VOLUME IX

MUENSTER, TEXAS, COOKE COUNTY, FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 21, 1945

NUMBER 44

It's reported that gasoline sales after the first splurge of stamp-free purchases are simmering down to just about what they were during rationing, the reason being that cars are fewer and tires are poorer. Which leads us to wonder whether gas rationing was necessary in the first place.

In the last analysis the old balance of supply and demand seems to solve our problems about as well as complicated and expensive regulations. Or, if we are willing to settle for a little regulation, gasoline sales might have been controlled indirectly by tire rationing. Certainly it was not necessary to ration both. People who had no assurance that they could replace their worn out tires and cars did less driving anyway.

We would not go so far as to say that meat rationing was also unnecessary, but we can see the authority of the Secretary of Agriculture that it isn't necessary any more. His department was in favor of lifting the ration on Sept. 1. However, Price Administrator Bowles requested that no action be taken until OPA had cut down its paid field personnel.

This should give a fairly good idea who gets first consideration in a bureaucratic setup. A hundred and forty million people have to continue worrying along with a useless imposition and pay a lot of unnecessary expense in order to keep several thousand maddlers on the pay roll a while longer.

Apparently some people up there are confused on their basic ideas of government. They seem to think the public exists to serve federal employees instead of vice versa.

Something to watch for is a report on the atom driven locomotive which is due to be ready for its first test in about four months. According to the chief engineer in charge of the conversion job, the source of power will be disintegrating mercury atoms, one teaspoon of which is estimated to furnish enough energy to pull 120 freight cars for 45 round trips between New York and San Francisco.

The man states that the horsepower generated from atomic pressure will be 350 times greater than that of the ordinary locomotive, and still he claims to have the formula for "controllable disintegration of the atom". It sounds wonderful but the average layman will still wonder how 350 locomotive power can be controlled in one locomotive. That energy alone, assuming that a spontaneous explosion of the cupful of mercury atoms can be prevented, seems sufficient to tear a locomotive apart.

Regardless of how fantastic it sounds, the one thing we are interested in is whether it will work. If so, we'll know we have entered a new era of civilization and it will not be so much looney until atomic energy is the greatest material blessing mankind has ever known.

To date we can't say so much for it. Used only in a devastating explosion, it has been only a means of destruction. True, it has served a useful purpose for our country and we have reason to believe its effect was responsible for hastening the end of the war. We like to believe also that the thought of its catastrophic effects will induce people to refrain from future wars. But that is only a negative quality. We want to regard atomic power as a means to serve humanity, not just as a threat to destroy it.

So, perhaps it isn't too much to hope that within our lifetime we will see wonders such as we never dared imagine before. Luxury planes circling the globe dozens of times without ever a thought of running out of fuel. Ships to comotives, industrial power plants, tractors, automobiles, all running for years on a few handfuls of some ordinary everyday substance. There will be energy a plenty for infinite advances in living standards in the remotest corners of the earth.

Therein lies the truly inspiring promise behind this wonderful discovery. Misery and drudgery can be wiped out. It will become possible to produce enough to support all people on what we now consider a luxury standard.

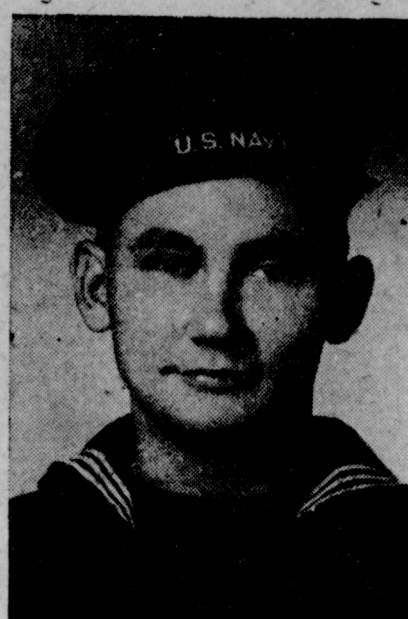

This day dreaming has a catch in it, however. The good to be accomplished still depends upon human nature, the factor responsible for joys and woes since the dawn of civilization. Power mad despots could use atomic energy as a means of enslaving the rest of the world. Greed, racial hatreds or oppression could still flare into conflict, the effect of which would dwarf the desolation of all past wars combined. To avoid that, spiritual development must

Cpl. Gerald Metzler was inducted in the army on Aug. 16, 1944, and took his basic training with the cavalry at Fort Riley, Kansas in January, this year. He went overseas, took part in several Pacific island battles and is now on Luzon in the Philippines.

