

Bond issue: vote Saturday, May 16

by Steve Cooper
MISD Superintendent
his will finish a series of articles that have been written attempting to explain the "nuts and bolts" of the bond issue. I would like to answer some questions that have come up concerning the bond issue.

Several questions have been asked concerning MISD's transfer students. They are as follows:

1. If there were no transfer students would there be a need for more space? Answer: Yes - Actually MISD's transfer students play a minor part in the district's space needs. Over the past eight years MISD has had an increase of 17 transfer students, while during that same time span an increase of 8 in district students. MISD had a total of 76 transfer students to start the school year. These transfers are spread throughout grades PK-12. If all transfer students were eliminated, MISD would still have space needs because of the state mandated student/teacher ratio of 22:1 in grades K-4. This means that no elementary grade would have few enough students to reduce the number of teachers at any elementary grade level.

2. Why doesn't MISD charge a transfer fee? Answer: At the beginning of this school year MISD had 76 transfers. Most of these would be called traditional transfers. This means their families have always come to MISD, including employees and their children. Each transfer student earns approximately $3000 in state money. The 76 generate a total of approximately $228,000. This is $228,000 the local taxpayer does not have to pay. While it is true transfers do not pay local taxes, they do generate about 10% of MISD's budgeted revenues. Currently transfers do not impact our shortage of space, but they do impact dramatically our revenues and the fact they generate a large amount of state money does keep our local taxes down. Finally, there may be a time in the near future when MISD's board would consider a transfer fee, but when that is imposed it usually slows down the transfers and at this time transfer students are helping our district much more than they are hurting it.

3. Are the transfers from Sivells Bend contributing to the district's space problems? Answer: No - Muenster has a total of 12 transfers from Sivells Bend spread out over several grade levels. I might add here that MISD has a very strict transfer policy and students must meet academic, disciplinary, attendance, and good work ethic standards before being admitted to the district.

4. If the cost to educate a student is approximately $4,000 and the state pays approximately $3,000 per transfer student, does this mean the local taxpayer makes up the difference?

Answer: Yes - This is true of each student whether a transfer or not. However, keep in mind that if there were no transfer students the cost per student would increase and there would be a greater deficit for the local taxpayer to make up. If there were no transfers, cost per pupil would increase about $900, but state money would remain constant. There is a classroom efficiency involved in this. For example - if a classroom has 10 students (for illustration purposes only) all in district, those students would generate $30,000 in state money. If a teacher's salary was $35,000, and utility costs were $250 per year for that room and insurance costs were $150 per year, that would be total of $35,400 in fixed costs. The district is getting $30,000 in state money, subtract that from the cost and you are "in the hole" $5,400. If you add 10 transfers (you are still under the 22:1 student/teacher ratio) that generates an additional $30,000 in state money bringing the total to $60,000 for that classroom, expenses stay the same and the district goes from the "red" $5,400 to the "black" $24,600. That is how transfers impact our district at this time - they give us greater classroom efficiency. They are helping keep the local taxes down.

One final comment on transfers - They are not the major reason for MISD's space needs. They generate about 10% of district revenues, without these revenues local taxes would go up. MISD does not charge a transfer fee at this time. To do so would discourage transfers and the district does not wish to do this now. Future numbers may dictate the need to charge a fee. The $3,000 the state pays the district per transfer student does help offset the local tax rate and creates less of a burden for our local taxpayers.

Phones on hold while court studies proposal

by Janet Felderhoff
Annette Shaw of Southwestern Bell came to the May 11 regular meeting of Cooke County Commissioners Court to explain her company's solution to the county's ongoing problem with its telephone system. The Plexar System which she offered was recommended by Jerry Woodlock, Jim Robertson and Bob Eggleston, members of the County's Technology Committee.

"Plexar is Southwestern Bell's switching equipment housed in our central office so that you don't have to give up any courthouse real estate for a switch," said Shaw. All of the locations would be tied together and there would be 120 stations (telephones).

Some of the reasons she recommended the system included: that they could use existing equipment if desired; Southwestern Bell would do the maintenance; Southwestern Bell would watch the telephone system and the county wouldn't have to delegate an employee to do that; it could increase the number of stations and reduce the cost by about $100 a month.

The contract calls for a five year plan that would cost the county $2,081 a month compared to the $2,191 paid now. There is a one time charge of $3,000 to set up the software to drive the system.

Several people expressed concern over the need to have two and four line phones. The Technology Committee noted that this was addressed in their recommendations.

A decision on this proposal was tabled 5-0 until

MHS students compete at state meet

Eight Muenster High students competed at the UIL State Academic Meet held on the University of Texas campus in Austin last weekend.

Douglas Knabe, Brent Sicking, Stephanie Bierschenk and alternate Karen Cler placed second as a team in Computer Science and each received a silver medal. The Computer Science contest has two parts, a written test, and a programming contest. The team finished second on the written part of the contest, and first in the programming contest, but the combined score came up just a few points short of first place. Individually, Douglas placed fourth and Brent placed seventh on the written exam.

Joyce Hacker, Leigh Ann Reiter and Emily Felderhoff participated in the Literary Criticism contest and finished in fourth place in the team competition. Leigh Ann placed seventh individually.

Valerie Erwin was the winner at the awards ceremony for Spelling and Vocabulary. Valerie was placed second after the judges scored and rechecked her paper, and was in position to receive the silver medal. Before the medals were handed out, Valerie noticed an error on her paper in her score calculation and notified her coach and the contest director. The corrected score caused her to finish in eighth place. She didn't win a medal, but she won the admiration of everyone in the room and received a big round of applause.

Sponsors for these events and the trip to Austin included Martha Koesler, Gerri Eckart and Jerry Eckart.

Do we need an elevated water tank in our city?

by Stephen Broyles
City Manager

The question about whether the city still needs an elevated water storage tank now that Dairy Farmer's Association (formerly AMPI) and other businesses have closed has been asked recently. The answer is "YES" for the following reasons:

First, the city of Muenster has been in noncompliance with the Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission's (formerly Texas State Department of Health) elevated storage requirements since at least February 18, 1971. Texas water rules state that there must be at least 100 gallons of elevated water storage per connection. Since the city has 625 connections, it must have at least 62,500 gallons of elevated water storage. More recently, the City of Muenster has been written up for this noncompliance in 1992, 1994, and April 13, 1998. Completion of the elevated water storage tank next year will bring the city in compliance for the first time in over 28 years.

