Senator Connally Predicts Victory For Democrats, '32

AUSTIN, Texas, April 15.—(AP)—United States Senator Tom Connally, Democrat, Texas, today predicted victory for the Democratic party in the 1932 elections if prohibition was shunted aside and the economic "Sins of omission and commission" of the Republican made the dominating issue. Connally addressed a joint session of the House and Senate of the Texas Legislature.

"All the Democrats need for victory is a united and militant front, advocating economic and tariff reforms which would be of benefit to the people of the union as a whole and not for the special benefit of a few," Senator Connally said. He predicted President Hoover would be the nominee of the Republican party in 1932 and that the Democrats should start now to prepare to fight against continuance in power of a party that has placed the country in the worst depression in 50 years.

Urging that prohibition and repeal of the 18th amendment be buried in the background, Senator Connally declared a split in the Democratic party over the liquor question would kill the Republican wish for because it would take the attention of the people from the incompetencies of the G. O. P.

"The Republican party would be most happy to see the Democrats tearing their hair and flying at each other's throats over the prohibition issue, because they know it would wreck the party and give all the credit to the Democrats," he said. The Republican administration was attacked several times by Senator Connally who claimed it had departed from the principles of the Monroe Doctrine by intervention in Nicaragua. He termed the Nicaraguan condition as "war in fact, if not in theory."

Rebates ordered by Andrew Mellon, secretary of the treasury, on war profits also were criticized by the Senator, who claimed they were made in secret to large contributors of Republican campaign funds. Declaring that 90 per cent of the wealth of the nation had been concentrated into the hands of four per cent of the people, Senator Connally took the federal department of justice and the Republican administration to task for permitting the numerous mergers and monopolies of the last 18 years. He asserted this should be made one of the major issues of the campaign by the Democrats.

He charged the high protective tariff, enacted under the guise of farmer aid, was responsible for much of the depression and was causing American manufacturers to establish factories in other countries to escape retaliation. The tariff has impaired foreign trade to the extent of approximately $8,000,000,000 and has had an unfavorable reaction on American prosperity, he said. Charles C. Johnson, the Democratic party had criticized so severely the Republican administration, were met by Senator Connally with the statement that it was the duty of a minority party to criticize and act as a balance to the party in power.

"Even in defeat, the Democratic party has performed a great public service and its scope will be broadened if the party of Jefferson is returned to power in the next election," Connally stated.

ROWBOTTOM IS FOUND GUILTY

EVANSVILLE, Ind., April 16.—(AP)—Convicted of accepting bribes for procuring post office appointments, Harry E. Rowbottom, former Indiana first district congressman, must serve a year and a day in Leavenworth federal penitentiary and pay a fine of $2,000.

A federal court jury which deliberated two hours and five minutes last night found that Rowbottom accepted $750 from Walter G. Ayer for appointment of a son, Gresham Ayer, as rural mail carrier at Rockport, Ind., and that he received $800 for procuring the Dale postmastership for S. Grant Johnson.

Rowbottom's attorneys indicated no appeal will be taken. At liberty under $10,000 bond, the former congressman was ordered to report to Indianapolis April 29 to start his journey to the penitentiary. The conviction, concluding a two-day trial, was on four counts of the indictment returned against him early this year. Similar sentences on each count will run concurrently. Rowbottom was acquitted on four additional counts for bribery and a charge of conspiracy was dismissed on motion of the government.

Rowbottom's attorneys tried unsuccessfully to obtain probation for the defendant on grounds he is a weakling physically, that others involved in the deals were not indicted, and that he is not of the mental caliber usually associated with the high office he held. Testifying in his own defense, Rowbottom yesterday admitted having accepted $750 from Walter G. Ayer and having received the $800 from Otto A. Wellbrenner, former postmaster at Mt. Vernon, but contended the money had been given him to meet a deficit created by his losing campaign for re-election last fall and not in exchange for postal appointments.

Governor Sterling Signs Bill To Curb Insanity Hearings

AUSTIN, Tex., April 16.—(AP)—Governor Sterling today signed several bills, one of which was designed to eliminate the frequent insanity trials of convicts condemned to death. The bill would permit insanity affidavits to be made only by two physicians, a county health officer, the prison warden or physician, or the superintendent of a state hospital. It was offered by Senator Woodward of Coleman.