The first was made in Nov., 1942, and he saw action at Tulagi, the Solomons and Guadalcanal. For that service he wears the Asiatic-Pacific theatre ribbon with two battle stars. He was home on furlough in Oct., 1944, and was at Camp Parks, Calif., until the following March when he went overseas again. He is now with the Military Government on Okinawa.

Pvt. Leroy Metzler was called to the army on Feb. 15, 1945, and trained at Camp Hood for infantry duty. He is now enroute to the Pacific, having left California last month on an overseas assignment.

Muenster Soldier Witnesses Japanese Surrender Ceremony

Sgt. Ray Swirczynski, Cook For MacArthur, Has Ring Side Seat

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Swirczynski have an interesting letter from their son, S. Sgt. Ray Swirczynski written from Japan on Sept. 4. He writes:

Dear Folks, We've taken a long time in getting up here but we finally made it. We have been in Japan 4 days now and have been kept so busy I had no time to write sooner. Back in the old days during the siege of New Guinea, Leyte, Manila and Okinawa, the thought uppermost in my mind was whether I'd get to see Japan along with the surrender and the big show our forces put on. Well, my wish came true. It was like a ball game and me being right behind the batter.

Our fleet, Halsey's Third, looked magnificent and I was amazed at its magnitude as we flew over in our formation of air power. I bet when the Japs saw all the congregated power they shivered in their boots. We had enough power right there to blow Japan off the map. We were ready, just in case Jap suicide pilots wanted to mess things up on the Missouri.

At first the people walked around stunned and with an incredible expression on their faces. They appeared as though they had lost everything in the world. Most of them went into the hills when they were told of the surrender. I noticed the last few days that they are coming back to their homes, with their children on their backs and looking as if they couldn't believe their eyes that the Yanks are different from what they've heard all their lives.

I went for a walk today and passed a little boy selling fresh fruit. I gave him some gum and his face lit up like a full moon. This country looks pretty good to me, in fact every place you look there are vegetable gardens—just everything you can think of. It's nice and cool here too—weather similar to that of San Francisco.

I have certainly been over a lot of country in the past ten days including many good places, but I am now ready to come home. When I was on Okinawa I looked around for Texas and home town boys but saw none. That's a place that really took a beating but now our flag is flying high over the island.

I am still with Gen. MacArthur's Headquarters as a pastry cook. I was really fortunate to be with his outfit because I've been right in the middle of things since we left Australia. I've seen him often and once enjoyed a conversation with him. Mac is the right guy for this job.

My mail hasn't caught up with me yet and I miss it. I have enough points to get out now but will have to wait for replacements to arrive.

Give my best regards to everyone. Love to all, Ray.

Six Local War Veterans Are Enroute Home

5 Of Group Returning As Civilians After Discharge For Points

Six more local young men, veterans of overseas conflict, are enroute home — five of them returning as civilians. The sextette comprises of Technical Sergeant Anthony Luke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Luke; Pfc. Carl Schilling, son of John Schilling; Sgt. Frank Felderhoff, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Felderhoff; Pfc. Thomas Sicking, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Sicking; S. Sgt. Fred Yosten son of Frank Yosten, and Marine Cpl. Ray Voth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Barney Voth.

Sgt. Luke wired Sunday from Boston that he had arrived in the states and was enroute to the separation center at Fort Sam Houston, San Antonio. He acquired 92 points and will be discharged by that system. Entering the army in Feb. 1942, he took basic training at Camp Wallace, and was transferred to Camp Claiborne, La. for assignment to the 82nd Airborne Division with duties in the finance office. While overseas he served in North Africa, Sicily, Italy, Ireland, England and France. In addition to the campaign ribbon with six battle stars he wears the Bronze Star medal for meritorious services performed as cashier of the division finance office.

