

FLAME youths walk in D.C. March for Life

Janet Felderhoff

Six members of Sacred Heart Parish's FLAME (Fellowship, Leadership, Acceptance, Ministry, Education) Youth group and two chaperones took part in the March for Life D.C. Pilgrimage held Jan. 21-24. They attended as part of the Fort Worth Diocese Pilgrimage with the Youth for Life Office led by Sue Laux, Youth for Life coordinator.

Attending from Sacred Heart Parish in Muenster were Alana Endres, Roy Endres, Brooke Devers, Samantha Palmer, Darian Peters, Amy White along with chaperones Deliris Palmer and Jenny White.

Each youth first attended a Lock-In for Life (an all night youth event) held at Holy Trinity Catholic School in Grapevine. While at the Lock-In, they were given a Pro-Life Essay prompt asking them to explain why an anchor along with the verse, "This we have as an anchor of the soul, sure and firm, which reaches into the interior behind the veil, where Jesus has entered on our behalf as forerunner, becoming high priest forever according to the order of Melchizedek. Hebrews 6:19-20." Those who submitted the essay earned an airfare scholarship to attend the March.

This was a first-time experience for some of the Muenster youths, but others had taken previous trips to the annual event. Several of them shared their thoughts and experiences.

Alana Endres is a junior at Sacred Heart Catholic School (SHCS). She has attended before. She noted, "This year was different because I went with a whole new group of people and we went to all new places."

"What impressed me most is the amount of people at the March, the Vigil Mass, and at the conference before the March. Being with so many people reminds you that you're not alone and that what you're a part of is so big."

Roy Endres, a freshman at SHCS, attended for the first time. He said, "What impressed me most was that there was over 700,000 people at the March. Also, that so many people came from so far away to fight for a good cause."

Samantha Palmer, a junior at SHCS, made her second trip to Washington, D.C. for the March for Life. She shared, "This time was a much different experience than the first time I went to D.C. I went with a whole different group of youth, different sites, and different events for this trip than I did the first time. I experienced more history while visiting the Capital, Arlington National Cemetery, and the changing of the guards and Tomb of the Unknown Soldier. I also enjoyed riding the metro, walking around the city, and being in an airport and a plane with a huge group of people!"

"The spiritual factor was greatly there as well for me with the Mass for Life at the Verizon Center and at the Basilica of the National Shrine, confession, and morning and night group prayer."

Duo walks for Veterans awareness

Janet Felderhoff
News Editor

Nick Pryor and Jacob Lehman, two friends from Chandler, TX, embarked on a 3,000 mile mission Jan. 1. Their plan is to walk across America.

They started their walk from their hometown of Chandler and are walking northwest towards Canada. The reason for this trip on foot Nick explained, "To really raise awareness and raise money for our veterans and wounded warriors in America since they aren't taken care of as well as they should be."

Both Nick and Jacob have a parent who is a police officer. Nick's mother is a law officer and she is taking care of any donations that are raised by the walk. "That way we aren't carrying any cash and we don't have to worry about getting robbed or somebody trying to take any of our things." They hope to raise at least $10,000 for the cause.

Response so far has been good. "A lot of people have stopped and talked to us along the way and encourage us to keep going and even donated to our cause, which has been very comforting."

While traveling through Gainesville, the walkers were stopped six times in only a few minutes. They had just been featured on a local news station and people recognized them from that. As they walked towards Muenster, there were many more people who stopped and spoke with them. Often they donated money.

"It was really nice to have that," Jacob remarked. "We have that every now and then, but in Gainesville and as we were walking toward Muenster, it was an abundance of people to talk to."

Muenster resident Steve Hennigan discovered the walkers on Facebook and decided to reach out to them. Hennigan met them in Lindsay and offered to put them up at his home for the weekend. This was on Friday, Jan. 30 and a rainy weekend was in the forecast.

Even when people give them a place to stay for the night, Nick and Jacob said that they like to help out where they are staying to earn their keep. Steve said with a chuckle, "They helped me plant my onions."

