

Hospital District loses $ quarter million in December

by Janet Felderhoff
According to the financial report by Muenster Memorial Hospital Administrator Jack Endres, the hospital district experienced an operating loss of $247,563.00. Total operating revenue was $335,295.00. Tax revenues of $63,718.00 were collected. Expenses for the month totaled $582,858.00. Total net loss for the month of December was $183,845.00. Endres noted that to date this fiscal year the district has lost $256,000.00. Of that $233,00.00 of that was the hospital's and the remainder St. Richard's Villa.

It was reported that Gainesville Memorial Hospital District's rollback election was rescheduled and held on Jan. 20. Votes were for - 1,502 and against - 2,447 to defeat the rollback. Endres said GMH would be working to finalize the bond options and proceeding with the hospital design.

Legislation should be introduced to the Texas Legislature during its session this year to allow voters in the Muenster and Gainesville Hospital Districts to vote as whether they want to close their respective district and then if they want to merge into the Cooke County Hospital District. Endres said that this vote has been talked about since last November, but many people still seem to think they aren't going to get to vote. If any of the issues get a negative majority in either district the merger fails, said Endres.

Parrish, Moody & Fikes, MMH's CPA firm is analyzing the information in the Balanced Budget Act (BBA) Relief Package which was passed in December. Endres expects the information by the next Board meeting.

Three positions on the Hospital Board will be up for election this spring. Board members now serving the expiring terms are Lora Hennigan, Jack Murdock, and Phil Endres.

The Board was informed by Jack Endres that the district's application for grant assistance with dictation equipment was turned down by the Rural Health Facilities Capital Improvement. Only about 20 percent of those applying received grants. MMH's application will be considered again in March.

Endres reported that the roof repairs to St. Richard's Villa and the hospital had been completed.

There will be savings on the maintenance contract for the hospital's GE ultrasound. Endres was offered a much better deal than the current contract, but had to act on it before the next board meeting.

After talking with Board President Don Flusche, Endres accepted the contract. The Board unanimously ratified the contract after hearing the details.

Soon to be brought before the Board is the possible purchase of a fetal pulse oximeter for Dr. Currier to be used during delivery. Endres said that it is attached to the baby's scalp. Information is still being gathered on it. The purpose is to get reports on the amount of oxygen a baby has in its blood and avoid C-sections when possible.

Flusche asked what would happen to the hospital if the district were to "get rid of" the nurse practitioners. Endres said, "It would shut down our rural health clinics for starters. Medicare and Medicaid reimbursement would be decreased substantially. Flusche asked if that were based on cost reimbursement. Endres said, "Since we are a under 50 bed hospital we are cost reimbursed up to certain caps. ... It all focuses on mid level practitioners. You have to have mid level practitioners in order to have a rural health clinic. If you don't have those, you don't have rural health clinic, if you don't have a rural health clinic you don't get Medicare or Medicaid cost based reimbursement, you can't afford to reimburse your physicians as well. It's all tied together in one package."

Phil Endres asked if that happened would the doctors have to set up their own clinics or would they be able to run those clinics in some other fashion. Jack Endres answered, "We'd try to run it on a contractual basis, but you can look in any hospital magazine or health care periodical and look at the articles written on hospitals that try to run private physician practices and see that nearly everytime the hospital loses money. It doesn't work because the hospital winds up with all of the risk and very little upside potential. If you try to put the risk off on the doctors then they are likely to go elsewhere. Doctors these days don't want to be in this mess and that's what it is. It is a big mess trying See HOSPITAL, pg 2

Council ponders fire station

by Dave Fette

The Muenster City Council tabled action on a proposed extension of the fire station Monday night, but they had considerable discussion of the subject. Some council members said some of the volunteer firemen questioned the need for a bigger station. They thought saving for a completely new station was wiser. Fire Chief Herb Knabe said the official word is "The town is expanding and the fire department needs to expand and stay up to date." Mayor Weinzapfel asked him to conduct a vote at the next meeting to determine the intention of the fire fighters.

Urban Endres asked the Council to consider moving the fire department and all of City Hall to the former location of Klement Ford at the intersection of Main Street and Hwy. 82. He said it has room for the city operation to grow which it certainly will. The central location and accessibility are ideal. The council gave no indication how they felt about Endres' idea. Since the offer was not on the agenda, they couldn't take action.

Police Chief Stovall reported that the new police department computer system is up and running. The new equipment was paid for by a grant to the city and it will greatly enhance police department efficiency. The chief also reported that the new traffic radar was installed in his patrol car. December was a relatively quiet month he said. He noted that citations and wrecks were down at the intersection with new traffic lights. He felt the increased visibility was the reason. A.J. Knabe asked Stovall to crack down on chronic speeders on Pecan Street and he promised to check on it.

