Scramble Begins For Camp Howze Salvage Lumber

Excitement and confusion prevailed in Cooke County over means of securing salvage lumber and other usable building materials from the buildings to be razed soon at Camp Howze.

At the Chamber of Commerce assembly room in Gainesville Monday afternoon a group of contractors and veterans took steps to apply for priorities permitting erection of 112 veterans houses. The details are to be handled through contractors who will submit necessary applications for the veterans.

Another meeting was held in the Chamber of Commerce building in an effort to freeze 500 of the camp's barracks for the benefit of farmers who are expected to occupy the land when the camp is removed.

But when principle is involved, it's different. And such is the case in a state and a district race. Two candidates, Homer P. Rainey and Mack Taylor, have all the earmarks of confirmed communists, and both are known to have the blessing of the PAC, which is known to be communist dominated.

Apparently in an effort to pick up the support, Rainey vehemently proclaims that he is not a candidate of the CIO Political Action Committee. Nevertheless, says Peter Molyneux, vigilent editor of the Southern Weekly, "the principal argument used in collecting contributions from union men for the CIO campaign in Texas is that we must elect Dr. Rainey."

Molyneux also invites our attention to the fact that left wing papers of the North, specifically The Republic and PM, are hailing Rainey as the valiant champion of the "liberal" cause.

The backing of the PAC and such publications by itself should be sufficient inducement to any sincere American to vote against Rainey. And there are still other factors to consider. He employs the well known communist device of denouncing his opponents as hirelings of entrenched privilege and corporate interests. As typically communist is his charge that newspapers of Texas (except those supporting him, of course) are subsidized and controlled by Wall Street. He has the conceit and impertinence to insinuate that agreement with him is the first essential of an editor's integrity. Naturally he knows better. What he's trying to do is destroy confidence in the free press. A favorite communist trick.

Even his platform is communist. Like all the Reds, this "liberal" is advocating plenty of liberality with other people's money. He's full of schemes for big appropriations and state expenditures and appeals to the "get something for nothing" faction as well as a bid for bureaucracy.

That the man is a pink was evident months ago when he chose to become a martyr for "academic freedom" over the communist book "U.S.A." by Fasso. And when his obstinacy resulted in his being booted out of Texas University he raved about a plot by "special interests."

Getting down to the actual facts, there was no academic freedom involved in the first place, but only an attempt to cram subversive propaganda down the throats of students. One can't call it freedom because students are not free to reject the trash as they'd be flunked if they did. And, lacking a knowledge of other basic principles, they would not be able to refute it. The academic freedom argument is as silly as insisting that a baby should have access to matches and razor blades because it has the privilege of leaving them alone. The more correct name is "academic license."

It's an old communist trick to demand the freedom which this country guarantees as a means of injecting subversive poison. But once a communist regime is established, what chance does Democracy have for an opening wedge? Think of Russia and Russian dominated countries.

Combine Rainey's defense of Fasso's book and his proposed liberality (with other people's money) one candidate recently announced that he would give $1000 to any charity the doctor specifies if he would read certain specified passages from the book over the air for 30 minutes. Rainey has made no comment. Perhaps he knows, as the opponent stated, that such vulgarity and subversive rot over the radio

FELKER-SOLOMON PICK LOCATION FOR AUCTION BUILDING

Preliminary plans for the erection of a large auction ring at Muenster got under way this week when E.A. "Babe" Felker and W.F. Solomon purchased a three acre tract on Highway 82 across from the new Kaiser-Meurer automobile agency. The land was purchased from Joe Sicking of Gainesville.

Felker and Solomon intend to put up a large building somewhat on the order of those now being used by several West Texas auction centers so that trading activity can be carried on in any kind of weather. They also have hopes of attracting buyers from packing houses and large livestock feeding concerns.

Construction is to begin as soon as building materials are available.

The new enterprise will also result in the establishment of two new homes here. A part of the location has been reserved for dwelling sites for both partners. Construction on those likewise depends on the availability of materials.

Felker and Solomon have had many years of experience in the cattle business, the former on his farm near Hood, the latter on the Mount Ranch north of Muenster.

Funeral Services For William Schmitz At Lindsay July 12

Funeral services for William Schmitz, Sr., 86 were held Friday morning, July 12, in Saint Peter's church at Lindsay with the pastor Rev. Conrad Herda officiating at the requiem high mass and burial in the Lindsay cemetery.

Six grandsons were pallbearers: Leonard Schmitz, Donald Schmitz, Lawrence Schmitz, Clarence Metzler, Diamond Fuhrmann and Al Beizer. Another grandson, Julius Metzler, was cross bearer.

Mr. Schmitz, Lindsay's oldest male citizen, and resident of the community for 48 years, had been ill for five months.

An affectionately called 'Grandpa' Schmitz throughout the community, the deceased enjoyed a wide friendship. He was a native of Germania, born in Köln on Feb. 12, 1860, and came to the United States in 1877, settling in Iowa. On Feb. 12, 1884, he married Miss Catherine Anha Neu in Roselle, Iowa, and on December 24, 1898 they arrived at Lindsay to make their home Mr. Schmitz farmed 2 miles south of the city until he retired from active work in 1920 and moved to town, east of the church.

