Do you know the traffic laws? Muenster to crack down on traffic offenders

By Janet Felderhoff
 Do you know what the real traffic laws are? If not, you may be paying some traffic tickets in the near future.

After hearing complaints from Muenster citizens, the City Council gave Muenster Police Chief Bob Stovall the thumbs up on more rigorous enforcement of traffic laws. Especially to be targeted are those who speed and run red lights.

Mayor Henry Weinzapfel explained, "The reason this is on the agenda is because there were a number of people who have concerns that perhaps our police department is not headed in the right direction or is not doing the things the citizens would like for them to do. They're busy, but maybe they're not focused the way the citizens would like for them to be."

Ronnie Felderhoff expressed concern with the red light on Hwy. 82. He said that he goes through it 12 times a day and sees someone run the red light at least two of those 12 times. He feels that perhaps the timing isn't sufficient on the change from yellow to red. "There might need to be more of a time lapse," he suggested. "To me it seems like it changes almost immediately."

"There are so many people who go flying through that light. It seems like they have total disregard for it. We're going to have a major wreck there pretty soon," Felderhoff said it seems that the speeders and those running the light are mostly coming from the west. He suggested issuing more tickets. "If a few citations were issued, people would know that they ought to start slowing down and pay a little regard for that light," Felderhoff noted.

Police Chief Stovall inquired if the violations seemed to occur more at one time of the day than at another, such as mornings. Those present said no. He felt that it was in the early morning when eastbound people are heading to work.

Mayor Weinzapfel remarked that he noticed too much speeding, especially from heavy trucks, coming into Muenster from Sycamore on Hwy. 82. He's seen them going 50-60 miles an hour and not slowing down as they approach the red light. "Saint Jo and maybe some other towns in our area have the reputation for being speed traps," he said. "I know one thing, when I go through Saint Jo, I slow down because I know that I'm going to get a ticket if I go through there too fast. I don't mind at all if Muenster gets a reputation as a speed trap. Somebody's going to get hurt or we're going to have something really serious happening on that street. I have no problem at all with our police officers issuing citations to speeders, not only on Hwy. 82, but on all the streets."

Gary Fisher, police commissioner, is working on ideas for solutions to the problems, said Weinzapfel. Fisher said, "We've got a lot of loose rules in this town. For decades we've had the loose rules. ... My theory is that we need to identify those areas that need to be patrolled, like speeding in school zones, failure to yield properly." He complained of the presumed rule in Muenster where the traffic yields east and west to north and south traffic, because east and west bound traffic must slow for dips.

Fisher suggested using a combination of education, surveillance, and tickets to solve the problems. "Fines don't hurt, they help," he stated.

Each Council member was asked to give his opinion. John Pagel said, "I think we've got a good, clean, in-house kind of a system. Hwy. 82 is abused and it isn't necessarily the local citizens doing it."

Joey Anderson said he's noticed a rise in the number of four-wheelers coming into town. He said in his neighborhood it seems to be a particular problem. The people on them gather in a

Walterscheid honored by Post Office

Tuesday morning, June 7, the Gainesville Post Office closed its doors to celebrate 21 years of service by Craig Walterscheid, who passed away March 8. Family members, including Donna, Ashley, Chad, and Evelyn Walterscheid attended, along with Gainesville Post Office employees. Acting Area Postal Manager Luis Tenorio, made the presentation. Karen Terrazas, Gainesville Post master, presented to Donna a scrapbook of memories of Craig from the employees; read a letter to Craig; and gave a gift to Ashley, Chad, and Evelyn. A moment of silence followed when the lights in the work room were temporarily turned off. Refreshments were then served. Cler's Teahaus features lunches and baked items Tuesday through Saturday from 11-2

By Janet Felderhoff

Debbie Cler and her two daughters Tami Cler Otto and Amy Henley are the new owners of the restaurant located in the building also occupied by Crafty Olde German. It was formerly the Black Forest Küche owned by Debbie Hess. Along with its new name, Cler's Teahaus, the business has a new look inside. Some of the chairs have been replaced with bench seating. Partial walls give the west end a cozy feel.

They have been open since May 5. A Grand Opening celebration is planned for Saturday, June 18. A Teahaus cake is to be the door prize. Slices of complimentary cake will be given to all customers that day. Then on Wednesday, July 6, a Ribbon Cutting is scheduled at 10:30 a.m.

Patrons may select their lunch from a menu that includes sandwiches, salads, German foods, daily specials, specialty teas and coffees, and gourmet desserts. "We offer a unique lunch experience," said Tami. Customers enjoying dessert were overheard praising the bread pudding. "I didn't think that you could make bread pudding any better, but they added a touch of caramel and its sooo good," one said in praise.

