Board and Faculty Gather for Annual June Dinner-Party

The traditional end-of-year party given jointly by and for the school board and faculty of the Muenster public school was held last Saturday night in the new school building. As in years past the faculty prepared and served the feast and board members footed the bill.

The menu consisted of loads of fried chicken, salads, vegetables, dessert and tea. It was prepared in the recently equipped home-making department and served in the study hall. After dinner the group played progressive 42.

Those attending besides the faculty and board members and their wives or husbands were County Superintendent and Mrs. Hubert Moss, County Trustee and Mrs. Ben Seyler, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Luke and Miss Ann Dunn of Dallas.

MONUMENTAL FEAT—Marvin Byrum, 21, of Norfolk, Va., obligingly performs a handstand for the photographer, against a backdrop of the Washington Monument, after descending its 898 steps on his hands. Byrum made the upside-down trip in slightly more than 41 minutes—well under par for the course.

PTA Program Raises $160 For Projector

The public school P-TA's special fund for a movie projector hit the jackpot last Friday night when a couple of dozen members and youngsters presented a comic program consisting of skits and dances in the high school auditorium. The amount netted on the evening was about $160.

Mrs. Dick Cain was in charge of the two hour program made up of four one-act comedies, featuring the antics of the players more than the humor of the plays, and two square dances, one an all-man farce and the other a regular square dance by eight teen-agers.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Herr and children of Pampa stopped here for a short visit to see relatives Saturday evening. They were enroute to Arlington where they will spend most of their annual vacation.

Spanking Criticized By Baby Specialist

DETROIT. — Practice of spanking children was criticized here. Dr. John C. Montgomery, a prominent Detroit pediatrician, called spanking not only "useless, but harmful."

"Although many children are spanked before they are a year old, and most of them before they are 2, spanking does no good because the child is unable to understand why he is being punished," said Montgomery.

He addressed a training seminar for psychiatrists and the general medical profession held under the auspices of the committee on medical education of the American Psychiatric Association. The training seminar is the first of its kind.

Montgomery declared he disapproved of spanking a very young child "because the child can't distinguish between your disapproval of him as a person."

He added that he disapproved of all spanking, but felt that, for many parents, it was a way of relieving their own feelings of tension.

"It is better for parents to spank a child than to nag," he held.

Emma Lutkenhaus,
Alfonse Felderhoff
Wed Tuesday, June 6

An impressive double ring ceremony Tuesday morning at 8:30 o'clock united Miss Emma Lutkenhaus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Lutkenhaus, and Alfonse Felderhoff, son of Mrs. John Felderhoff and the late Mr. Felderhoff.

Rev Father Francis, O.M.I., of Wichita Falls, officiated at the exchange of the vows by the couple and at the nuptial high mass.

White gladioli and greenery banked the altar and satin streamers adorned reserved pews for relatives and close friends.

Anthony Luke, organist, played the wedding marches and remained at the organ to accompany the church choir in singing the mass. They also rendered "Ave Maria" and "O Lord I Am Not Worthy" at the offertory and communion.

Entering on the arm of the groom, the bride was lovely in a gown of chantilly lace with cathedral length train over a net skirt with full ruffled hemline over satin. The colonial design dress featured a narrow rolled collar, moulded V bodice and full gathered skirt. Tiny satin and lace covered buttons adorned the bodice front and closed the long snug fitting petal point sleeves. She wore a satin covered brim bonnet with clusters of orange blossoms at each side and a two-tiered hip-length veil of imported Italian nylon illusion. She carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations centered with a purple orchid, showered with satin streamers tied in love knots.

For something old and borrowed she wore gold earrings belonging to her mother, whose mother wore them more than 68 years ago. To add a touch of blue she carried a linen and lace handkerchief, a gift from her sister, Mrs. Richard Wilde. The single strand of pearls she wore were a wedding gift from the bridegroom.

Mrs. Richard Wilde, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and Miss Celine Felderhoff, sister of the groom, was maid of honor. They wore identically styled dresses in tones of dusty copper and changeable silver, respectively.

