PREPARED FOR ARCTIC OPERATIONS

—Uncle Sam's soldier's are trained for duty in all climates. With snow shoes slung over their bags, the men in this platoon are marching into the unbroken trails along lofty summits of the Rocky mountains for their field maneuvers. They are equipped for winter fighting at home or for rugged action in Alaska or other regions of the far north. These troops are instructed in operating from natural camouflage and in the deep snow.

LT.-GEN. JOS. STILWELL

—Gen Stilwell is credited with the recent reverses administered the Japanese forces in China. He is Command-in-Chief of the United Nations army in the Burma area.

Incidents---Odd and Comical---Occurred During Rationing

As far as the weather was concerned, Mother's Day in this corner of the Ozarks wasn't so hot. A dreary, rainy day. But to the mothers who were here to visit their soldier sons, it was nevertheless a delightful occasion. Wind and sun and rain do not determine a mother's happiness. To thousands of other mothers in every part of the nation Fort Leonard Wood was a source of pride and delight. Judging by what happened within the limited sphere of Cooke County, he estimates that very nearly 100 per cent of men have remembered their mothers in some way — that is, those who are fortunate enough to have mothers still living.

The fact that they send a message or token of affection on this day is one of the finest recommendations our nation can offer for its fighting men. For in doing so they are expressing one of the highest ideals in our civilization.

By way of contrast, consider a mother's — or any other woman's — place in the pagan civilizations that are now trying to dominate the world. How does she rate in the society of Hitler or Hirohito? A mere inferior destined to a bleak existence of virtual slavery, doing menial tasks and bearing sons whose destiny is to shed their blood for the glory of power-crazed tyrants. Under the present Nazi regime she is officially told to degrade herself for the sake of the Fuehrer. In Japan, when appearing in public, she must admit her inferiority by walking at a respectful distance behind her husband.

What a contrast with Christianity! In which the mother, and wife, is respected as a companion, in which we more frequently find that the real object of men's efforts is the comfort and happiness of women.

Mother's Day can inspire every one of us with a more wholesome attitude toward the present fight. Thinking over its significance here and in the Axis nations we are even more determined to win.

Considered from that viewpoint, the past week's preponderance of good news must have been as cheering to American mothers as Sunday's expressions of affection. At last, it seems, the Allies are beginning to overcome the tremendous advantages enjoyed earlier by the Axis. The turning point, if not already here, is at least fairly close.

We are delighted to hear of the Chinese counter-offensive in the Mandalay area and even see possibilities of a success that would nullify Japan's spectacular gain. More good news comes from Europe where England's RAF and the Russian army continue to hold the initiative. At the same time — after discounting many reports as Nazi propaganda — we can feel quite certain that all is not well with the domestic situation on the continent.

Madagascar is another source of good news. Obviously, the Allies beat the Axis to the punch in that case and won a position that is invaluable for both defense and offense. Of course we cannot overlook the sad fact that Corregidor was lost on the same day. And while we mourn the loss of thousands of brave men who fell or were captured, we also realize that the Allies probably won in the exchange of strategic positions. Corregidor for some months has had no value as an offensive base.

By far the most sensational good news comes from the Coral Sea, where, according to General MacArthur, the Japs suffered the worst defeat in their history while Allied losses were relatively light. Indications are that the invasion of Australia and the menace to Allied supply lines has been averted at least for a while.

But on the heels of this report comes another saying that hostile (Continued on page 6)

There were a few odd and some comical incidents in connection with the registration of Muenster's citizens in the sugar rationing program last week.

The youngest person to be registered was the eight-day-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Wimmer, and the oldest was Mrs. Rosina Klement, who was 90 years old in April. The one to register from the most distant point was Mrs. Billy Eberhart of Macon, Ga., and the oldest person to register for himself was J. P. Fisch, 86, who walked from his home to the school, answered all questions for himself and his wife promptly, and signed the application blanks without glasses.

Contrary to reports from other cities there was no difficulty here for the registrars in securing answers to the questions asked on the application blank. Not one woman refused to give her right age or her correct weight. The men were very obliging in answering the same questions.

One family who registered will not be able to buy sugar for months and months. The reason is that the family had a supply of more than a hundred pounds of sugar on hand at the time of registration. One man, when asked the number of persons in his family unit, immediately answered, "Six," and when the registrar began asking for the names, heights, ages and weights, he retorted quickly, "They are all dead, except me."

