Ernest Kerr was named to the "Committee of 67" which is charged with making a study of the present and future needs of West Texas State University. The Committee was created by a Resolution of the Board of Regents, Texas State Senior Colleges adopted on February 7, 1969.

This committee of 67 citizens of the state of Texas was appointed by the President of the Board. They are residents of 25 Panhandle of Texas cities.

A toll is being taken in the immediate area in farm accidents, with tractor accidents leading the list of personal injuries to farm employees, children and employers.

Last week, the second severe accident of recent days happened when Lineo Salas fell from a tractor and was run over by a sandfighter. He was employed by Joe Costen, who farms southwest of Muleshoe.

Approximately three weeks ago seven year old Derek Prater was severely injured after becoming entangled in an automatic sprinkler system on his father's farm. He is still hospitalized in Lubbock Methodist Hospital. Derek is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Prater who farm southwest of Muleshoe.

Thursday morning, a Singleton Ambulance was called to the Buck Gregory farm in the West Camp community where Walter Williams was injured while attaching a tool bar to a tractor. He is hospitalized in West Plains Memorial Hospital being treated for a broken right leg.

Charles Flowers, who lives on the Muleshoe Ranch was injured Friday morning when he was run over by a tractor near Lariat. He was brought to West Plains Memorial Hospital by Singleton Ambulance where he received emergency treatment before being taken to a hospital in Lubbock. He apparently had severe back and internal injuries.

Bailey County agent J.K. Adams has released several safety tips for farmers operating tractors and farm equipment.

This is the time of the year when most farmers are busy operating the farm tractor.

Ranch Land Association Is Formed

The Panhandle's first grazing association has just been formed with the sale of a big chunk of the Mill Iron Ranch in Hall County.

Twenty-five farmers applied for and received a state charter to form a Hall County corporation which will be known as the Bridle Bit Grazing Association. Location of the new association's land is approximately 25 miles southwest of Memphis and will include 15,521 acres of the old ranch. When arrangements are completed the 25 men will become equal stockholders in the grazing association.

CAR, TRAIN, CROSSING SIGN MIX-UP--A mishap at 3:30 a.m. Thursday virtually demolished this 1963 Mercury after it swerved to miss a train at a crossing, broke off the railroad crossing sign and struck the 21st car from the front of a freight train. The accident happened four miles northwest of Muleshoe just off Highway 84. Two men received slight injuries in the accident and investigating officers are still searching for the driver of the vehicle.

Accepting the awards was L.B. Hall, publisher. Presented the plaque as Jaycee Outstanding Young Educator was Coach Bobby Graves. He received his plaque from Chamber of Commerce Manager and Jaycee Jerry Hutton. His letter of recommendation, which was signed by 37 persons, read in part, "In working with the students and youth of our school and community, Bob Graves sets a good example because of his interest and enthusiasm in sports. He insists on clean playing, good conduct, and Christian-like attitudes from all those who participate in the athletic program."

"His work day does not end with the ringing of the dismissal bell at four o'clock. He gives many extra hours of his time and talents in helping the youth of Muleshoe."

Car-Train Crash; Murder Keep Area Officers Busy

The body of Mrs. Ernestine (Tina) Servantez, Clovis, who lived in Muleshoe until two years ago, was found Tuesday afternoon beneath a culvert on U.S. 60 about eight miles west of Melrose, N.M.

Mrs. Servantez had been reported missing around noon on Saturday, April 19. According to the story told the Curry County Sheriff's office at Clovis, Mrs. Servantez had left her house in Clovis during the evening of April 18 to go on an errand and was not seen until her body was found Tuesday, April 29.

An automobile identified as belonging to the dead woman was found abandoned on April 22 near Fort Sumner (N.M.). The vehicle, which was parked near the highway headed toward Fort Sumner, was found with the air breather removed. Officers investigating decided she had developed some type of car trouble.

Curry County officers said the body, which was clad only in a thin blouse and bra, had apparently been badly beaten and the walls of the culvert where her body was found were spattered with blood. Investigators believed she was killed where she was found.

Also found near her body were a man's T-shirt, a coin purse, a hair piece and a shoe several feet outside the underpass.

Dr. C.E. Gordon, the pathologist who performed the autopsy, told officers Mrs. Servantez apparently had been dead for at least three days and the

On the agenda, according to Bass, will be a most important announcement by Harmon Elliott, Alex Williams is to present the park plan drawings by Texas Tech students and to be discussed are the Fourth of July celebration and the upcoming promotional, "Dad's Fishing Wagon" which will be presented some lucky father on Father's Day.

