VOLUME 76 NUMBER 2 DECEMBER 2, 2011

75 years in business marked by Muenster Enterprise

By Janet Felderhoff

Founded in 1936 by R.N. Fette, the first issue of the Muenster Enterprise rolled off the press on Nov. 27. It was filled with local news that might be as minor as a cut, bump, or a trip to Gainesville, and as life changing as births, deaths, and marriages as well as everything in between. City news was covered by Mr. Fette, and he touched on national issues with his popular column Confetti. There were few pictures in those first years and columns of type filled the pages.

On Nov. 17, the Muenster Enterprise staff celebrated the end of its 75th year with the community invited to a come and go party with cake and snacks. Individual invitations were sent out to former employees who could be located.

The afternoon proved enjoyable as friends and colleagues caught up on what was happening in each others' lives. It was fun to learn who had worked at the paper and what their jobs had

Former employees dropping in included Mary Ann

R.N. died at the age of 79 in August 1986. His death served to run for one week's came just months before the Enterprise's 50th anniversary. The Fettes' son David ticle, "In 1939, approximatetook over the job of publisher/editor in 1979. David moved the paper into a new era. Rather than printing it in-plant using hot lead type, he took it to the Bowie News where it was printed with an offset system. This allowed the use of more pictures. Type was set on a machine dubbed "old blue."

written by Elfreda Fette about the 50th anniversary, it said, "From its infant years in a rented frame building in the second block of Main Street, then moving to its present location at 117 East First Street in 1939, publication of Muenster's historical changes has been continuous.

"There was only one major interruption during a devastating ice storm that downed and Sherman and an even

Also noted in Elfreda's arly half of the new building's space was used for Enterprise operation. The remaining space was available for rent.

"First tenant was the Cooke County Electric Coop. When that organization moved, the Upper Elm-Red Soil Conservation District offices and personnel occupied In an Enterprise article the west half of the building

With the transfer of staff and equipment to a more central location in the Federal Building in Gainesville and to other offices at a greater distances, the Enterprise began expanding into about half of the remaining floor space." The Muenster Chamber of Commerce rented the remaining space until the early '90s when it moved to a location with more space.

Muenster Enterprise staff, past and present, came together on Thursday, Nov. 17 to celebrate the newspaper completing its 75th year of serving the Muenster community and surrounding area. Names were drawn for raffle prizes. Wilfred Sicking won the lifetime subscription and Gary Droll won $75 in Muenster Marks. Christmas Parade marches on despite cold, blustery day

By Janet Felderhoff

Christmas Parade ushers in the Christmas season each year on the Saturday after Thanksgiving. This year, it took place despite cold, wet, and windy conditions.

According to Muenster Chamber of Commerce Executive Director John Broyles, 'The annual Christmas parade was a cold and windy success. We appreciate all of the parade entrants and those of you who braved the cold north wind to watch, and Henry Weinzapfel for his fly over. Santa had a full house and we appreciate his being here for us again."

County Clerk

Cooke County

By Janet Felderhoff

It is the duty of the County Clerk to keep safe all records. That includes records of land transactions, births, deaths, marriages, and elec-

Two of the County Clerk's employees do filing of records and greeting customers. Deed records will be kept locked in a vault in the basement. When requested, people will be allowed to go into that area to do records searches. Criminal and probate, and possibly marriage records will be kept in the Clerk's office.

Probate records go back to 1850. Some are on computer. Criminal records date back to 1950. These are all misdemeanor fines. Civil records, the next step up from JP Court, are also kept by the County Clerk.

Vital statistic Clerk Cindy Walterscheid will also office in the basement area.

"All three of those items do keep us very busy," said Rebecca Lawson, county clerk. "There's a lot of criminals that have to go through the system and every criminal ends up with a file and its several papers. All of that in-formation has to be scanned into the computer."

Election responsibilities also keep the County Clerk's Office busy. The County Clerk finds election judges and secures locations to hold elections. She orders the election ballots, and trains the election judges.

Another task of the County Clerk is keeping minutes Commissioners Court

Visitors to that office may be researching land records for various reasons or seeking genealogy information for vital statistics books. The County does not do searches, but shows interested peo-ple how to go about doing it themselves. Copies can be procured at $1 per page. Lawson said it is her goal to get all records on the computer. Currently, from 1990 to present are available on the Internet at texaslandrecords.com. For the past two years, their office received an Exemplary Award and seven years Recognized from the State. Exemplary is earned by going over what is expected in filing their vital statistics. To receive Recognized, a county must be Texas Electronics compliant in filling vital statistics.

