

MUENSTER ENTERPRISE

VOLUME XIV

MUENSTER, COOKE COUNTY, TEXAS, NOVEMBER 3, 1950

NUMBER 50

In case you did not know, there will be an election next Tuesday. In fact the big election of the year, the election which is the official final decision on who will occupy public office for the coming term.

Judging from campaign activity hereabouts and all over the Solid South no one would ever know that anything of importance is happening. Those of us who are interested are far more concerned with the election in other states than with our own. Many of us will go to the polls next Tuesday, but we know in advance that we're not really going to decide anything. We'll only endorse the selections made during the summer primaries.

A few weeks ago we were making belittling remarks about that farce election in the Eastern zone of Germany. We ridiculed the system in which the voter had no choice of candidates, many of us not realizing that we're going to have a very similar election next week.

There are some significant points of difference, of course. We won't risk our necks by neglecting to vote nor by voting against anyone. But our vote is every bit as meaningless. Behind the iron curtain there were no other names on the ballot. Here we'll find names of persons who admittedly have no chance, many we've never heard of. Whoever doesn't agree is invited to notice how many names he can recognize in any but the Democratic column.

Under the red regime people are captives of the communist party. Here in Dixieland we're captives of the Democratic party. We've tied down by a foolish tradition which is just as certain in its outcome as the controlled election of East Europe.

Our one consolation is that we do have other real elections. Our primaries offer free and unhampered selection and as far as state and local affairs are concerned we get along nicely. But on the national scale we're getting a raw deal.

Political experts of the South have preached for a long time that Dixie needs a balanced 2-party system. As things stand now we are taken for granted by Democrats and ignored by Republicans. One knows we'll accept any kind of treatment and go on voting straight, the other knows it has nothing to gain by giving us a break. So the South gets kicked around while both parties bid for the marginal votes up North and East. Any thinking man knows we would not have such outrages as the Tideland issue or FEPC crammed down our throats if the political big boys knew their shenanigans would backfire at election time. But as long as we remain political step-children we'll have to endure that kind of abuse.

This doesn't mean that the South has to make a complete change and go solid Republican. That would only adopt a different master but not change the situation. The solution is to bring about a balance so that either party would become aware that we will not stand for any more kicking around.

Representing Texas high schools, Governor Shivers last week accepted a national award for the state's proficiency in teaching safe driving to students. As all of us are aware, Muenster was not one of the schools represented by the governor in that ceremony. Muenster does not happen to be one of the 432 schools offering safe driving courses.

Judging from the auto-antics sometimes seen around here, Muenster schools definitely should be on the list. Youngsters are in sad need of general information on proper driving procedure and some gruesome facts on possible consequences when proper and accepted methods are not observed.

Many of the kids are not willing to admit that. By practice they have developed a certain amount of skill in handling their cars, so they roll along with a false confidence that they know all they need to know. The same might be said of many

Muenster Council Is Host for K of C Initiation Sunday

About 40 candidates are expected to join the ranks of the Knights of Columbus here next Sunday when the Muenster council will be host at an initiation for the two districts included in this and the Wichita Falls areas. The Muenster council will have seven candidates.

Grand Knight Herbert Meurer disclosed this week that State Deputy M. J. Babin of Port Arthur will be here to confer the degree. He also expects a representative from the Supreme Council of New Haven, Conn., but has no definite word at this time.

The initiation is part of an all day program which will begin at 7:30 and continue into the night. Members and candidates will first assemble at the K of C hall then march to Sacred Heart Church for group attendance at the 8 o'clock mass. Members of the Muenster Band and the Boy Scout troop will accompany the knights for the procession.

Immediately after mass breakfast will be available in the parish lunch room.

Exemplification of the first and second degrees will begin at 10 and last until about noon.

At 12 members and candidates will be joined by their ladies for a dinner in the parish lunch room after which members and candidates will return to the K of C hall for exemplification of the third degree. While ceremonies, both before and after noon, are under way visiting ladies will be entertained by a group of Catholic Daughters of America headed by Grand Regent Mrs. Joaline Roberg.

After the close of the initiation, about 5:30, ladies will again join the knights for snacks and a party in the K of C hall.

News of Sick And Injured

Mrs. Felix Becker is recovering satisfactorily following an emergency operation performed last week Wednesday night at Gainesville sanitarium. She was permitted to return home this Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Pat Hennigan took their young son, Junior, to Dallas Monday for dental surgery.

