Vows Exchanged By Dolores Henscheid And Herbert Miller

Miss Dolores Henscheid and Herbert Miller exchanged marriage vows Monday morning in services performed in Sacred Heart church at 8:30. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Henscheid and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Miller.

Rev. Andrew Wewer performed the double ring ceremony and officiated at the nuptial high mass.

The church choir, directed by Leo Henscheid, uncle of the bride, sang the mass "Missa Tertia". Anthony Luke, organist, played the accompaniment. He also presented the processional and recessional.

A profusion of pink carnations and Boston ferns adorned the altar before which the couple recited their marriage vows.

Escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a gown of ivory bridal satin. The tiny nipped-in waist was topped with a marquise yoke outlined with Chantilly lace embroidered with seed pearls, and the very full skirt, extending into a train, was worn over a hooped taffeta underskirt ending with multiple rows of lace ruffles. The long sleeves were fitted and terminated in points over her hands, and her finger-tip length veil fell from a queen's crown of seed pearls. She carried an arm bouquet of white Calla lilies, and a pearl rosary, borrowed from her sister, Mrs. Carl Schilling. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, a gift from the bridegroom.

Miss Regina Henscheid, sister of the bride, and Miss Barbara Jean Miller, sister of the groom, attended the bride as maid of honor and bridesmaid. They wore identical bouffant ruffled dresses of blue organdy over hooped taffeta petticoats. The dresses were designed with wide bertha collars and modified bustle backs. Open-crown blue organdy picture hats and full length matching gloves completed their costumes and they carried blue satin hoops with blue carnations.

Flower girls were tiny Dianne Endres and Sharon Yosten, nieces of the bride and groom, whose costumes in pink organdy duplicated those worn by the maid of honor and bridesmaid. They carried white baskets of daisies.

The groom's attendants were Eugene Derichsweller of Denison, his cousin, as best man, and Thomas Felderhoff. Rufus Henscheid and Leonard Walterscheid were ushers.

Acolytes for the mass were the bride's young brother, Ervin Henscheid, and her cousins, Jerry Henscheid, Paul and Tommy Hesse and Meinrad Yosten.

The bride's mother wore a beige and brown ensemble and a corsage of pink carnations and the groom's mother wore navy with a white carnation corsage.

Immediately following the church rites Mr. and Mrs. Henscheid entertained with a brunch in their home for about 40 guests. The bride's table was covered with a lace cloth and was laid with blue crystal. Carnations and fern decorated the home.

At 3 o'clock an informal reception began in the Henscheid home and at 6 a buffet supper was served in the parish hall to some 150 guests. The hall was decorated with pink and white carnations, bridal wreath and fern. The tables, arranged in U-shape held arrangements of bluebonnets, pink and white carnations and snapdragons. The huge wedding cake was flanked with tapers and encircled with smilax. Miss Betty Jean Fleitman presided at the guest book. A dance in the K of C hall was the concluding feature of the day's festivities.

During the dance Mr. and Mrs. Miller left on a wedding trip. For traveling the bride wore a lime green two-piece suit with Spectator shoes and bag, a small white straw hat with brown veiling and a pink carnation corsage. When they return they will be at home on North Main street.

WASHINGTON NEWSLETTER

By ED GOSSETT

WASHINGTON, D. C., Apr. 22.—We got our Tidelands bill out of the Judiciary Committee this week by a vote of 16 to 10. Texans may grow tired of hearing and reading about the Tidelands controversy. However, it is a fundamentally important issue. Not only does it involve many millions of dollars of revenue for the State of Texas but more importantly involves a principle of government. If the Federal Government can take our so-called Tidelands without compensation, then the Federal Government can take anything that belongs to a State or an individual without compensation. Sooner or later Congress must decide the Tidelands controversy. There is only one way in which to decide the issue and that is in behalf of the States. I am confident that sooner or later Congress will pass a law that will reaffirm State ownership of everything within the original boundaries of the States. It has been my responsibility to put together the bill which the Judiciary Committee has now reported and I am further charged with the responsibility of writing the Committee Report. When a Committee reports a bill to the House it always accompanies such bill with a written statement of its terms and objectives and the reasons for the Committee action. My report on this bill will be a treatise of about 100 pages, outlining the controversy, the issues, and the reasons why the Congress should act favorably upon the bill.

