New Auction Barn Under Construction West of Muenster

Next Monday as the nation observes Labor Day we can expect the usual widespread oratory on the dignity of the working man, the wonderful achievements of organized Labor in bringing him a better way of living, and hints of coming demands which are claimed as still greater contributions to the worker's comfort and security.

Lest we be carried away by the enthusiasm of those who beat the drums for Labor, it is a good idea to think about the subject from its several angles. The first thing, of course, is to admit that working people have made wonderful advancements since a few hardy pioneers of the Labor movement first organized scattered groups of men to stand united in defense of their rights. Those leaders did a wonderful service to humanity when they led their respective groups out of economic servitude. Immediately hours became shorter, pay and working conditions became better.

The labor champions are overstating, however, when they take credit for all of labor's current blessings. The fact is that a tremendous share of the credit is due to the inventors who have designed better machines, the stockholders who have provided those machines and the production men in both labor and management who have introduced better methods.

The truth of that stands out clearly when we take a look at the farmer. He too has advanced wonderfully, but, not because of better labor relations. Now, as before, he's his own boss, so labor relations is not a factor at all. His entire advance resulted from better management and more efficient equipment.

Likewise in the field of industry. Greater efficiency in methods and machines has accounted for the greater productivity which made greater compensation possible. In some cases it may be true that organized labor has forced higher pay from an employer. In more cases it is true that greater efficiency enabled the employer to give more.

It would be infinitely better for the entire country if the big shots of Labor were more honest about the importance of capital and management in American industry. If they would live up to their responsibility as leaders they would endeavor to make all their members understand that all three elements, labor, capital and management, are entitled to share in the fruits of production. It would create much better labor relations than the present, too frequent complaint that employers are exploiting the workers. Many a laboring man would be easier to get along with if he knew the score.

Prejudiced viewpoints are still minor problems, however, when figured into the overall Labor problem. Senate investigations of the past several months and magazine articles of the past several years reveal that crookedness causes most of the labor troubles. We frequently hear of the "sweetheart" contract in which the labor boss agrees with the crooked employer to let his men work below the regular pay scale. The employer cuts costs and the labor boss gets his pay-off in secret.

Even more frequent are the cases of workers who are helpless under the rule of iron fisted labor bosses. They strike when told to whether their majority wishes to or not. They pay stiff initiation fees to get a job and stiff dues to hold one. They are the economic slaves of their union bosses as much as they used to be slaves of employers.

That is the second... and the most important thought... which should be brought home on this Labor Day. Labor urgently needs a house cleaning. It should kick out the scoundrels who sell out their own members to the chiseling employers. It should also boot out the self-promoted labor czars who squander the members' dues and impose their iron will regardless of the wishes of the members.

There is one fool proof method to achieve that latter goal. That is to repeal closed shop and union shop laws throughout the country. If people have the right to join or not to join a union, and their jobs are not jeopardized by either choice, the individual's bonds of slavery (Continued on Page 3)

Bigger and better facilities for the Muenster Livestock Auction are under construction now to replace those destroyed and damaged in a recent fire. The location also is changed. The new structure is going up on the former Hacker Estate south of Highway 82 about a mile west of Muenster.

Work started Monday and Dick Cain, owner and manager, hopes, to have the place ready to open in about six weeks. The new building with its adjoining stock pens will offer several notable improvements over the old establishment. It will be larger, more conveniently arranged, better looking, and more of it will be fire proof.

Dimensions of the main building will be 50x80 as compared with the 40x60 space plus a small office added on at the former location. Walls will be built of concrete tile and will be topped by three sections of flat roof. The main arena, measuring 50x50, will have a 14 foot ceiling, and a 50x50 space at each end will have an 8 foot ceiling.

Stock pens, like the main building will be larger. Fifteen of the pens will measure 12x44 and thirty of them will measure 12x20. Another feature is their all-steel construction. Posts will be made of pipe and siding will be of rod iron welded to the posts.

Loading docks will be built at the west side and parking space will be provided at the front and both sides.

For water Cain plans to deepen and enlarge the near-by old well which has provided water for the place for many years.