Pfc. Schilling, is at Fort Sam Houston since Saturday getting his discharge on the point system. He entered the army in Feb. 1942, trained at Camp Wolters, and in June the same year was shipped to Hawaii where he was stationed during the entire time. He served with a chemical company.

Sgt. Frank Felderhoff, veteran of 37 months in the ETO, was flown to the states, arriving at Miami on Sept. 9. He went from there to Fort Sam Houston, where his discharge is being worked out. He should arrive here any day. Entering the army in Feb. 1942, he trained with an engineers battalion and went overseas in April 1943. He saw action with his outfit all the way from N. Africa to Sicily, to the initial landings in Italy, the landing at Anzio and the landing in Southern France.

His unit, the 591st Engineer Boat Regiment, was one of the first American units to be sent to the European theatre. It served in five major amphibious operations, received a presidential citation and a merit plaque.

Pfc. Thomas Sicking, veteran member of a Military Police company, has been in the army since March 1941, and served overseas in the ETO for 39 months. His parents received a message Saturday saying he was in the states and would be home as soon as his discharge papers are in order.

Sgt. Yosten, who has been stationed at Randolph Field as an instructor in the ground forces of the air corps since returning to the states in January, is expected home, accompanied by his wife, the former Miss Harriette Schoech, this weekend. His 26 months service overseas included duty in Africa, Sicily, Italy, India and China. He is now being released on the point system and will come home as a civilian.

Marine Cpl. Ray Voth, who has never been back in Muenster since he volunteered for service in Sept. 1942, arrived in San Francisco last week and notified his parents he'd be home in about 10 days. He went overseas in March 1943 and with his division took part in the invasion of scores of Japanese held islands without receiving a scratch. He has been all over the Pacific and has chalked up an enviable record of activity.

Two other veterans, previously mentioned in this newspaper as enroute home, are Pfc. Harry Fisher and Pvt. Joe Sicking, sons of Jos. Fisher and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Sicking, who have not arrived in the states to date. Both served in the Pacific theatre and have more points than necessary for discharge.

League-Garden Club Reorganizes, Plans Citywide Cleanup

The Muenster Civic League and Garden Club met Friday afternoon to reorganize after being disbanded during the summer months. Miss Olivia Stock, president, presided. The session was held in the public school at 3:30.

Plans made by members include a city-wide tin can and trash pickup in the near future.

It was reported that work had been done during the summer on the highway markers and further beautification of these markers was planned.

Mrs. J.M. Weinzappel who is in charge of the record and pictures for the state-wide contest sponsored by the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs stated that the Muenster club's record must be completed by Oct. 15. She read a letter in this regard from Miss Mame Roberts of Howe state chairman.

The sites for the proposed municipal building and swimming pool for the city of Muenster were discussed. The mayor and city council are anxious to have suggestions and comments from citizens. It has been proposed to erect the municipal building on the southwest corner of the city square. This seemed to meet with general approval.

During the program hour Mrs. M.J. Endres read a paper on "Waste not those Seeds", and gave an interesting demonstration on seed testing and germination. The flower arrangement of the month was a basket of purple thistles arranged by Miss Stock.

Next month's meeting will feature a book review by Mrs. L. Burchfield. She will review Louis Bromfield's "Pleasant Valley". The author is known locally having given an address on soil conservation here last year. Fourteen members attended the meeting.

C.J. Kaiser is having the south rear part of his drug store remodeled and rebuilt for a show room for electrical supplies. He will have a variety of appliances on display as soon as the building is completed.

Mayoroddities

By J. M. Weinzapfel
Muenster Mayor

Urgent request comes to Muenster for a report on the improvements made in 1945 which is necessary to participate in the State-wide contest. Making a survey of progress for the past year many improvements are revealed. A number of new homes built, some moved in and several under construction, though not developing growing plants, it does show a substantial growth that gives evidence to a gradual increase in population.