The meeting will be held at the Muleshoe State Bank.

Bass urges all local businessmen and interested persons to attend this meeting.

Park Drawings On Display For 3 Weeks

Seven of the park plan drawings by senior Park Administration students of Texas Technological College are presently on display in several Muleshoe stores.

Rev. Walter Bartholf, president of the Muleshoe Park and Recreation Board said the drawings will be displayed in local stores and businesses for the next three weeks. At the present time, the plans are located at Muleshoe State Bank, First National Bank, Anthony's, Coyle's, St. Clair's, Corral Restaurant and Muleshoe Motor Co.

Rev. Bartholf said the plans may be switched about from location to location to give people ample opportunity to see each and every drawing.

He said that 37 different plans will be made available later in the form of slides. When the slides are received they may

Land of Coronado Promotion Begins

Fifty-three outdoor advertising boards will go up this week and will be on display until September inviting tourists to 'stay awhile' in Muleshoe and 23 other communities participating in the "Land of Coronado" tourist promotion.

The Muleshoe advertising board, located on Highway 84 west will invite tourists to see the Mile Memorial. In addition to the localized boards for each participating community, area-wide tourist attractions such as Lake Meredith, Palo Duro Canyon and Prairie Dog Town are featured on a number of the outdoor panels.

Chamber of Commerce president Don Harmon said, "The attention getting outdoor display advertising program is supplemented by window cards to be displayed at motels, restaurants and filling stations and cards to be found on tables in area eating places."

"These cards provide additional tourist information such as things to see and do in the participating communities and also highlight area attractions.

"The tourist dollar is a new dollar," added Harmon. "It adds to the economy of our community money that otherwise wouldn't flow through people's hands. More and more families are touring our country these days. It is estimated that more than 20,000 tourist cars daily go through this region in the summer season. We have some attractions to offer these tourists and if we can combine this with our well known Southwestern friendship and hospitality, we can give the town a good economic boost," continued Harmon.

The Land of Coronado tourist promotion started last year with five area Chambers of Commerce participating. Twenty-four communities are now taking part in the program which is believed to be the largest area tourist promotion in the nation sponsored by individual Chambers of Commerce. The area development department of Southwestern Public Service Company originated the idea and designed the promotional ma-materials being used.

The Land of Coronado area begins at the Oklahoma border on the north and east, and the New Mexico State Line on the west and a line drawn from Seagraves to Tahoka on the south.

date of her death was decided as being sometime April 26. Her body was in a condition as to prevent a definite cause of death definition. She had a broken jaw, according to the autopsy, and had received a blow on her head.

Funeral services for Ernestine Servantez were held at 10 a.m. Friday, May 2, in the Immaculate Conception of Mary Catholic with Father Robert O'Leary officiating. Burial followed in Muleshoe Cemetery under direction of Singleton Funeral Home.
Ernestine Servantez was born August 23, 1927 at Floresville and moved to Muleshoe several years ago. She worked as a domestic in Muleshoe for 15 years worked for Mrs. T.R. White, among other local residents.
Survivors include her husband, Johnny; daughters, Dolores, Tina, Juanita, Lupe and Wilma; three sisters, Mrs. Julio Tresino, Floresville; Mrs. Raymond Malondo, Houston and Mrs. Paul Barro, Floresville.

Local violence added to the accumulating list Thursday morning around 3:30 when a car occupied by three men, with at least two of them being local residents, tangled with a railroad crossing sign and a train.

The accident happened when the driver of a 1963 Mercury apparently did not see a freight train as he was attempting to cross and swerved to the right breaking off the railroad crossing sign before hitting the 21st car from the front of the train.

Texas highway patrolman Joel Young said the driver of the car fled on foot immediately following the accident and the two passengers in the car would not admit to officers that they knew the identity of the driver. Young said that both passengers in the car were treated for minor injuries at West Plains Memorial Hospital and booked at the county jail on drunk charges.

Friday afternoon, the driver of the Mercury had not been located nor was his identity known to investigating officers. The Mercury belonged to Juan Villarreal, who was a passenger in the car. Paul Santoyo Dias was the other passenger. W.H. Glasscock, Slaton was the engineer of the train. He estimated his speed at approximately 50 miles per hour at the time of the accident.

More than 600 people are killed each year as a result of farm tractor upset accidents in the nation and the tractor driver can do something about it, advises County Agent J.K. Adams.

