military calls, 13 single family disasters, taught 68 safety and first aid classes, taught 46 CPR classes and taught swimming lessons to over 700 students. Cooke County's Chapter also helped in aide stations for various functions. They need assistance in all areas of service, so no matter what your age, please consider some of your time and money to help your neighbors when they are affected by a disaster. For further information call 817-665-4365. Last year in Cooke County 1,321 residents were served by Red Cross including 452 in Muenster.

Rep. Ralph Hall named property rights champion in 104th Congress

Rep. Ralph Hall (D-TX) was recently named a "Champion of Property Rights" for his support of property owners in the 104th Congress. The award was presented by the League of Private Property Voters, a coalition of over 300 organizations throughout the nation.

Some 15 votes were considered by the League in analyzing votes supporting private property owners' rights. These included votes for reforming excessive government regulations, establishing cost/benefit analyses for new government regulations, compensating property owners when land is taken from them, controlling excesses of the Environmental Protection Agency, and reforming wetlands laws. Hall received a 93 percent score out of a possible 100. "Owning property is one of the principles upon which our nation was founded," Hall said. "In recent years the federal government has increasingly encroached on the rights of private property owners, and I'm pleased that this Congress has made progress in reversing that trend."

Sivells Bend ISD considers tax rate

The Sivells Bend ISD is giving consideration to keeping their tax rate at $1.05 per $100 valuation again this year. The actual values in the district have increased this year, but most of that is in minerals," reports Dr. James Masters, SBISD Superintendent. "This change did impact our 'Effective Rate,' and, as a result, triggered the hearing process. The average homeowner, however, would notice a change of about $6 added to their tax bill this year," Masters explained. The district would like to maintain the current rate due to the fluctuation experienced in oil prices. Dr. Masters stated, "We have been told that the mineral values can drop as suddenly as they increased. We don't want to see our tax rate reduced, only to find that our values have decreased significantly. That could put us in a real bind."

It's a great warning that electricity is very powerful and extremely dangerous. # Nuptials solemnized in Sacred Heart Church August 31

Angeline Marie Endres of Muenster and John Mark Eason of Texarkana, AR were married in an afternoon ceremony at Sacred Heart Catholic Church on Saturday, Aug. 31, 1996.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Sam Endres of Muenster and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Jim Eason of Texarkana, AR and Mr. and Mrs. Larry Jacobs of Lee Branch, AR.

The double ring ceremony was officiated by Father Rowin Schoech, OSB. Two large floral arrangements and candelabras adorned the Church altar. Decorated grapevine wreaths topped with white doves were placed on the altar rail.

Music was provided by organist Ruth Felderhoff and vocalists Emily Klement and Sam Fette who sang "Hear Us Now Our God and Father," "Surely The Presence Of The Lord Is In This Place," "May Our Lives Be Blessed," "Hail Mary, Mother of God;" and during the lighting of the Unity candle "One Hand, One Heart."

Given in marriage by her mother, the bride wore a Mori designer A-line white Peau soie gown embellished with pearls, beads, and sequins. The neckline accented with a pearl brooch. The chapel-length train was bordered with embroidered Battenburg lace and decorated with seed pearls, beads and sequins. Her shoulder length veil of silk tulle and head-dress, fashioned by her mother and her aunt, Janie Taylor, was made of a circlet of white rose buds and pearls.

She carried a bouquet of miniature white orchids, white roses, Stargazer lilies, with streamers of white tulle edged with silver. Nestled in the bouquet was her paternal grandmother's rosary, which has been used in all the Endres granddaughters' weddings. For sentiment and for "something borrowed," she wore a pearl necklace belonging to her aunt, Susan Tompkins of Houma, LA.

Jennifer Endres of College Station, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. Becky Endres, sister of the bride, and Melanie Bayer, friend of the bride, both of Muenster were bridesmaids. Their floor-length dresses were made of amethyst satin with wide pleated shoulders, and the V-back featured a large cascading Georgette bow. Each carried a bouquet of purple hydrangea, burgundy roses, and mixed flowers with streamers of satin stripe tulle.

All wedding flowers and bouquets were designed and created by Janie Taylor of Muenster.

Nicole Hayes of Damascus, AR and Celeste Kendall of Raleigh, NC, nieces of the groom were the flower girls and had white satin baskets filled with flower petals. They wore identical dresses of white satin.