Most prominent improvement is the interest shown in repairing also removing old fence and clearing the rubbish and weeds around dwellings. Planting of shrubbery and flowers add to the setting of many homes. Many follow the recommendations of landscape artists to plant large trees at the rear of the home to establish a back-ground. The front yard to have a gradual rise in height of shrubbery toward the dwelling. High hedges in the front at the property line obstructs the view from the street so the beauty of the setting of the home-site, is hidden and the passer-by cannot enjoy the surroundings with the owner. It is indeed a pleasure to take a slow drive thru the residence district and enjoy the many beautiful yards. Of course the current dry weather has done much damage but the interest shown in the fine work during the year is quite evident.

The Federal Works Agency has confidence in the citizens of Muenster to get a job done when it starts out with a definite project. This week the first installment of $600.00 being 50 percent of the application for funds to meet architectural expense in planning for a municipal Building was received by the City treasurer. Now the engineers or the architects will not feel like we are imposing on good nature when we ask them for advice, sketches and information. To proceed with the plans and support the members of the City Council, it probably would be a good idea that a petition to the council be circulated and signed by a substantial number of citizens, requesting that an election be called authorizing a bond issue as described in a former article of this column.

A petition should not be disturbing nor alarm the very few who usually view such action with grave concern. It has been explained that the tax rate is set by law and cannot be raised without an act of the State Legislature and that one-half of the suggested amount of bonds to be authorized are to be revenue bearing bonds paid out of the net income of improvements.

This matter is brought to attention, that no one be surprised if approached by a committee to sign a petition to the City Council for the members would like to know how every-body feels about the proposals and need the moral support at least with a request authorizing such election when every-one can exercise the privilege of expression if they are property tax payers in the City.

Your Health

Austin, Texas. — Millions of flies help to cause the illness and death of thousands of children and adults each year in the United States. Hundreds of these casualties may be in the State of Texas this year if residents fail in their responsibility for developing the best possible sanitation measures in the area where they reside. Typhoid fever, summer complaint, and other intestinal diseases can be traced to the common housefly as the carrier of infection.

Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, speaking in this connection recently said, "Be sure that your windows and doors are tightly screened so that stray flies from a careless neighbor will not endanger your family. Be sure that flies are kept away from food, drink, and utensils used in the preparation of food. Make sure, if you live in rural districts, that outside privy vaults are tightly covered so as not to permit the entrance of flies. Infections from this source can be picked up and spread to human beings through contact with food, drink, and utensils. Keep all garbage covered until collected or buried. Eliminate all breeding places for flies and you will be helping your community in its work of controlling communicable diseases and preventing unnecessary illness.

Dr. Cox said that the State Health Department would furnish upon request a pamphlet outlining safe and practical methods recommended for use in fly control.

REMOVING FRUIT STAINS

Directions for removing fruit stains, as given in a laundering booklet issued by Westinghouse Home Economics Institute, are broken down, fabric by fabric, as follows: For wool, silk and rayon — Fill bowl with steaming hot water; add a few drops of ammonia; spread stained portion of fabric over bowl; apply hydrogen peroxide from a medicine dropper at intervals of about five minutes. (Test an unexposed part of fabric for color fastness first, of course.) For cotton and linen — Pour boiling water from a height through stain; don't use soap. If stain is old, first rub well with glycerin.

then use boiling water as above. All stains, regardless of cause, should be treated before laundering.

