Happy War Item: He was a top dance director in Hollywood. Taught Shirley Temple, Alice Faye and many others how to hoof . . . She was a "name" in Europe, once wedded to the Ziegfeld of Norway and Sweden . . . She came to Hollywood and her first film was a flop—foolish story, shoddy direction, etc. . . . She returned to The Old Country . . . The Hollywood dance director followed . . . He became a big hit in the London night club sector with his own joynt . . . They were married. Such happiness! . . . Then Came The War . . . They fled to her home in Oslo . . . The bombers followed . . . And dropped their eggs close enough to let them feel the splinters . . . They took their children (one by the ex-husband) and sought refuge all over Europe . . . They finally landed in the USA . . . Old friends never forget . . . Money gone, London night club and home in Oslo lost—Buddy DeSylva gave Jack Donaghy a role in "Panama Hattie" . . . The girl is the beautiful Tutta Rolfe.

Douglas Leigh, the Broadway electrician-sign-magnate (his newest is the Wilson sign at 46th Street for the White-Lowell firm) tells this about Capt. White . . . About a decade ago White and a handful of men were pioneering the African Airways, and one of their group (a famed war ace and stunt flier) attempted a dangerous hop from East-ern Africa to Central Europe . . . When no word came, White assigned one of his men, a British aviator, to search for the missing pilot . . . Risking his life in the uncharted skies, the British birdman finally spotted the wreck on a tiny isle, radioed for help and rescued the disabled flier from his doom . . . Ten years later, the life which was saved by a British Royal Air Force plane was to dedicate itself to the death of Britain . . . The man the Englishman rescued was Captain Udet, Germany's star stunt man, who is in charge of invading parachutists.

Several years ago, when F. D. R. summoned the big business men to the White House (to discuss improving conditions), one of them was Wendell Willkie. Jimmy Roosevelt, who was his father's secretary at the time, was a friend of Willkie's and took him in to meet F. D. R. They weren't together two minutes when they got into a furious argument. Afterwards, as he was leaving, Willkie said to Jimmy: "Your father has a terrific personality, but what a stubborn man!" . . . A moment later the President called Jimmy into his office and said: "Your friend, Willkie, has a terrific personality, but he certainly is stubborn!"

Mae Keith-Johnson, wife of Colin Keith-Johnson, the actor who first attracted attention in America with his work in "Journey's End," has two sons now fighting in England. After the surrender of Paris, she wrote a depressing letter to them. They replied:

"We can't understand why you're so depressed about France giving in . . . We in England aren't at all. We tell the story about the optimist and the pessimist. The pessimist said: 'God, isn't this awful? First Czechoslovakia, then Poland, Norway, Holland, Belgium, and now France.' The optimist said: 'That's wonderful—we're in the finals!'"

New Yorker's Are Talking About: The director's wife on the Bnudles For Britain Committee, who also sends shaving cream (difficult to get abroad) to an Italian Count in Rome . . . Decatur Church Will Have Anniversary Dinner On Second Anniversary

The second anniversary of the dedication of the Catholic church at Decatur will be marked with a special high mass and community dinner next Sunday, October 3, it has been announced here.

Red Cross Will Launch Roll Call Nov. 11

Seeks Larger Membership To Meet Growing Demand In Defense Program

Confronted with increased demands of the current national defense program and growing needs for widening its regular domestic operations, the American Red Cross will embark November 11 on its greatest membership roll call since the days of the first World War.

Cooke County's membership drive will be under the direction of Roy P. Wilson as County Roll Call Chairman. Assisting him is Vernie Keel as Rural Roll Call Chairman, who will direct the activities of local solicitors in each community. Mrs. G. H. Hellman, who has a splendid record as local chairman for the past two years, has again agreed to solicit memberships at Muenster.

J. L. Lenzler of Gainesville is the newly appointed County Red Cross Chairman in charge of all the organization's local activities. He fills the vacancy left by F. X. Schad at his death two months ago.

A general meeting of all roll call workers is scheduled to be held in Gainesville on Nov. 6, Roy Wilson stated.

Funds raised at roll call time will not be used for war relief, a statement from national Red Cross headquarters advised. This fund is used solely in the organization's day-to-day operations in disaster relief, first aid, life saving, nursing and assistance to the United States Military and other programs. However, the demands in this latter activity will be considerably increased because of the expansion in the military program.

The Red Cross war relief program has been supported by a special drive for 20 million dollars, an amount that was raised and oversubscribed, enabling the organization to ship thousands of tons of food, clothing and medical supplies to distressed areas of Europe.