He says authorities estimate that three out of every four deaths from tractor upsets could be eliminated if tractors were equipped with protective frames or crush-resistant cabs and safety belts. Purchasers of new tractors should ask their dealers about available safety devices. They could save a life.
Here are other suggestions from the county agent which can also contribute much to the prevention of tractor accidents during the months ahead.

Read and familiarize yourself with the instruction manuals for your tractor and equipment. Keep yourself in good physical and mental condition by getting plenty of rest, dressing comfortable, working within physical capabilities and taking frequent breaks to avoid fatigue.
Avoid operating on steep slopes and stay clear of ditches and embankments. Drive slowly on rough ground or when visibility is poor. Reduce speed when turning or working near ditches and avoid dropping wheels onto a soft shoulder or into ditches.

Finally, suggests the agent, keep all guards and shields in place and shut off power before servicing or unclogging machinery. And always keep children away from machinery.
When on the road, use the Slow-Moving Vehicle emblem to mark all farm machinery.

MURDER SITE--Curry County officers are pictured checking the site where the body of Ernestine 'Tina' Servantez, formerly of Muleshoe was found this week. Mrs. Servantez had been reported missing some 10 days before her badly beaten body was found by tourists Tuesday evening. Mrs. Servantez and her family had moved to Clovis from Muleshoe some two years before she was killed. (Photo courtesy of Clovis News-Journal)

Wayland Ethridge presented a twenty year pin to Dorothy Beddingfield.

The 36-years in the education field, "Mr. Public Relations Himself" Dr. Eugene Mann of Eastern New Mexico University stressed public relations is in fact a synonym of all human relations. His after-dinner speech related the teaching profession and its community to their communications.

The sage theme of his talk was in capsule: "The contacts you make every day - at work, with neighbors and friends - the words you speak and the smile on your face - make for better public human relations between all concerned."

Dr. Mann said that a highly rated education system is a reflection of the community and its attitudes, actions and reactions which chart the course of action for patrons, teachers and students. The adequate support and need for education programs is understood by the free-flow communications between all persons concerned. He further stated that the school board should be the reflection of the wishes of the community. Statistics were used from Dr.

Mann's survey of 200 teachers in several communities, which pointed to the needs of teacher; and their communities to "be friendly, be good neighbors".
The banquet theme: "All Eyes are on Education" was carried out not only in Dr. Mann's informative speech but in the decorations and visual education ideas of the officer installation. Large "eyes" were the backdrop decorations of the speaker's table which was centered with an arrangement of gladioli, iris and chrysanthemums.

The speaker closed with the thought that all eyes were on the teaching profession and its reflection of images in this changing world, and as well as on the students, community and colleagues of the education profession. His challenge is "Make things happen; watch things happen".

Roger Albertson, chairman of the "Dad's Fishing Wagon" project, reports that the participation in this project has been excellent at the last count, we had 52 participants and we expect a few more. Robert Hooten, who has been in charge of getting the pick-up in showroom shape, reports that the pick-up is almost ready for show. We think that both of these men are to be commended on doing a fine job. If you are in business and are interested in participating in the "Dad's Fishing Wagon" project, we would certainly like to count you in. We received a letter from Doug Galassini, with Southwestern Public Service in Amarillo, as did about 20 other Chambers, telling about our Tourist Ambassador Appreciation Banquet and urging other towns to pattern a project after ours here in Muleshoe. We felt this was a compliment and that other people feel like Muleshoe is a progressive town on the move.

Cooper complimented the Muleshoe Lions Club and said that the help they provided in helping provide for the girls was a definite boost to their lagging financial situation.
When he was asked what things are needed most by the girls, he replied a 4-H barn, to provide an interest for girls; money; clothes; shoes and cosmetics, such as hair spray, toothpaste and soap.
Most of the finances and clothing come from Lions Club, a volunteer fire department, social and civic clubs, Sunday School classes and individuals.
Cooper said there are presently 72 girls at Whiteface; six at Borger; two in the state hospital; six in foster homes and five in college.
The Mayday theme was carried out in decorations, with Maypoles of styrofoam and pastel ribbons decorating the tables.
W.E. 'Bill' Moore served as master of ceremonies for the evening, and Jean Haskins provided piano selections.
Peace is not a matter of standing idle. It is an ideal to be fought for with all the wisdom and all the experience of the past.