Michael Tompkins of Houma, LA, cousin of the bride, and Adam Eason of Goodlettsville, TN, nephew of the groom, were ring bearers. They carried the rings on silk ribbon-embroidered white satin pillows, made by the bride's mother.

...nee Angeline Marie Endres...

Best man was Doug Eason of Dallas, brother of the groom. Groomsmen were Rodney Phillips of Texarkana, and David Woolsey of Fort Worth, both friends of the groom.

Candles were lit by Holly Eason, niece of the groom, and Jacob Endres, brother of the bride.

Serving as ushers were Scott Taylor of Austin, cousin of the bride, Dustin Hays of Damascus, AR, nephew of the groom, and Jacob Endres, brother of the bride.

Altar servers were Nicholas Taylor and Adam Taylor of Muenster.

RECEPTION

Following the nuptials, a reception, hosted by the bride's parents, was held at Sacred Heart Community Center.

Registering the guests were Sandy Taylor of Denton and Kari Taylor of Austin, both cousins of the bride.

A back-drop of lattice decorated with tulle, white lights, and a purple banner with the honorees' names was placed behind the bride's table. The table held a large floral arrangement, candelabras, tulle, and ribbon bows in the bride's chosen colors, and seated the members of the wedding party.

The three-tiered wedding cake, made by Betty Rose Walterscheid, held the cake top from the bride's parents' wedding; and the groom's chocolate cake was served from a table decorated like the bride's table.

Guest tables were decorated with purple ribbon, candles, and ivy bowls in which floated purple Fiji Mums. Stacie Miller of Muenster coordinated the decor for the reception hall. After dinner music for dancing was provided by "The Entertainer."

Assisting as hostesses for the reception were Neeva Sibley of Monterey, LA; Susan Tompkins of Houma, LA; Ruth Mollenkopf of Vancouver, WA; Jane Taylor of Muenster, all aunts of the bride; Leisa Hays of Damascus, AR; Ann Kendall of Raleigh, NC, sisters of the groom; Laura Taylor, Kathy Hess and Stacie Miller, all of Muenster.

The bride's maternal grandparents are Melville Sibley of Ferriday, LA and Virginia A. Sibley of Clayton, LA. Her paternal grandparents are the late Arthur and Angeline Endres of Muenster.

The groom's maternal grandparents are Elvie Stark and the late Hardy Stark and his paternal grandparents are Myrtle Eason and the late John Eason, all of Arkansas.

The bride is a 1991 graduate of Sacred Heart High School and a 1995 graduate of Midwestern State University. She is employed as a Radiologic Technologist at Denton Community Hospital.

The groom is a 1989 graduate of Arkansas High School and 1995 graduate of Ultrasound Diagnostic School. He is employed as an ultrasound technologist by Clinical Diagnostic Systems.

Following a honeymoon trip to Jamaica, the couple will reside in Denton.

Lay Franciscans meet at Stoffels' home

Therese Hermes opened the Aug. 28 meeting by having all members sing the St. Francis song. Following this, the Franciscan prayers were read, all, followed by the prayer to the Holy Spirit. Marie Mmerer read from Scripture, 1. 3: 12-17.

A thank you letter was received from Mr. John Mmerer for rosaries, which were sent to the prison in Seville, TX; a notice from Alhart, TX Unit Chaplain, states that the prisoners are thankful for the rosaries and booklets mailed to them.

The Anthony T. Vadackel's, the fraternity's adopted family, say many thanks for helping their family since 1983. Their two sons are now carpenters and their daughter is a tailor.

A thank you note was received from Bishop Peter Chenaparampel of Kerala, India for money received.

In India, rain now is creating much havoc. Houses along the edge of the river are carried away and they are waiting for the end of the monsoon season.

The Bishop's Cathedral now has a foundation and different people come to help with the work. When it rains it gets too wet to do much work. It will take a long time to finish.

People in Brazil live in extreme poverty in the Amazon and need a school. They live in the jungle and many are lepers. Members of the Lindsay Franciscans voted to mail $100 to help these poor children.

The fraternity is preparing for a dinner and raffle on Sept. 22, 1996. It will be a turkey and dressing dinner, after the 10:00 Mass at Centennial Hall in Lindsay. Everyone is welcome.

After a motion to adjourn, the closing prayers, the petitions, and the prayer for healing were prayed by all. Hostess Mary Stoffels served Angel food cake, ice cream, strawberries, and tea.