The RITE-WAY MILKER

SOLVES YOUR MAIN PRODUCTION PROBLEMS

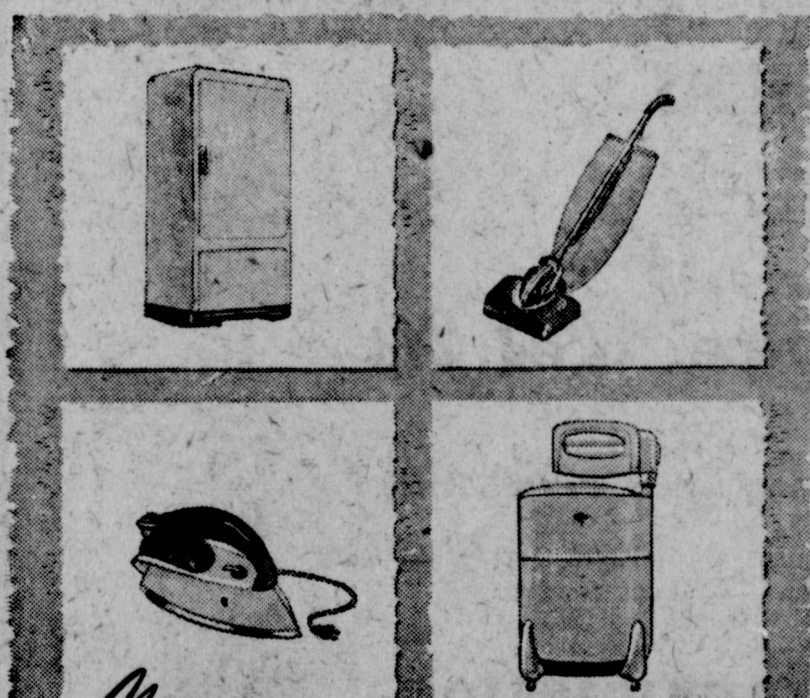

If your producing herd is big enough to require machine milking, especially with acute labor shortage, then make sure that you get the one milker that gives you correct milking action.

There is no machine on the market like the Rite-Way. It is fast and safe, because its individually designed inflations massage gently and naturally, as does the feeding calf. Our special Rite-way pulsator has no springs or gaskets. These two features should quickly settle your question of choice — in a hurry.

Call in to examine it, or phone for any information you want.

...YOUR ELECTRICAL APPLIANCES

American women know the time and labor-saving value of modern electrical appliances. Today these household helps are doubly treasured and proper care and use of these appliances are necessary to prolong their usefulness until new ones are available. Even with the end of the war at hand, getting back to full, peacetime production of electric refrigerators, washing machines, sweepers, and the many other time and labor-saving appliances will take time. So give your present appliances the care they deserve.

Here are a few hints to help you keep them working:

- ★ KEEP THEM SERVICED... Oil them regularly as prescribed by the manufacturer; keep them properly adjusted, and when repairs are needed... take them to a competent repairman.
- ★ KEEP THEM CLEAN... Keep surface clean with damp cloth to prevent rust. Do not dip motors and heating appliances in water. Wash lamp bulbs and reflector bowls regularly to assure maximum efficiency of lighting.
- ★ KEEP THEM IN USE... They are your most dependable helpers... will give you more time for the "thousand and one" things women are being called upon to do during these busy times.

SMALL AMOUNTS OF DDT NOW AVAILABLE FOR CIVILIAN USE

Although more DDT, the new insecticide was made available for civilian and agricultural uses beginning this month, its distribution will not be in quantity, says B.T. Haws, County Agent for the A. and M. College Extension Service.

While increased production has made possible releasing limited quantities, Haws quotes an announcement by the War Production Board that "civilian and agricultural use of DDT has been restricted solely to experimental purposes." Moreover, WPB emphasizes that the quantities to be distributed to civilians for household and agricultural use in the next few months will be small.

Haws quotes the WPB announcement further that specific allocations will be made to the Public Health Service to meet all requirements for programs related to the control of disease carrying insects. Furthermore, a U.S. Department of Agriculture representative said the Department would not request DDT for specific uses unless the following requirements were fulfilled:

- (1) The crops of animals to be protected must be an important part of the food program;
- (2) No other insecticide is satisfactory or satisfactory insecticides are not available;
- (3) Considerable loss will be involved if DDT is not obtained;
- (4) Use is officially recommended by the Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine or by a state official required to make recommendations;
- (5) The person responsible for making the recommendation and requesting its allocation should indicate his willingness to keep a watchful eye on its use so that it will not involve quantities in excess of those approved and actually needed;
- (6) It should be determined and stated by a qualified official that no deleterious residue problem will be involved in its use.

After almost a year I can seal this letter without it being censored. Censoring was lifted today. I have been very busy the past few days, getting ready to leave. I am now aboard and ready to push off. This is a P.A. ship (Personal Attack). It is loaded and crowded. It's the U.S.S. St. La Croix.

We are now with the Eighth Army and will do M.P. duty on the island of Honshu in Japan. We will be in Yokohama, about 40 miles from Tokyo. Should get there the 15th of this month.

We have good eats here. I sleep near a fan and our company is on the top deck. We had ice cream for supper.

