

Rumors have it at MISD Board meeting

By Janie Hartman and Scott Wood

Muenster ISD's Board of Trustees met Thursday night, March 15 at 7:30 p.m. in regular session to discuss personnel issues amid a sea of rumors surrounding potential coaching changes.

Rumors that spread like wildfire built a blaze under concerned parents, students, and teachers, who attended last Thursday's Muenster ISD's monthly Board meeting. Over 75 were present to give their support to Jeff Presnall, the District's technology director and girls coach.

Before the meeting adjourned, Coach Presnall would be rehired by a unanimous vote of the Board.

During the meeting, nearly 20 spoke out, voicing praises for Presnall, along with Monte Endres, and the success that the Muenster schools have had in the past.

Muenster ISD teacher Deb Klement was the first to comment. "We are here because of rumors, things that we heard, especially at school... It needs to stop."

"This all started because a parent complained because their child wasn't getting enough playing time," parent

Phil Endres said. "I don't understand how the Board can micro-manage a teacher. We have something to be proud of. We have to hold on to that."

Kim Hess Walterscheid also talked about MISD's "Tradition of Success," and the things that can't be numbered - honesty, responsibility, discipline, and morality, to name a few. "Our players learn so much more than just to win games. With Jeff Presnall coaching, we will continue to be a success," she said.

"When we have a coach like Jeff Presnall, it is our responsibility to do what we can to keep him here," stated Lee Buddy, another concerned parent. "This is an embarrassment to the entire community. Here we are with a couple of parents... whining and crying when they don't get their way." Buddy noted that Presnall has a 112 win, 18 loss record at MHS, with 20 playoff games out of a possible 31.

Tim Felderhoff also heard the rumors, noting that both Presnall and Endres have "very good" programs. "Life is not always fair and easy. Athletics is meant to build character," he said.

"No one needs equal playing time," Carol Walterscheid Grewing told the Board. "If equal - let everyone compete in UIL and everyone be a cheerleader." Grewing also reminded the Board of all the technology work Presnall does and how hard it would be to replace him. "He needs a 7-0 vote to rehire," she said.

At 7:47, Board President Ronnie Felderhoff announced that the Board was going to adjourn into executive session, and everyone was temporarily dismissed. Seventeen minutes later, the meeting reopened to the public. Felderhoff "skipped down the agenda" and a motion was made to rehire Jeff Presnall. The motion carried with a 7-0 vote.

Comments and audience participation continued after the vote, as more of those present expressed appreciation for the job being done by Coach Presnall.

Pat Fuhrmann noted that high school prepares children for life. "The world is about competition. Everything we do in high school is competitive. We (MISD) have such a successful program." Fuhrmann added that Presnall and Endres take an interest in everyone - in all our children. "It's their job. They have to make the decisions," she said.

Past Board President Clifford Sicking asked the Board to give the coaches their "total unanimous" support. He also thanked those present for coming, noting, "bad things happen when good people don't care."

Peggy Lutkenhaus, also a past MISD Board member, noted that the Board hired a superintendent to run the school. She said, "Let him run it! What I see is a parent problem, not a kid problem. Kids are kids, they are going to gripe. Let them get over it. You (the Board) need to do your job and not micro-manage the staff."

Another past Board member and retired longtime teacher at MISD, Rudy Koessler had his own view. He stated, "It's kind of an embarrassment... It's not a School Board problem. These problems should all have been solved at the Administration level. Let them do their job. This way tears everything apart... makes the kids feel bad. This is not the way a school should be run."

Of the many students present, several basketball players voiced student support of Coach Presnall. "Over the past seven years, the Lady Hornets have established some pretty amazing things," noted Megan Felderhoff, on their successful seasons under Coach Presnall. She continued, "How can anyone complain? He (Presnall) is an amazing man. I can vouch for all the girls on the team. He has taught us to be winners in life - that is what we needed. Not many coaches can get that many girls together and not have cat fights."

Rebecca Grewing said she couldn't picture basketball without Presnall next year. "He knows what he is doing. Please do whatever you can to keep him," she said.