If anyone would like to comment on the proposed plans, or make additional suggestions, you are asked to contact Rev. Walter Bartholf, 215 West Avenue I, Muleshoe or attend a meeting of the Muleshoe Park and Recreation Board.

Although grazing associations have been formed extensively in the Dakotas and Eastern Colorado the new association is the first large scale grazing association to be formed in the Panhandle. A small unit was formed in Swisher County last year.
Grazing associations were formed several years ago in an effort to give small farmers an opportunity to run larger numbers of livestock by pooling their resources. As a stockholder each member is eligible to lease grass on a per head basis from his own organization. The grazing fees go into a single cooperative structure which is wholly-owned by the stockholders.

Farm labor legislation again this year is being pushed in both Austin and Washington by labor-minded lawmakers with little or no regard for the adverse effects such legislation would have on the agricultural economy.
A serious qualitative and quantitative labor deficiency already is a major bottleneck on U.S. farms and in farm-related industries.
Tightly wedged between rising costs of production on one side and declining commodity prices on the other, agriculture is in no condition to withstand the increased expenses and labor strife that would be the inevitable result of passing the farm labor Bills now under consideration.
Yesterday (April 24) the Texas Senate after a hard fight by Senator H.J. (Doc) Blanchard of Lubbock who led the opposition passed 18 to 12 a State Minimum wage bill. It provides a $1.25 per hour minimum at $1.10 for some 40,000 workers on small farms not currently under the Federal wage edict.
The National minimum wage for agriculture, now $1.30 an hour, covers only those workers employed on farms using 500 man-days or more during any calendar quarter.
The State minimum wage bill, sponsored by San Antonio's Senator Joe Bernal, now goes to the House of Representatives. According to Blanchard if it isn't defeated there "this proposal will come close to repealing the right to work law" in Texas.
In Washington, action to bring agriculture under the National UFWOC head man Cesar Chavez was not present but was ably represented by Dolores Huerta, vice-president; Jerry Cohen, counsel, and Robert McMillen, legislative representative of UFWOC.

They not only called for bringing farm labor under the NLRA, but asked that farm labor be exempted from "the bans on recognition and organizational pickets and secondary boycotts" under the Act.
Huerta also said "We are opposed to any exemption of small growers whether it be legislative or administrative."
Strong opposition to the bill was voiced on the second day of hearings by Richard Thornton, Executive Vice President of the National Council of Agricultural Employers, of which Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock, is an active member. Thornton said this bill is not a solution to anything under the general heading of farm labor problems," and went on to show the lethal effects such legislation could have on American farmers and the American public.
He said "...any regulation or law which permits a field or orchard worker to strike at harvest time is capable of destroying a crop..."
He later pointed out that "Food is a vital necessity of life. Food is our existence. To give anyone group of persons or organizations control over the flow of this basic ingredient of life would be unthinkable. And to give to any persons or groups complete control over the existence of an independent businessman, the farmer, is unjust."

GORDON WILSON APPLIANCE, Muleshoe

Miss Morris, Gary Matthews Wed

Mrs. Gary Dale Matthews

Standing before an archway entwined with English ivy and Shasta daisies, flanked by baskets of yellow gladioli and white Killion daisies, Miss Carolyn Dell Morris and Gary Dale Matthews exchanged wedding vows in First Baptist Church, Lazbuddie, April 25 at seven o'clock. Rev. Johnny Timms, pastor of the church, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Alton Morris of Route 1, Muleshoe, and Mr. and Mrs. C.C. Matthews, Jr., also of Route 1, Muleshoe.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full-length cage redingote of Chantilly lace over a fitted A-line sheath of silk organza, fashioned with Sabrina neckline and long lace petal-point sleeves, scallops of the lace extending down each side of the front. Her chapel veil of illusion was attached to a large organza orchid. She carried a cascade of white stephanotis and English ivy with a large Callon orchid in the center, attached to a white lace-covered Bible. 'Something old' was her wedding ring; 'something new' her wedding gown; she borrowed pearl earrings and wore a blue garter which held a penny minted the year both the bride and groom were born.

Miss Jeannie Morris, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Miss Betty Hale of Crosbyton and West Texas State University, was bridesmaid. They wore identical street length dresses, Empire waisted, of sheer cotton fashioned with bias turnover collar, long tight sleeves, sashed with yellow satin ribbon. Bows with long streamers were attached at the high waistline in back. Their headpieces were yellow dotted Swiss bows centered with a white daisy and yellow tulle, they wore wristlets of yellow Pom Daisies. Miss Angela Matthews, of Lazbuddie, sister of the groom, was flower girl. She carried white lace basket with yellow bows and dropped yellow love knots.

