Whether you're talking slang or the king's English, the term "yellow race" fits Japan perfectly. Heretofore we have always regarded that expression as a reference to complexion, but recent war episodes have convinced us that it can apply also to a method of fighting.

First Pearl Harbor, then Manila. Here are two incidents that will go down in history with the most cowardly attacks of all time. It is hard to determine which of the two is more contemptible. One was a masterpiece of treachery but was nevertheless struck at a military objective. The other was savage destruction and mass murder of non-combatants.

Our first reaction to such tactics is a thirst for revenge. We want our fighting forces to retaliate by igniting the famous Tokyo tinder. "Give the devils a dose of their own medicine" is the demand that echoes on all sides.

To date our forces have not considered it necessary to stoop to such tactics and we are proud of them for their civilized restraint. Confessions in Japanese cities would have the same results as the attacks on Manila. Innocent people would suffer but nothing of military value would be accomplished. We hope that when the whole mess is ended we will not have to look back with shame on any such performance of ours.

That is the human and decent viewpoint, but one that a cowardly enemy may not permit us to observe. Indications now are that the U. S. may have to threaten equal or worse reprisals in the hope of forcing the savages to civilized war methods. If it were definitely understood that another such attack would be followed by the bombing of Tokyo, the Jap war-lords might show some restraint. But then we remember that those heathens have little regard for human life even in their own country. Such threats might leave them unimpressed and force us into a form of fighting that we ourselves do not approve.

In bona fide military activity it's going to be different. American soldiers and sailors when determined to avenge enemy atrocity become formidable foes. Japs are paying dearly for every advance to date. They will pay more dearly on the day of reckoning when Yankee men and resources can be brought against them. We confidently predict that a year or two hence the murderers in command will be brought to justice.

It's going to be a titanic struggle though. This is clearly indicated by the gigantic war program now getting into full swing. Industry is preparing for it, the citizen is ready to take up a few notches on his belt and the nation's youth is rushing into uniform. It won't be long until action gets really hot in the Far East.

Meanwhile the nation preserves its war time humor. A barber in New Jersey put up a prominent sign "Free shaves to Japs." Fellow townsmen were furious until they came near enough to read the less conspicuous "not responsible for accidents."

Along with comments on the many bowl games for New Year's a Nashville sports writer made the following suggestions for a "war bowl schedule."
Jan 1 — Japan, there.
Feb. 1 — Italy, there (breather).
March 1 — Germany, there, (homecoming).
"Here's hoping," he concludes, "we finish this schedule unbeaten and untied and get a bid to the Peace Bowl at an early date."

Want a few nifty slogans? How are these? Hit Hitler! Muss up Mussolini! Nip Nippon! K. O. Tokyo! Set the Rising Sun!

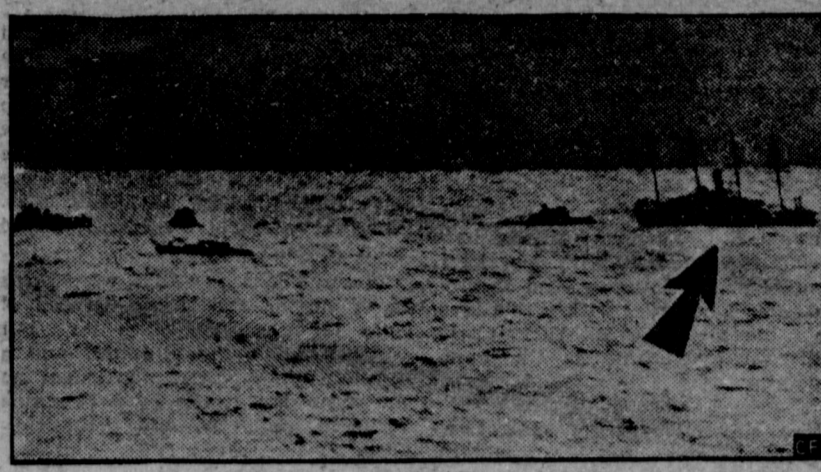

The Enterprise plant bore the brunt of some good natured kidding the other day because of a Japanese lantern appearing on a dance placard. It's in the background of a

Army Makes Heavy Demand In Muenster

Almost Every Remaining Eligible Youth To Get
Physical Exam This Week

Selective Service has taken Muenster by storm. In an intensive drive that grimly emphasizes the horrible reality of war, it has gathered in practically every young man of the community now eligible for military service.