Also available are made to order all occasion cakes, brownies, cookies, etc. (no breads at present) for events such as weddings and birthdays. They will cater for private parties, meetings, showers, rehearsal dinners, birthdays, or whatever the special occasion need. They will also prepare made to order trays of sandwiches, fruits, and cheeses.

Regular hours of operation are Tuesday through Saturday from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. The number to call for reservation or making special orders is 759-2519.

Shirley Grewing and Rene Knabe, long-time time teahaus employees, continue to work full-time at the business.

Cooke County Courthouse to get "old" look back

No, the Courthouse has not been abandoned. County Commissioner Virgil Hess said it looks like they're preparing for a hurricane. Renovation is in full swing and includes removing metal frame windows and replacing them with wooden frames. This will restore the windows to their original condition, as required by the Texas Historical Commission to retain its historic designation. A grant was received from the Texas Courthouse Preservation Project and is being used to help pay for renovations. Commissioner Hess, who is spearheading the project for the County, estimates the window project should be complete in six weeks. Janie Hartman photo

Expansion completed at local Texas Tourist Bureau on N I-35

By Janet Felderhoff
 Since 1936 travelers in Texas have been assisted by Texas Travel Information Centers. TxDOT currently operates 12 such centers at points of entry to the state and at the Capitol Visitor Center in Austin. The Center located at 4901 North I-35 in Gainesville was recently renovated. A ribbon cutting ceremony and open house complete with tours, entertainment, and refreshments, were held on Wednesday, June 8 at 2 p.m.

Speakers for the occasion were Hope Andrade of the Texas Transportation Commission, Doris Howdeshell, director of the TxDOT Travel division, and Gainesville Mayor Glenn Loch. The Gainesville facility currently employs seven people. They are Supervisor Cheryl Cash, Janelle Harper, Jan Autry, Cindy Walker, Frances Parrish, Cassandra Canes, and for the summer Kelsey Haverkamp.

When the original facility was opened in 1936 it was about double its original size. It is now 8,953 square feet and done in a ranch-style pattern. Featured inside the Center are a large comfortable lobby with a fireplace where visitors can relax and read the travel literature and maps acquired there, a video viewing room where the weather forecast and road conditions can be seen, as well as films of area attractions and parts of the state. Also for the travelers' comfort are restrooms open 24 hours daily, eight covered picnic tables, a large parking area that accommodates 23 tractor trailers, 14 buses and RVs, and 46 passenger cars, a vending area with telephones and drinking fountains, and wireless Internet services. Safety features include closed circuit surveillance cameras, after-hour security guards, climate controlled restrooms, and a tornado shelter.

called a Texas Courtesy Station and was one of 13 in the state. They were originally opened to greet visitors to the Texas Centennial Celebration in Dallas marking Texas' independence from Mexico.

The first building was a single room "Old Texas Colonial" bungalow. Visitors received curbside service. ROTC cadets from Texas A&M dressed in their uniforms would greet visitors with a cold drink of water. Although the service was only scheduled for six months, it was so successful that the Texas Courtesy Stations remained open until World War II. They were re-opened soon after the War ended.

In 1961, the original facility was replaced with a new Texas Tourist Bureau building. The number of visitors in 1961 was 23,653. By 1983 that number had grown to 238,512. There was no expansion room in the Gainesville Tourist Bureau, so a new building front yard and have beer parties with significant underage drinking. He noted, "The kids tear out of there and are wild up and down the street." He said he knows the local police can't patrol all of the time, but hopes they know the hot spots and will deal with them.

Jack Flusche pointed out that Tepeco oil trucks and rigs carrying waste from disposal wells go through early in the morning and don't slow down for the red light. "I think it is a very bad problem that we've got and we need to slow them down." He said he noted the problem of running the red light with traffic that is from the north and south. He also goes through that intersection a dozen times a day and sees a big problem at all times of the day. Most who run the light are not Muenster citizens.

Fisher said that people who didn't follow the right of way rules had hit his and his daughter's cars. "You can't follow the rule of right of way in this town and expect to survive without an accident," he remarked.

Pagel said the first one there has the right of way. Fisher corrected him, "The rule of right of way says when you approach the intersection if there is somebody to your right, you treat it as a stop sign and you yield to that person."

Stovall said, "The laws of an uncontrolled (no light or stop sign) intersection is you shall yield to the right in an uncontrolled intersection." He said that if there is a car almost through the intersection and is clipped on the back end of the vehicle by the person on the right, insurance companies usually study the accident and try for a percentage of fault.

