School Board covers much ground at March meeting

By Janie Hartman
The Muenster ISD Board selected six candidates for the superintendent vacancy, rehired 43 staff personnel, heard price quotes on athletic improvements, and accepted a resignation at the regular monthly Board meeting on March 10.

Interviews will begin March 23 with the final six candidates to fill the superintendent's position left vacant when John Kaufman moved away at midterms. The final choices are: Hope Appel, superintendent, Higgins ISD; Michael Comeaux, high school principal, Palmer ISD; Lou Heers, elementary principal, Muenster ISD; David Perry, superintendent, Gorman ISD; Clay Richerson, high school principal, Stamford ISD; and Blake Stiles, high school principal, Howe ISD.

Charlie Price of Compass Builders presented price quotes to the Board on items of concern. After the study on the weight room completion, he quoted $108,000 to complete it; also track curb caulking of seams, $6,000 to $7,000, and track surface maintenance, $40,000 to $50,000. The quote for crowning the football field was $80,000 to $90,000, or a second quote of $20,000 to $40,000, with an additional quote of $25,000 to $30,000 for a sprinkler system.

The Board accepted the resignation of Band Director Joshua Underwood. Several students and parents were present and commented on the success of the Band program this past year.

Forty-three staff members had their contracts renewed as recommended by Elementary Principal Lou Heers and Junior High/High School Principal Brandon Peavey. The Board took no action on Peavey's contract as principal.

Before the business session began, the MISD Board recognized and praised the Lady Hornets basketball team for a successful year. The girls presented the Board members and administrators with a Bronze medal.

Two proposed school calendars for the 2010-11 year were presented to the Board. They were previously given to teachers and staff for their "vote" on which they preferred. Calendar A was almost identical to this year's calendar, with Calendar B extended to June 2. Holidays were about the same time line, but "B" allowed for a three-day Thanksgiving, no school on Good Friday, a reduction to two semester test days at the end of each semester, bad weather days being May 13 (State track meet) and May 27 (possible four day Memorial weekend), and graduation in June.

Muenster location now occupied by Orr Construction

By Janet Felderhoff
Orr Construction, a pipeline construction company owned by Steve Orr, is based out of Oklahoma, but now has an office branch in Muenster. Their new location is in the old Endres Motor Company building on Main and First Street.

There is a lot of oil field activity in this area due to drilling in the Barnett Shale. Orr services customers in the Forestburg, Muenster, and Saint Jo area. They stay very busy working seven days a week to keep up, often working after dark.

The pipeline construction company's Muenster location is a combination office, yard, and field site. They use the fenced yard area to park their trucks and other equipment. Orr noted that they plan to continue to serve the customer whom they do a lot of work for in this area. "The oil field is kind of hard to predict sometimes, but we hope to stay busy in this area for two to three years," Orr remarked. "We plan on being here for quite some time."

Orr Construction set up its Muenster location earlier this month. "We appreciate being able to move into Muenster. Orr Construction is willing to help out the City in any way possible. We like the area and we like the people. We're glad to be in this area."

Muenster ISD students take 5th in CX Debate at State

By Janet Felderhoff
Junior Hannah Weger and Freshman Brooke Walterscheid, students at Muenster High School, competed as a team in the State Cross Ex Debate Tournament in Austin on March 16. As semi-finalists, the duo earned Fifth Place medals.

The team competed in four rounds of debate on Monday, going 3-1 and earning 215 speaker points. They broke into Octafinals, being one of the top 16 remaining teams of the 59 original State qualifiers. After winning with a 3-0 decision, Brooke and Hannah competed in the State Semi-finals where they earned Fifth Place.

The team and their sponsors were especially excited to earn a medal this year because this is the 100th anniversary of Cross Ex Debate, which was begun in 1910 and was the origination of U.I.L. competition. Special Century of Excellence Medals were made to commemorate the occasion. This is the only year that they will be awarded.

The team competed in three invitational tournaments and the District tournament to qualify for the State Meet. The Muenster debate team placed second at the Peggy White Tournament in Holliday and took second at the District Meet in Gainesville.

Hannah is the daughter of Dwayne and Kelly Weger and Brooke's parents are Bret and Kim Walterscheid.