Another bill would permit the fixing of a minimum wage of 30 cents an hour on all state jobs done under contract. The bill was offered by Representative Howley of Albany and Burns of Huntsville. The governor affixed his signature to the bill permitting a greater latitude in the investment of the permanent oil royalty fund of the University of Texas and A.M. The bill will permit the two institutions to speed up their building programs and obtain greater interest returns on their investments.

Another measure signed by the governor will allow county road machinery to be used in farm terracing work. Still another directs the highway commission to clear up rights of way of grass and cackle burs.

A bill by Representative Pope of Corpus Christi to allow that city to mortgage its gas plant to rebuild the Mathis dam, also was approved.

ROAD MATTERS TAKE MOST OF COURT'S TIME

Most of the work of the commissioners court in regular session this week concerned highway matters, including adjustments for right-of-way problems. County Judge Courtney Gray and County Alderman A. E. Nabors were appointed by the court to represent Brown county in the W. U. Early condemnation suit for right-of-way on highway No. 7. The decision of the jury of view was appealed to county court recently.

E. T. Perkins, Justice of the Peace was allowed $17.50 for fees following the presentation of his report for first quarter of 1931.

D. C. Owens was allowed a total of $628.36 for construction of right-of-way fence on highway No. 7 from where it quits No. 10 to the Mills county line, a distance of 24.69 miles. He was paid at the rate of $25.45 per mile.

Contracts Awarded
Bids for digging of a well and moving of a filling station on the Harris place on No. 7 were opened and the contracts awarded. INDIAN CALM AS DEATH IN CHAIR NEARS

McALESTER, Okla., April 16.—(AP)—A few hours before he is scheduled to die in the electric chair, E. S. (Choc) Hembree, 34 year old Choctaw Indian, turned bitterly on his brother, with whom he was convicted of the shooting and criminal attack of a Loco, Oklahoma, school teacher. "You'll get worse than I got," read a statement left by the doomed man with his mother, A. Y. Hembree, 24, the brother, is sentenced to serve 25 years in prison.

Free on $25,000 appeal bond, the younger Hembree was in McAlester today with other relatives of the man condemned to death at state's prison shortly after midnight. The mother said she "maybe" would reveal the entire contents of the statement "afterward." She refused to take sides in the rift between the brothers. "A. Y. had lots of illness," she said. Hembree's father told newspapermen that "A. Y. let Choc take the rap."

"The lawyers kept saying it was best," he added. "Choc" meanwhile ate heavily in his cell almost within sight of the death chair. He maintained calm, at times whistling as he paced the floor. In Prison Before
The last year is not the first time he has seen the inside of a prison. He was convicted of murder at Antlers some years ago, only to be freed by a pardon from J. C. (Jack) Walton, then Governor. A. Y., too, has been in prison before. He served a five year term at the Granite, Oklahoma, reformatory for automobile theft in 1923.

Both men were sentenced last July at Duncan, after a jury found them guilty of attacking, robbing and shooting Leota Bosley, Gainesville, Texas, young woman, while the latter was driving from Walters, Oklahoma, to Loco the night of Mar. 9th, with a companion, Chad Thurman, Nocona, Oklahoma. Miss Bosley was in a critical condition several months after the attack and shooting. Thurman also was shot. In McAlester today Hembree's mother and wife lifted their voices against Governor W. H. Murray, who had refused to interfere with execution plans. "If he's going through with it, I dare him to come down and see my boy killed," said the mother, referring to the Governor. "Governor Murray hasn't the nerve to come down and go through with us," the wife said.

FOUR OF BANGS FAMILY HURT IN CAR CRASH

Four persons of a family of the Bangs community escaped without serious injury about 8:30 o'clock on Tuesday evening a few miles southeast of Lampasas when their car collided with a large truck loaded with wool. They are receiving treatment in the Medical Arts hospital today for cuts and bruises.

Lee Walker, 42, farmer of near Bangs, his son, Cecil Walker, his married daughter, Mrs. Martha Buske, and her two and a half months old son, Baron Von Buske, were riding in the front seat of a light touring car returning from Austin. Cecil Walker was driving the car. Only the driver was in the truck and he escaped without injuries.