Ringbearer was Joe Dan Tarter of Lazbuddie, Derrell Matthews served his brother as best man.

Serving as ushers were Jerry Don Redwine of Muleshoe and Billy Jones of Lazbuddie.

Organist was Mrs. Ronny Barnes of Canyon, who played traditional wedding music and accompanied Miss Marilyn Barnes and Miss Brenda Johns as they sang "The Twelfth of Never" and "Whither Thou Goest".

A reception was held immediately after the ceremony in Fellowship Hall, United Methodist Church, Lazbuddie.

The bride's table was laid with yellow net over yellow, scattered daisies sewn into the net, and adorned with bouquets of the bridal party. A three-tiered wedding cake was served, with banana punch and yellow mints by Miss Harriet Glaze of Muleshoe, cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Glen Scott, Mrs. A.E. Redwine, Mrs. Clarence Mason, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. J.C. Redwine, all of Lazbuddie.

For a wedding trip to Oklahoma City, the new Mrs. Matthews chose a two-piece beige linen dress, and yellow accessories, and wore the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

Out of town guests at the wedding were Miss Becky Miller, Miss Diane Gottsche, Miss Nancy Mills, Miss Jean Dailey, Miss Vicky Lowry, and Mr. and Mrs. Moffett Kesey, all of Canyon, Texas; Miss Jimmie Sue Clark and Linda Clark, both of Seminole, Texas; Miss Evelyn Matthews, Miss Jo Matthews and Miss Gail Ivy, all of Lubbock; Mr. and Mrs. Chuck Ivy and sons, of Roswell, New Mexico.

Members of the wedding party were guests of the groom's parents at the All-Sports Banquet at Lazbuddie Thursday night after rehearsal.

Both the bride and groom are graduates of Lazbuddie high school and both are presently enrolled at West Texas State University. The groom is also a graduate of Sparton School of Aviation, Tulsa, Oklahoma, and is employed at the Canyon airport as a flight instructor.

The couple will be at home at 1910 Fourth Avenue, Canyon, Texas.

This will take care of sewing materials purchased for the Special Education Classes at Junior high school and other planned projects.

Mrs. Hunt expressed her thanks to all who came and ate with the Club.

He now holds a position with the Rouse Company, of Columbia Maryland, in the Community Development Department.

The ceremony will be solemnized May 28, in Baltimore County, Maryland.

Picture Grouping

Achieving a unified effect is the key ingredient in an attractive picture grouping, according to the Picture and Frame Institute. The Institute suggests building your arrangement around its most important picture, which may be placed in the middle, on the top, or on the bottom of the grouping. Keep a fairly narrow space between pictures to give a feeling of one mass rather than several separate pictures. The bottom line of the grouping should be even, if possible, and the entire grouping should be balanced so that the eye flows smoothly from one picture to another.

Birthday Gift Prompts Hobby

Mrs. W.B. Pointer, of 1620 West Avenue D, is another of the women who have succumbed to the incurable state of collecting and stretching bottles, wondering each time she loads the kiln what weird shapes will come out.

She did not, as most, collect bottles for years and years, and then decide she wanted to stretch bottles, the newest 'fun thing' to do to obtain variety and fantastic shapes. February 22, 1969 Mrs. Pointer's grandson, Glen Throckmorton, 21, of Levelland, gave her a kiln for a birthday gift and that started her on the fascinating venture. (Glen entered the U.S. Air Force April 28.)

Some of the bottles made are as many as three different ones, fused together, making delightful shapes, some extremely slender and others shorter and larger around. Clear glass bottles fused with colored bottles produces interesting vases, suitable to display or to hold artificial flowers.

Because of her husband's health, Mrs. Pointer does not dig for bottles as many collectors do, and has thus far done all her own collecting, just wherever she finds them. She keeps "the freaks" without stretching, just for her pleasure.

In addition to the many stretched bottles, Mrs. Pointer makes poodle dogs, black or grey, from cockleburrs, the female adorned with little white bibs and the males wearing perky bow ties.

Mr. and Mrs. Pointer moved to Muleshoe about five years ago from Levelland after Pointer's health broke. They are members of Northside Church of Christ and look forward to "walking to church" in the new building being built very close to their home.

Mrs. Pointer is the mother of Mrs. Joe Harbin and Mrs. Lloyd Throckmorton, of Muleshoe.

