Sicking named Jaycees' 2013 Outstanding Citizen

Janet Felderhoff
News Editor

Each year, the Muenster Jaycees select someone from the community to recognize for making the community a better place to live. Jaycee President Tony Hartman introduced Matt Sicking as that person.

In his introduction Hartman said, "This person devotes many hours to benefit the Muenster community. They do this with the thought of what is best for the people and never expect any credit. They volunteer countless hours to anyone who needs the help without ever being asked. For example, when Muenster was hit with the downburst, this person was there in a heartbeat with equipment to help anyone in need."

Hartman also noted that Sicking volunteers on the Muenster Chamber of Commerce, Sacred Heart Cemetery Committee, and has spent countless hours on the Germanfest, Annual Barbeque Cookoff, Heritage Park Pavilion, and other events.

For the last seven or more years, Sicking has volunteered for Sacred Heart Outreach and has recently accepted a position on the Outreach Committee. He serves the community's youth as a volunteer with Cub Scouts helping with den and pack activities. He also helps when needed at the school doing things such as cooking or moving.

Hartman concluded, "Even now, as I present them this award and tell you this information, they are thinking about how unnecessary the recognition is ... and possibly where the nearest exit is. You may say he often thinks of others, has a good heart, and is just an all around good guy. But, he'll just tell you he just does what needs to be done."

Jaycees install officers

Janet Felderhoff
News Editor

Muenster Jaycees marked another successful year as they held their 44th Annual Installation and Awards Banquet on Saturday, March 22 in the Muenster VFW Hall. In 2013, the Jaycees contributed a total of $123,900 to the community. Of that total, $27,500 went to various organizations, charities, and schools; $15,000 to needy families and trust funds; $8,400 was spent on Little League and Coach Pitch; and $73,000 on ball park improvements and upkeep.

Tony Hartman accepted a second term as Jaycee president and served as master of ceremonies for the evening. Zack Fuhrmann offered the invocation and Jared Flusche led the Pledge of Allegiance.

Following the meal, Precinct #4 Commissioner Leon Klement welcomed guests. He remarked, "I think that I can honestly say there is not a person in this community and area who has not been positively affected by the

Klement also told of the time last year when the County honored the Muenster Jaycees on their 50th anniversary. Many present and past Jaycee members attended the Commissioners Court meeting at which the proclamation in the Jaycees' honor was read. People at the Courthouse were impressed by the number of Jaycees who showed up. He said this obviously showed the strong support the members have for their organization.

Each year, the Jaycees recognize a few of their members for outstanding contributions. The Key Man Award is one of these and it is voted on by all fellow Jaycee members. In making the presentation Hartman said, "We feel this award goes to a person who goes above and beyond to get things done. This person has set an example for all members and has continued that ever since he has joined. I have enjoyed working with him, and have relied on him myself. Some people say that this award is the Mr. Jaycee Award." Josh Walterscheid was named Key Man.

Another award voted on by members is the Outstanding Chairman Award. Hartman stated, "This project doesn't necessarily make the most money or is the project that everyone talks about. It is the award that is given to a person who continues to be there project after project and it goes to Josh Walterscheid."

President's Partner is an award given to the Jaycee member whom the president feels has been of great help to him. Hartman said, "The person who receives this award is someone that I depended on throughout this whole last year. He was always helping me every time I asked. I can't thank him enough for all he's done for me." Darren Bindel earned Hartman's President's Partner Award.

MISD to tackle budget deficit with program cuts

Janet Felderhoff
News Editor

Muenster ISD is operating on a budget deficit of about $300,000 this year and anticipates the coming budget year to be about the same. They must find a way to balance their budget and that will require a reduction in spending. The Board of Directors warned that there will be program cuts.

Superintendent Clay Richerson informed the Board of Trustees at the regular meeting held Wednesday, March 19 that he was ready to make his recommendations for program changes. He remarked, "I'm not going to tell you tonight what that is. If you want to know the personnel, we can talk about that in executive session. I am ready to make my recommendation to the Board on what needs to be done."