Henry Luke is back at home after receiving medical treatment at McKinney veterans hospital for a back injury. He is still confined to bed and will not be able to resume his duties at the cheese plant for an indefinite time.

Ira Reed of Saint Jo had his tonsils removed at the local clinic Monday.

Eddie Joe Reeves, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Reeves, who had been ill for several days received medical treatment at the clinic in Nocona Monday.

Four Class Winners Begin Run-off For Homecoming Queen

The race for Muenster's 1950 Homecoming Queen has entered its final stage with LaQuita Cain, Pauline Myrick, Jeanette Fisher and Eva Muller as the contestants.

Those girls, representing the four high school classes, were announced Tuesday night as winners in class contests to determine the four candidates in the final run-off for the honor of reigning at the Homecoming game with Anna High School next week Friday. The remaining three girls will be duchesses attending the queen.

Contests to determine duchesses for the eight elementary grades also ended Tuesday night. Winners in that department are Cecilia Ice, Linda Dickerson, Connie Long, Carolyn Cain, Jean Coe, Patsy Cain, Wanda Ritchie and Margaret Myrick.

Hornets Improved But Still Sub-par For Boyd Contest

Though still not back in the pink of condition, the Hornets are improving this week and have strong hopes of getting back into the win column when they met the Boyd Hi Yellowjackets here Friday night.

Coach Doyle Hood expects to take the field with a team definitely stronger than that which dropped the 13-6 tilt at Alvord last Friday. He says that Damian Hellman seems to be back to normal after nursing a back injury for two weeks. Aytes is sufficiently recovered from his siege of influenza to work out regularly. Though not back to his former condition he's expected to be in action at least part of the time. Yosten can be depended on for his usual stout playing unless his trick knee begins acting up again.

The only loss to the lineup is Red Walterscheid. His injured shoulder, though improving nicely, is not ready for combat. He has been working out regularly in all but scrimmage practice and expects to be set for the last two games of the season.

As regards the Yellowjackets strength Hood has no definite idea what to expect. His only information on the team, he said, is that it has won 4 out of 6 games to date. Two of those wins were over Era and Valley View, both by decisive scores, indicating that the team probably is about an even match for the Hornets. Hood has also been informed that the team is substantially the same as that which dropped a hard 12-0 decision to the Hornets last year.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Branch were in Gainesville Saturday and Sunday attending the bedside of his mother Mrs. Allen Branch, who underwent surgery Sunday.

HOLE IN ONE—With one punch, Pvt. Roy Thomas of Huntington, W. Va., put a hole in the head of North Korean premier Kim Il Sung. On observer with South Korean troops, Thomas had cut down the portrait of the red premier from an office building in Munchon, North Korea.

Leo Becker who is with the army in Texarkana spent the weekend here with homefolks.

Hallowe'en Party Boosts All Funds At Public School

The big Hallowe'en carnival held at the public school Tuesday night was a financial success for every class and most other organizations connected with the school. In addition it was a social success for youngsters and oldsters alike.

Serving chicken dinners to about 150 persons the PTA, had the biggest and most popular concessions. Others who operated fund raising projects are the FFA and FHA chapters, the Mother's Athletic Club and each of the twelve classes.

The dinner, beginning at 6, started the party. After that the carnival became the feature until about 10 when a dance started.

Hallowe'en Pranks Clutter Main Drag

A thoroughly cluttered main street served as evidence Wednesday that the old time Hallowe'en spirit is still very much alive at Muenster. Nuisance pranks were extensive but little real damage was done.

The favorite stunt was parking jalopies or junk, or both, on the sidewalks in front of business houses. One old car was parked at the post office another at the bank and another at the Shanty. One was parked upside down in front of Fisher's Market.

Old tires, tin cans, crating and various types of other rubbish completed the job. About a truck load of the stuff was scattered on the street and in doorways.

Mrs. John Wilde of Harlingen is visiting here with her sister, Mrs. J. S. Horn, and in Lindsay with her daughter, Mrs. Henry Zimmerman.

Ray Luke, Lee Wolf Appear on Cowtown Livestock Program

Ray Luke of this city and Lee Wolf of Gainesville are representing the Cooke county 4-H clubs at the Fort Worth Livestock Roundup this week. They are members of the county team which won first place in the statewide grass judging contest at the 1950 State Fair. "The Grasses You Grow" is the subject of their grass-judging demonstration.