Mr. Walker suffered severe cuts on his hands and arms, a painful bruise across his forehead where the bow of the top of the car struck him and an injury to his right knee. Several stitches were required for two or three of the most severe cuts. The baby received only minor scratches. All are suffering from shock.

They were returning to Bangs from Austin and a few miles from Lampasas started to round a corner and collided with the truck before the truck driver or Cecil Walker had time to avoid the accident. The truck driver avoided a head-on collision by swerving the front end of the truck around but the car crashed into the side of the truck. The heavy sacks of wool fell from the truck and almost covered the car as it overturned. Cecil Walker said today he was driving about 20 miles an hour when the accident occurred. The car was almost completely demolished. The truck did not overturn and was not badly damaged.

The entire family was pinned underneath the car and the sacks of wool and Mr. Walker was almost smothered when the truck driver pulled the sacks away and ripped the top of the car open with his knife. The four were carried to a nearby farm house and later to Lampasas where emergency treatment was rendered. Later a Lampasas ambulance took them to the local hospital, arriving at about 2:30 this morning.

All members of the family were reported as resting nicely today. Lee Walker lives about one mile west of Bangs and is well known in that section of the country, as he has lived there for a number of years.

Reaper Centennial Celebration and Power Farming Day A Decided Success

The excellent attendance at the McCormick reaper centennial celebration recently held by Brownwood Implement Company, McCormick Deering dealers, may be taken as an indication of the interest in the development of power farming equipment held by farmers in this community. Brownwood Implement Company is to be congratulated for arranging a program of this kind. The full-size working model of McCormick's original 1891 reaper was interesting, both from an educational and historical point of view. The world may well honor the man whose inventive genius produced a machine so important to the advancement of agriculture.

The motion picture, "Romance of the Reaper," shown for the first time in this community, was of special interest. The picture, a story of the building and development of the reaper placed a new importance on the value of this machine as the starting point for the long line of power farming equipment which has followed in its wake.

With farmers more interested than ever in lower crop production costs, the subject of power farming equipment is deserving of much consideration, just as the reaper cut as much grain in a day as 4 or 5 men with cradles or 12 to 16 men with reaping hooks 100 years ago, so tractors and tractor equipment are today enabling one man to double and triple his daily capacity for work. He has additional time available for planning and carrying out diversified farm operations, building up the soil, improving the quality of live stock and many other activities that result in better and more productive farming.

We assure Brownwood Implement Company and the International Harvester Company that their efforts in arranging the recent entertainment have been greatly appreciated. We hope that a similar entertainment will be arranged for next year.

HELEN TWELVETREES MARRIED THREE WEEKS AGO BUT KEPT SILENT

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., April 16.—(AP)—Those who contend a woman can keep a secret found support for the theory today in a revelation by Helen Twelvetrees, film actress, that she had been married three weeks without telling anyone about it. The actress wore her wedding ring to the studio yesterday and the secret that she was married in Reno, Nev., to Frank Woody, Hollywood real estate broker, was out. They had just returned from a honeymoon in northern California. This is Miss Twelvetrees' second marriage. Her divorce from Clark Twelvetrees on charges of cruelty was granted March 16, 1930, becoming final March 31 last.

INSURGENTS IN NICARAGUA GET VALUABLE LOOT

PUERTO CABEZAS, Nicaragua, April 16.—(AP)—Nicaraguan insurgents, after attacking and capturing Cabo Gracias A Dios in the extreme northeastern corner of the country, were believed today to have fled from the village, looting it of a large quantity of stores.

Marine corps aviators, made suspicious by silence of the radio station there, flew over Cabo Gracias A Dios yesterday and were fired upon. They dropped fourteen bombs but could not determine the number of casualties. They said the insurgents appeared to be shoving off in a number of small boats loaded with loot.

The insurgents attacked the little town at 2 a. m., yesterday and at least one of the Americans there, the tropical radio manager, Albert C. Lester, a native of Texas, escaped to Puerto Cabezas. Other American residents included Albert and Edwin Fagot of New Orleans, and William J. Green of Allegheny, Pa., of whom no information has been received here.