Stovall said that more violations needed to be written. He admitted that he hasn't been working much traffic recently. "My caseload has tripled and I haven't even tried to write a ticket in the last two weeks," he remarked. "I can shift from what I'm doing to sit on that highway. Which is more important? Saving somebody's life on the highway is a lot more important than all these other incidences. If working more traffic on the highway will save somebody from getting run over like Jack said with a semi-truck, that's much more important. If you can prevent it, it needs to be done."

Stovall said that he looked up all the accident reports he'd handled since January 2003 to see how many were caused by failure to yield right of way. There were a total of 40. In 2003 he worked 22 accidents and six of them were due to failure to stop at a stop sign. In 2004 he worked 13, four of which were for failure to yield at a stop sign. This year he's worked five accidents and one was for failure to yield the right of way. "That's amazing in a way," he said. There were some before that, he said.

Herbie Knabe, Muenster Fire Chief, said he talked to a lot of people over the years after accidents. "I think that one of the reasons that there are not a lot of accidents at uncontrolled intersections is there is a misconception by the general public that the City of Muenster has a written law that the people going through the dip have to yield the right of way."

Felderhoff credited Stovall with patrolling the school zones often. Fisher was asked by the Mayor to come up with a plan to bring before the Council.

Weinzapfel thanked everyone for the comments. He added, "I did get a lot of questions on this from the citizens and I'm real disappointed that more people who did complain, didn't come tonight."

Discussion was held on possibly raising the rate charged for bulk water purchases. "Water is getting to be pretty precious and I don't know if we should be selling it," remarked City Manager Stan Endres. It was decided that Anderson should check on the rates of other places and come to the Council with suggestions.

Endres gave an update on City activities. It included:

- The $125,000 grant was approved for Muenster to direct rainwater on the west side of Mesquite Street.

- Precinct #4 Commissioner Virgil Hess agreed to assist the City with the paving of Ash Street, but can't get to it until late August or early September. To pay a contractor to do the job would cost about $11,000. If the County does it, the City will have to pay for rock, oil, and getting it ready to pave, a cost of about $3,000.

- Will order a new aerator for the waste treatment plant as budgeted.

In other business the City Council:

- Denied request by Atmos Energy Corp., Mid Tex Division to approve ordinance authorizing Railroad Commission approved compliance tariffs for annual gas reliability infrastructure program rate adjustment. It was noted that the ordinance was hard to understand and the representative didn't comply with a request to attend the meeting.

- Voted to move the July meeting from July 4 to July 11 due to the holiday.

- Gave approval to City Manager Stan Endres to design a plan for, and go out for bids on, a vehicle shed.

- Approved payment of bills totaling $176,740.31. Of that amount $100,000 was paid towards the paving being done on City streets.

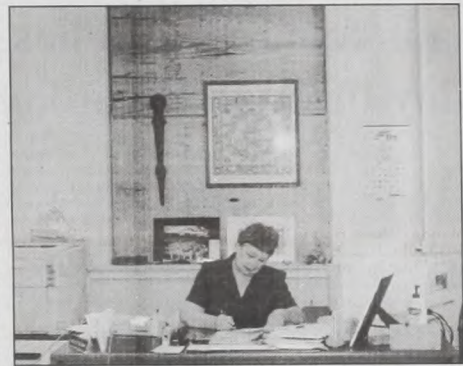

- Approved hiring Ron Perrin to inspect two City water storage tanks for cost of $548.

- Approved request by Muenster Jaycees to use the City Park and MSB stage for a concert on August 20.

Courthouse renovation starts with windows

At right, signs and orange fences warn people to stay clear of construction. Most windows have the glass removed and are awaiting new wooden frames.

OBITUARIES

DAYS GONE BY..... by Elfreda Fette

William Lofland 1929 - 2005

Lucille Welch 1917 - 2005

William Joice Lofland, age 75, of Saint Jo was pronounced dead Friday, June 3, 2005 at 4:32 p.m. in Nocona Hospital.

A Visitation was held Sunday, June 5. Funeral services were held Monday, June 6 at the Saint Jo Church of Christ, with burial following in Mountain Park Cemetery under the direction of McCoy Funeral Home of Saint Jo.

Survivors include: wife Betty of Saint Jo; a daughter Sharon Gaston and husband David of Saint Jo; a son Roice Lofland of New Orleans, Louisiana; a sister Shirley Smith and a brother Larry Lofland, both of Wichita Falls; and a niece and several nephews.

He was preceded in death by his parents.

Born Aug. 29, 1929 in Wichita Falls to Felix Leander and Lillian Pauline Carter Lofland, Joice grew up spending a lot of time with his father and their pointers hunting various animals. He and his dad were excellent mechanics. They also built Joice and Betty's house.