Texas Highways magazine prints two Moster photos

Frank Moster, son of Mary Moster and the late Steve Moster, has two photos published in the September issue of Texas Highways Magazine. Shown on page 47, one is a six-hour exposure of star trails over North Texas. The second photo, another time-lapse shot, taken with the camera pointed toward Polaris, the North Star, reveals the circular star trails traced as the earth rotates. With photos by several other photographers, these are included in a story "Deep In The Skies Of Texas," by D. Benningfield, pages 42 to 48.

NCTC offers Miss Saigon matinee opportunity

The Broadway hit, Miss Saigon at the Fair Park Music Hall in Dallas will be the sight of a continuing arts series presented by the Community Education department at North Central Texas College on Saturday, Sept. 21.

In the second addition to the "Performances and Tours" series presented by NCTC, theater goers will have the opportunity to ride en masse in the college's "Traveling Classroom" to see a matinee showing of Miss Saigon now in its sixth year of production.

Group discussions will be held on the trip to and from Fair Park Music Hall by NCTC's Director of Music, Dr. Mike Linder.

NCTC has reserved seating in the center orchestra level on the floor of the Fair Park Music Hall. Visitors familiar with the venue know this seating allows the best view because the location of the seats is nearly level with the stage with a full and unobstructed view.

Miss Saigon is the story of love and self-sacrifice between a young Vietnamese girl and an American soldier at the time of the fall of Saigon in 1975. In a society torn apart by the after math of the war, the American Dream becomes a symbol of salvation and two people become the victims of fate.

Theater goers interested in attending the Saturday matinee with the NCTC group should register immediately as seating is limited. For more information, please contact the Continuing Education division of NCTC at 817-668-4222.

News of the Sick

Jody Felderhoff is a patient at Children's Hospital of Dallas, where he was Carefitted Saturday night to receive treatment of injuries received earlier in the evening. He was assisting at the farm of his grandfather, Arnold Knabe, when he was attacked by a bull. He suffered three fractures of the pelvic area, a deep bruise and painful muscle tears. X-rays have confirmed that there were no major internal injuries, a situation that almost borders on the miraculous. Jody's parents, Ross and Janet Felderhoff have remained at his bedside. "He is working like a champ!" they related about Jody, who was allowed to stand on crutches for a few moments Tuesday. More X-rays were scheduled for Wednesday. For those who requested an address for "Get-Well" cards, his family suggested sending them to their home, Rt. 2, Box 146, Muenster, TX 76252. They hope he will be home before mail could reach him at the hospital.

Health Notes

Proper treatment prevents scars

Minor cuts and burns need to be treated properly to reduce scarring after the wound heals. An important factor in treating cuts is to wash them with mild soap and water instead of hydrogen peroxide or alcohol, which dry the skin and kill healthy cells.

When treating burns, stay away from home remedies that call for butter, ice or petroleum jelly because they delay healing and may promote infection.

If burns or cuts aren't serious, you can care for them at home by wrapping them with a bandage to avoid accidental scrapes and bumps.

Country Tidings

by Ruth Smith

Word was received in Forestburg of the death of Mrs. Iris (Ensey) Spain, 50, who lived in Marion near San Antonio. Her funeral was Tuesday, Sept. 3, at 11 a.m. at Segin near San Antonio. Mrs. Iris (Ensey) Spain is survived by her husband Ronnie Spain, two children, one daughter and one son. Her parents were Dawson Ensey and the late Nonnie (Hudspeth) Ensey. Those attending the funeral from Forestburg were Dawson Ensey, Angela and Eddie Ray Driskell, Byron Ensey, Charles and Helen Hudspeth.

The Rosston Baptist Church will have their regular dinner after church services at the church. There will be a layette shower for Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Pallet. Everyone is invited.

Mrs. Gladys Balthrop attended the wedding of her great-granddaughter Catrina Balthrop, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Balthrop and Brandon Barnett of Saint Jo. The ceremony was held in the Church of Nazarene at Prairie Point Saturday at 5 p.m. with Rev. Marshall Stewart, pastor performing the ceremony. The reception was held in her parents home at Forestburg.

David Hutson spent

Monday with his grandmother Mrs. Mozelle Hutson.

Miss Lois Bewley and Clyde were in Gainesville Friday.

Joe Phillips visited Mr. and Mrs. Ted Jackson Monday evening. They all enjoyed eating home made ice cream.

