

From Gettysburg, S.D., Herbert Hundt writes that our Texas weather man is a mere beginner at the trick of producing extremes in temperature. The one they have up there, he says, pushed the mercury from 114 down to 49 degrees in just two days. Seems as though it's time for us to quit bragging about our drop from 109 to the high sixties.

Another thing in Herb's card is a report that his flax crop is making 13 bushels to the acre — which means a lot of flax if the average holds through all of his 700 acres. He's now on the wind-up of an unusual agricultural project. Leasing the soil, he trucked equipment from here to South Dakota to break land and put in the crop, then came back and waited for his flax to mature before returning for the harvest. With chances to win big or lose big, he's coming through with a small winning.

Next Saturday we're having another of those referendums that too many of us know too little about. All we know is that the pleas for support on both sides of the issue are getting more urgent as the day approaches. College interests beg us to vote yes, veterans and other interests beg us to vote no.

In a nutshell, the proposed amendment appears to amount to something like this. The demand on the 7 cent ad-valorem tax once authorized for Confederate veterans and their widows is approaching the vanishing point. There simply aren't many Confederates or their widows left in circulation. This leaves a tax revenue that someone would like to have.

Apparently the state college crowd was first to put in its bid, and it managed to get the nod from the state legislature on a plan to use 5 cents of the original 7 to finance a state college building program, the program to be put into effect immediately by means of a bond issue and the bonds to be paid off in 30 years by the 5 cent tax. Texas University and Texas A & M, already generously supported by the state's public domain, are not due to share in this program.

So the colleges sum up their plea about as follows: Think of all the GI's who were turned away from college because of overcrowded conditions — Remember no other provisions exist to expand the schools — Remember the amendment does not add tax but only re-allocates a tax.

Veterans are saying: Keep the fund for veterans of the Spanish war and two World Wars — And finance the building program with some of the surplus millions now controlled by Texas University and A & M College. (It is pointed out that Texas University's public fund already approaches 70 million which today is earning another two million annually, and the fabulous oil income continues to pour in more millions. That found alone could support the entire proposed building program, and it should be divided instead of permitting two institutions to wallow in wealth while the others get by on chicken feed.)

As far as Con is concerned there is one point more significant than all the rest. The amendment proposed to give GI's a break hasn't much of a chance to do anything for the GI's. If passed now it is too late to relieve the situation at all this year and can hardly advance far enough to give full relief next year. The facilities urged especially in behalf of GI's will become available after most GI's have quit school. The expansion will be complete about the time college enrollments begin tapering back to pre-war figures. In plain words this has all the earmarks of a well known political trick — exploiting pro-GI public sympathy to promote a pet scheme.

There's still another point to consider. That 5 cent tax doesn't necessarily have to be spent. Instead of worrying themselves with ways to get rid of the money the legislature could accommodate us considerably by reducing our tax that much.

From here it looks like the most reasonable vote next Saturday is "No."

Three cheers for the Dallas woman who had the gumption to denounce a new fashion. And more cheers to the hundreds of other women who are rushing to her support in this unusual crusade.

The trend is a new one for the books — about the most revolutionary thing ever to happen in this country of dress conscious (Continued on page 8)

Mrs. Fred Wagoner Formerly of Lindsay Passes Saturday p.m.

Mrs. Frank Wagoner, 75, a former Lindsay resident, succumbed at her home in Dallas Saturday following an illness. Funeral services were conducted Monday at 9 a.m. with Rev. Father Becker, pastor of Saint James Catholic church officiating and burial was in Mount Calvary cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Wagoner were long time residents of the Lindsay community residing north of the city until the army took over their farm in the establishment of Camp Howze. They moved to Dallas at that time to be near their daughter and Mr. Wagoner died shortly afterwards.

Survivors are one daughter, 4 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

A large number of Lindsay and Gainesville friends attended the funeral services.

In a transaction closed Wednesday of last week R.P. Cain became the new owner and manager of the Humble service station on Highway 82 near the east city limits. He has changed the name of the business to Cain's Humble Station.

A native of Myra, Cain has lived in Gainesville the past three years. He will move his family to Muenster as soon as he can get living quarters.