One man forgot his children's heights and weights and had to make two trips back home before he finally got the necessary information, one woman simply could not remember her daughter's middle name, and one person insisted that he did not need to register because he couldn't eat anything sweet.

Principal Virgil Lee Welch, in charge of registration here, this week thanked Muenster citizens for their cooperation in registering alphabetically. Almost without exception they came on their designated days, and nearly all persons came prepared with the answers to the questions.

Twenty-six late comers registered the last day, Thursday, and a final tally of the business session, which revealed that 1,663 registered during the four days and exactly 1,600 received ration books.

SPECIAL ALLOTMENTS OF SUGAR AVAILABLE FOR BERRY CANNING

Realizing that the entire strawberry crop will be lost unless housewives are able to obtain sugar for preserving of the fruit, Miss Nette Shultz, county home agent, has been authorized by Roy Winder, chairman of the county rationing board, to make the following statement:

Special allotments may be made to any housewife who holds a war ration book, if she will file her wishes on a form issued by the board, stating her exact case and the promise that she will use the sugar so obtained only for preserving. The board will take the matter up immediately.

The office of the rationing board is located on the second floor of the courthouse.

Knowing there are only two methods of taking care of the present crop of strawberries, preserving and placing in freezer lockers for future use, Miss Shultz urges housewives to use the sugar for taking care of the strawberries, pointing out that other fruits can be canned and preserved later in the season.

Honey and corn syrup may be used in part or all, Miss Shultz mentioned, but strawberries will not jelly where an all-sugar substitute is used. She advises part corn syrup and part honey in order to use as little sugar as possible.

SOUTH BRIDGE TO BE CLOSED FOR REPAIRS MONDAY

The bridge south of town, across Big Elm, will be closed next Monday, May 18th, from 10 o'clock in the morning until 5 p. m., while repairs are being made, Commissioner E. A. Felker, has announced.

Mr. Felker stated that recent rains and high water had undermined the piling and that the bridge will have to be jacked up for repairs.

The hours for the work were set from ten to five to permit morning and evening traffic to cross without being detained. Mr. Felker said. Other traffic during the day will have to detour.

Miss Ernie Herr went to Dallas last week to accept a position.

SODALITY GIRLS PRESENT PROGRAM ON MOTHER'S DAY

A delightful program was presented in the parish hall Sunday evening by members of the Young Ladies Sodality in observance of Mother's Day. More than eighty mothers of the community were honored guests. Mothers were admitted free and others paid a small admission charge which will be used in helping to defray the expenses of members who will attend the Summer School of Catholic Action in St. Louis next month. A large crowd attended the entertainment.

The program began with a group of selections by the Youth Orchestra, and three one-act skits were presented. "Why, Mary?" "Mother, You Understand," and a comedy, "Want To Be An Actor?" Included in the casts were Misses Mildred Walterscheid, Elizabeth Walterscheid, Clara and Rosalie Henscheid, Rose and Mary Nell Hennigan, Mary Elizabeth and Dolly Endros, Frances and Evelyn Wiestman and Annela Pels, and Martin Becker, Harold Luke, Bernard and Herbert Swirczynski.

Miss Katie Mae Walterscheid presented an accordion selection, Misses Juanita Weinzapfel and Gladys Wilde sang, "Mother, Pearl", accompanied on the piano by Miss Alma Marie Luke, and Miss Mildred Walterscheid gave an accordion and vocal number. Misses Rose and Mary Nell Hennigan sang, "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling" with Miss Juanita Weinzapfel at the piano.

Prizes were awarded to the oldest mother of sodalists present, to the youngest mother with a daughter in the sodality and to the mother with the most daughters in the sodality. Mrs. Fred Herr, Sr., was honored by being the oldest mother in attendance and also for having the most daughters present, and Mrs. Clem Reiter was the youngest mother of a sodalist present.

FATHER FROWIN IS IMPROVING SLOWLY

Father Frowin, who had a hemorrhage in his left eye on May 4, is improving slowly and is responding to treatment, according to his attending physicians.