The camp where I had been stationed was built by the 43rd and was named Camp LaCroix. It is at Cabanatuan, Luzon, P. I., about 85 miles north of Manila. Guess you read about the prison camp the Japs had at Cabanatuan. When I first came in at Lingayan Gulf I saw some of the boys that had been released. They were simply skin and bones.

The general wants to keep this division together so it can come back to the states without being broken up. It is rumored that we may get back in March or April.

Back to the food — the Navy sure does have good bread. The best I have eaten since I left the states.

I've never had a chance to tell you about my trip overseas. I went from San Francisco to Hollandia, New Guinea, on the General Hugh L. Scott. From there to Luzon was on a LST, 45 hours on the other side of Leyte a sub fired 5 torpedos into our convoy. A ship only a few hundred yards from the one I was on was hit.

I got my Good Conduct ribbon a few days ago. All if us have a few stars to add to our campaign ribbon but they haven't been issued yet.

Tell everybody I said hello.

MOOS OF THE MOMENT
BY UNCLE BOB
of the Kraft Dairy Farm Service

If you went out once a month during the winter and poured a sack full of dimes down that woodchuck hole in your back pasture, your neighbors probably would think you were a candidate for a padded cell.

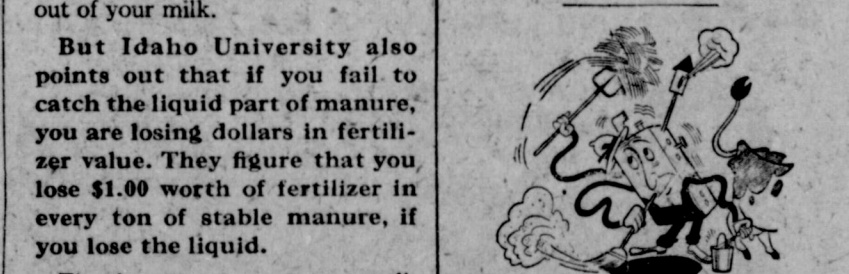

Yet I've been on dairy farms where just about that same kind of waste takes place, because the dairyman fails to provide bedding for his cows when they are stabled.

It isn't just a matter of cleanliness and better milking conditions. Those are mighty important, of course. Good bedding will help a great deal in keeping cows clean and keeping dirt out of your milk.

But Idaho University also points out that if you fail to catch the liquid part of manure, you are losing dollars in fertilizer value. They figure that you lose $1.00 worth of fertilizer in every ton of stable manure, if you lose the liquid.

Figuring a ten-ton-per-acre application, that's ten dollars per acre. The liquid in every ton contains 72¢ worth of nitrogen, two cents worth of phosphate and 33¢ worth of potash. These figures are based on fertilizer cost in Idaho, and may vary slightly in other parts of the country.

Any way you figure it, bedding will pay for itself. Straw is best for bedding, but shredded corn stover, shavings and other things can be used.

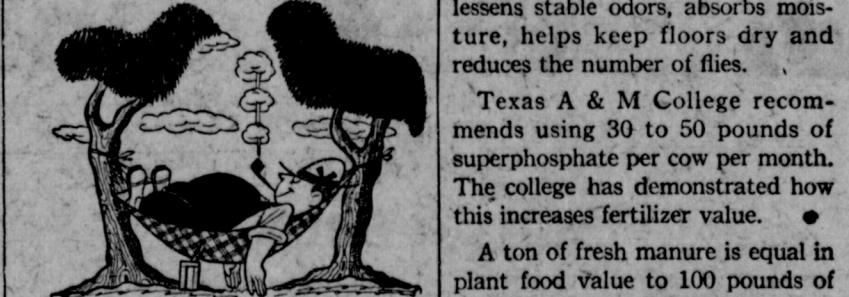

Here's another one of those jobs which does several things at the same time. If I run into enough of these, maybe I can figure out a way for a dairy farmer to go out after breakfast and get his whole day's work cleaned up in one operation.

This particular several-in-one item is simply using superphosphate on the stable floors and in gutters. Such use of superphosphate helps preserve nitrogen in stable manure, lessens stable odors, absorbs moisture, helps keep floors dry and reduces the number of flies.