Sandy Endres stated, "Coach P. always said you have to know your rules. He has taught every one of us how to be better on the court and to be better in life. I think of him as my second dad. We

Duo go to jail after Muenster burglaries

By Janet Felderhoff

Gary Wade Porter, age 19, and Joseph Edward Coleman, age 17, both of Muenster, were booked into the Cooke County Justice Center early Wednesday morning by Muenster Police Chief Bob Stovall. They are charged with burglary of a building.

A traffic stop of a yellow Ford Mustang by the Gainesville Police Department led to the discovery of 24 handguns, rifles, and shotguns, lots of ammunition, and cash. There were three people in the vehicle which is owned by Porter. Besides the two who were arrested, there was a juvenile female in the vehicle.

According to Chief Stovall, the juvenile was released, but he anticipates charges being filed against her for burglary of a building.

The burglaries are thought to have occurred sometime between 1 and 3 a.m. on Wednesday, March 14. Chief Stovall said that he received a call on a possible break in at Gehrig's Hardware on Main Street at 3:20 a.m. When he arrived, he noted that firearms were missing. He called the owner to determine what was missing.

Stovall then got the call about the firearms and cash in the Mustang. He went to confirm that those were the items taken from Gehrig's.

Entry was forced into Bayer's Kolonialwaren at 824 East Division Street and cash stolen from that business.

Stovall reported that all of the firearms and money missing from both businesses were recovered. He indicated that investigation is still ongoing and that there may be more persons involved.

Burglary of a building is a state jail felony. Porter and Coleman are both being held on five counts at $6,000 bond for a total of $30,000 bond a piece.

The previous evening, a fire alarm went off at First State Bank of Saint Jo, Muenster Branch, 519 East Division Street. It was 7:15 p.m. when the alarm sounded. Chief Stovall and the Muenster Volunteer Fire Department responded. No sign of fire was discovered.

Love of the ride carries couple to Cooke County

By Janet Felderhoff

Uwe and Jutta Roeschmann love horses and make their livelihood working with them. The couple migrated to Texas from Germany about four years ago. They live in Gainesville, but have set up their working arena north of Muenster.

Originally, Uwe came from Hamburg in the north part of Germany. Jutta came from Nuremberg in south Germany.

Competition is what drew Uwe to the United States. "I've shown horses over here and I've shown in Europe, pretty much all my life," noted Uwe. He said he won the European championships 12 times and is a multi German champion. "For me it is more riding a horse than having a big title," stated Uwe. "Especially in Europe. Over here it is a little different story. You have to make your business and a lot of people look for your title."

The German horseman admits that showing cutting horses is his passion. Uwe enjoys the cutting horse competition more than other types of competition because around here it feels like a big family. He said, "You meet so many new people. They are competitive, but they still work with you and help you. People are really friendly around here. Even when you aren't from a different country, they still help you in every corner they can help." He thinks it is a better sport for meeting people.

"The biggest thing for me is what a cutting horse does in the cutting pen. You can train a lot of things to a horse, but in the end, the style - how a horse looks at the cow, it's not trainable," remarked Uwe. "Either a horse has got it or they don't."

"I think that's the most exciting thing in the world to watch and for sure to ride (a cutting horse). It's the most fun. You've got the best seat in the house! It is so much fun to watch a good cutting horse. There is nothing better for me when I see a horse working a cow - how beautiful and how outstanding to watch."

Uwe modestly said that riding a cutting horse is not that hard. "I won't say it's real easy, but it's not that hard," he said. "If you can walk, trot, lope, and stop, you can probably ride a cutting horse. It looks harder than it really is. When you watch a cow and see where she goes, you kind of get into the deal. If you look off for a second, you will probably hit the ground, especially if you are not used to it."

How people in Germany feel about cutting horse competitions and horses differs from here. "Over there, it's more hobby than here," explained Uwe of the cutting competition. "Here is a real business. Over in Europe it is kind of a hobby for people.

They buy a horse and the horse dies with the family. It's kind of like our dogs, so when they buy a horse it stays forever. Here, people buy and sell horses. There's a lot more business over here. And, the cutting industry comes from here, so if you want to show in the cutting horse business, you have to be in Texas, I guess. Around here (north Texas area) is probably the most competitive, toughest area in the whole world."