Walter Becker, former owner of the station, did not disclose what line of work he intends to follow. Since last Saturday he has been on vacation.

Buck Knabe Pitches No-Hit Game Against Dennis Flats

Buck Knabe's arm was 20 years younger last Sunday afternoon when, against the Dennis Flats team, he chalked up a pitching performance that would have done him credit in the prime of his career.

He pitched a No-hit game turning away at the plate 17 of the 30 batters who faced him. Of the three reaching first two got there on errors and the other walked. None of the runners got past second base.

Meanwhile Muenster ran in a total of 9 runs.

CHICKS REGAIN SERIES LEAD WITH ANOTHER LAST INNING RALLY

The Bezmer Chicks staged another story book final inning last Thursday night to win a game that seemed hopelessly lost. Trailing 9 to 5 as they entered the last of the seventh they uncorked a slugfest that pushed across the winning tally and again gave them the lead in the series with Muenster.

With two out and the tying run on second Rufus Bezmer socked a line drive to center. Mages misjudged and came up for the fly, which cleared his reach by at least a foot, and Bezmer circled the bases for the winning score.

Prior to that the game was steady. The Chicks led off with three and Muenster took two each in the second and fourth to gain a point. In the last three frames Muenster scored 2, 1 and 2 while the Chicks scored two in the fifth. Then came the final rally and the Chicks' winning score.

American Public Consumes Three Billion Quarts of Ice Cream; Half of it is Vanilla

Washington, Aug. 9 — Vanilla is still the favorite flavor of ice-cream-eating Americans, the Commerce Department noted.

"Make mine vanilla" is the order of half the consuming public, the department said, while chocolate is a poor second with only 15 per cent. Strawberry is third. By consuming nearly three billion quarts of ice cream last year — about twenty-one quarts for every man, woman and child — the public sent the ice cream manufacturers into the ranks of the billion-dollar industries.

Notes On Soil Conservation

Members of the J.B. Klement and Joe Starke Conservation Groups met in the home of Ray Klement for a group application meeting last Wednesday night.

Pat Carpenter, local Soil Conservation Service technician, conducted the meeting and discussed winter cover crops, terrace construction and maintenance, and pasture establishment for terrace outlet protection. Those present included: H.B. Armstrong, Soil Conservation Service technician, J.B. Klement, group leader, Joe Starke, group leader, J.W. Hess, Chairman of the Board of Supervisors, of the Upper Elm-Red Soil Conservation District, gave a short discussion on the advantages of Yellow Bluestem grass used as pasture and hay.

In the Northeast Saint Jo Conservation Goup, an application meeting was held in the home of B.C. Redman and conducted by Robert S. Mitchell, Work Unit Conservationist, for the Muenster Work Unit. Mitchell spoke very strongly on the establishing of pasture for terrace outlet protection before actual construction of terraces is begun. Those present included: Lee Toothaker, Soil Conservation Service Technician, B.C. Redman, Wright Embury, Gus Livingston, Ed Knauf, Howard Leslie, and J.H. Dennison.

J.W. Fleitman, Jr., signed an agreement cooperating with the Upper Elm-Red Soil Conservation District, on the farm he recently purchased from Henry Walterscheid estate. Mr. Fleitman intends to supplement his present pasture and hay production by eventually establishing all this land in native grasses and legumes.

Gus Hellman, member of the Paul Fisher Conservation Group, is rotating his grazing through the use of Hubam Clover. Ten acres of this clover carried 45 head of cattle for four weeks, giving his bermuda a chance to establish an additional six inch growth.

Work began Wednesday on the latest improvement project at the cheese factory — replacing the old model wood frames for cheese vats with new steel frames. The change is another step in the plant's program to operate under the most sanitary and modern conditions possible.

The frame, an outside support and reinforcement for the stainless steel liner, is made up of a double wall of heavy gauge steel with insulation packed between the walls to maintain a constant temperature in the vats. Stainless steel liners have been used in the wood frames for several years.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Luebbert and daughters, Carol and Henriette, and her mother, Mrs. Anna Havis, of Fort Worth visited Mr. and Mrs. Bill Steizer Sunday.