Accompanying the team were sponsors Lisa Walterscheid and Gynell Oppermann, and Cletus Fuhrmann who served as a judge from Muenster ISD. He judged divisions other than the one in which Muenster competed.

High School/Junior High Principal Brandon Peavey reported an attendance of 231 in grades 7 - 12. He noted that FCCLA had 84 entries in the Youth Fair, with FFA having 104 animal entries and three shop entries, which included nine Grand and eight Reserve Championships among the numbers "class" awards. Peavey also updated the Board on ULL, TMSCA, and CX Debate competitors.

Technology Director Jeff Presnall reported lots of activity on the MISD website. He gave a proposed technology budget of $85,920 for the next school year; $51,000 of that total is budgeted for 60 workstations for teachers, staff, and library.

Allen Cross, athletic director, reported season updates, including the finished basketball seasons.

Delinquent tax collection for February was $703.51.

The Board tabled the pay raise consideration for personnel until the regular April meeting when all Board members will be present.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Readers of the Muenster Enterprise,

My wife and I have been listening and contributing to KATH 910 AM Catholic Radio for three and one half years.

We love listening to the programming on Catholic Radio because it is focused on accomplishing the most important will of all, which is, the loving and truthful will of the one true God.

During March 23 through March 26, KATH 910 AM will be conducting their spring fundraiser. I invite you to tune in if you can.

Listening to Catholic Radio might help you or a loved one get to Heaven. There are a lot of good reasons for listening and a lot of excuses that don't count.

Best regards,
Bill Bayer

To The Citizens of Muenster:

Everyone in this town needs to drive in from Saint Jo and take in the view of Muenster from the red light. Then, turn left at the red light and make the block around the Klement Ford building on the corner of Main & Division. Seemingly overnight, all the efforts to Keep Muenster Beautiful have been abandoned. From the outside eye, Muenster looks no different from every other small town in Texas.

If you've never been to Muenster, one doesn't know what is to the left of the red light. The Lucky Leprechaun, chain link fences, industrial trucks and gravel lot mask the beauty of our town. Someone driving through has no idea that a few blocks north lies unique small businesses, Fischer's Meat Market, our historic Sacred Heart Church & School, our exemplary Muenster ISD, Turtle Hill Golf Course and all the other treasures of Muenster. The view gives them no reason to stop.

The cornerstone of our town turned into a blight. Keep Muenster Beautiful devotes thousands of volunteer hours beautifying our town and allowing someone from out of town to come in and park their junk voids their efforts.

I am so proud of my hometown. We come home frequently from the Metroplex and bring friends with us to lodge, eat, golf, shop, and go to church. What we have is special. Muenster needs to remember what makes it special and stand up when we see something threatening the businesses of our community and the beauty of our town.

Home Hospice honors Kelly Lamkin

In June of 1997, a new social worker joined the team providing care, guidance, and support to terminally ill patients and their families at Home Hospice of Cooke County. Kelly Lamkin, who had completed her degree in social work and received her license in Texas, began providing her wonderful, personal brand of compassion and support to those served by this local nonprofit organization. Originally, Kelly wore three hats – social worker, bereavement coordinator, and volunteer coordinator. She was a busy woman! Eventually, a volunteer coordinator was hired and Kelly settled into the split position of social worker and bereavement coordinator, titles she held until 2008 when the agency consolidated the bereavement program and Kelly was a full-time social worker.

Kelly Lamkin

hundreds of individuals and families truly understand hospice care and navigate all the issues involved in end-of-life.

As bereavement coordinator, she designed many effective support groups that helped guide individuals coping with significant loss along the healing journey through grief. She provided community education opportunities and designed beautiful memorial services.

In March of 2004, Lamkin was named Social Worker of the Year by the Texas and New Mexico Hospice Organization at its annual convention in Dallas. In presenting the award, the president of the organization, Jim Mo-nahan, said of Kelly, "She exhibits the most positive attitude in the face of challenge and stress...she works hard to ensure that patients and families' psychosocial needs are met and she has an extensive knowledge of the resources available for patients." In receiving the award, Kelly stated, "I am given a gift every time I come into contact with a patient, family member, friend, co-worker, or anyone who has been touched by Home Hospice just by their presence, kind words, or touch. I have learned so much about life and living, death and dying."

