Hornets Fall 20-12 After Strong Start Against Warriors

Something new and wholesome has been added to the history of this country's diplomatic relations with Soviet Russia. President Eisenhower has rejected a letter from Gangster Chief Khrushchev. The implication, as well as the comments by the President, state in an unmistakable manner that the message does not deserve a reply and the only proper treatment is the diplomatic equivalent of hurling it back in the writer's face.

The President's action was not only praiseworthy . . . and consistent with the policy spelled out in his speech a few days before . . . but also effective. Like the speech, it has met with the overwhelming approval of people over here and a better understanding in the rest of the world. There's great comfort in the thought that the line has finally been drawn, that the acknowledged leader of free peoples has finally mustered the gumption to take a stand in defense of freedom.

Under the circumstances we can be fairly certain that nothing will result from that conference at Warsaw . . . unless, for once, the concessions are made by the reds. Official attitude over here makes it clear that we have quit giving in. So the only possible alternatives are a deadlock or a back-down by the commies. We fervently hope it will be the latter, because the present stalemate at Quemoy cannot continue long without breaking into a full scale war.

As regards the alternatives facing us, nothing could be more realistic than the appraisal made by President Eisenhower in his speech. We cannot give in, because every concession to the red monster only feeds his greed for more power. History prior to World War II proves that appeasement eventually makes war inevitable. And history since then has proved the same thing. Concessions have only made the reds more demanding. It cannot be tolerated any longer.

This element of self preservation, as explained by the President, certainly is ample justification for our present firm policy. But in a strict sense it does not cover the subject adequately. To be more forceful, and more correct, he should have elaborated on our country's sacred obligation before Almighty God and all free people to accept responsibility for the shocking state of affairs which we have permitted to develop. United States, more than any other nation, is to blame for the alarming progress made by communism in Asia and Europe. We betrayed the people of China, our allies in the war with Japan. We failed again in the Korean War when all of Asia could have been restored to its proper governments. We missed more opportunities to accept our responsibility in Indo China and Indonesia. Our present stand at Quemoy should be acknowledged as more than a matter of survival. It is the long overdue acceptance of our duty.

Another point that could have been mentioned is the utter falsity of the red claims. They demand the off shore islands and also Formosa as the rightful property of Red China. In justice we should support the counter claim of Chiang Kai-shek that not only the islands but the mainland as well belong to the Nationalist Chinese. Furthermore we would be entirely correct in asserting that present red hostility is an act of aggression and if not stopped will be met by retaliatory measures.

Though not mentioned officially, these considerations should, and very likely do, weigh heavily of the conscience of our leaders. Most likely they give added strength to the determination to stand fast in this crisis.

Will it result in war? President Eisenhower thinks it will not. From professional experience he is convinced that the reds are not ready for their long boasted show down. He knows, and so do the reds, that enslaved peoples cannot be counted on for loyalty. The experience of the Spanish civil war could be repeated. Like Franco, Chiang might return to his homeland and add hundreds of dedicated volunteers of every mile he advances. South Korea's army too is waiting for its chance at the communists. The reds are in no position to bluff. They know that millions of people are eagerly awaiting their chance to fight for freedom.

The Muenster Hornets were both wonderful and pitiful in their encounter with the Valley View Warriors last Saturday. They looked fine in the first quarter, during which they jumped to a 12-0 lead, but then started slipping and eventually went completely to pieces. The Warriors emerged with a 20-12 triumph.

Opening minutes of the game left little doubt that the visitors were packing plenty of power. From the opening kickoff they promptly drove 53 yards down the field and fumbled the ball away on the Hornet 28.

On the next play Doug Hellman missed James Harris with a pass. However the second try connected. Harris was in the open as he received it and raced on some 65 yards for the first TD. A pass for extra point failed.

Valley View snapped back with another drive that ended like its first. After moving 42 yards the Warriors lost a fumble on the Hornet 22. Again the lighter Hornets made the most of their opportunity. In eight plays they covered the 78 yards to the double stripe. Long gainers in the series were a pass Hellman to Harris for 48 and another of the same combination for 19 and the score. Hellman's run fell short in the try for extra points and the Hornets led 12-0 about a minute before the end of the first quarter. (Continued on Page 8)

Hornets Will Meet Experienced Foe at Newcastle Friday

Muenster's Hornets have slightly less than a 50-50 chance when they bump noggins Friday night with the Newcastle Bobcats on the Newcastle field.

