Mrs. Brittain and her young son were trapped on an upstairs sleeping porch at the front of the building and despite frantic efforts to rescue them, the two were overcome by smoke and were left to face death as the huge two story building was consumed by the fire that had almost engulfed it before being noticed.

Local firemen kept a steady stream of water playing on the part of the building where the mother and her young son were and as soon as it was at all possible a search for the bodies of the two was begun and they were immediately found where people was a total possible a search for the bodies of the two was begun and they work which Mr. Hennen was to be-Hear Frantic Appeals for Help were immediately found where neighbors had last heard their frantic gin Wednesday were discussed.

Mrs. Brittain was burned worse than the son, it being impossible to distinguish the features of her face, the charred remains being nothing more than a skeleton, blackened by the intense heat that snuffed out her life as well as that of her small son, and then all but consumed their bodies.

As the bodies were dug from beneath the ruins of the place that had been their home for several weeks, they were placed on a stretcher and taken to the McInnins Funeral Home where they remained throughout Friday, pending the completion of funeral arrangements. Mrs. Earl Bennett, who with her husband and small child, occupied the down stairs part of the building, was awakened by the screams of Mrs. Brittain but the fire had spread to all parts of the louse when Mrs.

Girl Flame Victim Goes Home After 2 Years in Hospital

VIOLA MEYERS, the eight-V year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Meyers of the city, was taken to her parents apartment Wednesday after having been in local hospital for almost two years. Viola was seriously burn-ed about her body in October, 1926, and since that time has been under constant supervision

Numerous attempts have been made to graft flesh onto her flame seared body but none of these have been successful. Through all her suffering Viola has made a model patient and despite that she has been made an invalid she has always had pleasant remarks to make to nurses and others who pass her room in the hospital. Attendants are of the opinion that a change will be good for the little girl and if not, she will be returned to the hospital.

"The grounds upon which my view of the situation is based are as follows:

"The Democratic state executive committee yesterday changed the rules in the middle of the game. For quarter of a century the law of Texas, and the Democratic practice has provided, as it still provides, a qualified voter taking statutory pledge can vote in a Democratic primary election for state and local officers without pledging himself to support the Democratic presidential nominee. This law passed in the legislature of 1907 was designated to permit those un-willing to support Democratic presidential candidates to vote in Demo-cratic primaries for state and local officers, as E. "Under this decision there can be no assurance as to the number of counties in which my name will be left off the official ballot in the run-off primary.

"It is true that the attorney general has held that a voter may lawfully write in my name where it is not printed on the ballet, but I am advised by a number of voters who wrote in my name in the first primary that their votes were not ounted.