Terry Tombaugh of Gainesville, representing TXU Electric and Gas came to the meeting to discuss relocating the natural gas line attached to the Eddy Street bridge that will be rebuilt. The line must now go underground and Tombaugh said the cost would be transferred to Muenster customers. He hopes the cost will be relatively low and said he would check out the possibility of attaching the line to a city sewer line which crosses the creek a short distance away.

Tombaugh also discussed electric deregulation in Texas saying Texas is not like California. TXU has strived to have an attractive electricity market and make construction of clean, efficient power generating plants much faster and easier than in California. "It takes about three years to plan and build a power plant in Texas. In California it takes seven years," he said. Briefly, Tombaugh explained that under deregulation, power plants See COUNCIL, pg 4

Garrett urges "Natural Way" and "thinking outside the box"

by Dave Fette

WBAP Radio personality Howard Garrett was the featured speaker at the annual Muenster Chamber of Commerce banquet. Garrett is noted for his radio show "The Natural Way" and especially locally as the main promoter of Muenster Milling Company's Muenster Natural dog and cat foods. Muenster Mill general manager Ronnie Felderhoff emceed the banquet program and introduced Garrett. Garrett promotes many organic ways for gardening, farming, animal care and health, and he spoke of many of them. But his central emphasis Saturday, Jan. 27 at the Sacred Heart Community Center was "thinking outside the box." He encouraged the listeners to try his natural ideas and also try new ways of doing things instead of being stuck in a rut. Garrett explained how slow release organic fertilizers are more beneficial to soil health than chemical salt fertilizers.

Adding sugars to the soil increases microbial activity and carbon sources like humates and compost are essential to building soils.

Garrett, a Texas Tech landscape architecture graduate, said he got concerned about natural ways when his daughter Logan was a toddler, sticking everything in her mouth. Now, besides the radio program, he writes a column for the Dallas Morning News and consults and studies a wide range of organic and natural programs. Some of the people at the banquet challenged his ideas on organic ranching. He defended it explaining the importance of soil health to plant and animal health and good production. "If my natural program isn't more economical as well as more healthy, then you shouldn't be using it. But there are certified organic producers around the state that are proving its value," Garrett said. He also emphasized his talk with a short slide show, then took questions after his talk and stayed after the banquet talking to many fans.

Dan Hamric is the retiring president of the Chamber after three years of service. He spoke about business highlights of the past year in Muenster and thanked the other retiring directors Kathryn Hicks and Jacob T. Pagel for their service. All received plaques as thanks from the Chamber. Carol Grewing received thanks and a special gift for her volunteer service especially in the area of Germanfest and Christmas decorations.

Newly elected directors of the Chamber are Neil Hesse, Alan Rohmer, and Robert Weinzapfel. Annette Walterscheid was elected president of the Chamber of Commerce. She is the branch manager of Guaranty National Bank, Muenster branch.

About 200 people attended the banquet which was catered by Rohmer's Catering. Cherilyn Pollard, Lora Hennigan, and Charla Taylor co-chaired the banquet.

to get bills out, making sure your bills are correct because if they're not then they're after you for fraud. So that is not something that is attractive to physicians now days." He said that they receive more money from Medicare by being a rural health clinic than if they weren't."

Endres added that both nurse practitioners, Mary Endres and Melissa Trubenbach, have other duties besides seeing patients. Mary's duties include making sure that the clinic is in compliance which requires a lot of paperwork. They help with the annual Health Fair, do public health awareness, staff the clinic on Saturdays, continue to see patients at the clinic when the doctor is called to the emergency room, and dismiss patients from the hospital if their physician is out of town and it needs to be done - just some of the duties.

Phil Endres noted that if the nurse practitioners were left go, the rural health clinic would have to be shut down and another way would have to be found to keep the two doctors as "financially happy as they are today."

Grace Walterscheid, head lab technician, remarked, "A point that you don't understand, but I just went through an inspection. That office would quickly become non-compliant because they don't have somebody there that would be experienced and capable of looking at those charts. There's many things involved now and everyone at that office would then be at risk for fraud. You cannot be hired again at another facility that provides Medicare and Medicaid services if you're ever convicted of fraud."

Jack Endres agreed, "What Grace is not just saying something that is unreasonable. They do go after small town practices.

They go after small town hospitals."