Clearing the eye up is rather a slow process, and it will probably be three or four weeks before Father Frowin can go about his duties in the usual manner. Meanwhile, he says he feels fine otherwise, and there is no pain in the eye, only the annoyance of blurred and dimmed vision.

FLOWERS SENT TO SOLDIERS SUNDAY

A large box of cut flowers was sent to Sheppard Field Friday by members of the Civic League and Garden Club to cheer boys in the hospital and decorate the chapel on Mother's Day. Mrs. Jim Cook, chairman of the defense committee, was in charge of the details.

Flowers sent were a large variety of blossoms gathered in the yards of club members and other citizens who contributed to this cause. The shipment went out Friday night and was delivered free of charge through the courtesy of Central Truck Line.

In reporting on cemetery work, Mrs. Miller stated that shrubbery and other plants are in good condition.

Mrs. Joe Luke, president, presided at the business session. Other reports were given by Mrs. Jim Cook who gave an account of the Red Cross work and Mrs. Tony Greenminger who reported on 4-H Girls' activity.

This will be the third presentation of the comedy. It has already been shown here and at Lindsay.

ROBERT L. HOWZE NAME CHOSEN FOR COOKE COUNTY CAMP

Cooke county's army cantonment has been named Camp Howze in honor of the late Major General Robert Lee Howze, native of Texas and distinguished cavalry officer, who saw service in the Spanish American war, with General Pershing in Mexico and in World War I, and was commandant of the United States Military Academy at West Point for several years.

The name of Senator Bailey was first suggested and later that of William E. Travis.

The Secretary of War passed the final approval on the name of Camp Howze.

PAROCHIAL GRADES DISMISS MAY 22nd

The Sacred Heart School grade classes will close the scholastic season next Friday, May 22, and the eighth grade graduation exercises and a program will be presented in the parish hall on the following Sunday, Sister Lucy, principal, announced this week.

Pupils of the eighth grade appeared in the procession in a body in their uniforms of blue skirts and white blouses and the other girls were in white. The boys carried lighted candles, and the girls bouquets of flowers which they laid at the foot of the statue and along the communion railing.

900,000 DRIVERS' LICENSE ISSUED SINCE OCTOBER 1

AUSTIN.—Nine hundred thousand and Texas drivers' licenses have been issued under the new drivers' license law since last October 1, State Police Director Homer Garrison announced today.

This is considerably less than half the 2,250,000 licenses which are expected to be issued by the end of September, Garrison said, warning that an unmanageable rush will occur late in the summer unless the rate of applications is speeded up immediately.

"The Drivers License Division is issuing only 160,000 licenses a month now, and is prepared to give rapid service," Garrison said. "If the applications continue to come in at their present rate, the number of applications each month will have to jump to 250,000 or 300,000 in July, August and September to meet the deadline."

Applications now are being accepted from any holder of an operator's license regardless of its serial number.

Keep Hornflies Away From Dairy Cows For More Milk Production

COLLEGE STATION.—May 6—Dairy cows will not produce the maximum when infested with hornflies, says E. R. Eudaly, dairyman of the A. & M. College Extension Service.

The flies cause loss in milk production because they suck cows' blood, and their annoyance often causes cattle to refuse to graze. Hence, they do not get their fill of grass which is the best milk producer, and it takes a part of the feed which otherwise would go to production of milk to replace the blood. Some investigators claim, Eudaly says, that during seasons of abundance hornflies are responsible for losses of one quarter to one half of the normal milk production. Moreover, annoyance by the flies during milking might lead to contamination of the milk with consequent lowering of its quality.

Sprays, which many dairymen use, will keep flies off cattle during milking and for an hour or more afterward. But this does not prevent loss in milk production. However, a cattle fly trap used as a gateway to and from water, feed, or other frequented places has been found effective for the control of hornflies on many dairies, farms and ranches. Plans for the building of the trap may be obtained from county agricultural agents or by writing to the Extension Service, College Station.

Dairymen should build a fly trap and prevent the annual loss in milk production caused by "hornflies", Eudaly suggests.

"Keep your cows producing to the limit of their capacity during 1942."

REGULAR CHECK-UPS ON HEALTH URGED BY HEALTH OFFICER

AUSTIN, TEXAS, May 11.—"Rehabilitation is a word with much more meaning than the familiar one 'rehabilitation'", Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, declared today in emphasizing the advisability of frequent physical examinations.