ESA Zeus Award Presented

Roald (Buck) Johnson was accorded a signal honor Friday morning by Epsilon Chi Chapter of the international sorority, Epsilon Sigma Chi Chapter of the international sorority, Epsilon Sigma Alpha. Mrs. Don Seales, awards chairman, presented Johnson with the Zeus Award plaque, a once-a-year selection of the local group given to a man selected for his contributions to community and church life.

This is the third such award presented in Muleshoe. Other men honored previously have been Gilbert Lamb, of KMLL, and T.R. White, of Cashway Grocery.

Buck Johnson is interested in any phase of community life where ideas and action are in order, and always contributes his own thinking. He is not one to hold his opinion and then express it later in case he differs from the popular vote.

Buck not only contributes ideas but he is where the action is, too. He is first vice-president of Muleshoe Lions Club, is their institutional representative to Cub Scout Pack 620, is a committeeman for Boy Scout Troop #633 sponsored by Methodist Men and is assistant pack master for Cub Pack 622. He is a member of Methodist Men. He works for Girlstown, USA.

A member of Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce, Buck is worker in Business Activities Committee.

The Roald Johnson family are active members of United Methodist Church, where Buck presently serves as teacher for the senior high youth group. He formerly taught the Men's Bible Class. He will take office June 1 as Superintendent of Study Program. He has been a member of the official Board of the church and has served on the Finance Committee.

Achievers Deserve Awards!

When was the last time a member of your civic, social or business club was recognized for outstanding achievement or service? Whether it was bowling, banking or a bake-off, good work deserves proper reward.

Awards for significant achievement offer incentive and inspiration to other members of the club as well as to the recipient. An effective way to recognize your members is through a formal organized awards and recognition program.

The Specialty Advertising Association, Chicago, suggests the following guidelines:

—Appoint a committee to evaluate club activities and recommend awards for individual achievement.

—Be sure awards are meaningful. Awards should be presented for achievement above expected performance.

—Present awards at regular pre-established intervals. Recognition is most effective when timely, and closely related to the achievement.

—Send publicity on awards to local community newspapers. Publicity will build recognition for your organization as well as for the recipient.

—Awards needn't be expensive. Remember, it's the thought that counts.

—Humorous awards for dubious achievement can sometimes be effective when presented without causing embarrassment.

There are literally thousands of suitable awards which can be used effectively, including many familiar items such as certificates, plaques, trophies, and specialty advertising articles—the list is endless. Articles for the home or car, pocket or purse are appropriate.

During your next meeting, why not suggest a formal awards program? Or better still, volunteer to be chairman for awards and recognition!

Methodist Men Serve Congregation

The congregation of United Methodist Church was invited to be guest of the Methodist Men Wednesday evening for a meal at Fellowship Hall, prepared and served by the men.

The men, including the pastor of the church, displayed their culinary skill in serving steamed sausage, red beans, cole slaw, cornbread and homemade "light bread", peach cobbler and tea.

Ben Roming, president, presided during the evening and announced contributions of the "acre of peanuts" program are due now so farmers can plant. This is a program in which farmers contribute the use of one acre of land and other members of the support them by contributing the cost of seed and fertilizer. The proceeds of the harvest are given to the church budget.

A change in time, due to daylight saving time, was discussed.

Speaker of the evening was Roy Whitt, who chose as his theme "Loyalty to God and Country", using an empty picture frame to illustrate his message. He stated his belief that loyalty to God and country are taught rather than being inborn feelings and that it is the duty of parents to surround their children with an atmosphere which produces such a love, mainly by their own example.

Opening his talk with the statement that "You are a full time contactor", he stressed

Historical Jaunt Set by Teacher

AUSTIN, Texas (Spl.)--How long has it been since you saw a mule-drawn plow?

A sunbonneted cotton picker trailing a long white sack? a general store in a little country town?

Many Texans can conjure up such nostalgic scenes in their mind's eye. Others are too young to remember.

As Texas more and more becomes a state of urban dwellers, numerous aspects of the state's once rural-oriented society are fast fading from the scene.

In order to preserve for posterity examples that still exist today of a life style that was common to earlier generations, the Texas State Historical Association will soon embark on a project to document photographically the remnants of Texas' past that may become extinct within 10 years.

The resulting pictures are to be housed in the permanent archival collection of the TSHA and The University of Texas (where the TSHA has its offices) for use in historical research, exhibitions, publications and educational television screening.

TSHA has received a $16,750 grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities to support the project.

