Districts Succeed in Third Attempt to Consolidate

The third attempt to consolidate school districts northeast of Muenster was successful. Unofficial reports early Thursday disclose that Wednesday's election on the merger of Hays and Van Slyke carried in both places.

Hays, which previously was closely contested, turned in a surprise vote of 55 to 43 favoring the consolidation.

Van Slyke, with a substantial margin for the merger in both former elections, was expected to carry again. Thursday morning's report is that it did carry, but actual figures were not available.

INSURANCE MUTUAL RE-ELECTS OFFICERS AND HEARS REPORT

Meeting in the parish hall last Saturday afternoon members of the local chapter of the German Farmers Benevolent Association re-elected their three officers and heard a report of the association's general meeting a month earlier.

The men re-elected are J. B. Klement, president; F. J. Hess, secretary; and W. H. Endres, appraiser. Reports disclosed that the association, a mutual insurance group consisting of 430 members in six districts of North Texas, now has one and a half million dollars worth of insurance in force.

Amounts paid on 5 losses last year were slightly less than $3,600, F. J. Hess, disclosed, and the total expenditure of the association was slightly more than $3,900, leaving a treasury balance of $2,000.

The next assessment of 25 cents per $100 of insured valuation will be levied in July. When first organized the company pro-rated assessments to cover each loss, now the procedure is to compensate for losses out of the reserve fund and to make assessments when the fund runs low. Several years there have been no assessments. Probably there will be none during 1942 unless losses are greater than usual.

Since its beginning in 1893, assessments of the association have averaged 18 cents per $100 per year the most economical record of all insurance companies comprising the Texas Mutual Insurance Association. The 1940 and 1941 assessments are also believed to be the lowest in the state.

The full title of the local mutual is German Farmers Benevolent Association of Muenster, Inc. Its headquarters are at Muenster and its directors are John Bayer, president; F. J. Hess, secretary; Emil Vogel, treasurer; W. H. Endres and Barney Voth. Districts included are Muenster, Lindsay, Pilot Point, Valley View, Electra, and Scotland-Windthorst.

BATTLESHIP THAT BROUGHT AMBASSADOR TO U. S.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Photo shows the new British battleship King George V steaming slowly up the Chesapeake Bay enroute to Annapolis, Maryland, when it brought the new British Ambassador to this country.

It is the most powerfully armed battleship in the world and one of the fastest. President Roosevelt shattered another precedent when he went out into the bay to welcome Lord Halifax and Lady Halifax.

Two Muenster Men Among Volunteers Inducted This Week

Two Muenster men, Adolph Knabe and August Fleitman, were among the 26 Cooke county men inducted into Selective Service in Dallas on Monday of this week.

As in previous calls, the county's quota was made up entirely of volunteers.

That perfect record will continue through the next call, according to a report from the county draft board. The latest call received three sets Cooke county's quota for February 7 at seven men. Eighteen volunteers are now on hand. If more should enlist or if the next quota is not more than eleven, it is possible that both coming calls can be answered before the county drafts its first man.

In response to a suggestion from state officials, the county board has discontinued sending out questionnaires. With 1137 men already classified, it is so far ahead of inductions that it can best avoid confusion by waiting a while. Changing circumstances such as marriage, accident, sickness, or death of a parent, would change the status of many registrants and require reclassification. The plan now adopted is wait until inductions are not far behind the number of available men, thereby eliminating the need of reclassification.

Of the group slated to leave February 7, two are well known here: Will Biffle of Myra and Frank Moe of Gainesville.

Oscar Zwingski of Lindsay, who had volunteered for Selective Service, withdrew from that list last week to join the regular army aviation corps at Shreveport, La.

No Salary Increase Given Cooke County Officials

All salaries for county officials were set at the same amount as in previous years and no increases were made by the commissioners court in their first sessions of the new term.

The commissioners approved salaries for officials as follows: county attorney, $3,000; county judge, $3,000; county clerk, $3,000; tax collector and assessor, $3,000; sheriff, $3,000; district clerk, $2,650; county treasurer, $1,500; constable, Precinct 1, $1,400, and justice of peace, Precinct 1, $1,400.

Several courthouse officials had petitioned the court to raise their salaries, but none of the requests were granted.

Bonds were approved for all county officials who were given the oath of office at ceremonies on Jan. 2.

Cheese Plant Bowlers Rally, Advance From Celler to Third Place

Bowling during the past week brought a shakeup in the lower bracket of the local league standing but had no effect on the two leading clubs, which held their places even though they played no league matches.

Winning 5 out of 6, the Cheese Plant team climbed out of the cellar into third place, the present tally being 7 out of 12. The Farmers, Drillers and Nuggets have 5, 4, and 3 respectively out of 12.

The Phone Boys, with 8 out of 9 are long odds favorites to win the loop. Recognized snow as their strongest competitors are the Weasels with 6 out of 9. The clash between those clubs, set for Thursday night is expected to have a strong bearing on the final outcome. It may give the Phone Boys a cinch for the title and it may give the Weasels an even break.

Individual honors are unchanged since last week. Jake Horn leads with 148 and George Koelzer, though he slipped several points down to 135, is still in second place.