Small Squad of Parochial Tigers Faces Big Season

With nine lettermen and about as many rookies reporting for the first practice sessions George Petrus this week started grooming his Sacred Heart Tigers for one of the most rugged football schedules in the school's history. Nine foes appear on the list and every one is tough.

The Tigers started their season's grind Monday night and spent their first three sessions on exercises and fundamentals. They will get their first sample of action Thursday night in a scrimmage with the Muenster High Hornets. Next week they will settle down to a single period of practice each afternoon.

Players who are expected to carry the big load for the Tigers are the nine returning lettermen Sonny Walterscheid, Howard Mollenkopf, Gene Hartman, Leonard Bayer, Gerald Hess, Bernard Hesse, Tim Wimmer, Werner Becker and Cecil Wolf. Walterscheid is temporarily slowed down, however, by a bad bruise caused by dropping a piece of lumber on his foot.

Three non-lettermen who are expected to give a great deal of help are Charles Bayer, Roy Swirczynski and Herman Grewing.

The Tiger schedule is as follows: Sept. 13, Windthorst, there Sept. 20, New Diana, here Sept. 28, St. Mark's, here Oct. 3, Gainesville B, here Oct. 10, Sherman B, here Oct. 19, Waco Catholic Hi, there Oct. 25, Ryan, Okla., there Nov. 2, Laneri, there Nov. 8, Buckner, here

Variety Store Will Convert Storeroom To Toy Department

An expansion is in the plans at the Variety Store. Anthony Luke, owner, disclosed this week that a part of the south side, now used for a storeroom, will be cleared for a Toy-Town display room.

Most Christmas merchandise, including toys, dolls and wheel goods will be placed in the separate room. Last year, during the first Christmas season in its new location, the store used the space for wheel toys and a few other large items.

A door through the partition near the front of the store will provide an entrance to the toy room during most of the year. During the Christmas shopping season the street door for that part of the building will also be in use.

Mrs. Burchfiel Will Teach at Saint Jo; Saye Returns Here

Another change on the Muenster High School faculty became effective Tuesday, the day before school opening. Laurence Saye of Whitesboro replaces Mrs. Nellie Burchfiel.

The change results from a problem which developed at Saint Jo during the past few weeks. After a resignation there the opening was offered to Mrs. Burchfiel, who had already agreed to teach at Muenster. Then Saye's availability became known and the persons involved got together to solve problems both here and at Saint Jo. So, Mrs. Burchfiel will teach in her home town and Saye will teach here.

Saye was a member of the Muenster High faculty two years ago and taught at Whitesboro last year.

The complete faculty at the public school consists of the following: H. H. Homsley, superintendent; L. B. Bruns, high school principal, industrial arts, driver training; Jim Harris, band, history, library; William Ansley, coach, mathematics, Glenn Hellman, agriculture, Mrs. H. H. Homsley, homemaking, Mrs. Marie Mosman, science; Miss Betty Dobs, commercial; Laurence Saye, English; Weldon Holland, elementary principal and seventh and eighth grades, Mrs. William Ansley, fifth and sixth grades; Mrs. Weldon Holland, third and fourth grades; Mrs. Bessie Miller, first and second grades.

Home-School Group Maps Program Plans

In their first meeting of the current scholastic term Monday night members of the Sacred Heart Home-School Society outlined program plans for the new year and discussed coming activity. Andrew Schoech, president, presided, and about 60 parents attended.

Meetings, it was decided, will feature programs after business. Slides on religious and educational subjects, panel discussions and guest speakers are slated.

Father, Christopher Paladino announced that the school has inaugurated an I.Q. testing program made available through St. Mary's University of San Antonio. Each student from beginners through high school will be classified according to ability and individual records will be kept.

He also told of changes in the school lunch program this year. Previously students helped during serving hours. Mothers will take over this duty from now on. They will work from 11 a.m. through serving time and each one will have an opportunity to contribute her services. Mothers beginning with Sister Grace's first grade will start the serving program. They will help the lunch room staff of three: Mrs. George Mollenkopf, Mrs. Al Walterscheid and Mrs. Gertrude Bayer. Another change is in the serving schedule. High schoolers will go to lunch first, reversing last year's line-up.

