

Full Co-operation In City Cleanup Requested By Mayor

An urgent plea for full cooperation in the city clean-up campaign March 27-29 was made this week by Mayor Ben Seyler.

"We hope every citizen will consider the benefits to be derived from this campaign," the mayor said. "Health and safety are the principal reasons. Every old can that can hold water is a potential mosquito hatchery, all inflammable rubbish is a fire hazard, all exposed waste matter is food for contaminating flies. Appearance comes next. Scattered junk is an eyesore, a blemish on the city itself and especially on the property it defaces."

The mayor wishes everyone to understand there will be no personal expense involved—unless individuals pay someone to clean their yards. As in years past, all are asked to box or sack the rubbish and leave it on the curb line. A truck hired by the city will gather the junk.

General Interest In Cleanup Urged By Health Officer

AUSTIN.—The Annual Clean-Up and Fire Prevention Week will be held March 30 through April 6, according to Dr. Geo. W. Cox, state health officer. State and city-wide clean-up campaigns are scheduled throughout Texas, the campaigns being designed to facilitate public health protection, lessen fire loss, and promote public safety.

The Texas State Department of Health and the Texas Fire Insurance Commission will jointly sponsor the week.

Clean-up week is an important week in Texas, important because every dollar invested in property destroyed by fire is a dollar lost forever. "Careless housekeeping" in the home and in business paves the way for tremendous annual fire losses, and all fire loss is, to a large extent, preventable by exercising recognized laws of fire prevention and control.

Every citizen should have pride in his home town, its streets, playgrounds, parks and buildings. Homes and buildings freshly painted, with well kept lawns and gardens, increases values and intensify community interest. Cleanliness creates confidence.

Preservation of human life is an important undertaking. Any undertaking which contributes to greater human safety deserves the attention of thinking citizens. Clean-Up Week in Texas is such an undertaking. Its advantages are obvious: it contributes to a cleaner, safer, happier place in which to live, no matter how large or small the community.

Cities and towns of Texas will conduct clean-up programs of far-reaching activity. Scheduled for that week are the cleaning, draining and gravelling of alleys and streets, the cleaning of city parks and vacant lots and unsightly areas. Malaria control, fire prevention, garbage and trash disposal and related activities of spring housecleaning will be encouraged.

Clean-Up Week, among its other functions, focuses public attention on the dirt and disease problem. It helps to make Texas a healthier, cleaner place in which to live.

GARDEN CLUB WILL SPONSOR MUESTER 4-H GIRLS CLUB

Sponsoring the local Girls' 4-H Club is a new project undertaken by the Civic League and Garden Club. At their meeting Friday league members discussed the proposal, made by President Mrs. T. S. Myrick and then voted unanimously to assist in this worthwhile undertaking.

As decided by the women, at least one of them will meet with the girls club at the regular bi-weekly sessions and assist them in their work, whether cooking or sewing, and when social affairs or outings take place, act as chaperone.

The girls club is composed of fifty pupils from both local schools. Because of the numerous home demonstration clubs in the county Miss Nettie Shultz, county agent, cannot be present here oftener than every two or three months, hence a sponsor is necessary in carrying on the work. The girls club was organized last month. Meetings are held on Monday mornings from 9:20 to 10:30.

PROSPECTS POOR FOR INTERESTING RACE IN CITY ELECTION

Prospects are poor for a hot city election this year. According to word received at four o'clock Wednesday from City Secretary Ray Hellman, only five names have been turned in for the official ballot. The deadline was midnight of that date and although there have been rumors of more candidates there were no definite assurances at four o'clock.

The only race is that between Ben Seyler and P. J. Rollman for mayor. They were opponents in the election two years ago.

The retiring aldermen, John Fisher, L. A. Bernauer, and Andy Hofbauer were the only persons to announce for their respective positions.

25 ENROLLED AT INITIAL MEETING IN FIRST AID COURSE

Muester's Red Cross First Aid course got off to a good start Tuesday afternoon when 25 members enrolled heard an explanation of the principal details concerning the lessons.

As explained by Dr. H. H. Terry, of the Cooke County Health Unit, members must sign up, the names must be sent to Red Cross headquarters, and no member may be absent from more than two meetings to be eligible to receive the certificates given at the end of the instructions. Preliminary details were further explained, textbooks ordered and the first lesson will take place next Tuesday afternoon at 5:00 o'clock. Meetings are to be held in the office of the electric cooperative, Vernie Keel will give the instructions.

Dr. Terry was accompanied to Muester by Miss Amilee Adams, county health nurse, and Miss Marcella Pagel of the Health Unit.