Muenster Dramatists Will Present Three-Act Comedy Sunday Night

"Mystery at Midnight," a three-act comedy, will be presented by the Dramatic Club of Sacred Heart parish Sunday evening, Oct. 3, at 8 o'clock.

Father Richard, director, and a star cast of experienced players have been having regular rehearsals during the past several weeks and the audience is assured of plenty of thrills and hair-raising experiences, with laughs galore. The men's choir is to render a number of selections between acts, it was announced.

The admission charge is to be 25 and 15 cents and the proceeds will be added to the new church building fund. Everyone is invited to attend. The cast of characters includes Dorothy Fette, Elfreda Luke, Catharine Swirczynski, Dorothy Trachta, Irene Waltersched, Alois Horn, Werner Becker, Walter Becker, Johnny and Lawrence Wimmer.

ITALY INVADES GREECE

With Greece in the war, this map clearly shows at a glance the difficulty England faces in giving aid to her Greek friends. A flight of about 700 miles is necessary, but the long-wanted battle for the Mediterranean seems to be on and the full force of the English fleet will be felt by the Axis partners. (1) The total blockade (2) helpless France (3), (5), and (6) Nazi dominated, where riots are constantly being staged (4) Russian strength from Finland, all the way to Turkey, also it's great friend, Russia has declared she doesn't want any upsets in the Balkans, but October 28, 1940 Italy invaded Greece and the Balkan "Powder Keg" finally has blown up.

Opening Of Turkey Market Postponed Until November 2

Packing Program Will Begin On Same Day, Wilson and Co. Again in Charge

The opening of Muenster's annual turkey packing season has been postponed three days to Saturday, November 2, Rudy Heiman, FMA manager, stated last weekend. The change was made, he explained in order to avoid confusion on Nov. 1 when most Muenster people are expected to observe a church holy day.

Picking will begin the same day the market opens, Heiman said. Previously the plan was to wait at least one day, but, since all FMA members have been asked to bring their birds in as early as possible, it is believed a sufficient number will be on hand to start working fairly early Saturday.

All arrangements have been made by Wilson and Company to conduct the program as in the past few years. FMA equipment has been leased and Roy Callahan, representing Wilson will supervise all work and employ all help.

Roger King of Gainesville and John Herr are back on the job as graders of live birds.

Preparing for the season Rudy Heiman and Roy Callahan called on turkey farmers and dealers over a wide area and feel confident they have assured connections that will

City At Attention As Draft Lottery Numbers Are Drawn

CHOIR NAMES LEO HENSCHIED DIRECTOR FOR ANOTHER YEAR

By a unanimous vote of acclamation members of the Muenster men's choir in a meeting at the Parochial high school Monday night reelected Leo Henschied as director for the coming year.

Others named in the election are Anthony Luke, organist; J. M. Weinzapfel, manager; Ben Luke, secretary-treasurer. Father Richard Evidl succeeds Father Francis as liturgical adviser.

As in the past, the choir's principal activity is assisting at high mass and at other church services. Probably one or two joint concerts with a male choir of Dallas will be arranged. A few picnics and outings are also on the schedule.

The present membership of the group is nineteen and the regular rehearsal date is Friday night.

Roman Trachta's Number, 192, Is Second Picked, Next Local Man Is 93rd On List

Dozens of Muenster ears were glued to the radio Tuesday when Secretary of War Henry Stimson reached into the historic goldfish bowl to determine what serial number would be Number 1 in the order of our national draft.

The number, 158, did not apply to a Muenster registrant but the second choice, Number 192, was that of Roman Trachta, 24, owner of the Palace Drug Store. John W. Matthews, 34, Era grocer, was the first man in the county's draft list.

After the first two, numbers did not again apply to Cooke County registrants until the nineteenth, which was that of a Gainesville man. The second man on this city's list is Leonard Yosten, the 93rd number drawn.

According to draft regulations the order in which serial numbers were drawn from the bowl will determine first the order in which questionnaires are sent out by local draft boards, and later it will determine the order in which qualified men will be called to service.

Ancl Ross, secretary of the Cooke County Draft Board disclosed Monday that questionnaires will be sent out as fast as the board feels it can handle them when returned. For instance if it can classify a hundred persons a day it will arrange to have an average of a hundred at day signed up.

With numbers running as high as 9,000 only about a third of the numbers drawn at Washington will apply to registrants of this county. More than a thousand numbers did not apply to any recorded registrant but were placed in the lottery bowl to allow for persons whose names are yet to be added to local lists.