Roommothers to lead activity are to be selected promptly and will be introduced at the next meeting. It was also announced that school uniforms which may be worn any day are mandatory on Wednesday only this year.

Bulcher Ready for Homecoming Sept. 1

A big welcome and a bountiful barbecue dinner await visitors at Bulcher Sunday, Sept. 1, when the community holds its annual homecoming program and old settlers reunion. Hundreds of former Bulcherites are expected back home for the event.

Invitations mailed to former citizens summon them to appear "Then and there to render to old acquaintances an account of what you have been doing since you left the community."

Free barbecue will be served by the Bulcher homecoming committee and area people have been asked to bring a salad of their choice — green salad, fruit salad, potato salad — to supplement the main dish. Everybody is invited to attend. The community center building is headquarters.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hofbauer and daughter Sylvia returned to Dallas Thursday after spending three days of this week here with his relatives.

Swimming Pool Will Close Monday

Swimming days during the 1957 season in Muenster are numbered. L. B. Bruns, pool superintendent, this week calls attention to the city council's directive of several weeks ago to end the season at 9 p.m. on Labor Day.

This week the pool has been open on a part time schedule because of the opening of school. The hours were 4 to 8 and they will continue that way through Friday. On Saturday, Sunday and Monday the usual hours of 2 to 9 will be in effect.

Parish Party Says Welcome Sisters; Goodbye Father Pat

Several hundred Sacred Heart parishioners—whole families including all the children—who attended the combined welcoming and farewell party in the parish hall Saturday night got their money's worth. There was an abundance of food, fellowship and fun.

The community gathering honored the Benedictine Sisters as they arrived from Jonesboro, Ark., to teach in the parochial school, and was a farewell tribute for Father Patrick Hannon who left Sunday to become pastor of St. Mary's church in Fort Worth.

The party began with a covered dish supper after Father Louis Deuster led the invocation. Those attending also brought a shower of food for the Sisters' pantry and presented Father Patrick a cash gift as a going away present.

In a brief address Father Louis expressed the sentiments of the crowd when he spoke words of farewell to Father Patrick. He voiced regret at his transfer and wished him success in his new work.

Later, parents got acquainted with their children's teachers and there was a general visiting and an exchange of pleasantries. Members of the church choir and others who like to sing joined in a medley of old German songs and popular current ballads.

Hornets Practice Overtime; to Meet Pilot Point Sept. 6

The Hornets of Muenster High under direction of Coach Boze Ansley have been working overtime this week in an effort to get in shape for an early opening of their 1957 grid season.

Facing the always rugged Pilot Point Bearcats Friday night of next week, the Hornets have had two practice sessions a day since Monday and will have a similar double-practice Thursday, ending the day by taking on Sacred Heart for a scrimmage session. Friday they will practice one period and go to Valley View that night to see a scrimmage of two future foes, Valley View of Cooke County and Valley View of Wichita County. Next week the men will have only 1 period of practice time each day.

The squad as of Thursday consists of 24 players headed by 8 lettermen. Only 20 came out originally and the others joined when school started Wednesday.

Muenster Schools Lose 3; Combined Enrollment is 669

A loss of 3 in the total enrollment of children at both Muenster schools was shown Wednesday after tabulation of the opening day registrations. The total dropped to 669 from last year's 672, which in turn had dropped from the previous year's all time high of 683.

Late registrations last year, however boosted the total enrollment to 687.

This is the smallest opening enrollment reported here since 1953, when the count was 682. Other counts of recent years were 675 in '54, 654 in '52 and 612 in '51.

Sept. 1 Is Deadline To Claim Refund On Federal Gas Tax

You barely have time to make a last-minute rush to the Internal Revenue office for that gasoline tax refund!

The first day of September is the deadline for Texas farmers to apply for refunds on gasoline used for farming between July 1, 1956, and June 30, 1957. The rebate amounts to three cents per gallon on gas used in farm operations during that period.

The opportunity for a small return is also available on gasoline purchased during the first six months of 1956. The Dallas office of the Internal Revenue Services says that two cents will be repaid on each gallon used during that period.

