

Commissioners Court enacts burn ban

By Janet Felderhoff
In an emergency meeting held Thursday, Jan. 17, Cooke County Commissioners Court joined other counties in the area by establishing a ban on outdoor burning in unincorporated areas of Cooke County. Cooke County Judge Bill Freeman noted that the emergency meeting had been called due to "the imminent danger to the public as a result of multiple grass fires being reported as of Jan. 15."

The burn ban is set for 90 days from the date it was ordered, unless the ban is terminated earlier based on a determination made by the Texas Forest Service or Commissioners Court. The burn ban order stated, "This Order does not prohibit outdoor burning activities related to public health and safety that are authorized by the Texas Natural Resources Commission for (1) firefighter training; (2) public utility, natural gas pipeline, or mining operations; (3) planting or harvesting of agricultural crops; or (4) burns that are conducted by a prescribed manager certified under Section 153.048, Natural Resources Code, and meet the standards of Section 153.047, Texas Natural Resources Code."

Prior to voting on the ban the Court heard from County Emergency Management Coordinator/County Fire Marshal Ray Fletcher and Cooke County Firefighters Organization President Herbie Knabe. Both offered support for the outdoor burn ban.

According to Fletcher, the overall Keetch-Byram Drought Index (KBDD) in Cooke County is 436. The high is in the north central part of the County with a KBDD of 526 and the low in the County is 301.

Fletcher remarked, "Typically during the normal year we kind of rely on the KBDD to indicate how dry we really are. The number becomes a lot less material during the winter months. We have the winter cured fuels that we have out there." He said now rain just means that the fire trucks get stuck easier.

Fletcher said he got a report that day from the climatic Data Center that indicates the next three months should be drier and warmer and the County could possibly be in a drought development area. "Right now we are in an abnormally dry period," he said. "With the winter cured fuels that are even more abundant than they would normally be because of all the rain we had over the summer, the dryness that we are experiencing, and what we experienced recently over the last couple of months, I don't think people are taking these conditions as seriously as they should. We've seen a significant number of fires from careless burning. Seven or eight out of the last 10 fires have been from burning trash or debris and not watching their fires, not having a properly established break around it, and not setting up to monitor their burns. I think the only thing we can do to protect the people and the properties from the conditions that I think we are going to start experiencing even more until we do get spring rain and warm up is to put on a burn ban that will hopefully make it through that period."

Knabe agreed, "The problem is that people are not watching what they burn. They set it on fire, walk off, and leave, and it gets away from them. That is where a lot of our problems are coming from right now. I think a burn ban is what you need."

Fletcher said that currently they are sending three fire departments to every fire call, which gives them a good jump on the fire. He said that has been helping keep the burned area down to 20 to 30 acres. "It is certainly a real compliment to their capability and their actions," praised Fletcher. "They also have jobs, and families, and businesses. We shouldn't be wasting their time running on these careless fires. People should have a little more respect for them than to do that."

A violation of the burn ban is a Class C misdemeanor punishable by a fine not to exceed $500.

CCEC moves forward with new meter installations

By Janet Felderhoff
Keeping abreast of modern technology, Cooke County Electric Cooperative (CCEC) is currently replacing its members' residential electric meters. During January and February, Automatic Meter Reading (AMR) devices are being installed. This new meter gives the Electric Cooperative the capability to read its members' meters over the power lines at the Muenster office.

"With Climate change and the environment ever on the forefront, our AMR system will help with engineering and operational analysis and reduce greenhouse gases," remarked CCEC General Manager Neil Hesse. "Electricity generation and transportation are attributed as the top two emitters of greenhouse gases. We will be able to take 2-3 vehicles out of our fleet by reading the meters from the office. The AMR system also enables us to do engineering and operational studies from the office which may be able to help prevent or lessen outages and outage times."

CCEC noted that AMRs allow for effective and efficient monitoring of its electrical system in this area. It will also allow the Cooperative to offer more up-to-date member information than has previously been possible.

According to CCEC, functions of the AMR include fast, on-demand reads, which equals one call resolution to resolve billing complaints, and provides real time energy usage. AMR can also pinpoint power outages, improving power quality (outages and end-of-line voltage monitoring) and help identify outages for seasonal homes. Verification of power restoration and verification of proper loading of transformers and operation of equipment are other pluses to the new meter system.

As part of the system upgrade, CCEC is installing a Carrier Control Unit (CCU) at each of the 16 Brazos substations connected to CCEC lines. The CCU places a signal on the power line that is recognized at each residential meter on that substation. Then that signal allows CCEC to communicate and request information from each residential meter when necessary. About 150 days of 15-minute intervals of information can be stored on the AMR residential meter. That allows historical data to be downloaded by CCEC to improve service and power quality to its members.

Door hangers are being placed on front doors to explain this process to CCEC members.

Chief Appraiser Doug Smithson stressed that all County taxes are due Jan. 31. Muenster State Bank acquired the depository bid for the CCAD. Prosperity had the contract.