GAINESVILLE CLUB SPONSORS TALK BY FORMER RAF PILOT

First-hand information concerning the European war will be related by Ira Lee Sullivan, 26, former Hillsboro youth, when he speaks at 7:45 p. m. Tuesday, March 25, under the auspices of the Gainesville Kiwanis club.

He will present his lecture in the Junior High school auditorium. The Texas youth has gained attention through his lectures on the European situation, following his completion of nine months' service as a pilot officer with the British Royal Air Force.

During his stay in England, he made 28 flights over the enemy territory with the RAF. Sullivan was disabled during the service, and was forced to return to his home in Hillsboro.

Large crowds have been attending his lectures where he has spoken during the past few months.

Proceeds from ticket sales will be turned over by the Kiwanis club to the fund for underprivileged children of the county.

Moderate Weather Given Credit For Early Increase In Local Milk Receipts

The regular spring increase in this community's milk production is slightly ahead of schedule, according to figures released by Joe Horn, bookkeeper at the FMA cheese plant. Receipts are now slightly over 30,000 pounds daily, as compared with 27,000 pounds at this time last year. Earlier moderation of weather is believed the principal cause of the early increase. However, the early part of this week, during the cold spell, brought a sudden drop of about 1,000 pounds a day.

From now on, Horn estimates, the figure will rise steadily to peak production. Last year the peak was 46,000 pounds in mid-May.

The increase has made it necessary for the plant to resume its old schedule of drying whey. The equipment was put to work again Monday.

Ben Jones, well known here as truck driver on the Forestburg milk route for several years, is now driving a truck for Uncle Sam. When inducted into selective service he was assigned the job of driving a truck in the medical corps of a camp near Chicago, men at the cheese plant learned this week.

BRITISH USE INVASION BARGE IN RAID

ENGLAND.—Flashed to the United States Saturday by radio is this picture showing one of Britain's newly developed invasion barges carrying on a raid of the Lofoten Islands, off Narvik, Norway, earlier this month. The barge was described for the first time in a dispatch from London this weekend. It is armored and carries fifty men. The front of the barge is something like a steel shield with eight port-holes for rapid-firing guns. The troops are protected by coordinated barrages from naval guns and attack bombers. It is believed the British are assembling numbers of the craft for use against the Nazis and Italians. The British sank 11 ships and took prisoners in the operation against the Lofoten Islands. Photo passed by the British censor.

HIGH PERCENTAGE OF COUNTY SELECTEES ARE PHYSICALLY OK

Medical examinations given by the Cooke County selective service boards have been standing the test of check-ups by medical examiners at induction stations. Records in the Gainesville office show five rejections out of 68 inductees, less than 10 per cent, whereas the national average of rejected inductees is more than 16 per cent.

A bulletin received by the county board this week discloses that of the persons rejected 33 per cent had felony records and the others were physically handicapped, principally by mouth or tooth defects, hernia, or venereal disease. Of Cooke county's rejections three had flat feet, one bad teeth and one a weak heart.

Another Weekly Auction Sale to Begin Saturday

Another community auction sale for Muester will get under way Saturday afternoon at Al Bayer's home at the east end of the city limits. Present plans are to hold it each week directly after the completion of the sale managed by Al's father, John Bayer.

As explained by Al, the change will offer greater convenience to livestock dealers. He has just completed serviceable lots with gates and loading chute and facilities for feed, water and shelter. Stock handled there can be delivered any time during the week or picked up any time after the sale, he said.

Assisting him in the venture are A. C. Stobbs, auctioneer and Victor Hartman as clerk.

Injury to Al Walter's Hand May Be Permanent

Al Walter may have two permanently stiff fingers as a result of an accident last Saturday while working on a building repair job. To avoid falling off a roof he grabbed at the first thing within reach. It happened to be the edge of a sheet of corrugated iron and inflicted a gash to the bone severing the tendons in his two small fingers. The injury is on his right hand.

FMA SWAPS SURPLUS WATER TO REFINERY FOR SURPLUS GAS

Since Monday the cheese plant and the refinery are swapping water for natural gas. The arrangement, which had been under consideration for some time, brings a substantial reduction in operating expenses at both places.

From its gas well at the Voth lease the refinery has an almost unlimited supply of fuel whereas the FMA water well, which previously supplied all the city's water, has more than enough surplus to accommodate the refinery's heavy demand. Allowing for a small increase in pumping expense and another small increase in the lease of the gas well, it is estimated that the combined savings at the two places will be at least $150 a month.

Installation of pipes and a gas pressure regulator were completed last week.

Parish Follows 45-Year-Old Custom In Observance Of Saint Joseph's Day

The feast of Saint Joseph was observed here Wednesday, March 19th, as a holy day with special church services. This day has been observed in the Muester parish in a special way for the past 45 years.