Jacob said of their journey thus far, "It's been pretty good. There is a learning curve. You have to get used to walking the miles a day. We have not had any bad dings that happened to us along the way. We had to go back for a week

County adds assistant fire marshal

Janet Felderhoff
News Editor

Two changes in staff were recognized at the Monday, Feb. 9 regular meeting of Cooke County Commissioners Court. One is in the office of the Fire Marshal.

Ray Fletcher was re-appointed to a two-year term as the County's Fire Marshal. They approved a new position, that of Assistant Fire Marshal. Eric Coberley received a two-year appointment to that position. He currently works in the Cooke County Sheriff's Office and Sheriff Gilbert has agreed to Coberley maintaining his duties as an Investigator with Sheriff's Office and performing as the assistant fire marshal when needed. At this time, his salary will all be paid by the Sheriff's Office.

Fletcher explained up until this time, when he is out of town, the opportunity to do a good, solid investigation of a fire immediately is not as good as it could be. Coberley has worked with Fletcher on previous cases and became interested in arson investigation.

Sheriff Terry Gilbert remarked, "This is the first time that the Cooke County Sheriff's Office and Fire Marshal have had an arson investigator under our employ."

District Attorney Janice Warder introduced John Warren to the Court. He is the newly hired first assistant district attorney. Warren replaces Ron Poole who is retiring.

Warder requested the reallocation of the District Attorney's State Supplement beginning April 1, moving forfeiture funds to payroll, and adding an additional employee for a two-month period. Her request was approved.

County Judge Jason Brinkley requested approval of funds of $2,800 for tuition so that he could become a member of the Commissioners' Court Leadership Academy and funding additional conference expense for the same not to exceed $1,000. Judge Brinkley explained that this was an application process which he completed last month. It is a two-year academy with four conferences - one this fiscal year.

The request was approved with the money to come from the Contingency Fund.

A few months ago, Oak Ridge VFD disbanded. The area that it covered was split among Callisburg VFD, Indian Creek, and Gainesville. Mike Musik, assistant chief for the Callisburg VFD, requested that funds already

Letter to the Editor

This letter which was written on Jan. 6, 2015 is reprinted with the permission of Karen Garnett

Dear Friend of Life,

In her tiny hands, she held our hearts.

And now, just 150 hours after her birth, celebrated with prayers by family, friends and some 8,000 members of the Facebook group "Annabelle's Army", precious little Annabelle Roos is our prayer warrior, having been called home to Our Lord.

In our eyes, she left too soon, and her death as a newborn is heart wrenching. But while she lived, she was welcomed by her big brother and her loving parents, Jason and Tricia Roos, head coach for the state champion volleyball team at Bishop Lynch High School. Annabelle was loved, kissed, cuddled, photographed, dressed up, sung to, prayed over – the way every child should be welcomed, no matter their health or condition.

Sadly, not all babies like Annabelle get that chance – they get a death sentence instead.

A genetic test during pregnancy revealed that Tricia's unborn baby girl had Trisomy 18, a chromosomal disorder with severe complications. Half the babies who make it to term are stillborn; most who live through birth don't survive to their first birthday. Of the 10% who do make it that long – most often girls – some can live with assistance into their 20s and 30s. One well-known early survivor is Bella Santorum, the six-year-old daughter of former senator Rick and Karen Santorum.

But the most tragic and unnecessary danger for these children is abortion, commonly recommended to parents of children with a Trisomy 18 diagnosis. This was the case for the Rooses, who faced strong pressure to abort. But the Rooses rejected that pressure and chose life for Annabelle – however long, however brief. They would leave Annabelle's life – and her natural death – in God's hands.

As Tricia told The Dallas Morning News: "This isn't a mistake. There's a higher purpose for this."

Indeed, the "story" of Annabelle's life was not ended early, "out of convenience," as Tricia put it. The story continued, and through the advocacy efforts of Annabelle's brave parents, will continue. Annabelle's life, like every human life, was and is sacred. Babies with adverse health conditions like Annabelle's – even if they are deemed "incompatible with life" – should not be aborted, as no babies should ever be aborted!

Abortion is direct and intentional killing. It is never medically necessary – even to "save the life of the mother." It doesn't erase grief. But it can eliminate precious moments of grace.