In 1939 Mr. and Mrs. Schmitz celebrated their 55th wedding anniversary with a reunion of all their children and grandchildren. They were Lindsay's oldest married couple. Mrs. Schmitz died in April 1941. Since that time he stayed alone in his home and enjoyed his daily chores until afflicted with illness last December.

In February his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Schmitz, moved in to take care of him during his illness. He was bedfast for the past four months.

As one of the first citizens of the community he was energetic in parish work and community activities and was always ready to lend a hand in any undertaking that needed his assistance.

He is survived by four sons and four daughters: Joe, John and Theo Schmitz, Lindsay, and Henry Schmitz, Dallas; Mmes. Joe Beizer, Phillip Metzler and H.S. Fuhrmann, Lindsay and Mrs. Henry Lueb, Kenefic, Okla.; 62 grandchildren and 40 great-grandchildren. One son, William, Jr., preceded him in death in Nov. 1918 during the influenza epidemic.

Among out of town relatives at the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schmitz and son and six daughters of Dallas; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lueb and daughters, Catherine and Louise, Kenefic, Okla.; Pete and John Schmitz, Arcadia, Iowa; Bill and Charlie Walterscheid and the latter's two children, Patricia and Bobby; and Mrs. Mamie Fisher, all of Wichita, Kansas; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Schmitz, Wapanucka, Okla.; Leonard and Lawrence Schmitz, Mrs. Leo Cutaia, Mrs. Bob Young, Mrs. Henry Ruwaldt and Mrs. C. W. Monaghan, all of Dallas.

UP IN WHEEL CHAIR Mrs. Herbert Meurer continues to make steady, slow progress on the road to recovery and since the latter part of last week is able to spend a part of each day in a wheel chair. She is a patient at Gainesville Sanitarium since a gasoline explosion fire in her home on April 30.

Hospital Directors Scan Preliminary Plan For Building

Meeting with their architect, Walter Coker of Waco, in the bank building Wednesday night, directors of the Muenster Cooperative Hospital Association made suggestions for revision of a preliminary plan for their contemplated building. Another plan incorporating suggested changes will be submitted to the directors in about three weeks.

Included with the floor plan was a sketch of the exterior, which has been placed on display in the bank.

The building, as now considered will consist of a central unit with reception room, main office, operating room, X-ray room, laboratories, kitchen and offices for two doctors and a dentist. Provision was made for future expansion by providing three additional rooms which will be used for patients until needed for other purposes.

The wing will contain 10 rooms with generous space for one bed each and enough for two beds in emergencies. It will also contain the bath, nursery and a delivery room. Provision is made for the addition of another wing if and when the need arises.

The structure will be one story high and approximately 45 feet wide and 125 feet long and will have a small superstructure over the main unit for central heating equipment. The extra room with a pent house effect will also serve to break the monotony of a long low building.

Concerning prospects for building the architect stated that some materials, such as brick and tile are gradually coming back. J.M. Weinzapfel stated that he has filed application for a priority to secure salvage lumber at Camp Howze.

Tony Felderhoff Gets Broken Leg In Tussle With Runaway Team

Tony Felderhoff sustained a fractured left leg and a deep cut in his left foot Tuesday afternoon in an accident near his home when his team of horses got out of control after a bride broke and bolted with a wagon load of baled hay. He says it happened so fast that he cannot recall just how he was injured. It occurred in the lane between the Felderhoff land and the Eddie Schmitt place.

The frightened team tore loose from the wagon and ran down the highway where it was caught by J.J. Hunter of Gainesville, enroute to Muenster. Seeing the abandoned hay wagon he then went there to investigate and found Mr. Felderhoff. Hunter brought him to the local clinic where X-rays were taken and the fractured leg placed in a cast. Felderhoff was then permitted to return to his home where he is resting well. If no complications arise, he should be able to have the cast removed in about four weeks. Principal suffering at the present time is from the puncture in his foot.

IMPROVEMENT JOBS IN PROGRESS AT 3 BUSINESS HOUSES

The latest renovating job on the main drag is that begun Wednesday by Jake Pagel. He is elevating the base of his display windows about twelve inches in order to reduce the glare and heat of the afternoon sun.

Following that change he will re-arrange his shelves, replacing some of them with new ones and give both interior and exterior a new coat of paint.

Adjoining Pagel, Anthony Luke is going strong on a program that will result in doubling the floor space of his Variety Store. He removed partitions from the back of the building, which had been used as a residence for many years, and is now working on shelves and painting. One small room is being retained and renovated as a ladies lounge. When the work is done Luke will take out the partition and spread his stock.

Carra Pagel's store improvements continue steadily. Outside painting is finished, as are shelves and most inside paintings.

Mr. and Mrs. Tony Gremmlinger and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Knabe spent Sunday in Windthorst with relatives. Mrs. Robert Knabe accompanied them to spend the day with her mother who is seriously ill.