"I probably could not do my job without the fabulous staff that I have," praised Lawson. "They all know their job real well and they all are eager to learn and eager to do their work. I've always said this job is a learning process. One of the things I believe in is try not tell somebody, 'I don't know, I tell them I'll try to find out."

Letter to the Readers

Congratulations to everyone at the Muenster Enterprise on achieving your 75th anniversary. We are anxious to see the coverage in the next issue! Your print and color quality are so much better than what we used to run when we were there. But you remain dedicated to local news, just as Ramie and Elfreda were. We are very proud to have been a part of all that ink, I am a little jealous because I think you are selling more advertising now than I used to. And, I miss having the privilege to watch the football games from the sidelines.

We don't miss Wednesday nights. What we miss the most are all our friends and co-workers, both at the paper and in all the organizations that we were part of. We firmly believe that our Lord led us down here to Central Texas and Temple /Belton. What we learned and practiced in Muenster is put to good use at our parish, school, and workplaces and with our family here. I remember when Johnny Leftwich used to come see us occasionally from Dustin's. Now I'm the sales guy for office supplies. Anybody need a deal on paper clips or pencils? And certainly, the teaching and singing carry on for Pam at Holy Trinity Catholic High School.

We're proud of you guys! And we're glad that small town newspapers don't tag along down the path with the main stream media. by his parents; step-grand-

Alvin, Janie, and Linda are still working at the *Enter*prise, but their duties have changed. All I know is, there truly is only one Enterprise Family and I feel very blessed to be a part of it."

Flusche down several positions at the Enterprise. She started out working from home as a bookkeeper. Soon after her youngest child started school, there was a need for a on ad building as part of her responsibilities. Linda took on that job and is now bookkeeper for all three newspapers, typesetter, circulation manager, and although she declares she is not a writer, takes on writing obituaries and other stories when needed. She remarked, "No one event stands out in my mind after working for the Enterprise for 31 years. The best part has been working with customers and people I have gotten to know through working at my job. I have been a big blessing in my ishing up as I heard the key Janet Felderhoff shared, "Priceless to me are the people I have met while covering stories, meetings, and doing features. When I first began to write, I could not have imagined all of the wonderful experiences this job would offer or the diverse and interesting people it would lead me to get to there are stories "But. that sadden me to write - the various tragedies that touch people's lives that are news and must be written. Some have been written through tears and prayers that they were done in ways not to bring more heartbreak to those involved.

"I recall Dianne Walterscheid teaching me to build pages for the paper. She said, 'It's just like putting a puzzle together.' And she was so right - sometimes the pieces fall together so easily and other times, they just won't fit very easily. But it is challenging and exciting when it comes out well.

"I guess one of the most exciting times was meeting then Gov. George Bush and his wife Laura at the Cooke County Courthouse. to run for U.S. President, Gov. Bush did not intimidate me, but Laura was so poised and lady-like that I was in awe of her and couldn't think of a single appropriate question to ask her. I'm sure she thought I was a real country

"Some of my happiest memories are of the camaraas we worked late into the night to get the paper out. People who at times stopped in on Wednesday evening probably wondered about us. We would get a friendly argument going to keep us awake when we were especially tired. Just walking in on the conversation, you'd think we were truly angry with each other. We have logged in some long hours and a lot of fun over the years. As Brenda mentioned, it is a blessing to be a part of the Enterprise family.

Scott Wood recalls moving to Muenster and feeling at home as they pulled up to their rent house. "It was the first time in a long time that I felt like I really belonged, he recalled. "That was even before we officially became owners of the newspaper."

Having owned a newspaper in Crane, Scott was accustomed to paginating the rapher for the *Muenster En*newspaper pages. Tools were paper, hot dodging to get the right imwax, scissors, border tape, and a good exacto knife.

The Sacred Heart Tigers had won a State Championship football game and a special section was being built to honor that occasion. Computer upgrades followed and soon the Enter*prise* staff began taking baby nation. Pictures can now be taken and ready to put in the paper in minutes as opposed to the non digital method of using film, developing it into a photo, and making a PMT of the photo with just the right dot pattern for a good news print. The waxer is long retired and we no longer print out the stories, cut them in columns, and wax them for placement on the pages. Exacto blades are stored in a drawer collecting dust. Late night Wednesdays are a thing of the past and the paper can be built much faster than in the days before pagination. "It went surprisingly

Another change came in the printing business at the Enterprise. Most of the printing moved from the old offset presses to digital. This change allows quicker turn around time on print jobs,

Some of Scott's good memories are of times when local teams made the playoffs and he was able to take his family to the games. "It was great to be able to do this as a family," he said.