Second, the city distribution system must provide a water pressure of at least 35 psi at each connection. With the wells as much as 150 feet below the northwest corner of the city in elevation and with only the current elevated tank, the water pressure in some parts of the city is sometimes below 35 psi during peak hours of use.

This was confirmed by psi tests at various locations in the city and by the Water System Analysis performed by Kimley-Horn and Associates, Inc. Construction of the proposed elevated water storage tank will increase water pressure throughout the city by about 15 psi, which will solve this problem.

Finally, increasing the elevated water storage capacity and increasing the water pressure should result in a better insurance rating for the city, with probable reduction in insurance fees paid by individuals and businesses. In addition, the increased water pressure and water storage capacity will aid the firemen fighting a fire.

Although the city is required to build an elevated tank with at least 62,500 gallons capacity, the city council had the foresight to plan on a tank with 200,000 gallons capacity. This tank should meet the needs of the City of Muenster for the next 70 years. Initially, the tank will only be filled with 100,000 gallons of water. The population of Texas is projected to double by 2025. As the city grows, the stored water will be increased to 150,000 gallons and then 200,000 gallons with simple changes in the gauge setting. This increased storage capacity is being paid for now and is a small increase compared to the total project cost.

At the Muenster High School Awards Banquet Tuesday night, Dr. Martin Kralick, left, received special thanks, a standing ovation and a plaque in recognition of his many years of service to Hornet Athletics, especially his attendance at football games where he watched the game from the sidelines. Making the presentation is MISD Superintendent Steve Cooper. See next week's Muenster Enterprise for more about the "Hornet Oscar Night."

5. If you look at MISD's enrollment history there have been times in the early and late 1980's when student enrollment was over 400. There was enough room then - why not now? Answer: Classes back then were overcrowded. One very important fact to remember is the district was not under Texas Education Agency mandates of elementary classroom size being no more than 22-1. All MISD's elementary classes exceed that ratio now and all have been split. That is why we have no room. On the middle school/high school level we had at least 18 fewer classes offered than now. As I have mentioned many different times - our space needs are driven as much by additional classes as by enrollment growth. For every new class the district teaches, there must be a classroom to teach in. MISD's school board has attempted to get out factual information to all voters in the district. Their desire is for the people to make the decision based on accurate and factual information. Saturday, May 16, the people will decide the outcome of the bond issue. Voting will be from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. in the front hallway of the high school.

County pledges $10,000 toward landfill study

by Janet Felderhoff
After a 20 minute executive session during their May 11 meeting Cooke County Commissioners voted to pay a $10,000 share of a feasibility study to select a bi-county landfill site. Others interested in the landfill are Grayson County and some of the cities within those counties.

There is a Citizens Advisory Committee which consists of appointed citizens from the interested parties, a technical advisory committee, and a project engineering team. This committee met to determine what is needed in a landfill and are now considering four sites. A study will be done to determine which site would best meet the criteria.

April 14 was the date that the last Committee meeting was held. Besides members there were about 80 citizens who attended. During the meeting Chairman Wally Cullum introduced Mike Carlton of HDR Engineering, Inc. Carlton remarked on the mission and purpose of the Committee and told of the progress made to date.

An hour long Executive Session was held. When they reconvened to open session, it was announced that no action was taken. Cullum announced that the Citizens Advisory Committee was forwarding a preliminary report containing four sites to the Policy Advisory Committee. These four sites are the ones that come closest to meeting the criteria established by the Committee. The Policy Advisory Committee is composed of county judges and mayors from the concerned areas.

The Citizens Advisory Committee will meet again, probably May 19, hopefully to make their recommendation and final report to the Policy Advisory Committee.

From My Side of the Fence

by Ed Cier

My mother, a lady who spent most of her life working hard (too hard), so that her family could enjoy some of the better things in life, seemed to enjoy helping out whenever and wherever she could.

I know that there were times when her days were long and she would be tired, but when milking time came she always made an appearance shortly after we boys would have the cows up and had started the chore. Back then, many people including ourselves, often milked the cows by hand in the open lot wherever the cows were. Most were very gentle, and most wanted to be relieved of their burden.

Mom had a gentle touch and soft hands and some of the cows she usually milked would, as soon as she entered the lot, get up and step in front of her, move their right foot back in the proper position for being milked and wait expectantly.

Sometimes Mom would ignore them and walk by just to see what they would do.

Some would toss their heads showing their resentment, and quickly circle about and step in front of her again.

It was somewhat funny to see how these animals seemed to feel about who would relieve them. They did seem to have a preference, because not one of them ever presented themselves, in the same manner, to any of the rest of us.

I have never learned what Mom's secret or expertise was, but she could milk five cows before I could finish three, and before we finished the morning chores she would have a big breakfast waiting for us, and lunch packed for us to take along to the north farm where most of our work usually was done.

Once I asked Mom how she could manage to get so much done in so little time, especially preparing and packing all those lunches. She said it made it easier for her because we were not "picky" eaters. Rest in peace, Mom!

Tax Changes: The New Roth IRA

The Roth IRA has the possibility of having more money at retirement but there are other good features. The Roth IRA gives you more flexibility than a 401(k). After five years, you can withdraw money without penalty for a first home. Also, withdrawals from a Roth IRA come out of your contributions first. It appears to allow you the withdrawal of your contributions without penalty for any purpose. So, if you have put in $2,000 for five years, you have a penalty-free access of $10,000 for emergencies.

911 rural addressing bewilders some from Valley View area.

by Janet Felderhoff
A number of Valley View residents appeared at the May 11 Commissioners Court meeting to vent their frustrations and displeasure with the county's 911 Rural Addressing project. Although most of western Cooke County received their address change notices several months ago, some people in the county are not to be notified by the Post office.
Don McFadden of Valley View was upset because his house faces Hudson Drive, but he was given an address for the riveyway which faces another street. He remarked that if the next to his is sold he will have to make another entrance and would have a different address.
Bob Harbin, EMS director, explained that the address was put into the system in that manner by the addresser from Spatial Data Research, but could be changed. When a 911 call comes up on the dispatcher's computer screen it shows the exact location of the house and the address.

Cooke County Sheriff Mike Compton added that the 911 addressing is to help law enforcement and other personnel to get to people in an emergency situation. "You want to be sure that we know how to come to your house with our equipment in an emergency situation," said the Sheriff.
Precinct #2 Commissioner Richard Brown asked McFadden if he'd be willing to negotiate with 911 Addressing to settle the situation and to come back if it wasn't settled to his satisfaction. McFadden agreed.
Alan Ritchey of Valley View noted he thought that the address issue had been settled when the same group came to Commissioners Court a couple of years ago and that the addresses would be left alone. Actually the meeting he referred to occurred in May, 1995. In a 3-2 vote Commissioners Court agreed to allow roads in Valley View that were already given names be allowed to retain those names. At that time residents were warned that they would still have a change in their address since the numbers would be changed to correspond to the longitude and latitude.