Pioneers of this community vowed to keep the day as a Sunday in the year 1896 as a petition to St. Joseph for the protection of their crops against inclement weather and storms so frequent here in the early days. The first two Muester churches were destroyed by cyclones.

Slightly Hurt in Tumble From Car at 50 MPH

Little Jeanette Meurer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Meurer, is considerably skinned and bruised but not seriously hurt from her fall out of a moving automobile Sunday afternoon on the highway between here and Gainesville. Mrs. Meurer, driver of the car, estimates the speed at about 50 when the accident occurred.

The family had plans to see a show but went to a hospital instead. Jeanette was permitted to return home after medical treatment.

Mrs. Chas. Reiter, Former Resident, Dies At Kerrville

Mrs. Charles Reiter, 44, former Muester resident, died at Kerrville Wednesday morning at 4:30 following a lengthy illness. Funeral services are to be held Friday.

Mrs. Reiter was Miss Catherine Bernauer before her marriage. She was born in St. Joseph, Tenn., on February 28, 1897, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Bernauer, and moved to Muester with them in 1908. She married Mr. Reiter here on January 21, 1921, and they lived here until nine years ago when they moved to Kerrville.

Survivors include the husband and four children, Charles Jr., Miss Mary Catherine, Roderick and Giles; four brothers, Henry and L. A. of Muester; Joe, Panhandle; Charles, Forest City, Ark.; four sisters, Mrs. Josephine Wernet, Waco; Misses Frances and Della Bernauer, Memphis, Tenn., and Mrs. L. W. Flusche, Decatur.

The following left here Thursday morning to attend the funeral: Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Bernauer, Henry and Charles Bernauer, Rev. Father Frovin, Wilfred Reiter, Mrs. Bill Otto, Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Reiter and Miss Irene Martin.

COOKE COUNTY HAS MORE THAN 300 MEN IN ARMED SERVICE

Draft or no draft, this county is well represented in the nation's defense force. Statistics recently received at the selective service board indicated a total of 122 men in the army, marines and national guard. However, Ancil Ross, secretary of the board, explains that the report did not mention the company of national guardsmen who left Gainesville in December nor several recent volunteers of his acquaintance. In his opinion no less than 22 county men are in the regular service in addition to the 80 who have been inducted into selective service to date.

In preparing draft quotas military officials give each county credit for the number of men it has in regular service. The list received here is believed to be a copy of that currently regarded as the county's credit list.

Army Recruit Officer Will Be At Gainesville Post Office Every Thurs.

Young men interested in joining the regular army will have an opportunity to make inquiries or file their applications at the Gainesville post office every Thursday for an indefinite period. Sergeant G. Gilmore, who will be at the post office each Thursday made the announcement last Friday.

He stated the army is being built up for the purpose of having a trained force ready for defense, to provide a laboratory for testing new weapons and formulating regulations for their use, and to provide instructors for selective service men.

The regular army needs men for the flying service from 20 to 27 years of age, in excellent physical condition, and with two years of college work or the equivalent thereof. These men enlist for three years and receive salaries at the start of $75 per month, with clothing allowance.

In addition, the regular army wants men 18 to 35 years of age, unmarried and in good physical condition, for the various branches, including the Philippine islands and other stations.

ATTEND FUNERAL RITES AT DECATUR SUNDAY

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Flusche, Mrs. Henry Henschel and children, Mr. and Mrs. Tony Fuhrman and Mrs. T. Walterscheid and children were in Decatur Sunday afternoon to attend funeral services for the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Al Flusche. The baby died several hours after birth.

Father Edward Devers officiated at the rites and at the burial in the Decatur cemetery.

Word has been received by Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Hellman that their son, Hugo, has been named program director of a newly instituted radio series originating in the Marquette University School of Speech. Hugo was named head of the speech department during the past year and was influential in securing the regular weekly program for his school.

Good Production Indicated From 1900 Foot Sand; Royalty Dealing Lively

Muester is experiencing a revival of its old time oil excitement since early Monday when a favorable showing in the Peter Bindel wildcat well promised to open a new field.

The well, drilled by Harell for Texas Company, is located about four miles northwest of Muester and about two miles west of production on the Frank Trubenbach and Mary Kessler places.

It also opens a new formation, deeper than any other production in the Muester area. Sand was topped at 1391 and drilled to 1396, after which a 30 minute drill stem test recovered 1510 feet of oil and nine feet of mud.

Production should be in the vicinity of 400 barrels a day, operators here estimate. The hole was cased and cemented Monday and was due to be drilled in Thursday.

Local opinions about possibilities in the area are based principally on the intense activity of scouts Monday and Tuesday. Royalty prices are as high as $100 to $125 per acre basis on adjoining properties, and plans for drilling offsets are already under way. Indications are that the field will become the hot spot of Muester's oil activity for the next several weeks.