The insurgents burned some of the houses in the village. Their activities on the Atlantic coast have the appearance of a general offensive. Most of the American interests and investments in Nicaragua are in this section. Apparently reliable reports today said Rev. Carl Bergener, of Dater-ton, Wis., a Moravian missionary in the Prinzapolka district, had been killed by the insurgents.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—(AP)—It seemed less probable today that the United States would send a material force to Nicaragua to protect American property. The government had indicated, however, it would make every effort to prevent loss of American lives. The gunboat Asheville, with her nearly three-score marines, was under orders to remain at Puerto Cabezas to guard Americans. Officials here, however, expressed the opinion attempts might not be made to protect property unless more urgent circumstances develop.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—(AP)—Evacuation of American women and children from Puerto Cabezas was under way today as insurgents extended their operations both to the north and south of that port, on Nicaragua's eastern coast. The Standard Fruit & Steamship Company's vessel, Chefulu, with 25 adults, mostly women and eight children, sailed yesterday from Puerto Cabezas where the inhabitants have been panic stricken for several days owing to the descent of outlaws on the surrounding territory. Only four American women remained at Puerto Cabezas.

The Asheville's commander said Cape Gracias Adios had been captured and looted by bandits and that two American Marine planes dropped 14 bombs on the bandits returning in boats up the Coco river with loot. Commander W. W. Waddell of the gunboat Asheville said conditions at Puerto Cabezas were quiet. A patrol of the Nicaraguan Guardia found no bandits at a distance of 25 kilometers from there. For two days no bandits have been seen in the immediate vicinity of the port.

"Romance of the Reaper" at Queen

A free showing of "Romance of the Reaper," filmed on the Virginia farm where Cyrus Hall McCormick invented the reaper just one hundred years ago, will take place at the Queen through the courtesy of Brownwood Implement Co., Brownwood, Texas, as one of the events in a day of celebration of the centennial of the invention of the reaper that is going on throughout the world.

"Romance of the Reaper" tells the story of how Cyrus Hall McCormick, when he was only 22 years old, solved in a few weeks' time a problem that had baffled mankind since the beginning of history.

From the earliest times grains of all kinds had been harvested by hand—with sickles, scythes, or cradles. Many attempts had been made to perfect a machine to do this work, but all of them had ended in failure. Yet McCormick, imbued with a resolve to lighten the labor of the harvest, felt confident that the principles he had in mind would solve the problem. Working frantically, far into the night, day after day, with the help of only a negro slave, he finally completed the machine in time for the harvest of 1831.

The name of the day of trial, and on that Virginia farm dawned a new era in the advancement of mankind. The skepticism of his friends and neighbors changed to congratulatory words when the machine was put to work. McCormick's father, who himself had tried to build a reaper, rejoiced that his son had succeeded where his own efforts had failed. Yet none of those present fully appreciated the vast importance of the demonstration they saw.

The McCormick reaper showed the farming world how to displace monotonous hand labor with machines. During the years that followed, there soon developed machines for almost every farming operation. The release of men's minds from arduous farm labor brought the development of the mines, railroads, and industries of the city. The past hundred years have been a century of progress unequalled in the world's history. Two men operating the harvester-thresher of today, the direct descendant of the reaper, can do the work that would have required from 140 to 200 men before 1831—and other farming operations have progressed at a similar rate.

Educational, romantic, absorbing, "Romance of the Reaper" compels the interest of every one who would know the fundamental reason for the amazing development of the world since 1831. It is the only complete story of the reaper invention that has ever been filmed. Brownwood people should not miss this occasion Monday afternoon.

A replica of the original reaper is on display for a few days at Brownwood, Texas. This old machine contains all the basic elements found even today on all successful grain harvesting machines.

M. W. A. RALLY TOLD OF WORK OF SANATORIUM

The cost of construction and maintenance of the Modern Woodmen sanatorium in Colorado totals now six and a half million dollars, while, looking at it from an economic standpoint alone, the lives that have been saved by the institution represent an earning power of thirty-five million dollars.

John E. Swanger, sanatorium superintendent, told the district rally of Modern Woodmen of America held at Memorial Hall Monday night.

