

In his baccalaureate address at Muenster High last Sunday night Father John Meyers of the University of Dallas reminded graduates of the privilege they have already enjoyed in tapping fascinating fields of knowledge that were not even available in the school days of their parents and grandparents.

Then he added the all important advice that the foundation so far acquired is only a beginning which will require diligent work and study in order to develop into lives of usefulness before God and man.

This weekend the Enterprise joins in the spirit of Father Meyers' message. As seniors step forward to accept their high school diplomas they can be justifiably proud of having attained an important goal in their lives.

On this day of their arrival we sincerely hope they will enjoy the deep satisfaction they anticipated. For, after all, they have completed a long and tedious task. They deserve the congratulations of family and friends. They have earned the gifts which are presented as mementos of their progress so far.

Much more important, however, is the look into the future. The job completed is small compared to the one that still lies ahead. As the word commencement implies, this event should be regarded as a beginning rather than an end. It is a point at which youngsters step into mature life, taking their places with breadwinners or going on with studies for advanced training which is expected to lead to a fuller life a few years later.

Whatever endeavor a graduate has in mind, he ought to resolve to go on learning, to acquire all the knowledge and skill his ability and circumstance will permit. In his college classroom, on his job or farm, he should be eager for all the knowledge he can absorb, with a view to achieving more, earning more, and above all attaining greater understanding and appreciation of the wonders that were placed here by our all-wise and all-powerful Creator.

We marvel nowadays at the wonderful achievements of science. The progress made by surgery and medicine in curing human ailments and prolonging life. The transmission of sound and picture through the air bringing information to the millions. The use of an atom's awesome power to destroy a city or propel a ship around the world. We have deep respect for the men who pry into nature and bring out these secrets for the benefit of mankind. But we should be far more impressed by the Infinite Wisdom which gave nature these wonders for man's discovery and use.

Therein lies an important goal of education. While relying on modern science as the means to a more abundant life, we should keep aware that science is the unfolding of the Divine Plan and men make a mess of marvels unless they strive to use them as God intended. It's all right to glorify men's progress, but things get out of balance when we fail to appreciate the infinitely greater Glory that made man's progress possible.

The truth of that statement becomes obvious as one looks at the material progress being made by the communists. Great things are being accomplished, but they are being applied for the enslavement of mankind. Paradoxically, civilization has slipped backward while it has gone forward. Human dignity has lost while human progress gained, because progress was not geared to the Divine Will.

As a person considers this problem it is satisfying to realize that individual progress need not be limited by this unfortunate trend. Each

Graduates Urged To Keep Striving For Improvement

A challenge to match the greatness of the American way of life by the greatness of their achievement was the baccalaureate message to Muenster High School graduates Sunday night by The Reverend John F. Meyers of the University of Dallas.

He described the American Constitution and Bill of Rights as offering more incentive to human effort than any other government of the world. Because of it, greatness is enabled to achieve great things, as indicated by the degree of freedom and the high standard of living enjoyed in this country.

Father Meyers then took exception to current criticism of education and stated that today's high school graduates have a more extensive background of knowledge than their parents and grandparents had. To build on that foundation and attain the greatness that will lead to a fuller-life before God and man is the goal he held up to the seniors.

As an added message for Mother's Day, Father Meyers said that the greatest gift is the knowledge that she can be proud of her children.

The baccalaureate service opened with a processional by Bettye Dodds and invocation by the Reverend Don Hockett of the First Baptist Church, Muenster. Superintendent L. B. Bruns introduced the speaker. Added attractions on the program were a trumpet solo "The Holy City," by James Larson, and a vocal solo "How Great Thou Art," by Miss Dodds. The service ended with benediction by the Reverend Hockett and recessional by Miss Dodds.

Fish-O-Ree Set For Scouts, Dads

Muenster Boy Scouts and their dads will be joining Gainesville Boy Scouts and their dads on a Fish-o-Ree this weekend.

The father-son outing will be held at the FFA camp at Lake Texoma. The party will take off from Gainesville at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon and return home sometime Sunday.

Swimming Pool To Open May 28

Muenster's swimming pool will open on Sunday, May 28, members of the city council decided at their meeting Monday night. Management of the place will be shared by George Petrus and Dan Hamric.