Less sensational but also an encouraging development is Kussell's completion of a good semi-wildcat on C. J. Pette's near Ross'ons. A quarter mile east of other production and paying from the same formation, it seems to indicate a further extension of the Linn-TCU pool. The field now has more than 30 wells producing from sand between 1100 and 1200. The proven length of the field is more than a mile.

LEAGUE-GARDEN CLUB TO HEAR MISS BIRGE AT APRIL MEETING

The Civic League and Garden Club has an interesting meeting scheduled for next month when Miss Willa Birge, director of the biology department of TSCW, Denton, will be a guest speaker. The announcement of this event was made by the program committee of the League at its regular session Friday afternoon.

The meeting will be held in the parish hall on April 25th. Miss Birge will give an illustrated lecture on wild flowers, with emphasis on those that grow in this vicinity. The speaker is an authority on the subject, has done outstanding work in the use of native plants, and is in charge of the botanical garden program at the Denton college. She holds B. A. and M. A. degrees from the University of Texas and has done advanced work at Columbia.

Because Miss Birge gives unusually interesting talks and because the subject of wild flowers is of interest to a large group of people, the Club is extending an invitation to all citizens of Muester to attend. In addition special invitations are being sent to Garden Club members of Saint Jo and Gainesville and to pupils of the two Muester schools.

Rising Poultry Prices May Cause Shortage of Chicks at Local Hatchery

Current advances in the price of poultry may result in a shortage of baby chicks at the Muester Hatchery, Felix Becker, manager, predicted this week.

An indication that future prices will be good induces many people to buy extra chicks, he said. As a result some late arrivals may be disappointed.

For the benefit of persons who intend to get late chicks, Becker advised that the only dependable procedure is to place advance orders, while settings are still being made. Since the hatchery does not wish to speculate heavily on future demands, it will set only its customary limited number of "non-order" eggs.

The hatchery's closing date has been set at May 10, permitting only four more weeks of settings.

Arnold Hess Sustains Severe Burns on Arm

Arnold Hess sustained second degree burns on his right arm Monday morning while at work in the local oil fields. Gasoline spilled on his clothing and ignited. Quick thinking saved him from more severe burns—he lunged into a nearby splash pit. He returned home promptly after treatment at the local clinic.

NAZI BIG BERTHAS CAN'T HIT THE SPOT GUN EXPERTS CLAIM

WASHINGTON—British artillery experts admit, Germany has the greatest cannon ever forged, except for one little defect—it can't hit what it's shooting at.

This super-colossal Bigger Bertha hurls an 11-inch shell 135 miles. The projectile travels 37 miles into the stratosphere on its thunder-making journey. It has the longest gun barrel ever cast—120 feet.

These technical data on the Nazi long ranger were published in a British artillery journal, but nobody lost any sleep. What artillerymen call "inherent error" makes the great gun about as valuable as a bean shooter from a military standpoint.

Inherent error, boiled down, is the half-a-hundred reasons a perfectly aimed gun doesn't hit its target. Inherent errors multiply as distance-to-target increases.

Muzzle droop, vibration, worn rifling, non-uniform powder—these are a few inherent errors multiplied in the Bigger Bertha.

The terrific speed of the projectile—5,905 feet per second in a long ranger—heats up a gun barrel. The heated metal tends to droop out of line. The longer the barrel, the more the droop.

The Nazis have tried to correct this droop with outside trusses like bridge girders, but even an infinitesimal droop means the big gun will pitch a curve.

Vibration is set up when the propelling charge is set off. The tremor travels up the gunbarrel, making it rotate ever so slightly. It's impossible to gauge exactly where the gun muzzle will be in its vibration-orbit when the shell leaves it.

If the muzzle is a frog-whisker out of line, the shell will land half a county wide of its mark.

Powder charges even minutely non-uniform—as they always are in mass productions—mean a shell miles over or short of the objective. Rifling wears down each time a gun is fired.

Even at 15,000 yards, slightly more than eight miles, one hit in three shots is eagle-eye marksmanship.

FARMERS CAN EARN $15 FROM TRIPLE A BY PLANTING TREES

COLLEGE STATION. — Take it from a landscape specialist—every farmer in Texas should be familiar with the Triple A's 1941 provisions for a payment of $15 to each farm for the planting and maintaining of trees. This payment can be earned over and above the regular soil building allowance.

scape gardening for the A. & M. College Extension Service, points out that in every section of Texas trees are needed for shade for the home, the livestock and poultry, and for windbreaks. In some of the wooded sections of Texas this natural protection is used and appreciated, she says, but on the coastal plains and on the plains of West Texas the need is still strongly felt.