The floor length brocaded satin frocks were designed with portrait necklines, princess bodices and full skirts topped with nylon net redingotes attached to the bodices with matching satin cord detail. Their brim bonnets of matching satin had shoulder length veils, their mitts were likewise of matching satin, and they carried large ruffled maline fans with orchid statice and satin streamers to match. They wore shell design necklaces in copper and silver, gifts from the bride.

Little LaCrista Gayle Lutkenhaus, niece of the bride, as flower girl in white satin, was a miniature replica of the bride's other attendants. Her costume exactly duplicated those worn by the maid of honor and matron of honor and she carried a white basket filled with assorted rose petals. Her gift from the bride was a single strand of tiny pearls.

John Jennings, young nephew of the groom, was ring bearer wearing a white gabardine suit and carrying the wedding bands on a white satin pillow.

Henry Felderhoff, best man, and Bobby Lutkenhaus, brothers of the couple, attended the groom. Otto Walterscheid and T. Voth were ushers.

The bride's mother wore a black ensemble with black accessories and the groom's mother wore grey with navy accessories. Both wore corsages of vanda orchids.

Festivities for the wedding day included breakfast for the bridal party in the Turner Hotel; a three-course dinner at noon in the city home of the bride's parents for about 50 guests; a reception and buffet supper in the country home of the bride's parents for about 100 guests, and a dance in the K of C hall.

For the dinner the bride's table was covered with lace over linen and centered with a 4-tier decorated wedding cake flanked with crystal candelabra holding white tapers, and arrangements of red roses. Silver bells tied with satin ribbon marked each place setting at the bride's table.

Misses Anselma Felderhoff and Lynette Walterscheid presided at the bride's book to register the guests.

During the latter part of the dance Mr. and Mrs. Felderhoff left on a wedding trip in a new Chevrolet power glide Bel Air to tour Colorado and New Mexico. When they return they will be at home in Muenster where he engages in the oil business.

Both were born and educated in Muenster. Mr. Felderhoff served in world war II in the army and spent 26 months of 3 years and 4 months duty overseas.

SHOWER PARTY HONORS BRIDE OF THIS WEEK

Miss Emma Lutkenhaus who became the bride of Alfons Felderhoff Tuesday morning, was honored with a miscellaneous shower and party last Thursday when Mmes. Hugo and Bill Lutkenhaus and Miss Celine Felderhoff entertained in the parish hall for about 60 guests.

Seasonal flowers were used in decorating and party games were played. Mmes. Martin Friske, Bruno Fleitman, Albert Dangelmayr, Richard Wilde and Albert Wilde, who won game prizes, presented them to the honor guest.

The hostesses served refreshment plates of chicken salad sandwiches, relishes, potato chips, cake and coffee.

Donald Endres and Vincent Walterscheid of Hereford were here for a weekend visit with relatives and friends.

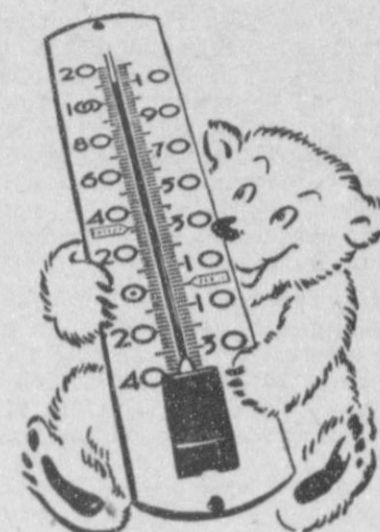

Mrs. Edna Fielder, Mrs. Ruth Fielder and children, Rowena, Rosemary and Tommy, and two of Rowena and Rosemary's girl friends, all of Denton, were here Saturday to visit Mrs. M. H. King and other friends. Mrs. Edna Fielder and Tommy remained to spend a week at Mrs. Fielder's farm south of the city.