Doris Muller, office manager, wondered if anybody had asked the doctors if they wanted to run their own clinics. Phil Endres said he recalled that when they signed on at the beginning they didn't want to run their offices.

Jack Endres said that Dr. Morrill came here because of the rural health clinic and the things it guaranteed her. "She would be in a practice where she could practice medicine and not have to worry about the nickels and dimes of things," he added.

Muller added that when the clinic is short staffed they pull from the hospital staff and that a lot of the work such as payroll are done at the hospital. "Our Medical Records backs up their medical records side," she said. "The lab is functioning following them and x-ray. It's not just, 'Let's get rid of two people and just let them have their own office.' We're connected, we complement each other and help each other."

Flusche then asked about the information in letters to the editor about the hospital kitchen. Endres responded that it, like the emergency room, can't be cut out and still have a hospital. "We can't make up our own rules," said Endres. "If the kitchen falls out of (government) compliance they can shut you down. They can shut down for an out of compliance kitchen just like they shut you down for an out of compliance lab or an out of compliance nurses station. It's all part of the package."

The observation was made that the patient volume is too low to make it possible to operate the kitchen profitably. Also the patients who are there may each need special meals prepared according to the diet that they're on such as diabetic, low sodium, etc.

Flusche asked if there were any questions or comments from the audience. Regarding some of the comments by the administrator and some of the board members, Butch Fisher remarked, "I don't understand the venom up there." Jack Endres answered, "If you're called dishonest, stupid, and misrepresenting the facts in the paper you lose your patience. It starts getting personal."

Fisher noted that Nocona seems to have gotten better. Flusche said that MMH had a smaller patient base. Fisher thought Nocona wasn't such a big city. He was challenged to compare city limit population to city limit population. Fisher said he felt Muenster's outlying area was better around here.

Flusche commented, "Butch we appreciate you coming up here to listen to what we have to say so that you can get the facts instead of some of that balony that's on the street." Fisher said he had mixed emotions about the situation.

Jack Endres said, "You need to look at population base to hospitals. Let's look at Nocona Hospital. How many beds does it have? What is its average occupancy? Twenty-five percent or is it more like six or seven percent? These are things that you can't just say, 'They're doing fine, why aren't you?'"

Rural Texans input sought for health care summit

Rural health care decision- and policy-makers, providers and citizens are coming together to further address rural health care issues in Texas. The Third Annual Rural Health Summit, to be held in Austin on March 1, 2001, will provide a forum for all those interested in rural health care to determine top issues and concerns regarding health care throughout rural Texas, and discuss actions needed to address those concerns.

The previous Rural Health Summits initiated a valuable dialogue between a broad spectrum of rural health players, including key state leaders, state health regulators, policy experts and rural health professionals. As in the past, the Center for Rural Health Initiatives of the Texas State Office of Rural Health is sponsoring the event.

The Rural Caucus of the Texas State Legislature is again co-sponsoring the Summit. Organized in the 76th Legislative Session, the Caucus comprises both House and Senate members. It focuses on the rural perspective in Texas, facilitating the identification of legislation impacting rural areas. Chaired by Judy Hawley (D - Portland) and co-vice chairs, representatives Suzanna Hupp (R - Lampasas) and Robbie Cook (D - Eagle Lake), the Caucus provides a nonpartisan forum for assessing and formulating policy on issues affecting rural areas.

Rural Texans are invited to offer their ideas, concerns, and suggestions for consideration at the Summit. Citizens are encouraged to send their comments directly to the Center before Feb. 16.

The Center, located in Austin, provides leadership to encourage innovative responses to rural health care needs. The Center advocates and administers a number of programs and services designed to help rural health providers and communities proactively address the health care needs of rural Texans. The Center can be reached at: P. O. Drawer 1708, Austin, TX 78767-1708; Phone toll free: 877-TEX-CRHI (877-839-2744) E-Mail: crhi@crhi.state.tx.us.

Opinion/Editorial

Dear Editor:

I would like to offer a few comments in response to the front page article in your February 2, 2001 issue regarding the presentation by Mr. John Aytes. Several times I have let assertions made by Mr. Aytes go unchallenged because I did not have the facts available at the time to address the issue. Mr. Aytes has asserted that the nurse practitioners are the reason the clinics are unprofitable and that their salaries and benefits are around $165,000. Mr. Aytes doesn't mention that the figure he quotes includes salary and benefits for three nurse practitioners and that we have only employed two NPs for the last nine months.