Several details of operational procedure have also been decided by the city council. Hours will be from 2 to 9 o'clock and operating personnel are relieved of the job of managing concessions. The reason for that change is to allow more time for actual pool supervision. Candies and soft drinks will be sold only through vending machines.

As before, the pool will be available for private parties. Persons wishing to reserve it are asked to see the management for more information.

Progress Noted In Solution of Hospital Problem

Progress in the solution of Cooke County's hospital problem was indicated Wednesday in a report over the Gainesville radio station and an advertisement in the Gainesville Register reveal plans to purchase Medical and Surgical Hospital by public subscription, enlarging it to meet community needs, and converting it into a non-profit community hospital.

The statement, signed by Johnnie Wilson, F. W. Fischer and F. E. Case, said that the decision was made after consultation with a number of people, including many of the major contributors of the county, and that a group is now at work on the make-up of the governing board.

The statement is encouraging to county residents who opposed the recent hospital bond election on grounds that efforts should be made for a less expensive solution. Expansion and use of M&S Hospital was recommended then, but no definite plans were adopted on details of financing or managing.

At the same time the statement offers encouragement to Muenster's hospital project. As long as the Gainesville hospital problem is unsolved there is danger of passing a tax supported hospital bond issue, which would hamper the progress of Muenster's project. If the proposed solution can be satisfactorily worked out success of a tax supported project is unlikely.

J. M. Weinzapfel, chairman of the Muenster Hospital Authority, said that progress at Gainesville will be helpful to Muenster.

He also said that reports of two small hospitals in recent weeks strengthened his confidence in the soundness of the local endeavor. A 30 bed hospital at Floresville and a 20 bed hospital at Okarche, Okla., are thriving and proving to be outstanding community assets. Those are two more cases, he said, to refute the skeptics who think a hospital cannot get along in a small community with more complete facilities nearby. Both of those towns are small and both are practically in the suburbs of metropolitan centers.

Meeting to Plan Adult Homemaking Class Set May 22

Women of the community who are interested in an adult homemaking course are reminded that Monday, May 22, is the time to let it be known.

Miss Doris Vavra, teacher of home economics at Muenster High, has announced she plans a summer class, the subjects to be featured being the choice of those who attend.

For that reason she would like to know Monday what to expect. A meeting for prospective students is set for 2 p.m. in the homemaking room. If impossible to attend the planning meeting, ladies may phone Miss Vavra at 82-R-1 and discuss the project with her.

Visitors with Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Fuhrman Monday to Wednesday were their son and family, the Bill Fuhrmans, Bobby and Tina, of Fort Worth. They visited here en route to St. Louis, Mo., to spend most of their two-week vacation with her parents and family.

NEWS OF THE SICK

T. L. Anderson has been dismissed from St. Paul's Hospital to continue recovery at his home in Gainesville. He returned Sunday.

Bill Kathman is recovering from eye surgery performed at the VA Hospital in McKinney. He'll continue as a patient for some time.

Wayne Trubenbach is back on his feet after eight long months in a cast following his accident with a motor scooter.

Sister Michael missed classes at Sacred Heart School Wednesday because of injuries received in a playground accident the day before. She was in the line of fire when a youngster failed to hang on to his bat after swinging at a baseball. The bat hit her across the top of her glasses, breaking them and cutting a gash that required three clamps. She was doubly handicapped Wednesday: a sore forehead and poor vision.

Mrs. Henry Walterscheid is back at home, dismissed from doctor's care six weeks after having eye surgery at the Sanitarium. She spent five weeks following her stay in the hospital with Mrs. Lena Bernauer.

Mrs. Joe Swirczynski reported on mission work. She sent 200 pounds of clothing to St. Vincent's Store in Fort Worth, a box of dresses to the Girls' School in Gainesville and a box of eye glasses to Eyes for the Needy.

Father Alcuin, court's chaplain, attended the meeting and favored the assemblage with a short talk. He suggested that members receive Communion in a body on their Communion Sunday and recommended a mass a month for the living and deceased members.

Plans Shaping up For Homecoming Festival July 4

Members of Sacred Heart Parish have received letters from their pastor, the Rev. Alcuin Kubis, announcing the date and plans for Muenster's first homecoming celebration.

The event which is destined to become an annual one, is set for July Fourth, featuring a community picnic, dinner and dance.

Former residents are being invited to attend along with all from far and near who will come to join in the festivities.