Richerson then went on to talk about outsourcing maintenance to EFI. He showed a five-page report by EFI on what MISD budgeted last year by line item and what EFI's hybrid model cost would be using EFI. It included equipment, chemicals, etc. MISD's budget this year for function 51 was $659,000. EFI's budget showed a savings of $85,000.

The EFI representative then compared MISD with Collinsville and Gunter. Richerson said that Collinsville is similar in buildings.

MISD would be a hybrid model because Richerson plans to keep a couple of people. EFI would send out a schedule and work orders every day. EFI employees would come in at different times of the day to clean the buildings, mostly in the late evenings, explained Superintendent Richerson. If there is an HVAC problem that MISD's maintenance supervisor could not handle, then EFI would send a repair person for $75 rather than paying a local company to do the work at a higher cost.

Richerson continued, "We won't have payroll. We won't have insurance, TRS, so that is all included in our savings."

"He had got this down to a science in the 15 years that they've been doing this. Each category, each line had the number of hours per week that it takes to do that and how much it costs per week, per month, per year."

As an example, Richerson showed Elementary campus day support at 10 hours per week, $127 per week, costing the school $550 a month and $6,600 a year. The District would pay a monthly fee of about $20,000 a month for EFI's service.

It is a yearly contract. EFI would also purchase MISD's cleaning equipment.

Trustee Ben Bindel asked if Richerson had called any of EFI's references. Richerson replied, "I talked to them. I know the superintendents personally."

Recognition was given to students who took part and did well in FFA, girls' basketball, and boys' basketball. The students were present and congratulated on their accomplishments by Superintendent Richerson, Principal Atcheson, their coaches, and the Board.

Charlie Price of Compass Builder, Inc. Construction Management Services presented an update on construction progress. The maintenance building is up and some of the existing slab was saved for an outside storage area. Work has begun on the interior.

Price said that demolition of the junior high building is complete, excavation is complete for the new junior high building, and peer drilling and filling with concrete is expected soon.

Price talked about sidewalks for the Elementary building. There is no access from the Elementary building to the playground. The playground is all-weather, but according to Principal Heers, they can't get to it.

After some discussion and suggestions of putting down pavers or plywood until the summer break, the Board decided that if it were to be done, it would be better to just go ahead and do it. The work could be done over a long weekend such as Easter break.

Price will bring sketches and cost estimates to the next Board meeting. Sidewalks were not included in the bond package.

During the construction discussion, Superintendent Richerson stated, "We almost had a vehicle run over kids this week between the Elementary and the Cafeteria. A parent driving very, very, very fast and on the cell phone nearly ran over kindergartners." He had the lane barricaded and asked for numbers on an electronic gate that is planned. The proposed price is very expensive for a gate. The goal is to eliminate through traffic. Signs will be put up until a gate can be installed.

The Board considered a fully programmable security system for the high school, practice gym, and fieldhouse. It would cost $104,000 for programmable security for all buildings. The Elementary which has a system.

Vice President Neal Flusche, who conducted the meeting in the absence of President Steve Trubenbach, noted that this would not be covered by bond money and

CR 444 rerouted

Janet Felderhoff
News Editor

A portion of County Road 444 has been rerouted. During the March 24 regular meeting of Cooke County Commissioners Court, Precinct #4 Commissioner Leon Klement explained, "We just changed the direction of the road due to the fact that the GEDC (Gainesville Economic Development Corporation) and the City of Gainesville gave the County a new right-of-way.

County Attorney Ed Zielinski added, "What we have is effectively a trade. They gave us property we could reroute the road on. The remaining property that the road used to be on is now within the GEDC, so we are just abandoning that."

Klement remarked, "TXDOT is happy. It made it a whole lot safer. Instead of (CR) 444 approaching FM 1202 at a sharp angle like it did, it is head on now. It squares it off and it is a lot better for everyone concerned." The Court gave its final approval of the deal.

would have to come out of the budget. He suggested tabling it for another month when all members are present and the budget can be discussed more.

REPORTS
Superintendent Richerson told of gaining two students in elementary and three in junior high. "The more students we get, the better off we are," he noted.

Elementary Principal Lou Heers said open house in the new Elementary building was, "Outstanding! It was like a mall at Christmas time. The hallways were filled with people, and very complimentary."