WASHINGTON NEWSLETTER

By ED GOSSETT

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 1. —Each day before the Legislative Calendar is called in the House of Representatives, Members are recognized to make one minute speeches. A dozen or more Congressmen made such speeches on yesterday. As one of the speakers, I made the following remarks:

"Mr. Speaker, several of our distinguished colleagues have just spoken of the meeting on yesterday in the Library of Congress at which the Secretary of State reported to us on foreign affairs. The objective of this meeting is highly commendable. Its purpose, as we know, was to establish a closer relationship, a better understanding between Congress and the Department of State. However, the Secretary of State told us nothing new. All of us had learned through the press days before of all of the matters to which the Secretary made reference. All us must have felt a sense of real futility insofar as the Congress having any actual voice in the making of foreign policy.

Some weeks ago I listened to the Secretary of State in a distinguished speech to the editors of the Nation. At that time he defined "total diplomacy." His often-used expression "total diplomacy" means, according to the Secretary of State, a commingling of both foreign and domestic affairs, our Nation's complete effort to win and preserve the peace. The Secretary well points out that domestic affairs and foreign affairs are so interwoven and interrelated as to be almost indistinguishable. On this point I think we can all agree.

However, since the foundation of this Government foreign policy has been left almost entirely to the President and the Secretary of State. Under the Constitution and practice foreign policy has been an executive function. Today we admit that foreign policy is just as important as domestic policy and that the line of demarcation between the two is practically nonexistent. Still we elect 531 Members of Congress who struggle the year around with domestic problems. At the same time we permit a Secretary of State the almost exclusive prerogative of making foreign policy.

In 1946 we created by law a Council of Economic Advisers and charged such Council with the duties of advising the President and the Congress on economic developments, trends and problems. In 1947 pursuant to Public Law 253 we established the National Security Council and charged it with the duties of planning our country's military security. By the same act we set up the National Security Resources Board and charged it with the duties of planning for industrial strength and mobilization.

Mr. Speaker, the base on which foreign policy is determined ought to be broadened. We should have in this country a Foreign Policy Commission.

This Commission should be headed by the Secretary of State and ought to include the chairman and ranking minority member of the Foreign Affairs Committee of the House, and of the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate, and of the Armed Services Committees of both House and Senate. It should also include not less than three civilians distinguished for their learning in matters of foreign policy. Also included should be the Secretary of Defense and other military experts. This commission could meet in secret, if need be. With such commission all matters of foreign policy should be frankly and fully discussed. The commission should at least be consulted by a Secretary of State before he commits this country to courses of action which might lead into war.

Mr. Speaker, we should not leave the matter of foreign policy to any single individual. We boast of our democracy and yet we, in effect, leave to one man

A Child With a Loaded Gun

HARMONY THROUGH FAIRNESS

There are many factors working against continuation of American liberty for the individual and one of the most dangerous is the antagonisms between the international relations of this Nation.

While I do not have the honor to serve on the Foreign Affairs Committee of the House, I strongly recommend to them that something immediately be done to broaden the base upon which foreign policy is determined, and to give the American people a greater voice in the all important field of international relations."

tween groups of Americans themselves. We cannot fight effectively against an enemy within or from without if our society is constantly torn with bitter internal strife, one group against another. Under such conditions our economic progress slows down and the moral character of our nation is weakened.

One of the worst blights in America today is the conflict which propagandists have built up between employers and employees. This war of group against group is actively agitated by Communists and other radical elements working for a "New Social Order." But the Socialists and Communists couldn't successfully create enduring strife between these important groups in our American population if both groups had a knowledge of basic sound economics and real social justice.

Social Justice Only Decrees
 The true interests of both labor and management are identical. Employees of a business or industry always have a moral right to request an increase in pay when there is increased productivity for which they are directly responsible. Social justice gives them the right to request it, though not to force it. Under the capitalistic principles of private property and free enterprise no minority group has a right to take by force the wealth of another, or in effect impose taxes upon others.

Wage raise requests are just, therefore, when the employees have themselves helped to boost productivity and, thus, company income. Though social justice may in some instances decree that they be given a share of profits or wealth they didn't help create, they have no moral right to demand that. The Socialist doctrine, on the other hand does not recognize the principle of private property. It gives everybody the right, by force of law, to participate in the fruits of the production of everybody else. That is the essence of Socialism.