The repercussions to the President's veto of the gas bill, generally referred to as the Kerr bill, is still reverberating around the Capitol corridors. The issues involved in this bill have been grossly misrepresented by the columnists of the country, notably by Mr. Drew Pearson. The President vetoed this bill because of pressure stirred up by false propaganda. Some members of Congress from the North and East are being lambasted because they supported this bill. All Texas members voted for the bill. All of us are unequivocally opposed to monopolies, but this bill had nothing to do with this issue. The issue was whether or not the Federal Power Commission can go into a State and regulate production and prices of gas in the field. It's another case of bureaucracy versus States' rights and free enterprise. The Federal Power Commission was created by Congress and given the power to regulate interstate traffic in gas, i. e., interstate pipe lines. They were not given the power to go into a State and fix the price of gas at the well. Federal bureaus and Federal administrators are always attempting to exceed the authority given them through the laws which Congress has passed. One of our big problems in government is to keep government from becoming more powerful than the people to whom it belongs—to keep government from abusing powers delegated to it. Government officials are the servants of the people and should never become tyrants or dictators in violation of the authority and responsibility imposed in them.

Senator George, (Democrat of Georgia) distinguished Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee and also of the Joint Committee of the House and Senate on Internal Revenue and Taxation, has made an ominous prediction. Senator George states that our government will run 14 billion dollars further into debt during the next two fiscal years. He states that revenues will fall short this year by 6.7 billions and next year by 7.3 billions. No one knows just what evil may flow from our continued deficit financing. However, all of us recognize the perils involved in such procedure.

The Mayor of New York City has invited Members of Congress and their families to visit New York on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, April 28, 29 and 30. The schedule of events for the entertainment of Congressmen and their families include—a sight-seeing tour of New York, boat trip around Long Island Sound, Hell Gate Rapids and New York Harbor, Statue of Liberty, Ellis Island, Maritime Academy at Kings Point, Coney Island, Jones Beach, United Nations at Lake Success, Radio City and Rockefeller Center, International Airport, the "Line-Up" at Metropolitan Police Headquarters, tickets for Radio and TV stage shows, and a personal welcome by Mayor O'Dwyer at New York City Hall.

These trips were annual affairs before the war and have become annual affairs since the war. So far, Mrs. Gossett and I have not been able to go and we have been forced to decline the proffered hospitality of the New Yorkers this year.

The American Way

PUT OUT THE FIRE

By DeWitt Emery

We are indebted to James A. Farley—who not too long ago was one of the biggest of the big wheels in the New Deal but who got out when he saw where Roosevelt was headed—for taking President Truman's formula and doing a little figuring on his own.

Recently Mr. Truman stated that by the year 2000, based on a projection of the growth of the past 50 years, this country would have a national income of a trillion dollars—that's one thousand times a billion—and every worker would be making at least $12,000 per year.

Mr. Farley felt that Mr. Truman should have applied his projection to at least two other items, the cost of government and the number of people working for the Federal Government.

He contends, I think rightly so, that based on the record of the past 50 years, Federal spending and employment are both likely to increase at a much faster rate than national income. However, disregarding the possibility of a faster rate of increase, Mr. Farley found that, "If we take the cost of Government for 1900 and compare it with the cost of Government for 1950 and then figure the same rate of increase for the next 50 years, our Government (in the year 2000) would cost six trillion dollars, or six times as much as the whole national income."

"On the same basis we would have working for the Federal Government (in the year 2000) 20 million men and women. The lesson of these simple figures," Mr. Farley added, "is that unless we find some way to reduce the cost of Government it will soon grow so great as to consume not only everything we all earn but everything we have all saved, everything that we call pro-

THE LOW-DOWN FROM HICKORY GROVE

"We can do more fool things in this land of the free, than anybody in his right mind could conjure up. What we really need is an iron curtain. We are so busy helping out—north pole to south pole—that our own home perty which is owned by all of us."