The toughness of the cutting horse competitions was learned the hard way by Uwe. He admitted, "I was a little spoiled coming over here, you know. In Europe I won everything and then coming over here, for the first year or two, it took me (time) to get used to it. Now we are doing pretty good." He is leading the SoonTex area for last year in two divisions and he won the Paint Futurity in Stephenville on a horse that he trained over here. He's not won the big shows yet. That requires earning your way up, he said.

The style of the competitions is the same. What is different is that in Europe, there might be 30 horses at a competition, while here there may be 100 horses in a competition. There are different people every weekend around here, and in Europe, it's always the same.

As a youth, Uwe rode horses. In the early 1980s, quarter horses were introduced in Germany. "As a kid you see the big cowboys on the TV, and we started like that," recalls Uwe. Traditionally in Europe, dressage, jumping, and cross country were the equine sport competitions.

According to Uwe, the whole event agenda changed in the last 20 years. Now horsemanship clinics are offered. The American Quarter Horse Association (AQHA) opened a new area for riding horses by introducing western style riding. People joked at first that it wasn't really riding, it was people with cowboy hats on. "They found out after a while that they do a lot of things different, but in their own way they have more disciplines like western pleasure, horsemanship, reining, and cutting."

Comparing Germany to the United States, he noted that Germany has 10 different styles. In the U.S. they can do so many different things with choices like team roping, roping, etc. He said that for a country, Germany now ranks fourth or fifth with the largest number of quarter horses in the world. People are coming to the United States to compete with their horses and some even have ranches here in the U.S.

Uwe trained horses in Germany for 25 years. When the couple decided to move to Texas, they started out looking for property in the Whitesboro area. They met Loyd Trubenbach about a year ago. Uwe credits Loyd with helping him find their current location near Muenster. Loyd also furnishes Uwe with all the cattle he needs for training the cutting horses.

"It's pretty hard to find a good place where you've got everything like an inside arena like we have here. Cattle is the biggest thing," noted Uwe. "You can find a lot of places, but you've got to have cattle and cattle are pretty high. Loyd is in the cattle business."

Besides training cutting horses and competing with them, Uwe trains people in regular horsemanship, from beginners to the more advanced. Uwe also assists people when they want to find the right horse.

"We get a lot of customers from Europe coming over," Uwe said. Two people from Munich had just left and the next week they were expecting someone from the Czech Republic. "There are always some Europeans coming over. We sell a lot of horses to Europe. It's a good business," said Uwe.

Some of the horses are bought already trained, others they buy young and train. At this time he has five horses belonging to European customers. The Roeschmanns

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Letter to Editor:

There has been some talk among Crappie fishermen that they intend to stock Crappie themselves at the new lake the first chance they can get. That would be a very bad mistake. Most knowledgeable fishermen in the area know how important the stocking timetable is to developing a good fishing lake. But the rumors indicate there are others who do not.

According to Texas Parks biologists there is a set timetable for introducing fish species into a new lake. If the new lake is stocked properly, it has the potential to be a world-class fishing lake. If specific species like Bass and Crappie are introduced out of sequence, the lake will not develop and remain a poor fishing site.

Crappie and Bass are predator fish. For them to grow large, and in larger numbers, there must be a large supply of other fish these predators can feed upon. The stocking sequence starts first with minnows, which are allowed to breed into the millions. Then Bluegill and Cat are introduced and allowed to grow to a size so they are less likely to be eaten by predator species. These larger "baitfish" become breeding-stock and provide a continuous supply of food for Bass and Crappie.

Introduction of Crappie and Bass before the bait fish have had time to develop will wipe out the small bait fish and limit the numbers and size of Bass and Crappie when they are finally introduced.

The process is simple, but so important to the development of a great fishing lake. Butch Fisher told me that of all the college courses in Wildlife Management he took, he recalls the stocking process as the most important to the success of a great fishing lake. Done correctly he said, "We can be pulling trophy fish out in three to four years."

District Attorney Cindy Stormer was among approximately 20 elected District Attorneys in Texas asked by the Texas District and County Attorney's Association to attend the House Committee meetings in Austin recently regarding allegations of abuse against residents at Texas Youth Commission (TYC) facilities. Testimony from prosecutors indicated that such incidents would be taken seriously.