Investors Have Rights Too

People who invest their savings (capital) in the establishment and operation of a business have the right, under the American system, to keep the profit. The only moral obligation on them is to accord just treatment to the employees and the public. Social justice decrees, further, that they reward the employees properly for increased productivity. But to do or not to do this is a prerogative of human rights. When, or if, an attempt is made to establish this economically and socially sound code by force—real social justice is thereupon violated.

Therefore, the demand of Socialist or Communist propagandists for a share in the profits of a business solely on the basis of their so-called "Social Justice" or "Economic Democracy," and ignoring the fundamental rights of the business ownership, can never be harmonized with the philosophy of American capitalism or real human justice. These are fundamentals: (1) The enforced sharing of wealth is Socialism regardless of what label it may be given. (2) The voluntary sharing of wealth is an American capitalist (and Christian) ideal which has been liberally exercised. (3) And reward measured upon the base of productivity is economically and morally sound.

Contrasting Principles

Dave Beck, leader of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen and Helpers of America, said in a recent speech: "There is no problem in human relationships so complex or so grievous that it cannot be solved reasonably, if men of character, men with a sincere desire to cooperate in mutual confidence, will sit down together around the conference table, each respecting the rights and dignity of the other, and all inspired by the will to serve the common good."

That's a good statement. It is in contrast to one made a few weeks later by Emil Mazey, secretary-treasurer of the United Automobile Workers, in a speech to Chrysler strikers. He was quoted as saying: "When we grow a little stronger we will demand all that we produce." This goal ignores the "rights and dignity" of the investors who build the plants and finance purchase of the machinery, raw materials and managerial skill to provide the jobs. It is a disruptive statement, not a harmonizing one.

Middle age is that time of life when man is no longer worried about temptation, but begins to be worried about why he isn't any longer tempted.

Proper Digging and Storing Will Save Lots of Potatoes

COLLEGE STATION, — Home gardeners will soon be digging and storing their spring Irish potato crop. The length of time they can be stored will depend upon where you store them and the condition they are in when they are dug, says J. E. Hutchison, associate extension horticultural specialist of Texas A&M College.

He says let the potatoes mature before digging them. Potatoes can be dug before the tops die, but they should be mature if you expect to keep them in storage for any length of time. Here is a simple and easy method for checking maturity. Press the thumb against the skin of a few potatoes, if the skin is tough and doesn't break easily, the crop is ready for harvesting.

If excessive rainfall has occurred just prior to harvest, you are likely to find the potatoes covered with water blisters (small elevated white spots) on the skin. Hutchison says harvesting should be delayed until these blisters have dried. If the potatoes are harvested when they are "snappy" or "blistery" heavy losses may result from rotting.

STRANGE CARVING DISCOVERED—In the jungles of Southern Mexico lies a huge, 15-ton stone head, believed carved at the beginning of the Christian era by an ancient people. This reproduction, now on display at the American Museum of Natural History in New York, was made by Dr. Gordon F. Ekholm, right, after the mammoth carving was discovered by Dr. Matthew Stirling, left. The original stone measures nine feet high, six feet wide, and 20 feet in circumference.

He says you can do a good job of digging the crop by running a middle buster or turning plow under eight to ten inches deep under the row of potatoes. The skinned or damaged potatoes should be separated from the good ones when they are picked up. Use the damaged potatoes first for they will not keep well in storage. He points out that potatoes should be handled almost as carefully as eggs and as soon as they have been picked up, they should be placed in the shade to prevent blistering.

A cool, well ventilated cellar makes a satisfactory storage place for potatoes, provided it has an overhead vent for ventilation. The door and vent should be open at night and closed during the daytime. This practice will help keep the cellar cool.

If the potatoes are stored in buildings or under them, good cross ventilation is a necessity. When potatoes in storage are exposed to light, they will turn green and are undesirable for human consumption. Hutchison says it is best not to spread the potatoes on a floor with about four inches of air space under it. Small poles or hay placed under the potatoes will help for what you want is an arrangement that will permit the air to completely circle the potato.

Plenty of ventilation will pick up moisture and keep the potatoes dry and thus reduce the storage losses from rotting. He says there isn't much point in producing potatoes if they are not handled and stored properly.

A new year's resolution is something you make to later break.