According to information received to date the Bobcats have few reserves and the players are smaller than average. Muenster will have an advantage in weight but the host team will be ahead in experience. The team is described as small but nicely coordinated and sparked by a triple threat boy at quarterback. Another asset is a hard running, husky fullback. In last week's tussle the team held Class A Archer City to a score of 24-3. Newcastle led 8-0 at the half.

Regarding the Hornets the big question is whether they will be clicking or cracking. If they can keep organized like they did against the Rowdies they have a chance to rack up their first win. If they repeat their performance of the other two games the outcome will likely be the same.

Physically the Hornets are ready for the first time this year. Injuries which handicapped the boys in previous games are all cleared up for this one. Last year the Hornets, on the local field, dumped Newcastle 31-12.

Sept. 30 is Deadline For Claiming Refund On Federal Gas Tax

The last day of September is the deadline for farmers to apply for federal refunds on gasoline used for farming between July 1, 1957 and June 30, 1958. The rebate is three cents a gallon on gasoline used in farm operation during that period.

Form 2240 for filing the 1958 tax refund claim has been mailed to each farm and ranch operator who applied for the tax refund in 1957. Those who are eligible for a refund and did not receive Form 2240 may obtain one from the post office or the county agent.

The form is simple and needs no witness or notary public. Only one refund claim is permitted and farmers are cautioned to make certain that the one-year claim includes all eligible fuel during the period.

Plan Is Complete For Homecoming At Muenster High

Plans for Muenster High School's fourth annual homecoming have been completed according to officers of the Ex-Students Association who have been busy mailing out invitations and tending to other details of the event.

The big day is Saturday, Oct. 4, and highlights of the program will be the football game between the Muenster High Hornets and the Era High Hornets, the crowning of homecoming queen at half-time, a general meeting of ex-students and a dinner-dance after the game.

The homecoming committee has mailed several hundred invitations and ballots to former students and teachers and these will select the homecoming queen by marking a ballot sent out with the invitation. Identity of the winner, as in former years, will not be revealed until the coronation ceremony takes place.

Class favorites selected by students as queen candidates are Pat Otto, Jolene Carlton, Tommie Sue Hamilton and Angela Dern.

Homecoming committee urges an early return of cards indicating how many will attend the dinner so the seniors and Mrs. H. H. Homsley who are in charge of the meal will know how many to prepare for.

Large Crowd Sees 18-18 Deadlock at Girls' Grid Game

The heralded female football game sponsored by Junior classes of the two local high schools measured up to all the ballyhoo that had been put out in advance. The girls gave fans their money's worth in an evenly contested game that carried spectator suspense to the very last play.

Final score was an 18 to 18 tie but it could have been changed any time during the last few minutes as the Tigerettes moved steadily down the field. The effort failed, however. Time ran out as a fourth down fell short of the goal.

Rules in the game were different from a boys' game in one (Continued on Page 8)

Pioneer Resident Passes in Oregon

Relatives have received word of the death of Mrs. H. V. Dean, 73, the former Emma Mertes of Muenster, and sister of Mrs. Ben Hellman. Mrs. Dean died in Portland, Oregon, Sept. 21 after an extended illness.

The body was sent to Spokane, Wash., for funeral services and burial in the Fairmount Cemetery Mausoleum where her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Mertes, and other family members are buried. Requiem mass was held in St. Aloysius Catholic Church, her parish church while the family lived in Spokane, their home for many years, before she went to Portland when her husband was transferred there by the railroad for which he worked until he was retired.

Mrs. Dean left Muenster more than 40 years ago, but was well known through her visits here with her sister. She and her husband were here for their last visit during the summer of 1951.

Survivors are her husband and three sisters, Mrs. Ben Hellman, Muenster; Mrs. H. F. Phillips, Portland, Oregon; and Mrs. Peter F. McManus, Los Angeles, Calif. Other survivors include a nephew, Clarence Hellman of Muenster and a niece, Mrs. Irene Frost of Gainesville.