Mr. Farley is 100% right. Federal spending must be drastically reduced and we are about out of time. The budget for fiscal '51, starting next July 1, is our last chance. If Congress appropriates the 42.4 billions Mr. Truman asked for, then in my judgment we'll go on to larger and still larger budgets year by year with bigger and bigger deficits until the inevitable national collapse which will bankrupt you, me and everyone in the country.

One sure way to put out a fire is to shut off the fuel which feeds the flames. This is the only way in which the big spending conflagration now raging out of control in Washington can be handled; the fuel—tax money—must be shut off or cut down to a reasonable flow.

We know from the '51 budget that the Administration proposes to accelerate the pace of its headlong rush toward state socialism and national bankruptcy, so there won't be any help from that quarter on putting out or controlling the fire.

We also know from the action taken on previous big-spending, grossly excessive budgets that if Congress is left to itself the budget for '51 will be approved just about as presented.

This brings it right back to us, Mr. and Mrs. America. If we speak up, if enough of us let our representatives in Congress know that we want the budget cut by let's say 15%, it will be cut, that's for sure. Senator Byrd of Virginia, who knows more about Federal spending than anyone else in the country, says that the budget for '51 can be cut six billion dollars without interfering in any way with any of the essential functions or services of the Federal Government. It's up to you personally and individually, yes, I mean you, and time definitely is running out.

As we go all-out to quarantine communism, we hardly notice the same disease creeping in upon us. It is in a milder form—it is socialism, the early symptom of what is next. And that is where the iron curtain comes in. With less foreign gab to bother us we could center our view on what is cooking all about us—give us time to pry into how come our Govt. could spend 40 billion a year—unless there was something in our own wood pile. Forty billion is 1000 bucks for every family.

We been kept so mentally occupied via big phrases that we have not seen socialism sneak-in' in under the tent. And furthermore who gives a hoot about socialism so long as it is the other guys worry. Take a barber in Keokuk, why should he bother, he says, if socialism barges in at the powerhouse away off some place like Texas. Well brother, take a glance at the barbers in merry old England. The hair tonic business there has folded. Why bother with tonics as the Govt. there, stands poised and ready with a wig to cover the shining dome. Who else figures socialism is not his worry?

Yours with the low down,
Jo Serra

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

His Punch is His Signature

Was on the train up to Central City the other day and when the conductor came around, I asked him why their ticket punches make such odd-shaped holes in the ticket.

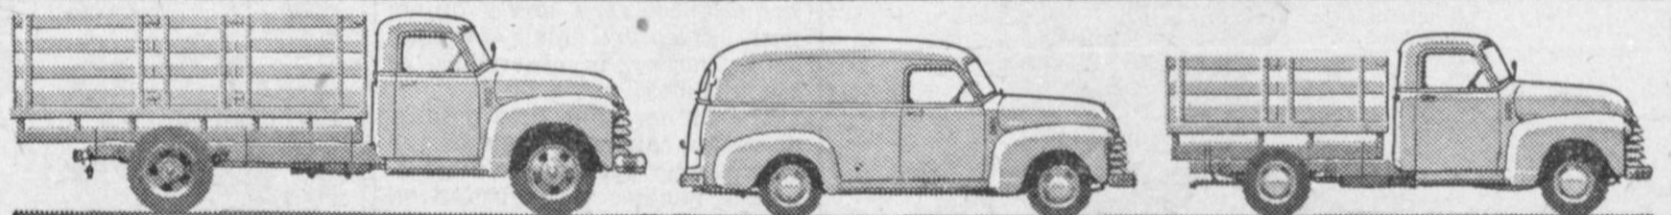

"Every conductor in the country has a different design for his punch," he tells me. "Some even show up a fellow's preferences. Now take mine. The hole it makes looks like a beer goblet."

Sure enough! Then he went on to say that the punch is just like the conductor's signature. Makes it easy to trace tickets... to check up if something happens.

From where I sit, even though your ticket is punched differently from mine, it still gets you where you're going. Just like people with their opinions. You might like coffee, another person, tea—and I'll settle for a temperate glass of beer. But what does it matter, so long as we respect the right of the other to have tastes and opinions? We're all trying to go in the same direction — towards a friendlier, more pleasant world for all of us.