Our NPs spend approximately 80% of their time seeing patients. Perhaps not surprisingly, patient income offsets about 80% of the NPs salary and benefits. The remainder of the time they are responsible for conducting audits to ensure compliance with federally required clinic policies and procedures, providing employment physicals for new employees, community outreach and education programs, providing nursing support when the clinics are short of staff, and handling patient telephone calls. The clinic coordinator is also responsible for staffing, personnel issues, administrative reports and other general supervisory duties as a departmental supervisor of the Hospital. As I noted in our last District board meeting, NPs are required to maintain our clinic's designation as licensed and certified rural health clinics which qualify for higher Medicare and Medicaid funding than regular physician offices. Taking into account the patient revenue directly generated by the NPs, the increased Medicare and Medicaid funding received due to our ability to qualify for rural health clinic status, and the clinic compliance, administrative and operational support provided by the NPs, it is obvious that the NPs more than pay for themselves.

Ms. Janet Felderhoff reports in her article that Mr. Ben Bindel questioned the net worth of the Muenster Hospital District. It was agreed that as of June 30, 2000, the District had a net worth of $2.25 million. Ms. Felderhoff did not report Mr. Bindel's question as to the net worth of the Gainesville Hospital District and the response by Mr. Aytes that the net worth of the Gainesville Hospital District was approximately $5 to 6 million. I declined to guess because I did not know the facts, but promised Mr. Bindel that I would get him the number the next day. In fact, as of June 30, 1999 (the most recent audited financial statement available), the net worth of the Gainesville Hospital District was $11.3 million. Mr. Aytes was not even close. The point is simply that Mr. Aytes does not know the facts, asserts his guesses as if they were facts and has to date never, ever admitted that he was wrong with respect to any of his wild claims.

With respect to Mr. Doug Hellman's letter to the editor, I suppose I shouldn't expect Mr. Hellman to know the facts since he doesn't live in the Muenster Hospital District, has never (to my knowledge) attended a Hospital board meeting, and apparently depends on his brother-in-law for all of his information. Mr. Hellman ignores the benefits of having the District own St. Richard's Villa, the business moved from the nursing home to the Hospital and the nursing home crisis which has developed over the past two years. I suppose it's too much to once again note Mr. Wes Fuson's previous letter to the editor or his availability to answer any questions as to the operation of the nursing home. Instead, I will simply point out that the total year to date loss of the District is $256,257, of which the Hospital loss alone (even after allocating all tax revenues to the Hospital) is $232,856, while the St. Richard's Villa year to date loss is only $23,401 (without any tax support).

With respect to Mr. Aytes letter to the editor, as usual, Mr. Aytes strayed far away from the truth. Mr. Aytes' petition certainly did take me by surprise. I should not have assumed based on mere common sense, that Mr. Aytes wanted an early vote on the issue of merging the districts. But really, who in their right mind would advocate calling a vote where the only option is to dissolve the Muenster Hospital District? Nevertheless, when I discovered what Mr. Aytes was really trying to do, I quickly and publicly admitted my error, unlike Mr. Aytes who has never retracted single one of his many blatant misrepresentations. Mr. Aytes now claims I am "asserting other illegalities and doing his best to create a smoke screen." I like to know specifically what Mr. Aytes means by this.

Mr. Aytes is not correct in asserting there will be two votes by residents of each district; one for merger and another for dissolution. This is not, however, an error for which he should be blamed. I just recently learned that our attorney, in an effort to avoid confusion after consultations with the legislative counsel's office, changed the legislation so that the vote will be combined into a single proposition where voters in each district will cast a single vote either for or against the merger. The voters in both districts must vote in favor of the merger in order for the merger to pass.

Mr. Aytes states that if voters vote to dissolve the District in his election, "they will still have a chance to vote on the merger once the new enabling legislation is ready." This statement is ABSOLUTELY FALSE! If the voters in Mr. Aytes' election vote to dissolve the District, the District must immediately begin winding down its business and arrange for the disposal of its assets and liabilities. There will be no vote to merge the districts because our assets will be gone, the District will be dissolved, and there will be nothing left to merge with the Gainesville Hospital District. Mr. Aytes' scheme to foil a vote on the merger by calling for a senseless vote to dissolve the District is foolish and recklessly subjects the District to dissolution for no reason.

If you sign Mr. Aytes' petition, you are contributing to his scheme to prevent the voters of our District a chance to vote on the merger while subjecting the District to a horrible risk. If Mr. Aytes is so sure the enabling legislation to allow a vote on the merger won't get through the state legislature this spring, why press now for this foolish vote to dissolve the District? If the enabling legislation does not make it through the legislature this session and we can't vote to merge, why in the world would we have a vote to dissolve? The Board and I have only one request: Be patient and let's give all of the residents of the Muenster Hospital District a chance to vote on the merger.

