VOLUME IX

MUENSTER, TEXAS, COOKE COUNTY, FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 28, 1945

NUMBER 45

Perhaps there was some truth after all in the dire predictions of depression for the post war period. Many of us could not imagine how such a thing was possible. Knowing the tremendous demand for renovation and new production we assumed there would be more than enough work to go around. Everybody could have a job and, combining earnings with the billions of savings laid aside during the war, people would be able to have more luxuries and comforts than they enjoyed before. The whole set-up was literally packed with the kind of circumstances that dreams are made of.

There's one thing we overlooked, however, and that is the utter frustration that can be caused by a mob of short sighted labor bosses. As long as these guys continue to strangle production we have nothing. Far from advancing our prosperity they're shoving it backward.

Suppose they succeed in securing the wage increases they demand. The inevitable result is that prices on finished products will increase proportionately. In the end the higher wages will buy no more of the necessities or comforts of life than they ever did. Nobody really gains.

But at the same time there are millions of people who lose. Savings laid aside in war bonds, insurance policies, savings accounts or any other form will not have near the purchasing power they originally had.

It's hard to imagine that working people by the thousands would be willing to cooperate with a scheme that deprives them of a considerable portion of their savings. In fact it's a little pathetic to think they could be led into such an absurdity. But even more pathetic is the predicament of the millions of other people past the working age. They are depending on their savings, accumulated by sacrifice over many hard years, to sustain them through their declining years.

Take the case of an old retired couple. What they laid aside to provide amply for their needs can not last long when prices are skyrocketing. Or the widow who collects a few thousand dollars of insurance. Obviously that money, reduced in actual value, will not provide the security originally intended by her husband.

Situations like these are more than passing economic problems of the day. To some people they are major catastrophes. As such they deserve careful and conscientious thought by our federal government.

According to the fundamental principles of democracy there is only one justification for the presence of men in our national and state capitals — to provide for the safety and welfare of the public. Since the welfare of millions is directly affected by present labor trends, it becomes the duty of governing officials to step in and do something about it.

What can be done? In the first place union organizations will not day can very properly be classified as labor trusts subject to the restrictions of our anti trust laws. If industrial concerns by virtue of their monopoly in a certain area or a certain line of business can be held accountable for their policies labor unions should also be held accountable. It is altogether within the jurisdiction of our government to put the clamps on those fellows in order to prevent any further disruption of economic stability.

From the way Washington meets this situation we can determine whether we still have a democracy or whether we have already drifted too far into socialism. A continuation of the trend would be so discouraging to private investors that before many years the government would have to take over all production. At the same time the line-up for doles would grow to include not only the old gimme crowd but several million others who intended to take care of themselves only to find their good intentions frustrated by short sighted economic theories.

It isn't too late to revive democracy and common sense. All it requires is courageous statesmanship instead of vote baiting politics.

About the time comment on MacArthur's statement begins to simmer down Eisenhower takes up the good work with his prediction that GI's can be moved out of Germany in another 15 months. That's not so nice for the brass hats who had visions of prolonging their high salaried positions by holding a large army.

Fortunately for a few million draftees the majority of the American public and quite a lot (Continued on Page 4)

YANKS IN GERMANY BUILD ARMY CHAPEL FROM SCRAP MATERIAL

Pfc. Arnold Swirczynski, member of the 311th Infantry Division in a recent letter to his wife tells about helping construct an army chapel in Germany.

What formerly was a mess hall in a German labor camp, is now a Catholic chapel for the Timberwolves. Named the Church of the Assumption, the chapel is in Grebenstein.

There were no Catholic churches in the regimental area so the Timberwolves took it upon themselves to erect a place of worship.

Capable of seating 200 at one time, the inside is neatly painted with a white ceiling and buff walls. Windows along the sides have been stained and lights have been installed. One of the boys who is an artist decorated the windows, painting thereon the traditional religious figures. Red and yellow drapes and candles were obtained from a church at Hofgeismar, and a Protestant church at Grebenstein furnished the pews.

The tabernacle was made from a milk can Yugoslav women, former slave laborers, observed the soldiers construct the chapel and then volunteered their services by scrubbing the floors.

Pfc. Swirczynski wrote that all the men are elated over their achievement and that it is inspiring and edifying to see the large number that attend religious services in the chapel.