Here is Tricia's sister April's last entry on the "Annabelle's Army" page (www.annabellesarmy.com), posted yesterday morning: Last night, God faithfully answered our prayers to completely heal Annabelle Marie Roos. She was carried into heaven to be with Jesus on her 150th hour of life. She peacefully passed away in the arms of her momma with daddy and aunt rubbing her gently. We spoke words of love and prayers over her.

God said YES to every prayer for Annabelle that we had asked and did abundantly more than we had ever hoped for. Today, she is in the arms of her King – completely healed and completely whole.

Despite our broken hearts and deep mourning, we cannot thank our Father enough for the perfect life He gave her and the impact she has made. Thank you for joining us in praying over her life. Every bit of Annabelle and our moments with her were beautiful.

Today is a day to mourn, to be grateful, to consider the greatness of our God, to dwell in His loving presence, and to remember that our sweet Annabelle is dancing in heaven today. "I consider that our present sufferings are not worth comparing with the glory that will be revealed in us." Romans 8:18.

We applaud the Rooses for their testimony to life during this month when we mourn the tragic loss of 56 million unborn children to abortion in the U.S. To offer fitting memorial to these innocent victims, please join with Bishop Farrell, thousands of North Texans, and me on Jan. 17 at the Roe Memorial Mass and North Texas March and Rally for Life, ending in a Rally at the Earle Cabell Courthouse where the Roe case was filed in 1970.

We need you there. We need every pro-lifer there. Our presence, in large numbers, speaks the message to the culture that life is God's gift and we will not stop until abortion stops. No matter how cold it is, how busy you are, how tired you are – we need you to be there! The Rooses are heroic witnesses to life – Jan. 17 is a day for all of us to be heroic witnesses to life! The lives of these aborted children have not been in vain. We pray for them, we remember them, and we apologize to them: We have not done enough. With God's grace, and as we begin another year, we resolve: We will do more to defend and protect life!

May the Lord bless you and your loved ones in the New Year – a New Year for Life!

In Christ, For Life,
Karen Garnett
Executive Director
Catholic Pro-Life Committee of North Texas

P.S. We have another special prayer request: This week, the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans is hearing oral arguments regarding the ambulatory surgical center provision of HB 2, an important feature of the new law, that if upheld, will result in the closure of many unsafe abortion facilities and protect the health of mothers and the lives of their unborn children. Please storm heaven that justice will be served and that innocent babies will be protected!

Benefit set for African Mission fund

Sr. Roberta Hesse is making an appeal to people of this community. She and the other Sisters of St. Mary Namur are raising funds to be used for the education of the young African and Brazilian Sisters of St. Mary Namur and their apostolic mission fund.

To assist in that effort, a number of local residents are planning a fish fry and auction on Saturday, March 7 beginning at 6 p.m. in the Muenster VFW Hall. The cost is $10 per plate.

Volunteers and donations for the event are needed and would be much appreciated. To donate or learn more about ways to help, contact Janet Vogel at (940) 727-2996, Neil Hesse at (940) 736-4764, or Bernard Hesse at (940) 759-4130.

Already donated to the live auction is an evening and meal with Sr. Roberta for six people at J&R Felderhoff cabin. There will be a silent auction and they are in need of items donated to both.

A pistol or rifle raffle ($630 value) is planned. The winner gets the choice of either a Tristar Over/Under 12 gauge shotgun or a Ruger LC9 with laser.

Donations can be made to SSMN (Sister of St. Mary of Namur) Africa/Brazil, 909 West Shaw St., Fort Worth, TX 76110. There is a $10,000 matching grant with 100% of the profits given to Africa/Brazil.

Warren hired as first assistant district attorney

Cooke County District Attorney Janice Warder is proud to announce that John Warren is joining her office as the First Assistant District Attorney. He is replacing Ron Poole, who recently retired from the office after a distinguished career of 40 years.

Warren served eight years as an assistant district attorney in Dallas County. There he prosecuted in the specialized felony child abuse division, the specialized felony narcotics division, and the family violence court. He has also prosecuted many violent crimes including murder, aggravated robbery, and aggravated assault. His experience includes over 150 trials. Warren has also served as special prosecutor in Cooke County on a number of cases. "John's work experience is well-matched to the specific problems affecting our county including child abuse, drugs, and family violence. I am proud to have him in my office," states District Attorney Warder.