Finally, I would like to invite and encourage everyone interested in the facts regarding our proposed merger with the Gainesville Hospital District to attend our next townhall meeting which will be held on Monday, February 26, 2001 at 7:00 p.m. in the Muenster Public School auditorium. Also, our next Board meeting will be held on Tuesday, February 20, 2001 at 7:00 p.m. At this meeting, the Board will order an election for three places on the District board. The Board and I would like to encourage everyone interested to run for the Board. It is easy to take pot shots at the Board, it is much more difficult to take responsibility.

From My Side of the Fence

by Ed Cler

When I was a young fellow, my Dad believed in putting in a full day at work in the fields. Morning and evening chores were extras.

As a rule the morning milking and other chores were done before breakfast, and that was before sunup.

After a long day in the fields on the north farm, we would arrive home in the dark, clean up and eat supper, then there were 15 to 20 cows to be hand milked, the milk run through the cream separator, calves fed and watered, and whatever else needed to be done before our day was over.

By that time, we were ready to get some rest.

Our youngest sister, Lucille, often wished she could help, and one evening I noticed she was watching us eat supper, and had a big grin on her face and seemingly could hardly wait for us boys to finish our meal and start for the cows.

Well, as we left the dining room, she announced that she had milked all of the cows and separated the milk.

That left only a few chores for the rest of us, and you can imagine, Lucille was pretty high on our list of favorites.

What I think is just that

Opinion by Dave Fette

It's a complicated thing, this hospital controversy. Depending on your feelings, your sources of information, and your sources of opinion, you can come to different conclusions based on the same set of numbers.

I feel it is an obligation of this newspaper to give over great amounts of space to the discussion of this very important issue. This space is free to everybody but us and ultimately paid for by our advertisers, many of whom come down on one side or the other of the issue. I'm sure you can appreciate the potential conflicts that arise. We are very grateful to all our advertisers who stay on even if they may think the Enterprise should handle the merger differently. So far we have reported what was said at meetings and given space to most of the opinions and positions stated in signed letters to the editor.

What I, or any of the other writers for this paper think is just that. I hope that stating what I think will help you think. So I intend to briefly look at a point or two of the hospital controversy every week based on the way it looks to me.

View for this issue: Those who oppose the merger of the Muenster and Gainesville Hospital Districts continue to refer to the closing of the Muenster Hospital. I think that is an unfair reference. My understanding is that the Muenster Hospital board and administrator want and intend to find the best way to use the Muenster facility and make it part of the county hospital system. To accuse them of fighting to close the doors, suggesting abandonment of one of our biggest businesses and abandonment of patients needing care is simply demonization when they have repeatedly stated the opposite.

If it was my decision, I would, as I told members of the Gainesville Hospital board, support the merger only if they offer a solid, reliable plan to make the Muenster Hospital facility part of their active medical system.

One other brief point: The meeting held by the Muenster Hospital support group, those opposing merger of the Muenster and Gainesville districts, on Jan. 11 at Muenster City Hall was publicized mainly by word of mouth. I understand some flyers were posted though I didn't see any. The Enterprise was notified of the Thursday meeting on Sunday and confirmed on Monday. Therefore we could not publicize the meeting effectively. A called meeting on short notice is kinda' hard to call public without using every form of notice and some reaction time. We referred to it as public because that's the term they used at the meeting. I know some didn't get the word.

Letter to the Editor,

Most hospitals provide various benefits to their employees - health insurance, paid vacation, retirement plans, etc. Some of the large hospitals even provide "educational assistance plans" as a benefit. Under this plan a hospital pays for some or all of the cost of an employee's college education. These company educational assistance plans are usually established as WRITTEN PERSONNEL POLICY, and are available to all qualified employees, not to just a select few. All qualified employees are eligible to apply to the program, and every effort is made to not discriminate against certain employees in favor of others.

But why would our hospital, which we are told is going broke, provide educational assistance (paid tuition) for two employees to receive their Nurse Practitioner certification?

Was this benefit offered to all qualified employees of MMH? What criteria was used to select these two particular employees?

Letter to the Editor,

The dietary department is operating at a minimum labor cost, and food purchasing is adjusted accordingly. As all departments in any business, there are required positions to be covered. Good management practices are followed in dietary. Hospital meal services are never designed to add revenue. They are a necessity in any hospital program -- an integral part of its operation and good patient care.

The old rugged cross

It was probably back in 1969 when I first noticed it. I was 20 years old and commuting to Denton, Texas to continue my education. I had attended Cooke County College prior to this and needed to move on to the larger, North Texas State University, now U.N.T.