The first annual Texas Livestock Round up is attracting agriculture leaders and livestockmen from a wide area. The two day program is a forum for the presentation of current information on the livestock situation. Top-notch authorities from throughout the country are on the program. The Round Up opened Thursday morning and will conclude at 11:15 a.m. Friday. Sessions are held in the Will Rogers Memorial auditorium.

Hornets Lose 13-6 In District Game With Alvord High

A badly crippled team of Muenster Hornets played valiantly at Alvord last Friday night and emerged with the short end of a 13-6 score, their third loss out of seven to date and the second 13-B conference loss out of 3. As a result the Hornets are in the lower bracket in district standing and at best can come through with no more than .500 . . . if they revive sufficiently to outscore the rugged Saint Jo Panthers.

Physically the boys were at their lowest to date as they lined up for the Alvord tussle. Emmet Walterscheid with an injured shoulder and John Aytes with the aftermath of a bad case of flu were both out of uniform. Damian Hellman with a week-old hip injury and Gilbert Yosten with his old knee injury were there but not up to their top performance.

Considering handicaps the team turned in a fine game, sweeping the Bulldogs off their feet in the second half and failing to cash in on their final drive by only a matter of seconds. As the game ended they had just completed a first down on the 4 yard line, and seemed to be set for the second touchdown and possible tying score when the final whistle sounded.

The game started with an exchange of punts as both Alvord and Muenster failed to advance. On its second try with the pigskin Alvord completed two first downs before losing the ball on a fumble on the 40.

Parochial Spook Party Clears $327 For School Repair

A record crowd turned out Sunday afternoon to attend the Hallowe'en carnival sponsored by the room mothers of the parochial grade school and their assistants. The benefit party added $327 to a fund to be used for school repairs.

The Hallowe'en theme predominated in decorations in the church basement, where various game and concession booths furnished diversion for visitors. Popular attractions for youngsters were the fish pond and the fortune telling booth. Home made candy, cookies, ice cream, sandwiches and cold drinks were available in abundance.

In the children's costume contest four girls and two boys won prizes. Pre-school tots receiving awards were Janet Lutkenhaus as Felix the Cat, and Charlotte Wolf as an attractive imp. In the contest for children from grades one through four Dickie and Johnnie Pagel as twin clowns rated first prize, and in the contest for pupils of the fifth through the eighth grades Gene Wieler as Little Bo Peep and Carol Ann Voth as a gypsy maiden, won awards.

Room mothers and their helpers this week express their thanks and appreciation to everybody who helped to make the party a success.

Steve Fette Dies Suddenly Oct. 28 Of Heart Attack

Sudden death from heart failure last Saturday abruptly ended the career of Steve Fette, one of the most active men in this community's oil industry.

Less than an hour after his first mention of illness he was dead. About 1:30 at his cafe he said that he felt bad and was going home for a while to rest. By the time he reached home he was severely sick at his stomach. When he complained of his heart shortly after that his wife immediately called for his sister, Mrs. Ben Seyler, and Dr. Myrick and Father Anthony. By the time they arrived he was dead.

The fatal attack came almost a full year after Steve learned he had heart trouble. In November 1949, his wife said he was ill for almost a week and his doctor advised him at that time to slow down in his work. Since then there were a few times when she learned that he had been forced to leave his work for a while and rest in his car.

Meanwhile he continued a heavy work schedule in connection with his extensive interests, frequently getting only a few hours of rest a day, and sometimes none.

As part owner of the Steve Fette Truck Service and the Muenster Drilling Company he was active in the management of both, besides managing his cafe. In the three businesses combined he employed an average of about 50 persons. Along with those interests he took a prominent part in local lease and production developments.

Funeral services were held here Tuesday at 9:30 with Father Anthony Schroeder officiating and Nick Miller directing. Bearers were Gerald Bayer, Bernard Swirczynski, Jack Reiter, Vincent Becker, Alphonse Pautler and Leslie Cain, all employees of the trucking service. On Sunday and Monday nights rosary was recited at his home.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. John Fette, Steve was born in Muenster on Feb. 9, 1910, and attended school here. On June 13, 1935 he was married to Miss Clara Gehrig, who was killed in an airplane accident in April 1946. On Jan. 18, 1947 he married Miss Marie Swinger. They have three children, Candace, Debrah and Wayne.

During the war he served three years in the army, spending two years of that time in Europe.

Prior to entering the service he worked principally in oil fields. Returning he started the oil field trucking service which bears his name, later forming a partnership with Ray Swirczynski. He and T. P. Frost organized the Muenster Drilling Company during the past year. It operates two drilling rigs.