Christine Weinzapfel of Muenster State Bank was the only representative of a bidding facility present. Weinzapfel noted, "We believe our bid is competitive. We have been in the County for over 84 years and we plan on being around for a long, long time."

Smithson said that one thing the CCAD is considering is an ACH for its deposits. Currently, there are 13 entities that they do write checks and make deposits out for on a daily basis and these are taken to each one of them. An ACH could save time.

All banks submitting bids were willing to do ACH.

Snuggs remarked, "I personally like the idea that the Muenster (State) Bank is a locally owned bank and is the only locally owned bank that we have on the list."

Partain said, "The question I've got is why would we spend $200 (for new checks) to go to Muenster State Bank. When I look at it, I don't see that much difference between them and Prosperity."

Snuggs said the only reason she leaned toward Muenster is that they are local and the others weren't.

Partain made a motion to stay with Prosperity, but it died for lack of a second. The vote for Muenster State Bank received a 4-0 approval.

Debbie Renner explained action needed on minimum acreage for wildlife management and wildlife property associations. She said that three actions were needed.

Renner said that wildlife management can be with a variety of animals. Working with the target management animal requires a lot of time, work, and energy. The two new Board members went on a wildlife management field review recently, she said. "It's something that the Legislature has come up with that is comparable with ag as far as a special valuation for property," Renner noted. "So it is a tax reduction by using the management." Three of seven things are required to get the designation. A plan showing what is being managed is required. Something like songbirds requires less acreage than an animal like a deer.

The motions made and approved were: a minimum acreage of 14.29 acres for the wildlife management guidelines; property associations 12.50 acres; and endangered, candidate, or threatened wildlife 11.11 acres. These were the same as recommended by Renner and wildlife biologist consultant Dan VanShake.

Appointment of members to the Appraisal Review Board (ARB) was discussed. Parker Yarbrough served the maximum six years (three two-year terms) and couldn't be reappointed to another term for two years. His replacement will be voted on at the next CCAD Board meeting. Bill Dareing and George Guy were willing to serve again and were unanimously reappointed to another term.

The other two members of the five person Board are David Bowman and Harold Flusche. It is the function of the ARB to hear and resolve disputes over appraisal matters that are brought before it. The ARB serves apart from the CCAD Board.

OBITUARIES

Frank Zimmerer

Mass of Christian Burial for Frank Herman Zimmerer, of Muenster, was held at 10 a.m. on Monday, Jan. 21 in Sacred Heart Church, with Rev. Ken Robinson celebrating the Mass. Burial followed in Sacred Heart Cemetery under the direction of McCoy Funeral Home of Muenster. Mr. Zimmerer died at the age of 89 at 6:43 a.m. on Saturday, Jan. 19, 2008 in Muenster.

Born Nov. 14, 1918 in Lindsay, Frank was the son of Herman and Rose Kuhn Zimmerer. He was raised in the Lindsay area and attended Lindsay School. Frank enlisted in the U.S. Army Air Force in April 1942. He attended a radio school in Los Angeles, became the Staff Sergeant in charge of erecting many radio towers, and served as a radio repairman. He was separated from the service in July 1944.

He then returned to farm and ranch in the Lindsay area, and for seven years in the Amarillo area. He also was a contract house builder in Amarillo. After seven years, Frank returned to the Leo area in Cooke County where he farmed and ranched for many years, priding himself in raising registered Angus cattle.

Frank married Lucille Wimmer Haverkamp on May 24, 1974 in Sacred Heart Church. They farmed and ranched for about two years after marriage. Frank then became a pumper for Gallo-way Oil Company, where he worked for 14 years, retiring in 1990. He was a great family man, loved to take his grandchildren fishing, enjoyed playing dominos with his family, prided himself in his yard work, enjoyed traveling; but his main hobby was raising prime Angus cattle.

Survivors are his wife Lucille Wimmer Haverkamp

Zimmerer of Muenster; daughter and son-in-law Gloria and Robert G. Klement of Muenster; grandchildren Scott Klement and wife Zonya, Melody Rohmer and husband Greg, Leslie Dangelmayr and husband Chris, Shelley Kline and husband Gary, and Justin Klement and wife Amanda; 11 great-grandchildren; sisters Marie H. Zimmerer of Lindsay, Agnes Betzen of Hereford, Betty Hellman of Lindsay, and Sr. Mary Rose Zimmerer, Sr. Herman Mary Zimmerer, and Sr. Barbara James Zimmerer, all of San Antonio; brothers Bernard Zimmerer of Amarillo, and Alcuin Zimmerer and Billy Zimmerer, both of Lindsay.

Frank was preceded in death by his parents; his brothers Clarence, Alvin, and Herman Jr.; and grandson Travis Klement.

