

If Low Prices Will Stop Your Hokey Playing for New Clothing Here They Are.

$22.50 to $45.00

Former Values $30.00 to $60.00

After the holiday and tax paying elephants have tramped on a man's purse it takes some mighty nursing to bring his spending temperature back to normal again.

In these prices—we have taken no chances!

We know that a man who looks won't leave unless one or two garments leave with him. The opportunity is that huge.

Grays, Blues, Browns—a wide choice of fine styles in fabrics that will delight the eye of the most critical suit buyer.

And as fine a showing of overcoats and topcoats as you would want to see from.

$22.50 to $40.00

Pay us a visit of inspection and selection.

Garner-Alvis Co.

"Dependable Values—Satisfaction"

CULTURAL METHODS BEST REMEDY FOUND FOR COTTON ROOT ROT

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Jan. 24.—(P)—Crop rotation and clean cultural methods offer the most practical course for dealing with cotton root rot.

SPECIAL FRIDAY AND SATURDAY RECORDS 5c EACH

With every purchase of two records at the regular price, we will sell one for 5c your choice.

Hempill-Fain Co.

CLEARANCE

In Addition to the Appeal of Worth-While and Strictly Honest Price Reductions—are the Unequaled Selections of Highly Desirable Styles.

Advertisement for clothing sale with categories: All Gift Items 1/4 OFF, Costume Jewelry 1/2 OFF, Lace Doilies and Scarfs 1/4 OFF, LOOK-LADIES! I table extra high grade Glove Silk Bloomers, Teds and Step-Ins. $2.98, MEN'S HATS $1, LADIES' COATS $19.98, MEN'S OVERCOATS $39.85, Children's Coats $5.95, Ladies' Sweaters 1/2 PRICE, Satin and Velvet Dresses $5.95, LADIES' HATS $5.95 to $12.50 Values, $1

SAN ANGELOAN LEADS ALAMO CITY GOLFERS

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 24.—(P)—Two new associations in connection with the election in the state of Hidalgo were reported to the government today by partisans of Dr. Parres, one of the candidates for Governor.

Houston Doctor Forced By Bandits Cash $500 Check

HOUSTON, Jan. 24.—(P)—Houston police Thursday had found no trace of three men who forced Dr. H. Rives, to walk through a crowded street in broad daylight from his office to a bank, six blocks distant, cash a check for $500 and hand over an additional $100 in cash.

Vare Expenditures Are Defended

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—(P)—Expenditures of Senator-elect Vare in the three cornered Republican senatorial fight in Pennsylvania in 1926 were defended today before the Senate investigating committee in a closing plea by Vare's counsel, Francis Shunk Brown.

Corporation and Dam Bills Are Passed by Senate

AUSTIN, Jan. 24.—(P)—The Senate today passed the Wirtz corporation bill and the Berkeley dam bill in short order.

Would Restrict Mailing Privilege

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—(P)—Restriction of second class mailing privileges of chain newspapers was proposed in a bill introduced today by Senator Harris, Democrat, Georgia.

REPORT OF TWO MORE MEXICAN ASSASSINATIONS

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 24.—(P)—Two new assassinations in connection with the election in the state of Hidalgo were reported to the government today by partisans of Dr. Parres, one of the candidates for Governor.

COLLISION OF FREIGHT TRAINS NEAR MARSHALL

LONGVIEW, Tex., Jan. 24.—(P)—Three trainmen were injured, two seriously, when two westbound Texas & Pacific freight trains collided at Quincy, near Marshall, today.

COLLEGE PRESIDENT TO FILL PULPIT AT THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH

T. T. Roberts, president of the Randolph College at Cisco, denominational school of the Christian Church, will speak from the pulpit of the First Christian Church of Brownwood Sunday morning.

Eastern Railroad Consolidation Plan Disclosed Today

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—(P)—The second move of O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen to obtain public support for their eastern railroad consolidation plan was disclosed today in reports of their organization of a $100,000,000 company to hold their railroad stocks.

Educational Progress In the Heart of Texas

BY J. OSCAR SWINDLE County Superintendent of Brown County School Opportunities of the Forefathers and Those of the Present Day Present a Contrast. This is the Sixth Article by Mr. Swindle in this Series.

When we think of the "good old days" when our grandparents were skipping across the hills and thought the woods to school we are made to wonder how they felt about the future development of education. What were the aspirations and desires of those courageous sturdy young people who were building the foundation for our present system of education?