No less than twenty-five have received orders to report at Gainesville 6:30 Friday morning to be taken to an induction center, probably Dallas, for final physical examination. They are included in the group of some 140 to be sent by the county.

All of these were examined by the Gainesville board during the Christmas-New Year week. Exams there have been superficial, the purpose being to eliminate only those obviously unfit for service. In case of a doubt the man is sent to the induction center. "Two arms, two legs and two eyes will pass a person in the local exam," selectees said after returning.

Because of a ban on reports from selective service boards, no official information is available concerning immediate plans for the young men. Estimate on the number affected here is based on scattered reports from persons who took the exams. All of them who pass are due to return after examination for a period of at least 10 days to get their personal and business affairs in order. Thereafter they are subject to call on a moment's notice to report to a training center.

A small number of men went to the Dallas induction center Tuesday for examination. Among those reporting both Tuesday and Friday are Bernard Schmitz, Lawrence Roberg, Frank Joseph Haverkamp, Ray Tempel, Elmer Fette, Norbert Tempel, Walter Becker, Anthony Luke, Pat Stelzer, Eugene Lehner, Ted and Leo Voth, Werner Cier, Dick and David Trachta, R. N. Fette, Ray Fuhrmann, Carl Schilling, Ferd Yosten, Ed Knauft, Frank and Lawrence Felderhoff, Joe Luttmir, Urban Endres and Earl Fisher.

BURGLARS GET CASH AND MERCHANDISE FROM BUD-PAT CAFE

Burglars broke into the Bud and Pat Cafe across the viaduct west of Muenster Monday night and took $25 to $30 in cash besides an undetermined amount of merchandise. The loot, besides contents from the cash drawer and music machine, consisted principally of tobacco from the counter.

Sheriff Carl Wilson and Deputy Emory Horn, who investigated, expressed belief that a tire tool had been used on a window to gain entrance.

Apparently the burglars wore gloves. No fingerprints could be found.

Another burglary was reported at the Gieb and Pulte grocery on Highway 32 outside the west city limits of Gainesville. Entry there seems to have been gained by prying an outer door and using a skeleton key for the inner door. Items missing were cash, cigars, cigarettes and bacon. Sugar was carried outside to the porch but was not hauled away.

HELLMAN, BUCKLEY, WILDE WIN PRIZES IN LIGHT CONTEST

The light display at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Hellman won first place in the Christmas lighting contest sponsored by the Civic League and Garden club, it was announced by out of town judges on December 26th when the judging took place.

Second and third place honors were awarded to the displays of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Buckley and Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Wilde, respectively. There were nine entries in the contest and according to the judges, all that were not prize winners should receive honorable mention, as they were all attractive displays.

The winning display at the Hellman home showed that a great deal of time and thought had been spent on the arrangement. A large handmade wreath of real cedar, lighted with blue bulbs, ornamented the chimney on the south side of the house. It was flanked with tall candles embedded in evergreens in silver painted urns. Blue candles in graduated heights lighted the windows and red bells, cedar and a large red bow decorated the front door.

The Buckley home featured a large five point star over the front door with garlands of colored lights extending across the house on either side, ending in smaller silver stars atop two cedar trees.

The Wilde's brick residence was adorned with multi-colored lights on several growing cedars and the front door was decorated with red cellophane and bells to represent a Christmas package.

Prizes for the winners are a handsome home lamp, first prize, given through the courtesy of Texas Power and Light company of Gainesville, a coffee maker presented by the City of Muenster, second, and a shrub, given by Mrs. Joe Luke, third.

The other entries in the contest were Messrs. and Mesdames Andy Hofbauer, Nick Miller, Lou Wolf, C. J. Kaiser, I. A. Schoech and Dr. and Mrs. T. S. Myrick.

The Hofbauer display consisted of a large hand made wreath at the front door and numerous lights ornamenting two small live cedars. The Miller home carried out a patriotic theme with a large white lighted star at the front gable and red and blue lights outlining the front of the house. The lights were backed with real cedar.

Lou Wolf's house displayed a lighted tree in one window, a silver star in another, and a growing Christmas tree in the yard with all red lights. Outstanding at the Kaiser home was a large live cedar in the yard adorned with a myriad of colored lights and window displays of an indoor tree and a wreath.

The Schoech home showed a lighted tree through the window and a growing tree in the yard, both completely in blue, and the Myrick home had outlined on the length of the two-story structure a tree illuminated with multi-colored lights.