Assisting at the funeral Mass were altar servers Sylvan Walterscheid and Butch Fisher. Granddaughters Melody Rohmer and Leslie Dangelmayr gave the First and Second Readings, respectively. Prayers of the Faithful were read by Shelley Kline, granddaughter. Great-granddaughters Kalya Dangelmayr and Lauren Rohmer carried the Offertory Gifts to the altar. Eucharistic ministers were nieces Barbara Nortman, Nancy Dobbs, Gina Ott, and Pat Wimmer, and cousin Viola Rohmer.

Music ministers were Christi Klement, Diane Grewing, Linda Flusche, and Jim Endres. Sacred songs included "How Great Thou Art," "Psalm of the Good Shepherd," "Edelweiss Blessing," "This Alone," "Only A Shadow," "Songs of the Angels," and "And I Will Follow."

Jerry Metzler, nephew, gave the eulogy. He said, in part, "...Paying proper respect to a man like Frank presents some challenges. As Lou told me last night, Frank wouldn't really have much use for this kind of talk about him. But it is important to value a life like Frank Zimmerer lived... Frank obviously enjoyed his brothers and sisters... was a big brother in the best sense - providing guidance and the perspective of experience, but not by bossing and being a pain.

"Later in his life, Frank met Lou and when they married he became a father and grandfather... Frank and Lou enjoyed each other and enjoyed life together... (he) embraced his role as a father and grandfather.

"Frank was a very kind and gentle man, yet he was strong and hard working. Men like Frank worked hard, not for riches and fame, but because hard work was a reward itself. A life like Frank Zimmerer's is an inspiration to all of us..."

Pallbearers were Scott Klement, Justin Klement, Jeff Hellman, Greg Zimmerer, Michael Zimmerer, and Ray Betzen.

A Rosary service was held at the funeral home at 4 p.m. on Sunday led by Billy Zimmerer, brother, followed by a Vigil at 7 p.m. led by Fr. Ken.

Augusta Walterscheid

Mass of Christian Burial for Augusta Elizabeth Noggler Walterscheid, age 91 of Muenster, was held at 1 p.m. on Saturday, Jan. 19 at Sacred Heart Church in Muenster, with Rev. Ken Robinson celebrating the Mass. Augusta died at 6:45 p.m. on Wednesday, Jan. 16, 2008 in Muenster.

Born Jan. 17, 1916 in Muenster to Joseph and Jennie Steiger Noggler, Augusta was raised in Muenster and attended Sacred Heart School. Her father died when she was only three years of age. At the age of 14, she lived with her grandparents and worked, caring for families with newborn babies. She married Alphons William Walterscheid on Nov. 20, 1934 in Sacred Heart Church. They lived on a rented farm south of Muenster for the first 14 years, then purchased a 265 acre farm southwest of Muenster. There they farmed, milked dairy cows for about 20 years, raised turkeys, chickens, sheep, and hogs, and had bee hives, pecan trees, and a large garden. While doing all this, they became the parents of 12 children, six girls and six boys. Alphons was killed in a farm tractor accident on Sept. 26, 1957. Augusta continued living on the farm, along with the unmarried children for eight more years. She then had a house built in Muenster. This allowed her to be nearer to school and work. She worked in the dietary department at Muenster Memorial Hospital from 1964 until 1984.

While growing up on the farm, the children of Augusta and Alphons were assigned specific chores and duties, and all pitched in to assist in extra work as it occurred. They all helped in the garden production, canning, and especially peach processing.

They were a close-knit family who both worked and played together. They spent many hours working on the farm, as well as hunting, fishing, swimming, hiking, picnicking, camping, and playing ball. On many occasions, friends and visitors became involved with these activities. Augusta was responsible for this close family, always being personally involved with their activities.

Augusta was a lifetime member of Sacred Heart Parish, a member of the VFW Auxiliary, enjoyed gardening, fishing, sewing, crocheting, playing cards with a group of friends, working crossword puzzles, and loved to watch the Texas Rangers. She was a loving wife, mother, grandmother, great-grandmother, great-great-grandmother, and friend to many.

Survivors include daughters and spouses Rose and Weldon Bezner of Lindsay, Jeanette and Johnny Reiter of Muenster, Frances and Jim Voth of Muenster, Florence and Bonny Prescher of Gainesville, and Nita and James Fleitman of Saint Jo; sons and spouses Wilmer and Lovelle Walterscheid of College Station, Dave and Joan Walterscheid of Muenster, John and Glenda Walterscheid of Gainesville, Leon Walterscheid of Muenster, and Giles and Marlene Walterscheid of Muenster; sister Ella Haverkamp of Muenster; 37 grandchildren, 74 great-grandchildren, and six great-great-grandchildren.

Preceding her in death were her husband, son Ernest Walterscheid; brothers John, Lawrence, and Tony Noggler; sister Anna Marie Fleitman; and four grandchildren.