TRUSTEES LAUNCH IMPROVEMENT PLANS FOR COMING TERMS

Muenster's public school improvement program got off to a good start in two related meetings closely following consolidation with Hays.

On Wednesday, July 10, trustees approved the addition of one teacher and the revival of manual training and home economics, which were discontinued during the war because of the teacher shortage. The changes will become effective at the opening of the next school term.

The next development came Monday, July 15, when trustees met with the now inactive Hays school board at Hays in order to work out a coordinated, harmonious plan to meet the needs of both areas.

On the invitation of the Muenster board the Hays group selected one of its members, C.G. Clayton, to serve the unexpired term of H.T. Pierce. He officially became a member of the Muenster board at the meeting.

Arrangement of a bus schedule to accommodate Hays pupils is still under consideration by the former Hays trustees.

The Hays school building will be moved to Muenster to provide three additional class rooms, one for typewriting classes, one for manual training, and one for a regular class room. Desks and other property that can be used will also be moved.

The trustees have made no decision about disposal of the principal's house which was a part of the Hays property. They will probably sell it.

Cable Installation Eliminates Multiple Wire Line On Main

It won't be long until the maze of telephone wires, and the poles on Main Street are a thing of the past. A telephone cable has just been installed to serve all phones in the row of blocks east of the street and many more phones in the northeast part of town. Wires serving rural phones will also connect with the cable.

Members of the phone company maintenance crew are now making connections to the cable. When they complete that task they will take down the entire system of single lines replaced by the cable.

Another improvement is the location of the new line. It follows the alley parallel with Main and a half block east, between the two rows of buildings it will serve. Just east Rudy Hellman's home it goes over to Main and then north almost to the Ed Endree home.

It falls 775 feet short of reaching the city limits. Originally it was intended to lead from the old cable now ending at the post office but since it was ordered company directors decided to lead directly from the switchboard and to use the short cable as a lead for lines west of Main.

The short cable will extend west to a point behind the cheese factory and from there connections will be made to single lines on the west side of Main Street, and rural lines west of town.

Also approved is another cable leading east along the alley a half block north of Highway 82. It will serve phones conveniently reached along its route and connect with rural lines east of town. The new installations, besides providing a more compact system of wires, will release many miles of vitally needed wire for contemplated rural repairs and extensions.

Catholic State League Re-elects All Officers At Fredericksburg Meet

All state officers were re-elected and Westphalia was chosen as the next convention headquarters during the final sessions of the 47th annual convention of the Catholic State League of Texas in Fredericksburg, July 8-11. The conclave was held in connection with a celebration commemorating the 100th anniversary of the founding of St. Mary's parish.

Representing the Sacred Heart parish at the conclave were Rev. Herman Laux, pastor, Mrs. Joe Luke, state treasurer, Mrs. Ben Seyler, Mrs. Henry Fette, and Misses Johann and Margie Seyler and Laurie Wilde.

Tony Hacker arrived Friday with a discharge from the army. He is at home with his father, Frank Hacker, in Valley View, and they spent Sunday here with relatives.

Local Electric Co-op Ranks As State Leader

Directors of the Cooke County Electric Cooperative Association had occasion to learn last week that their pride in the local organization is fully justified. At a meeting of all Texas REA units in Austin they learned that theirs is one of the leaders of the state, in some respects the outstanding unit of the state.

Based on the soundness of previous operations the local co-op secured an appropriation of $370,000, the largest received by any unit of the state, for its current expansion program in which more than 300 miles of new line will be built.

The local organization also pioneered in doing its own construction, a practice now being adopted by many other co-ops of the state. It also ranks well above the state's average consumer consumption with 97 KWH per consumer per month as compared with 85.

Representing the Cooke County Electric Co-op at the meeting were Manager R.L. McNeley, Attorney Cecil Murray, and Directors Barney Voth, Joe Benford and Jack Crowover. National REA Supervisor Claude Wickard and other representatives of the Washington office were present.

As one result of the meeting the Washington office took steps to facilitate acquiring materials in order to speed up the many construction programs of the state. Steps were also taken to work out an arrangement with appliance dealers through manufacturers to pro rate new appliances so that REA members can get their quote. Later the administration will sponsor demonstration agents to appear at rural gatherings and show the many uses to which electricity can be put.

Consistent with its record of leading the state, the Cooke County Electric Co-op is working steadily on its expansion program while many others are hopelessly tied up by material shortages. McNeley stated. The local construction crew sets an average of 2 and a half miles of poles a day. By the time it completes the 199 miles on its project, conductor and other materials should be here. They are due to arrive in August and September. As a contrast, McNeley stated, the local construction crew has not begun because the contractor could not secure materials. He has been waiting since March.

The local co-op has plans to continue forging ahead in its expansion. McNeley said. The goal 5 years hence is 1500 miles of line serving 3,700 consumers. The present mileage is 510. Another goal is to build the average consumption up to near 200 KWH per month during the next ten years.