Mr. Swanger stated that over 22,000 patients had entered the sanatorium since it was established in 1912 and that 71 per cent of those had been fully restored to health.

The address of Mr. Swanger was the principal feature of the program of the district rally, which was held in his honor. While he spoke principally of the sanatorium and his work, giving much detailed and interesting information regarding the institution, he discussed also to some extent the record of the Modern Woodmen order as a whole during its forty-seven years' history.

Compliments Local M. W. A. Mr. Swanger complimented the local M. W. A., and was especially impressed with the large class of candidates present for adoption into the order at this meeting. The class, numbering 75, was the largest in the history of the Brownwood lodge. The applications for

Reversing the Order

AS A USUAL rule, when a negro or a group of negroes are accused of attacks upon white women, the courts find difficulty in preserving them against mob violence and bringing them to orderly trial and conviction.

The Alabama courts, aided by the peace officers of the state, gave these negroes as fair and impartial a trial as could be hoped for under the circumstances.

Our Immigration Laws

MANY INSTANCES are reported from day to day of unjust and unreasonable interpretations of the existing American immigration laws...

At Boston the other day a young Chinese woman, Minnie Moy, hanged herself. She had been told that she was in the deportable class, and she was unwilling to face the prospect of separation from her husband and three children.

The primary purpose of the immigration statutes is to keep undesirable immigrants out of the United States. It is neither just nor expedient to permit them to enter, attend our schools, secure places in the employ of our government...

Both Parties Worried

THE DEATH of Speaker Nicholas Longworth of the national House of Representatives presents a problem to both parties, as well as to the electorate of Ohio.

Ohio voters probably will experience less difficulty in solving their part of the problem than will either of the major parties in seeking answers to the questions confronting them.

The Republicans seem to have no outstanding member of Congress to whom they would be willing to entrust the Speakership, even if their slender lead of one vote in the next House should enable them to direct organization.

House. Even Mr. Longworth experienced difficulty in the latter role, and a less popular man probably would fall. The Democrats, on the other hand, have Texas Jack Garner ready for the Speakership and believe no better choice could possibly be made...

So the problems are being debated by party leaders, and as the debate continues the real significance of the position Speaker Longworth held becomes more apparent.

Eighty Amendments

THE OLD Constitution of Texas evidently is almost worthless, if one takes into account the volume of repairs that the Legislature thinks it ought to have.

The principal objection to the present Constitution seems to be that it prohibits so many things people and especially members of the Legislature would like to do or have done.

But one wonders what kind of Constitution we would have if all eighty of the pending amendments should be adopted. In all likelihood the rejuvenated Constitution, thus amended, would be as badly out of date as the present one before the courts could untangle the situation and interpret its provisions.

Sterling's Next Term

"WHO WILL be Texas' next governor?" is asked by Charles P. Simons, Associated Press staff writer at Austin, who thinks rumors current around the capitol are of sufficient merit to justify the doubt that Mr. Sterling will seek re-election in 1932.

The "if" has to do with the Sterling legislative and administrative program. If the results he hopes to accomplish can be recorded during his first two years in the executive's office, and if at campaign time next year there is no provocative question that seems to necessitate his active participation in the primaries...

No Governor in recent years has been able to accomplish all that he had in mind when he was inaugurated, and almost all of them upon their retirement have been content with pointing out comparatively few real achievements while placing responsibility for failure of major projects upon "the opposition."

But the prospect that he may not be a candidate seems to be inspiring a number of ambitious law-makers—particularly in the Senate—to begin preparations for their campaigns of next year.

The Republicans seem to have no outstanding member of Congress to whom they would be willing to entrust the Speakership, even if their slender lead of one vote in the next House should enable them to direct organization.

Federal Farm Loan Policy

WITH a probably pardonable lack of modesty, Judge M. H. Gossett, president of the Houston Federal Land and Intermediate Credit Bank, has made a report of his institution's activities to the Federal Farm Loan Board...

It is, in truth, an evidence of the fact that borrowers have made desperate efforts to pay their obligations, and in that respect, at least, it is a source of pride to every Texan.

Not long ago Judge Gossett caused to be broadcast over the country the information that his bank had never foreclosed against any farm in the drought stricken area.