2-Ring Rite Unites Dolores Walter and Bernard Swirczynski

Miss Dolores Walter became the bride of Bernard Swirczynski Wednesday morning in Sacred Heart church at 8:30, with Rev. Anthony Schroeder, pastor, officiating at the nuptial high mass and at the double ring ceremony.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Al Walter, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Joe Swirczynski.

Anthony Luke, organist, played the pre-nuptial music and the traditional wedding marches and remained at the organ to accompany the church choir in singing the mass.

Yellow iris and greenery adorned the altar and baskets of yellow and purple iris and greenery held vantage spots at the entrance into the sanctuary.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, presented a pretty picture in a ballerina length dress of white organdy over taffeta designed with moulded waist and full, hooped skirt with a scalloped hem. Her finger-tip length veil was borrowed from her aunt, Mrs. Albert Danglmayr, who wore it at her wedding. It fell in tiers from a tiara. The bride's only jewelry was a pearl necklace, a gift from the groom, and she carried her flowers, baby orchids and split carnations, on a white prayer book.

Tony Yosten, cousin of the groom, was best man. Herbie Herr and Rody Klement were ushers.

Mothers of the couple accented their costumes with corsages of yellow roses, and the bride's two grandmothers, Mrs. John Walter and Mrs. John Hartman, wore white carnation corsages.

After the services, the bride's aunts, Mmes. Arthur Endres and Albert Danglmayr, were hostesses for a wedding breakfast in the Endres home for the bridal party and pastors.

At 4:30 the bride's parents received guests in their home for an informal reception followed by a buffet supper for about 100 relatives and friends of the couple. Yellow iris and greenery decorated the home and yellow roses adorned the bride's table which held the decorated wedding cake, flanked with tapers. Mary Anne Bauer of Gainesville presided at the bride's book. A dance in the K of C hall brought the day's celebration to a close.

During the dance the newlyweds left by car on a wedding trip. The bride wore a lime green ensemble with dark green accessories and an orchid corsage. When they return they will make their home here in the southeast part of the city.

Mrs. Swirczynski attended Sacred Heart grade school and graduated from St. Mary's High school in Gainesville with the class of 1947. Women's Ball Game Set For May Third

Members of the Muenster Catholic Daughters of America court will have an all-women's softball game at the local diamond next Wednesday night, May 3, at 8 p.m.

Plans for the benefit game were announced at the business meeting of the organization Friday night. Mrs. Paul Fisher is chairman and is completing plans for the event.

Total shipments amounted to 550 pounds. Mrs. Joe Hoenig asked that persons who send person-to-person packages direct or through war relief agencies to overseas relatives and friends notify her so the local NCCW chapter will receive credit for this welfare work at the next district meeting.

Welfare State Gulls

On a craggy island in Penobscot Bay off the coast of Maine, there once lived a thriving colony of sea gulls. They were of the full-throated Herring gull and Laughing gull families and whenever the whole colony rejoiced over an unusually good catch of fish or insects their screaming cacophony could be heard almost to inland Augusta. They were powerful flyers and intelligent, industrious fishers. There wasn't a scrawny, hungry gull in the multitude.

Their flights to sea as they went searching for schools of fish were beautiful to behold. Their sleek silver-gray backs and the smooth snow-white belly feathers glistened in the bright sunlight reflected off the ocean's surface. And upon returning to Penobscot with fish-in-beak, their proud wheelings and turnings and glides were masterpieces of aerodynamic art. It was a great day indeed for any baby sea gull lucky enough to be hatched in the Penobscot colony. No prouder, happier family of gulls graced the Atlantic coast.

Fishing Came Natural

The young hatched out a grayish-brown, able to walk and with the instinct for flying and fishing strong within them. For a few weeks parents fed their down-covered babies. But very soon the fledglings were encouraged to hop off rocks and test their gliding equipment. Flying then came quickly. The biggest thrill for the young gulls was the first carefully chaperoned trip to sea for fishing. There the instinct took over.

The young gulls were natural fishers. And they early developed a sturdy self-reliance. If the fish weren't running, young and old flew far inland to search out and feed upon hordes of insects such as grasshoppers or even worms. The greatest event of a young adult Penobscot gull's life, however, was the rugged migratory flight to Florida which the colony conducted each fall.