Muenster Hi Wins Double Header From Woodbine

Both teams won Tuesday night when the Muenster Hi cage and volleyball teams played Woodbine at Gainesville. The boys ended their game 17 to 12 and the girls, playing against their former teammate, Miss Virginia Renfro, took the first two in a 3 game series 15-10 and 15-6.

This weekend the basketball team will participate in an invitation tournament at Era. Their opener is with Pilot Point. If they win they will play their second game with the winner of the Bulcher-Hood contest. If they should lose they will enter the consolation race and will be matched against the loser of that same contest.

FRACTION OF SECOND CHEATS ROAD ERROR OF GRUESOME TOLL

The lives of a car load of school children and two adults hung in balance for a split second Tuesday afternoon as a result of a driving error. As the incident turned out, the only damage was a creased fender and a torn off bumper, but a fraction of a second of difference in timing would have resulted in a severe crash.

On the highway about four miles west of town a group of children in the Ben Lutkenhaus car were returning home from school. J. M. Weinzapfel and Earl Fisher were directly behind them when the front driver pulled to the left, apparently intending a left turn at a crossroad ahead. Weinzapfel continued at his side of the road and, just as he was about to pass the other machine, found it cutting in toward him. The driver was making one of those sweeping right turns.

Weinzapfel averted the impact but too late to avoid the right of his rear fender and the other car's bumper. Had he been an instant later he would have hit the other car broadside.

FREEDOM OF SPEECH ON THE DECLINE

"We have reached a strange situation in America," says Senator Burton Wheeler, "when those who do not advocate peace—who do not follow the party line—are branded appeasers and unwitting tools of the dictators. This still is democracy, and American citizens whose beliefs vary from those of the Government ought not to be howled down or intimidated. Free speech still belongs to all the people—not just to a few at the top."

It is a fact that we have lost a great deal of the freedom in our free speech. To hold certain views is to expose one's self to ridicule and abuse. Colonel Lindbergh is a typical example. Because he favors strict neutrality and complete attention toward our own local defense he is accused of being in league with the dictators.

Though few of us can accept Lindy's viewpoints, most of us can see that he isn't getting a fair deal. To be wrong is no crime. Everybody makes mistakes. The contempt is justified only on condition that Lindy is conspiring against this country—a charge of which he is innocent until proven guilty.

Senator Wheeler likewise has tasted his share of invective. He has been the target of bitter criticism because he advocates a policy, in his opinion, is the best for this nation to follow.

We differ from other nations only in that we have not lost so much of our free speech and the penalty for saying the wrong thing is less severe. We don't shoot the man who disagrees with certain policies, we hold him up for national ridicule. But even that penalty is enough to deprive many a person of his freedom of speech.

THE "LEND-LEASE" BILL

The fuss that is going on in Washington over the "Lend-Lease" bill is more than a mere political squabble. It involves some of the most fundamental principles of democracy. Its passage would give the President almost complete control over the destiny of this nation. Congress is called upon to decide whether it will continue to have a part in dealing with war problems or whether it will become a mere rubber stamp.

Senator Johnson of California believes that passage would make this country a new member of the totalitarian states. Many in the Senate share his view.

Favoring the bill, Senator Thomas of Utah complained that it is not as far-reaching as world events warrant. He has considerable support in the Senate and an admitted majority of support in the House.

In general, the measure proposes a number of methods by which this country can help England, and leaves their administration to the discretion of the President. Some of the provisions are such gross violations of neutrality that they almost constitute actual war. By exercising them the President could actually drag us into war.

Congress faces a paradoxical predicament. As a means of defending this democracy it is asked to create a semi-dictatorship. Extraordinary powers are to be given to one man to use as he sees fit.

The whole thing hinges on the urgency of our aid to Britain. It is quite generally conceded that our safest course is to help Britain, now it must be decided whether we have reached a crisis. If so, the bill should pass, with possibly a few amendments to remove policies that congress does not approve.

If there is an emergency one man must be placed in charge. Action must be prompt. To await the usual course of congressional action when quick decisions are necessary might prove disastrous.

Have we reached that point? Is our position so critical that we must suspend democratic action as a means of self defense?

Confetti

By CON FETTE

A broadcast from Berlin Sunday morning described how men, women and children cleaned up the debris after an RAF bombardment. In another section the work was done by French prisoners of war. The description conveyed a very favorable picture of the wholesome public spirit in Germany. But a few expertly inserted comments left the hint that perhaps conditions are not quite as good as they are described.

He said the civilian population is "expected to clean up after attacks" because the army is too busy with other affairs. Somehow this leaves the impression that civilians are not doing those things of their own accord, that perhaps they are not so wholeheartedly behind Hitler as the propagandists would have us believe.

And the French prisoners were described as working with "all the enthusiasm of a group of American WPA workers." The reference to WPA can have only one explanation. Jokes about WPA are pretty well standardized in America, and the reference was the commentators subtle way of saying that not much was being accomplished.