Assisting Fr. Ken at the funeral Mass were altar servers Shae Garner, Brad Bezner, Todd Bezner, and Sylvan Walterscheid. Andy Bezner gave the First and Second Readings. The Responsorial Psalm was sung by Bonny Prescher. Prayers of the Faithful were read by Gina Walterscheid, Matt Bezner, Keith Walterscheid, and Lisa Bezner brought up the Offertory Gifts. Eucharistic minister were Susie and Andy Bezner, Jillian Bezner, Jessica Bezner, Peggy Walterscheid, Betty Rose and Jerry Walterscheid, and Sandra Reeves.

Music ministers were Bonny Prescher and the guitar group from St. Mary's Church of Gainesville. Sacred music included a special song, "Jesus Can Stay," written by Bonny Prescher, "How Great Thou Art," "Be Not Afraid,"

Augusta Walterscheid

"Seek Ye First," "Amazing Grace," and "In the Garden."

The Remarks of Remembrance were given by Andy Bezner who speaking for the family, said in part... "While our parents were very hard workers, they loved to have friends over and party. They always made Sunday a special day. One of the most exciting Sundays was when Mom would announce, 'The Eckarts are coming over.' Because our family had 12 children and the Eckarts had 10, when we all got together, we had fun!..."

"Every other day, Mom baked seven loaves of bread... If there wasn't any bread, she would have baked two cakes... Either way it always smelled so good..."

"She was a remarkable woman who worked very hard all her life. Never would anyone hear a complaint from her. She was always ready to receive her family into her home - always happy and smiling..."

Following the eulogy, Bonny Prescher sang "Go Rest High On The Mountain."

Burial followed in Sacred Heart Cemetery under the direction of McCoy Funeral Home of Muenster.

Pallbearers were Scott Walterscheid, Bobby Prescher, Jason Walterscheid, Chad Fleitman, Jeff Walterscheid, Steven Reiter, Leroy Voth, Tony Voth, and Bruce Bezner.

A Rosary was held at 4 p.m. in McCoy Funeral Home on Friday, Jan. 18 led by James Fleitman. A Vigil followed at 7 p.m. led by Fr. Ken.

"I've been here for 14 years, and I feel like I've got a man I can come talk to outside Doug (Smithson)," remarked Arterbury. "Doug's been a great help to us and served us well and answered my questions. I did like to have somebody on the Board. We didn't have the representation before."

Myrick countered, "We represent the County. All of the entities voted for us and we all serve all of the entities. We don't serve just the city, just Lindsay, just Callisburg. We serve Cooke County and that is what this Board is for and when you only represent one entity, you have slighted the rest of them. I will assure you that Callisburg's interest, through Doug and through this Board has always been up front."

- Discussed attending the annual TAAD conference.

The Sacred Heart Youth Choir led the music for the service. Kaitlyn Felderhoff did the First Reading and the choir sang the Responsorial Psalm "Lord, Send Out Your Spirit." Matthew Flusche read the Second Reading and Deacon Don Werner read the Gospel. Billie Becker, who had helped to prepare the confirmandi for the sacrament, read the names of those to be confirmed.

During his homily, Bishop Vann referred to the First Reading from Ezekiel that spoke of "stony hearts" and talked about tripping and falling over a stone in his yard and how the gifts and power of the Holy Spirit would help them to overcome any stones or obstacles in their future.

After the homily, the Bishop led the confirmandi in a renewal of their baptismal promises. Then he did the laying on of hands and prayed that they would be filled with the gifts and power of the Holy Spirit. The sponsors presented the candidates to the Bishop to be anointed individually.

After the anointing, Joe Hesse read the Intercessions and Nathan Berend and Eric Borowski brought up the Offertory Gifts. The Preparation song was "Wonderful, Merciful Savior." The choir also sang "We Are One Body" and "Holy Spirit" during Communion and "Spirit of the Living God" as a Communion meditation. The closing song was "The Spirit Is A-Movin'."

Death by poisoning

Hundreds of people in America die every year from carbon monoxide produced by fuel-burning appliances in and around the home.

"Most cases result from using poorly installed gas appliances, running gasoline-powered engines in garages, using gas-burning stoves to heat homes, or cooking with charcoal inside homes," said Dr. Kurt Kleinschmidt, an emergency medicine and toxicology physician at UT Southwestern Medical Center.

Carbon monoxide, a poisonous gas without color or odor, is produced by the incomplete burning of fuels including charcoal, wood, oil, and gas. In the winter months, these fuels often power indoor furnaces, ranges, water heaters, room heaters, and vehicles. Unfortunately, the initial symptoms of carbon monoxide poisoning are like many common illnesses with symptoms that include headache, fatigue, shortness of breath, nausea, and dizziness.

Tips to avoid exposure include:

- Ensure all appliances are installed properly and never use gas-powered kitchen appliances - such as a stove - to heat your home;
- Don't leave vehicles running in an attached garage;
- Avoid burning charcoal or using fuel-burning camping equipment inside a home, garage, vehicle, or tent; and
- Never operate unvented fuel-burning appliances in rooms with closed doors or windows or in any room where people sleep.