Along the coast and in warm sections of Texas it is easy to grow a windbreak of tamarix, which is commonly called athol, athel, and evergreen salt cedar. Then, there are so many varieties of pine trees that there are some pines suited to all sections of Texas. The AAA will pay at the rate of $4.50 per acre for the planting of pine trees.

Thus, under the AAA provisions, planting of 2 1-2 acres of hardwood trees or 3 1-3 acres of pine trees would earn the maximum of $15 which is available in addition to the soil-building allowance for the farm. Additional tree planting could earn additional payments under the soil-building allowance. For the cultivation of forest trees planted between July 1, 1937 and January 1, 1941, the AAA will pay $1.50 per acre as part of the soil-building allowance for the farm.

SPONGE FISHING IS RATED AS MILLION DOLLAR INDUSTRY

Sponge-diving at Tarpon Springs, Florida, represents a million-dollar industry and it is the largest sponge market in the world.

There are now 150 sponge boats and 500 Greek divers carrying on at Tarpon Springs. There are many square miles of sponge-bearing area lying between St. Mark's Light, near Apalachicola, and Key West, and varying in depth from ten to 130 feet. Some sponges in water less than thirty feet deep are still taken by hooking, but those in deeper water can be reached only by diving. The sponge boats, ranging in length from twenty-five to forty-five feet, have sails and also auxiliary engines to aid in navigation and to pump air to the divers below the surface of the sea.

Sponge-fishing is conducted on a co-operative basis. The profits of a trip are divided among the men, with the diver receiving two shares to a sailor's one because of the danger of the underwater job. The average yearly income of a sponge diver is approximately $2,500. The mortality rate is not high in spite of the job's hazard.

A diver's outfit consists of a heavy bronze helmet with a glass window, a suit of two layers of rubberized canvas and shoes with iron weights on the toes. The helmet has airline attached, and the diver controls his air supply by means of a valve at the back of his headpiece. He also has a lifeline by which he signals to the line tender on the boat. Ever possible hazards are the tangling of the airline and the loss of the lifeline, which would be fatal to the diver. Shark, barracuda and the octopus are other dangers that lurk beneath the water.

Greek divers make jokes over the way a shark takes fright at their strange costumes and runs away from a sudden spout of air bubbles. They also tell grim tales of cutting away the entangling arms of an octopus with the three-pronged forks they use for gathering sponges. A diver carries a string basket at his side, and when he has filled it with sponges, he signals with his lifeline for the boat tender to draw up the full basket and send down an empty one. In shallow water a diver may stay under water two or three hours; in the deep sponge lanes he goes down once an hour for ten to twenty minutes.

How courteous is the Japanese. He always says, "Excuse me please." He climbs into his neighbor's garden and smiles and says, "I beg your pardon." He bows and grins a friendly grin, and calls his hungry family in; He grins and bows a friendly bow: "So sorry, this my garden now." —Exchange.

ARSENAL, GRANARY, WAREHOUSE OF DEMOCRACY

President Roosevelt's speech Saturday night, delivered before a group of newspaper reporters but addressed to the world, was an inspiring pep talk on our formal entry into the economic phase of the current struggle between freedom and oppression.

He made it clear that United States now has a single purpose—to supply the greatest possible number of those materials needed for the defense and survival of other democracies. We will send them planes, ships, tanks, guns, ammunition, and we will also send food, clothing, medical supplies and certain essential raw materials. This nation is to become the arsenal of democracy. Its assembly lines will take over the job of providing the things needed on democracy's firing line.

It is a tremendous task requiring the complete cooperation of all citizens in all departments of American life. Those who are producing fighting equipment are doing work of obvious importance. Upon them directly depends the volume of assistance that can be put into the hands of soldiers and sailors.

The work of others is less conspicuous but no less essential. We other Americans have to work harder than ever, for upon us falls the duty of supporting this vast program. It is we who have to pay the bulk of the tremendous appropriations, who have to produce enough in every other line of endeavor to take up the slack left by men drawn out of normal pursuits into war industry.

Besides that, we have to supply millions of dollars worth of peace-time supplies for those in other lands who have been left destitute by the ravages of war. America becomes not only the arsenal of democracy but also the granary and the workshop.

A REBUKE TO STRIKERS

We wonder how many of the labor big shots of this country and the unwitting dupes who serve as their tools noticed during Roosevelt's speech Saturday night the vigorous applause following his remark "we must have no delay because of strikes." There was no demonstration following similar references to friction with industrial management or sabotage, a fact which may be accepted as evidence that the persons there regard strikes as the greatest current menace to our safety.

It is our sincere hope that every striker in the country will profit from that well timed and very apparent rebuke. If they have not previously learned from newspaper comment just how contemptible they are in the public eye, perhaps this little incident will help to awaken them.