I was newly married, working, and trying to keep my grades up with a full load of courses. It was a depressing time in my life. I had just lost four good friends in a car accident just after our marriage, the Vietnam War was in full swing, and my decisions about my future would probably be out of my hands anyway!

But then, on one of my daily trips to Denton, I noticed it! There, just south of Sanger, Texas - on a hill to the east was a cross. It stands atop a simple hillside, with the inscription "Christ Arose" spelled out in white rocks. It was my daily inspiration back then, because I needed all the help I could get! Every time I passed that place in the road, I glanced at that cross, asked for a little help for that day and moved on!

As years passed, I obtained experience in several different fields. I've become a teacher, a machinist, a dairy farmer and rancher, an assembly specialist for Peterbilt Motors, a father of four great kids, and now am working for the postal system in Denton, Texas. I credit all my "adventures" to my good parents and my beginning education in both schools in Muenster.

But now - 32 years later - I'm commuting to Denton again! The old cross is still on that hillside. With a new career, I'm as much puzzled as I was years earlier, I'm much older, and have a lot more to think about! Now when I look at that cross, I'm thinking about my family, friends, fellow workers - everybody!!! I don't pray to that cross - it's just a reminder that I need to do a little each day, and that's when I do!

I don't know who built that cross, but I'll find out, someday! I will thank him - he doesn't really know how many people he's touched!

would be deregulated so anybody could buy their power. The transmission system will stay regulated by the Public Utility Commission. The retail end of the electricity business will be deregulated and other companies will be free to enter the power retailing business. In about 10 months, TXU will automatically reduce their rates about six percent.

Discussion over a request by Klement Ford of Muenster for tax abatement consideration addressed whether the total added value of Klement Ford's new dealership was sufficient to qualify for abatement. Troy Sicking said they did. John Pagel said he felt the reasons for granting tax abatement were: 1) to give incentive to attract new business to Muenster or 2) to give assistance for a start-up business to survive. He didn't feel they met either criteria sufficiently. The council voted to request further information from Klement Ford to determine whether $ one million has been added to the city in value and increased employment.

The next city council election was officially set by the Mayor for May 5. Mayor Weinzapfel, Joey Anderson, Stan Endres are up for reelection. The filing period for candidates for these positions extends from Feb. 19 through Mar. 21. The filing time for write-in candidates goes on 'till Mar. 26.

The Council approved purchase of a highway-type street sweeper from the state highway department. They got the 1993 model machine for $11,000.00, a deal John Pagel, street commissioner said was unbelievably good because the highway department was turning over the cleaning job to private companies. The city is looking forward to some much needed street sweeping, especially on the newly resurfaced streets where the gravel didn't stick very well. Interim city manager Chris Yosten said he has requested the paving contractor come back to assess the poor job. He also reported on water line extension work being completed by city employees with the city's boring machine. They saved a lot of money by doing the work themselves.

The final agenda item was approval of payment of monthly bills totaling $67,885.71.

Pack 664 Scouts of Muenster were off to the races!

On Jan. 21, Cub Scouts held the Pinewood Derby races at the Muenster VFW. This is a big event for scouts everywhere, with lots of fun and competition during the event. Prior to the races each scout was required to turn their car in for inspection to check for qualification specs: clearance, weight, length, and paint.

The Derby Day was started with the Flag ceremony. Ben Bindel did the introduction of the race, rules, and judging.

The races began with the youngest Den. The races were based on a double elimination rule. All six dens raced within their den to get first and second place trophies. The First place winners of each den had an Overall Championship race for first, second, and third place trophies.

Den 1, Tiger Cubs, first place was Jimmy Abner and second place was Austin Miller. Den 6, Wolves, first place was Josh Voth, and second place was Phillip Vogel. Den 2, Wolves, first place was Ryan Felderhoff, second place was Jason Luke. Den 4, Bears, first place was Dustin Pumphrey, second place Zachary Moritz. Den 5, Bears, first place was Christopher Valliere, second place Jacob Bayer. Den 3a, Webelos, first place was Seth Pierce, second place was Corey Pumphrey. Den 3b, Webelos, first place was Richie Sweeney, second place was Kirk Felderhoff. The Championship winners were first place Richie Sweeney, second place Christopher Valliere, and third place Ryan Felderhoff. Three other trophies awarded were: Best Craftsmanship, Will Taylor; Most Original, Jordan Henscheid; Most Colorful, Austin Miller.