Dr. Kleinschmidt also strongly recommends installing carbon monoxide detectors for added protection. If you think you are experiencing symptoms of carbon monoxide poisoning, get fresh air immediately, call the fire department, and seek medical care.

Really bad reason #1 why parents don't talk to their kids about drugs:

Your kids would never do drugs.

Oh, come on. High school kids are exposed to drugs every day. Even grade school kids are at risk. Fact is, the average age of kids first trying illegal drugs is under 14. And every day, nearly 5,000 teens try pot for the first time.

But kids who learn a lot about the risk of drugs from their parents are 50% less likely to do drugs. It may not seem like it but they want to know you care. And you will be getting through to them.

Texas Health Matters

If you're among the 18% of adult Texans who smoke, odds are good that "stop smoking" appears high on your list of New Year's resolutions. The Department of State Health Services has some tips for turning that resolution into a reality.

"Smoking remains the leading cause of preventable death in our state," says Dr.

David Lakey, the state's health commissioner. "A person under 50 who stops smoking today cuts their risk of dying in the next 15 years in half. No one thinks it's easy to quit smoking, but the health benefits will make that effort worthwhile."

Dr. Lakey advises smokers to set a date and develop a plan to stop smoking.

"Nicotine is a powerfully addictive drug, so you should think about how you're going to cope with withdrawal symptoms," Dr. Lakey says.

"Different strategies work for different people. The important thing is to have options that will help you get over the craving to smoke."

Dr. Lakey advises smokers to set a date and develop a plan to stop smoking.

Many people benefit from using medications or nicotine replacement products, such as a nicotine patch or gum. Studies have found that smokers who use prescription medications or nicotine replacement products when they try to stop smoking double their chances of success.

The Department of State Health Services offers these tips for dealing with the side effects of nicotine withdrawal:

Irritability or anxiety: Cut down on caffeine. Take deep breaths. Go for a stroll.

Trouble sleeping: Take a warm bath. Drink herbal tea or warm milk. Read. Trouble concentrating: Simplify your schedule for a few days. Make a "to do" list. Take a break.

Increased appetite: Drink more water, especially out of a sip bottle. Eat slowly. Snack on carrots, pickles, grapes, or rice cakes.

Constipation: Eat more fresh fruit, vegetables, and whole grains. Drink six to eight glasses of water a day.

Sore throat: Sip ice water. Suck on sugarless hard candy or lozenges.

Fatigue: Take a nap. Go to bed early. Try not to push yourself for two to four weeks.

"Remember that a withdrawal symptom or craving usually only lasts for a short time," Dr. Lakey says. "That feeling is going to pass in about 20 minutes whether you smoke or not."

It's also good to know what triggers your desire for a cigarette. For some people it's drinking coffee, driving, or watching television. Try avoiding the activities or places that trigger your desire to smoke.

You can also replace your smoking habit with a healthy alternative, such as walking, drinking more water, or eating more vegetables. The healthy activities will help you cope with nicotine withdrawal in addition to providing other benefits.

"One of the most important things to remember is to be patient," Dr. Lakey said. "Most people make several attempts to stop smoking before they are successful."

Dr. Lakey also recommends finding a supportive friend or family member who can help you through the cravings.

The Department of State Health Services sponsors the American Cancer Society's Quitline, which provides free counseling, support, and information. Call 1-877-937-7848 or visit www.yesquit.com for more tips and resources to help you stop smoking.

College & Career Corner

"R" You Ready for the Future?

Everyone knows the "3 Rs" of education - reading, writing and arithmetic - but few are aware that a fourth R has been added to the mix: retrieval skills.

Also known as Locating Information, retrieval skills are what people use when they locate, analyze, and use information from charts, graphs, tables, forms, diagrams, maps, and other material in the workplace. Being able to locate information is a basic requirement for today's workforce. In fact, businesses say the ability to locate information is one of the most important skills they look for as they hire new employees.

Parents, you might be wondering what this information has to do with your teen's education and future. The answer is everything. The 4 Rs of education isn't just an expression - it's a roadmap to academic and workforce success.

Each of the 4 Rs plays an important role in your student's future. Here's why:

ACT's "Ready for College and Ready for Work: Same or Different?" study found that high school students who enter workforce training programs after they graduate need academic skills similar to those needed by students entering college. The levels of math and reading skills needed for success in the first year of college are comparable to those needed by high school graduates who plan to enter a vocational training program.

According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, 80% of the fastest-growing jobs in the United States require some training after high school and many of these jobs require a strong basis in math and science.

In a survey of 402 companies, executives identified writing as the most valued skill required in their businesses given that their employees spend an average of 30% of their day writing.

While the need for knowledge in the 4 Rs is clear, there's also proof that many prospective employees aren't prepared for the challenges today's businesses face. An American Management Association survey of midsize and larger businesses found that 38% of job applicants taking employer-administered tests lacked the reading and math skills needed in the jobs for which they applied. Another recent survey found that 22% of hourly employees weren't able to read and translate drawings, diagrams, and flow charts.