In line with such improvements the association contemplates also a three phase line over the whole county. Lines in present use could not carry the anticipated load. When first constructed the lines were designed for an average of 80 KWH and they have already surpassed that.

HAYS PHONE LINE BECOMES PART OF MUENSTER SYSTEM

The small cooperatively owned telephone system which has been serving the Hays community this week became a part of the Muenster Telephone Company. It consists of about 5 miles of line with 11 connections and was owned by Henry Pick, A.A. Otto, J.R. Winstead and Mrs. Judy.

No change in service resulted from the transaction. The line was previously operated through the Muenster switchboard. According to Jake Horn, Jr., manager of the Muenster Telephone Company, the newly acquired line will soon be favored with renovations and improvements.

FAMINE DRIVE NETS $767.28 IN CASH AND 285 POUNDS OF FOOD

The final result of the famine relief drive conducted by the Muenster Sacred Heart parish on July 6 and 13 was $767.28 in cash and 285 pounds of canned food, according to figures released this week by Father John Waibe.

All proceeds were forwarded early this week to headquarters of the National Catholic Welfare Council. The food will be shipped direct to distressed countries and the money will be used to purchase additional canned food for shipment.

Superior Food Is Yours by Following Rules for Quality Canning

Ask ten women why they put up fruits, vegetables, jams, preserves, etc., and you may get ten different answers but they all add up to economy and flavor.

At present, high living costs are forcing many persons, particularly members of the so-called white-collar class, to accept merchandise of inferior quality or do without, but almost everybody can have vegetables of superior quality and flavor for there can always be gardens and, fortunately, glass jars for home canning are pre-war quality at pre-war prices.

Canned foods should be seasoned, flavored, or sweetened to suit the taste of one's family. If you like corn and beans, corn and tomatoes, tomatoes and okra, cooked together, can them together—but keep in mind that a mixture must be processed the time needed for the vegetable requiring the longest time.

Own a Canning Book
"But," warns Gladys Kimbrough, Home Service Director for Ball Brothers Company, manufacturer of home canning jars, "whatever you do by way of seasoning, be sure to follow the rules when canning. Every homemaker should own a good canning and preserving book."

Buy whatever new jars, caps, lids, and rubbers needed. Use regular home canning jars and beware of any which haven't the name of a reliable manufacturer on them. Examine every jar, cap, and lid before it is used and use according to the manufacturer's instructions. Be sure pressure cooker and water-bath canners are in perfect order. Use strictly fresh produce and use it the day it is mature enough to cook for immediate serving. Discard tough, withered, rusty, wormy vegetables. Wash all produce before breaking or cutting and wash only enough for one canner load at a time.

Don't Lose Time
Waste no time between steps in gathering, sorting, washing, preparing, and canning.

Cover prepared vegetables with boiling water and boil five minutes (some vegetables, for example beets and sweet potatoes, require longer). Pour hot vegetables into clean hot jars. Don't cram them down. There must be room for water to circulate between the pieces and there should be from 1/4 to 1 inch space between the vegetables and the top of the jar.

Cover vegetables, after placing in jars, with water in which they were boiled or use fresh boiling water.

Use clean salt, add it before or after the jars are filled, or leave it out. It is put in for seasoning only.

If air bubbles form, run a knife down between side of jar and food. Put the jars in a hot canner as soon as they are filled. Letting them stand around on the kitchen table invites spoilage.

Process all vegetables except tomatoes, which are really a fruit, in a steam pressure cooker for the time given in the recipe you are following. We recommend the use of a pressure cooker because, when in good working order and used according to instructions, it is by far the quickest and best way to can all low-acid vegetables such as beans, beets, peas, corn, etc. Boiling for a long time in a water-bath canner is the next best way and is the one commonly used in the North Central and Eastern states. Water bath processed vegetables (does not mean tomatoes—they are acid and should be done in water bath) should never under any circumstances be tasted until after they have been boiled 15 minutes. The same is true of those processed in a steam pressure cooker when there is the slightest question as to whether the cooker was in good operating condition or was operated correctly.

The purpose of boil-before-tasting is to destroy any toxin which may have developed. The toxin won't be there to destroy if fresh produce has been carefully washed, prepared, packed, and properly processed.

 Miss Marcella Schmitz, bride-elect of Ray Wilde, was honored with a pretty party and shower Tuesday afternoon when Misses Gladys and Laurie Wilde entertained in the J. B. Wilde home from 2 to 5. The party rooms were decorated with arrangements of snapdragons and marigolds, and paper and pencil games furnished diversion for the guests. Prizes were awarded to Misses Marian Starke Virginia Walterscheid LaRue Felderhoff and Jewel Hoffman, who in turn, presented them to the honoree.

The shower gifts were presented by little Imogene Flusche and Allan Dale Eberhart, dressed in traditional bride and groom attire, while Miss Gladys Wilde presented "Here Comes the Bride" as a piano solo.