Inspired Minute Gives Tigers 6-0 Decision over Ryan

Two beautiful plays in rapid succession changed an apparent deadlock into a 6-0 victory for the Tigers in their game with the Ryan, Okla., Cowboys here last Friday night.

It happened about midway in the final period after Sacred Heart had stopped the visitors and claimed the ball on downs on the Tiger 45. From a spread formation Charles Bayer flipped a lateral to Tim Wimmer who in turn heaved a long pass downfield to Leon Fuhrmann. Tacklers nailed him instantly, but the gain was good for 29 yards to the 26. Next Bayer hit left tackle on a keeper and drifted toward the sideline in a race with the Cowboy safety man. He lost by a yard but set up his team one step short of the goal and with four tries to make it. One attempt was enough. Wimmer found a big hole and stepped across. A run for two extra points failed and left the score standing at 6.

Playing on a rain soaked field both teams had real trouble holding to the ball. On the very first scrimmage play Ryan fumbled and Sacred Heart recovered on the 16. It was a setup, but the ball was just as slick for the Tigers. Though recovering their own fumble they lost yardage. It was like that for the rest of the quarter, both sides losing possession twice on fumbles and both losing ground on their own recoveries.

As the next period opened the (Continued on Page 8)

Pair Returns From Pilgrimage Abroad

"What we saw and experienced on our shrine pilgrimage defies description and leaves us groping for words," is what Judy Trubenbach and her mother, Mrs. Alois Trubenbach, said upon their return home Wednesday morning. Yet both tell stories full of sparkle and color and answer questions rapidly.

The 17-day flying pilgrimage began and ended at Pan American World Airways in Detroit. Stop-overs were in Dublin, Ireland; Paris and Lourdes, France; Rome, Italy; Fatima and Lisbon, Portugal.

Joe Fisher Sr., also on the tour, left the party at Portugal for a visit in Germany and will return some time next month.

Judy and her mother in listing high spots on their trip mention their baths in the water at Lourdes, a semi-private audience with the Holy Father in Vatican City, a visit with Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York at Fatima and a visit to the catacombs.

Returning they flew from Portugal to New York to Detroit where they entrained for Denison and were met by Mr. Trubenbach.

Mrs. August Knabe Original Settler of Community, Dies

Death has claimed Mrs. August Knabe, 76, who came to Muenster on Nov. 14, 1889, only 40 days after the signing of the contract that made Muenster a colony and who was a continuous resident through the following 69 years. The former Elizabeth Derichsweller was seven years old when she came here with her parents and was among the few children who attended the first mass that year on Dec. 8.

Mrs. Knabe died suddenly last Friday at her home about 3:15 in the afternoon. She had been in failing health for several years but her death was unexpected.

Funeral services were held Monday morning at 9:30 in Sacred Heart Church with Rev. Christopher Paladino officiating and delivering the funeral sermon. He also conducted graveside rites in Sacred Heart cemetery. Nick Miller was in charge of funeral arrangements.

Rosary services were held at the Miller Funeral Home Chapel Saturday at 4 and at 8 and Sunday at 3, 4 and 8 p.m. Mrs. Knabe was a 57-year member of the parish St. Anne's Society and a long-time member of the Franciscan Third Order.

She was born in Westphalia, Iowa, Aug. 26, 1882, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Derichsweller and was with them on a land seekers' excursion from the north. The train that carried the party westward stopped on the open prairie and deposited the group of bewildered people then continued on its way. In the group were the families of Derichsweller, Koll, Hesse, Koester and Finken.

The Derichsweller home was one of the first built in the new colony. It was located where Cooke County Electric Co-op building now stands.

On Jan. 29, 1901, Elizabeth Derichsweller was married to August Knabe and they lived on a farm north of town until he (Continued on Page 8)

Virgil Hess made the first one, Pat Klement the second one and Frank Schilling the third one. In addition Hess and Klement went over for the bonus 2-pointers after touchdown.

The last period was turned over to the tiny tots, who got nowhere offensively but managed to hold the Mustangs to short gains.