Stormer remarked, "The officials that I spoke with in Austin agreed with me that Cooke County has one of the better run facilities in Texas. Paul Bartush and his staff at the State School are very professional and do an exemplary job. There have been no reports here of the type of sexual abuse that went on recently in other facilities."

Alison Teafatiller expressed support saying, "Why would anyone want to change his coaching methods? He makes us want to go the extra mile... A coach who would do anything for our school... He is what a coach should be."

Jordan Ledbetter noted she's the senior who didn't get to play a lot. "I'm on the team to be a part... to have fun, to make friends. I learned more than to just shoot a basketball. He (Presnall) taught me so much more. This was my best year in basketball," she said.

While those in attendance were staunch in their support for Presnall, the Board and Administration maintained that any concerns were based on rumors only.

MISD Superintendent David Manley said, "One word has been used throughout - rumors. It's built, it's grown, it's been an animal in itself. The rumor got carried away - grown out of control," Manley told the crowd. "If someone comes in to say good or bad things - I have to listen. As rumors go - step back."

Board President Felderhoff also indicated that the whole issue is about rumors. "Things got distorted, turned around. It is an embarrassment."

"This is one bad rumor," said Board member Jim Endres. "If this ever happens again... Go to the Administration. The Board has never discussed firing any coach."

Leon Klement, Board member, added, "As far as the rumor is concerned, we (the Board) were all floored by what happened. We never discussed personnel except for the Superintendent and Principals."

keep a horse for one to two years to train them before shipping them back overseas. The horse owners often spend several weeks here while they learn how to work the horse Uwe trained for them.

The Roeschmanns' being able to speak English and German makes it easier on the customers who come from another country to learn how to handle their horses.

How does rural life in Germany compare to our Texas rural life? "We love being in the United States," reflected Uwe. "I think its an honor being over here. It's our passion to live over here. It's my living, my lifestyle." Before they met, Jutta worked on a dude ranch in Arizona for a while.

Pointing to a pasture near the Cler subdivision, Uwe said, "Looking at that pasture, in Germany you have probably about 200 houses on there. I think Germany fits like three times in Texas. It's a lot more combined, a lot more people. There's not a lot of space. Especially for me, there is not that many horses and businesses for what we're doing."

In Germany, they utilize indoor arenas for riding purposes. Everything is much smaller. "People are a little different," noted Uwe. "Over here, especially in Texas, it is kind of history to have horses and grow up with horses. In Europe, the whole horse business came through the military. There was no use really for working horses like we have over here. In Europe, the history was always the military had horses and maybe some farmers, but they don't use them like here for cattle drives and stuff like that. Over here, the horse business came from the cattle drives and all that, so they had working horses. The whole idea about horses here is a lot different." Uwe said here it is not unusual to see horses in backyards, but it isn't done here.

Jutta's part in the business includes doing the billing and bookwork, organizing clinics and programs for people, feeding the horses, cleaning stalls, and saddling and warming up the horses before Uwe works with them. She also takes clients on shopping trips or other activities that they might enjoy.

Uwe and Jutta met at a cutting competition in Germany. They work together each day here in Texas to make a success of their new business.

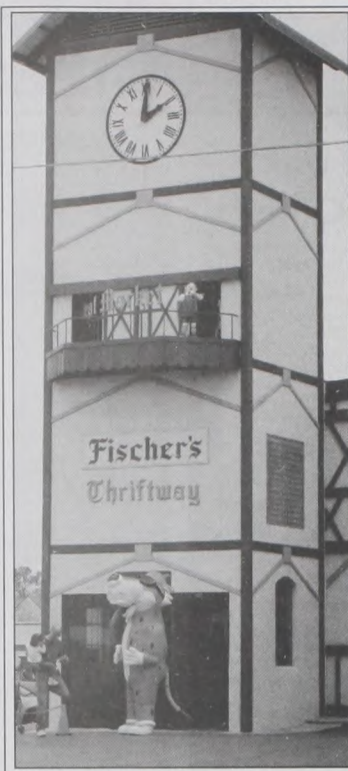

Jutta brought her personal horse with her from Germany. Also traveling to the United States with the couple were the three dogs that they refer to as their kids.

