A Better Plan Than Cashing War Bonds.

Let us assume that you bought War Bonds. You plan soon to cash them and buy a car, or refrigerator, or washing machine, or radio, or some other necessity.

We suggest a better plan to meet your needs than by cashing these Bonds. Hold them against future emergencies as a reserve. They represent savings of the past. You are to the good by that much.

Use our simple installment payment plan to finance your needs out of current income. Many are finding this a far better plan. Our Bank will be glad to go over this with you. Come to see us.

Washington Notes

By Congressman Ed Gossett

WASHINGTON, D.C., Jan. 19—As this is being written the threat of a steel strike still hangs like a cloud over the nation. No method of settling industrial labor disputes has yet been found. If the United Steel Workers strike it will bog down all steel production in America. If the strike continues for long it will practically paralyze our reconversion program since some steel goes into nearly every item of hardware. The steel industry is a gigantic industrial monopoly. The 750,000 steel workers are strongly organized in the CIO and constitute a labor monopoly. Thus the consumer will suffer between the squeeze of powerful industrial monopoly on one hand and powerful organized labor monopoly on the other. In this particular case as in most of the other strikes now plaguing the nation, the union has a contract to work under certain conditions for certain wages for a certain length of time and are striking in violation of contract. The United Steel Workers contract does not expire until next October. However, the union will strike in violation of its contract, and under existing laws will suffer no penalties. Labor unions should be liable under contract just as are individuals and corporations.

Cotton Ceilings.
The Department of Agriculture and the Office of Price Administration are now threatening to put a ceiling price on the 1946 crop of raw cotton. This would be absurd, unreasonable, and harmful. There is no more than 10¢ worth of raw cotton in a man's shirt, and no more than 25¢ worth of raw cotton in the usual cotton dress. The laundryman gets more out of one washing of a cotton garment than the farmer gets for the cotton in the garment. It has been shown that the price a farmer receives for a pound of cotton reflects the way he produces it. If he produces it per hour he receives for producing such cotton. In other words, if a farmer gets 24¢ a pound for cotton, it means that he receives only 24¢ per hour for his toll in its production. Many of those now wanting to put a ceiling on the cotton farmer are strongly recommending a minimum wage of 65¢ per hour for industrial labor. This 65¢ per hour to be increased within two years to 75¢ per hour.

Again, we are asked to extend price control on scarce commodities goods. In his recent speech, the President gave a logical reason for this, saying the prices should be held down until there was an adequate supply of the commodities, thus preventing inflation. There is no shortage of cotton. The Commodity Credit Corporation now holds around 5,000,000 bales and it is estimated that we have on hand roughly 20,000,000 bales in excess of what can be processed in the next two years. A policy of putting a price ceiling on a commodity of which we have a surplus and for which producers receive less than 25¢ per hour for their labor is certainly the rankest injustice and is not consistent with any philosophy or theory of price control. The ceiling which O.P.A. threatens to put on the 1946 cotton, with the advice and consent of the Secretary of Agriculture, is 24.09¢ cents per pound, gross weight, for 15-16 inch middling white and extra white cotton.

The present threat of these ceilings is running the price of cotton down. If cotton price ceilings are imposed the farmer will receive much less for his '46 crop than he even received for his '45 crop. Under the '45 price many cotton farmers little more than broke even and many others actually lost money. Labor represents about 70 per cent of the cost of cotton production. The farmer wage rate, or what it cost the farmer to employ labor was in October 1945 about three-and-a-half times what it cost him to hire labor during the period 1909 to 1914, and nearly three times the rate on January 1, 1941. The period 1909 to 1914 is the price period used in fixing parity on agricultural commodities.

On Wednesday of this week more than a hundred of us members of Congress met to protest this threatened action. As this letter is written a committee has just finished meeting with officials of the Department of Agriculture and O.P.A. to discuss this matter; no results have yet been obtained.

During the years 1933 to 1942 we averaged 35,000,000 acres per year in cotton. In 1945 only 17,000,000 acres were planted in cotton. Much cotton land is now being abandoned. If price ceilings are imposed on cotton, more cotton farmers will move into town with many evil results including aggravation of the universal housing shortage. There are many empty houses in the country at this time but none in the towns. Certainly this exceedingly harmful governmental action should be prevented.

HENRY FETTE HONORED ON 66TH BIRTHDAY

Mr. and Mrs. Emmet Fette entertained with a dinner party in their home Saturday evening complimentary to his father, Henry Fette, on his 66th birthday. The meal was served buffet style at 7:30, and later games of dominoes and cards furnished diversion for the 25 guests.

Pictures by the famous artists Stuart and Botticelli were never signed by them, Stuart's because he was vain and Botticelli's because he was modest.

buys no more than 40 used to. What he ought to do is increase his number of hours. Suppose he worked 48 hours at $1.00 an hour. He'd have more to pay his bills with but he would not have caused an increase in price. His weekly wage would go farther.

To the confirmed new dealer this idea probably does not seem so hot. He'll think back to the early thirties and claim that an economy of scarcity enabled us to get over the crash of '29. If he'll think a little farther, however, he'll notice an entirely different set of conditions. Markets were flooded then. We had more commodities than we knew what to do with. More money, too. It was reasonable to take it easy a while and permit supply and demand to equalize.

But now we're in a hole. We need lots of things and we owe lots of money. The only way to get even is to work harder.

When a person is at the top of a hill he can coast down to the level. All he has to do is apply the brakes at times to check his speed. If he's in a valley he needs power to reach the level. Our country is in the same fix. We've got to go up, not down. That calls for extra energy.