Refreshments of punch, ribbon sandwiches and small cakes inscribed with "Marcy and Ray" were served to 25 guests. The table was laid with a lace cloth and was centered with an arrangement of daisies, carnations and fern on a silver tray. Miss Gladys Wilde presided at the punch bowl, and the bride's sister, Mrs. Martin Theimer of Gainesville, secured signatures for the bride's book.

Two people were walking along a road together. One was a young woman, the other a handsome farm lad. The farm lad was carrying a large pail holding a chicken in one hand, a cane in the other and leading a goat. They came to a dark lane.

Said the girl: "I'm afraid to walk here with you. You might try to kiss me."

Said the farm lad: "How could I, with all these things I'm carrying?"

"Well, you might stick the cane in the ground, tie the goat to it, and put the chicken under the pail."

A Negro woman was standing on the street watching a circus parade. One of the pickaninies looked up and said, "Mammy, your mouf's open."

To which she replied, "Yes, I knows it. I lef' it open myself."

It was lunch hour at the lime works, and Pat's two buddies deciding to play a little joke on him during his absence, drew the features of a donkey upon the back of his coat, which he had left behind. In due time Pat returned, and presently hove in sight bearing the lime-decorated coat.

Mary's Little Lamb Goes Hollywood

And the lamb in this case is miraculously transformed into lustrous, luxurious fur that is as long-wearing as it is beautiful. The material, Bonmouton, is a new plastic-coated, weather-resistant processed lambskin, which will be a top fashion item in this fall's fur market. Despite the beauty, it's a modest fur which fits comfortably into any family circle, and into any budget. A versatile fur, too, since it is as suitable for a snow suit, as for an evening wrap.

Spring showers, fall rains and winter's snow fail to mat or curl the year-around fur. In addition to the brown which Betty wears, famous French and American designers have designed one-of-a-kind garments in white, red, blue, green, two shades of gray and a rosy beige.

sterilizing. Other points stressed are pre-cooking or blanching of fruits and vegetables, and how to detect food spoilage. It warns, "don't throw away food value! In pre-cooking vegetables and fruits, use the cooking liquid to fill the jars. Valuable minerals and vitamins leak out into the water, and will be lost forever if the water is discarded."

Demonstration Agent Gives Tips on Selecting And Canning Peaches

In selecting peaches for canning or other methods of preservation, color and texture of skin are sometimes misleading, for the best tasting peaches ripen from the seed out. Mildred Chapman, County Home Dem. Agent says that peaches of finest quality have a fresh appearance and when broken open are thoroughly ripe around the seed as well as under the skin.

Care must be exercised with ripe peaches, as they deteriorate quickly and should be canned as soon as possible after picking. If they must be kept for several days cold storage at 36 to 40 degrees F. is the best method for holding them.

A standard bushel of peaches weighs about 48 pounds, and should yield about 30 No. 2 cans or pint jars, or 20 No. 3 cans or quart jars. This bushel of peaches, if a light syrup is used, will need about three pounds of sugar. For a light syrup, to each 3 cups of water use one cup of sugar.

Corn syrup or corn sugar may be substituted for part or all of sugar. One cup of sugar and two cups corn syrup to six cups of water makes a desirable thin syrup. Brown sugar or syrups that have strong flavor are not desirable for canning. Honey may be used to replace a small part of the sugar, but it affects the flavor of the fruit more than corn syrup. Never use saccharin in canning as heat makes it bitter. If used at all, add when the fruit is served. Miss Chapman advises consulting a doctor before using it, because too much saccharin may be harmful.

RECIPE BULLETIN STRESSES MODERN CANNING METHODS

Cooperating with the Department of Agriculture's appeal for National Home Food Preservation Week July 15-22, Lone Star Gas Company's current recipe bulletin stresses modern methods of canning fruits, vegetables and meats to assure Americans a better diet and help the famine-stricken of the world. Copies of the bulletin, "Cooking With Gas," are available without charge through the company's business offices or requests may be mailed to Lone Star's home economics department in Dallas at 301 S. Harwood Street.

National food preservation week will focus attention on necessity of home preservation of food supplies for winter when food is badly needed throughout the world; it will emphasize need for food preservation throughout summer and fall.

The bulletin points out that canning is one of the best means of food conservation and describes the pressure cooker, boiling water bath and open kettle methods of canning vegetables, fruits, meats, poultry, fish, pickles and relishes. Recipes for sugar substitutes and those requiring minimum sugar are given.

The pressure cooker method is the nearest approach to commercial canning and will handle any kind of food, the bulletin says, and the water bath method is "recommended for canning fruits, tomatoes and tomato mixtures." The open kettle method "may be used for preserving and pickling." One section of the bulletin is devoted to containers, lids and

Soil Conservation Supplements Reservoirs To Control Trinity

(Editor's note: This is the second in a series of nine articles discussing the Trinity watershed flood control program authorized by Congress in the 1944 Flood Control Act for post-war operations in soil conservation districts with federal assistance provided through the Soil Conservation Service of the Department of Agriculture. The articles were prepared by Louis P. Merrill, regional conservator of the Soil Conservation Service, of Fort Worth.)