As Kelly is off to new adventures, she reflects on her service to Home Hospice, "I have learned so much while working with Home Hospice in the almost 13 years I have been here. I grew up as a person and a social worker during my years of working here. I appreciate the opportunities I have had over the years and will never forget them or the many people I have come into contact with and who have touched my life." Jana Cockrell, RN, director of the Home Hospice office in Gainesville said, "I am greatly saddened and at the same time filled with joy for Kelly Lamkin as she leaves Home Hospice and embarks on a new chapter in her life. She has been a very important part of this agency for many years and she is going to be missed. Kelly has touched many lives in the past 12 years in her roles as volunteer coordinator, bereavement coordinator, and social worker. I will not only miss her as my co-worker, but I will miss seeing her every day as my friend. I have been the director of the Gainesville office for two years and Kelly has supported me, laughed with me, and cried with me. I would never have made it without her. I know that no matter where she goes next, Kelly will always be a part of Home Hospice of Cooke County.

On March 18, the staff and volunteers of Home Hospice honored Lamkin as she leaves the organization to explore other possibilities. Those in the community who have been touched by her work were invited to join in honoring her at a reception at Landmark Bank, 110 E. California, Gainesville from 4 to 6 p.m. For additional information, call 940-665-9891. Home Hospice – when days are limited, quality of life shouldn't be.

"Cancer and End-of-Life Care Teleconference" set for March 24

Hospice Foundation of America 17th Annual Teleconference entitled "Cancer and End-of-Life Care" will be presented March 24 from 12:30-3:30 p.m. at North Texas Medical Center in Gainesville.

Jolene Senek, bereavement coordinator at Home Hospice, said, "In addition to the teleconference, we have a great panel of local professionals who, along with the Hospice Foundation of American panel, have agreed to share their experience and insight with regards to cancer and end-of-life care." The topic will address the delicate transition from curative care to palliative/hospice care, ethical issues, psychosocial aspects of cancer, and pain management all related to cancer. Grief and loss for the patient, caregiver, and family will be discussed providing insight to professionals who encounter this disease on a daily basis. The local panel includes Nancy Sudderth, social worker from River Valley Rehab, Gayla Blanton, volunteer coordinator from North Texas Medical Center who will speak from the view of a daughter, Linda Davis, a Home Hospice volunteer who speaks from the view of a spouse, Millard Thomas, chaplain, and Jana Cockrell, director of Home Hospice of Cooke County. Attendance is free, but space is limited, so mark your calendar and register today. Continuing Education Units are available and you may register for them after the teleconference. Detailed instructions will be provided at the end of the teleconference.

Cain earns coveted Mary Kay pink Cadillac

In honor of her career achievements, Jan Cain of Muenster has earned the use of the exclusive Mary Kay pink Cadillac, the most coveted incentive awarded by the company. The new Cadillac comes in pearlized pink - a color unique to the Mary Kay Career Car Program.

Cain has chosen the Cadillac CTS. Mary Kay independent sales directors who earn the use of a pink Cadillac can choose from the CTS and DTS models. Mary Kay career car qualifiers also have the option of selecting cash compensation in lieu of the car.

In keeping with the company's preeminence as a leader in providing women with an unparalleled business opportunity and desirable business incentives, Mary Kay Inc. continues to elevate its image by upgrading the options available to star performers in the independent sales force. In addition to the pearlized pink Cadillac, Mary Kay Inc. also offers an opportunity to earn the use of the gray Chevy Malibu sedan, silver Chevy Equinox, and silver Toyota Camry as part of its notable Career Car Program.

Currently, more than 6,000 Mary Kay career cars are on the road nationwide with more than 1,600 of those being pink Cadillacs. Since the program's inception in 1969, more than 120,000 independent sales force members have either qualified or re-qualified to earn the use of a Mary Kay career car.

"The Career Car Program provides the independent sales force the opportunity to earn the use of a visible symbol of success," said Gary Jinks, Mary Kay Inc. senior vice president of sales. "Each car in this exciting incentive program reflects the hard work, determination, and professionalism of the independent sales force. The coveted pink Cadillac is the ultimate, most recognizable symbol of achievement."