The 4th Six Weeks honor roll information showed that in grades 1st through 6th, 73 (35%) were on the "A" Honor Roll, 84 (40%) were on the "A/B" Honor Roll, and 157 (75%) were on either the "A" or "A/B" Honor Roll.

In that same period, 14 (7%) of the students in 1st through 6th (210 students) did not pass at least one class, 10 (7%) of the students 3rd through 6th (134 students) did not pass at least one class, and six (43%) of those 14 students in grades 1st through 6th (210 students) failed more than one class.

JH/HS Principal Jason

Atcheson said that the Arts and Crafts show held during open house was a big hit.

He said that the Student Council is sponsoring a fundraiser to assist the families of the five students involved in a car accident on Feb. 16. Tee shirts are being sold. At the time of his report, the Student Council had sold 500 shirts. He said he sent out mass texts to all the administrators that he knew and received 40 responses from coaches in Lubbock, to all the way on the coast. "Hopefully, we can sell a ton of tee shirts for those young ladies and their families," he remarked.

Jeff Presnall's technology report stated that Four Feathers and Nortex are still having problems with the intercom system in the new Elementary building. Presnall plans to hold a summer technology workshop for faculty, staff, and any members of the community and other schools.

In other business, the Board:

- Heard that MISD collected $7,518.09 in delinquent taxes during February.

A special meeting of the Board was called for Wednesday, March 26 to take action on staffing needs and program changes for the 2014-15 school year, to take action on reduction in force for professional staff, and to take action on Instructional Materials Allotment Certification.

After thanking all of the Jaycee members for their help over the past year and his wife for her patience and understanding, President Hartman remarked on the work they have done during the year. "There has been a great deal accomplished," he said. Renovation of the old ball park was one of their bigger projects. It received a face-lift with repairs and new paint. Currently, Laura Marshall is painting a baseball mural on the outside wall of the bleachers. A temporary fence was put up for girls softball. Hartman stated, "With these new improvements, we feel this old complex will be used more and more in the future."

Another big project was the addition of a playground at the new ball park. This provides a play area for young children whose older brothers and sisters are playing ball. He noted that none of the projects would have been possible without the many hours volunteered by Jaycee members and the support of the community.

Looking to this year, Hartman added that the Jaycees are already working hard on new challenges. A project that he would like to see completed this year is a new bridge across the creek at the new ball park complex. He feels it is an important step in developing the west side of the complex.

Another project underway is a fundraiser for one of the JCI senators. Of this person Hartman commented, "As a Jaycee, he has done a great deal for this community and has helped raise money for those who needed it. He is well respected and we feel that it is time to pay him back for all he has done. And with this, I would like to challenge our younger members to step up and continue the tradition of hard work that the Jaycees have done for the past 51 years."

Dylan Flusche led the Jaycee Creed to conclude the banquet.

COUNTY

At the suggestion of Commissioner Klement, Commissioners withheld payment of a bill for a new roof. He was not completely satisfied with the job. There is still water ponding exactly as it did before the new roof was installed. The roof has a 15 year warranty against leaks. He asked that the County Attorney handle the situation.

County Judge John Roane asked the County Attorney his opinion. Zielinski said, "You build a roof to keep water off and on that type of roof, it is supposed to leave the roof. What they've done is they've put a dip in there where it is pooling so what will eventually happen is you have water get in there and you have a freeze day and it's going to attack that membrane's elasticity. Once that is broken, then we are going to have a leak. I think they need to build it like it's meant to be built." He agreed that they did not fulfill the contract and he will contact the contractor. The bill was pulled for the time.

During public comments, Dick Sparkman had two requests of the Court. He asked that they consider hiring an election administrator. It would be that person's job to increase the number of persons voting in Cooke County elections.

Secondly, Sparkman suggested that Cooke County do as some other counties in Texas. Those counties take the money that is collected from a 1/2% sales tax and give it to certain cities or the Sheriff's Department. Sparkman suggested taking a quarter percent of the County's half percent and giving it to the Sheriff to hire additional patrol people and the equipment needed for that.