Survivors are his wife; three children; his parents; two brothers Herman and Elmer of Muenster; and five sisters Mrs. Ben Seyler and Mrs. Herbert Meurer of Muenster, Mrs. C. W. Ratliff of Lubbock, Mrs. Tom Gallery of Scarsdale, N. Y., and Mrs. Jack Quinlan of South Bend, Ind.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Cannon who resided in Nocona for the past several months are back in Muenster on the Cannon Estate farm.

HEIGHT OF PRODUCTION—In the Byelorussian Soviet Socialist Republic, better known as White Russia, these peasants are almost completely hidden by the tall wheat that will soon be harvested. The chief wheat-producing section of the Soviet Union is the Ukraine, with its famous belt of black soil. This Soviet photo, however, attests to the fact that modern drainage methods have greatly increased the arable area of White Russia's marshy land.

Wax Is Derived from Animals, Plants, Oil

Here's a one-question quiz for housewives. What common household item—something that has dozens of uses—might be classified as animal, vegetable or mineral? Think fast. It's not furniture, food or clothing. It's wax.

You all know the animal wax producer—the bee, probably the oldest source of wax known to man. However, the importance of bees as suppliers of wax is declining. Today, beeswax is used mainly for church ceremonial candles. It finds other uses in certain polishes, ointments, modeling wax and other specialty products. Did you know that a bee has to eat 10 pounds of honey for every pound of wax it produces?

There are many plants, such as the waxmyrtle, the waxmaple and others, which are important sources of vegetable wax. This wax, with its high melting point is used as a base for some floor, furniture and shoe polishes and in candles.

Our most important source of wax today is mineral. Wax from petroleum is doing almost all the jobs formerly done by beeswax and vegetable wax, plus scores of new ones. Oil refiners extract from crude oil wax that is odorless, tasteless and practically colorless. Its uses in the home are legion.

If you "put up" fruits or vegetables this year, for example, you used wax from oil to seal the jars. If you bought these fruits and vegetables in the store, chances are they had been given a thin coat of wax to prevent them from drying out during shipping. Wax is used to seal such things as milk cartons, cereal boxes and candy wrappers. It turns up in laundry starch, cosmetics and, surprisingly, in chewing gum, where a small amount prevents the gum from becoming brittle. Cans frequently are coated on the inside with wax to prevent deterioration of the metal from acids in the contents.

Miniature 11 Foot Oil Wells Produce In Rainy Weather

The world's smallest oil field is flourishing on a Kansas farm. This field is the hobby of a professional drilling contractor. It has three wells which produce four barrels of crude oil daily—in rainy weather—from a depth of 11 feet.

The wells were drilled with a post-hole digger. Their producing equipment consists of two-inch water pumps powered by washing machine motors.

Theories as to the origin of the oil differ and none of them is entirely satisfactory. One idea, that it came as the result of a leak in a nearby pipeline, proved incorrect when the line was found to be in perfect condition. Apparently the energy which brings the oil near the surface is furnished by water because the wells stop producing in dry weather.

The contractor's comments about his baby oil fields: "Not much profit, but it's fun."

The name of Idaho is derived from an Indian word meaning "Gem of the Mountains."

Who'll Be Next?

What would you do if tomorrow the Federal government were to announce a plan through which it would become your boss, setting forth the new regulations and conditions under which you would henceforth work and the standard salary or wage all people in your occupation would be paid? You wouldn't like it. You'd no doubt protest in every way you could. Most adult Americans have observed and even had some direct contact with political management and political regimentation. Very few would want a political bureau or ward healer to take over their occupation, business or profession.

Of course, if I'm a plumber and you're a butcher and the politicians announce they're taking over the butchers and the livestock industry so we plumbers can have more meat to eat, and at little, if any, cost, that might be a horse of a different color—at first glance. Until I'd had time to think twice, it might get my favorable attention. The butchers wouldn't like it, but of course they're outnumbered.

You're In Line

Upon thinking the thing through, I'd know the plan was a come-on for the Socialists: that after taking over the butchers and the livestock industry they'd have to take over the farmers and the feed mills because they're a part of the livestock industry; and the railroads and truck lines because they're necessary to transport both livestock and feedstuff; and the automobile manufacturers and box car and locomotive foundries because they make the vehicles of transportation; and the construction industry which builds the plants to house the box car and auto production lines and — oh! oh! — the plumbers! For who else would put pipes in those manufacturing plants to make them operate.