Ritchey said he didn't see why there were so many numbers between houses that were next to each other. "It's the most asinine thing I've ever seen in my life to have an address every 5.28 feet," he declared.
Brown explained that there are 1,000 numbers to every mile. Since there are numbers on both sides of the street, there will be 500 even numbers on one side of the street and 500 odd numbers on the other side. Brown explained that no matter how many numbers are left between houses, they would all still have to be renumbered because the old numbering system wasn't based on anything but estimation. A county-wide system needs to be consistent, he said.
Ritchey wondered why the numbers couldn't be consecutive on the houses like they are in the city. Brown replied that it is possible in the city because they are platted subdivisions and the blocks are set and are never going to change. "Out where you are we see it all the time, somebody will sell a plot of land at the back and give them a 20 foot strip out to the road," Brown explained.

Harbin stated that every tenth of mile is another hundred block and this tells exactly the location.
Walter Hesse from southeast Cooke County said, "I object to the arbitrary address change and also to the dictatorial wording of this letter that came. I think it was a very unfriendly letter." He lives on a road that is less than a half mile long and has eight homes. He couldn't understand why the numbers on such a short road had to be changed. He said his neighbors felt the same and he was also speaking on their behalf. He complained of having checks that he couldn't use up within the one year grace period that the post office allows for change of address.
Valley View Postmistress JoAnn Leatherwood told the concerned citizens, "Your mail will be delivered no matter what address is on it, if we know who you are. You can use your previous address. If you've got things that you have ordered, stationary and so forth, with your old address on it, use it up. Don't worry about it. Then when you use that old stationary and so forth up, then change your address." She noted that people who have moved and been given a new address have been told that their address would change within a year or so.

Ann Perry complained that her business had just had thousands of brochures printed due to the change in area code for their phone number. She was shocked when the letter arrived informing them of their new address, she said. Perry accused Commissioners Court of dropping the ball on notifying residents of the impending address change.
Most of the residents who have not yet received notice of their 911 Rural Address are in Gainesville. According to Harbin those notices will be sent within the next couple of weeks.
After all of the notices have been sent it will still be another 90 to 120 days before the 911 Address locating system is fully operational, said Harbin. The phone company will require time to individually input each number and address into the system. Each address and phone number go through several check points in an effort to avoid any possible errors. The addresses are sent from Spatial Data to Cooke County EMS to the US Postal Service then back to EMS and then on to Texoma Council of Governments (TOOG) and then to the phone company.
"This is serious stuff and we don't want any mess-ups," stressed Harbin. I believe when it's finished people will be really pleased. Other counties with the same system say it has worked out really well. We'll have an excellent system when we're finished.

Harbin confirmed that eventually this system will be adopted nationwide. Adopting the system has cost about $140,000, but the county has been reimbursed from the state for all of it, he said. The state funds came from a fifty cent 911 surcharge paid on each month's phone bill and sent to the state.
Virgil Hess Precinct #4 commissioner related that there are only eight or nine counties in the state who took advantage of the 911 funding. Those funds are being cut and now the other counties will have to pay for the project themselves.
With the exception of the Moss Lake area, Precinct #4 residents have all received their change of address notifications. Hess noted that there have been no problems with the 911 Addressing in his precinct. "Most of the people accept it and know that when it's finished we'll know where they are and how to find them when needed."
Presently when a call comes in to the dispatcher on 911 the address shows up and they give the county road number and directions on how to get there. Eventually Hess said that when a call comes in a map will flash the location of the call.
When numbering roads Hess remarked that commissioners try to follow what is the norm in the U. S. Odd numbers indicate that a road runs north and south and even numbers show an east and west direction. The county is divided into four precincts and the roads in that precinct begin with the precinct number. For instance the old Picnic Grounds Road northwest of Muenster is in Precinct #4 and runs east and west. It is now named CR 428. This makes locating roads somewhat simpler than having to scour the whole county map for a road with a name and no indication of location.
Hess said that numbering county roads is not new here. He found proof of the county roads being numbered as long ago as the 1860s.

PHONES

Commissioners had an opportunity to study the proposal.
Gainesville Fire Chief Steve Boone requested that the county consider spending 2,000 to purchase four radios for the Gainesville Fire Department. The radios have become necessary for the Gainesville Fire Department to be able to communicate with area volunteer fire departments when on calls outside the city limits. Local volunteer fire departments have recently installed VHF radios to improve their communication abilities with each other, the forest department and departments outside Cooke County. This wish was made on the recommendation of the Forestry Department.
Commissioner Richard Brown asked why the Gainesville Fire Department wanted the county to pay for its radios when all the volunteer fire departments ought their own. Boone explained that Gainesville didn't need the radios for use in the city they were only necessary to communicate with other fire departments when providing mutual aid for the county.
Judge Russell Duncan remarked that in his opinion if the county was going to call on Gainesville for assistance then the county should be the ones to pay for the radios so that Gainesville and the volunteer fire departments could communicate. "If we want them to go out there then we ought to put them in shape so that they can," Duncan said.
The second thought is if our county is about 30,000 people then about half of them live inside the city limits of Gainesville and are in somebody's precinct. The county has jurisdiction in the city. The city doesn't have jurisdiction in the county unless they go outside the city in some of our interlocal agreements."
The purchase was approved 5-0.
County Clerk Pat Payne submitted an appeal for a microfiche reader printer for her office. "We've got this old, obsolete microfiche reader printer and if the old drum goes out we're done for," warned Payne. "The paper sticks to the drum and burns. It's very dangerous like fireplace dangerous! It catches paper on fire inside and we have to hurry and turn it off."