Rev. Father Herman, Mrs. J.M. Weinzapfel, Mrs. Richard Trachta and Miss Theresa Mae Pels were in Sherman Tuesday to attend a deanery meeting of the Catholic Women's Council. In the election of officers for the district Mrs. Weinzapfel was named first vice-president. The diocesan council meeting will be held early in September in Dallas.

Steel Water Tank Reduces Fire Hazard, Doubles City Storage

Another water storage tank, to be set up soon beside the No. 2 well near the north city limit, will double the city's water storage capacity and also eliminate the fire hazard now existing along North Main street.

Situated on the highest spot in the city, it will provide a gravity feed through all water mains and in the north part of town will have more pressure than the mains carry now.

Actually the installation will result in two separate but coordinated water systems. If anything should go wrong with Well No. 1 or the booster pump the new tank can handle the job. Likewise if well No. 2 fails the tower and other well is sufficient. By means of control valves the water can be directed either to the mains or to the city reservoir from whence it is pumped to the water tower. Connections with the city main will be made near the parish hall.

Purchase of the tank for $1,250 from the Muenster Refinery was approved at a special meeting of the city council Friday afternoon. Moving, installation and special pipe connection will cost about $500 more.

Erection of a storage tank at the No. 2 well had been approved by the council about a year ago after tests revealed that loss of water pressure due to friction through the long main constituted a serious fire hazard. The project was postponed because of the high cost of erecting a tank. Labor and materials for a concrete tank of the desired size was estimated at 7 to 8 thousand dollars.

Muenster Beats St. Jo In First Donkey Ball Game; Next Here Tuesday, Sept. 2

Muenster firemen are counting on superior mulemanship to make it two straight when they take on the Saint Jo firemen for the second donkey ball game this season. In the opener of the two game exchange at Saint Jo last Thursday night Muenster won 2 to 1. The second game will be played here Tuesday night, Sept. 2.

All the credit for Muenster's victory goes to Leo Sicking's remarkable way with donkeys. When he got aboard he calmly permitted the donkey to go Leo's way whereas most of the others prodded and yanked in a vain attempt to keep the donkey from going his own way — or refusing to go at all.

One well earned run — though perhaps not strictly according to the rule — was that scored by Saint Jo. One of the players, instead of riding the donkey, picked up a donkey colt and carried it around the bases. The umpire and scorekeeper apparently agreed the man was entitled to his tally. In both towns the games are benefit affairs for the social fund of the volunteer fire department.

VOWS EXCHANGED BY ANDREW WIMMER AND CELIA WALTERSCHEID

A pretty double ring ceremony performed in Sacred Heart church Thursday morning, August 21, united Miss Celia Walterscheid, daughter of Mrs. Wm. Walterscheid, and Andrew Wimmer, son of Mr. and Mrs. C.J. Wimmer. Rev. Herman Laux, pastor, read the service and officiated at the nuptial high mass.

Anthony Luke, organist, played the wedding processional and recessional and accompanied the church choir in rendering music for the mass.

The bride was given in marriage by her mother. She was lovely in a regal gown of white slipper satin designed with sweetheart neckline, long fitted sleeves that ended in petal points over her hands, slim, fitted bodice and full circular skirt with a chapel length train. Her veil of Chantilly lace was scalloped and was secured most becomingly with clusters of orange blossoms at the sides. It was fingertip length. Her jewelry consisted of a single strand of pearls, a gift from the groom, and a sapphire ring belonging to Miss Katie Mae Walterscheid which was "something borrowed and blue". "Something old" was a silk handkerchief sent from France during World War I by her uncle, August Walterscheid, and she completed tradition with "a penny in her shoe". She carried a white prayerbook topped with an orchid and showered with satin streamers and tuberoses florets.

Miss Katie Mae Walterscheid, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor wearing a bouffant white marquisette frock with a lace peplum that formed a point at the center back. She wore white lace gauntlets, and a white lace picture hat and carried a white hand-crocheted basket filled with white mums.

Lawrence Wimmer, brother of the groom, was best man, and Earl Walterscheid, Joe Henry Walterscheid and Werner Henschel were ushers.