That's what is happening in England. There the Socialist-Labor Party used medicine instead of meat as the first persuasive come-on; though they also promised, as all Socialists do, "fair shares" of meat and bread and butter for everyone—without compensating effort. But the "fair shares" turned out to be hardly more than sustenance rations.

Results Warn Us

Before the English people had thought twice, the politicians and bureaucrats had taken over the profession of medicine and the physicians and hospitals for their compulsory health program which, they said, would not cost anybody much of anything. Then the Socialists went on from there. They're taking over the steel industry now because everything else they've socialized has they point out, some direct or indirect dependence upon this basic metal. A great many English people still haven't thought twice. They continue to live in a miserable Socialist auster-

The Most Powerful Man In America

The American Way Danger On The Air

By Morton Clausen

America is waking up! It took the Korean war to make us realize that as a world power we are at present woefully weak military; that Russia is bent upon world conquest, thus presenting a real ity, propped up by American dollars, blindly hoping for economic miracles.

In America the political "medicine men" are proposing a compulsory health program which would socialize, or "nationalize" the American medical profession. Most Americans already have thought twice on this scheme and have refused to be taken in. But the entire leftwing press and a number of influential politicians and bureaucrats are keeping up a huge flow of propaganda for the something-for nothing Federal medicine program.

Freedom Is At Stake

Our hypothetical butcher didn't want to become a pawn of the Socialists. Neither does the American doctor. The medical profession is fighting back. And in their fight every American citizen, young and old, has a stake—his individual freedom. If the Federal government, operating under no matter what "brand" of political philosophy should take over the medicine profession, it would be only a matter of time before every other business and profession—and every job—would fall within the grasp of the comparatively small group of "planners" who seek to become the ruling force in a Socialist America.

The medical profession has been slow realizing that its fight is not merely against socialized medicine but rather against Socialism itself. It realizes that fact now. The public should not be so slow in recognizing that the ultimate objective of the compulsory medicine politicians is not merely socialized medicine, but rather the full socialization (and thus the destruction) of our great nation. We must keep our professions, our business and industries—our occupations—out of the hands of politicians.

and direct threat to the United States, and that we must arm and prepare ourselves to an extent unparalleled in the history of the world.

It is only natural that we should seek someone in high official position upon which to heap the blame for the fact that in five short years we have tumbled from the very pinnacle of military power to our present pitifully effective status. Yet, let us look with honesty into our own souls for the part we played in bringing about such a condition.

Upon defeat of Japan our foremost demand was: "Bring the boys home." Our military leaders gave us plenty of warning against too drastic curtailment of our military strength, but they were silenced by political Washington, yielding to public demand. Without men in uniform, it became necessary to scrap, scuttle and bandon billions of dollars worth of military equipment.

Furthermore, we developed a certain desperate hope that diplomatic Washington would be able to cope with the problem of an expanding Russia. Now it appears that most of us went into hiding behind the flimsy ramparts of pseudo isolationism.

Smaller nations of Europe and Asia, prompted by fear to be more realistically aware of Russia's designs of world conquest, also raised their voices in warning. We brushed them off as alarmists. Official Washington, in dealing with Russian agents within our borders, merely shrugged an indifferent shoulder.

But at last we are becoming aware of the Soviet master plan for world domination, and that all her military and civilian efforts are keyed toward the ultimate conquest of America—the only remaining world power standing in the way of her nefarious ambitions.

As a freedom-loving and peace-loving people there are two things we want to escape—bondage and war. These are two traits so deeply imbedded in most of us that they may rightfully be referred to as national characteristics. Can they be preserved? If so, how?

The achievement of worthy national goals carries a high price of individual and collective sacrifices. We are beginning to realize that the comparatively small sacrifices we made during the two previous world wars may have been only preliminaries to the much greater we have to make in the future.

In order to preserve freedom, and at the same time insure peace, we must build a greater military machine than the world has ever dreamed of, and at the same time keep our national economy intact. Toward that end each of us must be prepared to sacrifice as never before, and government expenditures, domestic and foreign, must be pared to the bone.

Yes, we can retain our freedom and liberty. We can avoid another world war. We are the only nation that potentially can guarantee world peace. Are we willing to make the sacrifices such commitments entail, and to make them now, while it is still time?