What is 'Normal' Growth for Child

Worried because one child in your neighborhood has grown faster than your son or daughter? Then take heed of what the editors of CHANGING TIMES, the Kiplinger Magazine say about the normal pattern for growing.

Birth to 1 year — A period of rapid growth in length and weight. Birth weight trebles by the first birthday.

1 to 3 — Physical growth slows down some, and appetites tend to lag. Boys attain half their mature height at 2.2 years; girls at 1.7 years.

3 to 5 or 6 — Growth becomes slower than at any time between infancy and puberty. Appetites are dull.

5 or 6 to 10 or 11 — A period of slow, steady physical gains with a tendency toward underweight. Girls' rate of growth may pick up at 9; boys' at 11. Boys reach 75 percent of mature height at 8.9 years; girls at 7.2 years.

10 or 11 to 16 — A time of very rapid growth. Appetites may be voracious or picky. Boys' rate of growth in height reaches a peak at 14 or 15; girls' at 12 or 13. Peaks in weight gains come six months later. Boys have 90 percent of their height at 13.7 years, girls at 11.4 years.

16 to early 20's — Growth in height ends between 16 and 20 or 21. Growth in weight should end in early twenties.

A man, obviously in great pain, stopped at a bar and asked for something to relieve a headache. The bartender started mixing a fizzing, bubbly remedy.

"Oh, no!" cried the man, wincing. "Haven't you anything that makes less noise?"

About 60 oldtimers and members of their families enjoyed dinner in the Cook Book Bakery auditorium in Amarillo and after-dinner talks, then had a business meeting and officer election. The group voted to hold next year's reunion the first Sunday in October at the same place.

Mrs. Detten, president of the group the past year, presided and introduced the principal speaker, Cotton John Smith of Amarillo, formerly of Gainesville, who spoke on his agricultural tour of Europe.

Prizes were awarded Mrs. U. T. Devers 78 and D. Daugherty 85, oldest persons present, to Mrs. F. Snow now of Denver, Colo., who traveled the longest distance to attend and to A. Higgins who has lived in that area the longest since moving from Cooke County. Mr. Higgins has lived in the same place 68 years.

The American Way

MAKING OUR CHILDREN LITTLE SOCIALISTS

By John T. Flynn

Have you a little socialist in your home? That sounds like a silly question, but it's one that many parents are asking themselves today. They are answering it, too, and to their horror, the answer is often in the affirmative. The first sputnik of a year ago supposedly awakened us to our educational system's deficiencies. But it needed no sputniks to reveal to many troubled parents that something cockeyed has been going on in our schools for a long time.

For instance, a country-wide survey made among 5,000 high-school students showed that 60 percent believe the profit motive can be killed off without hurting the American system. Another survey asked the kids: "Who contributes most toward improved living standards — business, government, or union leaders?" Government and union leaders got first and second place. Business ran a poor third.

In other words, great numbers of high-school students — in many places a majority — emerge from our public high schools with a philosophy of life bearing a closer resemblance to European communism — than to traditional American thinking.

With the schools open again, it's a good time to ask how these kids get this way. Of course, many influences are brought to bear on them during their school

Teaching Your Children About God

By Mrs. William E. Walsh, a mother of fourteen

Professor Walsh and I began teaching our children about the love of God through the things they already loved—like animals, flowers, summer evenings, and babies.

WHEN ONE of our children loved a dog, for example, he wanted to please his pet, and so he would give it part of his own food and even his own coat.

His love took him outside of himself. And this was his first step in the love of God.

IT IS EASY to lead a child from the love of his puppy dog to the love of the Creator of that pet. The child learns that God made the world and all of the wonderful things in it for us to love—because He loves us.

When the child learns to love God in this way, he is beginning to develop a sense of the presence of God. He begins to see the unmistakable traces of God in things and in people.

AS GOD'S presence becomes more natural to the child, prayer becomes easier for him. Just as it is natural to converse with someone who is near—or whom we love—it becomes natural for the child to talk to God.

Our Irene told us, "I think that the more you love God, the more you learn about Him, and the more you love Him, the more you love Him. I just talk to God like He was another person with me."