Texas A & M College recommends using 30 to 50 pounds of superphosphate per cow per month. The college has demonstrated how this increases fertilizer value.

A ton of fresh manure is equal in plant food value to 100 pounds of 10-5-10 commercial fertilizer. But nitrogen escapes, and loss of liquid reduces the value to 100 pounds of 5-5-5. Using superphosphate on the floors and in the gutters brings the manure value to 100 pounds of 8-10-10.

Another thing, too—you save a spreading operation since your phosphate goes on right at the time the fertilizer is spread on pasture or field. Just the kind of a job-saver which appeals to a fellow like me, with not too much energy to waste.

When somebody invents a machine which will take over all the work on a farm while you rest in the shade, there will be a lot more fat farmers around the country.

The extension folks, figuring that invention is a few years away, spend their time developing better ways to do the jobs around a farm, to save time, labor and money. The new booklets they issue from time to time always seem to me a little better than the ones before.

A couple of weeks ago I mentioned a special circular, "Feeding the Dairy Herd" from the Extension Service, University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wisconsin. It is a most handy leaflet to nail up in your barn, containing

"THANKS"

Perhaps it would be better if it were not so — but because modern business is geared to high speed, we sometimes overlook saying "thank you" just where it would do the most good.

It's possible that during the past four years we have been so anxious and in such a hurry to serve you that we forgot to say "thank you" for every order you have given us.

If such is the case, we want to make amends right here and now by telling you that we do appreciate your business, every single order, large or small.

It has been a pleasure to serve you during the past years and we hope your good will and friendly attitude toward us will continue as it has in the past.

"Wildfire", Filmed In Color, Tells Story Of Wild Horse

With people in this vicinity very much interested in horses, with horse clubs and horse shows uppermost in the minds of many, horse pictures have proven popular here. "National Velvet" which played at the Relax Theatre some time ago was one of the most successful films ever shown locally, second only to the record breaker, "Going My Way". In "Wildfire" it's a wild horse in a super western, done in color. "Wildfire" is blamed by a gang of horse thieves for running off the tame horses. When shot by angry ranchers, two of the principal characters of the film save the horse, and in turn, "Wildfire" saves the life of each of them. In the cast are Bob Steele, Sterling Holloway, Virginia Maples and others. Coming to the Relax Sept. 27 and 28.

keep pace with material progress. Attitudes of people and nations toward one another — and towards their own duties and responsibilities — will have to change for the better.

The engineer designing the atomic powered choo choo says it will have a 300 horsepower gasoline engine generating electricity to explode the atoms. Obviously there's only one reason for that. No present storage battery has the power to get atomic disintegration started. For there certainly is no doubt of sufficient spare energy from the atom itself to generate the necessary current to keep the machine going once it is started. Which gives us a hint for guessing at how the atom powered machine of tomorrow will operate. Perhaps it will always have the auxiliary motor, which, incidentally, could be cut off once the machine is in motion, taking power to operate a generator from the atomic unit. Perhaps it will have a powerful storage battery taking a recharge after every start. Whatever the answer, quite a few of us are hoping to use it extensively.

One of the many sad stories about the war, but it also carries an implication that you and I do not like: A group of Yank soldiers were watching a dog fight between some of our own and German planes. Suddenly a German plane began smoking. Moments later a parachute blossomed out almost directly over them. As it came within range the men opened up with their rifles and machine guns. When the lifeless body settled down to earth they discovered to their horror that they had killed an American. Seeing the disabled enemy plane they assumed that the parachute had come from it.

We might call it a tragic mistake. We might also call it a grim twist of justice. Because every man who fired a shot was violating the accepted standards of warfare. In intent it was murder, as much an atrocity as the crimes for which some enemies have already been executed. Men who have been over there can testify that this is not an isolated case. Many an enemy has been shot down in cold blood by our men, and had the outcome been reversed quite a few of them would be standing atrocity trials.

Admitting that probability — and who can deny it?—we might do well to make allowances for some of the enemy's highly publicized battle outrages. They are human as well as our men and no less subject to the hatred and lust for killing provoked by conflict.

This does not mean, however, that any excuse is possible for the fiends who carried out the starvation, mutilation and murder in concentration camps.