Joice and family moved to Denver, Colorado in 1962, then back to Saint Jo in 1963 where they have resided since. He has been involved in school and sports activities, the Saint Jo Riding Club, Saint Jo Masonic Lodge, farming, and caring for his small herd of cattle. He worked several years as a postal carrier. He spent, almost weekly, Thursdays at the Muenster Livestock Auction visiting his friends and having lunch with Bertie. He usually completed that day by paying a visit to Roy Reiter's Stockmen's Feed Store. Joice really loved his family and friends.

Pallbearers were Sonny Flusche, Roy Reiter, Ben Fraitman, J.C. Ivins, Cotton Leander, and Wayne Klement.

Honorary pallbearers were Ed Powell, Doyle Cook, Brent Meredith, and Larry Cook.

Graveside services for Lucille Welch, 87, of Saint Jo were held at 10 a.m. on Wednesday, June 8 at Mountain Park Cemetery in Saint Jo with Rev. Ricky Kerr and Rev. Sam Campbell officiating. The services were directed by McCoy Funeral Home of Saint Jo. Lucille passed away at 12:50 p.m., Sunday, June 5, 2005 at a Denton Hospital.

Born Sept. 17, 1917 in Shannon, Texas to H.B. "Bud" and Effie Sparks Dawdy, Lucille grew up and attended school in Paducah, Texas. She married Charles Thomas "Doc" Welch in Paducah on March 24, 1940. They moved to Saint Jo in 1954 where they lived and worked on the Fields Ranch until his death on Oct. 7, 1977.

Lucille was a homemaker, a cook for the cowboys on the ranch, and had worked at the Dairy Spot and Corley's Grocery store. People knew her as "Granny Lucy." She was an avid sports fan, who never missed the Saint Jo Panther games and always rooted for her children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren, and many friends.

She met Edna Dunn in 1962 while both worked at the Dairy Spot. The two of them made all the games together until her health problems occurred in May of this year. The two of them were quite a team, especially in keeping the referees in line! A few years ago, they were given a plaque at the Sports Banquet, naming them the "Most Dedicated Fans." The school also dedicated a yearbook in their honor for being such dedicated fans of the Panthers.

Lucille loved her family dearly. She enjoyed crossword puzzles and quilting. She was a regular at the Dairy Queen each day from 9:30 to 1:30, visiting with her many friends.

Survivors include a son John "Guy" Welch and wife Connie of Moss Lake; a daughter Cindy Lyons and husband Dalton of Saint Jo; three sisters Dorothy Fisher and Evelyn Miller, both of Port Lavaca, Texas, and Shirley Keller and husband Leslie of Victoria; nine grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren; and her dearest and best friend Edna Dunn.

She was preceded in death by her parents; her husband; a son Charles "Honey" Welch; a daughter Linda "Pee Wee" Hawes; a brother Mike Dawdy; and three sisters Allene Christian, Alta Mae Keen, and Marguerite Dawdy.

In lieu of flowers, please send donations to Saint Jo Booster Club, P.O. Box 277, Saint Jo, TX 76265.

Joe and Anna Mae Bezner celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary on Sunday, May 22. They were married on May 20, 1945 in Marrero, Louisiana. She is the former Anna Mae Hebert.

At the anniversary Mass in St. Peter's Church, presided over by Abbot Jerome Kodell, the honored couple received a special blessing. Abbot Kodell is from Subiaco Abbey, the school where Joe Bezner attended seminary as a young man. Celebrating the Mass was Father Richard Walz.

The celebrations during the rest of the day were hosted by their eight children and spouses Judy and Roy Morisak, Barbara and George Taylor, Skipper and Barbara Bezner, Mike and Jan Bezner, Kenny Bezner, Chuck and Cathy Bezner, Kathy and John Garrett, and JoAnn and Lynn Huchton. There are 25 grandchildren and 14 great-grandchildren.

Following Mass, about 200 persons attended a catered dinner at noon in Centennial Hall. The banquet menu featured turkey and dressing and all the trimmings for a feast.

Centering the table for the honored couple was a duplicate of their wedding cake, baked by Claudia Zimmerer. The top ornament was the original bride and groom treasured miniature, featuring the groom in an Army serviceman uniform.

Later in the afternoon, a come and go reception was held in Centennial Hall, from 3 to 5, hosted by the honored couple's children and their spouses, and assisted by some of the grandchildren. Guests were served cake, punch, nuts, mints, and homemade cookies. An enjoyable afternoon for the honorees, hosts, and a great number of friends, neighbors, and relatives will provide many good memories. Relatives came from California, Louisiana, and Maine, and from Lubbock and Brenham Texas, including Germania co-workers.

Joe and Anna Mae Bezner have lived in Lindsay for most of their married life. Joe was the first mayor of Lindsay, and was re-elected many times. He was very involved in the formation of the municipality. He is now retired from Germania Insurance.

