Cutbirth & Cutbirth

Aerial conqueror of both ends of the earth, Richard E. Byrd set foot again today at 10:40 a. m. (E. S. T.) on the turf of Lower Manhattan, from which he sailed twenty months ago on a pilgrimage of exploration into the white wastes of Antarctic.

irrounded in sea and sky and on land by a roaring welcome in which planes and harbor craft and cheering thousands joined, he debarked from the city welcoming tug Macon to receive from the City of New York the third and by far the most rous greetings it has tended to him for his achievements of exploration by air.

Streaming along behind the Macom were fifty or more harbor craft of all descriptions, as spectacular a marine demonstration as New York had seen since Colonel Lindbergh came back from Paris. As the parade passed Governor's Island, salute guns roared thirteen times

Whistle and siren handles were tied down on passing tugs and big liners on both the Brooklyn and Manhattan shores added their deep throated salufes. Fire boats played streams of water into the air, their thin white spray, touched by the sun, making a back drop of rain-

They found rock formations indicating great conditions of commercial signifcoal deposits, of commercial significance. They photographed miles on miles of ice covered terrain and they definitely established the need in antarctic of a permanent weath-

The thing for which he was most thankful, he said, was that he had brought his expedition safely home. 'All my men have come back safe," he said feelingly, "for which we must thank providence."

The admiral said he had no future plans and would not undertake further explorations until a $100,-000 debt remaining from this expedition was cleared away.

There's not much left to explore is there?' he was asked.

"Oh, yes," he answered quickly.
"There are thousands of miles of unexplored lands in South America and antarctic and as long as there is land no one has seen, man will continue to seek it."

He said the taxes now fall heaviest on "the little fellow trying to put up a home or buy a farm."

It may be that we in the entire field who could meet have been more general than the kim facts warrant by including one or two of these names in the list; but unquestionably the best man in it is to only one of them we wish to call attention here and now. Measured by whatever reasonable standard one may wish to apply to the whole lot of fourteen candidates for the Governorship, James Young of Kaufman stands head and shoulders above the field as inquestionably the best man in the entire group; and for that reabe nominated in this year's primaries.

Personally and politically. Mr. Young can not be assalled by any one who desires to engage in campaign mud-slinging. The only offense of which he has been accused, and the only one, in all likelihood, that will be charged against him, that he supported all the nominess of the Democratic party two years ago; and he makes no denial of or apology for it. He has never been a fence-straddler on any question, but he holds the friendship and confidence of those whom he has differed politically. He has never been identified with factions of any kind either within or without the Democratic party, and today is under no politieal obligations and bound to no favorites. His candidacy is not being promoted by any group or organization, but is offered by Mr. Young himself because of his dechief executive's office. His ten him with national as well as state affairs; and his twenty or thirty years of practical and successful business-like manner.

Rivers-Harbors Bill Vote May Be Taken Thursday

WASHINGTON, June 18 .- (AP) Senator Deneen, Republican, Illinois. was ready to carry on the contest for the Illinois waterways project in the Rivers and Harbors bill today in a speech against the Blaine amendment to limit the amount of water to be diverted from the Great Lakes for this scheme.

Leaders were hopeful of getting a rote by tomorrow, at the latest, on the Blaine amendment.

Senator Blaine, Republican, Wisconsin, contends the language the House bill would permit an excessive drainage of water from Lake Michigan to the detriment of the other Great Lakes states.

This is the lone issue to be settled in the vast Rivers and Harbors early vote on the bill is expected.