Students Seeking First Job Urged To Get SS Cards

Are you one of the many students in this country who will work during the summer vacation? If so, you will need a social security card, and here are some facts which you will want to know.

If you go to work for wages in private business or industry, you must show your card to your employer promptly. If you have never had a card and are going to need one soon, you should go to the local post office and get an application. Fill it out and mail it to the Bureau of Old-Age and Survivors Insurance, Dallas, Texas. You will receive your card in just a few days.

If you have lost your social security card, now is the time to ask for a duplicate. Get an application at your post office, fill it out showing that you have had a card and lost it, and mail that to the Bureau of Old-Age and Survivors Insurance, Dallas, Texas. You will soon have a new card with that same number.

Be sure you always have just one account number. It's the number of your National Insurance account. See that your employer copies your name and number from the card each new place you go to work. Then when you or your family apply for payments based on your insurance account there will be no delay.

There are jobs where you will not need a card. If you are going to work on the farm, for the city, county, state or federal government, or if you are under 21 and working for your parents, you will not need an account number card. Do not apply for a card unless you are fairly sure to need it. Then get one promptly.

Give the cooling system on the farm tractor a complete check now. Will save time and maybe trouble later in the summer.

MOVIES FEATURE PROGRAM AT GARDEN CLUB MEETING

Slides and colored films were features of the program hour at the regular monthly meeting of the Civic League and Garden Club Monday night in the home of Mrs. Tony Gremminger.

"Life of the Soil", a conservation film, stressed the essential requirements of soil and showed the need of fertilizers. "What's in the Bag" showed how Texas highways can be beautified and protected from the roadside blight of too many billboards and business establishments. The showing was arranged for by Miss Olivia Stock, conservation chairman, through the cooperation of Ed Helton, Ray Wilde and Clyde Fisher.

Prior to the films Mrs. Nick Miller presided for the business session.

Specimens of dahlias, gardenias and Easter lilies were bought by different members for display.

An arrangement of roses centered the dining table from which the hostess, assisted by her daughter, Miss Dolores, served refreshments of punch and cake to 23 members and guests, Mmes. E. A. McCreary and M.F. Milner.

Miss Eleanor Hoenig has gone to Gainesville to be employed.

It would have taken a train nine miles long to haul all of the livestock that arrived dead at the livestock markets of the nation in 1947. This loss plus those from bruises and crippled animals annually amounts to near $25 million. Producers, transporters and livestock handlers all have a part to play in preventing these losses most of which are borne by the producer.

A magazine article described the dress of an Indian as a sarong instead of a sari. The copy chief who allowed the error to pass, wrote to the editor: "All I can say is, I'm sari I was sarong."

Employer—"But I don't need any help. I couldn't find enough work to keep you busy."

Applicant—"You'd be surprised how little it takes to keep me busy."

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Yosten spent Sunday at Lake Texoma fishing and picnicking.

Although as big and as strong as the policeman who had arrested him, the man with the close-cropped hair and brutal face allowed himself to be marched towards the police station. There had been the usual crowd in anticipation of a scrap, but it had drifted away when they saw there was nothing doing. Even the policeman admitted it was the tamest arrest he had made for many a day. "It isn't like you to go quietly," he remarked. "What's taken all the ginger out of you?" The prisoner sighed—"I've got my best clothes on."

Starlight Operetta Opens June 12 With
"High Button Shoes"

"High Button Shoes", a nostalgic musical comedy of life in America, circa 1913, will open at State Fair Auditorium, Monday June 12. It will bring to Dallas one of the most boisterous comedies yet presented in the musical world. Starring Eddie Foy Jr., who appeared in it during its Broadway and Chicago runs, and co-starring Constance Moore, a Texas girl who has made good in the motion pictures, and on the musical comedy stage, it bids fair to be one of the greatest openers the Casino has yet produced. It will run for two weeks from June 12 through June 25.