Files in the district clerks office were reduced to microfiche for about a 10 year period. It is now reduced on microfiche which is a safer method. The files on microfiche were found to not always be permanently preserved and they will eventually have to be transferred to microfilm. That is an expense that will have to be addressed in the future, noted Payne.
Commissioner approved 5-0 the purchase of a microfiche reader printer, stand, and a three year maintenance agreement for $3,595.11.
The $20,000 certificate of deposit for Escrow Account for South Ridge of Lindsay was unanimously accepted. It is being held in the Muenster State Bank for Jim Myrick.
Judge Russell read from the Jan. 5, 1863 minutes of Commissioners Court Road Minutes in commemoration of the County's Sesquicentennial Year. An interesting note was the approval of Alex Beltwell to be licensed to sell spirituous liquor (less than one quart) from his grocery store on the north side of Gainesville.
In other business Commissioners Court:
• Approved indigent burial for Raymond Krug and Rita Scrogum.
• Approved final plat for South Ridge of Lindsay II.
• Accepted bids on road oil from Coastal Refinery and Marketing of Eldorado, Kansas for RC-250 at .6725 per gallon delivered; from Bridges Asphalt of Garland for MC-250 at .6513 per gallon delivered; and from Bridges for MC-800 for .6413 per gallon delivered.
• Accepted bid from Gifford Hill of Ardmore on chip material.
• Accepted bids for Hot Mix Hot Lay from Overland Corporation and J. R. Thompson.
• Accepted bids for Hot Mix Cold Lay from APAC.

Attention, young men: Uncle Sam needs you!

If you are a young man between the ages of 18 and 25, it's time to think about your Uncle Sam, and the best way to stay on his good side is to register with Selective Service. Although most men register when they are 18, as required by law, some fail to do so until they are older. In some cases, they wait too long.
If you are now 25, you have only the months remaining until your 26th birthday to register. Selective Service does not have the authority to accept late registrations after a man reaches his 26th birthday.

Selective Service State Director Harold D. Doyle cautioned that, with few exceptions, a man who fails to register before turning 26 will permanently forfeit his eligibility for certain benefits, such as federal student aid, job training, and most federal employment, in addition to facing possible prosecution as a felon.
Some states also require registration for state student aid, entrance to state-supported colleges and universities, state employment, and permission to practice law.

Doyle points out that men age 18 through 25 who have not yet registered can avoid the risk of prosecution and loss of benefits by registering promptly at any local post office, Army National Guard Recruiting Offices, or on the Internet (<http://www.sss.gov>). Failure to register is a felony punishable by a fine of up to $250,000, up to five years in prison, or both.
Over 13 million men age 18 through 25 are currently registered with Selective Service. Of those, 920,915 are from Texas.

May 17-23: EMS Week

By Steve Broyles
The week of May 17-23, 1998, has been designated National EMS Week in recognition of the life-saving work that Emergency Medical Service people perform. Muenster's Volunteer Firemen serve this role in the Muenster community. Without their dedicated and prompt service in treating injured people at the scene, many people would have been more seriously injured and may not have made it. Be sure and thank the firemen you meet this week as we recognize them for their volunteer efforts in helping others!

He continued: "My grandmother never shied away from hard work. She was known to chop and pick cotton in her fifties; use a hammer and paint brush at her house in her eighties. She loved working outdoors the best... Our fondest memory of her is her 62 year marriage to Grandpa. They both loved to dance. A favorite song was 'Waltz Across Texas.'" ## Margaret Elizabeth Truebenbach dies at 82

Mass of Christian Burial was offered for Margaret Elizabeth Truebenbach, age 82, on Wednesday, May 13, 1998, in Sacred Heart Church, officiated by Father Tom Craig, pastor, at 10 a.m.

Mrs. Truebenbach died Sunday, May 10, 1998, at 8:40 p.m. at her home in Muenster. She was born on August 17, 1915, in Muenster to Nicholas Stoffels and Anna Haverkamp Stoffels. On Jan. 2, 1940, she married Andrew Thaddeus Truebenbach in Sacred Heart Church. She lived her entire life in Muenster and was a member of Sacred Heart Parish.

Survivors include three daughters Celine Bartel of Muenster, Laura Gould of New Orleans, and Jane Fleitman of Gainesville, and four sons Giles Truebenbach of Muenster, Andy Truebenbach of Gainesville, Cliff Truebenbach of Gainesville, and Allen Truebenbach of Muenster. Also 25 grandchildren, eleven great-grandchildren; one sister Theresa Vogel of Muenster; two brothers Albert Stoffels and Herman Stoffels and one sister-in-law Eleanor Truebenbach all of Muenster.

Preceding her in death were her husband Andrew Truebenbach, who died April 15, 1988; two grandchildren Christopher John Truebenbach and Kelley Truebenbach; three infant triplet great-grandchildren, Faith, Erin and Andrew Dudley; one sister Philomena Vogel; three brothers Meinrad, Frank, and Nick Stoffels.

Preceding the day of the funeral, a Rosary Service was held in McCoy Chapel of Muenster, at 4 p.m., led by Dolores Miller. Vigil was held at 7 p.m. led by Father Tom Craig.

Readings from the Old Testament and New Testament in the special funeral liturgy of the Mass of Christian Burial Wednesday morning were given by Marcelline Felderhoff and Vickie Truebenbach, respectively. Christi Hesse sang the Responsorial Psalm. April Walterscheid led Prayers of the Faithful and Petitions. Grandchildren Amy Truebenbach, Sabrina Truebenbach, and Adrienne Bartel participated in the Offertory procession. Adrienne presented Offertory gifts of bread and wine at the altar. Amy presented a fresh green ivy and Sabrina carried the family treasure, her grandmother's black iron skillet, wherein countless meals of family favorite foods were prepared.

Music ministers were Christi Hesse and Ruth Felderhoff. Sacred songs included "On Eagle's Wings" for the entrance procession; "People Need the Lord" at Offertory; "Only This I Want;" and "Christ Be Our Light;" at Communion; "On This Day Oh Beautiful Mother" for the meditation; "Edelweiss Blessing" for the song of farewell; and "Amazing Grace" for the recessional.

For the meditation after Communion, Bernice Bartel read an original poem, "Our Nanny, Who Has Gone Away."

Tammy Truebenbach shared memories; April Walterscheid spoke on recollections of her grandmother; and Kim Sandmann gave the eulogy.

"Our grandmother was known to the little kids as 'Nanny'... Webster was speaking of Nanny when he defined 'homemade,' meaning 'Made in the home... by one's own efforts.'... She was so good at making things on her own... children's clothes and grandchildren's clothes... she could turn scraps into beautiful blankets, aprons and pot holders. She was an excellent cook, for her family, for a big crowd, at Sacred Heart School lunchroom, Rohmer's Restaurant, and The Center Restaurant... Who can forget her pan-fried chicken for Sunday dinners, to feed all 50 of us!! We think her secret had something to do with that old, lop-sided black iron skillet."