COUNTY TO KEEP ALL RECORDS OF STUDENTS IN RURAL HIGH SCHOOLS

A system of permanent records of the scholastic activities of the students of county high schools will be installed soon in the office of J. Oscar Swindle, county superintendent in the near future, he said Thursday.

Schulenberg Man Is Charged With Murder Of Wife

LA GRANGE, Tex., Jan. 24.—(P)—Gilbert Montney, Schulenberg, was charged with murder yesterday after the death of his wife from infection caused by an injury to her hand Christmas night.

Brownwood Man Named Officer of Hardware Body

DALLAS, Tex., Jan. 24.—(P)—S. L. Randlett, Lancaster, was elected president of the Texas Hardware and Implement Association at the organization's convention here today.

ARCHIVES OF SPANISH TOWN YIELD VALUABLE TEXAS HISTORY DATA

AUSTIN, Tex., Jan. 24.—(Sp)—Much valuable information regarding the history of Texas and New Mexico in the sixteenth, seventeenth and eighteenth centuries is expected to be gleaned as the result of a search of the archives in Seville, Spain.

Big List Special Prices

- Patent Medicines, Toilet Goods, Tobaccos and Razor Blades. 1 lb. Norris Peanut Brittle 29c, 1 lb. Roasted Peanut Chocolate Bars 29c, 1-lb. Jar Black Walnut Brittle 49c, 1-lb. Jar Home made Fancy Filled Candies 49c, 1-lb. Box Town Talk Chocolate 49c, 1-lb. Box Jontue Chocolate 49c, 2-lb. Box Hard Candy 49c, 60c Bulk Chocolates 49c, 1-lb. Box Mary Alice Chocolates, Hand Roll Creams, Nut Centers, Nugatines and Caramels 69c, 1-lb. Box High Grade Assorted Chocolates 79c.

SPECIAL FRIDAY AND SATURDAY RECORDS 5c EACH

With every purchase of two records at the regular price, we will sell one for 5c your choice. Our stock is complete with all the new records. Come in and take advantage of this bargain event.

L. E. HALL MUSIC CO. 110 E. Lee Phone 560 wltc

Good Business Every Merchant Likes To Have Good Business

THE MOST PROSPEROUS AND PROGRESSIVE BUSINESS MEN ARE GOOD ADVERTISERS AND THOSE WHO CONSISTENTLY ADVERTISE THEIR WARES OR PRODUCTS HAVE SOMETHING REALLY WORTH WHILE TO TELL THE WORLD

The Banner-Bulletin

Offers the best medium of reaching the people outside of Brownwood in Brown and adjoining counties, in this trade territory. The Oldest Established Newspaper in This County. We will be glad to assist you in getting best results with your advertising.

The Banner-Bulletin

Published Every Thursday. 'PHONES 3 or 1563. Subscription Rate $1.00 Per Year the writing of the history of the Catholic church in Texas. Father Ortega is well known in Europe for his historical research. Father Poik said. His most recent publication is a four-volume compilation of documents concerning Columbus. He became interested in the Texas undertaking last summer, when the Rev. Dr. John S. Murphy of Galveston, a member of the historical commission, talked to him during a visit to Spain last summer.

Seville documents concerning New Spain number into the hundreds of millions and it is believed that there are many thousand books on Texas and Mexico. Father Ortega will be engaged in his research for at least a year, Father Poik said.

SAVE WITH SAFETY The Rexall Store

Friday And Saturday Specials

- 1 lb. Norris Peanut Brittle 29c, 1 lb. Roasted Peanut Chocolate Bars 29c, 1-lb. Jar Black Walnut Brittle 49c, 1-lb. Jar Home made Fancy Filled Candies 49c, 1-lb. Box Town Talk Chocolate 49c, 1-lb. Box Jontue Chocolate 49c, 2-lb. Box Hard Candy 49c, 60c Bulk Chocolates 49c, 1-lb. Box Mary Alice Chocolates, Hand Roll Creams, Nut Centers, Nugatines and Caramels 69c, 1-lb. Box High Grade Assorted Chocolates 79c.

Big List Special Prices

- Patent Medicines, Toilet Goods, Tobaccos and Razor Blades.