IN THIS WAY—by a gradual process—the child is led away from his very natural tendency to be selfish and self-centered, into a sense of God. As he realizes more and more the truths about God—that God is our loving Father—that He created us out of love and destined us for happiness with Him for eternity—that consequently we should honor, love and serve Him—the child "grows up" with a living awareness of God.

Just as the child made sacrifices for the pet that he loved, he realizes that he must make sacrifices for the God that he loves. God is Our Father, and a Father has rules. By sacrificing his own way and obeying God's rules, he shows his love for God.

IN LEARNING that love is measured in terms of sacrifice, the child is able to grasp something of the tremendous love that Jesus had for us—in sacrificing Himself for our sins.

Children learn about God just as they learn everything else—step by step. As our Gael put it, "I love Jesus, and I think that you have to love little things before you love big things."

years. But one of the most important — perhaps the most important — are the textbooks from which they are taught the subjects of history, social science, government and economics.

Let's get one thing straight right away. These books do not teach communism — they do not even teach socialism — or at least they don't call it socialism. This is why it's been so difficult for the average parent to trace down what's been done — and is being done — to his youngsters. The technique used in these books is to slyly and slickly instill in the student a dislike, even disrespect for American history, traditions and way of doing business. This may be done deliberately in many cases; unconsciously in others, by authors who are themselves products of the same kind of teaching. But the net result is to instill in the student a tolerance, even a love for having his life managed by some big, fatherly government. They teach him that businessmen are mean, rapacious, grasping, greedy, while politicians and labor leaders are kindly, humane, always thinking about the rights of the down-trodden and the poor.

There's space to give only a few examples, but I assure you they are not exceptions. On the contrary, they barely indicate the kind of "information" your children are getting from a majority — of the textbooks used in our public schools today.

Here's one, widely used in high schools, which blames business management for labor violence in strikes. Now, mind you, this book doesn't tell the student that there are times when management is to blame and other times when labor leaders are to blame for violence in strikes. According to this text, management is always to blame. It is no surprise, therefore, to find that this book also expounds the wonders of government ownership and management of electric power — with not a word about the money the government loses when it runs power plants, money it must collect from all taxpayers. Then, to be sure the lesson is pounded home, this book sends the student for additional recommended reading to a whole brace of communist and pro-communist authors. Even on a subject like the tariff this book gives the student a completely one-sided picture, illustrated with cartoons, which leaves him with the notion that all tariffs are wicked.

Here's another high-school textbook which plugs for socialized medicine. It does not call it that, of course, but it tells the student how people in other countries get "free" medical service from the government. It omits completely the story of the ever-rising costs to the taxpayers in those countries, and the abuses and poor quality of the service. In its effort to get over this pet plank in the modern socialist's platform — socialized medicine — this textbook even commits a gross inaccuracy. It says that public opinion polls seem to indicate that the American people want, impliedly, the government to run their medical services. At the time this book was written, there had been no general poll taken on this subject. But the student is left with the idea that everybody is for socialized medicine.

These are only a few examples, which could be multiplied endlessly. But these textbooks are one of the chief reasons why we are having such a difficult time getting our badly battered constitutional, free-enterprise republic back into its American pattern — several generations of young Americans have been spoonfed on this left-wing claptrap and no longer have any idea what the American Republic means.

Making a Study of Getting Ahead

First lesson in successful living is to learn that systematic saving is usually indispensable to the achievement of any worthwhile project.

If higher education is your immediate aim (as in the case of this young man) stashing away savings from part-time earnings or allowance is the best way to make sure that you'll always have "what it takes" in the way of money.

If you are looking still farther into the future . . . to a home or a business of your own . . . to financial independence for your later years . . . regular saving is still the secret of turning dreams into realities.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hoenig accompanied their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hermes and two sons of Lindsay, on a drive to Ennis Sunday to spend the day with another daughter and her family, the Carl Pelzels. Before returning home they stopped in Dallas for a short visit with the Rupert Hoenigs.

Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Mayer and children of Chicago will be back in Texas this weekend to stay. They're moving to Fort Worth to make their home. According to word to Mrs. Mayer's family, the Frank Yostens, they were to leave the windy city Tuesday in their station wagon headed for the Lone Star State. Nick works for American Railway Express and has been transferred to a new location.

