Proposed TTC-35 misses western Cooke County

By Janet Felderhoff

Those living in western Cooke or Montague Counties who worried that their farm or ranch might be divided in half, or their home might be located too near the proposed Texas super highway can breathe a sigh of relief. Newly released maps showing preliminary corridor alternatives that are still under consideration didn't include those areas.

The Texas Department of Transportation (TDT) proposes to build a super highway stretching from Oklahoma to Mexico. It would include separate lanes for vehicles, trucks, railways, and even utilities, and take in an approximate 1200-foot right-of-way. As promised, the paths of the remaining corridors under consideration for this highway have been narrowed to 10-mile wide paths. Some were even narrowed to four miles in width.

In Cooke County the paths still under consideration include N1 coming from the west side of Fort Worth and joining I-35 in Denton County with its exit from the State north of Gainesville. Another possibility has the TTC-35 coming from the east side of Dallas and joining I-35 in Cooke County to use that exit. This same route could swing more to the east and exit near Denison. N3 is located more to the east going through Fannin and Lamar Counties. It joins Hwy. 271 and exits the State by that route. According to the Texas Department of Transportation, the vision for the Trans-Texas Corridor is: * To provide faster and safer transportation of people, goods, and commodities. * Relief for congested roadways.

* Providing alternative hazardous material routes.

* Economic growth and development through the creation of new markets and new jobs.

It should address anticipated transportation needs of Texas for the next 20 to 50 years. Some estimate it may take as long as 50 years to fully complete the project.

After conducting 47 public meetings between Feb. 7 and Mar. 31, 2005, to gather input on the corridor alternatives, the TDT will evaluate all the information acquired. In the summer of 2005 a draft of the Environmental Impact Statement will be provided. A preferred corridor may be identified to within +/- 10 miles wide. The fall of 2005 will see more public hearings to garner comments on the results of the draft environmental study. A final Environmental Impact Statement is expected early in 2006 with Federal approval anticipated for the spring of 2006. This will not authorize construction.

A large number of people came to check out the new information being provided. Most agreed that something needed to be done about the traffic congestion, but few had positive comments to make when speaking among themselves. Some negatives expressed were that it would be too expensive, would take taxable land away from local entities, would be too expensive to use, and that it wouldn't solve the traffic congestion in their lifetimes.

Leon and Sandy Fuhrmann commented that they had seen large white Xs in fields and pastures in the area. They said they'd been told that a chip was placed in the center of each. A plane was flown over and the information gleaned from each for use on the TTC-35 study. Some of these were seen near Myra.

TDT welcomes all comments on the proposed corridor. They may be reached by calling 1-877-872-6789, sending an e-mail to corridor@dot.state.tx.us, or mailing it to: TTC-35, P.O. Box 14707, Austin, TX 78761-4707.

Leon and Sandy Fuhrmann were among the many area residents who came to see what new developments were to be shown by the Texas Department of Transportation regarding the proposed Trans-Texas corridor. Maps showed the preferred corridors still being considered. Janet Felderhoff photo.

Pam Dangelmayr, SH Teacher of the Year, honored at Diocesan Banquet

The 18th annual Catholic Schools Banquet, held at the Fort Worth Convention Center, honored Pam Dangelmayr, lead teacher for the Sacred Heart Montessori Preschool program. She and 18 other individuals from each school in the Diocese of Fort Worth were honored for their outstanding contributions and service to the mission of Catholic education.

Keynote speaker for the banquet was Father Ron Nuzzi, Ph.D., director of Catholic Leadership in the Alliance for Catholic Education and University of Notre Dame administrator, who drew home three truths illustrating the value and worthiness of Catholic schools.

Catholic schools are at the heart of what we do and are as a church. Quoting a 1997 Vatican document, "Catholic schools are an authentic participant in the overall mission of the church. They are the privileged environment where Christian education is carried out. They are at the heart of the church." The speaker went on to explain the significance of those words: "Wherever you have a Catholic school growing and thriving, you have the church alive. Wherever you have children receiving a Catholic education, you have the faith growing. Catholic schools are part and parcel of the overall educational mission of the church."