In other business conducted by Commissioners Court at the March 23 meeting, Commissioners:

- Approved the Treasurer's monthly report for February and the cash affidavit showing cash on hand, money market accounts, and short-term investments totaling $31,112,188.68.

Hadlock has worked at NCTC for 40 years and has been the College's president for the last 10 years.

In a letter to the Board, Dr. Hadlock stated that he has "enjoyed the opportunities that North Central Texas College has afforded me the past 40 years," but that health issues have caused him to rethink his future, along with his desire to spend time with his family.

"I want to assure you that you have a quality faculty and staff and it has been a pleasure to be on the same team with them," Hadlock

Missy's Pals support Relay For Life

Missy's Pals is a team honoring the memory of the late Missy Flusche Dangelmayr of Muenster. Missy was diagnosed with Sarcoma, fighting the battle for approximately eight years, ultimately losing the fight on Nov. 14, 2007. Throughout this time, Missy made multiple trips to MD Anderson in Houston for treatments and doctor visits; she continued to work for HEP Oil Company (now Silver Creek Oil & Gas) in Gainesville. Missy and her husband Richard had three daughters, Deann, Megan, and Brandy. She was the daughter of Dave and Wanda Flusche, all of Muenster.

Missy began participating in the Cooke County Relay for Life when it was held in Muenster, on the team of Tender Loving Day Care, which her mother, Wanda started. In 2007, Missy's Pals was assembled with team members being Missy, her family, friends, and co-workers. Year after year, the team has grown, raising more money each year for the American Cancer Society. In 2013, Missy's Pals alone, raised over $64,000. They were ranked the #4 fundraising team in the High Plains Division, which is comprised of Texas, Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Guam, and Hawaii. They also had the distinction of being name the #1 fundraising team in Cooke County.

As part of the team's many fundraising events, they have included a crawfish boil and fried catfish meal. The meal is prepared by Herkey Biffle and the Select Cook Team. Along with the meal, there is a silent auction, 50/50 raffle, and a live band. This year, Phillip Wildman and the Big Sky Boys will be performing.

Please join them in supporting the memory of Missy Flusche Dangelmayr and the Missy's Pals team, March 29 from 6:30 to 11 p.m. at the Gainesville Knights of Columbus Hall. Tickets are on sale at the Kress Building in Gainesville, Flusche Enterprises in Muenster, or by calling Jami Flusche Fuhrmann at 940 736 4723.

If you cannot make the meal, please come out and join the Relay for Life in Lindsay, and walk in memory of a loved one or friend. There will be many activities throughout the day and a luminary ceremony in the evening.

The Cooke County Relay for Life is being held this year at the Lindsay High School stadium, which is located at 508 West 4th Street, Lindsay. It will be May 10 from 12 p.m. to 12 a.m. Proceeds from the event benefit American Cancer Society.

CASA - which child?

Court Appointed Special Advocates (CASA) of North Texas, Inc., a local non-profit agency that trains and supports volunteers who advocate for neglected and abused children in foster care is, again, near the point of turning children away for just the second time in its more than 13 year.

"We have 14 children today in seven cases who need a CASA volunteer and we don't have anyone ready to assign to them or the additional children who are coming in weekly," said CASA Director Vicki Robertson. "Chances are when you read a newspaper article about criminal behavior and folks going to jail, there are children attached to these situations. That's true for us today. The number of children we're serving has risen in the past year from a little over 100 each year to now about 140. This is stretching us beyond what we're able to keep up with at this time.

"How do you pick which child won't have a CASA volunteer looking out for them? Should we turn away the baby girl born drug-exposed and still struggling with seizures in the NICU or the six-year-old little boy who's just had his teeth knocked out and woke up in the ER? Should we let the five-year-old who was sexually abused deal with life in foster care without an advocate, or should it be the nine-year-old who's just found out his mom went to jail and his dad doesn't want him? Literally, that's what we're facing.

CASA volunteers step into each child's world and conduct their own independent investigation regarding the child's case, speaking to anyone and everyone who may have information about what is happening in their lives.