Grandkids looked forward to visiting at the end of a school day. She watched over them, but always had homemade bread or pie waiting for them. Her sanctuary was her home. She loved going places, but the best place, she said, was her rocking chair, visiting with friends and family. She saw the value in a rocking chair, to read to, or rock with, a child. Maybe this is why a rocking chair was her traditional gift to her grandchildren for their wedding.

On May 10, 1998, Mother's Day, with her family gathered round, the Good Lord came gently to lead Nanny home, for He decided that this Mother and Grandmother's works was done and her hard-working hands were quietly laid to rest. It was decided this truly was THIS mother's DAY! Nanny sewed many things in her lifetime, but her finest was a special place in all the hearts she touched.

The eulogy was prepared by Bernice Bartel, family members and a friend.

Burial in Sacred Heart Cemetery was directed by McCoy Funeral Home of Muenster. Pallbearers were Tim Bartel, Ray Stewart, Cody Truebenbach, Charlie Truebenbach, Floyd Truebenbach, and Mark Fleitman.

A Rosary service was held at Clement-Keel Funeral Chapel on Sunday, May 10 at 4:00 p.m. and again at 7:30 p.m. Father Reinhard led the praying of the Rosary at 4:00, and Agnes' youngest children Dominic Knabe and Susie Fleitman led at 7:30. The eulogy was presented by Becky Fleitman Morris, a granddaughter. She related that Agnes was the second youngest of thirteen children. Her mother died when she was scarcely three years old. Cared for by older brothers and sisters, she learned the value of teamwork and sharing; learned about chopping in the "cottage patches"; learned to play basketball with her brothers; learned to play the harmonica; which she continued with gusto for years until her hearing condition worsened.

She delighted in her grandchildren until her last moments on earth, calling them her "rosebuds" or her "jellybeans." Famous for her talent of beautiful quilting, she made many quilts for fund raisers at church picnics, and made one for each of her 23 grandchildren. She prayed the Rosary daily, and sought the guidance of the Mother of Jesus in her own roles of wife and mother.

Agnes cared for her husband tenderly through the devastating effects of his year as a victim of Alzheimer's disease. Agnes was blessed during her own illness with the care from her children, their spouses, home-health nurse and many friends. She spent her last days on earth in her own home.

Burial in St. Peter's Cemetery in Lindsay was directed by Clement-Keel Funeral Home. Pallbearers were grandsons Allen Knabe, Lonnie Knabe, Jason Knabe, Barry Fleitman, Bria Fleitman, and Jeffrey Yosten. Honorary pallbearers were Justin Fleitman and Jerem Yosten.

Marysville Homecoming, held May 3, hosts 225

The annual homecoming celebration of the Marysville community was held Sunday, May 3 at Marysville Baptist Church. It was attended by approximately 225 former residents, friends, and relatives, joined by local residents.

This marks the 125th anniversary of the Baptist church in this community. The homecoming is traditionally held the first Sunday in May each year. In 1926, the present building was dedicated, and the annual homecoming was started along with the dedication of the new building. The celebration has been held annually, except for a few years during World War II.

The church service was conducted by the pastor, Rev. Aubrey Spires. Fred King, church music director, welcomed guests and led the congregation in singing several old hymns, accompanied by Lorna Goin, church pianist.

Paul Goin recognized special guests and presented each of them with a gift of chocolates. Kathryn Holcombe Brake Janssen from Newark, California was recognized as having traveled the farthest distance. She is a descendant of the Walter Holcombe family.

Mrs. Wayne Young Tyler, formerly Lora Dale Binford, was recognized as the oldest woman present. She and her late husband were both born and raised in Marysville. She is 85 years old.

Mr. Hugh Holcombe, a former Marysville resident and now of Fullerton, California was recognized as the oldest man attending the church service. He is 84 years old.

Following the church service, a covered dish luncheon was spread on tables under the large oak trees near the church. Visiting was enjoyed in the afternoon. Attending were visitors from several states including California, Oregon, Oklahoma, and many Texas cities.

Library News

by Kay Broyles

After Jonesboro, the public has been increasing their awareness of the problem of children committing violent crimes. Each of us ask the questions: Why? How? and What is happening?

The book "Ghost from the Nursery - Tracing the Roots of Violence" by Robin Karr-Morse and Meredith S. Wiley, discusses this issue. The authors state that we as a society wait too long until we intervene in the lives of at-risk children. The brain does the bulk of its development from conception through the first two years of life.

Violence often begins in the womb when brain development is impaired by the mother's or father's use of drugs, alcohol, and or nicotine (smoking). Abuse and neglect during the child's first two years of life may also cause serious physiological damage to the brain. Children born in these conditions, and children who are abused or neglected during the first two years of life have a 50% chance of becoming violent teens and violent adults.

What happens when a child is placed in a better environment? What happens if the child remains in an abusive environment? This book has much to say, and it is a book that anyone who cares about children and the violence in our world needs to read. The book is available at the Muenster Public Library.

Two receive First Communion at St. John's Church on May 3

Two children made their First Communion at St. John's Catholic Church in Valley View during Sunday Mass on May 3. Rev. Harry Fisher, pastor was celebrant.

Those making their First Communion included Jase Rauschuber, son of Joe and Julie Rauschuber; and Nicholas Knezek, son of Gerald and Lois Knezek.

The children entered the church to the processional, "Our God is a God of Love." Lois Knezek gave the First Reading and Julie Rauschuber the Second Reading. The First Communion candidates presented the petitions and brought the Offertory gifts.

Following the homily, the children renewed their Baptismal vows in a ceremony in which Jase's godmother, Imelda Rauschuber, and Nicholas' godfather, Richard Knezek, lit their First Communion candles from the Easter candle, passing it to the child. The ceremony was symbolic of when the parents made the promises for the children at Baptism and now they are responsible for them.

The children received their First Communion with their parents. The ceremony was closed after the children were received into the Scapular Society. They proceeded from the church to the closing recessional "This Little Light of Mine."

Guitarist for the special liturgy was Margie Devers. Eucharistic ministers were Kathy Metzler and Julie Rauschuber. Acolytes were Jerad Rauschuber and Bryan Kupper. First Communion teacher is Emmy Schad.

Hib immunization is vital

Parents should ensure that their children are immunized early to protect them from Hib (Haemophilus influenzae type b) a bacterial microorganism that causes several often life-threatening illnesses. (While the word influenzae is part of its scientific name, Hib is not related to the virus that causes respiratory infections known as the flu.)