The "Free" Lunch

One raw November as the Penobscoters were heading for the extreme southern Florida Keys a squall set them down on Conch Island, a stone's throw off the water front at St. Augustine. They were properly welcomed by masses of Southern gulls. The next morning the Penobscoters waited anxiously for their Southern hosts to guide them toward the fishing grounds. But the fat, Conch Island gulls just sat around as dawn brightened with the rising sun.

Promptly at 9:15 a.m., the Conch Islanders, somewhat slow and lazy in flight, led the way. But not to the fishing grounds. They flew 100 yards across the waterfront to the shrimp wharf. There, lined up busily cleaning yesterday's catch, were nearly one hundred shrimp fishing vessels. And in the early morning sunlight the water already had begun to be flecked with tiny dead fish and shrimp scraps. For the Penobscoters this was almost too good to be true. But it was a reality—food without effort.

Gulls Without Gull Instinct

Thousands of Penobscots did not fly back North the following April as was the custom. They were too fat and too satisfied with life on Conch Island. They hadn't had to bother with fishing or hunting a single day. Always the shrimp fleet was at the wharf, or would be there shortly, with its free, any-time-a-day lunch. The fleet and the gulls stayed on. The gulls got fatter and lazier. But one day last March they flew over for breakfast and found no ships. They flew back to Conch Island and sat waiting, eyes toward the sea. They sat waiting all day, necks pulled in, one foot retracted. They got awfully hungry.

Five days and nights passed and they began screaming. The fleet hadn't returned. They were starving. They sat at the water's edge in long rows, helpless, bewildered, staring out to sea, screaming their hungry pangs. St. Augustine people heard them and investigated. They found the shrimp fleet had gone forever. They found the gulls dying because their ability to fish and hunt was extinct. Ornithologists were astonished. The free shrimp lunches, provided month after month, had destroyed the gulls' natural ability to find food for survival. They were not sea gulls now; they were mere creatures. The moral: A Welfare State, for gull or man, always first destroys the priceless attribute of self-reliance.

A man who is always growling must lead a dog's life.

FEATHER-BEDDING!

LEADERS of the Firemen's union have called a nationwide strike starting with four great railroads on April 26. These railroads are the New York Central, Pennsylvania, Santa Fe, and Southern.

The union claim that a second fireman is needed on grounds of safety is sheer hypocrisy. Safety has been dragged into this dispute only in an unsuccessful effort to give a cloak of respectability to vicious feather-bedding demands.

After a careful study of the first demands of this union, a Presidential Fact Finding Board on May 21, 1943, reported to President Roosevelt that there was no need for an extra fireman on diesel locomotives.

Again, on September 19, 1949, after a second hearing on the union leaders' demands, a second Board reported to President Truman that: "there presently exists no need for an additional fireman... upon either the ground of safety or that of efficiency and economy of operation."

Safety Record of Diesels is Outstandingly Good

Although the railroads accepted the Board findings, the union leaders have brazenly rejected them. They represent that an extra fireman is needed for "safety" reasons. Here's what the Board had to say on that point:

"The safety and on-time performance of diesel electric locomotives operated under current rules have been notably good..."

"Upon careful analysis of the data submitted on safety, we have concluded that no valid reasons have been shown as a support for the Brotherhood proposal under which a fireman would be required to be at all times continuously in the cab of road diesels. The proposal must be rejected."

The real reason behind these demands is that the union leaders are trying to make jobs where there is no work. In other words, a plain case of "feather-bedding."

The railroads have no intention of yielding to these wasteful make-work demands.

"The Safety Record of Diesels is Outstandingly Good..."

PRESIDENTIAL FACT FINDING BOARD REPORT
Read these excerpts from official reports of Presidential Fact Finding Boards:

"The safety record of Diesels is outstandingly good, and it follows that the safety rules now applicable have produced good results."

"The safety and on-time performance of Diesel-electric locomotives operated under current rules indicate that Diesel-electric operation has been safer than steam locomotive operation..."

Remember! These are not statements of the railroads. They are just a few of the many similar conclusions reached by President Truman's Fact Finding Board which spent months investigating the claims of the union leaders.

The rains of last week revived the peoples' hopes and spirits, it revived the crops and vegetation in general and it revived operation "Waterway", which had been stalled by insufficient moisture.