Tobacco Special 8 oz. Prince Albert Tobacco 43c, 16 oz. Prince Albert Tobacco 83c

Unusual Value

Kleene Tooth Brush and Holder, Large Tube Rexall Magnesia Tooth Paste 39c, Usual Retail Value 70c

Guard your BEAUTY

If YOU would look your loveliest all day long, and at the same time protect the delicate texture of your skin from harmful exposure, always use one of Dorothy Gray's special finishing preparations before going out-of-doors and before applying powder or rouge.

Advertisement for Camp-Bell Drug Co. and Peerless Drug Co. featuring Dorothy Gray's skin care products.

The Golden Cocoon

by RUTH CROSS

SYNOPSIS
Molly Shannon, having been graduated from the State University, is teaching school in the north Texas village where her mother lives. With the help of her brother Larry, she has transformed the rickshack home into a more respectable habitation. But Molly finds the home life a bit and so she leaves the environment pinched and colorless, and she shudders at the prospect of remaining here year after year.

CHAPTER XX—Continued
A desire, long cherished, but dim and unreal as a proscribed heaven until Stephen Renfro quizzed in for a season with the false glitter of nearness, lifted its head now like an answer to her discomfiture. Molly stood there for some moments in the schoolhouse door, peering into the shadows, which contrasted sharply with the slanting April sunshine outside. Discovering presently the blue gingham figure at the window, he crossed the room with his usual deliberate stride.

As he drew near—very near indeed—Molly lifted her head from the schoolhouse door, peering into the shadows, which contrasted sharply with the slanting April sunshine outside. Discovering presently the blue gingham figure at the window, he crossed the room with his usual deliberate stride.

"No, I came on to"—he mentioned the nearest city of importance, "and waited for the returns there. I jumped on the train at midnight, and here I am."

"It seemed too bad to spoil the early-morning quiet, so I left the team a half mile back and walked the rest of the way. I had a suspicion you'd be out here poking your nose into the morning glory cups. . . . And now—if you're quite satisfied that I am here, I wish you'd turn your eyes in my direction for a minute. . . . When a man's been traveling all night with the fixed idea of looking into a certain pair of cornflower eyes at dawn."

"This minute . . . ?" he repeated questioningly.

"Because you are here, of course," she said simply. "You don't suppose," she finished on a lighter and more casual note, "that a steady diet of L. E. Hall's music for a year is calculated to make one valiant one's friends less highly, do you?"

"Hum—rather unfair advantage for the friends, though, don't you think?" In his eyes there was an inscrutable effect of both light and depth. He drew Molly down to one of the seats near by, seated himself, a comical misfit, astride the one in front, facing her—and then and only then let go her hands.

"It was almost an hour later when they issued from the old gray schoolhouse. The livery team was nowhere in sight, and they walked slowly side by side down the 'big road'—the sunset moving ahead of them with stately stride across the prairie. Molly was blissfully untroubled by any extraneous thoughts about supper or what he would think of her mother and the children and the plain little house. She knew now that he would be as much at home there as in the spacious precincts of the 'old Cochran place,' and she was not mistaken.

CHAPTER XXI
The convention and primaries of the following year, which resulted in the nomination of Gregory Cochran for Governor—nomination being tantamount in the solid South to election—constitute one of the picturesque chapters in the history of a hard-riding, fast-shooting state which had fought already under five flags and was long before the rest of the nation to resign to so-called civilization. As the primaries drew near, the state seethed with more than its normal July one hundred and fourteen degrees in the shade.

"All the spellbinding and all the perspiration won't change a vote, you know," Cochran confided to Molly on his return from the East a week before the primaries were to be held. "In politics, God fights on the side of the best organization. Anyhow, I'll be darned glad when the bullfrogs' over. I'm going fishing."

On the afternoon of the day set for the primaries, she drove in to town with Jo and Cynthia to watch the returns. It was after midnight when they reached home, but she was up early the next morning, out in the garden long before the rest of the household was awake, and she inherited her mother's passion for putting about among the flowers while the morning-glory chimes were still beaded with dew. Today Mrs. Shannon was not feeling well, and so Molly had the world to herself.

Molly was on her knees at the nasturtium bed, picking off the faded blossoms and dallying to gaze deep into the sunrise throats of the newly opened ones, when the click of the front gate latch made her lift her head in surprise. During this month of vacation which preceded the cotton-picking season, even early-to-bed and early-to-rise laws' Chapel was not as fit as this hour. She was still on her knees when a familiar, solidly built figure rounded the corner of the house. She gasped with astonishment—and dismay.