Upstream flood control on the Trinity River watershed by the Department of Agriculture will supplement the downstream program of reservoirs and other major structures proposed by the War Department for Trinity flood control.

The plans of the Department of Agriculture and of War fit together well. They call for starting at the top of the hill, where the first trickle of water begins, carrying the water in orderly fashion to the stream, and thence on to the Gulf. Thus floods, erosion, and sedimentation in reservoirs and channels will be held to a minimum.

Agriculture's part in flood control, recognized for the first time in the Nation's history through the 1936 Omnibus Flood Control Act, is to assist farmers in the application of soil conservation and water retardation measures on all the lands of watersheds designated by Congress in laws such as the 1944 Act.

Some idea of the magnitude of Agriculture's responsibility in the Trinity undertaking can be seen by studying the map of the watershed, printed with the first story.

The stream system of the watershed is shaped like a tall tree. The main river forms the trunk; the principal tributaries are the branches; and the creeks and brooks are the twigs. Let's take a look at the farm lands along the streams which are shown on the map in broken lines.

The area above Palestine, which is as far down as Agriculture will work under the 1944 Act, amounts to 8,260,000 acres. Here small but destructive floods arise from sudden, heavy rains concentrated over a rather small area, sometimes only 50 to 100 square miles. Quite often such rains occur when the soil is moist, and it can't soak up the water. The excess water rushes off the slopes, collects in brooks and creeks and overflows in "flash" floods. An average of 46 such flash floods occur in the watershed annually.

The farmer's main flood problems are from flash floods. They don't hurt the city folks or even the farmers for very far along the main streams because their force is lost rapidly as they go downstream, but they are very destructive in the area immediately concerned.

A study of reports prepared by the Agriculture and War Departments shows flood damages in that part of the Trinity watershed above Palestine—excluding erosion losses—amount on the average to $2,270,000 each year. Of this total, $1,133,000 occurs in the tributary streams whose water sheds would be protected by the agricultural program, and approximately $1,137,000 occurs on the main stem of the river which would be protected by the Army's program of reservoirs and other major structures.

Of this total damage of $2,270,000, only 62 percent is caused by the spectacular floods which make the headlines. The remainder, or $855,000, is caused by the "flash" floods with heavy local damage.

Although soil conservation and water retardation measures applied on the uplands by farmers will reduce damage by flash floods on the small tributaries and reduce the crests of major floods, such measures alone cannot control damage caused by these big floods along the main stem.

The Corps of Engineers is concerned with flood control measures along the main stem and its major tributaries. In contrast with the 40-50 flash floods that occur annually in the small tributaries of the Trinity, an average of only one or two big floods occur along the main stream.

Such main stem floods are caused by rainstorms quite unlike those which manufacture flood trouble farther up the stream system. Big floods on the Trinity usually develop in the winter or spring when rain falls for a long time over a wide area—often over the entire 12,000 square miles of the watershed. The ground becomes soaked and as rains continue, soils take up the water slowly, even with proper conservation measures on the land. Over thousands of square miles the run-off from such storms drains into the twig-like streams, then into the principal tributaries. The small tributaries may or may not flood, but when this tremendous volume of water reaches the main stem all at once, there's a flood.

Control of such floods in the lower basin of the Trinity is the responsibility of the Corps of Engineers. Their plans call for the construction of four new reservoirs, the enlargement of Lake Dallas, the improvement of the levees and floodways at Fort Worth and Dallas and other similar improvements downstream.

(The third of this series will discuss in more detail the erosion, sedimentation, and flood damage in the Trinity watershed.)

ARMY NOW ACCEPTING ENLISTMENTS IN ELITE AIRBORNE DIVISIONS

The War Department announced today that Recruiting Stations are now authorized to enlist men in the 11th and 82nd Airborne Divisions. The 11th Airborne is now located in Japan on occupation duty, while the famed 82nd is located in the United States at Camp McCall, North Carolina. Both Divisions are famous for their prowess in combat and the cocky attitude of their soldiers.

Enlistments are for not less than three years and applicants must pass rigid physical examination. Men enlisting may select the Division of their choice, however, it was pointed out that the location of these divisions may change during the next three years.

Men of these Divisions receive jump-pay, which means a $50 per month increase in their base pay. The Airborne Divisions showed the type of men they trained by their outstanding achievements in World War II.

COUNTY GRAIN CROP GOOD, BOLL WEEVIL THREATENS COTTON

The boll weevil is a serious threat to Cooke County's Cotton crop, B.T. Haws, County Agent reported after a recent survey, due to excessive rains. Many farmers had to replant their cotton due to heavy rains.

The corn crop in the county is good. More farmers are using hybrid seed corn and are getting 15 to 20 percent increased yields.

Wheat and oat crops have been combined with a large percent threshed. Yield of wheat was cut somewhat by greenbugs, but is higher than average. The peanut crop in the county looks favorable. Some peanuts were planted late due to rains.