So, how do you ensure that your student will leave school prepared for the future? Reinforce the importance and practicality of the 4 Rs. Encourage your student to take tough courses that will challenge their thinking and expand their abilities. Make reading and writing a part of everyday life. Challenge your student to learn more about the skills required in professions he has an interest in, then discuss ways he can begin building on those skills today.

Your teen can learn about various jobs and skills requirements at www.workkeys.org. Notice the higher-level reading, math and science skills needed for high-paying, high-demand careers.

Businesses and employers need rising requirements for reading, writing, and math skills in today's workplaces. Likewise, they also need workers who have the ability to locate and analyze information from various sources. Business leaders agree that job candidates who achieve highly in these skills are in the best position to be hired and later promoted.

Ask your teen "R' you ready?"

Medical tips

Embarrassed is better than dead. Don't be shy about asking (or yelling) for help, even if you feel stupid about tripping over the cat or think that stabbing chest pain is probably just indigestion.

Whose coverage? If your injury happened on the job, tell your employer, pronto. You'll need to be treated under your employer's workers' compensation policy rather than your usual insurance.

Who's to blame? The answer may be "no one" or "my own klutziness." If someone's carelessness caused your injury, however, save physical evidence as best you can, write down the names and contact info of possible witnesses, and take notes about what happened—before you forget the details.

Brush up on that assertiveness training. Once you are able, don't take no for an answer when it comes to your care. Studies show that patients who monitor their case and loudly express their needs live longer.

End off horror stories. Your injury will inspire others to share their most shocking injury stories. If blood-and-gore tales aren't the tonic you need, prepare a polite but off-putting phrase such as, "I'd love to hear about that sometime when the medication isn't making me so queasy."

Relieve your boredom. Start keeping a journal or recording your thoughts on tape. If you've broken a bone, ask for a light-colored cast. That way, you can carry around pens and give friends a chance to show their artistic side.

You are not a freak. Everyone gets injured or sick at some point. In fact, you'll probably start meeting a surprising number of people with the same condition as you.

Muenster Hornets and Lindsay Lady Knights take 15-A wins

It was an exciting night for local basketball fans last Friday as Muenster and Lindsay squared off in a packed Lindsay gym. The girls teams finished the first half of District play with the Lady Knights taking a 44-37 win away from the Lady Hornets. The Muenster Hornets ended the evening defeating the Knights 56-52.

The Lady Knights took the opening tip, shooting over a half-dozen shots without a score. Alison Teafatiller put the first points on the board.

A cold shooting 1st quarter zigzagged the lead between the two teams, but the final two baskets were Muenster's for an 8-5 end of the quarter score.

Chelsea Hermes closed the points to 1, but baskets by Rebecca Grewing and Teafatiller, and free throws by Samantha Endres, and a 3 by Endres gave the Lady Hornets a 10 points lead. Four last seconds points by Lindsay ended the half 19-13.

The Lady Knights took back the lead with 2:11 remaining in the 3rd quarter, 26-25. A 3 pointer at the buzzer by C. Hermes ended the period 30-26.

Halfway through the 4th, Lindsay stretched their lead to 8. Lindsey Watson hit a 3, and Teafatiller and Grewing some free, and a 3-pointer by Teafatiller with 36 seconds on the clock gave a 42-37 score. Forced fouling gave the Lady Knights 2 more points for the final 44-37.

Alison Teafatiller was high scorer for Muenster with 11 points. Rebecca Grewing added 8, Samantha Endres 7, Lindsey Watson 6, 2 apiece by Shaina Felderhoff and Laura Heers, and a free throw by Lia Heers.

"It was a good win. It put us in the position of controlling our own destiny," said Lindsay Coach Donald Neu. "Muenster is a very good team that plays very hard. We knew how important it was to get the win at home. It is always difficult to go to Muenster and get a win."

Halfway into the 3rd period, Muenster had a 17 point lead before allowing the Knights into the game, closing the score to 39-35 going into the final quarter.

Flusche and Eric Hellman scored 7 points before the Knights popped in a 3. With 2:42 on the clock, a 3-pointer by Garrett Block closed the points to 2.

Samantha Wimmer led Sacred Heart with 15 points and eight steals. Lauren Creed added 13, Raynee Hogan 8, Kristin LeBrasseur 7 with eight rebounds, and Kalyssa Pollard 2 points. Hogan hit

GAME WARDEN REPORTS

Marina operations shaky

On Aug. 11, while patrolling Lake Texoma by boat, a Grayson Co. game warden made contact with the manager of a marina who had complained about no-wake violations. Upon arrival at the marina, the game warden noticed that three of the marina's work boats were displaying expired registration decals. After stopping one of the marina boats to inquire about the registration, the game warden learned that there were no PFDs or fire extinguishers on the vessel.

A citation was issued for insufficient PFDs. As the game warden continued to patrol the marina, he noticed that about half of the marina was covered with a gas or oil sheen and there were no visible cleanup efforts. After Grayson County's environmental officer was contacted, the gas dock was shut down and cleanup efforts began. The game warden contacted the marina manager, who assured him that the registration and safety equipment situation on the marina boats would be corrected.