Twenty-seven working committees with chairmen are listed on the homecoming lineup for that many events, concessions and entertainment features. Overall general chairmen are Dan Haverkamp and Ed Endres.

Nobody needs an invitation, it is pointed out, but stacks of them will be mailed to former Muensterites who have moved elsewhere telling them to return for the Fourth of July Homecoming and old settlers' reunion.

Eleven Graduate From 8th Grade At Public School

Eighth graders of Muenster Public School at their graduation Wednesday night were urged to apply themselves well in order to get more enjoyment from the great era that lies before them as well as to live more comfortable lives.

Work Begins on Pavement Project

The city's 1961 paving project is underway. First equipment to arrive on the job was a water sprinkler which got to work Wednesday and other operations will follow promptly. The contractor is H. M. Scott and Son of Denison.

Work consists of soaking, shaping and packing the gravel base then applying a two course surface of asphalt and crushed rock.

The contract calls for seven blocks of full width new pavement . . . six blocks of Walnut Street from the highway to Sixth and one block on Fifth between Walnut and Pecan. Besides there will be extensive renovating on other streets. Pecan from highway to Sixth will have broken edges repaired to original width and all will then receive a new 1-course surface. Similar treatment is planned for three blocks of South Hickory.

Base repair and re-surfacing are planned for Seventh east of Main. On Sixth, fronting the cemetery and Sacred Heart football field, pavement will be widened to tie with recently completed curbing. The same will be done on Fourth at Joe Horn's and Earl Fisher's.

5-Foot Rattler

A rattlesnake that rates with the whoppers of these parts meet sudden death Wednesday on the Johnson lease north of town.

Norris Kinsey spotted it crossing the road in front of his pickup and advanced with a .22 rifle while the snake coiled and rattled its defiance. One shot through the head was enough.

It was over five feet long and the unbroken portion of its rattler had ten rattles.

Students to Have Easy Day Friday

The last two school days are a cinch for students at both Muenster schools. Practically the year ended Wednesday.

Thursday the kids are having a holiday while teachers mark report cards, check in textbooks and other year-end jobs. Friday buses run an hour late and the youngsters will have about an hour in school, mostly to accept their report cards. They'll be back home by noon.

The service will consist of mass, by Father Bruno Fuhrmann and the sermon and presentation of diplomas by Abbot Michael to 22 High school graduates and 45 elementary graduates.

Playground Will Be Used Sundays As Parking Lot

More parking space at Sacred Heart Church will result from changes now in progress at the front of the parochial school. The playground area there is being converted into a parking lot.

The space will provide room for two rows of diagonal parking which will accommodate 30 to 40 cars. An entrance was made at the west side of the lot by knocking down the back of the curb and hauling in a gravel base for the driveway. The gravel will be surfaced with asphalt and crushed rock. Diagonal white stripes, also to be added, will be helpful for orderly parking. Exit for the lot is the driveway now serving the school area.

The parking arrangement will not interfere with the area's use as a playground. Cars will use it only on Sundays and holidays.

REPEALING INCOME TAX IS PRACTICAL AND POSSIBLE

The Waukegan News-Sun, in an editorial on April 12th, said that before any one became too attached to the soothing words that the Income Tax law can be repealed should be jolted back to reality with a few fiscal facts.

The editorial then gives the standardized statistics which are supposed to prove that it can't be done. It's understandable how the public could have been brainwashed, but it's unusual for an astute editorial writer, who's been around a newspaper long enough to know hogwash the minute he sees it, to accept this tax spenders' hokum.

If the United States Government gave up operating 3,036 different tax free business enterprises, which compete with tax paying American business firms, it would save 19 billion dollars in operating losses, amounting to one half the income tax receipts. If no more was accomplished, this would be a worthwhile saving.

If the 4 billion dollars now given to foreign countries to build highways, airports, shipping canals, power plants and manufacturing facilities to compete with U. S. industry and to take jobs from American workers were eliminated, another slice could be taken off the income tax.

Another 5 billion dollars, unconstitutionally used as grants to states, could be eliminated by the sale of these government operated tax free industries and the states would get the 5 billion and 3 billion more by taxing these, then privately owned industries.

If those 3,036 government operated, tax free industries, which have a book value of 250 billion dollars, were sold to private industry, the federal debt could be wiped out and about 7 billion more in interest could be saved and the U. S. dollar would be worth a dollar.

