

Muenster Volunteer Firemen's Annual Barbecue and Auction deemed a smoking success

There was an air of satisfaction after the MVFD's annual Barbecue and Auction Saturday night. All the hard work it takes to put on the event seemed well worthwhile after the totals were tal-lied. Although a final figure work be available for a couple of weeks, Muenster VFD Chief Herbie Knabe anticipates earning enough money to not have to take out a loan to help pay for the new fire truck which is in the process of being built for the Department. More than 900 plates were served Saturday - a number that was down slightly. The Auction, he said, did about 10% better than the prior year. It was pleasant weather to spend an evening visiting in the shady City Park. Besides delicious food, there was free swimming in the City pool. Knabe stressed that they could not have been so successful without all the people who came out and supported them. He said that they have applied for grant money to help pay for the truck, but so far have not received any. Janet Felderhoff photo

A units giass leaves a white ring on wood furni-ture. Solution: White rings on furniture normally ap-pear from moisture trapped beneath the surface. Some-times as the absorbed mois-ture evaporates, the white mark or ring will disappear. Therefore, wait at least 24 hours before treating the wa-termark. If the watermark remains, use Weiman Lem-on Polish with 0000 steel wool and rub the stained area to remove the mark. Always rub in the direction of the wood grain. Contact a refinisher if your wood fin-ish has gray or dark rings. The darker the color is, the deeper the damage.

White-eyed cattle really

White-eyed cattle really are wild We spend a lot of time dis-cussing animal traits that lead to better beef cattle pro-duction, but not much on a trait that gets more cattle ulled than any other - that is temperament. There may be something to the old ad-age "That one's crazy - you can see it in her eye!" This is according to a re-cent study that was reported in the Journal of Animal Science and passed on by the Extension Animal Science Department.

Science and passed on by the Extension Animal Science Department. The study reports animal behavior by assessing the relationship of percentage of eye white compared to chute escape velocity and chute be-havior. They found that the relationship between more eye white and wild behav-ior was highest with heifers, but also significant in bulls and steers. Next time you are thinking about purchas-ing or retaining replacement cattle, you can feel justified in passing over some of the good ones just because you don't like "the look in her eye"!

don't like 'the look in her eye" Searching for a good Poreseeding bermuda-grass pasture with legumes should serve as a means of extending the length of graz-ing season, increasing the pivestock, and/or reducing the amount of nitrogen fer-tilizer required in a forage production program. How-ever, there are several man-agement factors that make the practice difficult to uti-lize. The most important of these may be establishment! I have seen informa-tion that suggests legumes mainly clover's should be a viable option for Cooke County, with successful es-to the time - depending on the weather. Three of the last four years I have tried to establish a legume variety trial here with no success

Nation's farm land values fall in 2008

Farm real estate values, a measurement of the value of all land and buildings on a measurement of the value of all land and buildings on farms, averaged $2,100 per acre on Jan. 1, 2009, down 3.2% from 2008. The 3.2% decrease from 2008 is the first decline in farm real estate value since 1987. Re-gional changes in the aver-age value of farm real estate ranged from virtually no change in the Northern and Southern Plains regions to an 11% decline in the Moun-tain region. The highest farm real estate values remained in the Northeast region at $4,830 per acre. The Moun-tain region had the lowest farm real estate value, $922 per acre. Beth exempted ead nacture per acre. Both cropland and pasture per acre. Both cropland and pasture values are also down from the previous year. Cropland values declined by $110 per acre (3.9%) to $2,650 per acre. In the Cornbelt region, the average cropland value decreased 4.0% from the previous year, to $3,870 per acre. However, in the North-ern Plains and Delta regions, cropland values rose 1.6% and 0.6%, respectively. Pasture value declined by $20 per acre (1.8%) from 2008 to $1,070 per acre. The Mountain region had the largest percentage decrease in pasture value, 16% below 2008. The contraction in the 2008. The contraction in the overall economy has caused less commercial and residen-tial development in many regions. Livestock and crop commodity prices have de-clined from a year earlier, thus producers and inves-tors are less optimistic than a year ago. A decrease in the demand for recreational land has also contributed to the overall decrease in land values.

we are due for a legume crop soon! During the course of the legume trials, I have noticed some noticeable variety dif-ferences. I must admit that no legume has been able to produce acceptably in our re-sult demonstration in 2006, 2008, or 2009. However, the following three have at least been pres-ent in the field in at least one of the trials.

For the week ending Aug. 8, feeder cattle price trends at Texas auctions were mixed, from $4 lower per hundredweight to $4 higher compared to a week earlier. Fed cattle prices were $1 lower on a decline in beef prices and a growing back-lower on a decline in beef prices and a growing back-lower on a decline in beef prices and a growing back-lower on a decline in beef prices and a growing back-lower on a decline in beef prices and a growing back-lower crude oil pric-dollar, lower crude oil pric-dollar, lower crude oil pric-source in the Midwest. As for futures markets, cot-while feeder cattle, finished cattle, wheat, and corn were lower. Central and South Texas artile, wheat, and corn were lower. Central and South Texas received little or no rainfall again last week, while other areas of the state recorded up to three inches of rain. Corn is 48% harvested, well ahead of the normal 30% by this date. Grain sor-ghum harvest is also ahead of normal at 53% complete. Wheat field preparations are underway in many areas. Pasture conditions are highly variable depending on rainfall received with rat-ings from very poor to good. Topsoil moisture was rated short to adequate in many areas, but was mostly very short in the Upper Coast, South-Central, and South Texas regions. Texas regions
