

Harry Sicking Is Critically Hurt In Oil Rig Accident

Apparently somebody on the public school faculty or board of trustees has slipped in failing to invite Morton Smith of the Gainesville Register for an inspection of the local school. In "Town Topics" of Monday's Register Morton indicates a keen interest in the finer features in modern classroom design. He appreciates especially the merits of a "self contained" classroom described in a Tennessee newspaper.

Since people usually appreciate the real thing more than another's description we assume that Morton would enjoy the self contained primary classrooms at our school. They have lockers, rest rooms, lavatories and drinking fountains . . . all the facilities needed to keep a child under the teacher's constant supervision. As Morton explains, they keep the kiddies from wandering through corridors or perhaps drifting outside to the playground while they are excused from class. The net result is less lost time and less trouble in exercising teacher responsibility over the pupil.

It's unfortunate that Morton did not know about the self contained classroom here. His nice publicity plug might have been given to Muenster instead of to a school almost a thousand miles away.

For years we Americans have been saying that the fussy foreigners of Europe and other parts of the globe ought to come and have a look at how the United States and Canada get along. No fortifications, no armed troops glaring back and forth at each other, no money goofed off supporting a constant strained or hostile feeling. Only a few border officials to take care of necessary red tape and maintain efficient cooperation between the two countries. We like it that way. Saves a lot of money, makes things a lot more pleasant.

On a smaller scale we could recommend another very commendable arrangement, the friendly relationship existing between two local business competitors. Ben Seyler and Urban Endres don't let conflicting interests keep them from getting along, and both profit by the cooperation.

Their deal in which Ben makes room for Urban to continue business while his own building is under construction is worth noticing. That's only a sample of what has been going on all along. They've been helping each other through emergencies. They got together to divvy the cost of a common wall between their buildings . . . saved money and space for both.

Again the movement is under way to have a state wide prohibition election. Drys are making pep talks, writing to editors, putting pressure on senators and representatives.

Whether they will be able to bring on the election, and if so to win it, remains to be seen. Popular opinion now, as before, seems to be fairly evenly divided on the issue and the outcome most likely would be decided on a very narrow margin.

The $64 question, however, is whether this is the proper way of dealing with the liquor problem. Drys mostly base their opinion on the premise that alcohol is evil and has no place in society. But are they correct? Is the fault in the alcohol or in the small percentage of persons who use it to excess?

It would seem about as reasonable to pass a law against the possession of firearms on the grounds that they are used for robbery and murder and very frequently cause accidental death. Of course no one would expect such a movement to get very far. Too few would agree that the decent citizen's right to protect his property or to go hunting should be curtailed in order to take the weapon away from criminals.

The same principle applies to alcohol. The right of people to enjoy its proper and moderate use should not be curtailed by

In a critical condition with a crushed forehead Harry Sicking, 25, continues to fight for his life in the Gainesville Sanitarium. According to reports late Wednesday he has a fair chance to survive if other serious complications do not set in.

To a great extent he is being sustained by blood transfusions. He received one from Gene Gieb Tuesday and one from a Gainesville man Wednesday. Several Muenster people are standing by in case more transfusions are needed.

Sicking was injured about 8 o'clock Tuesday morning while working on one of Leo Haverkamp's well servicing rigs near Woodbine. Working with him at the time were Theodore Nogler and Edward Grewing.

According to Grewing's statement the injury resulted when a rod elevator with 5 lengths of rod fell from the top of the supporting mast. The rod fell in the casing. In Grewing's opinion, the elevator hit the top of the casing and bounced back and to the side, hitting Sicking who was working within arm's reach. It is presumed that he was struck on a rebound because the metal helmet, knocked from his head, was not damaged and the skin of his forehead was forced upward from his brow to the scalp. The blow apparently came from beneath rather than above.

The bone of his forehead was shattered and a considerable section of it was removed in the operation following his arrival at the hospital. When he advances farther in his recovery he will require another operation to insert a metal plate in place of the missing bone.