Holiday guests of Mrs. Juanita Greenead were Barbara and Will Payne, Trey Payne and his friend Carmel all of Arlington, Ran and Matt Greenead and two friends of Decatur.

In my area we have received 2 inches of rain since last week. At this writing (Sept. 3, 1996), about 2 inch fell in showers this a.m. Well the grass and weeds are growing and that is what people with livestock like to see. The markets have improved some, but today the pork markets are off. So I hope they can make a comeback soon. So maybe we can all pull out of this drought and see a little better times. There are some who say the drought isn't broken - but I would say it is at least "dented" with all this green vegetation. I am thankful for every drop of rain that falls.

Approximately 50 special events in Memphis are being planned to commemorate the event and a Graceland spokesperson says they are expecting 40,000 to 50,000 visitors at that time. Other attractions in the area will also be visited on this trip.

Interested singles can write Single Solutions, Box 1001, Sherman, Texas or call 903-892-8298 for more details on this special event, to find out about other upcoming events, or just to find out more about the group.

Hornets have tough practice

The Hornets hosted the Fossil Ridge Panthers of Keller last Friday in a tough, muddy scrimmage. The 4A school of 1,640 students brought 82 players to Muenster for junior varsity and varsity practice. The Panthers out-scored the Hornets 2-1. "After watching the films, we played better than I thought," commented Coach Randy Tankersley. "The defense looked and played great - the offense never got any continuity, no flow."

Fossil Ridge scored once in game situation, with each team scoring once in overtime preparation from the 25 yard line.

Defensive standouts were Jake Luke and Erik Walterscheid, "and everybody," Tankersley continued. "Eric (Miller) looked great on offense, he stood out." The coach was also pleased with Corey Anderle's performance and the offensive line.

"Through all this rainy weather I've been real pleased with the boys' effort," Tank concluded.

The junior varsity was out-scored 3-0, with 2 scores coming against Muenster's second team. Much improvement could be seen from the JV.

Muenster did lose another player to injury Friday night. Tony Hartman is the Hornets third member to be sidelined with a broken hand. Scott Hermes and Josh Luke are also both temporarily out.

Next Action - Petrolia
The Hornets take on the Pirates of Petrolia from neighboring district 6A. They are big, physical and aggressive, commented Coach Tankersley. "Look for a real good game."

Petrolia had only 2 wins last year as a 2A team and lost 13 lettermen with 4-6 starters returning.

Game time has been changed to 8:00 p.m. at Petrolia.

Tigers ready for season opener

Wet, sloppy conditions and a big South West Christian team kept the Sacred Heart Tigers off balance, at least offensively, in last Thursday evening's scrimmage. On the first 20 plays, the Tigers fumbled 12 times. Coach John Nasche credits most of that to wet weather and mud. "It's a big area of concern. We are changing our snapping style to hopefully prevent this from occurring again."

Sacred Heart rebounded in the second series of plays, controlling the line and getting in good blocks, and moving the ball efficiently. The Tiger offense was stopped twice inside the twenty, for a 0-0 tie.

Coach Nasche was extremely pleased with his defense. "We have not been scored on in either of our scrimmages, that includes TAPPS 3A schools."

Standouts for the Tigers Thursday included Aaron Hess on the offensive line, Duncan Campbell and Josh Walterscheid on junior varsity and Derek Fuhrmann on both sides of the ball.

"We need to improve on the little things," Coach Nasche continued. "We have the core to field an excellent team." Nasche believes the seniors have been excellent leaders.

Next Action - Savoy
The Tigers open the '96 season, hosting the Savoy Cardinals Friday night. "Savoy is big and powerful," Nasche stated. "Their linemen are huge. I believe this game will be a defensive struggle with the team making the fewest mistakes winning."

The Tigers easily handle the Cardinals last season 42-20, a 1A school ended last year with only two victories and lost only 4 lettermen. Their strength is with Michael Richardson who carried 22 times for 1,200 yards.

Action begins at 7:30 p.m. in Tiger field.

Special Olympics "share the magic" with local youths

"Share The Magic." What a great theme for United Way is year. Magic is what Special Olympics is all about. Why? you say. Only because everytime an athlete takes to the track or field, throws a wling ball or hits the lleyball over the net - it is agic. It is magic because me never thought they could such a winner in a sport or e activity.

Most people are familiar th Special Olympics in Cooke unty - Cooke County VIPs ecial Olympic Team. Special ympics is designed to make man beings with mental tardation or the physical indicapped be the winner ey want to be. They try ve the athletes the dignity d pride that all of us want to hieve.