Then, if the government saved the 6 billion it pays people for not working and for not producing crops, the savings would mount up to 41 billion dollars — three billion more than the income tax amounts to.

The income Tax can be repealed and the nation would be 3 billion dollars better off, and the federal debt would be paid. If we didn't go on all the way, the tax could be reduced to a reasonable 7 or 8 percent of income over $12,000.00 a year.

Certainly no tax can be repealed if the government continues to spend without let up. But if government will become more responsive to the people and more practical in its spending, the income tax can and should be repealed.

Had the Waukegan News-Sun said, "To be practical it likely WILL not be repealed," we would agree. But to infer that it CAN not, causes us to respectfully disagree.

BIRCH SOCIETY WELCOMES PROBE

Of the much that has been said — and is being said — about the John Birch Society, one FACT stands out clearly for all to see; and it should answer the canard of base comparisons: The organization does not shun official investigation. And pertinent to that, not one of its witnesses would take refuge behind the Fifth Amendment.

How many of its loudest detractors can say as much? It may have attracted a few crackpots — or extremists whose eager-beaver excesses bespeak more zeal than knowledge. But by and large its membership, as judged by its local patrons substantially, are men of responsible patriotic stature — dedicated to the security and welfare of their country.

The Banner certainly does not regard Robert Welch as a 100-proof pathfinder through the wilderness of ideological thicket and subversive undergrowth. His blunderbuss treatment of an assignment warranting intelligent direction was at his own personal expense in public confidence and respect. That does not, however, damn the motives of those Americans who are working through this society at the local level everywhere to combat both ignorance and apathy on the Communist menace. These are men who are not ashamed of their faith in the elementary concepts of Americanism. They do not hide that faith. They stand up to be counted.

The "SECRET SOCIETY" tag pinned on it by virulent critics is an obvious and calculated misnomer — a slur suggestive of individual and group secretiveness, concealing activities behind a curtain or mask or bedsheet. Nothing could be further from the truth. There is nothing "secret" about it. Most of its membership is known, and they haven't declined to speak out, or let their identity be known locally. It is in that significant particular — for differentiation between "secret" outfits and their opposite unlike some union organizations; and vastly different from the NAACP, which hasn't turned loose its membership lists and has, in fact, taken the matter to court to prevent such disclosure when state laws were enacted requiring it.

It is more than a coincidence that the most violent harangues against the John Birch Society — accusing it of sinister aims — stem from the same elements that have assailed in the same way the House Committee on Un-American Activities and the FBI. The fact of the matter is that any organization going to the mat with subversion becomes automatically the target of smear and cataclysm by the fraternity of pinks, punks and pukers.

With all the propensities of mischief, and worse, ascribed to Welch by his critics, it cannot be said that he hides the society behind any curtain of secrecy, or shuns official interrogation. He has invited yea DEMANDED, the inquiry proposed in California. America has nothing to fear from organizations operating in the light of day, existing as a citizens' corps in open defense of its cherished institutions, and composed in its ranks of men known and respected in their communities. It is well to view with suspicion, on the other hand, cults that DEFY investigation by such agencies as the House Committee on Un-American Activities and the Federal Bureau of Investigation—and invoke the Fifth Amendment when put in the witness chair.