Future plans for the Roeschmanns include buying a place of their own. Uwe said that is their biggest goal now. First they will build their clientele and get more of their European customers involved. They really like the Muenster area and hope to build their own facility somewhere in the Muenster area.

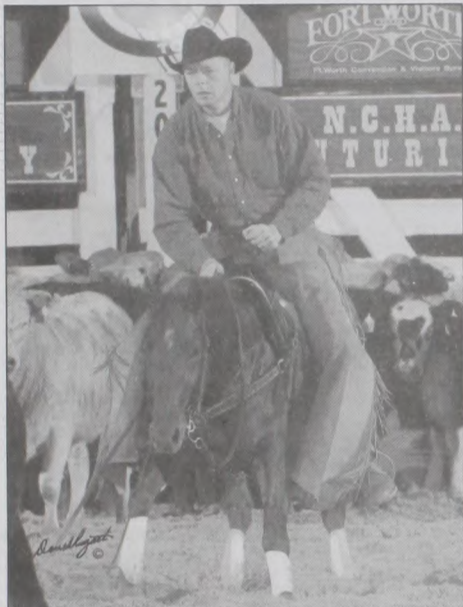

Clinics and lessons will continue to be a part of the services that the Roeschmanns offer. Uwe welcomes all students who are interested in taking lessons. "We take a total beginner who has never sat on a horse and help get them started," he noted. "Also in horsemanship, we bring them to a level where they can go wherever they want to go like pleasure, reigning, cutting, whatever." Most people bring their own horse and Uwe prefers that.

He likes to see the students with their own horse to see if there is a communication problem between the horse and the rider. He said 15 is about the youngest that he likes to teach, although he's done special clinics for some younger students.

"I want to make sure that they get something for their money," he concluded. "A horse is not a toy, and a lot of people with small kids treat it like a toy, and that's not my style. People can get in serious trouble if they don't understand (how) to communicate with the horse."

Fuhrmann honored on 25 years with Post Office

The employees of the Muenster Post Office congratulated Linda Fuhrmann on more than 25 years of service. "Linda has been a dedicated employee who has exhibited the friendliness and professionalism that all businesses desire in a customer service representative," remarked Muenster Postmaster Damon Reynolds. "Linda is essential in providing the level of service the Postal Service has based upon and continually strives to improve. ## Hot dry spring forecast for north Texas

Last week, the Climate Prediction Center released their Spring Weather Outlook for the April/May/June period. The outlook and the national story can be viewed at: <http://www.noaa.gov/newsroom/stories2007/s2818.htm>

This is not good news for north Texas. Although the signals are not overly strong, we are in a signal for above normal temperatures and below normal precipitation through the spring. During December and January, we saw a "split" in the jet stream. One branch was over the northern U.S., while an active southern branch was present over much of the southern and southeastern U.S. This southern branch helped provide the active and unsettled weather we saw, especially in late December and early January. Over the past few weeks, we've seen a shift to more of a single, consolidated jet stream over the middle part of the country. This has helped shift us to a drier weather pattern, with the exception of the weather system earlier this week.

The drought outlook, also just released, suggests some improvement in drought conditions over our western counties, with no significant change elsewhere. This area of improvement can be attributed to an expected increase in thunderstorm activity during the latter part of March.

We must remember that these seasonal outlooks are averages over the three-month period. We will likely see variations in conditions throughout the season, and we will probably have several severe weather events through the spring as well. Remember that in 2006, despite the drought, we had major severe weather events in March, April, and May.

We also must remember that the temperature and precipitation outlooks don't tell us HOW MUCH above or below normal we might be. Instead, they simply give the probability of being SOMEWHERE above or below normal.

Lightning fascinating, potentially deadly

Each year an estimated 25 million lightning flashes strike the earth. Lightning is fascinating to watch but it is also deadly. Of all the types of storm threats, only flooding causes more deaths than lightning.