The speaker was equally adamant in saying that Catholic schools are not a financial burden subsidized by the parish budget. A local pharmacy donating money to buy uniforms for a youth baseball team is an example of a subsidy. "And why is that a subsidy? Because baseball has nothing to do with a pharmacy," he pointed out. "Baseball is extrinsic to the purpose of a pharmacy."

In comparison, Catholic schools are intrinsic to the mission of the church, "so it's not accurate to say the Church subsidizes the school," he argued, "because the Catholic school is at the heart of the Church. The money it spends on its schools is an investment."

The network of relationships that a Catholic school builds promotes academic success. Father Nuzzi went on to say that the success achieved by Catholic school students does not stem from an article of faith, but rather from a network of faith-filled supporters. Catholic school students are exposed to parent volunteers on the playground, a principal who serves as a parish lector, and civic leaders supporting a school's fundraisers.

"They see this network of people—grandparents, parents, friends, neighbors, family, business leaders—all caring about their achievement," explained Father Nuzzi. "It's that network of care that allows them to achieve in the classroom."

Sacrifice fuels our Catholic schools and is a source of strength. The education director next told his audience about an eye-opening experience he had presenting a workshop to Catholic school superintendents and principals in Edmonton, Alberta. In Canada, all education—both public and private—is funded by taxpayers, and he remembered thinking, "It's great to have tax support and all these resources. What could I possibly talk about in a workshop? They already have it all."

Father Nuzzi's opinion, however, was quickly corrected by his hosts. The Canadians said they admired the U.S. system because it

Muenster ISD delegates attend TASB Conference in Austin

By Janet Felderhoff

Muenster ISD Board of Trustee members Ronnie Felderhoff and Leon Klement put on their campaign hats and headed to Austin last week. Their destination was the Capitol Conference held Feb. 9. It was sponsored by The Texas Association of School Boards (TASB) to allow school board trustees the opportunity to learn firsthand what lawmakers are doing in the Texas Legislature that would have an impact on public schools.

The Muenster duo's goals were to try to understand how changes in school financing would impact local schools and to communicate to state representatives their opinions on it.

Lieutenant Governor David Dewhurst and Senator Todd Staples, chair of the Senate Transportation and Homeland Security Committee, discussed school funding and other important legislative concerns related to public schools. Others invited were Senator Florence Shapiro, Senate Education Committee chair; Representatives Kent Grusendorf, House Public Education Committee chair; Rene Oliveira, House Public Education Committee vice-chair; and Jim Keffer, House Ways & Means Committee chair.

Other issues addressed included trustee and administrator personal finance disclosure, school personnel, vouchers and school choice, special education, and student matters. After the conference, Klement and Felderhoff, accompanied by Felderhoff's son Chad Felderhoff, went to the Capitol to visit personally with legislators.

They made six office stops. Those they spent time with included District 126 Representative Peggy Hamric (sister-in-law of Dan and Fay Hamric); State Representative Rick Hardcastle; State Representative District 61 Phil King's top aide; David Swinford, a 14-year member of the Texas Legislature and personal friend of Ronnie's for more than 20 years; and Lewis Simmons, chief of staff for Senator Craig Estes.

Felderhoff remarked, "If we do what David Dewhurst wants, it will take away local control from the school districts. School taxes would be charged at $1 by the State and up to 15¢ by the local district. That would lower the current $1.50 cap to $1.15."

Klement added that interest and sinking has not been added to that, so the tax could be $1.15 plus whatever the I&S is at a particular district.

As Klement sees Dewhurst's proposed plan, the county appraisal districts are retained to collect the taxes, which are all sent to the State. The tax money is then divided up by the State and sent back to the school districts. "How can it be more effective? They dictate what we get and how we get it." He said that a school district's decisions on the amount of local property taxes and how it is spent is one method of keeping control on the local level.