Directing the effort will be a young UT history graduate from Austin, James E. Alvis, who for the past two years has been a photographer, research associate and writer on the TSHA staff.

Beginning June 1 and continuing for a year, Mr. Alvis will roam through all parts of Texas in a pickup truck-camper, photographing the land and the people that helped shape the life and culture of the state.

Mr. Alvis says the principal theme of the documentary effort will be to show "the interrelationship between man and his environment and how each has affected the other."

Using color and black-and-white film, he plans to shoot some 30,000 exposures, most of them still photographs.

Mr. Alvis' itinerary will take him to the deepest backwoods of the Big Thicket where some hardy residents live much as they did 100 years ago--hunting and fishing at will and dining on squirrels, deer, opossum and catfish; to the larger ranches in the southern and western areas of Texas where "true working cowboys" preserve through daily use the skills, tools and language of a bygone era; and to the endless variety of farms which are "home" to tenant and homestead farmers and to sharecroppers.

He also plans to photograph abandoned mills and cotton gins, general stores, railroad work crews, the hybrid architecture of county courthouses, country churches and congregations, religious revivals, blacksmith shops, windmills, historic bridges and aqueducts, old railway stations, dead or dying town-sites, oilfield roustabouts, old schools and banks and post offices, ethnic festivals, wagon makers and wheelwrights.

Mr. Alvis explains that "significant gaps" exist in the photographic record of Texas. "It has not been unusual for important aspects of our everyday life and culture that change only slowly to pass almost unnoticed from the scene without the benefit of photographic documentation," he says.

Dr. Joe B. Frantz, UT history professor and director of the Texas State Historical Association, points out that "the world is in a spasm of change, and only in the recesses and isolated pockets of an anachronism like parts of Texas can you still capture what soon will be gone forever."

Dr. Frantz adds: "These remote recesses retain their integrity and resist encroachment, but they cannot hold out much longer against asphalt and antennae. They need to be gotten and gotten now."

Clown With A Message Visits MHS

Monday morning April 28, 1969 the High School had another of its Southern Assemblies. An extremely unusual clown (Happy Dayze) performed. The act was unique in that it not only entertained but it also was highly educational. Happy gave his philosophy of life along with his meaning of happiness. He said "Happiness is like a kiss, if you keep it to yourself it means nothing, but if you share it, then it becomes something great." Happy's act was truly unforgettable.

Special awards were presented to outstanding band members. Sharon Wrinkle received the award for Most Improved Band Member and Kerry Wagon received the award for Outstanding Band Member.

Editorial On Militant Students

What is being demonstrated across the country, at college after college, is of interest to every citizen. In fact, the lawlessness and disorder now sweeping universities is one of the best justifications Communists have in suppressing freedoms in countries like Czechoslovakia.

Yet these schools belong to the nation and what goes on on campuses is of interest to every citizen. In fact, the lawlessness and disorder now sweeping universities is one of the best justifications Communists have in suppressing freedoms in countries like Czechoslovakia.

Freedom, as we have enjoyed it in the United States, carries with it responsibility. The use of firearms and physical intimidation have no place in this society, where change must come through legal and democratic processes.

The small, hard-core of well-trained and well-prepared militants violating the law and occupying buildings and offices at universities across the nation is a serious enemy of democracy. Leaders are using the same tactics as Hitler's brown shirts and SS youths of the thirties. Some of the hard core are Communists and would destroy our society.

With these revolutionaries capitulation by faculty groups or administrations, or by presidents of universities, does not end the turmoil. It merely encourages the militants to make greater demands. Recent events have shown how ill-equipped intellectuals at our universities are to deal with anarchists and revolutionaries.

The nation is facing a major challenge to its institutions of higher learning and state legislatures and perhaps eventually Congress will have to meet the challenge. Unfortunately, the process of abuse has gone so far that only a few show-downs, with force meeting force and severe penalties meted out to offenders, is likely to restore relative calm and reasonable order.

INGREDIENTS OF A CONFLAGRATION —

John Tower
United States Senate
COMMITTEE ON ARMED SERVICES

I agree with President Nixon's statement this week that reform of our federal income tax system is long overdue.

It seems eminently fair that low income families who are already suffering at a poverty level standard of living, not be required to pay federal income taxes.

Taxes collected from such families merely further reduces the standard of living for those families so that they must receive additional welfare support from government. That additional welfare support costs more to provide than it would cost to simply leave money in the hands of the poor and not collect it in the form of taxes.