The selfishness and short sightedness of the guilty labor groups is both deplorable and alarming. It hurts our national pride to think that we have people who will force their own selfish demands at the price of their fellowmen's welfare, especially since those fellowmen have already entered wholeheartedly into the job of protecting our borders and our ideals.

It is no less unpleasant to think that laborers are so ignorant as not to understand that their rash action invites the success of a cause which threatens to take away every vestige of their freedom. Where would be their right to organize and demand justice if the dictator powers were to succeed in their bid for world domination? President Roosevelt mentioned that thought. They would do well to ponder over it.

Judging from the urgency of the task and the president's choice of words, we may assume that strikes will soon come to an end. As an executive entrusted with the welfare of a nation he has full authority to prevent any other shut-downs. Doubtless he will soon decree that every labor dispute will be settled by arbitration. Workers will be assured of just settlements but they will not be permitted to stop the wheel of industry.

A LITTLE SACRIFICE MIGHT HELP

Our defense program will demand sacrifice, the president reminds. Obviously taxes will be higher and people in business will have to get along on less profit. For the same reason wage earners will have to be content with a smaller net income and farmers will have to give up a larger percentage from the proceeds of their crops.

At first glance, the prospect is gloomy. We can envision ourselves slaving for the next several years with little chance of advancing our own personal interests. Presumably everything beyond the bare necessities will have to be applied against the staggering national debt.

On second thought we realize, however, that the sacrifice will not be so great after all. We must remember that we have been living in a sort of paradise. No other nation has ever enjoyed our high standard of living. No other has had the abundance of food and clothing, the home comforts, or the many small luxuries we take for granted. For the sake of the nation's good we may have to adopt a simpler standard of living, perhaps more on a par with normal conditions in other lands. We would give up some luxuries, but it would not be a great sacrifice. We would not suffer.

In the long run such a program may even be better for us. Our abundance during the past few decades has given us a false sense of values. We are measuring achievement too much in terms of material possessions. We have been coasting along taking life easy and losing much of our old time regard for spiritual values. Harder work and simpler living can prove a good tonic for America.

S. A. Baldus of "Extension" deplores the movement now under way to establish women's military organizations in this country. The idea hasn't gone far to date and he hopes that before it develops to the proportion of a national nuisance America will wake up and check it.

Perhaps the women at the head of the movement are prompted by noble ideals. We can easily imagine how sincere patriotism would move some women to stand side by side with the men in defense of their institution they regard as sacred. It is possible that many women are willing, even eager, to give a year of their lives to the country just as our selectees are doing now. The sentiment is laudable but harmonious, practical application is impossible.

First of all the idea is a direct insult to every able bodied man of the nation. In spite of the emancipation of women and their insistence on being regarded as men's equals, they have not succeeded in stamping out the old concepts of chivalry. Men have made room for women in the business and professional world, but they will not make room in the battle line. Some jobs simply are not considered as women's work, and waging war is one of them.

If those women are so all fired anxious to help out they can find plenty outlet for their energy in other fields. According to the estimates of military men, every soldier at the front has to be supplied by several men in the shop and transportation line. If the time ever comes when we will need women's help there will be plenty of things they can do in positions to which they are better suited.

Since men aren't going to let gins raving about her duties to the country or even denounces her family as traitors. To have such hysteria coming into direct conflict with traditional and deep seated convictions will not be good for domestic tranquility. And, whether we admit it or not, the home is still the first unit of American society. To shake its foundations in the name of misguided patriotism certainly is no step in the direction of national defense.

Another little factor enters into the picture. Almost every community has a few women who because of their patriotic frenzy or the distinction of their uniforms would be inclined to show their authority. Living in the same town with them would not be altogether pleasant. It is easy to imagine how every person who disapproved of their antics would be branded as a slacker or traitor.

The real trouble is that a person has no suitable comeback when an offense is made in the name of patriotism. He can only swallow the insult and boil inside. People who lived in the world war days remember something of it. The slightest oversight, such as failure to remove one's hat at the first strain of the national anthem, might bring down the insult of some officious loudmouth. Obviously a counter retort or a crack at the man's jaw would appear as a defense for an unpatriotic act and would only make matters worse.

And, after all, why should our country go completely militaristic? It is more than enough to have a large number of men forming home defense units. In case we ever have to contend with an invasion they will be able to make use of all the ammunition any town can muster. To have women too, going into uniform to follow the horrible example of foreign dictatorships. One of our reasons for despising Russia and Germany is that they hold women subject to call for military service.

To date there has been only one job for which women were called to the danger zone—to nurse the wounded soldiers. Women have always volunteered in sufficient numbers to fill the quotas and we have every reason to believe they always will. Incidentally that job doesn't require military training either.