The athletes range in ages om 12 to 46. They compete ith other athletes in various ents, such as track and field, lleyball, and bowling. There e other sports activities ross the state, but in Cooke unty these are the events. ist to be able to compete with ers is something most of us ke for granted, that it's just a rt of everyday life. Think out not being able to speak, walk, run, or communicate with your peers, but winning a medal for a race or bowling well. That is what Special Olympics is about. That is what makes Special Olympics a dream maker.

They travel to Fort Worth for the Area 11 track and field in the Spring and in the Fall for the bowling meet. Volleyball is more for fun and to keep the athletes moving in the summer. "If you watched a practice you might think we do things differently. Well, we do," said one volunteer. "We have lots of repeat time, lots of patience, and lots of sense of family. If one person hurts, we all hurt. If someone gets a job, we all celebrate. It is not just out on the field - it is in your heart."

They host a local track meet in the Spring and last year more than 100 athletes from 9 teams participated. "What a joy to see someone achieve a goal and have fun at the same time," said the volunteer. "Come join us in the Spring and catch the magic in action."

Cooke County VIPs would not be able to function without the "Sharing Of The Magic" from the Cooke County United Way and you. Without your support and help the Cooke County Special Olympics could not do what they do for the athletes of Cooke County. For that, Special Olympics thanks you from the bottom of their hearts. You "Share the Magic" by your support.

Officials express concern over tainted corn

Hunters looking for a bargain on deer corn this fall may be getting more than they bargained for, say state wildlife officials concerned about the threat to many game animals from grains tainted with a harmful biological toxin.

Aflatoxins are potent biological toxins produced by fungi of the genus Aspergillus and can be found on any high starch food item, like corn or other grains that are stored under extreme weather conditions. Animals ingesting corn containing aflatoxins are susceptible to liver damage and other diseases as the toxin suppress their immune response. Of particular concern are bred animals because of the adverse impact aflatoxins can have on unborn fawns.

While there is no mandatory testing for aflatoxin, Federal Drug Administration rules do not allow corn tested at more than 20 ppb (parts per billion) of aflatoxin to be fed to dairy cattle. Corn exceeding the allowable levels of aflatoxin is typically sold as deer corn, and wildlife officials fear poor crop production this year, combined with stressful storage conditions ripe for aflatoxin, could result in an abundance of tainted deer corn on the market.

Levels of aflatoxins may also continue to increase in tainted corn which is stored in a cool, humid place like a deer feeder, resulting in significantly higher concentrations of the toxin in a relatively short period of time.

If you are going to use deer corn, take precautions to limit the potential for aflatoxin. Avoid using poorly constructed feeders which would allow corn to become wet and do not pour large piles of corn on the ground.

High consumer prices stay cattle prices slump

Retail beef prices haven't fallen as much as beef cattle prices during the past year because of the sheer volume of wholesale meat packers are delivering and the demand of beef by the consumer.

Texas Agricultural Extension Livestock Marketing Economist, Professor Ernest Davis said when cattle raisers produce more than 23.5 billion pounds of beef a year, cattle prices go down. He said with production numbers of 24 billion in 1994 and 25 billion in 1995 prices have gone down.

Davis said these numbers pushed cattle prices down and the drought kept feed corn prices high. He said with every $1 increase per bushel of corn, cattle prices decrease by $10 to $11 per 100 pounds pushing prices below $55 per 100 pounds and causing cattle raisers to liquidate herds.

Davis said meat packers really don't have to worry about the low prices, because when they purchase beef, they only have to bid what the market allows. He said the retailers will only order as much beef as they sold in the previous year. The packers begin to accumulate a surplus of beef.

He said these packers deal on volume and margin, so they are able to offer lower prices to retailers just to get them to purchase all of the beef they have on supply. The retailer then is able to lower his prices just enough to encourage consumers to buy more beef without sacrificing profits.

TEXAS WHEAT FARMERS TO PILOT REVENUE CROP INSURANCE

Texas wheat growers will be able to try a new kind of crop insurance this year that protects them against revenue losses, as well as yield losses. But they must decide quickly—September 30 is the deadline for choosing this new crop insurance. In 1995, Texas harvested 2.8 million acres of wheat and ranked eighth in the nation in wheat production.