Over the past 40 years, Texas ranked second in the nation behind Florida in the total number of lightning fatalities. Most occurred in the spring and summer months when thunderstorms were most frequent and outdoor activities were at their peak. All thunderstorms produce lightning and every flash of cloud-to-ground lightning is a potential killer. Although some victims are struck directly by the main visible lightning stroke, many other victims are struck as the current moves in or along the ground.

Lightning is attracted mainly to tall targets and metal targets. If lightning begins to strike avoid high places and tall isolated trees. Do not lean on metal fences or use metal equipment like golf clubs or tennis racquets. You are protected inside a car or vehicle. The tires are not grounding the vehicle. The metal in the vehicle body is absorbing and spreading the lightning strike over the whole body, weakening the charge. That allows the charge to leak into the ground through the tires.

Lightning can strike as far as 10 miles away from the rain area in a thunderstorm, about the distance from a storm you can hear thunder. So, if you can hear thunder, you are in the danger zone of the storm. You can estimate your distance to a lightning strike by the "hand rule" or "rule of five". Count the seconds from the flash of lightning to the bang of thunder. For every five seconds, lightning is one mile away.

Follow the 30/30 safety rule when lightning strikes. The first 30 means that if your flash-to-bang count is less than 30 seconds, you are in danger and should move indoors immediately. The second 30 says you should stay in that safe location until you have not heard thunder for at least 30 minutes.

So, 30 seconds or less of flash-to-bang, go to shelter. Stay there until it has been free of thunder for 30 seconds. If lightning is in the area and your hair suddenly stands on end, you may be a lightning target. Again, move indoors to safety as quickly as possible.

Follow these guidelines to make sure you stay safe in lightning.

Texas wildflower hotline available

Motorists searching for the best wildflower locations along Texas highways have help at their fingertips. The Texas Department of Transportation's wildflower hotline (800-452-9292) gives users information on the best spots to find wildflowers along the Texas highway system.

The wildflower hotline, available as part of the menu for the road conditions hotline, is active through early May. The hotline has a recording available 24 hours a day telling where wildflowers are by selecting option two. Travel counselors are also available as a new hotline feature from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m. seven-days-a-week, except Easter Sunday.

To make it easier to find wildflowers in bloom, hotline callers may request information by seven regions of the state: Big Bend, Gulf Coast, Hill Country, Panhandle, Pinyon-Woods (East Texas),

TASWA supports TCOG HHW events, expands Recycling Center

At a recent meeting of Texoma Area Solid Waste Authority (TASWA), the Board authorized support for TCOG's May 5 Household Hazardous Waste (HHW) events in Gainesville and Bonham. The HHW events are made possible by a grant from the Texas Commission on Environmental Quality and this is the first time they are scheduled for the outlying counties. TASWA's support will be in the form of waived disposal fees for non-hazardous waste and possibly a reduction in disposal cost for tires and used oil. Mayor Glenn Loch, Gainesville, commented "This is a great opportunity to extend this service to Cooke and Fannin County residents which have previously had to travel all the way to Sherman in prior years' events."

In further action, Dale Sisney, TASWA executive director, explained the process for expanded capacity of the recycling center at the landfill as a result of a TCEQ grant recommended by TCOG through its Environmental Program. Expansion has been necessary due to the increased response from county residents and comes at a time when Sherman's recycling facility at Albertson was recently closed. Mayor Bill Magers, Sherman, said "The option for all county residents to utilize the recycling center at the TASWA disposal facility is extremely important to measure the continued interest in citizen-initiated recycling". The TASWA Recycling Center accepts oil, filters, paper, cardboard, glass, aluminum and scrap metal at no charge.

Judge Drue Bynum, Grayson County, expressed his interest in TASWA taking a leadership role in expanded recycling opportunities in the region as population increases impact disposal capacity at the landfill. Hours of operation for the TASWA disposal facility are Monday-Friday 7 a.m.-4:30 p.m. and Saturday 7 a.m.-1 p.m. For more information, visit the TASWA website at www.taswa.com or call 903-564-4749.

Prairies and Lakes (North Central Texas), and South-west Texas.

"Wildflower growth will probably be above average due to the most recent rain, although the drought did reduce germination in the fall in much of the state," said Dennis Markwardt, director of TxDOT Vegetation Management.