The system is as fair as any system can possibly be," Mr. Ross explained. "By the law of averages each district will automatically send its proportional quota of men for military service. This district will send half as many as one with 6,000 registrants and twice as many as one with 1500."

Another provision is that of crediting each district for the number of men now in service. Should it happen that the first call for a certain area includes 20 men and 15 are already in service, only the first five are expected to report. In that respect the entire state of Texas will be fortunate in the first draft. According to unofficial though fairly reliable reports Texas has already filled its first quota by enlistments.

In general the procedure of the draft for the future is as follows: Questionnaires are sent to registrants in the order their numbers were drawn. Classification into one of four groups is made by the draft board as soon as possible after which eligible men, those in class one, will report for service in the order their numbers were drawn. When a man's time comes he will be given 5 days of free time to get his personal affairs in order.

There is little need for anyone to worry lest he fail to get his questionnaire at the time scheduled, Mr. Ross stated. All questionnaires will go out in well marked envelopes and postmasters will have instructions to notify the draft board promptly in case of non delivery.

FORMER WHITESBORO MAN IS NEW EDITOR OF SAINT JO PAPER

Announcement was made this week that the Saint Jo Tribune is under new management. Earnest Hayley, for the past five weeks publisher of Whitesboro's new paper, the "Times", has leased the "Tribune" for one year from its former publishers. Since making that arrangement Hayley has discontinued publication at Whitesboro.

Hayley begins his career at Saint Jo on crutches. On his first day there, Monday, he sustained severe bruises and a fractured toe when he dropped a heavy object on his foot. Gene Carter of the "Enterprise" is lending him a hand through his first edition.

Rev. Francis Will Not Become Army Chaplain

Father Francis Zimmerman will not be a chaplain in the army, according to information received by friends here this week. The final decision is said to have been made by superiors in his monastery who did not see their way clear to spare him from parish duties.

CHURCH CANNOT BE BUILT UNTIL CASH IS ON THE BARREL HEAD

Another attempt to speed up Muenster's new church program proved fruitless last Friday when Father Frown and C. J. Fette, consulting at diocesan headquarters, were told that their plan of private endorsements on parish notes was not acceptable.

That system, though it has a great deal of merit as far as financial security is concerned, still does not alter the fact that the parish would be assuming a heavy obligation. The only acceptable method is to put about 90 per cent "on the barrel-head" in cash.

Father Frown commenting on the conference, stated that it left the church committee with their hands tied. There is no alternative other than waiting until voluntary donations reach the necessary figure.

One way in which the situation can be vastly relieved, he added, is for parish members to give now as much as possible of the amount they had pledged over a period of years. As regards the oft-repeated contention that persons of the next two generations should really be expected to pay most for the church, he suggested that many payments now would have that effect, because they can be made by estates later to be inherited by coming generations. Future heirs would receive a few hundred dollars less.

ELECTION DATE FOR UPPER ELM-RED SOIL PROJECT POSTPONED

The election date for a referendum on the proposed Upper Elm-Red soil conservation project has been postponed from December 7 to December 14.

The change was made to avoid confusion with an AAA election set for the seventh. J. M. Weinzapfel, election supervisor of the district advised last weekend after receiving a notice from the state soil conservation board.

"Between now and the fourteenth we expect to do considerable campaigning in behalf of the project," Weinzapfel said. He was not unmindful of the fact that a previous effort to establish a project was defeated because of lack of interest, as shown by a very small vote. Weinzapfel believes that most people will be more favorable after they learn the purpose and method of a conservation project. He does not, however, expect to take definite steps until after the presidential election.

Farmers interested in soil conservation will be expected to do the principal campaigning for the project. The probable method is to start with open meetings in which county agents will outline the entire project and instruct men to spread the information among their neighbors.

GAS COMPANY AGAIN WARNS AGAINST COLDS

Dallas, Oct. 15—Heating habits are as important in safeguarding the family's health throughout the winter as eating habits, the gas company warns its customers.

"Winter presents a threat to the whole family's health, using the common cold as an advance guard to open the door for pneumonia, influenza and other serious respiratory ailments," the company points out. Scientific tests prove that the most important step in preventing colds is to regulate room temperatures properly and provide a circulation of warm air throughout the home. Because of its flexibility, the ideal heating fuel is gas. Floor furnaces, gas steam radiators, circulation and central furnaces are the best examples of modern vented gas heating equipment and each type offers an invaluable health protection insofar as they produce no smoke or soot.