Ken Stokes, Texas A&M Agricultural Economist based in Dallas, says it's a new approach because it guarantees farmers a stated amount of revenue. It's more expensive than traditional policies, but for the first time, covers losses from low prices, low yields or any combination of the two. Traditional crop insurance policies cover production losses only.

Wheat farmers in the High Plains, Rolling Plains and Blacklands should be sitting down very soon with their crop insurance agents to examine this new option against other insurance programs to choose the best product for their situation.

This year's drought points up the uncertainties of farming and the need to choose crop insurance protection very carefully. If farmers don't make a change by the end of September, their existing insurance will continue in force and they won't have any options to adjust it until next year.

CRC was approved as a pilot program in Texas and six other states by the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation. It guarantees a minimum revenue calculated using a grower's yield history, a base price established this August prior to planting and a harvest time price determined next June.

While the new farm bill moves farmers toward a more market-oriented system, it reduces the farmers' safety net. However, using CRC to protect revenue, combined with the new farm program, could actually provide a stronger safety net than farmers had with deficiency payments. CRC also can protect and provide a basis for securing production loans and the flexibility to use progressive marketing strategies to increase income.

CRC's expansion to wheat has the support of the Texas Wheat Producers Association, as well as the National Association of Wheat Growers, both of which worked to have Texas included in the pilot program. This may be just the program farmers want and need.

Other states included in the pilot program are Kansas, Nebraska, South Dakota, Michigan, Washington and parts of Montana.

Ten things dairymer can do to survive

High feed prices, low cull-cow prices, drought, and an uncertain milk market have created a lot of financial pressure for many dairy producers.

John Blanchfield, of American Bankers Association, makes suggestions of how to survive these tough financial times. His list is to get dairymen to think about their own financial situation and maybe come up with some additional ideas and solutions.

10. Take a close look at any capital purchase that will require additional debt. Evaluate every potential purchase.

9. Make a farm budget and stick to it. If your cash flow is tight, know where your money is going.

8. Take an objective look at your farm's financial position. Could you sell any assets that are not contributing to the business?

7. How is your debt structured? Terming out debt can significantly improve your cash flow.

6. When you meet with your banker, be prepared. Too often time is wasted trying to reconstruct information and important issues are not resolved.

5. Ask your banker about the USDA's guaranteed loan program, where longer terms and lower interest rates may be available.

4. Review your farm insurance policy. Are there buildings or equipment not worth insuring?

3. Check if your farm insurance policy allows you to borrow against your cash value. It could be a good source for low interest.

2. Talk to your creditors early and often if you think you may be having problems. Dry producers are some of the toughest people on earth and are very independent. Not all financial problems can be handled by oneself. Pick people you trust and whose opinions you respect and talk to them.

1. Take a weekend off, and that doesn't mean a farm show. You work 365 days a year, take a break, get off the farm and try to relax.

How to select replacement heifers

Beef specialists have come up with safe ways to find or keep the best replacements in beef cattle. Look for these economically important traits:

Early growth. Heifers with the heaviest actual weaning weights tend to be older and out of heavier-milking cows. However overfat heifers could have a reduction in their milk production. Also fast growing heifers may have an endocrine imbalance that reduces fertility.

Early puberty. The younger a heifer starts to cycle, the better her chances of calving by 24 months of age.

Fertility. In heifers that have reached puberty, a 60-70% first service conception rate and a 90-95% pregnancy rate within a 65 day breeding season are reasonable goals. Avoid extremely masculine-appearing heifers as well as overly-refined, frail appearing heifers.

Calving ease. Besides increased calf losses, heifers that have difficulty calving are harder to breed back. Calving difficulty can be reduced by mating heifer to bulls with low birthweight EPDS.

Milking ability. The optimum milk level is dependent on feed resources. Producers with abundant resources can select for a relatively high level (16-20 lb./day) of milk. Limited feed producers should shoot toward 10-12 lb./day.

Other tips are structural soundness, temperament, muscle thickness and replacement rates.

Matching the cow to her environment

Breeding cattle to fit their environment may sound easy, but Dr. Bill Turner, professor of animal science at Texas A&M University says that is not the case.

The environment plays a big part in how cattle react to everyday stress such as reproduction and feed intake.

"We must first define the productive environment, environmental stress and feedability of the environment before we even begin to look at the cattle," Turner said.

Then, he said we must look at the reproductive capabilities of our cattle to determine their value within that environment.

According to Turner, the selection and culling of female replacement heifers is critical to future production. The three primary items to look for and cull for are good reproductive capabilities, maternal instincts and growth and the ability to produce meat, he said.