Klement said that nobody they talked with was in favor of Dewhurst's plan except David Dewhurst. "He said he had support, but we didn't

Tara Swirczynski wins 3rd in VOD contest

Tara Swirczynski's Voice of Democracy audio-essay won 3rd place in District I competition. Tara is a senior at Muenster ISD. She is the daughter of Dale and Jill Swirczynski of Muenster. Her audio-essay, with the theme of "Celebrating Our Veterans' Service" was one of two entries of Muenster VFW #6205.

Tara and her mother were guests in attendance at the District I noon banquet on Sunday, Feb. 6 at Sherman VFW Post #2772. The District winners were introduced to the group and were presented their plaques and a certificate for a scholarship. Third place receives a $300 scholarship to the college of choice. The 1st place winner then presented her essay.

Also in attendance at the banquet were Arthur and Auxiliary President Frances Bayer of Muenster VFW Post #6205. In the afternoon the Bayers attended the business meetings of District I Veterans of Foreign Wars and Ladies Auxiliary, which has 19 posts as members.

The Muenster VFW also announced other local winners of the contest: 1st place - Stephanie Krawietz of Sherman, daughter of Dennis and Jean Krawietz, and a sophomore at Sacred Heart, and Tara Swirczynski; 2nd place - Melissa Thomas, daughter of Michael and Jody Thomas of Saint Jo and a senior at Sacred Heart, and Muenster ISD senior Lana Fisher, daughter of Gary and Marlene Fisher of Muenster; 3rd place - Paige White, Sacred Heart School, daughter of Andy and Leslie White of Muenster, and Carrie Grewing, Muenster ISD student and the daughter of Glenn and Connie Grewing.

The contest is a patriotic-themed essay written by the student on the subject-selected theme and transferred to tape in their own voice presentation. They are judged by points and the presentation on the tape. The Veterans of Foreign Wars #6205 supplied the monetary awards locally. Only 1st places proceeded on to District I competition.

Teachers assisting with the program were Martha Koessler, Muenster ISD, and Joe Caserta and Jeff Lawson at Sacred Heart. Frances Bayer, president of the Auxiliary, served as chairman.

ACT Test deadlines set

College-bound high school students can take the ACT Assessment on April 9, the next nationwide test date. The registration postmark deadline is March 4. Late registration postmark deadline is March 18 (an additional fee is required for late registration).

The ACT Assessment now contains an optional Writing Test. Some colleges will require writing scores from students entering college in the fall of 2006. Students should check the admissions requirements of colleges they are considering before deciding whether to register for the ACT with or without the Writing Test. The cost is $28 without and $42 with the Writing Test.

Students can receive registration information from their high school guidance counselors or they can register on ACT's website at www.actstudent.org. The website also features test tips, practice tests, and a database for students to find out if a prospective college requires a writing score.

ACT scores are accepted by virtually all colleges and universities in the nation, including all Ivy League schools.

ACT encourages eleventh graders to examine their ACT scores for academic weaknesses and take more challenging courses or receive extra help to grow stronger in important academic areas. The ACT Assessment includes four tests: English, reading, math, and science. Students who opt to take the Writing Test will add 30 minutes to the three-hour normal testing time.

Sacred Heart Tigers / Tigerettes victorious over Notre Dame

Sacred Heart varsity basketball teams hosted the teams from Wichita Falls Notre Dame last Friday in a must-win situation for the Tigerettes and Tigers to continue the season into the playoffs.

A victory for the girls clinched a playoff spot as District Runner-up behind Abilene Christian. The Tigers also were victorious and forced a tie-breaker game with the Knights for the runner-up slot to the playoffs.

In girls action, the Tigerettes took a 60-44 win after losing to the Lady Knights earlier in the season. The win moves Sacred Heart into the playoffs. Sacred Heart led in points the majority of the very physical contest, allowing Notre Dame to cut the lead to 7 points, before the Tigerettes pushed out a 16 point win.