On the morning of Aug. 12, the game warden received a call from a customer regarding the same marina, advising that the marina's shuttle boat had been operating all night without any navigation lights and without sufficient numbers of PFDs. The game warden went back to the marina and made contact with the manager again. As the game warden pulled into the marina parking lot, he observed one of the shuttle boats coming ashore with 14 passengers. A check of this boat found only four PFDs and five children 10 years of age and under not wearing PFDs.

What a waste

At the end of July, Aransas Co. game wardens received information concerning two blue marlins that were caught and entered into a local tournament. The big fish weighing in the hundreds of pounds were dumped whole into Aransas Bay after the weigh-in. One fish washed up on the Rockport City Park beach and the other washed up on Fulton Beach. The city of Rockport needed a backhoe to remove the fish from the beach.

U.S. beef exports increasing, slaughter cattle weights decline

In late 2001, USDA Foreign Agricultural Service (FAS) launched the Weekly Beef Export report under the directive of Mandatory Price Reporting (MPR) legislation.

The weekly beef export report provides data for U.S. exports and outstanding export sales of fresh, chilled, and frozen beef muscle cuts. All trading partners are included in the weekly report, with the export data reported on a metric ton basis.

Those data are important because they are timelier than the monthly data - the monthly data for November were released on Friday, Jan. 11, while the weekly data are complete through December. However, the weekly versus monthly data are not strictly comparable.

In November 2007, U.S. beef export tonnage was just over 116 million tons (carcass weight), up about 15 million tons or 15% from 2006's. Weekly data indicated that further increases compared to a year ago were posted in December.

On a weekly average basis, the preliminary USDA-FAS data showed U.S. whole muscle beef exports during December were about 10% above a year earlier. Still, compared to pre-BSE levels U.S. beef exports remain down. For example, in Deember 2003, weekly average whole muscle beef cut export tonnage was reported by USDA-FAS at 12.6 million metric tons compared to only 7.8 million metric tons in December 2007.

The key markets for U.S. beef since the discovery of BSE in late 2003 have been Mexico, Canada, and Japan. South Korea reemerged as a key market in 2007, however due to ongoing difficulties with shipments last year that market was again closed to U.S. beef in October.

In December, the USDA-FAS data showed weekly average U.S. exports of beef to Mexico were down 16% but exports to Canada and Japan were up 44% and 57%, respectively.

U.S. beef exports are forecast to continue to grow in 2008. The estimate for U.S. beef exports in 2007 is 1.42 billion pounds (carcass weight). In 2008, the forecast is for nearly 1.7 billion pounds. The record U.S. beef export level set in 2003 was just over 2.5 billion pounds.

In the second half of December, slaughter steer and heifer weights declined much more than normal. That situation likely is the result of higher feedstuff costs and to a lesser extent some winter weather impacts on cattle in feedlots.

Slaughter steer and heifer weights began December above a year earlier, but by the end of the month were down. Overall, for the month of December, slaughter steer weights were five pounds below 2006, the first year-to-year drop since July.

For the last week of December (latest actual data available), USDA reported the average steer dressed weight at 839 pounds compared to 844 pounds a year earlier. For the same week, the average slaughter heifer dressed weight was eight pounds below 2006's. During the first several months of 2006, slaughter cattle weights were well below 2005's due to harsh winter weather impacting cattle performance. Weather conditions and feed grain prices will determine when cattle slaughter weights return to year-to-year increases.

TDA Market Recap

For the week ending Jan. 19, feeder steer prices at Texas auctions were down sharply from the previous week as higher grain prices worked their way through the cash market. Fed cattle prices were also lower with declining beef prices squeezing packer margins and lowering bids for finished cattle. Wheat prices were sharply higher as markets remain concerned that supplies will not be able to keep up with demand. Corn and grain sorghum prices were slightly lower. As for futures markets, wheat, cotton, and corn closed the week higher, while feeder cattle and finished cattle were lower.

Cool and dry weather conditions prevailed over most of the state with only a few showers reported in East Texas. Soil moisture was rated short to very short in most areas. Small grains continue to struggle from the lack of moisture with the crop reported in fair to very poor condition. In many areas, field preparations are underway for Spring planting.

Farm Bureau celebrates Food Check-Out Week, Feb. 3-9

America's farmers and ranchers are the most productive in the world, which creates affordable prices at the marketplace for American consumers. As a result, the Cooke County Farm Bureau is celebrating Feb. 3-9, as Food Check-Out Week.

On average, American families spend approximately 10% of their income for food. Applying the 10% statistic to the calendar year shows the average household will have earned enough income for its annual food supply in about 40 days. The positive message is glaringly visible when you consider Tax Freedom Day is not celebrated until April 19 - nearly three months later, to commemorate when the average household will earn enough money to pay for local, federal, and state taxes.