Hib infection is the most common cause of bacterial meningitis, an inflammation of the membranes that protect the brain and spinal cord. Young children may acquire mental retardation if they contract bacterial meningitis caused by Hib.

Vaccines now are available to protect age 2 months to 5 years; however, Hib inoculation is not as well known to parents as other immunizations that protect young children from infection. Two-month-old children can receive Hib vaccine at the same time they receive other routine immunizations; the number of doses received will depend on the type of vaccine used.

It is important that parents make sure their young children receive vaccine to protect them from this serious threat. Even with antibiotic treatment, some victims of Hib-related bacterial meningitis die; of those who survive, from 25 to 35 percent have permanent brain damage that results in mental retardation, hearing loss, partial blindness, speech disorders, seizures, paralysis, or behavioral problems. Hib-related bacterial meningitis is one of more than 200 known causes of mental retardation. The good news is that it can be prevented just by having your child immunized," state Tony Maddox, Executive Director, Mental Health Mental Retardation Services of Texoma.

Hib also can cause pneumonia, septic arthritis, pericarditis (a heart disease), cellulitis (a skin inflammation), otitis media (a middle ear infection), and epiglottitis (an inflammation of the windpipe).

While some children infected with Hib remain healthy or show only mild symptoms, they still can spread the infection to others. Hib can be transmitted from one child to another by sneezing, coughing, or through close facial contact.

Health Notes

Is it more than the blues?

If winter's gray fades but the blue mood lingers, consider the following list of questions: Have I lost interest in activities I once enjoyed? Am I eating or sleeping too much or too little? Do I feel overly fatigued or weighted down? Guilty or worthless? Am I avoiding relationships? Do I have fleeting mood improvements?

If you answered positively several times, talk with your primary care physician or a psychotherapist. Anyone can feel blue for a little while, but if the blues last too long, you may be suffering from depression.

SH investment teams finish strong in Cal. competition

The SHS Stock Market team of Aaron Hess, Matt Fuhrmann, and Jon Grewing finished 12th out of 810 teams in the Cal-State-Hayward Stock Market Competition. Starting with an initial $100,000 portfolio, the team made over $25,000 profit in 10 weeks.

From early in the competition the team ranked high, even reaching 5th place, within a few thousand dollars of first. Early they focused on oil drilling stocks, and then moved into precious metals. The last few weeks, within striking distance of top honors, the team went for broke buying and selling issues on the most active list, finishing only a couple of thousand away from the top five.

This year the competition featured a Teacher-Sponsor bracket. The SHS advisor Evie Felderhoff and Jo Caserta finished first, but it was a real roller coaster ride for them. After two weeks of competition, they were losing $14,000, and were the worst adult or student team. As their investments in start-up software companies and resource stocks moved up, so did their rankings, hitting first by the 7th week and remaining on top.

Also finishing in the top 100 was the team of Dave Hess and Waylon Hess, who made over $10,000 profit in the 10 week period.

The Investment Competition is a required part of the Economics class at SHS, where students must demonstrate basic knowledge of investment strategy, short-selling, and stock analysis.

Tigerettes win State Track Meet

For the 5th consecutive year, the Sacred Heart Tigerettes captured the TAPPS 1A Track and Field State championship. Of the past dozen state meets, the Tigerettes have won nine.

Action began Friday at Waco with the 3200m run and field events. Joanna Gehrig placed second in the distance race with a time of 14:00.12. Leah Rigler and Sarah Hess competed in field events. Rigler became Sacred Heart's first state champion high jumper, clearing 4' 8".

Hess competed in three field events, finishing as state runner-up in all three events, and getting personal best in two. Hess high-jumped 4' 6" behind Rigler. She threw the shot 34' 2" and the discus 91' 10". At the completion of the field events, the Tigerettes had a 42-28 point lead over rival Abilene Christian and the rest of the field.

Coach Nasche met with the Tigerettes that night to discuss strategy. "We knew from the qualifying times we would have a slight edge over Abilene for the state championship," Nasche noted. "I told the girls that we still weren't out of the woods."

On Saturday, the sprint relay team of Kristin Knauf, Leah Rigler, Gina Yosten and Debra Dangelmayr, were seeded fifth going into the race, but finished third with a time of 54.92.

Dana Miller finished second in the 100 hurdles at 18.99 and 4th in the 300 hurdles with a time of 56.41. Kayla Felderhoff completed the 300 hurdles in fifth place, with a clocking of 56.66.

The sister combination of Valerie and Melanie Bartush ran away from the field in the 800m run and finished first and second respectively at 2:34.15 and 2:37.23.

Debra Dangelmayr was the third Tigerette to be a state champion, winning the quarter at 1:03.12.

Valerie Bartush became a four-year state champion in the distance race, winning the 1600m run, clocking in at 5:40.

"Valerie ran a great race," said Nasche. "She out kicked the Abilene Christian girl in the final 150 meters."

The Tigerettes finished the meet by winning the 1600m relay in a close race over Abilene. Setting another personal record were relay team members Debra Dangelmayr, Kristin Knauf, Melanie Bartush, and Debra Voth finishing with a time of 4:32.89.

"I'm pleased with girls' hard work and work ethic. It took some more time to improve than I originally thought. The girls, though, never gave up. They kept working hard and eventually claimed the state title. The Tigerettes dominance only appears to be gaining strength. Valerie was our only senior. She was one of Sacred Heart's best ever, but we are gaining an 8th grade class that's loaded. The future looks bright for the Tigerettes," stated Coach Nasche.

Girls 2A Team Standings:
1. Sacred Heart, 126; 2, Abilene Christian, 103; 3, Ovilla Christian, 70; 4, Faith West, 49; 5, Harvest Christian, 40; 6, Parkhill, 33.

Tigers bring home state championship

The Sacred Heart Tigers brought home the TAPPS 2A Track and Field State Championship trophy last weekend, winning by a slim margin of 5 points, 123-118 over Balch Springs.

"I'm extremely proud of the whole track team, not only our state qualifiers, but also the boys who worked hard all season," noted Coach Dale Schilling, "most earned personal records, which they can work hard to beat next season."

Action began Friday with the 3200m and field events. Senior Matthew Fuhrmann leaped 39'11 1/2" to win the triple jump, while Jon Grewing took the gold in the discus with a throw of 129'9". Derek Fuhrmann's throw of 101'6" was good enough for a fifth place. In the shot put Grewing and Adam Barnhill threw for 3rd and 4th places, distances were unavailable. Fuhrmann also finished 3rd in the long jump at 18'9 1/2".