They check up on the children in their foster homes and the parents' efforts to make changes in their lives that might allow for the safe return of the children. They report their findings back to the District Judge, who has the tremendous responsibility of making decisions for the child's future.

CASA volunteers stay with the child's case until the child is in a safe and permanent home. They also serve as a kind of "watch dog" to make sure that the child and his or her needs do not slip through the cracks.

To become a CASA volunteer one must be over the age of 21, have no prior criminal record or any history of abuse or neglect on record with CPS, have 10 to 15 hours a month to dedicate to a case and participate in 33 hours of training which is provided by CASA. Volunteers are asked to commit to any child they're assigned for the duration of that case, which normally takes around 18-24 months.

"CASA isn't always an easy volunteer role, but I can assure you that it's more rewarding than difficult," said Robertson. "Having a CASA is so very important for kids in foster care who need someone to be there for them.

"The difference a CASA volunteer makes for each child is tremendous. We have new volunteer training scheduled to begin soon - both evening and daytime. We need people to step up now so that we don't have to leave children without a CASA volunteer looking out for them."

If you have questions or are interested in CASA, call (940) 665-2244, email CASA at info@casant.org.

NCTC Foundation gala honors donors

Individuals and organizations that have made significant impacts on their local communities were honored at the annual North Central Texas College Foundation's Starlite Gala Saturday.

Several special awards were presented as well.

This year's F.M. Hemphill Distinguished Alumni Award was presented to Donna Howell-Sickles.

Howell-Sickles was born in Gainesville and began life on a 900-acre farm and ranch at Sivells Bend. Her school-teacher parents moved the family to New Mexico as she entered junior high school, but they returned to Cooke County during school breaks. She graduated from Lovington High School in New Mexico, and like hundreds of other NCTC students, she completed required coursework during the summer for Texas Tech University where she earned her Bachelor of Fine Arts degree. During her junior year at Texas Tech, she acquired a vintage 1935 postcard which depicted a cowgirl seated atop a horse. The postcard read, "Greetings from a Real Cowgirl from the Ole Southwest." Attracted by the charm and confidence of the woman in the image, she began incorporating the cowgirl figure into her artwork, as well as collecting and researching these old-time cowgirl images. The Cowgirl icon, and what she represents, became the central theme in the Contemporary-Western settings of her mixed-media artwork.

Because of her talent and dedication to portraying strong and jubilant women, Howell-Sickles was the featured artist of the 1996 exhibition, American Women Artists: A New Legacy, displayed at The National Museum of Wildlife Art. Her works are included in the Public Arts Collection in Frisco and are on display at galleries in Arizona, Colorado, New Mexico, Texas, and Wyoming.

In 1997, author Peg Streep published a book about the artist and her work entitled, Cowgirl Rising: The Art of Donna Howell-Sickles.

In 2006, Donna created a mixed media art drawing of Byron Nelson, which was used as cover art for the EDS Byron Nelson Championship.

In 2007, Donna was inducted into the National Cowgirl Museum & Hall of Fame in recognition of her work with imagery celebrating the Cowgirl.

Keith King, president of the NCTC Ex-Students and Friends, then presented the Ed Wright Community Service Awards.

The award for Cooke County went to First State Bank. Chartered in 1905, First State Bank is the oldest state bank in Texas. Combining the friendly customer service of hometown banking with their innovative, state-of-the-art technology, the First State Bank not only brings a legacy of banking experience but a legacy in helping its community.

Whether it is providing a gift basket for community fundraisers, providing financial support for area youth, serving as the sponsor for the annual NCTC Ag Roundup, providing financial resources for the athletic programs throughout the county, supporting the performing and fine arts at NCTC and throughout the county, or providing volunteers to help with Chamber of Commerce events, First State Bank is always involved in activities in the community.

NCTC President Dr. Eddie Hadlock, along with members of the Board of Regents and several NCTC Foundation Board members, then recognized inductees into the NCTC Foundation Honor Circle.