Leonard Endres was here during the weekend to visit his mother, Mrs. M. J. Endres. Len left Columbus, Ohio, a week earlier to get located in Dallas and will move his family as soon as he is settled. He has been transferred by Armour and Company and has been named sales supervisor over a large area of the southwest. His headquarters will be in Dallas. That's where Len started with the company about 25 years ago.

The Joe Russel family has moved from the country to occupy the Hugh Jackson place, formerly the home of the Emmet Fettes.

Birthday of Mrs. T. Miller brought a party at her home with her daughters and daughters-in-law and their pre-school age children present for an afternoon of visiting and refreshments of ice cream and birthday cake. Among those present were Mr. Paul Yosten and Mrs. Stan Yosten of Fort Worth.

Visiting in Myra during the weekend was Mrs. Eunah Lee Walton of Dallas, former Muens-terite who was the guest of her mother, Mrs. C. J. Tuggle. Mrs. Walton was enroute home after a two-week vacation with a daughter in Nashville, Tenn.

Mrs. Byron Sears who was back at her farm home here for about two weeks after a visit in Orange with her son and family left Wednesday for Slaton and a visit with her sister, Mrs. S. G. Wilson and family, and will go from there to Shallowater to be the guest of her brother and his wife, the D. C. Gillettes before returning to Muenster.

Mrs. Mathilda Wimmer is back at home after a ten-day visit in Dallas with her daughter Mrs. Eddie Mages and family.

Travel in Germany Exciting Adventure For Lindsay Lady

European adventure found Mrs. J. C. Schmidkofer of Lindsay and her sister, Sister Mary Frances, O.S.B., of Fort Smith, Ark., flying to Germany where they stayed for four weeks, had a chance to observe living conditions and customs, visit shrines and go sight-seeing.

They left on July 27 by plane from Fort Smith, Ark., to Frankfurt where they entrained for Nurnberg and Passau. At every opportunity they visited ancient churches and other buildings, noted that almost all are built of granite which is blasted out of nearby hills.

The churches are beautiful but the pews are old and uncomfortable. In Passau Dom church they saw what is said to be the largest pipe organ in the world. In the churches the whole congregation sings the Mass in German. They were impressed by the beauty and harmony of the many voices blending. The tourists noticed that most of the women attend church services bareheaded.

In the Bavarian Hills country farmers still cut the crops with hand scythes and rake them with wooden rakes, then load on wagons pulled by milk cows. There are few tractors or other modern farm machinery in this sector. Farm chores are women's work. The men work in saw mills and granite pits. There are few cars and what traveling is done is by trains and bus. Here it rained every day but sunshine quickly followed showers. The temperature was between 60 and 80 and a light coat was usually comfortable.

Among most to be remembered events, according to Mrs. Schmidkofer, was a visit to the shrine of Our Lady of Alotting. The statue of the Blessed Virgin, once burned black in a fire, is still dark. Several attempts were made to keep it white after its initial cleaning but the statue always turned black again and is now known as the Black Virgin. Many miracles have happened at this shrine and Sister Frances and Mrs. Schmidkofer lost track of time in the shrine area, where they prayed and made visits to churches for almost seven hours. In one of the churches in the Gnadenkapella sector they were told were the remains of St. Brother Conrad and they saw a wax statue of him.

Side trip to Munich took up two days, then back to Frankfurt where they visited the home of Goethe, the poet. Here they saw the only clock that shows the days, months and years. Tourists are told that a lawyer made three of these clocks but only one is still in existence.

In their tour of the Kaiser Saal, where the emperors of old were elected, everyone has to slip felt covers over their shoes to protect the shiny inlaid floors. In the Palm Gardens they saw the most gorgeous plants and flowers including orchids and water lilies.

Sister Frances is now in Billings, Mont., teaching school.

Get Mrs. Schmidkofer in a conversation and she'll tell many more interesting episodes of the trip. She'll also tell that while it was wonderful and grand for a visit she would not care to live there.

DANGEROUS OPINIONS

a poll of American high school students conducted by Purdue University turned up the prevalence of opinions that are disquieting to anyone with the Red China story fresh in his mind.