"We really worked hard tonight. We were in foul trouble and needed our bench to play well and they did," noted Coach Jon LeBrasseur. "I feel we are fortunate to make the playoffs, but all the credit goes to the girls as they overcame the emotions and corrected their priorities to put us in a position to defend our title."

Tigers lose one, win one as season winds down

The Sacred Heart Tigers were on the road last week, getting beat by Abilene Christian and winning over Denton Calvary. At Abilene, the Tigers came up short after the home team dominated the 4th quarter for a 55-42 final.

Paul Bartush scored 14 points to lead Sacred Heart on the scoreboard. Andy Davis, Tim Otto, and Chris Hoedebeck each added 6, with Mitch Sellers and Clayton Truebenbach getting 5 apiece. The Tigers dropped in five 3-pointers and were three of six from the line.

A trip to Denton was profitable for Sacred Heart as they brought home a 39-31 District win. Truebenbach was high scorer with 14 points. Hoedebeck added 9, Davis 8, Bartush 6, and Tim Otto 2.

The Tigerettes had an 11 point lead going into the final quarter. The Lady Knights scored 2, then Whitney Wimmer turned a basket into 3 points with a free throw. Baskets by Stephanie Krawietz, Stephanie Henscheid, and Wimmer put Sacred Heart in the lead 50-33 with less than five minutes to play. A steal by Maggie Farrell gave Henscheid a 3-pointer shot for a 20 point lead. A steal by Wimmer and a lay-up added 2 more with Shannon Hartman getting a basket at 3:10 for a 57-34 score.

The Lady Knights scored the next 6 points for a 57-40 score with 1:45 on the clock. Hannah Hess and Nicole Bayer each made a free throw for a 60-40 score. With 45 seconds on the clock, Notre Dame made two free throws, then added a basket at 3:30 for the 60-44 final score. The victory ended the regular season for an 18-7 record and 6-2 in District. The Tigerettes play Central Texas Christian in first round playoff action.

Wimmer was high scorer with 22 points. Hartman added 9, Henscheid 8, Farrell 5, and 4 each by Krawietz and Bayer. Katie Flusche scored 3, Diana Knabe and Kara Felderhoff each added 2, and Hess 1 for the Tigerettes.

Tigers fall to Knights in tie-breaker

The Sacred Heart Tigers will not advance into the TAPPS basketball playoffs, after losing a tie-breaker game to the Knights of Notre Dame. The Tigers and the Knights met each other for the third time this season Tuesday night at Wichita Falls to determine a District runner-up. Scoring only nine points in the 1st half, the Tigers fell 40-26, ending their basketball season.

Six Tigers scored points, led by Clayton Truebenbach's 7. Paul Bartush, Thomas Otto, and Tim Otto each added 5, with Andy Davis and Chris Hoedebeck adding 2 apiece. Sacred Heart dropped in six of 11 free throws.

Lindsay Lady Knights defeat 18A champions

It may have been a sloppy game, but the Lindsay Knights got the job done Tuesday night as they handed District 18A Champions, the Celeste Lady Blue Devils, a 35-33 Bi-District loss. The Lindsay team now advances to the Area playoff round in Conference 1A, Division I, Texas girls basketball.

"The girls played good defense. I'm proud of their effort," said Lindsay Coach Donald Neu. "But we struggled offensively."

The opening tip was all Lindsay, but they didn't take advantage of it, missing their first shots and allowing Celeste to score first. At seven minutes, Brittany Anderle hit a free throw as the Devils strengthened their lead to 6-1 with 3:28 on the clock. Anderle made a basket, with Celeste and Stephanie Metzler each getting a free throw before Anderle scored from the line for a 7-5 score with 47 seconds on the clock.