A not so happy memory is of the wildfires that threatened the area a few years ago. An evacuation of Muenster was pending, and Scott didn't wait to see if it was imminent. "I packed up all the computers and everything it would take to get a paper out, he recalled. "I was ready to set up in a hotel in Gainesville if that's what it took to get the paper out." Fortunately, the fire was contained before it got near enough to cause an evacua-

Scott commented on the stability of the community. He remarked, "You can count on people to be there if they say they will. It's not like that everywhere."

Janie Hartman spent most of her years at the paper bringing the news to people visually through photos. She recalled, "Being the photogterprise and spending hours film and then cropping and age. The joy of watching that image appear on a blank sheet of paper as you moved it around in the tray of liquid under the red light. Photography was an art. Today, digital cameras and Photoshop do all the work. True, it is a lot less time consuming, but it's also a lot less creative.

Alvin Hartman recalls having just graduated from high school in 1946 and not would do the rest of his life. He was helping his dad build their new house in town. Ramie Fette drove up and asked him if he wanted a job. Alvin accepted even though he didn't know what the job was to be, and was told to come to work that Monday morning. "I remember going to work with a white Alvin chuckled. "That Tuesday I wore blue jeans. It was all hot metal back in those days. We had the all handset type and we still have many, that Ramie bought in 1936. Nearly all the handset type is still there today. My job was to do handset type. As Alvin gained experience on the job, he built all of the ads and built all the pages. The linotype was a great invention over the handset type. At one time, all the newspapers were printed with handset type and then they got the linotype which used brass mats with letters in them. You shot hot metal against that mat where you set your information. The hot metal would go into those little letters. The big advantage there was that after you printed that line all the mats went back into the magazine of the linotype and you could had handset when you ran out of Es, you were as far as you could go." He said the metal in the pot was 550°. There was no air conditioning in the building.

Alvin recalls that they

When Ramie was serving in the Army, he got a job printing stationary for the military. He would come home every weekend Alvin recalled. He bought a suction fed press and that was the first kind of automatic press. The Eidelberg was bought in the early '50s, and it is still used today by Alvin. He does some printing, perforating, and folding with it.

"Every job was a challenge," remarked Alvin. "Every ad that I ever built, every form that I built was different. I never did the more years.

was the biggest challenge of ting all the pages together. I compared it to doing a jigsaw puzzle every day. I enjoyed working with all the owners and every employee that I ever worked with there.

"You can do so much more with the equipment today. We never owned a camera that I know of until Janie got there."

Alvin also sold ads for years. He served as the editor for a short time before David became the publisher.

Baptism

Kelly

Christine Jane Kelly was baptized on Nov. 13 at Sacred Heart Church in Muenster. Fr. Ken Robinson presided at the Christening. Christine wore her mother's baptismal gown and a handmade handkerchief cap given to her by her aunt and uncle Angie and Mark Eason. Attending were her parents Matt and Becky Kelly, her grandparents and Godparents Sam and Karen Endres, and her paternal grand-mother Teresa Kelly. Christine's namesake and greataunt Jane Taylor attended, along with her great-great-aunt Dorothy Hartman, aunts and uncles Angie and Mark Eason, Jennie and Sam Almerico, Roger Taylor, and Bill Kelly. Christine was happy all day because her many cousins were able to celebrate with her. Present at the baptismal font were: Sandy and Cheyenne Valentine; Kaleigh, Alyssa, and Luke Eason; and Rex and Noni Almerico. A celebration dinner was given by the Godparents/grandparents at their home. Grandmother Teresa Kelly provided the decorated cross cake and white lamb cupcake cake. The beautiful sunny fall weather added to the blessings of the day.

Lindsay feels Muenster's sting - again

For the second straight year in a row, the 57-16 lead with 6:14 remaining in the game. Muenster Hornets and Lindsay Knights met on the football field twice in one season, in District play and in the Regional round of yard line to the Muenster 10. Elijah Wathe 1A Division 1 playoffs. And for the second straight year, the Hornets defeated the Yancey's PAT gave the final 57-23 score. Knights, advancing Muenster into the Quarterfinal game this Friday night.

"Overall, we played one of our top two games of the year, the other against Collinsville," commented Muenster Coach Brady Carney. "Our offense and O-line both did a good job, our defense did a better job against the pass, and the special teams put points on the board."

Muenster had 10 drives, seven ending with a touchdown, one an interception, one punt, and the final to end the game.