Following the trophy awards, were refreshments, with the closing announcements and upcoming events by Ben Bindel, and a round of applause to all the volunteers and participants who helped make the day possible. Derby Day was ended with the Flag retreat ceremony.

Applications accepted for Lyon College Upward Bound Math-Science Center

Applications are now being accepted for the Summer 2001 Upward Bound Math-Science Center Program at Lyon College in Batesville, Arkansas, according to program director Paul Reynolds.

The Math-Science Center is a six-week residential program for high school students who are currently in the 9th, 10th, or 11th grades. It is designed to strengthen academic skills, particularly in math and science, for young people who desire a college education but who may need assistance with study skills, personal guidance, career counseling and other factors important in preparing them for college. Each student will participate in a research project in math, computers, chemistry, biology, physics and engineering, environmental science or medical science. A college professor or master teacher will lead each group, and college students will serve as tutors.

In addition to research projects, the UBMS program will offer classes in English, Spanish, history, art, psychology, math enrichment and ACT preparation. Other activities will include field trips to area industries related to math and science, and also trips to cultural attractions in the area. Lectures and seminars on topics related to personal development and college preparation will be provided, as well as group and individual counseling.

All expenses will be paid by the program, including air fare for out-of-state students, room and board on the Lyon College campus, instruction and classroom supplies, entrance fees and food on field trips, and a weekly stipend of $15 for students in good standing.

The Upward Bound Math-Science Center serves students from selected areas in Arkansas, Texas, Louisiana, Oklahoma, and New Mexico. To be eligible for participation, an applicant must be from a family where neither parent has a four-year college degree OR meet U.S. Department of Education income guidelines. The program will accept 50 students.

Applications and information are also available at: <http://www.lyon.edu/webdata/Groups/ubms/>

The program begins Saturday, June 2, and ends Friday June 13. Completed applications must be mailed by Mar. 1. Interested students, parents or teachers may contact Assistant Director, Elaine Severs, at 888-577-7984 (toll free), or email msubound@Lyon.edu.

Texas Department of Agriculture secures specific exemption to use Ally on sorghum

The Texas Department of Agriculture has been granted approval by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency to issue a Section 18 specific exemption to use metsulfuron methyl, formulated as Ally, on sorghum to control triazine-resistant pigweed in Texas. The specific exemption expires Aug. 1, 2001.

Ally Herbicide, manufactured by DuPont, may be applied following all directions, restrictions and precautions on the EPA registered product label, as well as the following restriction: * Applications will be made only by certified or licensed applicators or by persons under the direct supervision of licensed applicators. A copy of the Section 18 exemption is needed before making any applications. * A single application may be made at a rate of 0.001875 pounds of active ingredient (1/20 of an ounce) per acre, per application. The product must be tank mixed with 2.4-D amine at the rate of 0.25 pounds of active ingredient per acre. * A maximum of 1 million acres of sorghum can be treated in Texas and only in fields with triazine-resistant pigweed. * Regulated herbicide rules in certain counties may need to be considered. Contact your regional TDA office.

* Producers must have a copy of the US Fish and Wildlife Service letter that outlines environmental hazards and precautions to follow when applying Ally near endangered species. * For more information, contact the county extension office of TDA at 512-453-7407.

Fertilizer crunch

From aluminum manufacturers to petroleum based fertilizer producers, companies are selling the energy - electricity and natural gas - they would normally use to make their products, back to power companies for huge profits.

This winter's fuel crunch is showing companies that they can make more money selling energy allotted there by long standing contracts with power generators, than manufacturing their typical products. The shifts by large industrial consumers of energy is described by analysts as unprecedented and is expected to free up more fuel for households and businesses this winter. Shortages of fertilizer and aluminum, however, could be troublesome for the economy as a whole and impact traditional customers.

"The fertilizer picture is particularly worrying us because we don't know what they're going to use to grow crops with," said David Wyss, chief economist at Standard & Poor's.

Terra Industries Inc. of Sioux City, Iowa, has closed three of its six ammonia plants and is selling its December allotment of natural gas back to the market at current rates, above $7 per million cubic feet, which are about double the rates of last year. If the current shortages and high market rates persist, Terra's chief administrative officer Jack Rosenbury says "It's going to be a real problem" for farmers.

Rosenbury estimates out of the total U.S. production capacity of 28 million tons of ammonia, about 4 million tons isn't operating now.

"Could we be short of fertilizer next spring? It's possible that farmers will not have as much as they want," he said.

County Agent's Report by Craig Rosenbaum

Soybean seminar
Dr. Travis Miller, Extension Agronomist from Texas A&M will be presenting two programs on cultural practices for soybean production in Texas. With this year's reduced acreage planted to wheat, producers will be evaluating alternative crops.