Turner says determining the type of cattle you have is the easy part. The hard part is then matching these cattle to the environment so that optimum reproduction is met.

"We want a low cost, low labor kind of cow," Turner says. "One that doesn't cost a lot to keep."

Cattle should be moderate in size, he said. Producers and packers want an animal that is not too small and not too big.

In order to attain maximum production, producers should aim to wean a 475 pound calf from every cow exposed to a bull.

Turner stressed the importance of management in the quest for a fundamentally balanced herd. Culling non-productive heifers ultimately will result in higher expectancy rates which will ensure better profit margins.

RB-51 for brucellosis available

A newly-approved brucellosis vaccine, RB-51, can cut producers' concerns about vaccinated cows getting false-positive results on brucellosis tests.

According to the Texas Animal Health Commission, accredited veterinarians are using the RB-51 vaccine in place of the phased out Strain 19 vaccine. Strain 19 worked well to prevent infection, but created testing problems.

Veterinarians can order the RB-51 vaccine at a reasonable cost through routine biologics distributors. Veterinarians then charge producers for the travel and supplies.

With the RB-51 vaccine cutting out false-positive results, everyone involved in focus on the truly infected herds, and finish up the brucellosis eradication process.

NOTICE OF EFFECTIVE TAX RATE

1996 PROPERTY TAX RATES IN MUESTER HOSPITAL

This notice concerns 1996 property tax rates for MUESTER HOSPITAL. It presents information about three tax rates. Last year's tax rate is the actual rate the taxing unit used to determine property taxes last year. This year's effective tax rate would impose the same total taxes as last year if you compare properties taxed in both years. This year's rollback tax rate is the highest tax rate the taxing unit can set before taxpayers can start tax rollback procedures. In each case these rates are found by dividing the total amount of taxes by the tax base (the total value of taxable property) with adjustments as required by state law. The rates are given per $100 of property value.

LAST YEAR'S TAX RATE:
Last year's operating taxes	$325,000
Last year's debt taxes
Last year's total taxes	$325,000
Last year's tax base	$117,220,077
Last year's total tax rate (per $100)	0.27729

THIS YEAR'S EFFECTIVE TAX RATE:
Last year's adjusted taxes	$310,710
(after subtracting taxes on lost property)
/ This year's adjusted tax base	$119,319,290
(after subtracting value of new property)
= This year's effective tax rate (per $100)	0.26043 x 1.03 = maximum rate unless unit publishes notices and holds hearing (per $100)* 0.26825

THIS YEAR'S ROLLBACK TAX RATE:
Last year's adjusted operating taxes	$310,710
(after subtracting taxes on lost property and adjusting for transferred function)
/ This year's adjusted tax base	$119,319,290
= This year's effective operating rate (per $100)	0.26043
x 1.08 = this year's maximum operating rate (per $100)	0.28129
+ This year's debt rate (per $100)	0.00000
= This year's rollback rate (per $100)	0.28129

* If the rollback rate is lower than 1.03 times the effective rate, the unit must publish the notices and hold the hearing to adopt a tax rate that exceeds the rollback tax rate.

SCHEDULE A UNENCUMBERED FUND BALANCES

The following estimated balances will be left in the unit's property tax accounts at the end of the fiscal year. These balances are not encumbered by a corresponding debt obligation.

TYPE OF PROPERTY TAX FUND	BALANCE
(none)

SCHEDULE B 1996 DEBT SERVICE

The unit plans to pay the following amounts for long-term debts that are secured by property taxes. These amounts will be paid from property tax revenues (or additional sales tax revenues, if applicable).

DESCRIPTION OF DEBT	PRINCIPAL OR CONTRACT PAYMENT TO BE PAID FROM PROPERTY TAXES	INTEREST TO BE PAID FROM PROPERTY TAXES	OTHER AMOUNTS TO BE PAID	TOTAL PAYMENT
(none)

Total required for 1996 debt service
 - Amount (if any) paid from funds listed in Schedule A
 - Excess collections last year
 = Total to be paid from taxes in 1996
 + Amount added in anticipation that the unit will collect only 96.77% of its taxes in 1996
 = Total Debt Levy

This notice contains a summary of actual effective and rollback tax rates' calculations. You can inspect a copy of the full calculations at the Cooke County Appraisal District office, 200 W. California, Gainesville, TX 76240.