Fifty-six per cent of the teenagers favored the arbitrary division of large estates among the poor. So stated, this is indistinguishable from the "agrarian reform" by which Chinese communism sold itself to the majority in that country — and to many soft-headed "liberals" in this one.

Another 41 per cent of the students believe that freedom of the press — which means freedom of speech — is not worth fighting for, and 26 per cent more support unlimited search and seizure, without warrant, by the police. —Chicago Daily News

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

Waterways
Rains during the past two years have caused considerable soil and water loss from unprotected cropland in the Muenster area and have pointed up the need for waterways, terraces and cover crops on many fields.

Waterways are very often the foundation of a good terrace system. Without these wide grass strips to serve as outlets, terraces cannot safely be built. Many needed terrace systems could not be constructed this summer because there was no waterway grass established for terrace runoff water.

"Now is the time to mark out waterway boundaries for next spring's planting," advises the personnel of the local Soil Conservation Service. The technicians explain that waterways marked out now will prevent the loss of small grain planted on the waterway area. The marked out waterway should be prepared and left unplanted until grass is put in this fall or next spring.

Some of the landowners who are planning to put in waterways are Danglemyr Brothers on the Rosson and Zimmerer farms, the Voth Brothers, Lawrence Vogel, Ted Vogel, Victor Sicking, Charles Taylor, C. A. Fisher and Tony Felderhoff.

Terracing
Terrace construction in still going strong on the farms of co-operators of the Upper Elm-Red Soil Conservation District who had their waterways established and were ready to go ahead with the terracing job.
Landowners who have built terraces to protect their fields include Tony Walterscheid, Martin Trubenbach, Louis Sicking, Al Wiesman, J. H. Bayer, J. W. Fleitman, Bruno Fleitman, Herman Zimmerer, C. A. Fisher, Joe Fisher, Alfons Reiter, Andy Wimmer, Arthur Hellman, Frank Schilling and Emmett Sicking of Muenster and Joe Lewter, Cecil Welch and J. C. Southard of Hood.

All these terrace systems were a part of a complete soil and water conservation plan that these landowners are following on their farms. Nearly every terrace system outlets onto a wide grass waterway especially built for that purpose.

Cover Crops
Alfalfa, button clover, vetch and winter peas are going into the ground as rapidly as possible in the Muenster-Saint Jo area. These crops will put a blanket of green over the soil to protect it from erosion, wind and cold. These legumes also build fertility by adding nitrogen and organic matter to the soil.
Make plans now to protect and improve your soil by planting these fall-sown legumes, the local soil conservation service says.

Lindsay PT Club Members Map Plans

Mapping of plans for coming projects featured the September meeting of the Lindsay Parent-Teacher Club Tuesday night and members organized two new committees, membership and health.

Making up the membership committee, and soliciting new members, are Mes. Andy Arendt, Joe Bezner Jr. and Milton Gossett, and President Ed Schad. The health committee consists of Mrs. Rufus Bezner and Mrs. Norbert Zimmerer. Mrs. Lambert Bezner was named reporter in charge of publicity.

Foremost on the projects list and due to receive immediate attention is construction of a new court for basketball, volleyball and tennis. The school's building committee is in charge.

After adjournment Ed Schad presented Father Alcuin Kubis who spoke briefly and introduced Marion Chudy of Little Rock, Ark. Mr. Chudy was enroute to Windthorst for a showing of the new statue of Our Lady of Fatima with films and a lecture. He told the Fatima story to the assemblage and displayed the 18 inch statue hand carved from wood according to instructions given the sculptor by the lone survivor of the three shepherd children who were favored by the visions of the Blessed Mother in 1917 in Portugal.

Movie star Pat O'Brien likes to tell the story of the rabbi and the priest who attended a boxing match together. As the fighters stood in their corners, about to come out for the first round, one of them crossed himself. The rabbi was very interested.

"Tell me," he said to the priest, "does crossing himself help?"

"It does," replied the good father, "if he can punch!"

Hornets Lose - - -

As the period ended the Hornets seemed to be on their way again. The Warriors, held for three downs on their first series, were thrown for a fourth down loss by a bad pass from center and the Hornets had a setup on their 22. Klement made it a first down on the 11 and the next Hornet series ended on the 7.