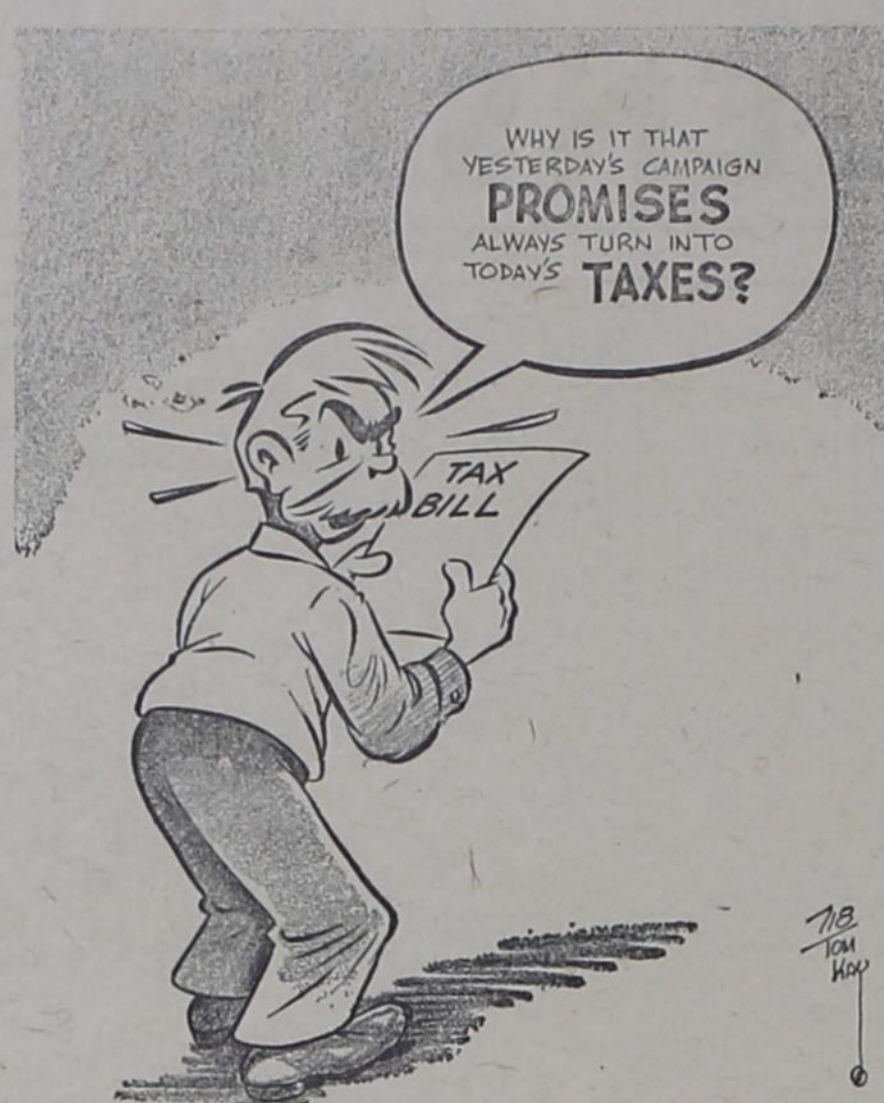

Peculiar, isn't it, that it's the former that draws all this heat lightning and indignation thunder.

The observer of this phenomenon can draw his own conclusions.

Adventures in ADVERTISING

THE FANTASTIC STORY of MUSA-SHIYA THE SHIRTMAKER

(Also Sometimes Drygoods Selling)

If the shipping department of a factory had not made an error, the world would never have known of Musa-shiya the Shirtmaker and the most astounding advertising campaign in history would never have been launched.

Following World War I an English textile factory was getting back on a peacetime basis. In error it sent a full five year backorder of shirting material to Musa-shiya, a Japanese shirtmaker who operated a small shop in Honolulu. Business was poor and Musa-shiya was near bankruptcy, when the customs office informed him that certain bales of cloth and a fat bill for duties awaited his pleasure at the port of Honolulu.

When the little shirtmaker realized what had descended upon him, he asked for time and went into the silence for purpose of mental refreshment. Remembering a friend in a big mercantile establishment, he hid himself there and sought counsel. How in the name of the horned prophet of evil was he ever to get rid of all that English shirting? And in the meantime where was he to put it? His little box of a shop wouldn't hold one bale.

"You'll have to advertise," advised his friend. "Leave it to me. I'll have our advertising agents help you out."

This merely compounded the little Japanese shirtmaker's troubles. Advertising to him was an uncharted sea. The advertising agent called on Musa-shiya and suggested $300 as a modest starter. "Too-o-o much. Maybe I think thirty dollar plenty," said the shirtmaker. He was told that wouldn't even get him in print. The agent explained the costs of various advertisements and finally Musa-shiya agreed to try the plan and what was destined to be the most astounding and far reaching campaign in the history of advertising was launched.

Two column by five inch ads then started appearing regularly in the Saturday Honolulu Star-Bulletin. The ads were written just the way Musa-shiya talked—in colorful pidgen English which is used throughout the Orient. Here is an example of one of Musa-shiya's ads:

"Well here come storek again—but Musa-shiya, the shirtmaker, is able prepare. Wonderful accumulation of baby things in dry goods selling corner of Musa shop. Everything for the baby—especially diaper. Exclusive of storek, which find most easily, many persons not finding little shop of Musa-shiya the shirtmaker in King Street, Makai side, between fish market and river."