Dr. Agarwal offers complete patient care

For Cooke County's newest physician, it's all about quality medical care.

Internal medicine specialist V.K. Agarwal, M.D., believes that every patient should get quality medical care from a physician who is thorough, knows about all organ systems, and can diagnose and treat them efficiently.

"I want to provide comprehensive, quality care to my patients," says Dr. Agarwal. "Complete care in one place - without having to run from doctor to doctor, except when a specialist referral is needed for specific procedures, diagnosis, and treatment."

Internal medicine - one-stop shopping - that is the premise that drives the specialty of internal medicine and it is the philosophy that Dr. Agarwal brings to his practice in Gainesville.

"Many people are not aware of what internal medicine is," explains Dr. Agarwal. "It is the specialty medical field for diagnosis and treatment of diseases of all organ systems."

Running down a list from diabetes, hypertension, and cholesterol management to diseases of all the major body systems including the heart, lungs, gastrointestinal tract, and brain, Dr. Agarwal explained that the specialty of internal medicine is one that encompasses all other medical specialties.

"I treat the whole patient, not just parts and pieces," he said.

Other areas of treatment offered by Dr. Agarwal include: diseases of the joints, metabolic disorders, depression, anxiety, common skin disorders, genital and urinary disorders, migraine headaches, weight loss, anemia, fatigue, arthritis, COPD and asthma, among others.

"When I see a new patient, I do a complete physical examination and lab evaluation and we discuss the problems that need to be addressed," explained Dr. Agarwal. "We then come up with a treatment plan, which I carefully explain to the patient."

Dr. Agarwal is board certified in internal medicine through the American Board of Internal Medicine. He is a 1979 graduate of King George's Medical College and he did his medical residency training at Michael Reese Hospital and Medical Center, University of Illinois, in Chicago.

"I became a physician because I like what doctors do for their patients," Agarwal stated. "Help patients recover, be healthy and happy."

Upon completion of his residency, Dr. Agarwal practiced for nine years with a multi-specialty group in Bedford, Indiana, and served as a clinical assistant professor at University of Florida, Gainesville, and a hospitalist at Shands Hospital there.

"I wanted to come to a warmer climate (from Indiana)," Agarwal noted. "And Texas is a state of friendly people!"

Dr. Agarwal is married and has two daughters, Nikita, 12, and Natasha, 9, both students at Lindsay ISD. His wife, Shobha, is currently a stay-at-home mom, but holds a master's degree in political science.

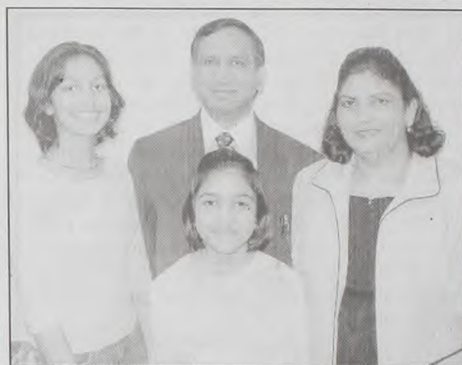

Dr. Agarwal has been an American citizen since 1992.

Dr. Agarwal likes his patients to feel comfortable with him and he was quick to adopt a nickname when coming to Texas. "V.K." stands for "Virendra Kumar", which the new doctor adapted to "Dr. Victor".

Dr. Agarwal is a member of the American Medical Association and the American College of Physicians.

Dr. Agarwal's office is located in the North Texas Medical Center Medical Office Building, 1902 Hospital Boulevard, Suite E. Office staff consists of Gabriella Young, receptionist and office manager, and Jacqueline Bell, medical assistant. For more information or to schedule an appointment, call 668-1100.

Time saving tip

Use your commuting time wisely. If you are within bicycle or walking distance of your work, get out of your car and exercise your way to work. Use carpooling or public transportation instead of sitting in mind-numbing traffic with your hands gripping the steering wheel, using the time to read for pleasure, meditate to balance yourself, or organize your assignments so that your work day is more wisely spent.

Household appliance danger

Young kids can quickly be burned by a hot iron-and one study found that 74% of such burns occurred among children who were supervised! According to Michael Carius, M.D., chairman of the emergency department at Norwalk Hospital in Connecticut:

"It's usually the hands that get burned, because kids touch the irons, and kids often don't let go when something is hot, so they end up with second-degree burns, which blister. These warrant medical attention, they are potentially a source of infection, which can lead to scarring and loss of function."

Always take care to turn off the iron immediately when it's not in use, and remember that it will still be hot, and therefore a potential danger, while it's cooling.