Attending doctors state there was no apparent injury to Sicking's brain but they do not know at this time whether his vision has been impaired. Unconsciousness before the operation and bandages since have kept him from using his eyes since the accident.

Because of severe pain and restlessness during his conscious moments Sicking is being kept under the influence of sedatives.

After Sicking's accident Grewing notified Charles Cash, a pumper on the lease. Cash drove to the nearest phone and called an ambulance which delivered the injured man to the hospital about 30 minutes after the accident. The loss of a large quantity of blood during that time required an early transfusion. Continued but slower loss of blood required another transfusion on Wednesday.

Messrs. and Meses. Steve Mosier and Frank Yosten spent Sunday at Tours with Mrs. Yosten's parents, the Julius Filers in whose home a family reunion was held. The gathering was a belated birthday surprise honoring Mrs. Filer whose birthday is on March 1.

MUSIC THAT HURTS—Bugle notes played by this GI in South Korea were not appreciated by his buddies. The imaginative American rode a Korean pony and blew a captured Chinese bugle, but his efforts were greeted with a hail of rocks and stones from tormented friends in his outfit.

Sicking and Wimmer Are Candidates For Local School Board

To date there are two candidates for the two local school trustee positions which will be decided in the annual school election on April 7. J. J. Wimmer seeks election to the position which will be vacated by John B. Klement and B. J. Sicking is offering to serve another 3-year term in the position he holds now.

According to County Superintendent Hubert Moss the deadline for announcing is March 28, ten days before the election on April 7.

The promotion came recently in Japan, followed by word that he will go back into active duty this month.

Allan Hoffman left Friday for entrance in the army air corps. He enlisted several weeks ago and received his call to report. His parents, Mayor and Mrs. John Hoffman and his sister, Gladys Ann, drove him to Dallas.

Bus Shed Moved to New School Ground

After almost three months of delay the transfer of the school bus shed from its old location to the new school grounds was completed this week.

Originally planned to be finished in December, the job was postponed about two months while waiting for the building mover. A few weeks ago the school board engaged another mover to handle the job.

The building was moved in sections to its new location north of the public school building. Foundation work was done by the Veterans' Agriculture class in return for their use of the building as shop.

"IT'S ALMOST PUSH BUTTON TIME, KIDDIES!"—Want to shave, watch television and receive a gentle massage without getting out of bed? Then the Acousticot, exhibited in Indianapolis, is for you. As fabulous as the Arabian nights, the super slumber couch features: a button-controlled, sound-proofed "bundling board" that turns the double bed into twins; thermostats; pulsating mattresses; two telephones; TV set; fire extinguisher; electric razor; electric tooth brush; thermometer; altimeter; turn and bank indicator; electric vibrator; radio; reading lamps; a device for projecting reading material on the ceiling, and, of course, the inevitable pesky alarm clock. Model Marguerite Guarney does not come with the bed.

News of Sick And Injured

Miss Floradell Endres underwent surgery for acute appendicitis Sunday at Gainesville sanitarium and is making a normal recovery.

Gilbert Yosten had his appendix removed Saturday at Gainesville sanitarium and is recovering satisfactorily.

Della Rose Felderhoff underwent dental surgery at Saint Jo Saturday. She had an embedded wisdom tooth extracted.

Gary Durbin sustained a cut hand in a home accident Saturday. The right middle and ring fingers were severely injured and Gary needed a general anesthetic for the stitching. He was treated at the local clinic and permitted to return home.

Mrs. Ruth Needham entered a Dallas hospital Tuesday for a check-up and treatment of a bone infection. It's an old affliction that requires periodic attention. She will be gone about a week.

Mrs. John Beard was in Dallas Tuesday for a check up and treatment at Baylor Hospital. Meses. Herman Fette and Tony Trubenbach Jr. took her to Dallas.

Illness confines Mrs. Clarence Wilson to bed this week. She is sick since Saturday.