After a non-outpouring of points the 1st period, Lindsay took the lead at under six minutes after Anderle hit a free throw and Chelsea Hermes 2 points. Cheryl Knabe added a free shot, Anderle 2, then on a Knabe steal, Knabe drew a foul and scored both shots to extend Lindsay's lead to 13-7. A turnover steal pass to Anderle gave the Lady Knights 2 more points. Hermes, on a two-on-two drive, was fouled and hit both shots, giving Lindsay a 10 point lead, 17-7 with 1:08 on the clock.

The 3rd quarter was a turnaround for Celeste, scoring 4 points before Anderle got 1. With under five minutes on the clock, the Devils closed the score to 18-15. Lindsay came back with Anderle and Kaileigh Hess each getting 2, but Celeste then scored 4 more for a 22-19 score. A 3-pointer by Hess put the Lady Knights ahead 25-19. The last two minutes of play were a scoreless defensive battle.

The final quarter started as the 3rd period had ended, lots of tied balls and turnovers between the two teams. Seven points by the Devils returned the lead to Celeste 26-25 halfway through the period. Two points by Anderle gave the lead back to Lindsay. An Anderle free throw made the score 28-26, but with 2:58 on the clock, Celeste tied the game 28-28.

A steal by Knabe turned into 2 points, but Celeste came back with a 3-pointer. Anderle tied the game again with a free throw, 31-31 with 1:47 remaining in the game. Celeste came back, scoring 2 from the line, but a 3-pointer by Hess at a minute in the game gave the Lady Knights a 34-33 lead.

Hermes was fouled with 24 seconds on the clock, making 1, then Celeste rebounded. Chelsea Hermes blocked a Devil shot, stole the ball and Lindsay kept control of the ball as time ran out for a 35-33 final score.

The Celeste Lady Blue Devils ended their season with a 24-8 record. The Lady Knights improved theirs to 21-8.

Brittany Anderle led Lindsay on the scoreboard with 16 points. Kaileigh Hess added 8, with Cheryl Knabe and Chelsea Hermes each getting 5, and Stephanie Metzler 1. The Lady Knights hit 15 of 27 free throws.

find anybody who supported his plan. Felderhoff said that Dewhurst said that Hamric, Harcastle, and King all indicated that they would not support a state property tax.

Transparency was talked about. The State wants to know exactly what every school is doing, said Klement. He wondered what other information might be needed. He said that all kinds of information is already available through PEIMS.

Some PEIMS information that a school must supply includes the ethnic make-up of the students, every student's test scores, how much money the teachers make, how money is spent, etc. Klement said, "They know everything. What else could they possibly want to know? It seems they want to run every aspect of every school out of Austin!"

Another issue being considered is the mandated start date after Sept. 1. Felderhoff said, "No one we talked to at TASB wanted a mandated school start date." He explained that starting after Sept. 1 would make it impossible to give semester tests before the Christmas holidays. Also, school would end in mid June. He noted that college classes start at the first of June. Students wanting to take summer classes wouldn't be able to do so.

A 1% payroll tax is a method proposed to bring in more money for education. Felderhoff said that so many people are not paying any taxes toward education. Some pay nothing to educate children, but have children in the education system. This would be a way of giving them a real vested interest, he noted.

State franchise taxes on businesses are very likely going to change. As it is, some businesses do not have to pay a franchise tax. They are proposing that everyone in the service industry pay a franchise tax. It was estimated that only about one out of six businesses in Texas actually pay franchise taxes.

Klement remarked, "Everyone was very happy to see us. They want input. Anyone with comments should contact their representatives. This (school finance) is a very tough, difficult thing to settle and they want all the input they can get. This should have some very far-reaching implications on the education system and should happen this Legislative session."

Felderhoff noted, "Twenty-five years ago 70% of school funding was from the State and 30% was local. It is close to the opposite today. One of the things we told them was, no more unfunded State mandates. If they really want to lower taxes, they need to come up with more state funding. We'll lower our own property taxes."

JUST A THOUGHT

Why worry when you can pray.

What you think of yourself is much more important than what others think of you.

A good thing about telling the truth is you don't have to remember what you said.

Responsibility develops us.