Sara Lester, English teacher at Lindsay High School, has been selected as the inaugural recipient of the Davelyn Neidhardt Award for excellence in teaching. This award was created by members of the Neidhardt family and will be presented each spring to recognize a deserving teacher. A student essay contest was also a component of this award. Students submitted essays to recognize teachers who had a major impact on their educational progress. The winner of the essay contest was Austin Reiter, seventh grader at Lindsay High School. In addition to the awards, Lester and Reiter also received $450 and $50, respectively.

After moving from the College Station area, Mrs. Neidhardt taught math in the Muenster ISD, the Collinsville ISD, and the Lindsay ISD. Dr. Jim Neidhardt of Lindsay and son Tanner Neidhardt survive her.

Mrs. Lester began teaching in Lindsay in August 1968. Mrs. Lester also taught at Saint Mary's in Gainesville and Sacred Heart School in Muenster. After 42 years of teaching service, Sara recently retired and is planning on traveling and enjoying her time off. She is married to Don Lester of Era and has one daughter, Donna Bailey, and son-in-law Chad Bailey of Rowlett, Texas.

He should graduate in May 2007 with 60 hours of college credit and the equivalent of a high school diploma.

The Academy admits up to 200 new students each year. Selection is based on Scholastic Aptitude test scores, academic records from 7th through 10th grades, an Academy mathematics diagnostic test, a student essay, demonstrated interest in science and mathematics, teacher recommendations, a personal interview, and parental support and commitment.

Muenster FCCLA continues tradition

Muenster High School's Chapter of Family, Career and Community Leaders of America ended a productive year with their annual Parent Member Banquet. Keeping with a local tradition of honoring their mothers, members planned and prepared for the banquet, showcasing the skills acquired in Family and Consumer Sciences classes on Thursday evening, May 5.

The banquet theme, "FCCLA Rock & Roll to the Beat of Leadership" was the theme used throughout the school year and was created by Tara Swirczynski, chapter president. Held in the Muenster ISD Cafeteria, decorations emphasized the year-long theme with tables covered in black tablecloths and scattered with bright multi-colored musical note confetti, rock and roll music pages, and 80s and John Lennon style sunglasses.

Multicolored programs were designed by Tara Swirczynski and Kristen Hess, with a juke box on the front cover. They were laid at each place setting along with a fresh gerber daisy for each member's mother or guest. Replicas of record albums were hung on the wall and a large mural depicting the theme was behind the head table which was painted by Parliamentarian Shannon Grewing.

The modeling runway was painted to resemble piano keys, and large vinyl replicas of electric guitars were hung from the ceiling at the end. A variety of rock and roll music was played before the banquet started and during the meal.

Tara Swirczynski was Mistress of Ceremony. She introduced the secretary, Jenna Felderhoff, who welcomed members and their guests. Jill Swirczynski responded to the welcome on behalf of all the mothers and guests. Vice President Kristen Hess preceded the beginning of the meal by giving an invocation.

The menu consisted of a barbecue beef main dish served with cheesy potatoes, green bean casserole, homemade dinner rolls, dill pickle spears, and baby carrots, followed by Four-Layer Delight for dessert. The menu was planned by the FCCLA officers. Family and Consumer Sciences students prepared all of the side dishes and dessert. The barbecue beef was prepared by Big Al's Barbecue. Anita Luttner and Vickie Boaz put the final finishing touches on the meal at serving time.

Following the meal, Reporter Meredith Painter gave the annual report telling of the many events carried out by the membership for this school year. Entertainment was provided by students of Personal and Family Development, Textiles and Apparel Design classes, and participants in Region II and State competitions. Clothing projects completed by the students in class were modeled, as well as costumes for STAR events. The style show was choreographed and emceed by Vice President of Membership Danielle Walterscheid. Jenna Felderhoff and Danielle Bindel modeled strapless and halter style dresses they created in class. Tiffanie Klement showed a dress made by her mother, Ronda Sicking, which she wore in the installation ceremony of Region II officers.

Following the style show, seniors who had been members all four years were presented certificates and a fresh red rose by Muenster FCCLA Sponsor Joni Sturm. Those receiving the award were Shannon Grewing, Stevie Klement, Kimberly Parsons, and Tara Swirczynski. Mrs. Sturm also recognized the officers for the success of the year

Breeding success and fawn survival

In some Texas circles, you still hear people talk about the "old barren doe" that lives in a certain pasture. This train of thought blames poor fawn production on the idea that many older does do not get pregnant. In reality, if the doe isn't bred during the first estrous period, she will be receptive again in 28 days. This explains the high breeding success in white-tailed deer even when bucks are scarce. We found that on the average, 92 of every 100 does sampled in the state were pregnant. The western part of the state was in a drought during much of the study. In the Trans-Pecos the number of bred does was the lowest. There the breeding rate dropped to only 81%. White-tailed deer are known for producing twins. Statewide, over half of the does examined had twins.