Dr. Cox pointed out that young men who expect to enter military service within the near future should go to their family doctor for a check-up, so that any remedial physical defects can be attended to before they are called.

"By possible corrective treatment, many young men can be ready for military service when called, who are not now able to serve," Dr. Cox said.

According to the State Health Officer, not only young men expecting soon to enter military service, but war workers and their families, students cramming four year's work into much less time and all others caught in the accelerated speed of the business world today should be examined by a doctor at least twice a year.

"It costs less to maintain than to repair", Dr. Cox, declared, "Get to know a good doctor before you need repairs."

Bits o' Fun

A report was being circulated this morning that a 60-year-old man has a new tooth, but it may be false.

New Angle: "Who was that lady I saw you out with last night?"
"I wasn't out, I was dozing."

"Do you live within your income?"
"Good heavens, no! It's all I can do to live within my credit."

Neighbor—Do you find it more economical to do your own cooking?
Mrs. Newbridge—Oh yes. Since I have been cooking my husband eats only half as much as he used to.

Wife—I want some money.

WAR GARDEN INSECT SERIES—No. 1

Every Garden Plant Has Its Insect Enemies

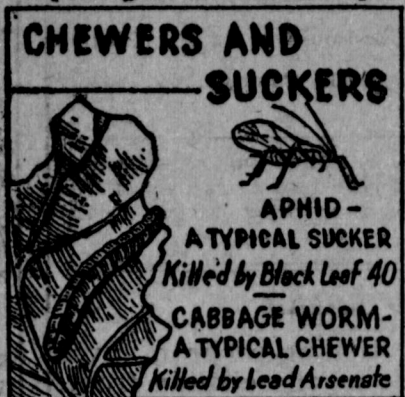

The gardening beginner is inclined to pass up the first few bugs he sees as of no importance—and this is the worst possible mistake. The single bug in the spring can produce a bushel basket full by fall, so fall upon him with all your forces. Run him down with sprays and dusts and poisons as the type of insect may indicate. Don't let the spring crop escape or you may lose much of the value of your garden.

In this series, we will tell you about many of the more common insects but remember, in general, that there are two ways to control them: By a contact spray that poisons them from the outside when it hits them—for example, Black Leaf 40 is so used—or by a stomach poison which the insects eat and which kills by its internal effects. In the latter case, lead arsenate is the standby. Sucking insects cannot be poisoned by internal treatment and some of our most destructive pests, such as aphids, are suckers.

Catch Them Young and Treat Them Rough

Remember that many egg-laying insects hatch out as a worm and often they are easiest killed in this stage. For example, while the grown asparagus beetle can be killed by covering the grown plants with a spray made of a pound of lead arsenate, one pound of soap and fifteen gallons of water, yet this spray is dangerous to humans when sprayed on the tips that are to be eaten, and so the tiny worms should be attacked as fast as they hatch by also spraying the edible tips with Black Leaf 40, using a teaspoonful in a quart of soapy water. Or, or the other will get him. In spraying either with a contact spray or with a stomach poison spray, we hear much about adding soap to the mixture. There is a definite scientific reason for this.

It is self-evident that in spraying either type of poison, a complete coverage is desirable. There should be tiny particles of lead arsenate, for example, on every part of the plant so that no matter where the pest eats, it will be poisoned. Soaps spread more thoroughly than plain water, and distribute the spray material more evenly than can possibly be done if the soap is omitted. Remember, then, when spraying your garden, always add enough soap to make suds.

CHEWERS AND SUCKERS

APHID—A TYPICAL SUCKER
Killed by Black Leaf 40

CABBAGE WORM—A TYPICAL CHEWER
Killed by Lead Arsenate

Leafhoppers cause serious damage by what is called hopperburn or tip burn. This happens on beets, rhubarb, potatoes and many such plants. In the early stage, the leafhopper is in a wingless "nymph" stage and spraying or dusting with Black Leaf 40 will kill it. After the leafhoppers are grown, they fly readily and can not be handled effectively by poisons. Bordeaux mixture is also a control for leafhopper if used early.

The same general principles apply to flower gardens that apply to vegetables. The insects lay eggs that in most cases hatch into worms, and the sooner action is taken with a spray gun, the less the loss.