Give America a goal big enough, sacrifices rugged enough and stakes high enough, and we will rise as one to meet them. We will also do it because we are gifted with an acumen for turning a profit—knowing that the sacrifices we make now, no matter how severe, in building a mighty military machine that will keep Russia at bay, will be infinitely less severe than if we risked having our cities destroyed, our land overrun by tyrants and our lives enslaved.

The eternal values of the American civilization and the American tradition of human liberty are at stake. They are big stakes, but, America is waking up!

8000 U. S. Schools Now Offer Courses On Driving Safety

When school opened this fall many students found a new subject in their curriculum. It was a course in the proper and safe operation of an automobile, a subject that in time may become as much a part of the school year as the proverbial three "R's." With more and more teen-agers driving every year and our automobile population rising, the need for training is plain. Teen-age drivers have a fatal accident rate twice the average for all drivers.

This year more than 8,000 secondary schools—about one in every three—are offering driving courses. In some 2,500 of them, both classroom education and training in dual-control automobiles are given. In the rest, the course is limited to classroom instruction.

Local business men frequently aid in the driving courses. In one city, for example, when three high schools began diving instructions, an oil company started a "Man-to-Man" Club for young drivers. Membership cards distributed through service stations were signed by the student and a parent. The cards pledged the youngsters to follow safe driving principles and were an important asset to the training course.

Oil companies also aid safety on the highway on a broader scale with motion pictures and

GOOD HEALTH

Answer to Question No. 1:

1. The use of hospitals has grown remarkably in recent years. One important reason is the spread of hospitalization insurance, which has eased the financial burden of hospitalization. A more important factor is that the advantages of modern medical practice are often best obtained in hospitals.

Answer to Question No. 2:

2. Some people joke about it, saying they're allergic "to work." But real allergy is not funny: it is a physical reaction to a source of irritation. The physical reaction may be sneezing, hives, headaches or other unpleasant symptoms. The source may be any of a thousand things—pollen, down pillows, foods, animals, household dust, clothing and so on. Your doctor can track down the source, do much to relieve symptoms and prevent recurrence.

Answer to Question No. 3:

3. Heart disease kills more people today than any other ailment. Frequent check-ups by your doctor are advisable, and especially if you have recurrent or frequent pain in the chest. Chest pains may be caused by many other conditions but only your doctor can determine which is responsible.

slide films which bring home the need for careful driving to both teen-age and adult drivers. These films are made available to high schools, clubs and other groups and are designed to sell safety, not oil.

The oilmen's interest in vehicle safety is emphasized in their own operations, too. The men who drive the gasoline and fuel oil delivery trucks are especially trained to handle them night and day in all kinds of weather. Last year, the trucks and automobiles operated by the oil industry had their lowest accident frequency rate in four years—roughly 1.33 accidents for every 100,000 miles.

Plastic Bottle Is Gaining on Glass As Nation's Favorite

I am sure by now most women are familiar with plastic bottles. Like the tin can and the fiber container, this new-type package is another leading competitor to the glass bottle.

In case you haven't come across one yet, the plastic bottle is about one-fifth the weight of a comparable size glass container. It is flexible and shatterproof and can be used as a sort of miniature spray gun.

Plastic bottles made their debut in 1946, but only recently have they been put to widespread use. More than 400 different items are being packaged in them, and the list grows daily.

One of their most common uses is for dispensing cosmetics and beauty aids. Deodorants are applied quickly from a squirting bottle without smearing the hands. You might say it's a squeeze way to do it! Anti-fog sprays for windshields and eyeglasses also come in the squeezable bottles, as do hair lacquers and perfumes.

Chemicals abundant in oil and natural gas are supplying increasingly greater amounts of the raw materials needed to make the polyethylene plastic (that's a tongue twister, isn't it?) used for the bottles. This versatile material also is turned into transparent film sheets for food packing, and for making non-breakable dishes, quick-emptying ice cube trays and many other household items.

Petroleum is the source of materials for other plastics, such as the hard, clear types used in making combs and airplane windows. Synthetic fibers such as nylon are other modern-day developments. There is a lot more than gasoline, fuel oil and kerosene to be found in an oil well.

Good Farm Slogan: 'Feed the Land and Fatten the Crops'

HOELKER GRO. LINDSAY, TEXAS

COLLEGE STATION, — "Feed the land and fatten the crops" is a good slogan for Texas farmers to adopt, because plants must have plenty of the right kind of food in order to grow well and produce big yields, says E. A. Miller, agronomist for the Texas A&M College Extension Service.