At the conclusion of Friday's events, the Tigers had a 12 point lead. "At this time, I anticipated a 20 point cushion," said Schilling, "I told the boys to focus on what's at hand, that we worked too hard to let this opportunity escape us."

On Saturday, the Tigers quickly set the tone for the day with a third place finish in the 400m relay. Charlie Mosier, Jeff Yosten, Chris Smith, and Duncan Campbell worked together for a 47.01 finish.

Matthew Fuhrmann kept the tempo up with a first place photo finish of 2:05.94 in the 800m run. "It was not his best time of the year, but Matthew seems to come through when he has to," Coach said, "I guess he had the next race on his mind." Fuhrmann then took the gold in the 110 high hurdles with a 16.72 time. Josh Walterscheid finished in fourth place at 18.10.

Balch Springs came roaring back in the 100m and 400m races, where the Tigers failed to gain a point. Campbell then won the 300m hurdles with a time of 44.72. Going into the 1600m run, Sacred Heart trailing Balch Springs 92-91. Lucien Gehrig came from behind to win the gold with a 4:54.54 in the mile. "Lucien turned in a great performance," noted Schilling, "and Skinner out kicked his counterpart to finish 3rd." Lee Skinner finished at 5:14.

Going into the final race, the Tigers had enough of a lead to win the meet with a 2nd place finish behind Balch Springs. The team of Yosten, Fuhrmann, Mosier and Campbell ran a 3:46.56 relay.

"I am very proud of our seniors - Matthew Fuhrmann, Jon Grewing, Aaron Hess, Derek Fuhrmann, Jeff Yosten, and Dave Hesse. They were the leaders," Schilling concluded. "I'm looking forward to another successful season from the underclassmen."

2A team standings:
1. Sacred Heart, 123; 2. Balch Springs, 118; 3. Faith Outreach, 41 1/2; 4. Harvest Christian, 35; 5. Cornerstone, 34; 6. Briarwood, 30.

Sports and Your Child

from the American Academy of Pediatrics

At what age should a child get started in sports?

Infant exercise programs are not necessary because these programs do nothing to improve your baby's physical fitness. It is a good idea to wait until your child is six years old before beginning team sports, since children do not understand the concept of teamwork until this age. Free play is advised until then. Although the age just mentioned is a good guideline, remember that all children are different. Two children the same age may grow and mature at different rates. A child's build also determines his or her ability to perform certain tasks. When children reach the teen years, there are many different levels of maturity.

A study of Little League World Series players revealed that almost half had already passed through puberty, although all were younger than 13 years old. Age, weight, and size should not be the only measures when deciding whether to compete in a sport at a certain level. A young teenager's physical and emotional development also are important. In puberty, boys gain more muscle mass and therefore, more strength. Two wrestlers who are the same weight and age will not be equally matched if one athlete is mature and the other is not. This puts the less-developed boy at a disadvantage and may increase his chance of injury.

Late-developing teens should delay contact sports until their bodies have caught up with their more mature peers. A child should not be pushed into a sport that he or she is not physically or emotionally ready to handle. But if the child has a strong interest in a sport, then it may be proper to allow participation so long as common sense prevails.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING
The City of Muenster Zoning Board of Adjustments will hold a public hearing on Thursday, May 28, 1998, at 7:30 P.M. in the City Hall meeting room, 400 North Main.
The hearing is being held to consider a request for a variance requested by Muenster State Bank. Muenster State Bank wishes to add a second drive-up lane south of the existing lane along First Street. Said drive-up lane would extend the concrete and awning onto the City's easement, therefore requiring a variance.
All interested parties may appear at the hearing and speak for or against the request.

Farm & Ranch

Will EPA ban pesticides?

Despite EPA assurances, farmers are increasingly worried that the government might soon ban a popular pesticide to protect children from exposure. Organophosphates, which include such chemicals as malathion, chlorpyrifos and methyl parathion, are used on millions of acres of American cropland every year and are common in household bug killers. They are marketed under various names for farmers and are approved for use around the house.

Without organophosphates, farmers would face lower yields and more expensive alternatives to fight voracious insects. Some estimates indicate cost to agriculture could soar by $2 billion a year, which would in turn raise food costs. The problem with organophosphates is some studies indicate that because of their action on the central nervous system, they could affect brain function in people if exposure to high levels occurs in the womb or in early childhood. A 1993 National Research Council study found that levels considered safe for adults "could result in permanent loss of brain function" if exposure occurs at a very young age.

Other studies contend, however, that levels of toxic chemicals in most foods are far too low to hurt anyone. Under the 1996 law, called the Food Quality Protection Act, the EPA must examine such risks for a class of chemicals that work in similar ways, rather than studying each one individually as in the past. The law gives EPA wide latitude in corrective actions if higher risks are found, including overall bans or removal of a particular chemical for a specific use. Agency officials say they plan to decide what to do about organophosphates by August 1999 - and they promise no moves without consulting farmers beforehand and helping to find alternatives.

What's the stocking rate of a ranch?

What is an animal unit? Animal units (AU) are how ranchers determine the stocking rate for their ranch. For example:
1 cow and calf = 1 animal unit.
5 sheep and 5 lambs = one animal unit.
6 goats and 6 kids (baby goats) = 1 animal unit.
What is the stocking rate? The stocking rate is the grazing capacity for the land. For example, dry semi-arid country takes a lot more acres per animal unit (AU) than areas in the part of the country that gets more rainfall. That is why ranches in the western part of the United States are usually a lot bigger than ranches in the eastern part of the country.
How does a rancher know how many animal units (AU) to keep on his ranch? A rancher observes soil, plant and weather conditions during the year. If it doesn't rain and grow grass and browse for the livestock to eat the rancher has to sell some of the livestock to keep the land in good condition. Ranchers use feed such as hay, corn or pellets (pellets are a manufactured feed supplement and is very expensive for the rancher to feed his stock for long periods of time) to keep his animals through dry periods and through the winter.
The stocking rate is the number of animals a ranch can sustain to keep the rancher and his family in business.