TxDOT spreads more than 20,000 pounds of wildflower seeds along Texas highway rights of way each year. Each pound contains 30 or more varieties of wildflowers.

The statewide locator map for wildflower blossoms is available on the TxDOT webpage at HYPERLINK "http://www.txdot.org/www.txdot.gov" by clicking on Travel on "Wildflowers."

This area has a written summary of wildflower growth as well as an enlargeable map featuring "wildflower-power" sites, marked with colored circles representing wildflower varieties in bloom.

The Department's wildflower effort is part of a vegetation-management program encouraging the growth of native species that require less mowing and care.

Big catfish tale unfolds

A tug-of-war between a large catfish and a surprised fisherman drew a crowd of spectators at Weinzapfel Lake last Thursday. Samuel Garrison of Muenster was fishing from his boat for crappie with a Zebro rod and reel, 12 pound test line, and a crappie jig he'd bought at Kountry Korner. He caught a fish that pulled him about the lake as he fought a two and one-half hour battle to land it. When Garrison finally got his unexpected catch out of the water, its size was awesome. It weighed 42 pounds and measured 42 inches in length.

Wet distiller's grains could play a role in cattle diets

Wet sorghum distiller's grains can be fed in a steam-flaked corn ration without affecting efficiencies, said two researchers.

The two four-month cattle finishing experiments with yearling heifers were conducted by Dr. Mike Brown, and Dr. Andy Cole.

Designed to gain more information on the feeding value of wet sorghum distiller's grains plus solubles, the study included 400 head of cattle. These cattle were divided between two study periods, April 27-Aug. 14 and July 28-Dec. 8, with eight replications of five treatments, Brown said.

"We wanted to determine what the trade-off is when you substitute wet distiller's grains for some of the steam-flaked corn and cottonseed meal," Brown said. "Also, there hadn't been any studies previously to assess the value of the fat within the distiller's grains."

Two of the treatments were standardized, based on steam-flaked corn diets with no wet distiller's grains, while three of the diets had 15% of the ration dry matter as wet sorghum distiller's grains. The distiller's grains replaced a combination of 35% cottonseed meal and 65% steam-flaked corn, he said.

Yellow grease was added to the steam-flaked corn diets as a fat source because the distiller's grains have a higher fat content than the original grain, Cole said. The energy-dense fat helps tie the ration together, making it less dusty.

In the long run, with 8% to 10% fat, wet distiller's grains have a number of advantages over dried distiller's grains, including greater nutritive value and elimination of the added expense of drying, he said. However, the disadvantage is hauling the water, so they must be from a local source.

Within the study, heifers receiving the wet distiller's grains and solubles ate about 5% more and gained about 5% more, so the feed efficiency was the same in comparison to those that did not receive it, Brown said.

The net energy value for gain of the distiller's grain based on animal performance was 80% of that used for steam-flaked corn, Brown said. Those numbers determine what the exchange is, or what the nutritive values are for competing ingredients.

Nutritionists and feedyard managers can factor in costs — the price of distiller's grains, cottonseed meal, yellow grease, which all change over time — to determine what is more economical, Cole said.

Another consideration in feeding a wet distiller's grain is the ration has more total weight to be delivered to the bunk, he said.

The data suggests a feedlot would need to deliver 10% more feed if feed trucks are filled to the same volume, or 23% more if feed trucks are filled to the same total weight.

Cooke County Farm Bureau kicks off barn raising drive

Cooke County Farm Bureau President Kenneth Sicking (right) presents a donation to Cooke County Fair Association President Don Hunter for $5,000 for the construction of a new ag complex. The Board of Directors of Farm Bureau, locally elected agriss-business, felt a contribution to this project represents what Farm Bureau means locally. "We feel that this complex will help showcase the agriculture production of Cooke County and allow for a centrally located facility that can be used for cattle sales, ag production meetings, youth events, and other related activities which highlight the vital contribution that agriculture and all its related businesses bring to Cooke County. Help us rebuild a need for youth education, recreation, promotional, social, and economic events," they said. Donations are tax deductible and can be made at area banks or by calling 665-2495.