Cain will take delivery of her new Cadillac, her 16th Mary Kay career car, at Houston. Independent sales directors earn the use of Mary Kay career cars by demonstrating their outstanding business and leadership skills.

Cain began her independent Mary Kay business as an independent beauty consultant in 1972 and as a direct result of her accomplishments, became an independent sales director in 1982. As an independent sales director, she chooses to provide education, leadership, and motivation to other Mary Kay independent beauty consultants and offers her customers high-quality Mary Kay products.

Mary Kay, one of the largest direct sellers of skin care and color cosmetics, realized another year of record results. In 2008, Mary Kay Inc. and its international subsidiaries achieved $2.6 billion in wholesale sales worldwide. Mary Kay products are sold in more than 35 markets worldwide, and the global Mary Kay independent sales force exceeds 2 million.

DPS tells of the newest indigency rule for Driver Responsibility Program

The Texas Department of Public Safety has published proposed new rules for the Driver Responsibility Program (DRP) to address the program's financial impact on low-income individuals who are living at or below the poverty level.

The Driver Responsibility law, passed during the 78th Texas Legislature, established a system to assess surcharges based on certain traffic offenses that occurred on or after Sept. 1, 2003.

The 81st Texas Legislature amended the law to require a reduction for indigent individuals.

Surcharges due every year for three years include convictions for:

- Failure to maintain insurance and driving while license invalid—$250 per year.
- Driving without a valid license—$100 per year.

- DWI-related offense - $1,000 per year for first offense, $2,000 per year if the court reports an alcohol concentration of .16 or more, $1,500 per year for a subsequent conviction within the three-year period.

All charges are cumulative. The newly proposed rule would:

- Set DRP indigency at 125% of the poverty level.
- Allow electronic application online or by telephone.
- Require applicants to submit supporting documentation.
- Allow the Department to contract with a third party for application verification.
- Mandate a letter of approval or denial be mailed to any applicant.

- Provide applicants 90 days to pay the reduced fee, in full, and provide proof of insurance.

The Public Safety Commission voted to repeal the existing administrative rule (Subchapter J, §15.163), and replace it with the proposed indigency reductions. The proposed rule was published in the Texas Register on March 5 (<http://www.sos.state.tx.us/texreg/index.shtml>), and the Department will accept comments on the proposed rule for 30 days. The Texas Register posting includes information on how to submit comments.

In addition to accepting public comments, the Department will conduct a public hearing on the proposed rule at a later date.

Account Information Now Available Online

The DRP website has added new features that allow customers online access to their account information. The website has provided online payment options and information about surcharges, but several updates now provide customers with immediate access to their information 24 hours a day:

- Account information is available for all surcharges assessed a customer.
- The convenience fee for credit and debit card payments has been lowered.
- The format of the home page and Frequently Asked Questions is more user-friendly.

Customers can visit www.txsurchargeonline.com to access the new online services.

Though we travel the world over to find the beautiful, we must carry it with us, or we find it not.

Sacred Heart 8th Grade boys take short vocation trip

On Thursday, March 4, Sacred Heart Catholic School 8th Grade boys visited Holy Trinity Seminary in Irving. Greeting the boys was seminary Rector Father Michael Olson.

The boys began their day in chapel with Father Olson explaining that the chapel was located in the center of the seminary building, emphasizing the importance of prayer in the vocation discernment process. The group continued the tour viewing large portraits of former bishops of the Diocese of Dallas/Fort Worth. Father Olson explained that in 1969, the diocese was divided and the Diocese of Fort Worth was founded.

Later in the tour, Muenster resident Daniel Cochran joined Father Michael and the boys to show them around various classrooms. He gave them interesting facts about seminary life. The boys also enjoyed lunch in the refectory.

Before returning home, they visited Cistercian Abbey located near the seminary.

Attending with the class were Beth Bartush and Annette Bayer.

THANK YOU!

The Friends of Muenster FFA, FCCLA, 4-H, and Home Ec would like to thank the patrons listed below for their generosity and support of our youth at the Cooke County Youth Fair. This year, a total of $28,475.00 was spent on the students of Sacred Heart and Muenster ISD who participated in the Youth Fair. This money is spent completely on premiums for their projects.