Little Misses Rose Mary Walter and Mary Catherine Walterscheid, the bride's nieces, were flower girls. They wore white organdy dresses with lace peplums designed to duplicate the dress worn by the maid of honor, and also wore white gauntlets and picture hats and carried identical baskets of mums.

The bride's mother wore a navy crepe ensemble with black accessories, and the groom's mother wore a black and white floral print silk dress with black accessories. Both wore shoulder corsages of white carnations.

Breakfast for members of the bridal party and the parents was served in the home of the bride's mother immediately after the ceremony. The bride's table was appointed with crystal and silver on white linen and was centered with a three-tier cake flanked with tapers in crystal candelabra. Summer flowers were used throughout the house.

At four o'clock a reception was held at the Walterscheid home and a buffet supper was served on the lighted lawn to about 70 guests. Miss Virginia Walterscheid presided at the guest book. A dance in the K of C hall concludes the day's festivities.

During the supper the bride and groom cut the wedding cake, reserving the top tier for their first wedding anniversary. The two lower tiers were white and the top tier was fruit cake.

Mr. and Mrs. Wimmer are leaving during the dance on a wedding trip by car to Colorado, Mexico and other points. For traveling the bride has chosen a black and white pin check suit with white accessories and an orchid corsage. When they return in about two weeks they will make their home on the Wimmer farm.

Both young people were born and reared in Muenster graduating from Sacred Heart High school. He was with the class of '41, and she with the class of '42. Both are popular in the young society crowd of the community and have been active in work of the Holy Name and Young Ladies societies. Mrs. Wimmer served as president of the latter group for two years. She is a former employee of the FMA and was with the personnel of Curtis Restaurant in Gainesville for two years. She resigned her position in May preparatory to her marriage.

BRIDE OF THIS WEEK IS PARTY, SHOWER HONOREE

Miss Celia Walterscheid, who was married Thursday to Andrew Wimmer, was complimented with a party and miscellaneous shower as a pre-nuptial courtesy Sunday afternoon in the parish hall. Hostesses were Meses Oscar Walter and Lawrence Wimmer, Muenster, and Mrs. Joe Walter of Gainesville.

Progressive 42 series entertained the guests with prizes going to Mrs. Herman Danglemayr for the 84 award and to Mrs. Gary Hess for high score. Mrs. Joe Voth received the consolation favor. These gifts were presented to the honoree who received an assortment of lovely shower gifts and opened them for the guests to admire.

The hostesses served refreshments carrying out a pink and white color scheme to 40 guests.

NUPTIAL HERE TUESDAY UNITES ARTHUR ARENDT AND HELEN RUTH OTTO

The marriage of Miss Helen Ruth Otto to Arthur Arendt was solemnized Tuesday at 8:30 a.m. in Sacred Heart church with

DR. W.C. DICKINSON
Dentist
110 West Broadway
Phone 1537 Gainesville

Rev. John Walbe officiating at the double ring ceremony and at the nuptial high mass in the presence of a large assemblage of relatives and friends of the young couple. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W.W. Otto, Muenster, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Paul Arendt, Lindsay.

The altar before which the vows were exchanged was banked with crepe myrtle and greenery and the same flowers were used in two large baskets at the communion ralling. The bridal aisle was marked with garlands of pink and white crepe paper. Wedding music was played by Anthony Luke, organist, who remained at the console to assist the church choir in singing the mass.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was an exquisite picture in a gown of white satin fashioned with sweetheart neckline, long sleeves, moulded bodice buttoned down the back with self-covered buttons and a full skirt that extended into a long train. Chantilly lace was used in a deep ruffle to encircle her shoulders, was repeated at the wrist and in a circular design on the skirt, then extended around the entire length of the train. Her fingertip veil was applied with lace and fell in tiers from a crown of orange blossoms. The bride wore a single strand of pearls, a gift from the groom, and carried a white prayerbook topped with a purple orchid and showered with satin streamers and tube roses. For something blue she carried a sapphire rosary.

Miss Anne Arendt, sister of the groom, was maid of honor, and Miss Terese Walter, the bride's cousin, was bridesmaid. They wore identical frocks of romance pink designed with long waisted basque bodices of taffeta featuring round necklines and off-shoulder bertha effect of net which formed the short sleeves. The three-tiered ruffled skirts were of net over taffeta and they wore net gauntlets. Their flowers were colonial bouquets of deep purple asters and they wore taffeta halo hats with shoulder-length veils. Completing their costumes were moonstone necklaces, presented by the bride.