Nation's Flu Chart Going Higher Rapidly; Doctors Warn of Complications

Washington (AP)—The "G-men" who help guard the nation's health are watching a sharply climbing curve on a chart at headquarters of the public health service.

It tells them that Public Enemy Flu is on the loose—that this winter's wave of the mysterious chills-and-fever-ache malady is four times bigger than the average.

New cases of influenza for the first week of 1940 are some 10,000 as compared with 2,500 for the same week of 1939.

Public health officials in the 1932-1933 epidemic broke 200 a day.

They say the "flu" is a serious disease. It is not only a nuisance, but it is a dangerous one. It is a disease that can lead to pneumonia and other complications.

That is mainly because of the danger of complications such as pneumonia and streptococcal infections. Medical science has found no specific remedy or preventive for influenza and its first cousin, the common cold.

Flu is a suave faker. Even physicians cannot always diagnose individual cases, influenza or grippe in its early stages frequently being indistinguishable from a cold. To people the only difference is severity.

Various vaccines, serums, pre-medicines and even alcoholic beverages have been urged as influenza preventives. The public health service says there is no evidence that any of these are definitely harmful.

Man is the carrier of the flu virus. It is spread by contact with the secretions of an infected person.

HEALTH DEPT. WARNS AGAINST WINTER COLDS

One Death Every Four Minutes From Pneumonia

With the approach of winter city health authorities urge all citizens to play safe and guard against winter illnesses resulting from the common cold. A cold is an internal infection and unless treated promptly and seriously may turn into something worse. According to published reports, there is a death every four minutes from pneumonia traceable to the so-called "common cold."

The nation's sneezing bill each year reaches the staggering total of $100,000,000 for treatment of common colds. More than two million wage earners in industry, stores and offices are sick for at least eight days due to common colds, sinus infection, sore throat, and pneumonia that follow or begin as colds. Lost time and treatment costs caused by the common cold are estimated at two billion dollars annually.

Local doctors point out that sudden changes of temperature can be expected soon and special effort should be made to safeguard against catching cold. Any sudden change of temperature permits the cold germ to become active.

Sneeze "Germs" Hunt New Victim In Big Hurry

Pittsburgh, Sept. 30 (AP)—The air hygiene foundation reported today that a common cold germ is spreading at a speed of better than 100 miles an hour.

The foundation says that a sneeze sprays the air with thousands of droplets, some as high as 60 feet per second, and that the so-called "common cold" is the greatest health problem in industry, adding that it is especially serious during the winter months.

City School By Epidemic of Flu, Pneumonia

Flu Hospitals and Confines Many to Homes; School Attendance Cut

A wave of influenza and pneumonia, sweeping over the city during the past few days, had filled hospitals, confined many others to their homes, and cut down on school attendance Thursday.

It was difficult to get beds at Parkland and St. Paul, according to reports from those hospitals Thursday, and others in the city were crowded to near-capacity. Officials at Parkland said that 12 cases of pneumonia had been brought there during the past three days.

12 Per Cent Absent

Dr. J. W. Bass, head of the city health department, said reports to his office showed that 12 per cent of the school children in Highland Park and University Park were absent because of illness.

Be Careful of Colds

Specific advice offered by Dr. Bass was: "When you get a bad cold, go to bed and call a doctor. Avoid exposure even with a mild cold. Whether you are sick or well, don't go from a warm room into a cold one. Keep your feet warm and dry."

Heat Your Entire Home
...for your health's sake this winter

Any health authority will urge you not to give a common cold an even break. Frequently simple colds develop into dangerous illnesses. Any sudden change of temperature—such as occurs when going from a warm room into a cold one—makes it easy for you to "catch cold." That is why it is important to heat your entire house and provide adequate ventilation during the short winter season.

AS COMPANY STUDIES COMMON COLD THREAT

Average Family Has Three "Colds" Per Year

How to help more than a million people lower the national average of three colds per person this winter was one of the chief problems studied at a meeting of the gas company managers here this morning.

"Doctors and health authorities, who cooperated with the company in preparing education information given at the conference, agreed that many colds so prevalent in this section of the country are caused by stuffy, overheated rooms," according to D. A. Hulcy, president of the Lone Star Gas System.

"Our surveys show that many of our customers are not getting proper benefit from their present heating equipment, due to the unhealthy habit of living in one or two rooms during the winter season," Mr. Hulcy said. "Occupants of these homes are not only subjecting themselves to exposure to catching cold by going from warm rooms to unheated parts of the house, but are also in danger by remaining in the overheated and usually poorly ventilated rooms. Scientific tests prove that the most important step in guarding against colds is to provide adequate ventilation, regulate room temperatures properly and provide a circulation of warm air throughout the home."