Mrs. John Eberhart returned home Friday from Gainesville sanitarium after several days of treatment. She is up and around a part of each day but her broken left arm will have to remain in a cast another six weeks. She says many thanks to all who have remembered her with cards, flowers and visits during her illness.

City Ticket Offers One Race, Cain vs Hoffman for Mayor

Only one contest will feature the city election of April 3. Dick Cain will run against the incumbent, John Hoffman, for the office of mayor.

Cain's candidacy was announced last Friday the day before the 30 day limit provided by Texas law. On the same day Rudy Hellman announced his candidacy for re-election as Alderman and Herbert Meurer announced as candidate for Cain's present position on the city council. Urban Endres was one day earlier in announcing his candidacy for re-election. Mayor Hoffman disclosed early last week that he will seek re-election.

Hornets Transfer From 13-B to 12-B Football District

Next fall the Muenster High Hornets will have the pleasure of playing conference football with neighboring teams rather than those over a widely scattered area. Interscholastic League officials of Austin agreed last week to permit the transfer of both Muenster and Saint Jo from District 13-B to District 12-B.

The membership of the newly organized district is Muenster, Saint Jo, Valley View (of Cooke county), Era, Sanger and Boyd. Last year's membership consisted of Muenster, Saint Jo, Valley View (of Wichita county), Bryson and Alvord.

A schedule of conference games will be drawn up in the near future in a meeting of representatives of all the conference schools.

The transfers were prompted by the desire of both Muenster and Saint Jo to compete with neighboring rather than distant teams. Superintendents Cowan and Swim secured requests from the other 12-B members for admission of Muenster and Saint Jo into their conference then secured statements from the 13-B members that they were agreeable to the withdrawal of Muenster and Saint Jo. Presented with those letters the Interscholastic League officials readily agreed to the transfer.

Several factors prompted the transfers. Fan interest is keener in competition with neighboring teams and the time and money spent on travel is considerably less. Attendance both at home and away from home is expected to be better.

The same considerations influenced the 13-B teams to release Muenster and Saint Jo in favor of teams in their own area.

Parish Study Club To Meet March 16

Arrangements for a parish discussion club, primarily for young married couples, was organized Tuesday night by a group of women of the parish, assisted by Father Anthony Schroeder.

The topic for discussion will be "The Child, A Citizen of Two Worlds". The text is not lengthy and will be completed in three or four meetings, the organizers estimate.

The first regular meeting will be held on Friday night, March 16, in the church basement following Lenten devotions.

Work Begins On New Building For Endres Motor Co.

Construction on a new building for the Endres Motor Company is due to begin about the end of this week, as soon as a crew of workmen finish removing the old building, which has housed the local Ford agency for about 20 years.

The new building, measuring 55x120 feet, will be a modernistic structure of steel, brick and glass. Its front will consist of two offices, a 3-car display floor and a parts room. Its large shop department will be completely equipped with hydraulic lifts and all the special equipment required for complete automotive service. The far end of the shop will be partitioned for a 23x30 paint and body shop.

It will occupy the space taken up by the present building and parking lot using the south wall of Ben Seyler's garage in common with that building. Anticipating this project Endres and Seyler shared the cost of the dividing wall when Seyler built three years ago.

Clarence Wilson is supervisor for the job and all work, with the possible exception of a few specialized jobs, will be done by local men. Endres has no contractor.

Actual work on the project started last week end with the transfer of equipment, parts and supplies to temporary locations. That work was finished Tuesday. Early Wednesday workmen started tearing down the old building and expect to finish it Thursday or Friday. Much of the material will go into the new structure.

During the project business will continue as usual. Endres has leased the sheet metal building east of Seyler's garage for his shop and parts department and Jake Horn's private garage for paint and body work. The company's main office is inside Ben's garage, in the room used by Ben for his private office. In making room for Urban Ben invited Urban's customers to use the short cut through his shop at any time. Other ways of reaching the Endres shop and parts department are from the east side of the Endres used car lot or the east side of Seyler's parking lot.