Good crops cannot be grown without sufficient plant food, even when the best seed and cultivation methods are used. Miller points out that plants

Woodacres Royal Philosopher grand champion Guernsey of the State Fair of Texas.

Cooke County Artificial Breeders Add Champ Guernsey to List of Sires

also need plenty of water and suitable soil conditions to grow in.

He states that feeding the land by plowing under a well-inoculated and fertilized legume is the best way to provide these important items. Legumes supply plant food, especially the high-priced and badly needed nitrogen, which they get from the air by means of bacteria in nodules on the roots.

Organic matter or humus, supplied by the legumes when they are plowed under, improved the condition of the soil and thus makes it more suitable for plants to grow in. And the more organic matter there is in the soil, the more water there will be for the plants because the vegetation that decays in the soil acts like a sponge and increases the water holding capacity of the land.

Miller reports that increased cotton yields of over 100 pounds of lint per acre were obtained when cotton followed hairy vetch on the East Texas Experiment Substations at Naogdoches and Tyler. And corn yields were more than doubled at these substations. On the more drouthy soils at College Station, vetch increased cotton yields 59 pounds per acre.

At the Temple Substation in the Blackland area, cotton following phosphated and inoculated hubam sweetclover produced a five-year average of 315 pounds of lint per acre — and the hubam was harvested for seed before being turned under. On similar land where no legumes were planted, the five-year average was 165 pounds of cotton per acre.

The sweetclovers, hubam, Madrid, and annual yellow blossom, increase the yield of crops that follow them. Hubam and annual yellow blossom are especially beneficial because they also reduce losses from cotton root rot. To farmers who are troubled by cotton dying on the blackland, Miller recommends the planting of these two sweetclovers in the rotation, for a seed crop, for grazing and to be plowed under green.

Cattle grubs each year cost the beef cattle producers and dairymen of Texas an estimated $20 million. These grubs cause damage to the hides of infested cattle; cause huge quantities of meat to be wasted from trimming off damages and infested animals don't produce maximum amounts of meat or milk from the feed they consume.

For the first time in history an unlimited number of Cooke county farmers and dairymen will have an opportunity to use a State Fair of Texas grand champion Guernsey bull in their breeding program, according to Jack Barnhart, technician for the Cooke County Artificial Breeders association.

The sire Woodacres Royal Philosopher was awarded the coveted prize by Dean Kildee at the University of Iowa from a wide field of entries by Guernsey breeders throughout Texas and Oklahoma.

The prize sire has been at the North Texas Artificial Breeding farm since it began operation.

Among members of the Cooke county association who have had use of the sire are the following from Muenster: Henry Fuhrmann, Joe Mages, C.A. Fisher, Paul Fisher, Paul Fetsch, Joe Hesse, Alfred Bayer, Norbert Koesler and Ben Luke. Others are Andy Wimmer, J. W. Fleitman, Oscar Walter, Gus Lutkenhaus, Joe Fisher, Joe Luttmir, Henry Wiesman, and Lawrence Martin.

The grand champion bull is one of 16 famous sires of the Jersey, Holstein and Guernsey breeds now available to county stockmen through the artificial breeding association.

The only season of the year that cattle grubs can be controlled is from September to December or the season when the grubs are emerging from the backs of infested animals. Rotenone is the only insecticide that will control the parasite.

Prices for Texas farm and ranch lands were at record highs at the end of 1949 and were still rising. The number of acres sold was 25 percent less than for 1948 and the average size of the tracts sold was smaller than has been the case for several years. The number of sales dropped 11 percent.

When flown with the flag of the United States, the United Nations Flag assumes the place of honor; i.e., to the right of the United States Flag is relation to people facing the flags.

drinks after informal games. Children present were Butch and David Arendt, Bobby, Larry and Sarah Hoberer, Rudy Zimmerman, Paula Herr, Mona Voth, Chris Walterscheid, Gayle and Nancy Jane Arendt, Debra Fette and Shelia Arendt, and the young uncle and aunt of the honoree, Johnny and Joan Wolf.

Assumption Dogma Commemorated At St. Mary's Church

In special ceremonies Wednesday morning Saint Mary's Church of Gainesville commemorated the papal announcement proclaiming the Assumption as a dogma of the Catholic Church.

Earlier in the day in Rome Pope Pius solemnly stated that belief in the bodily assumption of the Blessed Mother into heaven after her death had been made a required article of Catholic faith. Though generally accepted before, belief in the article was not mandatory.