That was the turning point in the game, and the visitors launched their first successful drive. Newman and Coats did most of the toting as Valley View advanced 93 yards to its first TD. Newman made the big yardage in a 47 yard romp before being hauled down by Wimmer on the 8. Coats scored from the 5 and Newman blasted over for two more points. During the remaining few minutes of the half neither team was able to advance.

Momentarily, as the second half opened, Muenster seemed to be on the way again as Hellman completed a pass to Harris for 22 yards. But that was the end. From there on nothing seemed to work. Sixteen pass attempts resulted in two completions for 11 yards and only three running plays resulted in a net loss of 9.

Only Valley View's own mistakes kept them from running up a high score. In the first half there were three fumbles and another big loss as the kicker was smeared on fourth down. In the third quarter two more fumbles stopped Warrior drives and enabled the Hornets to set their opponents back by kicking.

Moments into the last quarter the Warriors managed to break their jinx. After setting the Hornets back to the 1 they received a punt and went to work on the 27. Three plays did it, the counter being a 19 yard romp by Coats.

The rest of the period was a steady 50 yard push for the last Warrior score. Coats went over again, this time from the 3.

players seemed to be getting the feel of the pigskin. Sacred Heart made its first worth while gains of the contest moving steadily for 36 yards before being stopped on the 21. Ryan booted back and the rest of the period was played in midfield.

The second half opened with Ryan getting two breaks but failing to cash in. First scrimmage play produced a fumble recovered by the Cowboys on the Tiger 30. Four tries netted a loss of one yard, after which the Tigers made three futile attempts and kicked. The kick was partly blocked and Ryan was on the 37. Next play reached the 25 and four more reached the 22.

After short gains Sacred Heart kicked and Ryan was back to its 34. Two first downs for the visitors followed but the third series was stopped cold and the Tigers took over on their 45 and uncorked the three plays that produced the only touchdown.

During the rest of the game neither team allowed the other to advance.

tic scene is a suggestion submitted to the Texas Legislature by the Hale-Alkin Committee... which is currently reporting on an exhaustive survey of public school needs... that the state should quit accepting federal money for the school lunch program and vocational education.

In theory the idea is a hundred per cent correct. It's high time for the state to start reversing trends which have made it dependent on the federal government. The only trouble here is that principle clashes with practical considerations.

The big problem is that this so called federal aid is actually a small portion of our own tax money coming back to us. And lots of people will be reluctant to turn down their rightful share of their own money. It would be fine if by doing so they could also eliminate a proportionate share of their present tax load. But government does not operate that way. It will continue taking the tax money regardless and people of the state will be losers of about 9 million bucks annually if the legislature goes for this suggestion.

Here is a perfect example of socialism at work. Once people adopt it they're stuck. Even when its inefficiency and bureaucracy become disgusting it is practically impossible to stop. People who receive the benefits hate to quit. Those who pay can't quit. The only hope is that more states will join the movement and eventually persuade national legislators to stop it. But wait and see how long that takes.

important respect. There was no tackling. Instead each player had a handkerchief dangling from the hip pocket of her blue jeans and she was officially stopped at the spot where the hanky was yanked out of her pocket. A real tackle was ruled as roughness and penalized 15 yards.

The game started fast as Louise Noggler returned the opening kickoff for a Hornette touchdown. Later in the first period she got loose for a 20 yard scoring run. In the next quarter Shirley Walterscheid of the Tigerettes scored from the 30 bringing the half time count to 12-6.

Early in the third period the score was tied as Walterscheid heaved to Carolyn Swirczynski for a 30 yard touchdown play.

Next the Tigerettes forged ahead on an 85 yard run by Shirley Walterscheid but the lead did not last long. Jolene Carlton of the Hornettes duplicated the feat, almost exactly the same distance, and tied up the game at 18 all. In the closing minutes the Tigerettes missed their opportunity to break the tie.

As a half time act boys of the two classes put on a style show. There were ten of them, at their awkward best, stumbling over the football field in high heels and modeling sad sack dresses... one of them made from burlap. Mary Catherine Walterscheid was the narrator.

Support for the event rivaled that enjoyed by the real football games. Receipts were $168, a boost of $84 for each class treasury.