Tourists started sending copies of Musa-shiya's ads to their friends in many countries. Soon Musa-shiya was receiving orders from all over the world as well as doing a thriving business in Hawaii.

And that is the story of how a well planned, small advertising campaign made an unknown Japanese shirtmaker not only wealthy but world famous.

Your local newspaper doesn't promise to duplicate this story for its advertisers, but it does take your sales message into the homes of your customers where full and careful consideration is given your suggestions. Who knows, perhaps you too can be a Musa-shiya.

SHH Mission Club Closes Year With Chalice Donation

Sacred Heart School's 20-year-old Mission Club reached new heights this year with the purchase of a chalice for the Catholic Near East Welfare Association headed by Francis Cardinal Spellman. High School students saved and collected over two hundred dollars during the term. Idea of the Mission Club in addition to the untold benefits it provides for needy missions is to encourage methodical savings. The donation of five cents a week is an excellent little test of character, says Mission Moderator Sister Theresina. Teenagers are trained to stick to something they begin. All interested in the education of youth should therefore look upon this incidental training with favor, the Mission Moderator feels.

And it is noteworthy how the experiment turns out. About 13 per cent came through successfully, these are the ones who gave their weekly nickel and of these about nine per cent gave more than the minimum. The remaining 78 per cent did not reach the goal. Some came very close, others lagged far behind. Some did not start at all. The Mission Moderator emphasized that there is no obligation whatever involved, only the principle of giving and saving methodically — doing without a candy bar a week or denying oneself of a soft drink once a week — a valuable asset for both time and eternity.

Each year the student contributing the most to the mission fund receives a life membership in the Society for the Propagation of Faith. The honor this year goes to Margie Knabe who led the Mission Unit of Sacred Heart High by contributing over five dollars.

In addition to high school students' donations, mission-minded elementary students annually contribute their nickles to purchase Pagan babies, they also sell Christmas seals by the thousands and carry on other projects.

These youngsters learn that "Work for the Missions," as quoted by a recent Pope "exceeds all other works of charity as heaven exceeds earth and eternity exceeds time."

one's education is his own affair, and each one has the opportunity to steer his own course in harmony with the Divine plan.

Inherent in that is one of the great comforts of Christianity. Even though one may not be destined to do things which command widespread temporal notice, he has the opportunity to merit eternal notice. Meanwhile his life can be wonderfully enriched by an awareness of the infinite wisdom and goodness behind the wonders which challenge our human efforts.

Cosmetics, Soap Among Products of SH High Chemists

Chemistry lab at Sacred Heart High turned into a perfumed factory of cosmetics as students manufactured cold cream, fingernail polish and remover. This was an exciting experiment topping a highly interesting and enthusiastic year of chemistry for students who are taught by Sister Theresina.

Reporting on the cold cream, the class related that it was among the finest that could be manufactured — smooth, pure and white, Beeswax, paraffin, amyl acetate, and ester which had to be prepared by the chemists, and a solution of borax did the trick. Jane Endres and Betty Dangelmayr suggested a French name for the product and labeled it creme blanche.

The fingernail polish aside from its off-color was a huge success. Loretta Schmitt and Kathleen McGannon named it "Logwood" because an extract of organic dye of logwood actually was one of the ingredients. And the remover worked perfectly. Patsy Endres thought "Shepard" remover a suitable name, after the first successful astronaut of America. Thomas Vogel, ever serene throughout the most exciting experiments, proved himself most helpful in the manufacturing process.

Speaking of a highly perfumed laboratory, the students recalled memories of a different type. Earlier, the chemistry class moved its headquarters to the Tiger football field grandstand to prepare an experiment with a gas hydrogen sulfide, beautiful colors resulting from the tests for the ions of various metallic elements.

Preparation of soap (sodium potassium) proved to be another successful experiment recently. Finer, and smoother and better lathering soap could not be found the students reported. But when it came to looks and odor, the chemists yielded to other brands.

And so they could keep on and on telling of the wonders of chemistry the class members said. A life time experience and memory for the students who studied long and hard to master this science at high school level, and a credit to the teacher whose skill and understanding and patience saw them through the course.