Warren, who was born and raised in Dallas, states, "There is no better training ground for a prosecutor than Dallas County. We had to deal with an incredibly high volume of cases, develop fluency in every area of crime, and be ready to go to trial every week. I appreciate what those years taught me. That said, my wife and I always planned to return to Cooke County to raise our family. We were married here (10 years ago this June), my wife's family is here, and we just love the people here. I want to make sure that this County is safe for my family, as well as all the families in this community." In addition, Warren said, "I respect the police and Sheriff's departments of this community, they are on the front line. They put their lives at risk every day. As a member of the District Attorney's office, I will stand with them and prosecute the cases that they investigate and file."

Warren graduated from Texas A&M University with a degree in History and a minor in Business, and Texas Tech University School of Law with a law degree and a Master's Degree in Personal Financial Planning. He said, "I am thankful that Mrs. Warder offered me the position as the First Assistant District Attorney."

Rita Richey 1938 - 2015

Rita Joyce Cain Richey, 77, beloved mother and Gagi, died at her home on Wednesday, Feb. 4, 2015.

Rita was born Jan. 30, 1938 to Richard and Eula Grace Cain at their home in Myra. In high school, Rita was a well-loved, accomplished student and athlete. Her activities included baton twirling, band and basketball—where she was an all-district player. Not only was she voted Class Favorite, Football Sweetheart, Class Secretary, and Hornet Beauty (along with her future husband), the Handsome Hornet, she graduated as the class valedictorian.

Following a year in nursing school, Rita began her 55-year career as a cattle auction ticket writer, working side by side with her husband and soul mate, Wendell Ray Richey. Rita and Wendell were married at First Baptist Church of Muenster on Feb. 4, 1956, where she played piano for over 30 years.

An avid sports fan, Rita loved watching and talking about her kids' and grandkids' sporting events. Over the past couple years, when not spending time with her family or watching a game, she worked as the receptionist at Dynamite Day-care, where she was loved by all the staff, students, and parents. In 1998, the community presented her with the KC's Good Neighbor Award.

She is survived by her siblings LaQueta and Johnny Fisher, Sandra and Gene Hartman, Judy and Fred Fortson, Deborah and Biff White, and Chris and Jan Cain; as well as her children Craig and Ann Richey of Austin, Robynn and Nick Walterscheid of Muenster, Todd and Michelle Richey of Corinth, Stephanie and Garry Felderhoff of Gainesville, and Melanie and Mark Hesse of Muenster. Texas registration and inspection stickers partner up in Cooke County

Cooke County is gearing up for a new Texas Two Step. Beginning March 1, the state will no longer issue vehicle inspection stickers and will move to a "Two Steps, One Sticker" program. Under the new system, Texas vehicle owners will need to pass inspection prior to renewing their registration. The familiar blue-bordered Texas Department of Motor Vehicles (TxDMV) registration sticker will serve as proof of both inspection and registration. "Cooke County is prepared to make this transition as smooth as possible for our residents," said Tax Assessor-Collector Billie Jean Knight. "During the first year of the program beginning March 1, all you will need to do is make sure you already have a valid passing vehicle inspection before you renew your registration in our office, online or by mail." When vehicle owners renew their registration, the system will automatically verify whether the vehicle has a valid inspection. Without a passing inspection, the vehicle will not be eligible for registration renewal. During the second year of the program, beginning March 1, 2016, vehicles' inspection and registration expiration dates will align to the date that is on the registration sticker. Once the expiration dates are aligned in that second year, you will have a convenient 90-day window to pass inspection first and then renew your registration before the end of the month listed on your sticker. "When the 'Two Steps, One Sticker' program is fully implemented, Cooke County residents will appreciate having just one sticker in the corner of their windshield and only one expiration date to worry about," said TxDMV Executive Director Whitney Brewster. "And because a passing vehicle inspection will be a requirement to renew your registration, more vehicle owners will comply with inspection requirements, leading to safer and more environmentally sound cars on Texas roads." The implementation of "Two Steps, One Sticker" is a result of House Bill 2305 which passed during the 83rd Legislative Session in 2013. The program is a joint effort by the TxDMV, the Texas Department of Public Safety (DPS), and the Texas Commission on Environmental Quality, in collaboration with the 254 county tax assessor-collector's offices which process vehicle registrations and vehicle inspection stations across the state.