Some of the cooperators of the Upper Elm-Red Soil Conservation District started waterway operations this week with the sodding of bermuda on areas designed to handle terrace outlet water safely. These waterways must be established to a good cover of grass before terraces can be constructed to protect cultivated land from erosion.

W. H. Endres of Muenster is sodding a waterway with the District's sprigging machine. The machine, a two-row, self feeding bermuda grass sprigger, was purchased by the Upper Elm-Red District for use on co-operators' farm in the Muenster work unit area.

Joe Hoenig and J.W. Fleitman of Muenster and Ike Fulton of Myra were waiting for the rains to condition the prepared seedbeds of their waterways and are going ahead with the sodding of the waterways this week.

Felix Becker and Joe Mages of Muenster are busy constructing fences around their waterways so they can allow their cattle to graze them. All areas sodded to bermuda grass should be grazed or mowed frequently to keep down competition and shading from Johnson grass and weeds.

J.W. Hess used the District's grass seed drill to sow King Ranch bluestem in an area that will be used as a waterway.

Arthur Hellman used "the old relic", a press wheel planter with cotton plates to plant 10 acres of the K.R. bluestem in rows. H.C. and Andy Knox of Forestburg are using the same planter to plant 8 acres of this grass in rows. The grass will be cultivated and fertilized and with favorable weather will produce seed this fall. King Ranch bluestem is one of the newer grasses that is becoming popular with conservation farmers.

Thomas Sicking and H. M. Lewis have newly constructed ponds on their farms and are hoping for spring rains that will put enough water in them to furnish stock water through the summer.

BUYING THE TOOLS

Labor, as everyone knows, is vital to industry. Its problems and achievements and point of view are constantly publicized. But there is another vital group which doesn't get much attention—the stockholders.

The importance of this group is illustrated by a large oil company. The company has 7,238 employees and 37,220 stockholders. In other words, it takes five stockholders to make one job. The average investment for each employee amounts to more than $68,000. The stockholders put up that money to buy the tools—all the way from huge refineries down to typewriters—which makes it possible for this oil company to operate, to serve the public well, and to provide good jobs at good wages. Moreover, the stockholder gets a very modest return on the money he has put into the tools. In this particular company, over a 20 year period, dividends have averaged only four per cent on

Get Your Sun Tan Slowly, Is Advice Of Health Officer

AUSTIN, Texas. — Summer weather is just around the corner and many Texans will try to acquire a sun tan as quickly as possible. Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer today released a statement concerning the danger of over exposure to the sun. "Sun Stroke is not thought to be due to the heat of the sun, but to certain direct effects of the sun on the human brain. It is likely to occur after the sun has shone excessively on the back of the head and neck," Dr. Cox explained. "This can be prevented by protecting the head and back of the neck from the sunshine," he added.

Dr. Cox asserted that exposure of the skin to the sun has some virtue since the action of the sunshine tends to kill the germs on the skin. Further sunshine produces vitamin D from the fats in the skin and this product is absorbed and used by the body.

"In general the good effects of sunshine are not due to the heat rays but ultraviolet rays," Dr. Cox stated. "It must be remembered, however, that it is these same rays which burn the skin and extensive application of direct sunshine to the skin may produce painful and severe burns which actually may endanger life."

The State Health Officer advises those who wish to obtain an extensive suntan to get it by slow degrees. Expose small portions of the skin to the sun for a short period of time. When tanning is established, exposing a greater area for a longer period of time should prove safe and comfortable.

A man visited a doctor and complained of a pain in his ankle. "Goodness, man!" cried the doctor, after a brief examination. "how long has it hurt?" "About three weeks," was the reply.

"Why, this ankle is broken. Why didn't you come to me right away?"

"Well, I sort of hesitated, because every time I say anything is wrong with me, my wife insists that I stop smoking."

Confetti ---

to get away is robbing posterity of its sustenance.

In a strict sense a landowner isn't a land owner at all. He is only temporary custodian with a sacred duty to preserve as much productivity as possible for coming generations.

It doesn't pay to judge by size. Sometimes even a woman's thumb has a man under it. The name Minnesota is a derivative of the Indian language and signified "cloudy water".