Triplets were not common, and the occurrence of triplets was less than 2%. Quadruplets didn't show up in the study. There were more male fetuses than female fetuses. Males represented 56% of the unborn fawns over the three years of the study. An average sample of ten does had 15 fawns, or 1.5 fetuses per doe. In some parts of the state, though, deer numbers build up slowly. Failure to breed is not a problem, so where do the fawns go? Life is full of dangers for a fawn, and food and cover (the fawning habitat) is the difference in living and dying for fawns. In many parts of the state, predation is severe unless there is adequate hiding cover for young fawns. Imported fire-ants are a problem for fawns in heavily infested areas, but their impact can often mask the real problem. Adequate nutrition is often limiting, and if fawns make it past fire-ants and predators to weaning, they still face the challenge of finding food and cover. Fawn survival depends primarily on habitat quality. Malnutrition and associated problems are probably responsible for poor fawn survival in much of the state. Dry conditions aggravate the problem of inadequate food. "Empty belly disease" is the most limiting factor on whitetails in Texas. Delayed breeding could cause fawns to be born late, which would be a disadvantage on ranges where food is scarce.

COUNTY AGENT'S REPORT

WAYNE BECKER
CEA - AG/NR

Big Endangered Species Act decision requires proof of harm

The United States Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals issued a ruling in late April on a significant case that addresses the standard by which injunctions may be issued under the Endangered Species Act.

The Ninth Circuit's ruling clarifies for the first time that environmental plaintiffs must present actual evidence that a species is likely to be harmed before an injunction can be issued against a property owner.

The case involved Verl Jones, a small Idaho rancher, who was sued by the Idaho Watersheds Project in 2001. The group claimed Jones and his family were violating the Endangered Species Act by diverting water from a nearby creek and killing bull trout protected under the Act. The group presented no evidence to support their claim that bull trout were being harmed.

The Jones family operates a small ranch near Challis, Idaho. Since 1961, they have diverted water from nearby Otter Creek in the summer months to irrigate their alfalfa pastures for livestock.

The defense presented evidence that no one has ever seen a bull trout injured in the creek, let alone killed, in the 40 years the family has operated their irrigation diversion.

Nevertheless, the Federal District Court granted the environmental group's request for a summary judgment and issued the injunction, ordering Jones to stop diverting water to the family ranch.

As a result, the Jones family has been forced to buy about 100 tons of hay per year to make up for the loss of irrigation water for the past three years.

The Court's decision was important for property owners, said attorneys for the Pacific Legal Foundation, which defended Jones in the suit.

"For too long, environmentalists have been able to easily obtain injunctions against property owners on the basis that courts should give the benefit of the doubt to the species," said Russ Brooks, managing attorney for PLF's Pacific Northwest Center.

"This decision should give a lot of property owners hope where they have felt powerless against environmentalists' frivolous lawsuits for years. It's been a long time coming, but the tide is turning...for the rights of property owners and reasonableness in environmental laws."

Voluntary COOL legislation introduced

Voluntary COOL legislation was introduced in the U.S. House of Representatives May 4. The Meat Promotion Act (HR 2068) was introduced by House Ag Committee Chairman Bob Goodlatte (R-Va.) and Rep. Marion Berry (D-Ark.), and 32

additional co-sponsors. "The legislation we are introducing will replace the current mandatory system, with its potential for creating another layer of regulatory and business cost, with a voluntary program," said Goodlatte. "This approach benefits consumers and producers and is preferable to a mandatory program that is more likely to hurt the people it was intended to help. The stated intent of those who advocate a mandatory COOL (country-of-origin labeling) scheme has been to benefit producers, which is a worthy goal," Goodlatte continued. "Unfortunately, no one has made a clear case to me that mandatory COOL does anything to help producers. The voluntary approach in this bill ensures that those who are paying the cost of the regulations will be doing so because they have determined that there is an added benefit provided by the program."

JUNE IS DAIRY MONTH

One of the most important reasons to consume three servings of dairy - milk, cheese, and yogurt - each day is to help build and maintain strong bones. Numerous studies have identified calcium intake and dairy foods as a key dietary strategy for attaining peak bone mass and for preventing and treating osteoporosis and reducing fracture risk. In addition to calcium, other nutrients found in dairy foods, such as protein, phosphorus, magnesium, and vitamin D, also support bone health.

Milk and dairy products are among the most highly regulated and monitored food products in America and are subject to up to 17 safety, quality, and sanitation inspections before ever reaching a grocery store. (Source: Dairy Management, Inc.)