Customers will pay the inspection station one-half of the inspection fee and the other half will be paid to the local tax office. Only one sticker will now be on your windshield.

Our Lord needs from us neither great deeds nor profound thoughts. Neither intelligence nor talents. He cherishes simplicity.

and get Nick's wisdom teeth taken care of and I had a slight foot (stress) fracture. It was kinda hard for me to walk, but we've gotten back on tack and it has been good. People have been extremely nice, so it has been a whole lot easier than I anticipated it to be."

They had traveled about 213 miles by the time they arrived in Muenster. The goal is to average 10 miles a day and they are close to that they said. They hope to finish the trek at least by late November.

Jacob has been impressed with the willingness of people to open their homes to them. He noted, "It's changing my mind about how I see America. Most people are decent. It's that 10% that ruins it for the rest of us."

What Nick felt most impressed him is, "People's compassion. I had kind of lost faith in humanity in seeing the stuff that's going on in the news and our social media, and just the way we treat each other these days. All the compassion that has been reflected upon us has been an eye opener for me."

It surprises him that strangers would buy them lunch with no expectations of being paid back.

A couple of years ago, Nick met somebody in Denton who was a former Navy seal. The former soldier suffered from PTSD (Post Traumatic Stress Disorder).

"For him to deal with that, it's a hard thing to see because you can't say, 'I know how you feel.' Because you don't, it makes me feel horrible because the only way I'd know is if I went into the military. So, I'm going to do something for those who did something for us."

In high school, Jacob had a big group of friends that he hung out with. One of the friends went to Iraq at the age of 18. He was killed within six or seven months of his deployment. "It hit our community really hard," Jacob explained. "People over there are fighting for you every day. Someone is probably in the situation where they are worried about their life and we don't do anything when they come home or even then to be supportive. I talked to a couple of them who were there and when they do receive something like a thank you, it's a big deal to them. They protect us every day. I wanted to do something to make people think twice when they see a veteran or someone in need who served our Country." Anyone wishing to donate to the cause may do so on the Wounded Warrior website which they noted is very easy to do. Or, they can contact Jacob and Nick through their Facebook page if they prefer to donate specifically to their trip. "At the end, we are going to take the money and donate to the organization and then find a wounded warrior that we either know or met along the way who needs something like a wheelchair ramp or if they are in a wheelchair, something for their van to help out," said Nick. They want to give to the single veteran to see an immediate impact.

Jacob remarked, "My biggest goal is to bring awareness to Veterans. Sometimes Veterans just want to be recognized and a thank you. Definitely our generation. That could be your brother or your uncle who is over there and comes back with a missing leg. I think that it is important to see the opposite side of it."

"I want everyone to really open their eyes and think outside their bubble," Nick commented. "There are a lot of Vets in this Country that don't have anything that have done so much and things that they would never talk about to keep this freedom that we fought so hard for years and years ago. Veterans are on the street homeless."

MARCH

"It was so cool seeing so many people my age coming together to show how much we care about ending abortion. I made many new friends and memories as well! It was an unforgettable trip with unforgettable people! I was quite sad when me and a few of my friends had to leave the trip early to come home and get confirmed. We missed things like the tour at the Holocaust Museum, Smithsonian, and the White House viewing, tour of the Franciscan Monastery of the Holy Lands, and tour of the national monuments, and, of course, I missed all the wonderful new friends I met! I think if people keep working this hard and coming together, I believe we will change the minds and hearts of government leaders and stop abortion."

Also making the pilgrimage for the first time was Brooke Devers who is a sophomore at SHCS. She said, "I was most impressed by the amount of people who came together all for one cause - saving lives."

Amy White, a junior with Mother of Divine Grace Home School, attended the D.C. event for the third time. She has gone since she was a freshman.