We hope you had an opportunity to attend the Youth Fair this year and see the hard work and dedication these students have for their animals and projects. You would know that the money you contributed went to a very great cause - the youth of our community.

Thank you, again, for your contributions. It is people like you who make this a success! Respectfully:

Running for the cure

Local Muenster running enthusiasts, Anne and Neil Hesse (back), and front, from left - Katie Felderhoff, Stephanie Schilling, Malony Bartush, and not pictured Kacie Garcia, took part in the Inaugural Rock N Roll Marathon last weekend in Dallas. The morning started off cool and made for a picturesque day for runners. More than 13,000 runners took part in the race, which benefits the Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer Foundation. Recession pushes retail meat sales

Findings from an annual retail meat survey reveal that despite the recession, meat consumption increased in 2009, but spending was down as shoppers gravitated toward cheaper cuts and prices decreased overall, reports MeatPoultry.com. According to the fifth annual joint study, the 'Power of Meat,' by the American Meat Institute and the Food Marketing Institute, 62% of shoppers whose household incomes were cut significantly altered their meat-buying habits, including eating more in-home cooked meals and eating out less.

In terms of marketing, in-store signage promoting sales was the biggest factor determining where shoppers buy meat, how much they buy, and whether it's organic or conventional. According to the survey, shoppers to whom brand is unimportant is up to 74% for fresh meat and 62% for processed meat.

With 73% of all shoppers aware of case-ready meat, many believe the quality of pre-packaged meat and poultry is equal to or better than that cut and packaged in the store, according to the survey. Trust in case-ready meat translates into a median of 90% of meat and poultry purchases originating from the self-service case. The study indicated that one fourth of shoppers buy only case-ready meat.

Reasons for shoppers to use the full-service counter included the appeal of specialty cuts, special occasions, and quantities not available in the meat case. Shoppers refer to family gatherings, holidays, cookouts, and other special occasions for using the full-service counter.

Dave Van Metre, Extension Veterinarian, Colorado State University

There are a lot of different opinions regarding which antibiotics are best for treating common infections - for example, pneumonia and footrot. How can a cow-calf producer make the best decision about which product to use and when?

First, a brief clarification of terms: An antibiotic is a naturally-occurring drug that has the capacity to inhibit and/or kill bacteria. Antimicrobials possess the same capabilities, but this term includes not only naturally-occurring drugs as well as synthetic drugs. I'll use the latter term in the discussion below.

The most appropriate antimicrobial drug to use for any given situation is a very complex matter that will vary according to the animal, its value and intended use, the infection, and the stage of infection. Most importantly, even though a short list of causative bacteria can be defined for many common infections, the truth is, infections do appear to respond differently to different treatments on different premises. This likely reflects differences among premises in management and environment, as well as differences in the relative role that certain bacteria may play on different ranches. Simply put, what works well on Ranch A may not on Ranch B.

My recommendation for each producer is that he or she should sit down with their veterinarian and discuss common "infection scenarios" to determine 1) IF antibiotics are necessary for a given scenario, and if so, then 2) what criteria should be used to select one drug over another, or at least to narrow down the choices for each scenario. I have developed a list of criteria, all of which begin with the letter S, that I have found useful in these discussions: I call these the "Six Ss of Antimicrobial Therapy."

1) Scenario: This is essential the criteria for a diagnosis of an infection. Is it a visibly ill animal with a fever, but no other signs of disease? Do the signs suggest pneumonia? Are we dealing with an open wound? Is it footrot? You and your veterinarian can discuss the common disease scenarios that occur on your ranch and determine criteria that justify the use of antimicrobials. I find that one way to tackle this problem is to take note of which antibiotics are NOT likely to be effective for a given type of infection - in other words, to exclude certain antibiotics from the list of choices for given scenarios. In so doing, one can define what not to give for each scenario, which may help shorten the list of choices.

2) Slaughter withholding period: This is the legally-mandated duration of time that an animal must be held on the premises until the level of the drug residues in the animal's tissues reaches a predetermined, safe level. If an animal is scheduled for impending sale or slaughter and must be treated with an antimicrobial drug, then selection of the antimicrobial may be strongly swayed by the duration of the slaughter withholding period, which differs markedly among different drugs.