Texas farmers are reminded, however, that only one refund claim per farm operator will be permitted. Each claimant is cautioned to make certain that his refund request includes all eligible fuel used.

Form 2240, for filing the 1957 tax refund claim, has been mailed to each farm and ranch operator who applied for the tax refund in 1956.

Farmers who desire to claim their refunds and have not received Form 2240 can probably obtain them from their county agent or from the nearest Internal Revenue office.

Season Record of Lions Is Perfect In Pee Wee League

The 1957 season for Muenster's Little League ended Friday night with the Lions battering their way to a customary one-sided win and marking up a perfect record for the season. They licked VFW 14-1.

They had run up their score on a combination of 8 hits, 9 walks and 2 errors while their opponents made their lone run on 2 hits and 6 walks, all scattered. Harold Flusche with a homer and a single was the big slugger. Gobble with two singles was the only other lad getting more than one safe blow.

League standings as the season closes are Lions 9-0, St. Joseph 7-2, KC 2-8 and VFW 1-8. Six games were not played because of bad weather.

GREATEST OF ALL IMMUNITIES

Suppose someone seriously announced a plan whereby all of the nation's transportation agencies — that is, all the railroads, all the airlines, all the trucking companies, and all other domestic shippers — would be combined into one gigantic monopoly.

This, you may say, is absurd. For one thing, no man or group of men could conceivably possess the powers and the resources that would be necessary. Then, more important, the government would move instantly to block the project, using all the great authority given it by the anti-trust laws.

That would happen as surely as night follows day if a financial and operating monopoly of this nature were contemplated. But matters are very different when it comes to labor monopolies.

James R. Hoffa — who, it is almost universally believed, will soon succeed Dave Beck as head of the Teamsters Union — has made public a plan under which he hopes to put all the nation's transportation workers into a single union or federation. That means just what it says — all the workers in the rail, truck, air and other shipping industries.

Senator McClellan has said that this would amount to a "super-government." Senator Goldwater has said, "Control the nation's transportation and you control the country." And nothing has more vividly and ominously pointed to the inherent danger that lies in unbridled big labor, immune to laws that affect all the rest of us. The Wall Street Journal told the story in these moderate words: "... the basic reason for the breakdown of most efforts to check unions is that union leaders, alone of the citizenry, are beyond the reach of many of the nation's laws. . . . And the greatest of all immunities is the unions' unique exemption from the anti-trust laws." In other words, the unions now have monopoly power — and as the Journal added, "Only the Congress of the United States can remove that power."

A PROUD SHIP

The battered but proud hulk of the USS Constellation, berthed for the time-being on Baltimore's downtown waterfront, is — in these days of the $40 billion war chest — a startling reminder of our past.

Launched in Baltimore September 7, 1797, the Constellation was not only the first naval vessel to be built by the United States, but constituted for a time our entire navy! Her first skipper, Captain (later Commodore) Thomas Truxton, established systems of duty and discipline, such as the four-hour watch and the three degrees of court martial that remain today fundamental operating routine. Fabulous for her speed as well as her battle record, the Constellation was known to sailors the world over as "The Yankee Racehorse" and also, outdistanced every naval service record — remaining in commission for 149 years!

She fought the French privateers within days of her commissioning, fought the British in 1812, then the North African pirates. In 1840 she went to the aid of Americans caught in the war between China and Great Britain. During the Civil War, the still spry Constellation ranged the Mediterranean capturing blockade runners. Later she served as receiving ship at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, then as a training ship at Annapolis. But she sailed again in 1880 with the food that saved Ireland from famine. In 1894 she began her long service in Newport as a training ship. But still her days of glory were not over. In 1941, by Presidential proclamation, she became Admiral Ernest J. King's Atlantic Fleet flagship. Massive switchboards and super-modern communications gear replaced her ancient, long-silent guns. Her cabins, that had sheltered many a naval hero, became general staff headquarters.

Finally decommissioned at the end of World War II, the Constellation lay in the Boston Naval Shipyard until she was ordered scrapped in 1953. At this news, aroused Baltimoreans formed a "Constellation Committee," pressed Congress for a bill, signed by President Eisenhower in 1955, to save this historic and gallant vessel.