$5,000 Worth Grain Is Destroyed In Big Barn Fire

Structure On John Beznar Farm Burned Saturday Evening

A barn belonging to John Beznar on Highway 82, west of Gainesville, containing oats, barley and hay valued at $5,000 was completely destroyed by fire Saturday night at 8:30.

Joe Ross, a tenant on the Beznar place, discovered the blaze and with the help of a passer-by moved two big trucks away from the barn and out of danger, and also rescued a horse, only livestock inside the barn.

The source of the fire is not known but it is believed to have been started by rats, chewing on matches accidentally dropped in the barn.

Fire trucks from Camp Howe and Gainesville were summoned but the blaze was out of control by the time they arrived.

Ted Gremminger was in Wichita Falls for a weekend visit with his uncle, Frank Eiseman, who is confined to a hospital with a broken hip. He is 78 years old and is making a satisfactory recovery.

Truck Crashes Into Side Wall Of Herr Garage

$1,000 Damage Results Without Injury To Driver Or Garage Personnel

A trailer truck crashed into the south wall of Herr Motor company at 1:15 last Wednesday afternoon and did extensive damage to the building without injuring anyone.

The cab of the long heavy truck plowed through the side of the garage demolishing the ladies lounge, after first tearing down the corner gasoline pump. Front plate glass windows were shattered and merchandise inside the building was scattered over a wide area.

Scores of persons heard the crash and rushed to see the sight. Ben Wester, driver of the truck, was going east enroute to his home in Celina. Traffic congestion at the intersection of Main street and the highway is said to have caused the accident. In order to avoid collision with another truck Wester swerved his vehicle and ran into the building.

Adolph Herr, owner of the building, estimated the damage at approximately $1,000. He began repairs immediately and by Saturday night had the wall siding up. Interior work will take some-time to complete.

HALF INCH RAIN ON MONDAY DISAPPOINTS FARMERS, DAIRYMEN

A light shower, measuring one-half inch of precipitation fell in this sector Monday night, bringing the first moisture to thirsty fields and pastures since August 11th.

Farmers and dairymen have been wishing for rain for weeks, and Monday night's pre-runner of thunder and lightning led to high hopes for a real soaker. The half inch is a disappointment.

Feed crops are suffering from the drought, pastures are almost bare of greenery for cattle and fields are so dry they are hard to plow.

Mayoroddities

By J. M. Weinzapfel
 Muenster Mayor

This past week the vehicle damage to the auto sales and service building at the corner of Main and Division Streets, being the U.S. Federal Highway No. 82 and the Main Street crossing brought up the question, whether this incident would have happened, had the traffic light been operating. The subject of purchasing a new traffic light at a recent meeting, brought out different opinions of the City Council.

Some of the citizens declare the traffic control a hazard, causing greater danger, because of its installation, while many insist that it should be replaced without delay. When the question is divided, it is hard to come to a definite decision. Because some of the smaller towns on important highways have discarded or masked their controls, it is thought no important traffic crossing prevailed and most likely the highway was the main street of such town, so the highway traffic maintained the right of way and the local traffic followed the same trend of flow.

Where the traffic is heavy from every direction, being the case of our highway and main street crossing, the situation differs. We refer to the heavy traffic centers near the large cities, with traffic lights, even police patrol with all the signals and speed regulation signs. If public opinion finds it desirable that a new light should be installed it would be a good idea to contact the members of the City Council individually to help them make a final decision.

On June 23rd 1927, page 33, of the Minute Book Number One the City Council adopted an ordinance making it a violation to exceed the speed limit on any Street within the City Limits, the offense punishable by a fine of $1.00 and not to exceed $25.00. Probably some, especially the new crop of chauffeurs do not know of these regulations or have forgotten about the penalties paid in previous years for such offence, probably an arrest and conviction for a change would bring a little caution to our drivers.

Advice came to hand this week that the electric water pump, for the new well, will arrive now in a very short time for it was shipped from Schenectady, N.Y. on September 20th, thru an order given May 9th to the Southwestern Pump and Engine Company of Dallas, representing the Fairbanks Morse Company who have purchased the Pamona Pump Co.

makers of our pump. Representatives of the Texas Power & Light Company have assured proper connections in time the pump is installed. Concrete base for the pump-setting and the foundation for the building over the well, will be necessary. The car-load of 4" pipe should arrive now soon to make connection of the new well to the present ground reservoir. This installation should tide over the water facilities until the major improvements are authorized and the time is appropriate.