For several years the gas company has been engaged in research concerning the common cold and the relationship between adequate heat and health conditions during the winter season. Findings from these investigations have been endorsed by leading doctors and health authorities throughout this section.

WHO'S THE BETTER MAN?

The air is full of mud nowadays. Some people are beginning to think there is nothing but mud to the campaign, what with both factions working night and day to discredit one another. Among the mud balls, however, are dozens of vital issues. By looking closely it is possible to distinguish many a clean-cut, legitimate campaign missile intended to smash an opponent's idea, not just to smear his name.

To distinguish what is good and bad it is necessary first of all to forget all except the basic principles of each candidate and the standards which we believe essential to human welfare. Which of the two, Roosevelt or Willkie, seems to uphold the principles most likely to assure our inalienable right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness?

As regards the right to life our American tradition has taught us to think as much in terms of security as of personal safety. Which candidate, then, offers the greater security? Roosevelt's record in 1933 is beyond reproach. When all was confusion his steady hand and fine courage led us through.

But does FDR offer greater security today? It doesn't seem possible that his method can succeed much longer. His policy has been to borrow against the future, a policy which led to the staggering debt which is the present great handicap to security. Inevitably such a policy must lead to financial collapse.

Willkie proposes to reduce expenses, balance the budget and avert disaster. Can he do it? We do not know. All we can say is that he has been successful in private business, whereas Roosevelt has not been successful either in private or public business. Getting down to dollars and cents, Willkie seems to be the better man.

Then comes liberty, the one inalienable right that has always been cherished as the most precious heritage of this nation. How can the New Deal candidate possibly justify the shackles he has placed on both individual and states' rights in the creation of dozens of centralized bureaus responsible only to himself? How can he justify his persistent efforts to crush private enterprise by subsidizing tax exempt competing industries? How can he justify the dozens of red-tape regulations he has imposed under penalty of fine? Today the federal government has a hand in almost everything, and each activity curtails freedom in some respect. He has done more than any man in American history to break down liberty and opportunity.

It is always generous and fair to assume that a person has worthy reasons for his actions. On that basis we unhesitatingly give Roosevelt and the New Deal credit for trying to improve the nation. At first people were in a panic. They were not able to use judiciously all the rights to which free men are entitled. Roosevelt acted wisely in restricting freedom and directing the nation. But he never relinquished his emergency powers. At the same time he established the government as the greatest business concern of the nation and arbitrarily began subsidizing various factories. His intentions may have been good, but his methods were undeniably socialistic.

RED MEANS DANGER!

We Americans should ponder heavily on the fact that much of the president's progress was carried out with the help of socialists of the Russian variety. Reports published by the Dies committee present ample evidence that high ranking persons in the New Deal are either Communists or members of Communist front organizations.

No one can possibly assume the president was unaware of his employe's pinkish tendencies. He was supposed to, and no doubt did, investigate each person thoroughly. Still he saw fit to retain such persons as Henry Wallace, Frances Perkins, Harold Ickes, and more than 500 others listed on Communist or Communist front rolls.

Facts such as that explain why an alien agitator like Harry Bridges can remain here to pollute a free people, why we have had such notorious trouble with our labor situations, why the Dies committee has been consistently ridiculed by the administration. Though we cannot bring ourselves to believe Roosevelt himself is Communist we cannot excuse him for employing such radicals as his chief advisers.

Americans and Christians are concerned, deeply concerned, about any excursion into socialism simply because it is impractical and restricts freedom. But Communism is more. It is an insult to humanity. It denies the existence of God and all human rights, it advocates anarchy, it exists as a system in which the government owns all and the people are mere slaves. Communists in America are pledged to the overthrow of our form of government and subordinate it to the Moscow machine. People with those principles are holding high places in the New Deal. They are in a position to continue the economic wrecking of this country or to paralyze the defense program so vital to national safety. Does the American public wish to have such an aggregation guide its destiny?

These charges are severe, but, unfortunately, they are true. Thousands of pages in the Dies report give shocking, undeniable revelations which cause grave concern to thinking men. These things throw some light on more than a few New Deal activities and policies. All these things were brought to Roosevelt's attention long ago, but he failed to clean house. There is a grave implication in his negligence.

Could Willkie be depended upon to remedy that situation? A glance at his basic principles gives an encouraging answer. Willkie is an ardent believer in private ownership of business, as opposed to state ownership and control, he believes in having every industry support itself instead of depending on tax-supported subsidies, he believes in stimulating private initiative through increased business activity as opposed to encouraging indolence through official handouts. Aside from his contempt for radical isms, Willkie is a natural enemy to them all because his system simply does not harmonize with them.