The Hornets had a total of 55 plays for 451 yards of total offense, while the Knights got 3/20 in 50 plays for 248 total yards.

Action began with Knight Garrett Yancey booting the opening kickoff. Clint Sidwell returned the ball 9 yards to the Muenster 40 yard line. A run each by Tyler Anderle and Dalton Koelzer moved the Hornets to the Dalton Koelzer moved the Hornets to the rison, 7/84; Tyler Dennington, 8/53; Blake midfield line. An Anderle to Blake Voth pass

Haverkamp completion to Jace Wann gained 35 yards. Harrison and Haverkamp added a few to get the Knights to the Hornet 13. A minus run, a penalty, and an incomplete pass were followed by an 8 yard pass play from in a 4th down situation on the 12 yard line. With 4:14 on the clock, Yancey cleared the uprights for a 29 yard field goal and a 7-3

Muenster's second drive of the game began on the Hornet 38. Muenster kept the ball on the ground, running eight gaining plays by Trevor Hess, Anderle, and Hammer. Hess with 14 seconds remaining in the 1st period. Klement added the PAT for a 14-3 Muenster Haverkamp pass to Fleitman to the 10. Walker moved the line to the 4. Haverkamp ran the next three plays, scoring from the 1 yard line. Yancey's PAT kick kept Lindsay in the game for a 21-10 score with 6:41 remaining in the 1st half.

Muenster took Yancey's kick on the 35. Anderle, Koelzer, Hess, and Hammer all got in runs, along with an Anderle pass to Koelzer. to move the ball to the Lindsay 17. With 1:58 on the clock, Muenster extended their lead to 28-10 with an Anderle to Andy Flusche touchdown pass and a Klement PAT.

The Knights got in three plays and punted, and the Hornets five passing plays before Yancey intercepted a pass at 14 seconds before the halftime break.

The 3rd quarter was dominated by the Hornets as they were able to extend their lead to 40 points before the Knights scored very late in the period.

Hunter Klement booted a 48 yard kick, Hud Harrison returned it 35 yards, but fumbled the ball which was covered by Klement on the 38. Anderle gained a yard, then completed a 17 yard pass play to Voth. Koelzer gained 15, with Anderle scoring from the 5. Klement completed another PAT for a 35-10 score at the 10:07 mark.

Klement's kick was returned by Walker to the 26. Again the Knights struggled, and were forced to punt on 4th and 12. The snap to Fleitman didn't connect, and Koelzer caught the Lindsay punter in the end zone for a 2 point safety and a 37-10 score.

The free kick was returned 18 yards by Sidwell to the Knight 36 yard line. It took Muenster only three runs to find the end zone. After an unsuccessful Hornet run, Anderle gained 26 and Hammer 11 for the score. Klement's PAT gave Muenster a 44-10 lead with 7 minutes remaining in the 3rd quarter. The Knights' next drive began on their 20 yard line. Walker gained 4, followed by a 50 yard run by Harrison to the Muenster 26. On 4th and 6, a Haverkamp pass was picked off by Hammer at the 16 yard line. The Hornets again remained grounded, running eight plays, by Hammer, Koelzer, Anderle, and Hess, the final a 15 yard scoring Hammer run for 6 points. The PAT failed for a 50-10 score with 29 seconds on the clock.

Lindsay answered back when Yancey returned the kick 85 yards for 6 points. The PAT failed for a 50-16 score going into the final quarter.

Muenster gained 8, lost 5 to a flag, and punted, their only punt in the game.

Lindsay got in four plays before Andy Flusche intercepted the Knights' ball. Three plays later, Steven Flusche scored on a 57 yard run. A Klement PAT gave Muenster a Go Hornets

Next ActionThe undefeated (12-0) Muenster Hornets will have a Quarterfinal rematch with the were followed by an 8 yard pass play from Mart Panthers. The Panthers knocked the Haverkamp to Blake Walker to put Lindsay Hornets off the playoff bracket last year, defeating Muenster 58-7, then went on to win the State Championship. Mart did graduate 18 seniors off the title team, returning only three offensive and five defensive starters including three in the backfield.

"They have five seniors compared to 18 last season," said Coach Carney. "They have really talented skill kids, but lack experience on the finished the drive with a 5 yard scoring run line." Carney added that the Hornets can't give up any big plays if they want to win. "We have a good shot if we play like last week and minimize our penalties and turnovers."

Rain good Thanksgiving gift for winter pasture growers

Texas, an early Thanksgiving feast for already planted winter pastures, according to Texas AgriLife Extension Service personnel.