Many other homes displayed holiday effects and stores and business houses showed attractive commercial displays.

This was the third contest of its kind to be held in the city.

Following the judging members of the committee in charge and the judges were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Cook for refreshments.

Firemen Caught In DRAFT; CHIEF ASKS FOR REPLACEMENTS

The Muenster Volunteer Fire Department is looking for new members to replace men who are entering military service.

At the regular business session Monday night Henry Luke, fire chief, disclosed that the organization wants at least five dependable men, preferably men who are not subject to call for the army. They would be asked to serve for the duration until the other men, who will be kept on the records as honorary members, can take up their former places. "Here's the opportunity for the person who wants to do something for national defense," Luke said.

Firemen now gone or expect to be gone are Jimmy Lehnertz, in service, Bernard Schmitz, instructed to leave within a few weeks, and Dick Trachta and Elmer Fette, who will take physical exams on Jan. 2. Raymond Hellman died in a car accident.

Low Plane Hits Rural Power Line Near Hood

For the second time the local rural electric system's line was fouled by a low flying airplane.

The accident happened on Christmas eve as O. G. Scott of Terrell, Texas, and his small son were flying to relatives near Hood for a holiday visit. Flying low to spot a suitable landing place he noticed the line too late to avoid it. Both wires were snapped and the machine's speed was checked so much that it could not stay aloft. It came down easily breaking a wing tip then tumbling over on its back. Neither occupant was injured.

The accident spoiled Christmas eve for R. L. McNelly and Leo Sicking as well as the luckless pilot. They had to fumble in the dark until 9:30 repairing the line.

FAITH, HOPE, COURAGE FOR 1942

Another year has just passed into history. It has been a troubled year bringing death and suffering to countless millions. It has punished unmercifully the distressed people of Europe and Asia, and, in passing, has landed a sharp blow on this country. Worst of all, it makes no pretense to carry with it into oblivion those horrible conditions which made it a period of sorrow.

1942 will be even more agonizing. We may rest assured of that. The Pacific episode will develop into an all-out war, the effects of which will strike cruelly at the happiness and comfort of every American home.

There's no point in kidding ourselves about it. This is not a Happy New Year. While confident that rays of happiness here and there will brighten individual lives, we must accept the inevitable fact that it will be, in general, a year of greater grief.

An indication of what to expect can best be taken from the candid speech of Prime Minister Churchill. Civilization today faces a ruthless foe, one that will stop at no treachery or barbarism that might serve its purpose, and, unfortunately, one that is better prepared than we for the bitter conflict.

We foresee a year when many more young men of our acquaintance will join their boyhood companion in heroic death. We foresee long hours of hard work and a scarcity of the comforts and luxuries we now take for granted.

There will be reverses, costly losses we will have to endure while mobilizing our full latent powers. We will have to take them courageously while straining every effort to hasten the day when we will be able to turn the tide of battle.

As the year starts we can cheer ourselves with two good signs. Thousands of workers have given up their customary New Year's holiday to stay on the job. Thousands more have expressed willingness to ban labor disputes in order to avoid losing any more precious man-hours in the nation's armament program. They are starting the new year right — with a determination to do all they can.

Another good omen in President Roosevelt's designation of New Year's Day as a national day of prayer. There is no better source of courage and perseverance. In our hearts we have all answered affirmatively to President Lincoln's famous question "are we on God's side?" Now we commend ourselves to His care with true Christian confidence that He will bless our efforts.

"Work and Pray" has been the formula for many notable achievements of the past. It will be equal to this nation's hour of distress.

In view of the sorrows, labors and privations ahead, the only fitting wish this season is for a "courageous, confident new year" — one of faith, hope and perseverance in this struggle against evil, so that future years, for ourselves and the rest of the world, will be happy ones.

RITES TUESDAY A. M. UNITE IDA BECKER ALPHONSE HOENIG

A pretty church wedding took place here Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock to unite Miss Ida Becker and Alphons Hoening. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Felix Becker and the bridegroom is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Al Hoening.

Rev. Alfred Hoening, brother of the bridegroom, of Corpus Christi, officiated at the ceremony and at the nuptial high mass. The altar before which the vows were exchanged was decorated with numerous candles in brass candelabra forming an inverted V over the altar and with poinsettias and greenery. The church choir, assisted by Anthony Luke, organist, rendered the mass "Missa Tertio". Mr. Luke also played the traditional wedding marches for the processional and recessional.