Although the aphid grows in a different manner, not passing through the worm stage, the same general principles of early spraying apply.

THE GROCER AND SUGAR

The inauguration of the sugar rationing program gives each local grocer an important role on the civilian front. He is entrusted with duties to perform that are possibly more important than any one else in the program, with the exception of the local rationing boards.

Every day the local grocer will have to handle dozens of ration stamps. At the beginning, while the whole sugar rationing program is new, he'll probably have to do an awful lot of explaining. One of his best customers may plead for just a "couple of pounds more of sugar" with which to bake a cake for junior's birthday. Somebody may show up without a war ration book and ask for sugar and promise to bring in the stamps later. The grocer will have to say, "Very sorry, but that's contrary to regulations."

Another customer may bring in some loose stamps and the grocer will have to explain very patiently that he can't accept stamps in such form. He must see them torn out of the war ration books in his presence. Another customer may come with a war ration book containing stamps whose period of validity has expired. The grocer will probably have to keep repeating over and over again that a stamp is valid only for the period for which it is issued and cannot be used afterwards.

Everyone wants to do his bit to help win the war, but every now and then somebody is sure to say, "Just one more pound. Nobody will know anything about it and it certainly won't hurt anything." That's where the grocer will have to stand his ground and very politely but firmly refuse. He knows that if he doesn't, the whole program may break down.

The consumer problem is the first one the grocer faces. Another one, which involves a lot of work, is pasting the stamps he gets over the counter on the cards distributed by OPA. He has to be very careful about these cards. He has to be careful not to lose them and to turn them in for sugar before their term of validity expires.

From now on the quantity of sugar which the grocer will be able to get from his wholesaler will depend upon the number of stamps and sugar purchase certificates he surrenders. He will have to keep records.

The grocer must also scan his local newspaper or watch for the bulletins posted at his local rationing board from time to time in order to know about new rationing periods. He must be on the lookout for changes in rationing regulations that may be announced by OPA.

Much more than just the equal distribution of sugar depends upon the success of the sugar rationing program. The sugar program is expected to set a pattern for possible rationing of other goods. OPA doesn't have any particular desire to ration a lot of goods, but it is quite obvious that the country's tremendous war program may produce shortages in all kinds of commodities.

The local grocer's patience with a number of things may be a little strained before this war is over, but he'll probably be a pretty understanding fellow, anyway. He always has. And he will know that, in his own way, he is serving his country. He is a soldier on the civilian front, and he'll do his duty.

opened after the last war. It was the position of President Wilson that this nation must accept the responsibility of leadership in world affairs, and he believed that the League of Nations was the proper instrument for the discharge of that responsibility. For good or ill, Mr. Wilson could not win the American Congress and the American people to his side. He literally burned himself out on a national speaking tour which proved to be an utter failure. This nation was sick of internationalism and war. It wanted only to mind its own business and to manage its own affairs. It had little interest in what went on beyond its borders.

Now the situation is vastly different in many ways. The Atlantic charter commits this country to help in the rebuilding of all the world. The Charter, in principle, has been almost universally approved—indeed the main criticism of it is that it does not go far enough. And, perhaps more important still, the political opposition to the Administration has formally placed itself on record with a policy which is a far cry from the "traditional isolationism" of yesteryear.

At the end of the war, the strongest figure in the Republican party was the able Senator Lodge, who did more than any other man to block Congressional approval of the League of Nations. Now the dominant figure in the party is a man whose viewpoint is genuinely internationalist, Wendell Willkie. It was Mr. Willkie who carried the torch at the recent meeting of the Republican Policy Committee, and who succeeded in having passed resolutions which almost completely embody his ideas.

The other day Mr. Willkie made a speech, in which he said this: "It will be a new idea to many Americans that the United States in the future may need help from other nations. But we do need help if our ideas of personal liberty, of jus-ice, of equality, of hope and growth and expansion, are to survive. We can keep America to ourselves, though I doubt if the America we keep to ourselves would be free. But we can not keep freedom to ourselves. If we are to have freedom, we must share freedom. . . . The day of vast empire is past. The day of equal peoples is at hand. "Let us keep that aim shining before us like a light—a light for the people of Europe, for the people of Africa, for the people of Asia, for the people of South America, and for the people of our own beloved land."