Members of the Patrons Honors Circle who have given between $1,000 to $4,999 included: Armm Investments; Howell Sickles Studio; PBK & Associates; Sullivant, Sullivant & Meurer; Wise County Sheriff's Posse; Nascoga Federal Credit Union; Tyler Parsons; Maurine Pettus; Crystal Wright; Dan Fain; Dawn Dias; Raymond James Investments; Whitesboro ISD; Derrell and Teresa Dodson; First Baptist Church of Bowie; Flower Mound Rotary Club; TRO Chapter; Marcus

And the Blue Chip Honors Circle for gifts of more than $100,000 included the Ben Turbeville family, and the Gainesville Economic Development Corporation.

Hadlock thanked those in attendance for their support of the College and the NCTC Foundation. He also spoke about the rich history of the College.

The Yellow-Bellied Sapsucker

There lives an ignoble scallawag who roams the North and South unleashing madness upon our trees, even here in North Texas. No higher in social status than a common carpet bagger, this cowardly bottom-feeder is known by no other name than the infamous "Yellow-Bellied Sapsucker."

The Yellow-Bellied Sapsucker is a type of woodpecker. Creatively named for its yellow belly, and sapsucking ways, this crabby old bird flies from tree to live tree pecking small holes in a row pattern in the bark. You may have noticed this on live oaks, cedar elms, and numerous other types of trees. Once the holes are pecked, sugary tree sap oozes out of these holes, attracting insects which come to feed on it. The sap-sucker then makes periodic returns and, with its specialized brush-shaped tongue, laps up the sap and the bugs to eat! Isn't that clever? It seems woodpeckers use their heads for more than just pecking.

Now the Sapsucker is a federally protected songbird and in actuality, is not so evil. Under typical circumstances, the damage they do to trees is tolerable and just a normal part of forest ecology. However, these birds do tend to favor some individual trees over others, and can target one tree so hard, that the damage they inflict can become a concern for the tree's health. When this tree happens to be the one in your yard, that's when it may be time to raise an angry fist and wage federally legal war on pesky sapsuckers.

Spring time is when they do their dirtiest work, and young live oaks tend to be favorite targets. Cedar elm, plum, peach, and a host of other trees get hit as well. Several deterrent options exist. "Tanglefoot," which is an aerosol spray or caulk available at your better lawn and garden stores, can be sprayed onto targets areas. Also, a homemade concoction of garlic and habanero peppers mashed, strained, and diluted into water makes a nice deterrent. It can be kept in a spray bottle, and sprayed onto targeted tree trunks once or twice a week in the spring. Just don't let the drift blow back into your eyes, or get it on your hands.

In fact, on that note, it never hurts to just call a professional "ISA Certified" arborist to address any of your tree care needs, including sapsucker damage. You can go on the International Society of Arboriculture website to find a certified arborist in your area. With proper management, both your landscape trees and the infamous Yellow-Bellied Sapsucker can live in harmony, adding both beauty and interest to these great United States of America.

Lake Texoma Crappie could set multiple records

A black crappie caught March 13 from Lake Texoma could set a state record as well as two water-body records. Johnny Summers, Jr., of Pottsboro caught the 2.93-pound, 16.88-inch fish in the Highport Marina Cove using a blue-and-silver Rat-L-Trap. The current weight record for Lake Texoma black crappie is 2.75 pounds, caught in 2008. The fish was weighed and measured by Texas Parks and Wildlife Department (TPWD) Inland Fisheries staff before being released back into the lake. The fish's length apparently qualifies it for two additional records, the Lake Texoma catch-and-release record and the state catch-and-release record.

Rules to fight Zebra Mussels take effect in additional counties

In the state's continuing effort to combat the spread of invasive zebra mussels, 30 counties in North and Central Texas were added effective March 23, to the recently implemented rules requiring that all boats operating on public water be drained after use.

Under the regulations, persons leaving or approaching public water in the affected counties are required to drain all water from their vessels and on-board receptacles. This applies to all types and sizes of boats whether powered or not, personal watercraft, sailboats, or any other vessel used to travel on public waters.

Additional counties being added to the vessel draining requirements are: Archer, Bastrop, Bell, Bosque, Burnet, Clay, Comal, Comanche, Coryell, Eastland, Ellis, Erath, Falls, Fayette, Freestone, Hamilton, Hays, Henderson (west of SH 19), Hill, Johnson, Leon, Limestone, Llano, McLennan, Navarro, Robertson, Somervell, Travis, Wichita, and Williamson.