Unless delayed by bad weather or material shortages, Endres expects to finish the new building about August 1.

TP&L Raises Rate For Rural Service

Customers in rural areas and in the small communities served by Texas Power & Light Company received announcement this week that their electric service rates would be increased slightly with the next billing. The announcement pointed out that the modest increase in electric rates was necessary due to the increased cost of everything involved in rendering service and that the increase in rates will amount to less than one and one-half cents per day for the average residential user of electric service.

In recent years the cost of almost everything the average family needs has risen sharply except electricity which has continued its downward trend, the announcement said. The cost of the material the Company has to buy has been going up continually, it was pointed out, and, although the Company has been able to effect numerous economies in operation, the time has come when there are no more means of cutting expenses without sacrificing efficiency in service.

Texas Had 477,076 Gardens Last Year

Home gardens can have two important effects on the family food supply. First, they may be a source of low priced food. And second, they may improve the nutritional value of the family's diet.

In 1950, there were 477,076 home gardens in Texas, says J. E. Hutchison, associate horticulturist for the Texas A & M Extension Service. Home gardens usually produce about 25 percent of the total vegetables grown.

If each of these gardens produced $50 worth of food last year, that would be $23,850,800. As the housewife knows, it does not take much food to be worth $50 these days.

If each garden produced $100 worth of food, the figure would be $47,707,600 — quite a contribution to the Texas food bill. Each person needs from 600 to 700 pounds of fresh vegetables annually, says Hutchison. He believes that, in these tense and unsettled times, it is the patriotic duty of everyone to keep themselves physically fit.

Home gardens will help provide the fresh vegetables needed in the daily diet. Hutchison urges families to plant home gardens and thus produce at home as much of their vegetable supply as is possible.

"A government, like an individual, often overextends and then discovers bankruptcy; there is no RFC to bail out the bankrupt government on the plea that it will make work. If the people object to more and higher taxes, they must oppose the welfare state. If they like the welfare state, they must agree to more and higher taxes every year until they work largely to pay taxes. It is as easy as that." —George E. Sokolsky

Freedom to Exist

"I am interested in seeing that the businessman on the west side of the street is placed on the same footing as is the businessman on the east side of the street. No man can operate a business, pay taxes under the existing rates, and compete with a tax-exempt business on the other side of the street."

WASHINGTON NEWSLETTER

By ED GOSSETT

Washington, D. C., March 3—The District of Columbia is governed by Commissioners appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate. Both House and Senate have District Committees to recommend laws for the government of the District of Columbia. In other words, the District of Columbia is in effect governed by the Congress. Each session certain organizations within the District of Columbia urge upon Congress the enactment of so-called Home Rule legislation. During the last session of Congress, such a bill was passed in the Senate but was not passed in the House. This week the Senate has again started hearings on such a bill. The Washington Board of Trade, similar to a chamber of commerce, and made up of hundreds of leading business men of the city of Washington, oppose Home Rule. They realize that they now get better government at smaller cost than any major city in America. A great many people in Washington are happy not to be plagued by the election of a Mayor, City Commissioners, and other municipal politics. Another thing that complicates the Home Rule picture in some of our minds is the growing negro population in the city of Washington. Ten years ago, roughly, 27 per cent of Washington's population was negro. Now the percentage is approximately 38. More than half the children in the Washington public schools are negro children.

At a conference of the National Civil Liberties Clearing House held here recently, Irving M. Engel, executive secretary tary of the American Jewish Committee, told the meeting that "to a large extent there is no equality in the District of Columbia" and that "segregation would largely disappear" if the District had Home Rule.

For the last several years a big controversy has been going on between the officials and the people of Arizona and the officials and the people of the State of California over a proposed Central Arizona project. The Central Arizona project would require the building of a dam and power plant 120 miles above the Hoover Dam, installation of a pump or lift to take irrigation water from the Colorado river, lift it 985 feet and run it through a 300 mile installation of canals, pipes and tunnels for the purpose of irrigating some 200,000 acres of arid land in Arizona. California opponents say this would cost the Government $1838.00 per acre to irrigate. The Secretary of the Interior estimates the total cost of the project to be $2,075,729,000.00. California opponents say that not only would this gigantic project take water away from California but that it would never pay for itself and that it is fantastically uneconomical.