County Agent's Report by Craig Rosenbaum

PECAN CASEBEARER UPDATE

Alex Yeatts has been monitoring the Pecan Pheromone Baited Traps in the Sivel's Bend area for the past several weeks. Alex has caught the first pecan casebearer moths on May 8. There are three traps located in the orchard and each trap has produced two to three moths for the past several days. Bill Ree, Pecan Entomologist, reports that pecan casebearer flights seem to be early this season.
The Pecan Nut Casebearer Pheromone Traps offer orchard managers a good tool with which to check egg lay. Egg lay will generally start 7 to 10 days after the first moths are captured. The first nut entry usually occurs 12 to 16 days after the initial catch. This prediction is that the anticipated spray date will be May 20-24. However, it should be noted that orchard managers should use this as a tool to check for egg lay and make applications of insecticide only if sufficient egg lay is noted and a good pecan crop is set.
Remember, trap catches can not at this time be used to predict the threat of damage by casebearer larvae or the need to apply an insecticide. For this reason, scout nutlets for eggs and nut entry.

locations have excellent yield possibilities and much of the wheat in North Texas looks promising. Two new releases out of the Texas A&M Experiment Station hold good potential for North Texas farmers.

A new oat by the name of Dallas should be available from Foundation Seed in good supply this year. The Dallas winter oat was developed to improve winter hardiness and freeze tolerance. The pedigree of Dallas is Coker 84-27/H422/H833. Yield and test weight of Dallas oats has typically been greater than that of check varieties. And, a special note is that Dallas has a good level of tolerance to the virus that causes yellow dwarf. Even though the Dallas oat has improved winter hardiness, it will still winterkill under prolonged, sub-freezing temperature conditions.

The Experiment Station has also released a new hard red winter wheat called TAM 302. The pedigree of TAM 302 is Probrand 812/Caldwell/TX 86D1310. Grain yields of TAM 302 have been better or equal to the best commercial hard red winter wheats available. Test weight of TAM 302 can be slightly lower than other wheat varieties so early harvest is recommended. Other merits of TAM 302 include good protection to leaf rust and powdery mildew and good protection to yellow dwarf, soilborne mosaic and wheat streak mosaic. Both of these varieties are available from Foundation Seed Service in Vernon.

WHEAT UPDATE

The past week we had the opportunity to visit various wheat plots in Cooke County and also the State Experiment Station plots located at Prosper, Texas. It appears that all

TSCRA inspectors recover $4.5 million

Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association's thirty three field inspectors investigated 1,611 cases in Texas and Oklahoma in 1997, primarily involving stray or stolen livestock. Working closely with federal, state and local law enforcement officers, the inspectors recovered or accounted for 6,588 head of cattle, 80 horses, 21 trailers, 23 saddles and miscellaneous ranch property, which had a total value of $4,527,693.20; $126,581.57 of that was for sale barns. The average value of property recovered or accounted for each day was $12,404.64.

Cooke County Farm Service Agency News

Conservation Program Sign-Up - EQIP

May 29 has been set as the final date to apply for EQIP in order for your application to be considered for funds that are currently available for this program. EQIP offers five to 10 year contracts that provide cost-sharing for conservation practices needed. Under this program priority areas are designated within the state. The majority of the funds are used in these priority areas. At the present time Cooke County is not a priority area. However, we do not want this to discourage you from signing up. All EQIP practices must be carried out according to a conservation plan developed by the Natural Resource Conservation Service (NRCS). If you applied during last year's sign up and were not approved, you will have to apply again.

beans, cotton and peanuts acreage. For those of you that are signed up in the Freedom to Farm program, I do not have to tell you how important it is to keep your crops reported.

FSA Emergency Loans

Cooke County was declared eligible for disaster emergency loans for damages and losses caused by drought that occurred from July 1 through September 30, 1997. To be eligible you must have suffered a loss of at least 30%, you must be unable to obtain credit elsewhere, have sufficient education, training to experience in managing (this could require classes to be taken), you must have the ability and resources to repay the loan and must not have had a previous loan which resulted in loss to the Agency. These are some of the basic requirements for a loan. If you think you qualify please contact this office for other details.

Wheat Loan

With the low price on wheat, questions about the wheat loans have come up. The loan rate for Cooke County has not been announced yet. Last year's loan rate was in the $2.60 range for wheat stored in Cooke County, $2.80 range for wheat stored in Denton County, and $3.00 range for wheat stored in Tarrant County. This is on both hard and soft wheat. Some eligibility requirements are: you have to be participating in the Freedom to Farm Program, you must have a wheat acreage report on file in this office, and you must have the wheat stored in an approved USDA elevator. (At the present time there are no approved elevators in Cooke County). There are approved elevators in Denton and Tarrant Counties. Loans are for nine months after the month you go into the loan. Advanced storage would have to be prepaid for this time. The loan allows the farm producer to pledge the commodity as collateral for a loan.

Crop Acreage Reports

July 15 is the final date to report corn, grain sorghum, soy

Food farm value: 23¢ on the dollar

U.S. consumers spent $546.5 billion on food in 1996 (excluding imports and seafood), $17 billion more than in 1995. For every dollar spent, 23 cents covered the farm value of food purchases and the remaining 77 cents covered the cost of marketing these products. Food marketing cost-as measured by USDA's marketing bill- includes expenses associated with processing, distributing and retailing of foods produced for U.S. consumers. It is the difference between the value farmers receive for food commodities and the amount consumers spend on food at home and away from home.

Out of the hip, & into the ear

Injection administered at the base of the non-implanted ear, just outside the auricular cartilage creates less stress on the animal compared to inter muscular injections, allowing them to pick-up on feed intake much faster.

The injection site is at the base of the back side of the ear, just outside the auricular cartilage. Use one hand to grasp and steady the ear.

Using a Sub-Q injection, insert a 16-gauge by one inch or 16-gauge by 3/4 inch needle at the point where the skin becomes loose from the cartilage. Insert the needle to the hub.

Deliver the vaccine. With the syringe trigger still depressed, remove the needle while applying pressure at the point where the needle was inserted to seal the opening.

Texas wintergrass: pros and cons

Texas wintergrass is also called speargrass. Its scientific name is Stipa leucotricha. It grows throughout Texas, often staying green all winter. In the spring it grows rapidly and makes many seeds which have a two-inch tail called an "awn". The awn helps to bury the seed in the soil by twisting and untwisting as it gets wet by the dew and dries in the sun. Unfortunately, the seed is sharply pointed like a spear which allows it to stick in wool or mohair on a sheep or goat. The twisting and untwisting can also bury the seed into the flesh of the animal like it does in the soil. You can imagine how uncomfortable it would be to have something like this burying into your skin. If it gets in your eye it can cause blindness. Also the seeds and awns in the wool or mohair reduce the price the rancher can sell it for. Although it is a good grass for grazing, Texas wintergrass can grow too abundantly some years and make a rancher very concerned about the health of his sheep and goats and whether or not he can sell his wool and mohair for a fair price.