Saint Mary's church, dedicated to the Blessed Mother, observed the occasion with a solemn high mass, Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament and a procession. An honor guard composed of Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus of Gainesville, Muenster and Lindsay attended during the mass and benediction.

Marine Recruiter Seeks Enlistments

Until further notice every Wednesday will be Marine recruiting day for the young men of this area. On first and third Wednesdays of the month a recruiting sergeant will be at the Muenster post office from 9 to 11 a.m. taking applications for enlistment. On second and fourth Wednesdays he will be at Saint Jo post office.

Sergeant Fautheree, recruiter for the two towns, invites interested young men to see him during the hours specified for information regarding Marine service as well as actual enlistments.

Men signed up here and at Saint Jo will be sent to Dallas for physical exams and enlistment.

Electric Shop Moves To Trachta Building

The Electric Shop is now located in the former Trachta Drug building. Albert Henscheid, owner of the business, moved his stock and equipment during the past week end from the old Hennigan Garage building now being used as a warehouse.

The change gives the Electric Shop more light, more display space and more work space than the small place it formerly occupied in the warehouse.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Fletcher, joined by their son, Jack of Wichita Falls, spent the weekend in Fort Worth visiting Sgt. and Mrs. Darrell Trotter and daughter and Mrs. Joe Cochran. On their way home they stopped to visit relatives in Pilot Point and brought Mrs. Fletcher's mother, Mrs. F. M. Shiflet back with them. She will spend the winter here after being with her son during the summer.

net 41 then promptly intercepted a pass to continue the drive from the Hornet 40. A penalty and two line plays reached the 28, two more plays lost 2 yards, and a pass produced the first touchdown. An end run made the count 7-0.

The Hornets came back strong as Glen Hellman, on the first play after the kickoff, picked up 45 yards to the Bulldog 25. Two more attempts, by Yosten and Glen Hellman netted 7 each to the 11 but Bulldog defense braced there and the Hornet series of downs fell a yard short, Alvord taking over on downs on the 2.

From there the Bulldogs went all the way for their second score. Running plays completed first downs on the 12 and 24, then a long pass play seemed good for a touchdown but was finally stopped by Damian Hellman on the 25. An end sweep following a short line gain produced the next tally. For the remainder of the half both Muenster and Alvord kicked after failing to gain in the series of downs.

The Hornets cashed in on a break to score in the opening minutes of the second period. After Glen Hellman's hefty kickoff the Bulldogs had to put the ball in play from their 10. On the first scrimmage play they fumbled and Muenster recovered on the 5. Glen Hellman advanced to the 2 and Yosten went the rest of the way. An attempted run for extra point failed and the score stood at 13-6.

For the rest of the quarter and well into fourth quarter the teams battled on fairly even terms with the Hornets holding a slight advantage. Smearred for 10 yards loss on 3 plays the Bulldogs kicked. The Hornets made one first down but, handicapped by a 15 yard penalty, failed on the next and kicked. Alvord gained 17 to the Hornet 45 and kicked when its next series bogged down. Muenster made a first down and lost the ball on a fumble on its 45.

As the closing minutes ticked away the Hornets launched their final drive. Glen Hellman and Yosten did the heavy toting in 8 plays that reached a first down on the 4 as time ran out.

Though slowed down noticeably by his bad knee Yosten was a consistent gainer and a defensive stalwart. Outstanding gains, however, are credited to husky Glen Hellman who was frequently pulled from his guard position to the backfield. In the line also Hellman was a stand-out sharing honors with Wolf, Fisher, Stelzer and Walterscheid.

older fellows. They control their cars very well, but still they are poor drivers. Perhaps they crowd their luck in passing cars, perhaps they invite disaster by making turns improperly or following too closely, or by neglecting tires, steering, lights, brakes, windshield wipers or other mechanical features which impair their efficiency. Perhaps they don't know the fundamentals of traffic custom and courtesy.

Eventually driving safety will be a compulsory course in our schools. Common sense and public welfare demand it. In the meantime every school should arrange on its own initiative to give at least some instruction on the subject.

All schools, even those which are not fortunate enough to have the double-control cars and specially trained instructors, can arrange to teach a few of the fundamental facts. With just a little effort a resourceful teacher can gather enough data for several valuable lessons. Highway officers are usually willing to devote a few periods to the subject. Very instructive films are also available.

A student spends years in school learning how to live and make a living. Why not have him spend just a little of that time learning how to keep himself and others alive?