High Button Shoes offers reminiscences of the old Model "T" Ford; the Mack Sennet bathing beauties and the "get-rich" quick men who flourished around the country after the turn of the century. The book is by Stephen Longstreet, with music by Jule Styne and Sammy Cahn writing the lyrics. The show boasts some of the most thrilling music written in recent years. Among the songs are the ever familiar, "Papa, Won't You Dance With Me?"; "I still Get Jealous"; "Next to Texas, I Love You"; and "On A Sunday By The Sea."

EDDIE FOY, Jr., internationally famous comedian, who will be starred in HIGH BUTTON SHOES, the boisterous musical comedy which will open on JUNE 12, in State Fair Casino, Dallas, initiating STARLIGHT OPERETTA'S NINTH brilliant season of musical comedies and operettas.

Be on Lookout for Bogus $10, $20 Bills

NEW YORK. — The New York area is being flooded with several varieties of "mass-produced" counterfeit $10 and $20 bills, the Secret Service says.

And the bogus bills are "popping up all over the country," banks and business men were warned Monday.

Albert E. Whitaker, district supervisor of the service, said at a news conference that the phony money is "of good quality" and is "printed on fair quality paper."

He said, however, that the bills lack the red or blue silk fibers of genuine notes.

The Region's Best Conservation Essay

Following is the prize winning essay on "My Soil Conservation District" which won a $25 award for Miss Pauline Mages, a senior of Sacred Heart High school, for being the best essay submitted by a student in Region Five.

Soil conservation is the protection of our most vital investment which is the land itself. It means that we are preparing a security for future generations.

The conservation district in which I reside has a worthwhile record. Farmers and ranchmen alike have realized the utmost importance of conserving precious soil. Terracing and mixed farming are practiced widely in this district. Everyone realizes that one must pay for trying to rebuild the soil, but he is paid back doubly with the results. According to a recent visitor from the "Friends of the Land," the Muenster Soil Conservation District is far ahead of the average farm area in conservation work. Due to conservation work in our community, we have a good clear water supply. By constructing ponds, water is drained from the farming area and serves numerous purposes. Adequate food is produced because of the proper care and protection of the land. In general, our conservation district has a beautiful countryside due to conservation work. Our community has been greatly strengthened through conservation practices and this leads to the strengthening of our state of Texas and our Nation.

In conclusion, I am happy to say that the Upper Elm-Red Conservation District in which Muenster is located has realized that the soul of America rests in its land, and the farmers and ranchers living on this land have put forth their best efforts to help "Save the Soil and Save Texas."

Not So Dumb

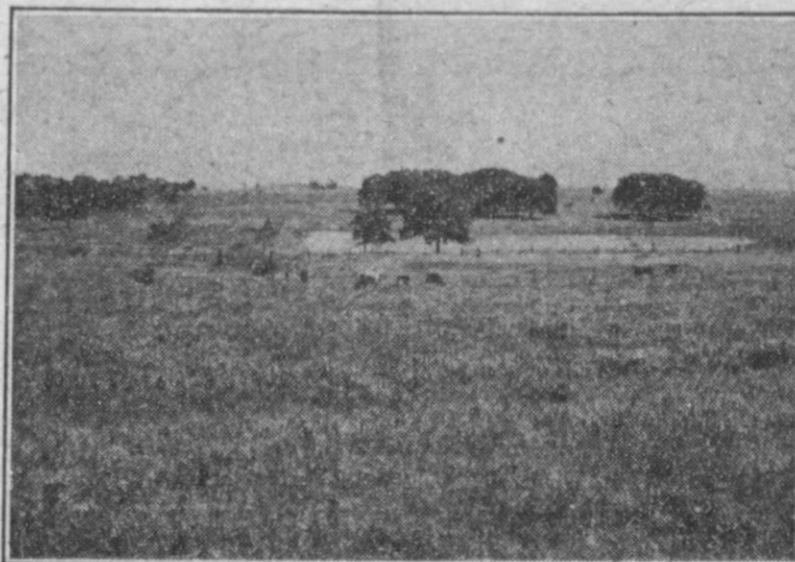

One of the greatest marksmen of the FBI was passing through a small town, and everywhere he saw evidences of the most amazing shooting. On trees, on walls and on fences there were numberless bull's-eyes with the bullet hole in the, absolutely center. He asked to meet the person responsible for this remarkable feat. The man turned out to be the village idiot.