The greatest kindness one can offer is to always tell the truth.

From My Side Of The Fence
By Ed Clier

Here it is Valentine's Day, Feb. 14. I have often wondered how that date was chosen, and by whom. It seems that the Romans celebrated a feast day for lovers on Feb. 15. The men selected their partners for the day by drawing names. Now many of these meetings (by chance) led to long friendships and quite a few had found their life's partners.

After the spread of Christianity Pope Gelasius, in an attempt to inject a bit of Christianity into the feast day, changed the Romans' old festival they called "Laspincalia", to St. Valentine's Day, Feb. 14. Now all of this came about in the second century.

Historians disagree about the identity of St. Valentine because there were two. One was a priest who lived in Rome and who was beheaded by the Romans for aiding persecuted Christians. People believe he cured his jailer's daughter of blindness, about A.D. 270.

England began to celebrate the day sometime during the 15th century. They would put the ladies' names on slips of paper and the men drew lots to find their partners for the holiday. They would pin the name on their sleeve and some believe this custom led to the expression "He wears his heart on his sleeve". They usually exchanged gifts, but that custom gradually gave way to the valentine of our time, fancy cards with sentimental messages, jokes, a little of this and that. Most folks enjoy sending and receiving them. Many of the old ones are worth a sum of money as a collector's item for their artistic value.

Dairy producers go above and beyond to protect the environment

By John Cowan

When it comes to protecting the environment, dairy producers have a lot of different regulatory agencies to listen to on both the state and federal levels. So what would compel a producer to set even higher standards for himself and his dairy and - in the process - possibly open himself up to penalties?

I submit it is a love of the land and the desire to preserve it. Dairy producers make their living off the land, drink the local water, and breathe the air. They have plenty of reasons to want to protect their environment.

That's why 108 dairy farms have signed up for the Agriculture Producer Certification Option (APCO), a voluntary program started in 2002 by the Texas Association of Dairymen and the Texas Cooperative Extension Service, Environmental Management Solutions, Inc. and Tarleton Institute for Applied Environmental Research. Cooperating partners include the Texas State Soil and Water Conservation Board (TSSWCB), the Texas Commission on Environmental Quality (TCEQ), the Brazos River Authority, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, and the Texas Department of Agriculture.

In the first of three intensive phases toward APCO certification, the dairy producer will open up his entire operation - not just the portion regulated under law - to review by third-party assessors. The producer must address any concerns raised during the assessment process before proceeding through the program.

The APCO review looks at the whole farm, resulting in a detailed comprehensive evaluation that the dairyman uses to help manage his farm in an environmentally responsible way. If concerns are discovered, the farmer works with the TCEQ in a cooperative manner to resolve any issues.

Under the second phase of APCO, the dairy must complete a Comprehensive Nutrient Management Plan (CNMP). Dairies who complete phase two will have achieved a high standard of environmental commitment.

To date, three dairies have had their CNMP certified by the TSSWCB. Additional dairies are awaiting word on their status for completion of this second phase, and still other dairies are expected to reach this level in the coming weeks.

The final phase of APCO comes a year after approval of a CNMP. The dairy must undergo a follow-up evaluation. If this compliance evaluation continues to meet APCO goals, the farm will be awarded APCO certification. Thereafter, the dairy must pass an annual environmental audit to retain the certification.

None of the on-site reviews of the dairies performed throughout the APCO certification process are easy. They all use the On Farm Assessment and Environmental Review (OFAER) assessment, a dairy-industry specific measurement used and recognized nationally.

This assessment expects performance above and beyond that required by state and federal regulators to stay in business.

The dairies that have taken the time and made the effort to achieve APCO certification deserve recognition not only from their industry, but also from the public. They also deserve our thanks for making a strong commitment to the environment we all share.

John Cowan is the executive director of the Texas Association of Dairymen, Inc.