Today, she rests but a short distance from the ways on which she was built 160 years ago — awaiting for those who love ships, American history, or are partial to the US Navy, to get up the $2 million it will take to put her in fighting trim once more, to give her towering new masts, stout spars and an acre or so of billowing canvas.

STOP GOVERNMENT COMPETITION

Senator McClellan of Arkansas has introduced an "Anti-Government Competition" bill.

This bill is designed to hasten the termination of government owned or sponsored business-type operations. Its passage would put Congress on record as directing Federal agencies to get out and stay out of activities that compete with privately owned, taxpaying enterprise.

While the measure is said to face stiff opposition from Government employe unions, it has the backing of economy minded members of Congress and they hope to push it through this session. They need all the active public support possible.

Woof! Meow! Chirp! Chain Store Age reports that production of pet foods is now a major industry. Our dogs and cats consumed $275 million worth of these foods last year, and parakeets were fed to the tune of $65 million.

"Soaking the rich" is no longer a feasible way of supporting the government. Only about 10 per cent of total income is received by people earning more than $10,000 a year — and less than 4 per cent by those with more than $20,000.

What Labor Day Means To Me

By James P. Mitchell, U. S. Secretary of Labor

LABOR DAY was originated by Peter McGuire during the last century with two purposes in mind—honor and leisure. It was a day on which to pay homage to the achievements, aspirations, and genius of American working men and women. It was also a time for rest and recreation at a place in the calendar that lacked a major holiday.

To these purposes—in the light of our national experience since Peter McGuire's day—we may now add a third: RELIGIOUS.

IN THE UNITED States it is impossible to celebrate a holiday like Labor Day without recognizing its religious implications. To honor the working people of our nation is to recognize their dignity as persons—and to do that is to assign them a religious value.

For the soul of man is made after the image and likeness of God—possessing the Godlike powers of knowing and loving. In this respect all men are equal. There is no difference between rich and poor, master and servant, ruler and ruled, "for the same is Lord over all." All men must love and respect that human dignity which God Himself treats with reverence.

TO SET ASIDE a time of rest is to recognize the creative nature of man—for leisure and creation are related. We read in the Bible of God's mysterious "rest" after the creation of man. "He rested on the seventh day from all His work which He had done."

But aside from such basic reasons, the vast struggle in the world today—between powers that would enslave man and powers that would free him leads us to see more clearly than ever before the fundamentally religious nature of our way of life and of the concepts that underlie our society.

AS DID our Founding Fathers, we believe in one supreme, personal God—creator and preserver of the world—upon whom all reality, including man, is dependent. We believe that every man is endowed by God with all those unalienable rights to fulfill a God-given destiny according to his own enlightened conscience and in his own chosen walk of life.

This nature, this way of life, and these concepts are expressed daily in the lives of our working people who are freely working out their God-given destinies. To honor them is also to honor these ideals.

TO REST, to honor, and to pray is the fitting way to observe this uniquely American holiday.

Terracing is one of man's oldest means of halting soil and water losses on cultivated land. Terrace channels and ridges break long slopes into short slopes and lead the water slowly from the fields to a grass covered outlet area. A combination of terraces, soil improving legume crops in the rotation, cover on the soil and proper fertilization will usually protect and improve sloping fields so that yields will be increased and the land held secure for future production.

Landowners cooperating with the Upper Elm-Red Soil Conservation district have realized the importance of protecting their fields from soil and water losses and are taking steps to install a complete, coordinated soil, water and plant conservation program on their lands.

George Bayer has just finished construction of 6500 feet of the broad based channel type terraces on his farm near Myra. Al Wiesman has 5000 feet of terraces staked on his farm four miles east of Muenster. These terraces will empty onto a King Ranch waterway which was planted for this purpose. Walter Reed has constructed a diversion terrace above one of his fields to divert pasture water from crossing the field. His neighbor, John Fleitman, is building 2000 feet of terraces.

Many field terraces are built with a tractor and plow. By using farm equipment a landowner can construct a modified channel terrace with a broad base that can be farmed easily. Some Muenster landowners are using their own equipment to build their terraces.