Actually there is only one factor that would justify another vote for the New Deal—another crisis such as we faced in 1932. Roosevelt's fine leadership at that time will no doubt go down in history as the greatest act of his career. His measures were correct then. The nation needed semi-dictatorship and heavy spending. Now that the emergency is over we cannot admit that his policies are correct. And even if an emergency still existed, we could not have much confidence in a leader who flirts with Communism. We would do better to rely on the judgment of a new man who is more likely to surround himself with the American brand of help.

The war situation? That should not bother anyone. Either of the two candidates is able to handle that job. Our really important concern is the defense of democracy in our own official circles. There are too many reds in our government today. And remember, Red is a signal for danger.

SIMPLE ARITHMETIC

It is indeed difficult to understand how some of us can be so unconcerned over our nation's economic problem. We simply say we are getting along fine, so why worry. Yes, this is the remark made by men who would be worrying themselves sick if they faced a similar situation in their private affairs.

Consider for instance the business man who does a fine volume of business, $67,000 a year, we'll say. But every year he goes in the red and has to borrow another four or five thousand to keep operating. But he doesn't mind, he's doing fine as long as he can continue to borrow. Anybody knows he's headed for trouble. It is an elementary fact of economics that no concern can go on spending more than it takes in.

Now think of the government in that way. Disregard all the elaborate theories and get down to the simple fact that our government every year spends billions more than it takes in. Ask yourself, is it possible to do that without ending in disaster? Don't allow yourself to be kidded by high powered economists. This is a matter of simple arithmetic.

Confetti

By CON FETTE

Talking about coincidences, here's one that is not so bad. This column was wondering last week whether heckling is permitted in better bowling circles, also whether there is any other newspaper in the nation as tiny as the Forestburger. The answers came promptly—both in the same magazine, which a kind reader remembered and submitted to yours truly.

Fact Digest for April, 1940, has this to say about howling: "Bowlers are as a rule a calm and philosophical group; almost never does one hear of a heated argument or a brawl of any sort in a bowling alley." In view of that statement one probably doesn't assume too much in contending that most alleys will not permit the brand of behavior intended to grate nerves. There's your answer fellows. If you want to play—or witness—the game properly don't bother the person who rolls.

Wanna know some more about the game? It originated ages ago with rocks instead of balls—it is this nation's most popular sport today; twelve million are playing it—it has always been popular, so popular that kings and even American legislators have outlawed it on the pretext that people were spending too much time and money at it. One English king thought his soldiers were neglecting their practice of archery and got alarmed. Over here bowling was regarded an absurd waste of time—At that time the accepted name was nine pins and the game was outlawed under that name; in order to reopen their alleys people added one pin and called the game ten pins; a different game and legal, too.

Now about that little-bitty newspaper. It is the Valsetz (Oregon) "Star," a one-sheet mimeographed job, published by an 11 year-old child. They call it a newspaper, and we'll not fuss, but we could be contentious on the ground that it is not printed. So until another refutation comes along we'll claim the Forestburger is the smallest thing that looks like a newspaper.

But brushing aside the technicality, we concede the "Star" is the smallest medium for publishing local news. What's more, it is the kind of paper people like to read, it has news and comment combined in the way that only a child can compose. Instead of the big time scandals that butter the ace columnist's bread, the "Star" offers only the impression of a child talking out of school.

The story behind its founding is as fascinating as the paper. Little 9-year-old Dorothy Anne Hobson was so very miserable when a part time editor moved out of her little town of 600 and his semi-monthly paper folded up. In her childish determination she set about publishing a paper by hand. The right man saw her initial effort, enjoyed a few chuckles, and offered to run the papers off on a mimeograph. Copies of that virgin edition went not only to Valsetz but to every salesman in his company. Enclosed was a little slip advising the subscription price is $1.00. A lot of the fellows liked it. They showed it to other people who liked it. In April the paper had a circulation of 2,000, including shoe-string peddlers, executives, farmers, miners, college presidents, and even the first lady of the land.

The little editor says what she thinks but always tries, if possible, to avoid hurting feelings. Her staunch Republican loyalty once prompted her to remark "We think the next President of the United States will be a Republican." But, having received many attentions and compliments from the White House, she was solicitous of the feelings of the Roosevelts, hence the following paragraph: "We won't send a copy of the "Star" to the White House this month as we don't want to make them mad."