"This is the most wonderful marksmanship I have ever seen," said the FBI man. "How in the world do you do it?"

"Easy as pie," replied the village idiot. "I shoot first and draw the circle afterward."

Conservative banking policy and soil conservation go hand in hand

Upper Elm-Red Soil Conservation District News

DISTRICT SUPERVISORS

J. W. Hess, Muenster V. W. Redman, Saint Jo
John Rice, Collinsville Ed Blackmon, Bowie
Willard Kemplin, Valley View

Many cooperators of the Upper Elm-Red Conservation District are finding out first hand that a combination of grass and legumes in their pasture will furnish more grazing than grass alone and that grass grown in close association with a legume will out-produce the grass grown alone since it takes advantage of the nitrogen added to the soil by the legume plant. H. N. Fuhrman gets a lot of grazing out of his pasture that is overseeded to Madrid Sweet Clover. Willie Griffin has a good stand of alfalfa on one of his old field pastures. He also has vetch and lespedeza in combination with the grass on portions of his pasture.

Paul Fisher has vetch growing in one of his buffalo grass pastures and also on his bermuda grass waterway. He says the vetch gives the cows some green grazing when the grass is dormant. Al Wiesman tells us that his milk production increases when his cows are kept on the portion of his waterway that he overseeded to vetch last fall.

The rains continue to come and add to the woes of grain and hay harvest. Rains also make the Johnson grass and weeds grow, especially in waterways where they offer stiff competition to the planted grasses. Some of the waterways are receiving needed management to secure a stand of the desirable grasses. Gary Hess has mowed his waterway and has a very good stand of bermuda grass. Ike Fulton made hay of the Johnson grass on his waterway and has a fairly good stand of bermuda grass and vetch to hold the soil.

Tony Hesse, Alfred Sicking and W. H. Endres are some others who have hastened establishment of bermuda grass in their waterways by mowing down the taller growing vegetation.

Alois Trubenbach and W. H. Endres have removed the weeds and taller grasses from their King Ranch Bluestem plantings by mowing and spraying.

A group of farmers in the Forestburg area met in the Methodist Church to discuss the soil conservation program of the Upper Elm-Red Soil Conservation District.

Those at the meeting who requested aid in working out conservation plans on their land were J. P. Hudspeth, J. A. Moore, Harlan Bridwell, Blake Freeman, Fred Williams, H. B. Perryman, F. B. Scott, W. P. Orrell, C. K. Thurman, Howard Sledge, L. T. Eldridge, R. K. Ensey, John Willis and J. M. Dunn.

Mr. Price Hudspeth, of Forestburg, opened the meeting with a discussion of the local soil conservation problem. Emmitt Yoder of the Soil Conservation Service explained how the Upper Elm-Red Soil Conservation district was organized by landowners within the district, and how it is governed by elected landowners. Edward M. Helton, of the Soil Conservation service at Muenster, explained how the Soil Conservation service aids the district in carrying out its program by working with landowners in developing complete soil conservation plans for their land and aiding them in the application of the various soil saving practices.

Mrs. Callie Baumhardt has as her guests her daughter, Mrs. E. A. McCreary and three children of Iraan who plan to be here about six weeks while Mr. McCreary is attending summer school at Denton. He teaches at Iraan public school and is studying to receive his master's degree this summer. He comes to Muenster for weekend visits with his family.

Miss Ella Dell Starke is here with her parents, the Joe Starkes, to spend the summer vacation. She was a student at Holy Angels Academy in Jonesboro, Ark., during the past term.

Talk on Pilgrimage Features Quarterly Meeting of NCCW

Speaking on his pilgrimage to Rome and his visit to the Holy Lands, Rev. J. G. O'Rourke of Marshall, was the center of attraction at the regular quarterly meeting of the Sherman deanery National Council of Catholic Women in Gainesville Tuesday afternoon. Members of Saint Mary's parish were hostesses for the program.

Other speakers were Mrs. Mae Korioto of Sherman who stressed lay retreats and discussion clubs, and Mrs. Charles Ingram of Denison who spoke on the coming retreats for women in Denison.