Thanks to modern farming techniques such as biotechnology, global positioning satellites, and conservation tillage, America's farmers and ranchers are producing more food on fewer acres. However, farmers and ranchers only receive 19 cents out of every dollar spent on food at home and away from home. The rest goes for costs beyond the farm gate: wages and materials for production, processing, marketing, transportation, and distribution. In contrast, America's farmers and ranchers received 31 cents in 1980.

The Cooke County Farm Bureau will be celebrating Food Check-Out Week by accepting donations of non-perishable food items to donate to VISTO. Please bring your donations to 1212 W. Hwy. 82 Gainesville between the hours of 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. If you have any questions call 940-665-1763.

Earth Kind landscape design

Winter is a great time for homeowners to contemplate landscape design.

Designing a landscape can include much more than the desire to improve aesthetics. The use of basic Earth Kind landscaping principles and practices can significantly modify the micro-climate surrounding homes and communities, making them more energy efficient, while lowering utility costs. Although it is not possible to control temperature, wind, and other weather elements, properly placing trees, shrubs, vines, and structures in the landscape can assist in keeping homes and surrounding areas warm in the winter and cool in the summer. If the landscape is well planned, installed, and maintained, the increased aesthetic value and decreased maintenance costs can result in increased real estate values.

A well planned landscape is one of the best investments a home or business owner can make.

Protection from the sun

Trees can reduce summer temperatures significantly. Shading the roof of a house from the afternoon sun by large trees can reduce temperatures inside the home by as much as 8-10 degrees F. Deciduous trees (those that lose their leaves in winter) provide summer shade, then drop their leaves in fall, which allows the warmth of the sun to filter through their bare branches in winter to help warm the home. If a home can be situated to take advantage of shade from existing trees on south and west exposures, energy expended for cooling can be considerably reduced.

To shade the roof of a wall of a one-story home, trees which will reach a medium to large size should be selected and placed 15 to 20 feet from the side or 12 to 15 feet from the corner of the structure. To be most effective, the canopy of the tree should extend over the roof. Smaller trees such as crape myrtles and redbuds can be planted closer to the house and used for shading walls and window areas. Since they are deciduous, these plants will provide shade during the summer and allow light and sun to penetrate during winter.

Another way to reduce energy consumption with trees and shrubs is to provide shade for the outside portion of a split system air conditioner.

A study by the American Refrigeration Institute shows that this practice can reduce the temperature inside a home by as much as three degrees F.

However, shrubs planted near the compressor should not obstruct air flow or service access. Screening outdoor air conditioning equipment with plantings not only reduces energy consumption but can also enhance the aesthetic appearance of a home or business.

Espaliers and vines

In addition to shading roof areas, plants can protect walls from heat and cold. Vines, shrubs, and certain trees can be used as espaliers (plants trained to grow flat against walls). The foliage cover insulates walls against summer heat and cold winter winds. Trees, shrubs, and vines can also be highly effective in reducing noise and dust pollution.

There are several ways to support plants against walls. Some vines such as English Ivy have specialized roots that cling to masonry or wooden surfaces. However, this can harm wooden surfaces since it hastens wood decomposition and provides protection for termites and other insects.

Vines that do not cling usually twine and must have support. This can be provided by trellises placed on or close to the house. A third way to support shrubs and vines on a wall is to place mortar nails in the joints between the brick and securely fasten plant stems with ties or similar materials. Windows, as well as walls, may be shaded by vines on trellises. Deciduous vines such as Boston ivy and wisteria will allow the sun to penetrate during the winter. If a quick effect is desired, annual vines such as morning glories, hyacinth bean, and moon vines can be planted economically from seed in early spring and will usually provide the needed shade in time for the hottest summer weather.

Overhead structures

The use of landscape arbors and other overhead structures are another effective means of addressing energy conservation. These structures, either attached or adjacent to a home or business, can shade walls and windows, thus reducing energy consumption and providing cool, restful sitting and viewing areas. If wooden structures are used, the one or two inch lathe strips are usually spaced one to 1 1/2 inches apart. This spacing provides adequate shade while allowing air to circulate freely.

If vines are used as a partial or complete cover, the structure is referred to as an arbor. Grape arbors can serve as attractive practical additions to the landscape.

Groundcovers

The temperature a few inches above turf or other groundcover plants is frequently 12 to 15 degrees F lower than above asphalt or concrete surfaces. By using turf and groundcover plants between homes and paved areas, such as drives and walks, summer temperatures can be significantly reduced. There are several well adapted plant materials that are well suited for these applications. Also consider factors such as drought tolerance, as well as insect and disease resistance in making your selection. The use of these simple but effective Earth Kind landscaping techniques can greatly assist in reducing energy consumption and costs.

Two excellent resources for selecting landscape plants include: www.txsmartscape.com, be sure to utilize the "search plants" and the "Earth Kind" plant selector available at: <http://aggiehorticulture.tamu.edu/earthkind/index.html>.