As Time put it, "Seldom before had any U. S. Leader said, in such clean, earthy words, that the freedom on which this nation was founded means freedom and dignity for all people of all lands."

Precisely what we must or will do in the future is in the laps of the gods. Many think that there will be great economic adjustments, and we must find ways to help the other peoples attain the means as well as the desire to buy part of the incredible flood of goods that our post-war factories will be able to produce. They think there will be an end to thinking that peoples of another creed and color are inferior to peoples of our creed and color. They think, in short, that a real start may be made toward the goal of the Brotherhood of Man that philosophers have dreamed about for 20 centuries.

In any event, all of us are now getting a new and far more accurate idea of the character of other peoples. We used to think of the Chinese in terms of incredible poverty, disease and ignorance—now we have learned that the Chinese are brave and intelligent and are led by men who are outstanding in any company. We used to think of the Russians as spineless serfs—and now the Russians have held the greatest military machine the world has ever known, and perhaps saved all the United Nations from defeat and disaster. We used to think of Australia as a rather uninteresting and unimportant "island" far away in the Pacific—and now we have learned that the Australians are people very like ourselves, proud and embattled, and that the defense of Australia is vital to our own defense. So it goes. Whatever comes, the average American is obtaining an infinitely better knowledge of the world and the peoples who inhabit it than his forbears ever had.

There is small chance of the President's anti-inflation program passing exactly as he proposed it. It will be adopted in general, however.

It is unlikely that Congress will accept the $25,000 ceiling on incomes. But some sort of limit will be imposed. Biggest battle of all may come over the President's ideas on agricultural prices—the farm bloc is extremely strong, and it swings a great deal of weight when the votes are counted.

A salesman who had been traveling a certain railroad for a number of years was complaining about the train when to his surprise, the train came in on time. He immediately went to the conductor and said: "Here's a medal for you. I've traveled this road for over 15 years and I'll be hanged if this isn't the first time I ever saw a train on time." "Keep the medal, sir," said the conductor, "this is yesterday's train."

ships continue to plague the area and greater battles are shaping. Perhaps what we have won is merely the first round of a gigantic naval war.

As usual, America is confident. We predict that the next round and the next and the next will be ours as long as the Japs will come in and fight. Nevertheless we must not underestimate our enemy. The mere fact that he continues to hang around the neighborhood is equivalent to the claim that he still has a formidable fighting machine. Do the Allies have a sufficient force there to stop his series of drives?

Undoubtedly, if the yellow warrior has any intention of invading Australia, he will not tarry long. He realizes that Uncle Sam is beginning to hit a productive stride that will soon sweep away the advantage of years of preparing. He knows that American fighting power is growing, whereas his own is depleting. He's almost reached his limit of available men. He can't build ships and planes and guns as fast as he loses them. And there's another thing he has learned at Wake, Betaan, Corregidor, Coral Sea, and over New Guinea — that man for man, plane for plane, and ship for ship, the American soldier has him bested. Yes, these "decadent Americans" are earning the reputation as the world's best scrappers. It must burn Schickelgruber's ears to hear about that fact.

From here Con turns it over to a great commentator — who doesn't really know he's being accorded this rare privilege. Oh well, I'll admit it then. I've clipped this because I'm too lazy to write any more.

"College women urged to do housework for the duration." Many of them are signing up for a longer stretch than that, according to the latest marriage license returns.

"Children will learn to use language they hear." Yea, but where in the heck do they hear the gosh-darned stuff that falls so lightly from their lips?

"Modern bathroom a thing of beauty." And if pop could get the beauty out of it in time for his morning shave, he wouldn't be so late for work. A fellow in Grafton, W. Va., testified he "lost" his car in a fight and brought the car into court in a bottle thereby proving it not lost, but only misplaced.

"25,000 annual income doesn't go very far." But it will get you there and back if judiciously handled, as any $30-a-week clerk will tell you—with his mouth watering.

"Girls can look well in pants, but often don't." Some of the dolls look like they backed into them and didn't stop soon enough.

A thief in Los Angeles drove a car away from a parking lot and asked the first likely looking girl he passed on the street, "Do ya wanna ride, baby?" He couldn't be expected to guess that from all the beauties of L. A. he would attempt to pick up the owner of the stolen machine, but he found out, when she called a cop.