For her wedding the bride wore a lovely floor length frock of white satin made with long sleeves, V neckline, a peplum and full circular skirt. The peplum and neckline were edged with lace and she wore at her throat an heirloom gold pin for "something old and borrowed".

The pin is now the property of Mrs. Joe Vogel but formerly belonged to the bride's maternal grandmother. It is more than 65 years old. The bridal veil was full length attached to a pleated halo of illusion and a wreath of valley lilies. The bride carried an arm bouquet of white star chrysanthemums and fern, tied with tulle.

Miss Hilda Bekker, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She was attired in a dress of ice blue made with a lace bodice and extremely full satin skirt. Her flowers were pink carnations worn as a head-dress.

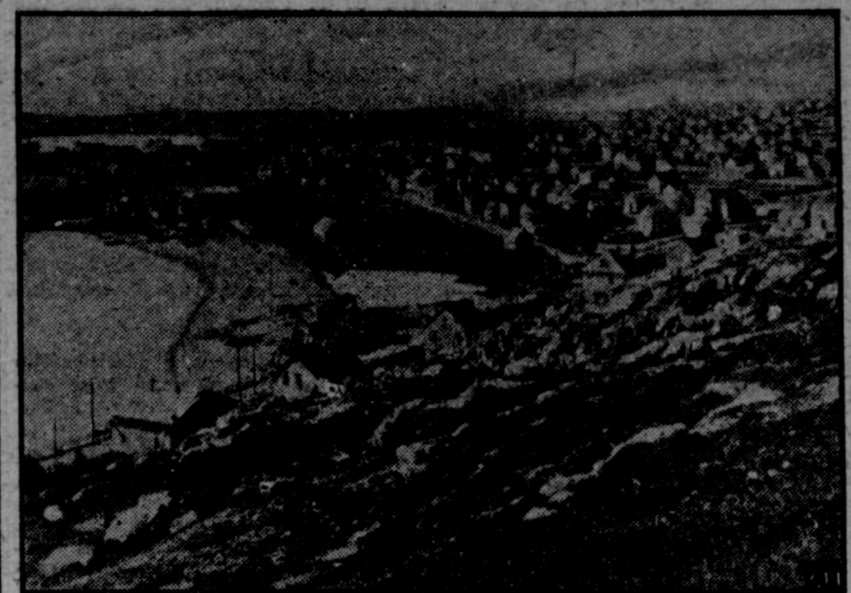

Anthony Klement, the bride's cousin, was best man for Mr. Hoening.

Immediately after the services the bridal party was honored with a breakfast at the home of the bride's parents and at noon brothers and sisters of the couple and their families were dinner guests. The bride's table carried out her colors of white and blue and was centered with a large tiered cake.

In the evening a reception was held in the parish hall for a large number of relatives and friends. The reception preceded Mr. and Mrs. Hoening's departure on a wedding trip, the destination of which was not revealed. Upon their return they will make their home on the Hoening farm southwest of the city. For traveling Mrs. Hoening wore a gray plaid coat over a green and black plaid frock with accessories in black.

Both young people are natives of Muenster and have been active in the local youth societies. He held dancing scene but not far enough back to escape the notice of a critic who enjoys telling us about such things. Oh well, what's the diff? Chinese have lanterns like that too, so rather than be accused of subversive activity, we'll identify the decoration as Chinese.

We get that idea from a paper salesman who recently delivered a beautiful calendar with an Oriental scene on the front. He had his explanation ready as he unrolled it: "Those guys are Chinamen, not Japs."

In both cases the reference to Japan was only a gag. Neither of the fellows would get serious in such a ridiculous way. They're not like the lame-brains who cut down four of Washington's cherry trees in retaliation for the Pearl Harbor attack. Neither are they the kind who will storm through the house smashing every little trinket marked "made in Japan."

Just now we can think of only two things with Japanese name that we want smashed—the Japanese war machine and the Japanese beetle.

Most amusing war story of the week is drawn from two conflicting reports. Tokyo says Wake Island was taken after 3 or 4 thousand marines were subdued. Official U. S. report states that 385 were there. We'll give the Nippon the benefit of a doubt and assume the mistaken report was quite natural, for after all, 385 leathernecks can put up a fight worthy of 4,000 Japs.

That will give the slant eyes an idea of what to expect when the tidal wave of Yankee offensive starts bearing down on them. Until the odds are impossible you can depend on the marines to "keep the situation in hand."