Modern Methods

"Did you say I'll have to hire four electricians to help me rebuild this house?" asked the amazed owner.

"Yes," warned the boss carpenter. "Union rules, you know. One man to put in outlets upstairs, another man to put them in downstairs."

"But that's only two."

"Yes, I know, but the third man sees that the upstairs and the fourth man sees that the upstairs man doesn't put them in downstairs."

A White Banker

The following story is told on a North Carolina banker. Two North Carolina colored men were discussing the local banker.

"Dey say he's kinda tight," said one.

"Tight, nothing," said the other. "Dat man's lib'l as dey make em. He loaned me five dollahs two years ago and he ain't ever ast fo' it yet. Eb'y Sat'd'y I goes 'round an' pays him two bits in trust an' he says foh me not to worry 'bout dat principal. Dat banker shuah am white."

ALL WORK AND NO PLAY

The inventive genius of George Westinghouse, who was born a century ago this year, made its practical debut in his father's machine shop. With plans for a Saturday picnic endangered by strict orders from his father to cut a large pile of pipes into equal lengths, George used wheels, belts and blocks of wood to construct an automatic pipe cutting machine. When Mr. Westinghouse showed up his 14-year old son was not to be found, but any objections the father may have had were dispelled by the neatly cut and stacked lengths of pipe.

Sausages and Politicians

After the late David Bennett Hill retired from politics he refused to attend political conventions—even in the capacity of spectator.

Asked why he eschewed such gatherings when once he had been a willing wheelhorse in the political life of the country, the old campaigner broke down and confessed: "Well, friends, it's because I've found that politicians are like sausages."

"Like sausages?" was the puzzled rejoinder.

"Yes," replied the veteran lawmaker, winking slyly, "you like 'em better if you don't see 'em made."

HOME FROZEN FRUITS EASY ON SUGAR

Even as little as one part sugar to eight parts fruit is sufficient when sweetening fruit for freezing, reports the Westinghouse Home Economics Institute whose research on home-freezing continued throughout the war when sugar was as short as it is now. More sugar can be added before serving the fruit, if desired.

Milk Needs Special Care

Milk should be refrigerated promptly—and stored alongside the freezing compartment. If milk is kept at 40 degrees—the acknowledged safety line—bacteria multiply only two-and-one-half times in 24 hours. But at a temperature of 55 degrees bacteria multiply 25 times in 24 hours.

Dear Doctor

Letter received by health editor of Chicago Times:

Dear Doctor: Since before the war started my husband hasn't been sick a day in his whole life, but right after the war he became mixed up with a bunch of men where he works, and tells me he is now suffering from unionitis.

What worries me mostly is, he tells me he is on the verge of suffering labor pains, and I don't know what to make of all of this.

Would you please let me know whether or not unionitis is contagious, and what does he mean by having labor pains? Is it possible for men to get labor pains?

BE ON GUARD AGAINST RABID ANIMALS, STATE HEALTH OFFICER SAYS

With a sharp increase in the number of persons being bitten by rabid animals in East Texas, and similar occurrences reported in other sections of the state, Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, recently warned all Texans to be on the alert for symptoms of this disease when around domestic or wild animals.

The 2,166 animal heads received for examination by the State Health Department during the past year have shown 687 positives, including incidence among cats, dogs, horses, rabbits, rats, squirrels, skunks, guinea pigs, coyotes, gophers, raccoons, hogs, sheep, and parairie dogs.

Rabies is transmitted to man through a bite or having a cut exposed to the saliva of a rabid animal. Bites through clothing are not as dangerous as bites on exposed surfaces, because the saliva is wiped off as the tooth passes through the cloth.

If a person is bitten the offending animal should be penned, if possible, for a period of ten days observation. If the animal is normal at the end of that time, the case can be dismissed. If it is necessary to kill the animal, this should be done in such a manner that the brain is not destroyed, otherwise, an examination to determine whether or not the animal had rabies will be impossible. If the head is sent to the State Health Department, care should be used in properly icing it to prevent decomposition.

CHECK YOUR CEDARS AND ARBORVITAE FOR SPIDERS, BAGWORMS

A look at your arborvitae, cedars and evergreen cypresses will probably reveal they are infested with red spiders or cedar bagworms or both.

The red spider is so tiny you'll have to use a magnifying glass to see him. The chances are that the first you'll know of the red spider being with you is that you'll notice the leaves of your cedars turning first gray, then brown. To make it worse, the discoloration will start in the center of the plant. The spider does its best, or its worst in dry, warm weather. But this year, Mildred Chapman tells us, the spider is going great guns in spite of lots of spring rains.

A hard beating rain will check the red spider. So will a good strong stream of water if hosed on the plants twice a week, or an application of cotton dusting sulfur.

Another insect that is causing a lot of trouble on cedar this year, Miss Chapman states, is the cedar bagworm. The cedar bagworm builds its own home and camouflages it with bits of leaves and twigs. When resting it lies up on the tree. To control it spray with two or three level teaspoonful of lead arsenate to a gallon of water.