"This year was my first year to go to the March with the Youth for Life of the Fort Worth Diocese," remarked Amy. "It was a great group of people to travel with around D.C. I really enjoyed making new friends! "There seemed to be a lot more Pro-Lifers at the March this year. I wouldn't be surprised at all if we numbered more than a half-million."

"With a temperature in the low 40s, the weather was a lot warmer than usual. Usually it's so cold that you can hardly move, but this year the weather - although still chilly - was more pleasant."

Amy said that what really impressed her about the March for Life was the fact that so many different kinds of people came together to support life. "Roman Catholics, Orthodox Christians, Protestants, and even some atheists all came together for a worthy cause," she said.

"It was an amazing experience to be surrounded by hundreds of thousands of people who all share the belief that all human life from conception to natural death is sacred."

What message did the youths bring back from this pilgrimage?

Alana said, "That each and every life is precious and should be valued."

Roy said, "That with this many people something has to change, so we need to continue to fight against these unjust things."

Brooke said, "That together we are strong and we can make a difference if we stand together."

Amy commented, "Although the March for Life is a protest against a terrible evil, abortion, the overall theme of the March seemed to be a celebration of life. Life is precious and worth being protected, and that is the message which the March for Life gives."

Alana, Samantha, and Amy came home a day early to receive the Sacrament of Confirmation. It was conferred by Bishop Michael Olson of the Fort Worth Diocese. He was also at the March.

Friends to recruit local foster parents

Last year, 149 Cooke County children required protective foster care. "For these children, travel became a fact of life, as many are moved to foster homes in the metroplex, sometimes farther away," said Vicki Robertson, executive director of North Texas Special Advocates (CASA) of North Texas. She attributes this to a severe lack of foster homes in Cooke County. "At this time, there are only two foster homes in Cooke County," she explained.

"Having most of our children housed in foster homes outside of our area makes it hard on the children. They are then faced with traveling back once a week for visits with their parents. I'm very glad they're visiting, but they often miss a whole day of school a week because of the time it takes them to travel to and from the visits. This is tough on children who may already be struggling in school," says Robertson. "CPS doesn't complain, but it makes it hard on their children, and as well as precious time is spent transporting children to and from visits rather than working with the families and meeting the overwhelming demands made on caseworkers. I really believe our children and their families would benefit if we can work to recruit foster parents here in our area."

"I know there are caring families in Cooke County who are interested in becoming foster parents, but haven't done so because it hasn't been made convenient for them," said Robertson. "That's why I'm so excited that Kitie Hermes and Shelley Gomulak are working to make it easier for people in our County to become foster parents."

Hermes and Gomulak have been working for more than a year to bring CPS to Cooke County for recruitment and possible training of foster parents, starting with an informational meeting that will be held on Saturday, Feb. 28 at Select Energy, 1800 N. I-35, Gainesville from 11 a.m. through 12:30 p.m.

They have a commitment from CPS that if they meet a minimum number of committed families, the required training will take place locally. All who are interested in becoming foster parents are encouraged to come.

For questions, call Gomulak at 940-634-3670 or Hermes at 940-284-5621.

allocated for Oak Ridge be split between Callisburg and Indian Creek to offset some of added cost of fuel and maintenance. This was a one-time request he said. The amount allocated was $9,500.

Judge Brinkley suggested giving 50% of the $9,500 to Callisburg VFD and Indian Creek VFD and the other 50% be divided evenly among the other County fire departments.

Commissioner Klement said that he had been informed that all things had to be exactly equal for all fire departments. This was at the time that papers were being distributed. "We set a precedent by saying that," said Klement.

Klement also stated, "I appreciate everything the firemen do. The volunteer firemen in this County are probably one of the best, if not the best, in the state of Texas."

Commissioner Smith reasoned that the individual people who were being served by Oak Ridge and absorbed into the other fire districts are the ones who the support is owed to. He wanted to divide the money equally between the two volunteer fire departments.

The Court voted 4-1 to split the $9,500 evenly between Callisburg and Indian Creek as a one-time action. Commissioner Klement cast the nay vote.