It would not be a matter in which the public would be much interested if it were not for the fact that the Federal Land Bank is a quasi-government institution.

It would not be a matter in which the public would be much interested if it were not for the fact that the Federal Land Bank is a quasi-government institution. It has the character and standing of a government institution, and is a creature of the same government that has voted a very large sum of money for the purpose of making emergency loans to drought stricken farmers...

County Home Rule

AMONG THE many proposals for constitutional amendments, most of which seem to us to be unnecessary while a few are distinctly undesirable, is one which is due to reach a final vote in the House today...

There are many arguments in support of this proposition, but just as many that point to its dangers. For the larger counties it probably would open up the way for establishing improved methods, but in the average Texas county it not only would fail to benefit and in most of them would be distinctly harmful.

As we see it, the present system of county government is satisfactory, except in those instances in which the people themselves have been negligent and have permitted unsatisfactory conditions to arise.

Mr. Mathis says that quite a few of the boys are making unusually fine records with their projects. Not only are they making financial gains, but they are also gaining some very practical experiences that will enable them to become Master Farmers in future years.

GREAT CHANGE FOR BETTER IN FT. WORTH MAN'S CONDITION

J. J. Calhoun, of Fort Worth, Says Argotane Gave Quick Relief. "For the past three years, I have suffered from indigestion, constipation, gas formations, and a tired and worn-out feeling. So I am mighty thankful to Argotane for bringing me relief from these ailments." J. J. Calhoun, of 1409 Avenue B, Fort Worth, Texas, said in a recent conversation with the Argotane representative. "Everything I ate gave me indigestion, which was followed by gas formations that at times were so severe that they almost choked me. I never could enjoy what I had eaten because of the after effects. Several times a week I was forced to take some kind of laxative in order to keep my bowels open. When I got up in the morning, I never felt like going to work. "But when I started taking Argotane, things began to change. This wonderful treatment gave me almost immediate relief. I have taken only one bottle and a half so far, but already I can see a great change for the better in my condition. I can now eat almost anything without suffering afterward from gas or indigestion; the tired, worn-out feeling has gone, and I have plenty of pep. The constipation is also leaving me, and for all of this improvement, I give Argotane full credit. "I am glad to recommend Argotane to anyone suffering as I suffered, and as for myself, I am going to continue to take it." Genuine Argotane may be bought in Brownwood at the Camp - Bell and Peerless Drug Stores. (adv.)

Children Require Eggs for Health
All the good of dazzling sunlight, bringing to little children the promise of straight, sound teeth and strong, sturdy bones . . . all the protection against diseases which might come to them in infant days . . . everything needed for rapid growth expected of little bodies during their first three strenuous growing years . . . all this coming in one sanitary, compact little package . . .
hands . . . an egg!
More and more doctors and mothers alike are coming to realize there's practically no substitute for this natural food . . . the egg. And more and more the use of eggs in the diet is being urged by those who have made a thorough investigation into the vitamin and mineral elements needed in the diet, regardless of price. When the baby is bottle fed, one month old is not too soon to begin giving him egg yolk in the formula, according to Alma H. Jones, specialist in child care and health, Extension Service, Iowa State College.

Miss Jones explains the reason for this is that cow's milk, undiluted, contains only about one-half as much iron as mother's milk . . . and babies need iron to grow big and strong. If breast fed, the yolk should be given by the seventh month, as the stored iron which the baby has in his body at birth tends to become exhausted at about eight to nine months. The white of the egg is added to the diet for its valuable protein as the child becomes accustomed to variety in the diet and when its needs for proteins other than milk arise.

Because of the value of Vitamin A, contained in the egg, for growth and in combating infectious diseases such as colds, sinus infections and tuberculosis, the egg is almost indispensable as a part of the young child's diet. This vitamin, together with the growth protein contained in eggs, contributes much toward tripling the baby's weight during the first year, as he is expected to do.
For guarding against rickets, the commonly observed disease in children which is evidenced by faulty bone structure and poor teeth, the vitamin D content in egg substance is extremely valuable, for the child must get sufficient vitamin D for the rapid growth of the skeleton during the early years, either through food, cod liver oil, which contains considerable amounts, or by exposure of his skin to direct sunshine.