Mrs. J. M. Weinzapfel, deanery president, presided during the business session and Rev. James Tucek, deanery moderator, led the opening prayer. After business the group attended sacramental benediction in St. Mary's church and then returned to the parish hall where the hostesses served refreshments.

75 women, five members of the clergy and one seminarian, representing each of the cities in the deanery, attended the meeting. Muenster had 24 women present. The other towns represented were Gainesville, Lindsay, Sherman, Denison, Denton, Valley View, Celina, Whitesboro, and Pilot Point.

Blessed Events

Mr. and Mrs. Emmitt Yoder are the parents of a son, born Wednesday morning, June 7. The 9 pound 6 ounce boy has been named Curtis Lee. Mr. Yoder is a member of the local soil conservation office personnel.

Mr. and Mrs. Tony Hacker announce the birth of a daughter, their third child and first girl, at the local clinic on June 1. The new baby's name is Lela Joan. Her mother is the former Martha Prescher of Scotland, Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Beyer of Gainesville are the parents of their first child, an 8 pound daughter, who arrived Sunday at 6 a.m. at M&S hospital. The baby is the first grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Grewing of Muenster. Mrs. Adam Beyer of Lindsay is the paternal grandmother.

Mr. and Mrs. Al Bierschenk announce the birth of a son, Stephen Wayne, at Ft. Worth on Monday, June 5. The six pound, 13 ounce boy is the first grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. Val Dieter of Lindsay. The young mother is the former Miss Dorothy Dieter. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bierschenk of Weatherford.

Washington Girls Have Poor Pickings

WASHINGTON. — For the government girl who's been wondering why no Washington man has offered to slip a ring over her finger, one authority here has come up with a revealing if unconsoling, explanation. "Girls," announced Ray H. Everett, executive secretary of the District Social Hygiene Society at a board meeting recently "lack marriage opportunities in Washington."

Nuptial rates have dropped "steadily" throughout the country during the past year, explained Everett, and Washington is leading the descent.

Some of his "probable reasons":
1. It costs too much to live here, especially when it comes to housing.

2. Washington men, "spilled" during war days, when even Mortimer Snerds had their pick of the lovelies, "still are among the nation's choosiest."

3. In nonindustrial Washington, "the general cultural level is high"—and university graduates, a "cautious" lot, are notoriously slow to get hitched.

Everett neglected to suggest where the women might have better pickings.

8 County 4-H Boys Get Duroc Gilts In Sears Program

Eight 4-H Cooke county boys have each received a registered Duroc gilt through the agricultural program of the Sears Roebuck foundation. Each year boys in Cooke and other counties receive hogs under the program at no cost.

The eight boys receiving gilts are Edward Pick of Muenster, Cecil Hermes and Henry Fleitman of Lindsay, George Krahl, Lambert Hess, Tommy Parkhill, Melvin Kuhn and Virgil Lewis Neu, all of Gainesville rural routes.

Soon to receive a registered Duroc boar under the Sears program is Robert Fuhrmann of Lindsay.

Each boy who receives a gilt shows it in September at a county 4-H pig show. The Sears foundation provides the prize money. Each boy returns to the Sears program one registered gilt from the first litter of the sow he received.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank everyone for the kindnesses, offers to help, cards, spiritual tributes and flowers since I broke my hip.
Mrs. J. S. Horn

Confetti---

opeans, know that even with the A-bomb we'll do less to outrage humanity than Russia has done or is doing today.

However, since it's a waste of time to talk about reason or justice to the communists, we might as well reserve moral justifications strictly for our own moral comfort and look at this thing from a cold, practical point of view. Meaning to pay no heed to the threat of being treated as a war criminal for the use of our A bomb. Knowing the Moscow criminals we know that losing the war means wholesale liquidation through mass slavery and execution. It makes no difference what weapons we use, the end is the same if Russia wins. On the other hand the threat is meaningless if we win.

So, the whole thing boils down to a very simple statement. If the bomb will help preserve peace, or if it will help restore peace after Russia starts a war, and especially if it will save Christian civilization from the red curse, our country has a duty before God and mankind to keep it and to use it if necessary.