Boyce House, one of the columnators from Austin, takes his Saint Patrick's Day seriously. In the full spirit of the memorable occasion he offered the following stories in his last week's release.

This is one about two Irishmen who were named Mike and Pat, instead of Pat and Mike, for a change. Mike fell into a gulch and Pat yelled, "Are ye killed? If ye are, speak to me." Mike replied, "I ain't killed but I'm speechless."

A variant:
After Mike had fallen, his friend asked, "Are ye killed?" to which Mike replied, "That I am." Pat said, "You're such a liar I don't know whether to believe ye or not." And Mike rejoined, "That proves I'm dead because, if I wuz alive, ye wouldn't dare call me a liar!"

The Irishman speaks in amusing contradictions as shown by his remark about the flea, "When ye put yer finger on him, he ain't there" or his description of a frog, "When he walks, he jumps and when he stands up, he sits down."

An Irish philosopher said, "Single misfortunes never come alone, and the greatest of all possible misfortunes is generally followed by a greater." A salesman said, of some window sashes: "These sashes will last you forever; and after that, if you have no further use for them, you can sell them as old iron." A lover said, "It's a great comfort to be alone, especially when yer sweetheart is wid ye." A debater, upholding ancient architecture as compared with the modern, demanded, "Show me a single modern building that has lasted as long as the ancient ones?"

Then there was the Irishman who enlisted in the 33rd regiment because he wanted to be near his brother, who was in the 34th. And there was the inlander who visited a port and stood for hours looking at a ship's anchor because "I want to see the feller who swings that pick." And there was an Irishman who saw a hunter shoot a duck high overhead and the bird spun over and plunged to the ground, whereupon Pat said, "Ye wasted yer powder; the fall would have killed it." And an Irish jury brought in this verdict, "We find that the man who stole the mare is not guilty." Hearing that a man had bought a marble coffin, Mike exclaimed, "Shure and a marble coffin would last a man a lifetime."

Some son of the Emerald Isle summed it up with, "Not more than half the lies they tell about the Irish are true."

NOTES FROM
COUNTY AGENT

In establishing a poultry flock, sanitation starts before the chicks arrive.

George P. McCarthy, Extension poultry husbandman for A. & M. College, says the brooder house should be thoroughly cleaned by sweeping walls and ceiling, removing all dirt, and thoroughly disinfecting it with a good commercial disinfectant. A suitable disinfectant can be improvised from one can of concentrated lye in 20 gallons of water—the nearer boiling the better.

The floor and walls of the brooder house should be thoroughly scrubbed up to about two feet above the floor and, if space is available, siked it at least 20 yards to clean ground. Similar practices of sanitation should continue throughout the entire brooding period.

"There is no place that efforts expended in keeping things clean will pay a larger dividend than in raising chicks."

McCarthy offers chicken raisers these bits of advice and caution: Put the brooder in the house and operate it two days before the chicks arrive. Make sure it holds an even temperature of 95 to 98 degrees two inches from the floor at the edge of the hover.

Round off the corners of the house to prevent chicks from piling in corners.

Have a fresh supply of chick starter on hand so chicks can be fed as soon as they arrive. A good commercial buttermilk starting mash is recommended. Don't economize on chick starter mash.

Don't buy more chicks than your house will take care of.

Don't allow chicks to become chilled in transporting from hatchery to brooder house.

Don't forget that the brooder house should have an abundance of fresh air without drafts.

If You Want to Sell It, Advertise It.

The hog industry brought Texas farmers nearly $50,000,000 in 1940. The sale of pork products amounted to more than $31,000,000 and the sale of hogs for breeding purposes amounted to more than $18,000,000.

Safety leaders in Texas are convinced law enforcement has a prominent part in reducing traffic deaths. Without an adequate patrol to properly enforce reasonable traffic laws, Texas will still have unnecessary deaths occurring on the highways, they declare. In seeking a larger patrol, safety leaders cite the fact that there is only one patrolman for every 120 miles of state highways.

What they promise in their advertisements, and what they deliver in their merchandise, are right there for all to see.

If they deliver what they promise, they make friends and steady customers. If not they make enemies, lose patronage and finally go out of business.

Those are the cold, hard reasons why honesty is the best policy—especially in advertising.

But the real fact is that advertisers as a class are humanly jealous of their good names. The trade-marks of manufacturers and the published recommendations of merchants are only accorded to products which they can offer you with confidence and pride.

SAINT JOSEPH'S DAY

All pupils of the high and elementary school were dismissed Tuesday afternoon in observance of the feast of Saint Joseph. This day was set aside as a Holy Day of Obligation in Muenster many years ago.