PUBLIC NOTICE BRIEF EXPLANATORY STATEMENT CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT SPECIAL ELECTION MAY 12, 2007

PROPOSITION 1 (SJR 13)

SJR 13 would amend the Constitution to authorize the legislature to adjust the public school ad valorem tax or tax rates for taxpayers who are aged 65 or older, or are disabled, and who are owners of an exempted homestead. The amendment would thereby allow the legislature to provide tax relief to such elderly or disabled taxpayers who did not receive tax relief as a result of the school tax rate reduction passed in the 79th Legislature, 3rd called session.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows: "The constitutional amendment authorizing the legislature to provide for a reduction of the limitation on the total amount of ad valorem taxes that may be imposed for public school purposes on the residence homesteads of the elderly or disabled to reflect any reduction in the rate of those taxes for the 2006 and 2007 tax years."

COUNTY AGENT'S REPORT

WAYNE BECKER
CEA - AG/NR

National Ag Week
National Agriculture Week, which this year runs March 18-24, is an annual event to honor the hard work and dedication of farmers, ranchers, and producers involved in agriculture across the nation. National Agriculture Day occurs every year on the first day of spring, so on March 21, we recognize agriculture for providing safe, abundant and affordable products, a strong economy, a source of renewable energy, and a world of job opportunities. But the entire week is an occasion to show appreciation for our farmers and ranchers and to acknowledge the increasing importance of agriculture in our world today.

The commerce of agriculture is more than those who plant and harvest crops or tend livestock. The industry may begin with growing and producing food, fiber, and other agricultural commodities, but it ends with almost everything we eat, wear, and use. We all depend on the tradition and heritage of American agriculture. The agricultural industry provides most of life's necessities — food, fiber, clothing, and shelter.

American farmers and ranchers work harder now than ever before, and it shows. Agricultural crops rank as our nation's top exports, and each American producer feeds more than 129 people with their production.

Texas is the second-largest agricultural state in the United States, accounting for about 7% of the total U.S. agricultural income. Eighty percent of the land in Texas is in some form of agricultural production, with 92% of Texas' agricultural operations still run by individuals or families.

Texas ranks first in the nation in the number of cattle and calves and first in the number of cattle operations and the value of all cattle and calves.

Texas is the top producer of cotton, hay, sheep, wool, goats, mohair, and horses.

Developing an Earth Kind landscape

Developing an Earth Kind landscape for homes and businesses can pose some unique challenges. Wise plant selection, careful soil preparation, proper after planting care, and efficient irrigation practices are all essential elements of a well thought out Earth Kind landscape.

There are no hard and fast rules, since conditions vary from location to location, but by following some basic Earth Kind principles, your chances for success will be greatly increased while preserving and protecting our natural environment.

The starting point for every successful Earth Kind landscape is a good plan, preferably on paper and not just in your mind. The process involved in drawing up a landscape design will: 1) help you understand, organize, and develop the site for the best use and enjoyment; 2) create a visual relationship between the house/business and the site; 3) a good plan can also help reduce the overall maintenance level that will be required and assist in creating a sustainable landscape environment.

A professional landscape designer or architect can greatly assist in the design process. Help can be as simple as generating ideas for the site to as detailed as a completed blueprint design and help with installation.

The steps involved in the planning process begin with a base plan. The base plan (a scale drawing) includes all the major features of the property, including the house, property lines, easements, existing walks, drives, fences, trees, etc. The base plan should also indicate compass and prevailing wind directions. Once this plan is completed, you can place tracing paper over it and sketch many possible ideas and solutions to your landscape needs and problems.

To help organize your thoughts, list which things are needed to satisfy your requirements and life-style. Study your site to determine where shade and wind protection are needed; where privacy is desired; and which open views are to be preserved. Realize any potential limitations of your site and plan accordingly. When considering how to develop the site, preserve as much existing vegetation as possible, including trees, shrubs, vines, and grasses. These native plants are naturally adapted to the site conditions. Every effort should be made to incorporate them into the design wherever possible.

Keep in mind that a landscape is not just a group of plants arranged in a certain way. Design is a problem-solving process. By applying Earth Kind principles you can design a landscape that is not only functional and attractive, but also helps in creating a healthy and sustainable environment.