3) Susceptibility: Your veterinarian can access data that indicate which bacteria are susceptible to the different types of antimicrobial drugs, and you can discuss with him or her which bacteria are likely to be involved - and their susceptibilities - for common infection scenarios. Obviously, the bacteria involved in a given infection scenario must be susceptible to the effects of the antimicrobial for the treatment to be effective. Here is an example: If you or your veterinarian either highly suspect - or have documented with lab tests - infection by a genus of bacteria called Mycoplasma, then it is essential that the drug selected has lipid-soluble properties. Why? These bacteria reside inside the animal's cells, and the lipid-rich cell membrane will limit the ability of the water-soluble drugs (such as the sulfonamides) to penetrate the cell and affect these bacteria. Further, Mycoplasma are not susceptible to penicillins or cephalosporins because they lack a cell wall, which is the site in other bacteria where these antimicrobials attack.

4) Spending: Primarily, this reflects the cost of the antimicrobial drug, which can vary markedly among different products. However, parameters other than the simple cost for the dose needed for the animal must be factored in when considering how much to spend: Treatment frequency: If repeated doses are needed over a course of treatment, the labor and time involved in gathering and restraining the animal has to be considered. Handling of animals also can cause them stress, which can adversely affect health. This is where certain long-acting products may offer an advantage.

Estimated efficacy: If a particular antimicrobial drug is inexpensive, it may seem attractive for use, but if it is much less likely to bring about a cure than another, more expensive drug, then you may find yourself with an ineffective treatment and an animal that is still ill days from now. This is a judgment call that your veterinarian can help you estimate.

5) Safety - Of utmost importance is to understand that certain antimicrobials can harm the person handling or injecting them. For each antimicrobial that you keep on your ranch, you need to understand if the product represents a health hazard to you or your personnel. This information can be obtained on most product websites as well as described in the package insert that accompanies most products (or is listed on a fold-out document beneath the label on the product bottle). Appropriate education and training of personnel is essential to safe handling of these products. Certain people may be allergic to even casual skin contact with certain drugs, so it is important to ask your personnel about any allergies that they might have to different types of antimicrobial drugs.

Although most commonly-used antibiotics are safe for use by the animal, there are a few that can cause harmful effects in certain species or situations. In many cases where antimicrobials can cause harm to the animal, the drugs involved are not even approved for use in that species or for the disease in question. A good example is the use of aminoglycoside-class antimicrobials such as gentamycin or neomycin in dehydrated animals, which can cause significant kidney damage. These two antimicrobials have very limited approvals for use in certain livestock species, and use outside of those approved parameters can result not only in harm to the animal, but in prolonged slaughter withholding times owing to their characteristic persistence in the animal. Which brings us to the final S:

6) Statutes: There are established laws regarding how antimicrobials can be used in livestock. Certain products are illegal for use in food-producing animals under any circumstance. Others have statutes that only allow the drug to be used for particular classes of livestock (e.g. non-lactating cattle), certain ages of cattle, or only allow use for particular diseases. These statutes are intended to protect the consumer from potential harm from chemical residues of the drug in meat and milk products derived from treated livestock; and potential harm that can arise from indiscriminate use of antimicrobials in livestock, such as induction of resistant strains of bacteria that cause disease in people. Antibiotic use in food-producing animals has come under increased scrutiny in the past 25 years, primarily over concerns of the potential influence that antibiotic use in animals might have on human health.

There is no doubt that antimicrobial drugs are a precious and valuable resource that livestock producers need to keep their animals healthy - in fact, because many infections are painful and stressful, antimicrobials are essential tools that we use to maintain the overall well-being of our livestock.

TDA market recap

For the week ending March 13, feeder cattle prices at Texas auctions were $2 to $6 higher per hundredweight on steers and heifers under 600 pounds, and steady to $4 higher on heavier weights. Recent rains have improved pasture conditions, increasing demand for lighter-weight feeders for grazing. Fed cattle prices were $2.60 higher.

Grain markets ended the week lower as ample global supplies and weak exports continued to pressure prices.

As for futures markets, feeder cattle, fed cattle, and lumber were higher, while cotton, wheat, and corn were lower.

Winter wheat progressed well in most areas. Pastures were in mostly fair to good condition.