Mr. Lindsay Warren, a former Congressman from North Carolina and for the last 10 years Comptroller General of the United States, recently made a very fine report to the Congress. Two paragraphs from Mr. Warren's report are as follows: "During recent years, when it seems the Government has been expanding beyond all reasonable comprehension, the G. A. O. (General Accounting Office) has proved that it is possible to reduce employees. In April 1946, the number of employees reached a peak of 14,904. There were 7,063 employees on January 1, 1951, a reduction of 7,841 in the last five years, of whom 779 were transferred to the Post Office Department. This has been accomplished through constant surveys of our work and the elimination of procedures which serve no useful purpose under present conditions."

"A few statistics on our work in the last year: 25,300,000 vouchers audited; 492,000 claims settled; 318,000,200 checks reconciled; 12,400 decisions rendered to departments, agencies, claimants, and others; inspections made of 945 different Government offices; 34 comprehensive audits submitted to Congress (for the first time since the Government Corporation Control Act of 1945 audits of Government corporations were up-to-date); 685 reports made to Congress and its committees; and 3,500 replies made to inquiries from individual members of Congress."

Many of us are about to despair of the Administration's efforts to control inflation. Apparently the labor bosses will continue to push the Government around. Seemingly the Administration is going to control everything except inflation.

Last Tuesday night, I made a speech to a Methodist Brotherhood meeting in Arlington County, Virginia. To give it local color, I cited from statements of many renowned Virginians of past generations, finally reminding the audience that one of their famous early-day native sons, the Honorable Patrick Henry was revered because he cried "give me liberty or give me death" while his present-day descendants simply cry "gimme."

"Blessed is the man who, having nothing to say, abstains from giving us wordy evidence of the fact." —George Eliot

Smart People Are Poorest Drivers

WASHINGTON — Richard Talbott, who operates a concern called the University Driving Laboratory in nearby Hyattsville, Md., says generally speaking, people with so-so intelligence make better automobile drivers than the smart folks.

That's a controversial statement, but he should know. Talbott teaches all kinds, from the very dumb to the awful smart, how to drive an automobile.

During the war he instructed other soldiers in the art of piloting a jeep. Since then, operating his own business, he has taught hundreds of civilians how to drive. So far as he knows, only one customer has had a serious accident.

"He was a physicist working with an atomic project. I predicted he would crash and he did. A dumb person is concerned only with getting where he is going — and concentrates on that alone. An intellectual is up in the clouds. This particular person was perhaps dreaming of test tubes, Bunsen Burners, and Geiger counters. He made a wrong turn."

Learned to Drive Young

Talbott, who calls himself a "paid back seat driver," learned to drive at eight years old in an Essex that was too old to move, and took to the road on a test run when he was 10. He had a driver's license when he was fourteen.

The first thing he tells his students — most of them women of middle age — is that the automobile was invented because people are too lazy to walk, "so take it easy."

And Talbott has a kind word for women. "They learn what they are doing faster, but I had better qualify that a little. They are not as skillful as men after they have learned the fundamentals.

Sometimes he runs into problems. Like the woman he was instructing how to signal that she was getting ready to stop. "Bend your arm down," he commanded.

"But," the woman protested, "my arm won't bend down."

He showed her how to bend an arm down.

There are others who are interested only in learning enough to pass a driver's test.

Simple Road Rules

The expert has a few simple rules which he hopes will rub off on the public, as well as the people who pay him to learn how to drive:

1. Look at the road, not at the guy coming to you or the one you see is about to pass you.
2. Drive your car, not the other fellow's. Don't try to anticipate what he's going to do.
3. Don't switch lanes unless you are positive you can make it. And don't forget that in no car yet built do you have perfect vision fore and aft.
4. Be courteous. Give the other fellow a break.