The rules are currently in effect on all public waters in Collin, Cooke, Dallas, Denton, Fannin, Grayson, Hood, Jack, Kaufman, Montague, Palo Pinto, Parker, Rockwall, Stephens, Tarrant, Wise, and Young counties.

Applicable at all sites where boats can be launched, the regulation requires the draining of live wells, bilges, motors, and any other receptacles or water-intake systems coming into contact with public waters. Live fish cannot be transported in water that comes from the water body where they were caught and personally caught live bait can be used only in the water body where it was caught. The rules were modified point to another on the same lake during the same day does not require draining and there is an exception for governmental activities and emergencies. Marine sanitary systems are not covered by these regulations.

Anglers are allowed to transport and use commercially purchased live bait in water provided they have a receipt that identifies the source of the bait. Any live bait purchased from a location on or adjacent to a public water body that is transported in water from that water body could only be used as bait on that same water body.

Zebra mussels became established in Texas in Lake Texoma in 2009. In 2012, they were found in Lake Ray Roberts and the Elm Fork of the Trinity River. Last year, zebra mussels spread to Lakes Bridgeport, Lavon, Lewisville, and Belton. They can expand their range even farther by hitching a ride on trailered boats that have been immersed or moored in waters where they have established populations.

Do you know these basic fishing knots?

A great fishing experience can depend on small things. Sometimes your best catch can hang by a - well, a knot. Know your knots to be sure the best fish of your day doesn't get away. The most popular fishing knots are:
The improved clinch knot - the most popular fisherman's knot. The uni knot - basic and versatile. The arbor knot - add line to your new fishing reel with this one. The surgeon's knot - works great for tying together two lines of similar diameter.

You're right ... there is a time NOT to advertise.

Ten reasons not to advertise

1. You have all the business in town!
2. Everybody loves you so much they just can't trade elsewhere!
3. There are no new people moving into your area!
4. You have more business than you can handle!
5. The economy is so healthy, anybody could make money in business!
6. You want to keep your large inventory!
7. You have no competition!
8. You don't really want to work very hard anyhow!
9. You have netted your first $million!
10. You have to hire more help to handle business!

The time to START advertising is if ...
1. You do not agree with all of the above statements.

FARM & RANCH

Farmers encouraged to register early for FSA programs

Farmers and ranchers who plan to participate in the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Farm Service Agency (FSA) programs are encouraged to register in advance and report farm records and business structure changes to a local FSA office.

According to the Agency, enrollment for the disaster programs authorized by the Agricultural Act of 2014—including the Livestock Indemnity Program (LIP) and the Livestock Forage Disaster Program (LFP)—will begin by April 15.

To help expedite implementation of the programs, new farmers or farmers who have not reported farm records to the Agency should provide the appropriate information. FSA recommends submitting documentation of recently bought, sold, or rented land. Payment limits may be impacted if farmers and ranchers who have recently changed business structures—formed a partnership or LLC—have not updated their information with a local FSA office.

To be eligible for assistance through one of the four disaster programs, farmers and ranchers who suffered livestock, livestock grazing, honeybee, farm-raised fish, or tree/vine losses for 2011, 2012, 2013, and 2014 are encouraged to report farm records.

USDA expands support for small, mid-sized farmers

Preliminary data from the 2012 Census of Agriculture shows a diminishing middle class in farming, so U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) Secretary Tom Vilsack said the agency plans to expand efforts to connect small and mid-sized farmers and ranchers with USDA resources. By making these concentrated efforts, Vilsack hopes to help these farmers and ranchers build stronger businesses, grow their operations, and expand to reach new and larger markets.

Efforts include improved access to USDA resources, revised risk management tools that better fit the needs of smaller farmers, additional support for hop houses, and expanded collection of valuable news information, according to a USDA news release.

More information about these tools and resources are available on the USDA's Small and Mid-Sized Farmer Resources page.