The Court considered supporting the purchase of a plaque inscribed with "In God We Trust." Commissioner Al Smith stated, "Of course, I would be proud if we displayed somewhere 'In God We Trust.' I would be even prouder if we always did that. But, we have always maintained a secular relationship between government and religious things." He felt it would be more appropriate to accept a donation for purchase of the plaque.

"I think it would be more meaningful to us and would certainly eliminate any confusion that we were taxing taxpayers or any entity to display something that they feel should be secular in nature."

Commissioner Leon Klement noted that the request to display the plaque came from a woman in California. It is her goal to get "In God We Trust" in every taxing entity in the United States. He added that different counties have been doing this. Commissioner Gary Hollowell said that the effort was to get the plaque in all city council chambers and all commissioners courts.

Judge Brinkley said, "I think something needs to be done as well. 'In God We Trust' is an iconic and symbolic motto of our nation."

Ken Atteberry came forward from the audience with the $105.44. With that, the Court approved the plaque purchase.

Nathan Vajdos of OwnEnergy again addressed the Court seeking a tax abatement for the wind farm proposed for the Muenster area. He asked that Ronnie Felderhoff, a local business owner and resident of Muenster, speak on the abatement. Felderhoff said that he has signed a contract with OwnEnergy for possible lease of his property.

He spoke in favor of granting the abatement saying it would benefit a lot of people and bring in revenue that the County might lose with the drop in tax values from the drop in oil prices. He also pointed out that the County has given abatements in the past.

Vajdos said that he did not seek out Felderhoff's support, but Felderhoff reached out to him as one of the 50 land owners in the project.

OwnEnergy proposed a 50% abatement of Cooke County taxes for five years. Vajdos said that would return to the County $3.5 million over five years.

A yes vote for the tax abatement would also bring eight to 10 permanent jobs to the County, and 350 construction jobs.

Vajdos gave some facts that include:

- Muenster Wind Farm will not get built today without a tax abatement.
- Natural gas prices have dropped 78% since Wolf Ridge Farm was financed. (Wolf Ridge requested an abatement from the County, but was turned down).
- Hedge pricing has dropped 20% since OwnEnergy closed on the Windthorst 2 Wind Farm.
- Natural gas prices and hedge pricing directly impact our ability to finance the wind farm.

• The project has leases with over 50 different land owners.

• These landowners live, work, and will spend their wind farm royalties in Cooke County.

• OwnEnergy is NOT a balance sheet developer.

• OwnEnergy gets $0 from the federal Production Tax Credit.

"If we are not able to attain a tax abatement regardless of potential success on this project, we will no longer consider Cooke County as a place to consider doing business. We are considering Montague County for potential projects due to the supportive tax policy and due to the supportive wind environment," said Vajdos.

Commissioner B.C. Lemons inquired, "If we don't give all this abatement, you're not going to build? Is that what you are saying?" Vajdos answered, "That is today. That is not a lack of desire. The financials, the economics can't support it."

Lemons questioned some of the facts given by Vajdos noting that some things were over estimated. Lemons then said, "You are saying if we don't give you the abatement you are not going to build. What about tomorrow?" Vajdos said, "In the business we live in, you are correct sir. So, I don't know."

Commissioner Hollowell noted that even if OwnEnergy was not benefitting from the federal production tax credit, somebody would and that statement was factually misleading. Vajdos said that the investors would.

This was an information item and no vote was taken.

STUDENTS LEARN ABOUT NATIVE AMERICAN TRIBES - Sacred Heart Catholic School Third Graders researched a Native American Tribe, did a written report, and then made a diorama showing how their tribe used the natural resources food, clothing, and shelter. Students learn by mapping states

Each quarter, Sacred Heart Catholic School fourth graders construct their own personal maps of a state in the United States. First quarter, they prepared maps of Texas. While studying the Northeast region of the country, they created maps of Massachusetts for the second quarter. This quarter, they have constructed maps of Minnesota, one of the states of our great Midwest, and the state where the mighty Mississippi River begins.

Michele Knauf teaches the SHCS Fourth Grade class.

Sacred Heart Fourth Grade made maps this quarter. Pictured are Vincent Simmons, Jackson Knabe, Isaac Schilling, Elise Flusche, and Mara Juntado with the class maps in the background.