Though welcome, the rain came too late for droughthammered summer pastures, many of which are in sad shape, according to AgriLife Extension agent reports.

For example, before the rain, Pasquale Swaner, AgriLife Extension agent for Falls County, near Waco, reported that while "driving throughout the county, pastures are worse than anyone can imagine. A large portion are just grazed to dirt.

However, the rain will certainly help winter pastures, and eventually it will be good for warm-season pastures too, said Dr. Vanessa Corriher, AgriLife Extension forage specialist in East Texas. "For pastures that have been grazed down, it's going to take them a long time to recover," Corriher said. "Most Rain came to large parts of of those forages, our warmseason perennials, are going into dormancy as we get cooler temperatures. We're not going to see any recovery until we get into spring."

But for many of those producers who planted winter pastures earlier, the rains came just in time, she said.

"Whether it's a cool-season annual ryegrass, or some small grains or any coolseason legume, the moisture will help those forages to potentially provide some grazing," she said.
Though it's highly recommended to fertilize winter pastures, the timing is a bit off. Corriher said. Her standard recommendation is to wait until around the middle of November, but after the first freeze to ensure all ilv when it's needed." warm-season pastures have entered dormancy East Texas hasn't had any frosts yet.

"And it's a better idea to get the nitrogen out before we've had a rain, but of course, sometimes we can't anticipate that next rainfall," she said. "But if you have some winter pasture that's coming up, and you are anticipating some more rain, fertilization would be a great idea for optimal production.

Some producers were holding off planting because of lack of moisture, but it's a bit too late to plant now. For East Texas, Corriber doesn't recommend planting any winter forages past about Nov. 15.

There are some producers, who I've visited with recently, who are looking at planting winter pastures, primarily annual ryegrass," she said. "Realize, though, that planting at a later date will result in (forage) production later in the season, and not necessar-

TDA market recap

For the week ending Nov. 26, feeder cattle prices at selected Texas auctions were mostly steady. Oklahoma City was mostly steady to $5 higher per hundredweight, though a few were $2 lower. Texas direct feeder cattle sales were mostly steady to $3 higher. Competition for a shrinking supply of available cattle continues to support the market. Fed cattle prices were higher as processors had to increase bids for a smaller cattle supply. Beef values were also higher with Choice beef remaining at a near-record high level. Cotton and grain prices were lower as the ongoing global economic uncertainty led to concerns that demand will suffer.

As for futures markets, fed cattle were higher while feeder cattle, cotton, wheat, corn, and lumber were lower. Much of the state, except for South Texas, recorded rainfall last week with the heaviest amounts mostly east of I-35 and north of I-10. Topsoil moisture remains in mostly short to very short supply, though areas with adequate supplies have expanded following the recent rains.

Cotton was rated in mostly fair to very poor condition, to suggest this kind of a move with 93% of the crop harlower. Volumes are still on vested, compared to 75% on the light side due to MF and average by this date. Grain sorghum harvest was 93% complete, equal to the normal pace. Winter wheat seedings were 94% complete and 74% of the acreage has emerged. The crop was reported in mostly good to poor condition. Peanut harvest is 97% cabbage, and pecan harvests also are underway. Pasture conditions improved someto poor condition.

County Agent's Report

Winter grain mites noticed in small grains fields

black. Mite damage is generally more severe in fields planted to small grains in consecutive years. Crop rotation with crops inform us that this pest feeds primarily at night, remaining around the base of the plant during the day. The mite's activity is retarded during periods of hot, dry weather, and greatest damage occurs during winter and early spring.

Mites cause leaf tips to turn brown and plants to become stunted with a silvery-gray appearance. These plant stress symptoms and the presence of mites indicate the need for treatment of the field. Although, it is also noted that grazing of small grains may suppress aphid and winter grain mite that need this control method. However, in recent discussion with Dr. Alan Knutson, Extension entomologist, about the need to treat, he suggested that winter grain mites are a dry weather pest. If rainfall does not continue, the mites will increase in numbers and the leaf damage will increase.

A good rain seals the soil cracks, preventing many of the mites from moving from the soil up onto the plants to feed.

In addition, rain helps the plants outgrow the leaf damage.

Therefore, if you opt not to treat an infested field now, the persist in the field during the summer and if small grains are planted in the same field year after year, the problem can become more severe. Thus, crop rotation helps break the cycle. However, winter grain mites also feed on other grasses, and can move into the margin of a field from adjacent grasses, so crop rotation is not 100% effective in such a case,