Bottled Water Banned

We've long scratched our heads over the robust market for bottled water. It's now a $60 billion a year business in America, despite studies that show at least 25% of bottled water is merely tap water. Appalling, especially when you learn that in 2007, production of water bottles for U.S. consumption alone used up to 54 million barrels of oil.

The San Francisco's Board of Supervisors voted to ban the sale of water in plastic bottles on the city's property. Supervisor David Chiu, who voted for the ban, said, "Not long ago, our world was not addicted to plastic water bottles. Before (the 1990s), for centuries, everybody managed to stay hydrated."

Survey Details Angus Influence

We've known black has been a favorite color of America's beef producers for years, and our recent online survey confirms that both big and small operations utilize a lot of Angus genetics. A January Beef Today/Farm Journal survey with 1,245 respondents told us 58% consider their herd crossbred, but only 20% have no Angus genetics. Many have tied Angus' popularity to the successful Certified Angus Beef Program that helps find premiums for high-grading carcasses. At current prices, a high-value carcass can fetch $2,500. That's why it's interesting that nearly 40% of survey respondents said they paid less than $2,500 for a bull last year. It's a safe bet $2,500 won't buy much of a bull this year.

USDA report shows cow prices up, fed cattle volatile

Many ranchers culled their herds during the first years of drought conditions and are now beginning to rebuild and expand their herds, resulting in higher cull cow prices as slaughter numbers decline, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture's (USDA) Livestock, Dairy and Poultry Outlook report.

Released March 14, the report shows the inventory of heifers on feed as of Jan. 1, 2014, in 1,000-plus head feedlots was the third smallest proportion for heifers since 1995. This figure suggests more ranchers are retaining heifers for breeding, according to Drovers CattleNetwork.

U.S. beef exports rose 5% in January 2014 from the previous year, recent fed cattle prices are volatile, and all-fresh beef prices continue to set higher records each month. U.S. cattle imports totaled 157,299 head in January 2014, nearly unchanged from a year earlier. USDA expects cattle imports to fall 2% in 2014 to 1.95 million head, as inventories remain tight in Mexico and Canada.

Corn export forecast raised by 25 million bushels

Based on stronger world imports and the rising pace of shipments in recent weeks, the latest World Agricultural Supply and Demand Estimate (WASDE) report projected corn exports to be 25 million bushels higher.

U.S. feed grain ending stocks for 2013-14 were reduced by the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) due to the projected increase of corn exports and lower oats imports, according to Drovers CattleNetwork.

The season-average farm price for corn was narrowed by 5 cents on both ends to $4.25 to $4.75 per bushel.

AGRICULTURE MARKET SUMMARY

For the week ending March 22, feeder cattle prices reported by Texas auctions ranged from $8 lower to $9 higher per hundredweight (cwt) compared to their previous sale. Texas direct feeder cattle prices were steady to $1 higher on cattle weighing less than 800 pounds, but lower on heavier-weight offerings. Tight supplies and strong demand continue to support the feeder cattle market, but prices also fluctuate depending on the types and condition of cattle being sold and specific buyer requirements at each particular sale on a particular day. Fed cattle cash prices were $2 higher at a near record-high $150 per cwt. Wholesale prices for Choice-grade beef set a new record high on Tuesday, March 18, then declined to end the week modestly lower. Beef export sales totaled 16,300 metric tons (MT), down 8% from the previous week, but up 30% from the prior four-week average. Japan, South Korea, and Hong Kong were the leading buyers. Export shipments of 14,600 were a high for the marketing year, up 10% from the previous week and 21% from the average.

Wheat prices for the week were higher amid growing concerns about dry conditions in U.S. winter wheat areas and a decline in crop condition ratings. Tensions in Ukraine remain a factor, but the situation has not resulted in the hoped-for increase in U.S. export sales. Wheat export sales for the week totaled 401,800 MT, down 16% from the previous week and 12% from the average. Exports of 440,000 MT were down 3% from a week earlier and 8% from the average.

Corn and grain sorghum prices were lower as large world supplies and the advancing harvest in South America continued to pressure the market. Corn export sales were 745,800 MT, up 9% from the previous week, but down 20% from the prior four-week average. Export shipments totaled 927,100 MT, up 2% from both the previous week and the average.