Nine out of 10 adult women and seven out of 10 adult men don't get the recommended daily amount of calcium - 1,000 mg - which is essential to help build and maintain strong bones. A single serving of low-fat or fat-free chocolate milk provides 30% of the recommended daily amount of calcium.

TEXAS DAIRY FACTS
*The state's total milk production in 2004 was 695,075,186 gallons.

*Texas had 803 commercial dairy farms in 2004, a drop of 32 from the average of a year earlier.

*Texas had an average of 318,000 milk cows in 2004, with a typical dairy herd of 400 head.

*Each cow produced an average of 2,185 gallons of milk last year, or about six gallons a day.

*A cow typically consumes 41 gallons of water, 28 pounds of grain and concentrated feeds, and 49 pounds of hay and silage daily to produce that much milk.

*For the average Texas dairy, the value of a day's milk is about $8.28 per cow. The cost of producing that milk, however, is about $7.44.

*The average cost of a cow in Texas was $1,660 as 2004 ended.

*The top five ranking dairy counties in the state, based on milk production, as of December 2004 were Erath, Hopkins, Comanche, Lamb, and Hale.

*The dairy industry is growing quickly in the Texas Panhandle and South Plains with Castro, Bailey, Deaf Smith, and Parmer now listed (along with Lamb and Hale) among the state's top 10 producing counties.

*Texas had 22 fluid milk processing plants last year.

BASIC HORSE'S HOOF CARE

Your horse must depend upon you for proper care, and as a horse owner you have the obligation to provide for the horse's needs in the best possible manner. Horses in confined housing, or even in small pastures, do not have the capability of maintaining enough wear on their feet to provide for ample wear of their hooves.

The hoof is a vital part of the horse and a healthy hoof is essential to the well being and usefulness of the horse.

Trimming is necessary to prevent sand cracks and breaking off of the hoof wall, which often results in lameness. Trimming is also required to balance the hooves so a horse moves consistently and at its best.

A horse that receives regular hoof care is potentially a safer horse to ride, both to the rider and horse itself. They are less apt to slip, stumble, or fall.

Moreover, they are less likely to sustain injuries that would either put them out of service or require the services of a veterinarian.

Horses should receive hoof care at intervals of between four to eight weeks. Factors determining whether the horse should be shod or just trimmed are: the health of the hooves, the potential or anticipated use of the horse, the defects in gait or conformation and/or the injuries or diseases plaguing the horse. Allowing the feet to accumulate an excessive growth of horn (wall) and/or continued use of the calk shoe (shoes with raised heels) may prevent the frog and elastic structures of the hoof from contacting the ground, thereby, preventing the hooves from performing their proper functions. This can result in a contraction of the whole hoof, which can lead to disease problems in the hoof.

Regardless of whether the horse is being shod or trimmed, it is important to keep in mind the feet should be trimmed in such a manner as to keep them in a condition as close as possible to that which nature intended. Trimming and selecting shoes should be consistent with the amount and class of work required of the animal, the environmental conditions, and the surface upon which the horse will be used.

Timeline for ID announced

A draft plan and timeline for the National Animal ID System (NAIS) has been released by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Secretary of Agriculture Mike Johanns called on agriculture producers, leaders, and industry partners to provide feedback. Both documents are available on the Web at <http://www.usda.gov/nais>. The documents propose requiring stakeholders to identify premises and animals according to NAIS standards by January 2008. Requiring full recording of defined animal movements is proposed by January 2009.

Consideration will be given to comments received on or before June 6, 2005. Send an original and three copies of postal or commercial delivery comments to Docket No. 050-15-1, Regulatory Analysis and Development, PPD, APHIS, Station 3C71, 4700 River Road, Unit 118, Riverdale, MD 20737-1238.

If you wish to submit a comment using the Internet, an easy link to the NAIS docket and comment form will be available on the NAIS home page.

AG BRIEFS

Changes ahead for crop insurance
Net outlays for crop insurance have grown nearly 50% since 2001 with the implementation of the crop insurance reforms of 2000. At the same time, producers have continued to receive disaster payments through ad hoc disaster programs.

The U.S. budget includes proposals to enhance crop insurance coverage and reduce costs to deliver the program, so that crop insurance will provide coverage that is sufficient to sustain most farmers in times of loss. Proposals include a higher minimum coverage level, tying the receipt of direct payments to purchase of crop insurance, and changes in fees, premium rates, and delivery expenses.

Deere commits to biodiesel
Deere will use B2, a blend of 2% biodiesel-propelled machines made in the U.S. "This is a big step forward in confirming our commitment for the use of biodiesel fuel," says Deere's Don Borgman. "Working with the National Biodiesel Board (NBB) we are promoting the use of B2 fuel because it is readily available and meets the high-quality fuel standards that we have set for our engines, and it is a positive step toward adoption of renewable fuels."