Uncle Sam isn't the only one who has good use for registration cards and serial numbers. They say that liquor dealers in Dallas are asking to see them frequently. It's a sure-fire method of determining whether a young looking customer is legally of age. If a fellow can't show the card he doesn't get the jug.

We wonder whether to be amused or indignant at the bitter ravings of some contemporary editors whose one-track minds seem unable to recognize any reason or justice in the other man's viewpoint. Especially typical is one editor's charge that "the power trust controls at least 90 per cent of the newspapers in towns and cities in which they operate." He explains that remark by saying the trusts will withdraw their advertising support from any editor who opposes their interests, and the inference, of course, is that those editors are unprincipled weaklings who sell their editorial support for a few dollars worth of ad space. In plain words, he charges 90 per cent of the editors with dishonesty. Men of intelligence and integrity have a right to resent such statements.

Perhaps the writer did not stop to think that the majority of editors are like himself in that they have their own ideas. Suppose someone were to charge that he is the hireling of a group of power-persecuting politicians. The answer would come back mighty fast—every idea is his own and backed by his deepest convictions. Why, then, can't he be fair? Why can't he admit sincerity in the person whose opinions do not demand that he shower fire and brimstone on any special organization?

The editor happens to be one of those who believe the way to destroy the rats is to burn the ship. Shady things have happened in the power business, but does that mean that power companies must be run out of existence? Doesn't it seem more just and more sensible to eliminate the faults than to eliminate the organization? For that matter shady things have happened in our democracy and in our churches, but do they justify the present trend toward socialism and atheism? It does seem more reasonable to determine what is basically correct and merely eliminate the faults in our application of those principles.

Then there is the fellow's charge that power trusts are suppressing freedom of the press. The fact is that some editors have made remarks harmful to power companies and the ad support was promptly discontinued. Well, what would he expect? Who wouldn't do it, anyway? Suppose he used his editorial column to run down the business of any of his advertisers. Does anyone think the men attacked would continue to support him? Suppose the salesman who sells printing supplies spread a rumor that the editor does inferior work—do you think he would get another order from the editor? Do you? If your grocer or mine, started running down our characters, would we continue our patronage? Who says it is a person's duty to feed the mouth that bites him?

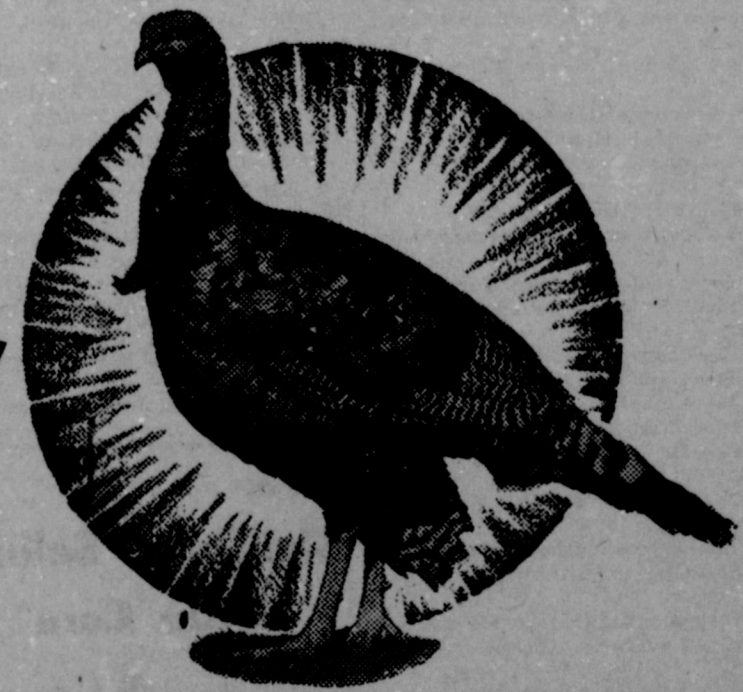

The real reason behind the ravings was the statement that most of the big newspapers are backing Willkie, whom the editor brands as a power trust candidate. Let's look at it calmly. Naturally power trusts are fighting Roosevelt. They have been given some mighty shabby treatment by the New Deal. But that doesn't explain why big newspapers are fighting the New Deal. Common sense prompts them to support what they believe best for the whole nation, not best for an individual client. Editors know that when the country prospers, when all business prospers, they will prosper. Who is naive enough to believe that all those papers are violating their own convictions and their own best interests?