"Top of the morning," Gregory Cochran called out in a cheerful undertone, which took into account the sleeping house and had apparently no desire to waken it. Molly returned his greeting rather dazedly, glanced hurriedly out of the corner of her eyes at her white house apron, and tried in vain to recall how she had done her hair in the scramble to get out of doors.

"The next morning," he said, "I lifted unceremoniously to her feet and facing him. He seemed in no hurry to break the spell of silence which enfolded them with the dawn, and it was some moments before Molly could find her voice. Even then she did not think to congratulate him about the election. Instead she stammered irrelevantly, "But—I thought you were at the capital. . . ."

"No, I came on to"—he mentioned the nearest city of importance, "and waited for the returns there. I jumped on the train at midnight, and here I am."

"It seemed too bad to spoil the early-morning quiet, so I left the team a half mile back and walked the rest of the way. I had a suspicion you'd be out here poking your nose into the morning glory cups. . . . And now—if you're quite satisfied that I am here, I wish you'd turn your eyes in my direction for a minute. . . . When a man's been traveling all night with the fixed idea of looking into a certain pair of cornflower eyes at dawn."

"This minute . . . ?" he repeated questioningly.

"Because you are here, of course," she said simply. "You don't suppose," she finished on a lighter and more casual note, "that a steady diet of L. E. Hall's music for a year is calculated to make one valiant one's friends less highly, do you?"

CHAPTER XXI
The convention and primaries of the following year, which resulted in the nomination of Gregory Cochran for Governor—nomination being tantamount in the solid South to election—constitute one of the picturesque chapters in the history of a hard-riding, fast-shooting state which had fought already under five flags and was long before the rest of the nation to resign to so-called civilization. As the primaries drew near, the state seethed with more than its normal July one hundred and fourteen degrees in the shade.

"All the spellbinding and all the perspiration won't change a vote, you know," Cochran confided to Molly on his return from the East a week before the primaries were to be held. "In politics, God fights on the side of the best organization. Anyhow, I'll be darned glad when the bullfrogs' over. I'm going fishing."

On the afternoon of the day set for the primaries, she drove in to town with Jo and Cynthia to watch the returns. It was after midnight when they reached home, but she was up early the next morning, out in the garden long before the rest of the household was awake, and she inherited her mother's passion for putting about among

MAN TO GIVE FULL TIME TO MOSQUITO CONTROL ADVISED IN REPORT OF STATE ENGINEER

Recommending that the city designate a man to give his entire time to the problem of mosquito control was contained in a report of the state engineer, who made a recent survey here.

The report of state department of health engineer, Chester Cohen, who recently made this survey with respect to the control of the mosquito nuisance, together with his recommendations, a suggested mosquito control ordinance and regulations, and for an educational campaign on the subject, have been received by H. V. Hennessy, city manager. The entire report and recommendations were sent Mr. Hennessy by Dr. J. C. Anderson, state health officer.

The findings of the engineer included the usual breeding places of sloughs, ponds and lax conditions of septic tanks and cesspools around many homes, but emphasized as the most prolific source in the entire vicinity was to be found at the site of the city sewage disposal plant and in the adjacent lake.

To correct these conditions Mr. Cohen recommends that a man be designated by the city to give his full time to mosquito control; that the city accept its responsibility in the matter by attending to many breeding places within the city limits; and that the citizens be aroused as to the importance of control of the pest in order that they might keep their premises free from breeding places. The city will consider the report and recommendations at the regular meeting of the City Council Tuesday night.

The report of Mr. Cohen to Dr. Anderson follows in full. Engineer's Report
"At your direction and the request of the Brown County Medical Society and the Brownwood city officials, we made a survey of the mosquito situation at Brownwood and wish to submit the following report:

Two Distinct Phases
"The mosquito problem at Brownwood resolves itself into two distinct phases. First, the responsibility of the city administration, and second, the responsibility of each individual householder. The accompanying map showing the various streams which almost encompass the city gives some idea of the potential mosquito breeding localities. Feeding these various waterways are numerous drainage ditches, sloughs and ravines, all of which when holding stagnant water after a rain, are sources of prolific mosquito breeding. Culverts, depressions under bridges, and roadside ditches are all in evidence in Brownwood and offer further sources, but perhaps the most prolific source in the entire vicinity is to be found at the site of the municipal sewage disposal plant and in the adjacent artificial lake receiving the excess sewage effluent.