While the colony was still in its infancy the church was destroyed by a storm on Saint Joseph's Day. The citizens attempted to build another church but this also was destroyed. The parishioners of Muenster promised that they would always observe March 19 as a Holy Day if Saint Joseph would preserve their crops from storms and prevent the destruction of other churches. At this time storms were plentiful and more severe than now. The parishioners kept their promise and Saint Joseph rewarded them by protecting their church and crops.

GEOMETRY CLASS

The geometry class is enthusiastic about its work. Pupils have studied angles triangles, rectangles, parallelograms and other topics. At the present they are studying about loci.

Sister Theresina, geometry instructor, reports that her students have met many baffling problems, but due to their studiousness they have "met and conquered the enemy."

SOFTBALL GAMES

Saint Mary's of Gainesville and our softball team have engaged in several "before season" softball games.

Last Wednesday the team, accompanied by the pep squad, drove to Gainesville for a game. The Gainesville lads held the lead until the last inning when our boys rallied with the game resulting in our victory, five to three.

Gainesville returned the game on Friday afternoon at the local ball park. The score was six to two in favor of the visiting team.

ASSEMBLY

Monday morning at 11:30 the pupils met for assembly in the library. At that time they were addressed by their Superior, Sister Mary Angelina. She spoke on the requirements of a worthy, honorable student.

Chastity, obedience, posture, and courtesy were stressed. She urged that the students not only expect the school to do something for them but they should contribute something to the welfare of the school.

PREPARATIONS

Singing practice for the seniors is held several times a week in preparation for their graduation exercises in May.

Last Thursday afternoon a photographer from Enid, Okla., was at the school to take pictures of the seniors in their caps and gowns. They will present a framed picture containing the photographs of the seniors to the school. Each senior will also receive a similar picture. The proofs are exceptionally good.

We are sorry that a reproduction of each picture cannot be published but here are a few pointers:

Sister Theresina looks as though everything is rosy; Vincent Becker appears so sedate as though he were receiving his Ph. D. rather than that of a high school senior;

Earl Swingler is smiling because the end of school is so near;

Willford Herr looks as though he has at last mastered his lessons;

James Endres is seeing a far off vision;

Andrew Wimmer has that mischievous smile forecasting happy days after school closes;

Henrietta Wiesman appears quiet, calm, and as the diligent student;

Helen Hess seems to be ignoring some bright remark;

Katie Mae Walterscheid has that smile that she wears when she hears music;

Eugenia Walter has that self-satisfied appearance;

Harriet Schoech looks as though she has just won an argument.

STATE PRESS COMMENTS

Our recent remark on what "going to school" means to some students, appearing in this column on March 7, drew comment from State Press in the Dallas News on March 14th. He said, "This brings up some more or less disturbing memories to State Press. He is afraid he didn't go to school in the mood he should have gone. Somehow he never could distinguish himself among the other pupils. Even when there were only a dozen or so with whom he had to compete. He often got to the school-house late. Every day he was one of the first to get out. He was slow in arithmetic because he spent so much time drawing pictures on his slate, then erasing them by moistening his fist and rubbing them out. If pencil and tablet education had been in vogue then, he might have been a better student. How he ever got enough book learning to make a living he owes to good luck. But in case any young reader should get the idea that school work half done is as good as any let it be understood that it isn't so. The good students, the prompt ones, the neat ones and studious ones can now look back to their school days with pleasure. They can justly feel that their success in after life was in large part earned in the schoolroom. Look where you will and you will always discover that the best students, the most obedient to the rules are those who win the better rewards of life. Even the duller students who did their best did better in the after years than the brighter ones who wouldn't try."

GOOD ATTENDANCE MARKS CDA MEETING FRIDAY
A good attendance marked the monthly business meeting of the Catholic Daughters of America Friday evening in the K of C hall. Mrs. Jake Fagel, grand regent, presided at the session during which time it was announced that the next meeting will be postponed until April 18th because the regular date falls on Good Friday. It was also decided that no social meeting will take place until after Easter. Other routine business followed.

Father Richard was a guest at the meeting and addressed the assemblage complimenting the court on its good attendance and the activity of the members.

CARD OF THANKS
We wish to take this means of expressing our thanks and gratitude to all our friends for their kindness to us during our recent bereavement in the loss of our son. We appreciate each kind deed and each word of condolence.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Herr.

PHARMACY --is a Profession

Because the pharmacist serves you so often in the capacity of merchant, you are apt to forget he is more than that; he also is a trained practitioner of a profession as old as Medicine itself. The pharmacist is the doctor's right hand man. He assists in the control of diseases, both human and animal. He buys and sells potent medicines, compounds prescriptions — safeguards your health.

Know Your Pharmacist Just Like You Know Your Doctor.