Every day there are stories of remarks that slip by the Nazi censors. There is one about a letter which praises the Reich in flowing terms and concludes with the remark "It could not be happier in Paradise." The person receiving the letter lived near a cemetery named Paradise. Another letter ended its extravagant praise with an inquiry about the citrus crop in Maine, unquestionably a hint as to the absurdity of foregoing comment.

An assistant professor of psychology at Northwestern University is of the opinion that Shakespeare's vocabulary was only about 25 per cent as large as that of the present-day educated adult. He claims that his vocabulary test conducted over a period of seven years indicates an average vocabulary of 80,000 words exclusive of derivatives, and the master writer used only about 15,000 such words.

Something is radically wrong. Either present day educated men have acquired a wonderful collection of new words, or those of yesterday were grossly underestimated. If used to be taken for granted that the modern educated man had a much smaller vocabulary than Shakespeare.

Something else seems wrong. It is hard to believe that the normal educated man is that far ahead of Shakespeare. While conceding that some now use more words than Shakespeare did—which is very possible because so many words have been coined since his time—there is a doubt whether any man today uses four times as many, and also whether the normal educated man uses 15,000.

Furthermore, it is doubtful whether the professor's normal educated man and Shakespeare were subjected to the same kind of tests. Probably the modern man's score represents his complete vocabulary whereas Shakespeare's is conceded to have been taken from his writings.

It has been said the normal educated person has three vocabularies. His speaking vocabulary, consisting of words used in normal conversation, is smallest. His writing vocabulary is somewhat larger because he takes time to use some words besides those in his regular flow of speech. Then there is his reading or complete vocabulary including many more words that he knows but does not customarily use.

For a proper comparison of the modern educated man and the Bard of Avon, the prof should have checked the man's writing vocabulary. Did he do it? Obviously not if he found four times as many words as were used by the man who for years was admitted to have the largest vocabulary.

Anyway, why worry about how many words? What counts most is an ability to use the words effectively.

tively. In that respect the beat of our moderns are still playing second fiddle to Shakespeare. He is still master of the knack of using the best word for the occasion.

The art isn't dead, however. Almost daily we come upon word combinations that we consider especially effective. "Magic Words" they are appropriately called, for they have a magic power of commanding attention.

An interesting example was that of a shine boy who had customers, one after another, while other boys in the block had only a few. An observer, curious as to the secret of the lad's success, walked past all the boys. Everyone greeted him with "Shine, Mister?", except the one who was getting the business. His line was "Shine for Sunday, Mister?" When reminded that the next day was Sunday, more people were interested.

One man who claimed to pass all hitch-hikers admitted he couldn't help making an exception for a smiling young fellow with a sign across his chest reading "Good Company." A man who was making bird houses had a great deal of trouble selling them until he started painting on them the magic words "To let—for a song." After that he could not keep up with the demand.

A Communist newspaper refers to Stalin as a "strong, silent man." It's a fact he has been rather silent all through all this international mix-up, but the most probable reason is his discovery, during the Finnish campaign, that he wasn't as strong as he thought. The time to expect something from him is when the rest of Europe is completely exhausted. Bullies like him do not look for a fair fight. He'd rather wait and pick on a cripple.

Mussolini, it seems, had about the same idea but he made an unfortunate mistake. He jumped in when he thought the war was about over and is discovering to his sorrow that it only had a good start. 'Tis said that the weapon he used to stab a neighbor in the back turned out to be a boomerang.

How about it, Doc?

"GOING CONCERN VALUE"

... what is it worth to the customer?

LONE STAR GAS SYSTEM

In the face of rising taxes and increased commodity prices, natural gas is STILL the least expensive item in the cost of running a household.

- Lone Star Gas System, of which your local gas company is a part, is an INTERCONNECTED pipeline system connected to more than 1,200 wells in 60 gas fields.
- The 4,700 miles of interconnected pipeline system of Lone Star Gas System extend into every proved major gas field in its territory, assuring its customers a dependable and adequate supply over a long period of years.
- Modern facilities of Lone Star Gas System include 21 giant compressor stations for supplying large quantities of natural gas from far distant fields to maintain dependable and uninterrupted service under any and all weather conditions.
- Pioneers in the development of natural gas in Texas, Lone Star Gas System is recognized throughout America for the high standard of its service.

WHEN you turn on a gas appliance in your home—to boil a pot of coffee—or cook a meal—or take a bath—or provide heat to protect your family's health and comfort against freezing temperatures—you do so with faith that the gas will be there. Such a feeling of security is actually CONFIDENCE IN THE DEPENDABILITY OF YOUR GAS COMPANY AS AN EFFICIENT "GOING CONCERN."

It is difficult to measure such a dependable "going concern" value in terms of dollars and cents. It is an item of safety and security that never appears on your gas bill for service rendered but is of untold importance to you throughout the years.

Today there are all kinds and grades of commodities and services on the market. Many are of full value. Others are not because they lack the assurance of dependability. Prices vary in direct proportion to quality and permanent satisfaction. In each case you usually get what you pay for.

Your grocer, baker, druggist; in fact, all business concerns, from their years of experience, know that "something just as good for less cost" is usually either temporarily distressed merchandise or an inferior product. There are no shortcuts to dependability and lasting high quality. This is true of gas service as in other items that make up the details of running a household.