It Happened 10 Years Ago

March 7, 1941

John Yosten's home is destroyed by fire early Sunday morning. Street lights are likely to go out in Muenster on the first of next month says city council, declaring the need of cutting city expenses. Arthur Endres is sworn in as temporary postmaster. Final debt is paid on parochial high school building; completed in 1938 the building has been paid for by community benefits and individual donations. Henry Spaeth replaces Arthur Endres as bookkeeper at Herr Motor Co. Study Club activities are resumed during the Lenten season. J. W. Fleitman begins work on new home. Jane Hoehn has appendicitis operation. Community has mild epidemic of measles. The John Felderhoffs celebrate 25th wedding anniversary. Linn Home Demonstration club meets with Mrs. Adolph Walterscheid and hears talk on vitamins by Mrs. Ben Sicking.

5 YEARS AGO

March 8, 1946

Red Cross drive is under way; collections grow to about $600; community goal is $960. March comes in with wind and rain. City expects to have new water well in operation this week. Chaplain Father Francis writes from Hawaii saying he is enroute home. Denis Walterscheid and George Swirczynski took their army physicals in Dallas this week. The Dick Cains move their home from Myra to Muenster; located north of Frank Yosten; the house will be remodeled before the Cains move to occupy it. John Rohmer is given surprise party on 60th birthday. Lt. Mary Alice Bernauer returns to the states after serving in Europe with the army nurse corps and will receive a discharge soon. Jack

Fly Control Checks Intestinal Diseases

AUSTIN.—Millions of flies help to cause illness and death of thousands of children and adults each year in the United States. Hundreds of these casualties may be in Texas this year if residents fail in their responsibility for developing the best possible sanitation measures in the area where they reside. Typhoid fever, summer complaint and other intestinal diseases can be traced to the common housefly as the carrier of the infection.

Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, speaking in this connection, recently said, "Be sure that windows and doors are tightly screened so that stray flies from a careless neighbor will not endanger your family.

Biffle was in Trenton, Mo., during the weekend at a short course for artificial breeder technicians. New arrivals here: Jeannine Hofbauer, Richard Schoech and Shirley Ann Morgan.

Be sure that flies are kept from food, drink and utensils used in the preparation of food. Make sure, if you live in rural districts, that outside privy vaults are tightly covered so as not to permit the entrance of flies.

"Infections from this source can be picked up and spread to human beings through contact with food, drink and utensils. Keep all garbage covered until collected or buried. Eliminate all breeding places for flies and you will be helping your community in its work of controlling communicable diseases and preventing unnecessary illness."

Now is the time to do away with the winter's accumulation of trash. Clean up and stay clean is a good slogan for communities and individual citizens.

Recent photograph of a Texas primary highway

$115,282,344

Damaged highways, such as the Texas highway shown in this picture, are a hazard to the safe operation of automobiles, farm trucks and other motor vehicles.

It costs three times as much to build roads that will withstand the loads of big trucks now being operated over them than it does for the smaller trucks and automobiles.

Latest records show $115,282,344 was spent on Texas highways for the year ending August 31, 1950.

A bill sponsored by the big truck operators is before the Texas Legislature. This bill proposes . . .

- (1) to increase the load limit from the present 48,000 pounds to 72,000 pounds, and
- (2) to increase the maximum truck length from 45 feet to 50 feet.

Recent official highway tests at La Plata, Md., sponsored by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads, the highway departments of eleven states and the District of Columbia, effectively demonstrated that as trucks increased in size and loads, roads cracked up and "died" more quickly.

We need to safeguard our highways for Civilian and Military use. "Increased heavy loading might seriously disrupt the effectiveness of essential routes in the event of an all-out war," according to T. J. Kauer, director of the Ohio Highway Department and Chairman of the La Plata road test committee.