The individual premises in the city are far from free of guilt as harbinger of mosquitoes and as breeding places. Tin cans, rain barrels, stopped up roof gutters, cisterns, wash tubs and flower pots were observed at a great number of homes, and all of these receptacles for water may serve as mosquito breeding places. Perhaps one of the least considered and yet most prolific sources of mosquito breeding around premises is the septic tanks and cesspools

AUGUST 20 TENTATIVE DATE FOR OPENING OF BROWN COUNTY FAIR

The Brown County Fair will probably be held on the four days beginning Tuesday, August 20 this year, according to information received from Secretary Hilton Burks, Monday morning. This is but a tentative date, Mr. Burks said, and it will probably not be until Wednesday afternoon that he will know for sure.

A meeting of the directors of the fair association has been called for 2 p. m. Wednesday in the Chamber of Commerce, at which time a representative of the W. H. Hames shows will be present. "We are trying to obtain this carnival company for our fair this year, as it is about the best the southwest affords in this line of entertainment," Mr. Burks said. "These shows were here last year and have added five cars of attractions this year to those they had last. They have been chosen to play at the Fat Stock Show at Port Worth this season."

Mr. Burks spent Friday and Saturday in Dallas with secretaries of fairs from all over Texas. He said that he obtained many valuable ideas for the fair this year from the meetings held.

College Is Endowed With Big Cemetery

TOPEKA, Kas. (AP)—To help Washburn college live after his death, A. B. Whiting, one of its trustees for half a century, bequeathed it a cemetery. The idea providing the school an income from the sale of burial lots came to him in a dream years ago. The college has a 160-acre campus and he proposed to other members of the board of trustees that the "south eighty," a prairie at the time, be set aside for the dead. The board rejected his plan, so he carried it out alone by buying a tract several times as large and creating the Mount Hope cemetery. A substantial income from the sale of lots in Mount Hope is expected for at least 200 years. More than half of it in accordance with Mr. Whiting's will, goes to Washburn college. The balance is shared equally by the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A.

ern outpost of civilization in Kansas territory. He remained active in business until death a few months ago at the age of 93.

Beats Face Lifting
English Paper—From Llandrin-dred you proceed along the lovely valley of the Ithon, growing more beautiful as you proceed.—Boston Transcript

"A BROWNWOOD INSTITUTION"

HELPDY-SELEY

HELPS YOU HELP YOURSELF

to

SAVINGS—

COUNTRY PRODUCE

We are always in the market for your country produce—and anxious to give you the highest price the market allows. We give you more for your produce—Sell your groceries for less

STORE NO. 1, 419 Center Ave. Phone 1845 STORE NO. 2, 1083 Coggin. Phone 1908

52,000

EGG CAPACITY

The Smith Incubator

Largest In The World Built In A Single Unit

Just Installed By

Witcher Produce Company

Now Ready For SERVICE and To Serve The People In Central West Texas With

Custom Hatching

Make Arrangements Now

We have Contracted With Poultrymen To Furnish Us With Eggs From Some Of The Best Flocks In Central Texas—And Will Be Able To Sell You Baby Chicks Of The Best Bred From One Day To Three Weeks Old

Feed Purina Chows

Baby Chick Startina

To Your Baby Chicks,—It Insures Their Health, Promotes Quick Growth And Yields Larger Profits

Let us show you the workings of this wonderful modern hatching machine,—and demonstrate the many advantages in feeding

PURINA CHOWS

Witcher Produce Company

Custom Hatching and Baby Chicks Every Monday and Thursday

Home of Purina Chows Brownwood Texas

Announcing!

THE APPOINTMENT OF

L. E. Hall Music Co.

as Authorized Dealers in Brownwood for

Mason-Hamlin—Knabe—Chickering Pianos

Recognized as the world's greatest instruments — endorsed by the World's greatest musicians.

This dealership practically completes the agency list of nationally known STANDARD BRAND MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS for the

L. E. HALL MUSIC CO.

and is absolute proof that our store is recognized as being among the leading music store in this section of Texas.

Every Article Sold by the

L. E. HALL MUSIC CO.

is an article of highest quality, nationally known and recognized by all music experts and critics. Our prices are the same as quoted everywhere.

Before Buying An Article Of Music

VISIT OUR STORE

PAGE EIGHT PARKED IN
BOUND TO CROSS

J. DISRAELI (DIZZY) DUGAN

SALESMAN SAM

By Small