It is important also to lighten the tax load on our vast majority of middle income families. As President Nixon noted, middle income American families bear too much of the tax burden.

A recent study by the Tax Foundation shows that the average American works 117 days each year to pay his tax obligations to his federal, state and local governments combined. He works 86 of those days to pay taxes, in various forms, to the federal government.

The President's tax message called for reduction of the income tax surcharge to five per cent effective January 1, 1970. This would provide tax relief on a broad basis and would greatly benefit middle income families.

The current 10 per cent surcharge would of course remain in effect through this year. I believe the surcharge will prove to be one of our most effective means of fighting inflation.

Between 1960 and 1968, the cost of living in this nation rose 16 per cent. That means that your dollar last year purchased one-sixth less of the goods and services than the same dollar purchased for you in 1960. It means that if your family income increased over that 8-year period by 16 per cent, your pay raises were exactly keeping pace with the rising cost of living. They were not improving your family's standard of living any at all.

Thus it is clear to me that inflation is hurting the average American family far more than will the 10 per cent income tax surcharge for this year. If we can reduce that surcharge to the proposed five per cent in 1970, and use it this year to effectively reduce inflation, then it will prove to be a great benefit for every American family.

The President's tax proposal also would tend to equalize the tax burden by insuring that the wealthy pay some tax.

In 1967, 155 persons who earned more than $200,000 in annual income legally paid no federal income tax. This was possible because the federal tax laws provide—and quite properly provide—tax benefits for certain investments and charitable contributions. These tax benefits are designed to make it more attractive to wealthy persons to make these investments and contributions. And the result of this tax incentive is generally good for our national economy.

The Nixon proposal would not eliminate these tax incentives. But it would set a 50 per cent limit on the amount of income which can be deducted under the existing tax laws.

In other words, a taxpayer earning $200,000 during the year, would only be able to make legal tax deductions up to one half of that $200,000 income. He would pay federal income taxes on the remaining 100,000.

The President's proposal would continue the tax free status for state and municipal bonds. These bonds pay low interest rates, sometimes less than four per cent, and would not be attractive to investors if it were not for their tax free status. Raising the interest rates on these bonds would cost more money to the taxpayers who must provide the revenue to their state and local governments from which the interest on these bonds are paid. I support continued tax free status for state and municipal bonds.

I was pleased to see that President Nixon's tax proposals include no plans to reduce the 27 1/2 per cent oil depletion allowance which is of such vital importance to Texans. I know there were those who were urging a reduction in the oil depletion allowance but President Nixon stood by his campaign pledge to Texans to protect it.

The general effect of the President's tax package will, I believe, be beneficial to the American taxpayers as a whole.

I expect the Congress to give careful consideration to the details of the President's tax reform proposals, and I intend to study these proposals in more detail myself in the immediate future.

As a matter of fact, I am particularly interested, of course, in those proposals which might effect the strength and viability of our great Texas oil industry, which has been so vital to the economy of our state.

I also want to consider in more detail the effect of ending the seven per cent investment tax credit, which President Nixon asked be retroactive to April 21st of this year.

But overall I believe the administration's request for tax reform is well founded and should gain the general support of the Congress.

From Congressmen BOB PRICE

Bob Price speaks out on his proposed legislation on water and the Land Reclamation Act below:

On Tuesday, April 15, I introduced legislation to increase from 160 to 640 the acreage limitation under the present Reclamation Act. Any irrigation project that involves assistance of the Bureau of Reclamation is affected by the 160-acre limitation. This limitation has served a useful purpose in years past, but under today's farming conditions I feel that this limitation should be increased and know that this feeling is shared by a number of agencies, organizations and individuals in Texas, such as the Texas Water Development Board, the Texas Water Conservation Association, and county water associations.

The 1902 Reclamation Act prohibits delivery of water to more than 160 acres in a single ownership. This has been interpreted to allow 320 acres to a husband and wife joint ownership. The legislation introduced would make it possible for a single owner to obtain water from a Federal project for 640 acres at rates designed to repay the Federal investment without interest, and water for more than 640 acres at a higher price reflecting an interest charge. In addition to an immediate increase to 640 acres in a single ownership, the bill would authorize a further increase in the limitation every 10 years "if economic or technological changes indicate that an increase is appropriate and consistent with the public interest."

The 1902 Reclamation Act limitation followed the concept of the homestead laws in an era in which agricultural planning was based mainly on the concept on the dawn-to-dusk farmer and his one-and-only horse.