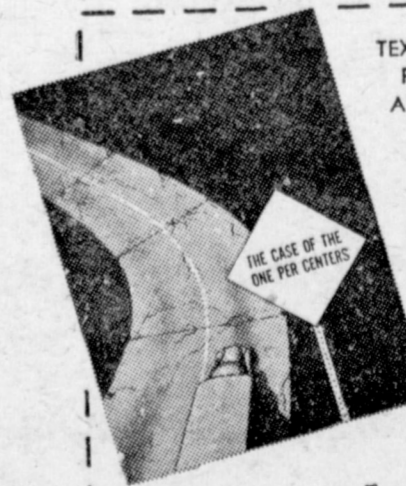

The big truckers want the taxpayers to continue providing expensive highways for them to use as "rights-of-way" for their own, selfish, personal gain.

THIS IS A TUG-OF-WAR BETWEEN THE BIG TRUCKERS AND THE TAXPAYERS OF TEXAS!

Automobiles and small trucks do not require extra strong, extra costly highways. The truth is, that the big truckers are putting the "pinch" on the pocketbooks of the Texas taxpayers.

Get the facts. Mail the coupon below for your copy of "The Case of the One Per Centers," and for a reprint of the article published in TIME, January 22, 1951, about the La Plata highway tests.

Leo Schmitt Tries Out Soil District's New Sprig Planter

To Leo Schmitt goes the distinction of being the first to sod a waterway with the district owned sprigging machine this year. Schmitt launched water way sodding operations in the Muenster area by planting bermuda grass sprigs in a wide strip following a natural drain that crosses his field. When established to grass this wide waterway will enable him to completely terrace the adjoining cultivated land and empty all the terrace water on the grassed waterway. In addition to its important duty of safely disposing of terrace water the waterway will furnish additional pasture for livestock.

Bermuda grass, like other plants, will grow better in a prepared seed bed. Schmitt plowed the waterway area when he prepared his land for grain last fall, then the land was harrowed the day before the grass roots were to be planted; this pulverized the soil so the roots would be covered easily without leaving air pockets. The fresh dug bermuda grass roots were then put into the ground by the two-row district owned sprigging machine, which opens the furrow, drops the roots, covers them and packs the soil. Leo plans to fence the waterway in the near future so that it can be grazed to keep down competition from Johnson-grass. Weed competition will be controlled by frequent mowings. The bermuda grass will probably make a solid cover during this growing season.

Cooperators of the Upper Elm-Red Soil Conservation District have begun the important task of putting bermuda grass on areas designated for terrace outlets and these operations will continue for several weeks. Grass roots are being dug daily from the sandy land east of Gainesville. There is moisture in the soil and buds on the trees — it's later than you think.

Dead Stock Yields Critical Material For Defense Effort

Critical shortages in animal by-products during World War II were recalled today by Jim McDonald, general manager of Central Hide and Rendering Company in a letter to the Enterprise.

During those troublous times, according to McDonald, the farmers and stockmen of this area aided materially in supplying needed greases, animal hides and protein concentrates used in vast quantities to further the defense effort. They did so by promptly reporting the presence of dead or crippled stock on their farms and in their feed lots to Central Hide and Rendering Company, which is the largest concern of its kind who pays cash for dead and crippled stock in Cooke County.

"The current re-armament program is again creating serious shortages in these commodities," McDonald said. Manufacture of such items as gunpowder, medicines, plastics, soaps and shoes for the armed services, and of vitamins enriched stock and poultry feeds for the farmers and stockmen at home, account largely for current shortages, he explained.

"Stock raisers can now contribute materially to the re-armament program, and benefit themselves at the same time by promptly reporting all dead stock. Farms, pastures and feed lots can in this way be kept clean and free of dead animals," he said.

For prompt removal service telephone Central Hide and Rendering Company, 6 Gainesville, collect.

Bill Otto seeded K. R. Blue-stem on the prepared seedbeds of two waterways last week. This grass makes a fast growth and spreads rapidly.