Werner Becker is using farm machinery to build 5000 feet of terraces on his farm near Hood. Bill Lutkenhaus is working on 4150 feet of terraces on his farm south of Muenster. Nearby, Tom Sicking is building over a mile of terraces with a tractor and plow. All the terraces being built by these landowners will outlet on waterways of grass that were planted in the fields along natural drains especially for the purpose of receiving and handling terrace water safely. These terraces represent another step forward in applying a complete soil, water and plant conservation plan to the farms.

When you fire a volley of censure at somebody else, you may not feel the recoil at once, but it is present as surely as you are.

Safety Inspection Season Here Again; Starts September 1

Inspection time has rolled around again for more than four million automobile and truck owners in Texas.

The inspection period has been lengthened this year under a provision of a state law setting Sept. 1, 1957 until April 15, 1958 as the time in which all vehicles must be checked for mechanical defects.

Col. Homer Garrison, Jr., director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, in announcing the opening of the inspection period, recommended that every owner have his cars and trucks inspected at the beginning of the period. This, he said, will enable vehicle owners to obtain inspection stickers before the holidays and before the last minute "log jam" at inspection stations.

Garrison said that more than 4,200 licensed inspection stations in the state would have stickers on hand by the starting date and would be equipped to check vehicles without delay.

Gift Party Honors Mrs. Billy Whitt

Mrs. Billy Whitt of Decatur was honoree at a gift party Saturday afternoon when Mrs. Lloyd Barnhart and Mrs. W. B. Whitt entertained in the Whitt home.

Decorations in the party room included a "lullaby tree" the branches of which were adorned with baby toys. Game winners chose their prize from the tree and presented their award to the honor guest. Winners were Mmes. Sam Sparkman, Earl Robison, Grady McElreath and the honoree.

In pretense of playing a game Mrs. Billy Whitt was blindfolded and led to a large doll buggy containing gifts wrapped in pink and blue.

Another unique decoration consisted of twin dolls fashioned of diapers. The doll faces were pictures of the honoree and her husband. They wore infant's clothing and were wrapped in blankets of pink and blue.

The hostesses served refreshments of punch, cookies and nuts. Nut cups were three-cornered squares held together with gold safety pins.

The guest list was: Mmes. Earl Robison, Nathan Whitt, Reagan and Grady McElreath, Sam Sparkman, Linzie Branch, Rafe McElreath, Charley Winchester and daughter Ethyl of Grand Prairie, Jim Shiflet, B. G. Lyons, Bill Moon, Albert Fleitman, Lena Owens, Melton Ramsey, and Misses Peggy Branch, Becky McElreath, Wanda and Linda Whitt.

Mr. and Mrs. John Neu were in Dallas Friday to spend the day with Father Robert Wilson. They also visited with Father Hubert Neu. Both are assistants at St. Monica's church.

Evelyn Haverkamp of Muenster is here with the Rufus Bezner family to live in their home during the school term while Mrs. Bezner teaches.

Sister Catherine Henry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Fuhrmann, is teaching in Tulsa, Okla., this year. She arrived there the past week after spending the summer at Our Lady of the Lake Convent. Last year she taught in Shreveport, La.

A surprise birthday celebration greeted Emma Neusch Saturday evening when a lawn party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Schmidkofer in Gairesville. Nineteen guests remembered the honoree with gifts and enjoyed a barbecue supper. The refreshment table held a decorated birthday cake.

Schad Home Scene Of Family Party

will be broken. From then on the union will have to survive on merit instead of coercion and arbitrary administration. From then on the union can be regarded as the true representative of its members . . . because those members will be permitted to vote as free men.

Another thought which occurs to many of us is the reluctance of lawmakers to pass such obviously good legislation. After all the exposures in senate hearings and print it is apparent that the big problem in labor relations is the corruption in Labor itself. Why haven't the men in Washington done something about it?

According to our guess, those delinquent legislators don't know the score themselves. They've heard so much of the Labor Boss propaganda that they don't really know about the needs of rank and file workers. There is a big difference between the wants of Labor and the wants of Labor bosses. Mary Trubenbach of St. Joseph's Nursing School in Fort Worth came home to spend the weekend with her family, the Alois Trubenbachs.