The seminar will be held Tuesday, Feb. 13, at 1pm at Mike Graves Farm Center in Era and repeated at 3pm at the Cooke County Electric Co-Op at Muenster. Topics to be covered include selection of maturity groups, planting dates, herbicides, and other cultural considerations.

One and one half CEU's will be offered toward recertification requirements for TDA Pesticide licenses.

Ted Turner largest US landowner

Ted Turner, well known environmentalist, vice chairman and largest shareholder of Time Warner, owns 1.7 million acres in the United States, more than any other individual.

Most of his holdings include ranches and farms in New Mexico, Montana, Nebraska, Kansas, South Carolina, Florida and South Dakota. Many of the acres are devoted to providing pasture for Turner's expanding herd of 23,600 head of bison easily the largest in the world.

His 2,600 plus square miles would cover an area equivalent to more than half the state of Connecticut.

Final ruling on mandatory livestock price reporting implemented

The final rule on mandatory livestock price reporting was implemented on Jan. 30. The rule established a mandatory program of reporting information regarding the marketing of cattle, swine, lambs, and products such as livestock under the Livestock Mandatory Reporting Act of 1999. The new reporting will provide information on 80 to 95 percent of all cattle, boxed beef, slaughter hog, sheep, lamb meat, and imported lamb meat transactions.

Packers who annually slaughter an average of 125,000 cattle or 100,000 swine, or slaughter or process an average of 75,000 lambs are required to report to USDA transaction details involving purchases and sales of livestock, boxed beef, boxed lamb and lamb carcasses.

Importers who annually import an average of 5,000 metric tons of lamb meat products also must report. This program is intended to provide information on pricing, contracting for purchase, and supply and demand conditions for livestock, livestock production, and livestock products, that can be readily understood by producers, packers, and other market participants.

New market news reports available to the public will include information covering the prior day's swine market, forward contract and formula marketing arrangement cattle purchases, packed-owned cattle and sheep information, sales of imported boxed lamb cuts, and live lamb premiums and discounts.

Further information is available online at <http://www.ams.usda.gov/lsg/price.htm>.

EU mad cow scare could boost US soybean exports

A European Union ban on the use of meat and bone meal in animal feed to prevent the spread of mad cow disease could help American farmers as the EU has said it will need an extra 1.3 million tons of soybean meal.

The increased U.S. exports should translate into an increase in soybean prices. In its monthly estimate of world agricultural supply and demand, the USDA predicted that prices for this year's U.S. soybean crop will average about $4.80 per bushel, up 10 cents from last month's projection and 17 cents above the average price for the 1999 crop.

Bill Biedermann, a commodity analyst with Allendale Inc., said that while the EU's decision undoubtedly would give the soybean industry a positive boost, he cautioned that 'it may not have the sustained benefit that we would wish it to have' because of competition from soybean crops in Argentina and Brazil. Texas Farm Bureau

Farm prices steady

Although prices received by farmers for their goods rose 4.3 percent in November 2000, they remained unchanged in December, according to a preliminary Agriculture Department report.

But in comparison to December 1999's All Farm Products Index, the 2000 index was 7.7 percent higher than the previous year. Price increases from December 1999 for cotton, cattle, eggs and hogs were partially offset by lower prices for broilers, apples, oranges and lemons.

The All Farm Products Index of Prices Received is compiled by USDA's National Agricultural Statistics Services and is available on the Web at <http://www.usda.gov/nass/pubs/pubs.htm>. The next "Agricultural Prices" report will be available on January 31.

Evaluate hay this winter

When feeding hay, stop and do an on site quality evaluation. Check these five areas:

- * If there is rot on hay stored outside, and six inches of outer layer is spoiled, 30 - 40% will be rejected.
- * If there is a dusty or moldy smell, the hay was put up wet.
- * More leaves than stems indicates higher nutrition.
- * More weeds, lower quality and nutrition.
- * The more yellow and brown, the more mature the plant was at harvest.

Barnyard hygiene

Anyone handling animals or animal feces should immediately wash their hands with warm, soapy water. Bacterial pathogens, such as E. coli, Salmonella and Campylobacter, can be passed to humans through livestock manure, just by finger contact with the mouth.

Research shows that farm kids exposed to low doses on a regular basis develop some immunity to these microbes. Some may have suffered organism illness, but not severe, and the infection is diagnosed as an intestinal flu.

In 1999, there were 1,897 confirmed cases of E. coli infection in humans and four confirmed deaths.