Our editor friend has his heart set on publicly owned power companies in competition with privately

OBSERVE AAA RULES TO BE ELIGIBLE FOR 1941 WHEAT LOANS

COLLEGE STATION.—A loan has not been offered on the 1941 wheat crop, but—

The wheat farmer who is deciding how much acreage to plant this fall should study the eligibility rules for obtaining a loan in 1941 if one is offered.

owned companies. Just how far does logic carry him in that direction? Would he be willing to see the federal government set up a tax subsidized and tax-exempt newspaper in competition with his own? Does any business man want to see a government supported business set up in competition with his own?

People who think along that line for a while will be less inclined to continue kicking the power companies around.

for the loan only if a 1941 parity payment can be made with respect to that share of the wheat in accordance with the eligibility provisions of the 1941 parity payment regulations, E. N. Holmgren, state AAA administrator, said in a statement issued from AAA headquarters.

Which all means that wheat produced will be eligible for a loan if none of the following provisions are violated:

1. The acreage planted to wheat on the farm is not in excess of the wheat acreage allotment for the farm.
2. The sum of the acreages of wheat and cotton for the farm does not exceed the sum of the allotments or permitted acreages for such crops under the 1941 program.
3. The producer's aggregate share of the 1941 acreage of wheat and cotton on all farms in the county does not exceed his aggregate share of the allotments or permitted acreages for such crops under the 1941 program on such farms.
4. The producer's aggregate share of the 1941 acreage of wheat, cotton, corn, rice and tobacco on all farms in which he has an interest, wherever situated, does not exceed his aggregate share of the allotment or permitted acreage for such commodity under the 1941 program for such farms to such an extent as to offset substantially the performance on the farm with respect to which the loan might otherwise be made.

Eligibility for parity payments will be determined early in 1941, the administrator said, and since those eligible for parity payments will be eligible for loans, only one determination of eligibility need be made.

The announcement of these eligibility rules does not in any way constitute an announcement of a loan on the 1941 crop, Holmgren pointed out. The statement was issued as a protective measure for the producers so that they might plan their farming operations in order to be eligible for a loan if one is offered.

LINDSAY BOWLERS CINCH TIE FOR LEAD IN MUESTER LOOP

The Lindsay bowlers went on a scoring spree Tuesday night sweeping Foss Swirczynski's Cheese Plant boys off their feet and assuring at least a tie for first place in the final loop standing. Their performance, featured by Bill Schmitz's high mark of 220, was easily the best barrage of the current league schedule.

Their final record is 11 games won and 4 lost at the end of their schedule. Only one other team, the Weasels, have a chance to equal that score. After remaining idle for two weeks they won three games in a row from the Possums to bring their total score to 8 out of 12. By winning all games in their match with the Farmers they can end even with Lindsay.

League standings of other teams are Phone Boys, 7 out of 12; Clodhoppers, 6 out of 12; Possums, 5 out of 15; Fillies, 2 out of 12.

Scoring averages per game follow the order of team standings Lindsay, during Tuesday's heavy barrage raised its record 10 points to 487 per game. The Weasels are holding second place with 482; the Clodhoppers have 473; the Possums and Phone Boys each 470 and the Fillies 427.

Jake Horn still leads the field for individual scores with an average of 146 while R. N. Fette holds second place with 139. Other leaders are George Koelzer, 136; Bill Schmitz, 134 and Foss Swirczynski, 128.

Muenster Cotton Yields Are Good; Some Surpass "Bale Per Acre" Record

Muenster's cotton crop, keeping pace with that in most other sections of North Texas, is definitely the best in years. According to the memories of some local farmers it is the best in about 20 years.

Reports from the gin give Bruno Fleitman credit for the community's best yield. His field of 15 acres has already produced 15 bales, the 16th is well on its way, and the 17th may possibly be filled.

C. J. Wimmer has an interesting report on his crop. After the hailstorm last spring he replanted leaving two acres that were somewhat better than the rest but still in bad condition; he decided to take a chance experimenting with that patch. Now he wishes he had left the entire field as it was. His two acres of half-battered cotton yielded 2 bales and 400 pounds. The late cotton is giving him about a half bale to the acre.

Entering the consolation they lost two in a row to Sanger.

In practice games with Parochial Hi Wednesday the girls won two straight, the second by 15 to 0.

Parochial and Public Lads Divide Cage Games

When you pay bills in cash you are likely to let yourself get too close to your "bottom dollar." Paying by check, on the other hand, encourages you to build a safe reserve between you and trouble.

It pays to pay by check. It's safer, more convenient, more business-like. It builds credit and is a real aid to success.