Leo and Lucky Spaeth of Harlingen spent the weekend and Monday visiting relatives here, in Muenster and in Gainesville.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Strategier of Norman, Okla., spent the weekend with their relatives, members of the Spaeth families, in Lindsay and Muenster and their son in Valley View. They were accompanied by their grandson, Donnie, who spent the weekend with his parents, the H. R. Strategiers at Valley View. The family moved there recently but Donnie will continue his classes at Purcell until the end of the term.

Chicks Draw Crowd

An incubator hatching baby chicks in a department store window was a big attraction in New York City during the pre-Christmas season. Truck drivers, debutantes, and children from penthouses and tenements all crowded around the window to see the chicks hatch out of the shells. Showing how little city folk know of the way industry has changed the farm, a waitress in a nearby restaurant told a customer she knew his eggs were fresh because they had been "laid by an incubator."

Sunday guests in the Needham home were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Lucas, Mrs. Eddie Green and Mrs. L. Riley, all of Gainesville.

Blessed Events

It's a boy for Cpl. and Mrs. Herbert Fette. The young man arrived in Cheyenne, Wyoming, on Wednesday, March 7, and the proud papa telephoned the news to his parents, the Henry Fettes, that evening. Mr. and Mrs. Albert Knabe are the maternal grandparents.

Mr. and Mrs. Werner Yosten are the parents of their fourth son, Kenneth Michael, born Friday, March 2, at Gainesville sanitarium. The baptismal service was here Monday with the Larry Yostens as sponsors. The baby's grandparents are Messrs. and Mrs. John Bengfort of Lindsay and N. J. Yosten.

Mr. and Mrs. Billy Ray Fuson announce the birth of a son, Kenneth Ray, on Feb. 28 at the local clinic. They have one other child, a girl. Here to make the acquaintance of the new boy are his paternal grandmother, Mrs. J. T. Florence and his maternal aunt, Mrs. Jack Warnke and little daughter, of Seminole. Mrs. Florence is remembered as the former Miss Dude Russell. Mrs. J. S. Russell of Myra is Kenneth's great grandmother.

Mr. and Mrs. George Schmidtkofer of Lindsay are the parents of a son, their third child and first boy, born Sunday at Gainesville Sanitarium. Mrs. Schmidtkofer is the former Louise Mages. The new baby has seven grandparents and great grandparents: Joe Mages of Muenster and the J. C. Schmidtkofers of Lindsay, John Bayer of Muenster, August Schmidtkofer and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mages of Lindsay.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Davidson of Myra at the local clinic on Monday, March 5.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kuhn of Lindsay announce the birth of a daughter Sunday, March 4, at M&S hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Fleitman, route 2, are the parents of a daughter born March 4 at Gainesville sanitarium.

Mr. and Mrs. Al Reiter, route 2, Gainesville, announce the birth of a son at 5:30 p.m. on March 3. Mrs. Reiter is the former Hattie Wimmer of Muenster and the C. J. Wimmers and Mrs. August Reiter are the grandparents.

efforts to control the excessive user. The ten persons who take their drinks and conduct themselves properly should not be deprived because the eleventh man drinks too much and gets out of line.

From an ethical standpoint the only way to tackle the drinking problem is to understand first of all that drunkenness, not liquor, is the evil to be dealt with. If there is to be any legislation it should affect those who cause the trouble but permit the moderate drinkers to go on enjoying their rights.

This column firmly believes in cracking down on the drunks, especially those who drive. People who, because of excessive drink, endanger lives, make nuisances of themselves or fail in any other way to measure up to their moral obligations as citizens ought to be penalized severely.

Suppose a DWI conviction were punished by forfeiture of a driving license and a stiff fine. Suppose the man who drinks up his wages or abuses his family were sentenced to a job in an institution and his earnings sent to his family. Suppose brawling and other disturbance also drew adequate penalties. Such regulations would soon make drunkenness very unpopular. In fact they would get the approval of moderate drinkers as well as dregs.

Well, why not strive for reforms along that line? Be practical and fair. Legislate to control those who cause the trouble, not those who already control themselves.