TSCRA statement on withdrawal of EPA interpretive water rule

The Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association made the following statement after the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and the United States Army Corps of Engineers issued a memorandum withdrawing their Waters of the U.S. (WOTUS) interpretive rule.

"While I am pleased the EPA withdrew this component of their flawed water rule proposal, it doesn't address the overall issue and it actually wasn't their decision to take this action," said Pete Bonds, TSCRA president. "Instead, Congress had to pass a bill and force their hand to scrap this small part of the larger overreaching EPA water rule proposal.

"Ranchers and landowners across the country continue to speak loud and clear in opposition to EPA's attempt to control every drop of water on their land. I am disappointed that the agency continues to ignore the concerns of those who work extremely hard to feed our country.

"TSCRA applauds Congressional leaders for their continued efforts to rein in the EPA, and we appreciate the many cattle raisers and landowners who continue calling their elected officials to voice their concerns.

"This decision is a step forward; however, we still have our work cut out for us. There is no doubt that the EPA will continue full force ahead to implement their larger water rule proposal. We must continue to be diligent and work to stop them from implementing rules that create onerous government regulations that take away ranchers' and landowners' private property rights.

"TSCRA will continue striving to make sure rules harmful to cattle raisers and landowners are not implemented."

Endangered species don't have to trample private property rights

Endangered species and private property rights. Sometimes they don't mix.

Over 170 species could potentially be listed in Texas. That could cause significant harm to agriculture because most of these critters live on privately owned land.

The Endangered Species Act—chock full of good intentions—is going too far. Many times the federal government paints with a broad brush, restricting land use, agricultural, and other economic activity over a wide area. They can list a species even if they have little scientific evidence to back it up.

Activities on formerly productive land are restricted—many times to save a species that's not even there.

Private landowners and threatened species can both lose. If the public values endangered species, then it's only right the public compensate landowners to take care of them.

Seems fair to me. That way, farmers, ranchers, and threatened species can all stay off the endangered list.

Study: COOL not the cause of cattle imports falloff

Morning Ag Clips reports the decline in cattle imports into the U.S. is not due to Country of Origin Labeling (COOL), according to a recently released study.

"COOL did not cause the declines in livestock exports to the United States, which largely coincided with a substantial global economic downturn that sapped demand for more expensive meat products," notes the study, authored by C. Robert Taylor, Ph.D., an Auburn University Alfa eminent scholar and professor.

The study concludes that cattle exports to the U.S. are subject to a number of variables that are completely independent of the implementation of COOL. And the study recommends "neither Congress nor USDA should undertake any changes to COOL based on arguments that COOL has limited Canadian and Mexican access to the U.S. market."

Cover crop improves soil's health & yields

In the winter of 2013, the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) conducted a survey on cover crops. More than 1,900 farmers participated in the survey, according to the USDA.

Farmers who planted corn in a field following a cover crop, had a 3.1% increase in yield compared to side-by-side fields with no cover crops. Likewise, soybean yields increased 4.3% following cover crops, according to the survey.

With assistance from the USDA's Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS), farmers and ranchers are using cover crops to protect soil—their most valuable asset. Over the past six years, NRCS has helped landowners plant close to 6 million acres of cover crops by providing both financial and technical assistance.

Practices like cover crops help increase organic matter in the soil. In fact, 1% of organic matter in the top six inches of soil can hold about 27,000 gallons of water per acre. Increasing organic matter increases the holding capacity for water, making land more resilient to extreme weather.

New ethanol production methods impact cattle feeders

As the U.S. corn-based ethanol industry makes continued advancements in technology, new production methods have had a direct impact on cattle feeders, reports Drovers CattleNetwork.

A recent and growing trend has been the extraction of corn oil during ethanol production. In return, this has decreased the fat content of the sweet, malty smelling by-product.

"Oil extraction through these methods has become popular with an estimated 85% of ethanol plants adapting some form of the process," declares a recent report by the Iowa Beef Center.

According to the report, research has shown cattle fed distillers grains consistently had less dry matter intake measurements. However, due to the variation of oil extraction methods from plant to plant, the nutrient profile of the distillers grains can vary greatly and thus have varied effects on cattle performance.