One of the best ways to add egg to the baby's diet is by feeding him one to three teaspoons beginning the sixth month. At one year two or three tablespoons of custard may be given each day and at 15 months one half of a coddled egg can be given daily. After two to three years, a whole egg may be given each day.

Better Understanding Boy Scout Work Would Mean Prompt Financial Support, Declares Walter U. Early

Commenting on the campaign made in Brownwood this week for maintaining Boy Scout work here, Walter U. Early, former district attorney, makes the following statement:

"The people of Brownwood have been called upon to assist in rehabilitating the Boy Scout movement. It seems that the main thing needed in this enterprise at present is finances. Yet this is not all that is needed. There is needed a fuller understanding on the part of the people generally, especially the parents of boys, as to the good this organization has been doing, and is now doing in the community.

"If the people would give this matter more thought, and see for themselves what this splendid group of Scouts is doing; if they would learn most of the personnel of this organization, they most certainly would take greater interest in the movement. If every father and mother would give the matter sufficient thought and study to have their boys become members of the Scouts. When this is done the matter of getting the necessary finances will be assured.

Scout Influence Needed

"It is true that the proper home influences, church influences and school training go a long way in the training of the boy. Yet every boy feels at times that he wants something more. He reaches that age when he wants adventure, variety, some novelty of life. What can satisfy this disposition more than all the pleasures that go with Scout work, such as hiking, camping and fishing? What can satisfy this craving more than going to the woods under the proper leadership and mergers in every part of the organization for the advancement of the children was of the best of all these mergers. He said that what the children will be, and that all mothers should pay attention to what they eat and get away to immediately.

The program was open selections by the orchestra under the direction of Mrs. C. Underwood.

At present we have confined in the county jail twenty-one prisoners. Eleven of them are boys under the age of twenty years, five between the ages of twenty and thirty, and five above the age of thirty. This is a fair estimate as to ages of the prisoners confined in jails throughout the state. How many of these unfortunate boys might have been saved by being members of the Scouts?

"Then let us each and every one place our shoulders to the wheel and put this great movement over."

"Resolved, that a standing vote of appreciation be given our beloved state officers, Mrs. Stephen Chammess, Mrs. L. E. Ledbetter, Mrs. P. M. Glasson, Mr. C. W. Maddox and Mr. C. A. Blais, for their presence and sympathetic assistance in our matters brought before the conference."

Address by Mrs. J. W. Trapp and Walter U. Early featured the second evening's program of the Texas Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teachers Association convention at Howard Payne auditorium Tuesday night. A short address was made by Mrs. L. E. Ledbetter of Austin. Music was furnished by the Singing Mothers of the local Parent-Teachers Association and by Howard Payne musical organizations.

Mrs. Trapp used as her subject the "Need for a Dean of Girls in High Schools" which she discussed at length. She started by outlining what should be given the child during the formative period and the things for its betterment which could be given by the proper kinds of mothers and teachers. She spoke briefly of freedom for girls and the advance made in this freedom during the past 100 years.

She spoke of the development in every line of endeavor including science and social advancement. She told of the place that women had acquired in the world and their surpassing men in many lines of work. She spoke of the influence that the proper kind of training can have.

Then she spoke shortly concerning the ways of establishing a dean of girls in the high school. She said that this should be a woman who would teach the girls about God as well as about other things. She said that the dean should not teach sectarian doctrines but rather the true divinity of a supreme God.

She said that if the schools could not give a dean of girls to the students of the schools that each mother and teacher should strive to be a dean to a small group of girls.

"She said that a dean in the larger high schools would not be hard to attain but that in rural schools it would be hard to employ a dean as she advanced her theory of every teacher and every mother a dean to surpluss that need in small schools as well as the larger ones.

Walter U. Early spoke briefly on the "Trend of the Time," telling of changes in every phase of life. Mr. Early said that a great change had been brought about during the past fifteen years and that the trend at present was toward consolidations and mergers in every part of the organization for the advancement of the children was of the best of all these mergers. He said that what the children will be, and that all mothers should pay attention to what they eat and get away to immediately.

The program was open selections by the orchestra under the direction of Mrs. C. Underwood.