USDA launches Web site on national animal ID system. The U.S. Department of Agriculture's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service has launched a new Web site to inform stakeholders about the national animal identification system (NAIS). The Web site, available at <http://www.usda.gov/naais>, is designed to be a one-stop resource to facts about NAIS. It will be updated regularly as new information becomes available.

In addition to providing national news, the site provides contact information for state and tribal animal health authorities. The states and tribes are responsible for providing each premises under their purview with a nationally unique identification number - the starting point of the NAIS. All states should be able to assign nationally unique premises identification numbers to locations where animals are managed or held by mid-2005.

Collecting and Storing Pecan Graft Wood

Successful in-lay and four-flap grafting of pecans is dependent on the availability of suitable graft wood of the desired variety. The wood must be collected in late winter during the dormant season and properly stored until spring grafting time, according to George Ray McEachern, Extension Horticulturist.

Collect the graft wood in late February to early March while the tree is still dormant. If the buds have begun to swell and grow, the wood is inferior and cannot be used successfully.

Select parent trees of the desired variety that are free of obscure scale, rosette, and disease. Young, vigorous trees produce abundant, smooth, and large-sized, current-season wood. Moderate-sized trees making normal growth usually have good graft wood in their uppermost limbs. Older trees can be cut back to force vigorous new growth satisfactory for graft wood.

Each graft stick should contain at least three buds or nodes. Seal the end of the graft sticks with melted wax, grafting paint, or orange shellac. Only 1/4-inch of the end of each stick needs to be treated. When the seal is dry, tie the graft sticks in bundles no more than six each. Label each bundle with permanent ink on a wood or metal write-on label. The variety and year should be recorded on the label.

Paper towels, sphagnum moss, or wood shavings can be used as packing material to prevent the graft sticks from drying out. Moist paper towels that have had all of the water squeezed out can be wrapped around each bundle. A second method involves placing the graft stick bundles in slightly moist sphagnum or wood shavings. The wrapped bundles are then placed in polyethylene bags. Plastic bags do not breathe and should not be used.

Refrigerate the bags of graft stick bundles at a temperature of 30 to 45 degrees F. Do not allow graft wood to dry out during storage. Take the desired wood out of refrigeration only as needed. Wood should not be heated and re-cooled during the grafting season.

Trees will be ready for in-lay or four-flap grafting in the spring as the trees begin to grow. The bark should slip during this period. Keep the graft wood in a cool, moist place while grafting.

Stallman: Stay the course on nation's farm program

Maintaining the structure and integrity of the U.S. farm program is all about living up to "commitments," American Farm Bureau Federation (AFBF) President Bob Stallman said during his annual address at AFBF's 86th annual meeting on Jan. 9.

"We're talking about commitments," Stallman told Farm Bureau members. "You are carrying out your commitment by providing safe, abundant and affordable food for this country. In return, Congress committed to providing you a workable and effective farm program for six years."

"We are meeting our commitment. Our government must meet theirs."

Stallman told members it is "never bad to hold a good, reasoned debate about U.S. farm policy." But, he added, that process should take place at the appropriate time.

"We will be glad to talk about policies for the 2007 farm bill and even start that discussion in 2005," Stallman said. "But, we have to let the current farm bill run its course."

Stallman, starting his sixth year as president of the nation's largest farm group, said farm planning is not done just one year at a time and that it would be wrong to shift policy halfway through the current farm bill.

"We should not be changing rules in the middle of the game," Stallman said. "Today's farm program is working. Its cost is comparatively small - less than seven-tenths of 1 percent of our federal budget - and our government's return on that investment in rural America is hard for any farm bill critic to refute."

Stallman said AFBF will also continue its effort to "drive the final nail into the coffin of the death tax."

"The death tax cripples family businesses such as farms and ranches," he said. "Effects of the death tax on farm and ranch families are not often black and white. But they can be measured in dark, dismal shades of gray."

"As it sits today, farmers pay a disproportionate amount of death taxes. Hard-earned farm capital that should be reinvested in our farms and ranches instead goes to line the pockets of lawyers and accountants."