As the bagworms get older the poison seems to bother it less and less. If you have a lot of old tough bagworms, and not too many arborvitae or cedars, your best bet is to pick them off. Dump them in kerosene or burn them.

Bread Stays Fresh Longer

In suggesting the refrigerator as an ideal place to store bread now that it has become so precious, Mrs. Julia Kiene, director of the Westinghouse Home Economics Institute, points out that it will stay fresh for a period of two weeks or more and, of course, will not mold. Even if refrigerator space is at a premium, it is considered advisable to "make room" for bread, especially if one doesn't have a regular bread box.

Prevents Rusting

To prevent radiators from rusting, Westinghouse home economics go over them with an oiled cloth.

To The Voters Of Cooke County

I, Si A. McCollum, have not run or held a public office before nor have I ever had a relative to run and hold a public office before.

I am a veteran of World War II, but I am not using this as a means to seek the public office of County tax assessor-collector. I am running for this office on my own qualifications, completion of college plus advance courses, plus eight years experience in bookkeeping and accounting.

I am 35 years old, and I put my character, knowledge and experience before the public as being as good for and efficient as any man in the profession.

I deeply appreciate and solicit the support and influence of every person in Cooke County.

Respectfully

Si A. McCollum

Candidate for Tax Assessor-Collector

(Pol. Adv.)

Randolph O'Brien

ASKS FOR RE-ELECTION AS

County Superintendent Of Schools

I earnestly solicit the consideration and support of the people of Cooke County upon the premise that I have:

FIRST: I am Trained for the job I now hold.
I hold the M.A. degree in school administration and wrote my thesis upon the subject "History of Schools in Cooke County, Texas."

SECOND: I have eighteen (18) years of experience in this phase of the school business.
I was reared in Cooke County, served as principal in the rural schools of the county until you gave me the honor and privilege of serving as your county superintendent. All of my experience has been as an administrator in the rural schools — and that is what most of my work consists of now.

THIRD: I have tried my best to give you an efficient and fair administration.
You know whether you like it or not. If you do, I would like to serve you further.

FOURTH: I will let my record speak for itself.
I kindly refer anyone to the trustees of the many districts to the teachers and other employees who have served under me. Without their splendid cooperation, no progress could have been made; and without their good will now, I would not want the office.

Upon the above points, I base my case. Whether or not I have a case is for you, the citizens and school patrons of Cooke County, to decide. I promise to graciously accept your decision.

Randolph O'Brien

would subject him to a stiff fine and possible imprisonment. Radio censorship would not permit it, but Rainey insists the book is proper for required reading.

So much for Homer Rainey. We could almost dismiss Mack Taylor by saying the same words for him. The principal difference between them is the degree of crudeness. In addition to stereotyped pink expressions like "privileged few" and "special interests", Taylor has a fondness for cheap remarks like "tin-horn lawyers, cheap politicians, demagogues, and soap box orators". His method and speech qualify him very well for the names he calls others.

He, too, has lots of ideas for appropriations to entice the something-for-nothing element. He proposes to be most liberal with the taxpayers' money. He too, promises prosperity for all if the public consents to being placed in his kind of economic strait jacket.

Taylor rants and raves about Gossett's attempts to wreck the Democratic party. Ed hasn't been going down the line with the PAC pinks as Mack thinks he should have. What's the matter? Doesn't Mr. Taylor realize that there are two kinds of Democrats in Washington? The old line Democrats and the pink Democrats. The pinks have been trying to run the show, communist fashion, but the real Democrats, including Gossett, have been putting up a rather creditable fight for democracy.

If a fellow takes his political principles from peop: like Jefferson and Lincoln, if he believes in the rights and dignity of the individual, he can't complain about Gossett's record. However, if he believes in New Deal bureaucracy influenced by Reds and dominated by labor bosses, if he believes that the government is each person's nursemaid, if he believes that the individual is a mere impersonal cog in the big federal machine, it's easy to understand why he doesn't like Gossett.

What's so very, very sacred about the Democratic party, anyway? Are we to assume that a man elected on a Democratic ticket has to go overboard for everything with the Democratic label? No thanks, we want a man with principle to vote for or against a measure in his judgment and conscience dictate. The past ten years has shown us altogether too much yes-yes legislation.

Another earmark of communism is Taylor's hullabaloo about recalling the president's personal representative from the Vatican. Russia started that campaign months ago. It is one phase of the Red plot to cause dissension in this country, an issue over which to arouse antagonism between Catholics and Protestants, which in the end is calculated to make the country an easier pushover for complete communist domination. In these troubled times Taylor could serve his country much better by encouraging harmony than by agitating dissension among the creeds. His stand on that issue can have only two possible explanations, and both are smelly. He's stringing along with the Reds, or he's making a cheap bid for votes on grounds of religious prejudice — or both.

If a person believes in good old solid Americanism, as distinguished from the Red contaminated variety that left wing radicals have been trying to cram down our throats lately, Rainey and Taylor are two good guys to vote against.