The groom was attended by Clifford Otto, brother of the bride, and his brother, Johnnie Arendt, Earl Otto, Buster Herr and J.P. Flusche were ushers.

The bride's mother wore a gray dress with accordion pleated skirt and black accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. The groom's mother wore a black sheer ensemble with black accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

After the services the bridal party and Father John were guests at breakfast in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Arendt with Misses Lucille and Luella Arendt as hostesses. The table was laid with white linen and was centered with a decorated cake on a mirror reflector outlined with white carnations and greenery, and flanked with tapers.

At 2:30 in the afternoon the bride's parents were hosts for a reception in the parish hall and at 5 o'clock a banquet menu was served buffet style. After serving themselves the guests were seated at long tables covered with white linen and adorned with pink and white zinnias. The bride's table held a three-tier wedding cake, flanked with asters.

The bride and groom presided at cutting the cake after which it was served to the guests. Misses Joan and Florene Arendt registered more than 200 guests in the bride's book.

Festivities were concluded with a dance in the K of C hall at night.

It was during the latter event that Mr. and Mrs. Arendt departed on a wedding trip not revealing their destination. For traveling the bride wore a gray gabardine suit with brown accessories and an orchid corsage. When they return they will make their home in Gainesville.

Mr. Arendt is a native of Lindsay and attended school there. He is employed with Voth Brothers Drilling company. Mrs. Arendt was born in Muenster and is a graduate of Sacred Heart high school with the class of 1945.

Out of town guests at the wedding in addition of those from Lindsay and Gainesville were T.Sgt. Ernest Arendt of Fort Sill, Miss Mable Green of Lawton, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bierschenk and family of Valley View, Miss Marian Gremminger of Dallas, and Mr. and Mrs. Jake Wolf of Lawton.

EVELYN WIESMAN TO MARRY RAYMOND STEWART AUG. 30

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wiesman have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Evelyn Wiesman, to Raymond A. Stewart Jr. of Galveston. The wedding will take place on August 30 in Saint Benedict's church, Subiaco, Ark., with Miss Wiesman's uncle, Rev. Benedict Boergerding, officiating.

Miss Wiesman is a graduate of Sacred Heart High with the class of 1943, and a graduate of St. Joseph's Hospital school of nursing in Fort Worth with the 1946 class. After being on duty at the hospital there she has done nursing in Galveston and more recently in Boston, Mass. She is at home now preparatory to her marriage.

Members of her family will attend the rites in Subiaco and the couple will be honored here with a reception in the home of the bride's parents on September 3. They will make their home in Houston where Mr. Stewart is in business.

women. Here at last is the woman's declaration of independence. She renounces her allegiance to that fickle, extravagant tyrant known as Dame Fashion. There will be no more blind servitude. Hereafter when Madam Fashion hands down one of her decrees woman reserves the right to comply or reject.

Like their forefathers of '76 these women justify their drastic decision by charging a violation of their inalienable rights — to be economical and gorgeous.

They say the long dress is life result of a frame-up between designers and manufacturers to practically force women into discarding their old wardrobes. Women, however, are painfully conscious of all the money they have tied up in shorter dresses, quite a few secured at bargains on last winter's clearance sales. The average woman's parsimonious inclination, no matter how slight, revolts at a command to get rid of new and practically new clothes.

Some charges hint at even more sinister motives behind the new fashion decree. They claim that men fashion designers in France are responsible. Recent experience has shown that bundles for Europe are generally laden with cast off American clothes — and naturally French women get their quota of the bundles. Could be the Frenchies are making a clever play for lots of good looking new clothes for free while tricking American women into paying dearly for lots of ugly clothes.

Incidentally the word "ugly" here is not the writer's choice.

That's the verdict of the women themselves, although it is possible they really mean women will be less attractive in long dresses. As one woman said "what would my husband have to look at when skirts are long?" Her solicitous concern would have seemed more genuine had she added "What can I contribute to men's looking pleasure?"