Your Health

Austin, Texas. — As a safeguard against the serious and disabling disease known as undulant fever or Malta fever, Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, advises Texans to drink milk only from approved sources. Undulant fever is usually acquired by human beings as a result of consuming raw milk products from cows infected with Bang's disease.

Raw milk or milk products can be consumed with safety only when they are known to be produced by cows tested and found to be free of Bang's disease. Pasteurization, of course, will kill the germs if present. To lower the incidence of undulant fever all dairymen are asked to cooperate with the State Department of Health by removing cattle infected with Bang's disease from their herds as soon as the disease is discovered. Even if the milk is made safe for human consumption by pasteurization, infected cows are still a menace to health since they can transmit the disease to healthy animals and to their owner and other persons who handle them.

"Undulant fever," Dr. Cox said, "is one health menace we can eradicate in our State through absolutely safe milk supplies from dairy herds free from Bang's dis-

How do you look in black? Lovingly, I hope, because women are going to wear more of that color this fall than probably ever before. Reason is that few bright colored fabrics are being produced and manufacturers must use what they can get.

If you'd be a smart lady, save your real mayonnaise jars to take picnic salads in. They're also useful in the daily lunch box or as refrigerator containers.

A new plastic upholstery, to be used in lawn and household furniture, trucks, boats, planes, railway cars and such, will appear on the market one of these days. It'll come in various grains and in a wide range of colors.

If you find empty salt shakers when you go out, it's not because there's a salt shortage but because the paper containers it's packaged in are short.

Good news for all you beef eaters. War food officials predict more by fall. Meat experts have accused ranchers of "hoarding" cattle, and a number of steps are being taken to discourage this practice.

When serving cold foods this summer, such as soups and salads, get that "something hot" in the menu with hot muffins served with plenty of vitaminized margarine.

Modern hens, who have proved themselves to be much better layers than their ancestors, are being flown to Russia to rebuild that country's flocks.

A large restaurant chain is now rationing orange juice—one small glass per customer with no seconds.

FORD OWNERS!

It's really not our fault

Still, we're not going to blame anybody else—when, occasionally, we must take a little longer than usual to service your car.

There'll come a day—soon, we hope—when we'll be able to restore our famous pre-war service. Until then, we'll continue to do our best to keep you happy because we both know "there's a Ford in your future." In the meantime, thanks for being patient!

KRAFT CO. CHANGES ITS NAME TO KRAFT FOODS COMPANY

In order to reflect more fully its diversified line of food products, the name of the Kraft Cheese Company is being changed to the Kraft Foods Company, John H. Kraft, president, announced. The Kraft Cheese Company of Wisconsin is becoming the Kraft Foods Company of Wisconsin.

In explaining the change, Mr. Kraft pointed out that Kraft's postwar plans, in addition to the company's expanding cheese operations, call for further additions to its line of consumer and industrial food products.

"This change in name merely gives expression to a condition which already exists but which we expect to become still broader," Mr. Kraft said. "There will be no change in company policy. Fully half our business is and will continue to be cheese, both natural and process.

"However, Kraft for some years has manufactured such foods as mayonnaise, salad dressings, caramels, mustards and many other products both for consumer and for industrial use. We are now marketing several new dairy products, among them powdered whole milk and ice cream mix, which do not come under the 'cheese' classification. Others are in process of development."

"Come on Liz! There's the air raid siren."

"Wait a second! I got to go back and get my false teeth."

"What do you think they're dropping — sandwiches?"

of congressmen are thinking along the same lines. After order is restored in Japan and Germany our men have no more reason to hang around. From there on it's the concern of the two countries themselves to work out their reconstruction and our boys should have the opportunity to return to their personal affairs.

In this connection we think General Eichelberger's statement about Japan makes good sense. The Nips will not have the chance to start another war after the army is demobilized, war equipment destroyed and heavy indus-

GENTLE ANNIE

Gentle Annie, a pioneer woman played by Marjorie Main, is the kindly mother of two sons who have become train robbers to avenge what they consider the unjust death of their father at the hands of the law. James Craig takes the side of the law, playing a United States marshal. He is befriended by the bandits who are unaware that he is hunting them and he is ignorant of the fact that they are the train robbers he is out to get.

Donna Reed, as the romantic lead, is a pretty little waitress and helps put the "wild" in the Wild West.

Gentle Annie, laid in the Oklahoma Territory in the 1900's is an adventure story that is proving surprisingly popular where ever shown. It will be at the Relax Theatre on October 4 and 5.
